The Old Testament

Genesis

¹In the beginning, God created the heavens and the earth. ²Now, the earth, had become waste and wild, and darkness, was on the face of the roaring deep,—but, the Spirit of God, was brooding on the face of the waters, ³And God said—Light, be, And light was. ⁴And God saw the light, that it was, good, and God divided the light, from the, darkness; ⁵and God called the light, day, but the darkness, called he, night. So it was evening—and it was morning, one day. ⁶And God said, Let there be an expanse in the midst of the waters, and let it be a means of dividing, between waters and waters, ⁷And God made the expanse, and it divided between the waters that were under the expanse and the waters that were above the expanse. And it was so. ⁸And God called the expanse, heavens. So it was evening—and it was morning, a, second day. ⁹And God said—Let the waters under the heavens be gathered together, into one place, and let the dry—ground appear. And it was so. ¹⁰And God called, the dry-ground, land, but the gathering together of the waters, called he seas. And God saw that it was good. ¹¹And God said—Let the land put-forth vegetation-herb yielding seed, fruit-tree, bearing fruit, after its kind, whose seed is within it on the land. And it was so, ¹²And the land brought-forth vegetation—herb yielding seed after its kind, and tree bearing fruit, whose seed is within it, after its kind, And God saw that it was good. ¹³So it was evening—and it was morning, a third day. ¹⁴And God said—Let there be luminaries in the expanse of the heavens, to divide between the day and the night,—and let them be for signs, and for seasons, and for days and years; ¹⁵yea let them be for luminaries in the expanse of the heavens, to give light on the earth. And it was so. ¹⁶And God made the two great luminaries,—the greater luminary to rule the day, and the lesser luminary to rule the night, also the stars. ¹⁷And God set them in the expanse of the heavens,—to give light on the earth; ¹⁸and to rule over the day and over the night, and to divide the light from the darkness. And God saw that it was good. ¹⁹So it was evening—and it was morning, a fourth day. ²⁰And God said—Let the waters swarm with an abundance of living soul, and, birds, shall fly over the earth, over the face of the expanse of the heavens. ²¹And God created the great sea-monsters,—and every living soul

that moveth— with which the waters swarmed after their kind and every winged bird—after its kind. And God saw that it was good. ²²And God blessed them, saying,—Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the waters in the seas, and let, the birds, multiply in the land. ²³So it was evening—and it was morning, a fifth day. ²⁴And God said—Let the land, bring forth, living soul, after its kind, tame-beast and creeping thing and wild-beast, of the land, after its kind. And it was so. ²⁵And God made the wild-beast of the land after its kind, and the tame-beast after its kind, and every creeping thing of the ground, after its kind. And God saw that it was good. ²⁶And God said—Let us make man in our image after our likeness—and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the bird of the heavens and over the tame-beast—and over all the land, and over every creeping thing, that creepeth on the land. ²⁷And God created the man in his own image, In the image of God, created he him,—Male and female, created he, them. ²⁸And God blessed them, and God said to them Be fruitful and multiply and fill the earth and subdue it,—and have dominion over the fish of the sea and over the bird of the heavens, and over every living thing that moveth on the land. ²⁹And God said—Lo! I have given to you—every herb yielding seed which is on the face of all the land, and every tree wherein is the fruit of a tree yielding seed,—to you, shall it be, for food; ³⁰and to every living thing of the land—and to every bird of the heavens, and to every thing that moveth on the land, wherein is a living soul, every green herb for food. And it wins so. ³¹And God saw every thing which he had made, and lo! it was very good. So it was evening—and it was morning, the sixth day.

²Thus were finished the heavens and the earth and all their host. ²Thus God finished, on the seventh day his work which he had made, and rested, on the seventh day, from all his work which he had made. ³And God blessed the seventh day, and hallowed it,—because therein, rested he from all his work which God, by creating, had made. ⁴These are the geneses of the heavens and the earth when they were created,—in the day when Yahweh God made earth and heavens. ⁵Now, no bush of the field, as yet—was in the earth, and, no herb of the field, as yet had sprung up,—because Yahweh God had not sent rain on the earth, and, man, was there none to till the ground; ⁶but, a vapour, went up from the earth,—and watered all the face of the ground. ⁷So then Yahweh God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed in his nostrils the breath of life—and man became a living soul. ⁸And Yahweh God planted a garden in Eden, on the east,—and put there the man whom he had formed. ⁹And Yahweh God, caused to spring up, out of the ground, every tree pleasant to the sight and good for food,—and the tree of life, in the midst of the garden, and the tree of the knowledge of good and evil. ¹⁰Now, a river, was coming forth out of Eden, to water the garden,—and, from thence, it parted, and became four heads, ¹¹The name of the one, is Pishon,—the same, is that which surroundeth all the land of Havilah, where is gold; ¹²moreover the gold of that and, is good,—there, is the bdellium, and the beryl stone, ¹³And the name of the second river, is Gihon,—the same, is that which surroundeth all the land of Cush, ¹⁴And, the name of the third river, is Hiddekel, the same, is that which goeth in front of Assyria; and the fourth river, is Euphrates. ¹⁵So Yahweh God took the man,—and placed him in the garden of Eden, to till it and to keep it. ¹⁶And Yahweh God laid command on the man, saying,—Of every tree of the garden, thou mayest eat; ¹⁷but of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it,—for in the day thou eatest thereof, thou shalt die. ¹⁸And Yahweh God said, It is, not good, that the man should remain alone,—I will make for him a helper as his counterpart. ¹⁹Now Yahweh God had formed from the ground every living thing of the field and every bird of the heavens, which he brought in unto the man, that he might see what he should call it,—and, whatsoever the man should call it—any living soul, that, should be the name thereof. ²⁰So the man gave names to all the tame-beasts, and to the birds of the heavens, and to all the wild-beasts of the field,—but, for man, had there not been found a helper as his counterpart. ²¹So Yahweh God caused a deep sleep to fall on the man, and he slept,—and he took one of his ribs, and closed up flesh instead thereof. ²²And Yahweh God builded the rib which he had taken from the man, into a woman, and brought her in unto the man. ²³And the man said, This, one, now, is bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh! This, one shall be called Woman, for, out of a man, hath this one been taken. ²⁴For this cause, will a man leave his father and his mother, and cleave unto his wife, and they shall become one flesh. ²⁵And they were both of them naked, the man and his wife,—and put not each other to shame.

3Now, the serpent, was more crafty than any living thing of the field which Yahweh God had made, so he said unto the woman, Can it really be that God hath said, Ye shall not eat of every tree of the garden? ²And the woman said unto the serpent,—Of the fruit of the trees of the garden, we may eat; ³but of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, God hath said Ye shall not eat of it neither shall ye touch it,—lest ye die. ⁴And the serpent said unto the woman,—Ye shall not die, ⁵For God doth know, that in the day ye eat thereof, then shall your eyes be opened,—and ye shall become like God, knowing good and evil. ⁶And, when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was desirable to the eyes and the tree was pleasant to make one knowing, then took she of the fruit thereof, and did eat, and she gave to her husband also, along with her, and he did eat. ⁷Then were opened the eyes of them both, and they knew that, naked, they were,—so they tacked together fig-leaves, and made for themselves girdles, ⁸Then heard they the sound of Yahweh God, walking to and fro in the garden at the breeze of the day,—so he hid himself—the man with his wife, from the face of Yahweh God, amid the trees of the garden. ⁹And Yahweh God called unto the man,—and said to him, Where art thou? ¹⁰And he said, The sound of thee, heard I in the garden, and I was afraid, for, naked, was I, so I hid myself. ¹¹And he said, Who told thee that, naked, thou wast? Of the tree whereof I commanded thee not to eat, hast thou eaten? ¹²And the man said,—The woman whom thou didst put with me, she, gave me of the tree, so I did eat. ¹³Then said Yahweh God to the woman, What is this that thou hast done? And the woman said, the serpent, deceived me, so I did eat. ¹⁴Then said Yahweh God unto the serpent—Because thou hast done this, Accursed, art thou above every tame-beast, and above every wild-beast of the field,—on thy belly, shall thou go, and dust, shalt thou eat all the days of thy life. ¹⁵And enmity, will I put between thee, and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed,—He shall crush thy head, but, thou, shalt crush his heel. ¹⁶Unto the woman, he said, I will, increase, thy pain of pregnancy, In pain, shalt thou year children,—Yet, unto thy husband, shall be thy hinging, Though, he, rule over thee. ¹⁷And, to the man, he said, Because thou didst hearken to the voice of thy wife, and so didst eat of the tree as to which I commanded thee, saying, Thou shalt not eat of it, Accursed be the ground for thy sake, In pain, shalt thou eat of it, all the days of thy life; ¹⁸Thorn also and thistle, shall it shoot forth to thee,—when thou hast come to eat of the herb of the field: ¹⁹In the sweat of thy face, shalt thou eat bread, until thou return to the ground, because therefrom, wast thou taken,—For, dust, thou art, And, unto dust, shalt thou return. ²⁰So the man called the name of his wife, Eve,—in that, she, was made mother of every one living. ²¹And Yahweh God made for the man—and for his wife—tunics of skin and clothed them. ²²Then said Yahweh God—Lo! man, hath become like one of us, in respect of knowing good and evil,—Now, therefore, lest he thrust forth his hand, and take even of the tree of life, and eat, and live to times age-abiding,—²³So Yahweh God put him forth from the garden of Eden,—to till the ground wherefrom he had been taken. ²⁴So he expelled the man,—and caused to dwell—in front of the garden of Eden—cherubim and a brandishing sword—flame, to keep the way to the tree of life.

⁴Now, the man, having come to know Eve his wife,—she conceived and bare Cain, and said, I have gotten a Man, even Yahweh! ²And she went on to hear his brother, Abel,—and Abel became a feeder of sheep, whereas Cain, was a tiller of the round. ³So it came to pass, after certain days, that Cain brought in of the fruit of the ground, a present to Yahweh: ⁴Abel, also, even, he, brought in of the firstlings of his sheep, and of their fat, and Yahweh approved of Abel and of his present; ⁵but of Cain and his present, he approved not,—and it angered Cain greatly, and his countenance fell. ⁶So then Yahweh said unto Cain,—Wherefore hath it angered thee, and wherefore hath thy countenance fallen? ⁷Shall it not, if thou do right, be lifted up? But if thou do not right, at the entrance a sin-bearer is lying,—Unto thee, moreover, shall be his longing, though, thou, rule over him. ⁸And Cain said unto Abel his brother Let us go into the field And it came to pass when they were in the field that Cain rose up against Abel his brother, and slew him. ⁹Then said Yahweh unto Cain, Where is Abel thy brother? And he said know not, the keeper of my brother, am, I? ¹⁰And he said, What hast thou done? With a voice, the shed-blood of thy brother is crying out to me from the ground, ¹¹Now therefore, accursed, art thou,—from the ground which hath opened her mouth, to receive the shed-blood of thy brother at thy hand. ¹²Though thou till the ground, it shall not go on to give its vigour to thee. A wanderer and a fugitive, shalt thou be in the earth. ¹³And Cain said unto Yahweh—Greater is my punishment than I can bear. ¹⁴Lo! thou has driven me out, this day, from off the face of the ground And from thy face, shall I be hid, So shall I become a wanderer and a fugitive in the earth. And it shall come to pass, whosoever findeth me, will slay me. ¹⁵And Yahweh said to him—Not so, whosoever slayeth Cain seven—fold, shall it be avenged. So Yahweh set, for Cain, a sign, that none finding him should smite him. ¹⁶So Cain went forth from the presence of Yahweh,—and dwelt in the land of Nod, eastward of Eden. ¹⁷And Cain knew his wife, and she conceived, and bare Enoch,—Now it happened that he was building a city, so he called the name of the city, after the name of his son, Enoch. ¹⁸And there was born to Enoch Irad, and, Irad, begat Mehujael,—and Mehujael, begat Methusael,—and Methusael, begat Lamech. ¹⁹And Lamech took to himself two wives,—the name of the one, was Adah, and, the name of the second Zillah. ²⁰And Adah bare Jabal,—he, was father of such as dwell in tents, and have cattle; ²¹and, the name of his brother, was Jubal,—he, was father of everyone handling lyre and flute, ²²And, as for Zillah, she also, bare Tubal-Cain, a sharpener of every cutting instrument of bronze and iron,—and, the sister of Tubal-Cain, was Naamah. ²³Then said Lamech to his wives, Adah and Zillah! hear ye my voice, Ye wives of Lamech! give ear to my tale, For a man, have I slain in dealing my wounds, Yea, a youth, in smiting my blows: ²⁴If, sevenfold, be, the avenging of Cain, Then, of Lamech, seventy and seven. ²⁵And Adam again knew his wife, and she bare a son, and called his name Seth,—For God hath appointed me another seed instead of Abel, because Cain slew him! ²⁶And to Seth—to him also, was born a son, and he called his name Enosh,—then, was a beginning made, to call on the name of Yahweh.

⁵This, is the record of the generations of Adam. In the day when God created man, In the likeness of God, made he him: ²Male and female, created he them,—and blessed them, and called their name Adam, in the day they were created. ³And Adam lived a hundred and thirty years, and begat a son in his likeness after his image,—and called his name Seth: ⁴and the days of Adam, after he begat Seth, were eight hundred years, and he begat sons and daughters. ⁵So all the days of Adam which he lived, were nine hundred and thirty years,—and he died. ⁶And Seth lived a hundred and five years,—and begat Enosh: ⁷and Seth lived, after he begat Enosh, eight hundred and seven years,—and begat sons and daughters: ⁸and all the days of Seth were, nine hundred and twelve years,—and he died. ⁹And Enosh lived ninety years,—and begat Kenan; ¹⁰and Enosh lived after he begat Kenan, eight hundred and fifteen years,—and begat sons and daughters; ¹¹and all the days of Enosh were nine hundred and five years,—and he died. ¹²And Kenan, lived seventy years,—and begat Mahalalel; ¹³and Kenan lived after he begat Mahalalel, eight hundred and forty years,—and begat sons and daughters; ¹⁴and all the days of Kenan were, nine hundred and ten years,—and he died. ¹⁵And Mahalalel lived sixty-five years,—and begat Jared; ¹⁶and Mahalalel lived after he begat Jared, eight hundred and thirty years,—and begat sons and daughters; ¹⁷and all the days of Mahalalel were, eight hundred and ninety-five years,—and he died. ¹⁸And Jared lived, a hundred and sixty-two years, and begat Enoch; ¹⁹and Jared lived after he begat Enoch, eight hundred years,—and begat sons and daughters; ²⁰and all the days of Jared were, nine hundred and sixty-two years,—and he died. ²¹And Enoch lived sixty-five years,—and begat Methuselah; ²²and Enoch walked with God, after he begat Methuselah, three hundred years,—and begat sons and daughters; ²³and all the days of Enoch were, three hundred and sixty-five years; ²⁴and Enoch walked with God,—and was not for God had taken him. ²⁵And Methuselah lived, a hundred and eighty-seven years,—and begat Lamech; ²⁶and Methuselah lived, after he begat Lamech, seven hundred and eighty-two years,—and begat sons and daughters; ²⁷and all the days of Methuselah were, nine hundred and sixty-nine years,—and he died. ²⁸And Lamech lived, a hundred and eighty-two years,—and begat a son; ²⁹and he called his name Noah saying,—This, one shall give us rest from our work, And from the grievous toil of our hands, By reason of the ground which Yahweh hath cursed, ³⁰And Lamech lived, after he begat Noah, five hundred and ninety-five years,—and begat sons and daughters; ³¹and all the days of Lamech were seven hundred and seventy-seven years,—and he died. ³²And Noah was five hundred years old,—and Noah begat Shem, Ham and Japheth.

⁶And it came to pass when men had begun to multiply on the face of the ground and daughters had been born to them, ²that the sons of God saw the daughters of men! that they were, fair,—so they took to themselves wives of whomsoever they chose, ³And Yahweh said—My spirit shall not rule in man to times age—abiding, for that, he also, is flesh,—Yet his days shall be a hundred and twenty years. ⁴The giants, were in the each in these days, and also, after that, when the sons of God began to go in unto the daughters of men, and sons were born to them, the same, were the heroes that were from age-past times the men of renown. ⁵Then Yahweh saw that great, was the wickedness of man in the earth, and that, every purpose of the devices of his heart, was only wicked all the day; ⁶and it grieved Yahweh, that he had made man in the earth,—and he took sorrow unto his heart. ⁷And Yahweh said—I must wipe off man whom I created from off the face of the ground, from man unto beast unto creeping thing, and unto the bird of the heavens,—for I am grieved that I made them. ⁸But, Noah, had found favour in the eyes, of Yahweh. ⁹These, are the generations of Noah, Noah, was, a righteous man blameless, in his generations,—with God, did Noah walk. ¹⁰And Noah begat three sons,—Shem, Ham and Japheth. ¹¹And the earth corrupted itself before God,—and the earth was filled with violence, ¹²And God beheld the earth, and lo! it had corrupted itself,—surely all flesh had corrupted its way, on the earth. ¹³So God said unto Noah: the end of all flesh, hath come in before me, for, filled, is the earth with violence, because of them,—behold me, then, destroying them with the earth. ¹⁴Make for thee an ark of timbers of gopher, Grooms, shalt thou make with the ark,—and-thou shalt cover it within and without with pitch. ¹⁵And, this, is how thou shalt make it,—three hundred cubits, the length of the ark, fifty cubits, the breadth thereof, and thirty cubits the height thereof. ¹⁶A place for light, shalt thou make to the ark and to a cubit, shalt thou finish it upwards, and the opening of the ark—in the side thereof, shalt thou put,—with lower, second and third stories, shalt thou make it. ¹⁷And, I, behold me! bringing in the flood—even waters upon the earth, to destroy all flesh wherein is the spirit of life, from under the heavens,—everything that is in the earth, shall cease to breathe:

¹⁸therefore will I establish my covenant with thee,—and thou shalt enter into the ark, thou, and thy sons, and thy wife, and thy sons wives, with thee. ¹⁹Moreover of all the living creatures of all flesh—two of each, shalt thou bring into the ark to keep alive with thee,—male and female, shall they be. ²⁰Of the bird after its kind and of the beast after its kind, and of every creeping thing of the ground after its kind, two of each, shall come in unto thee. for keeping alive. ²¹But thou, take to thee of all food that is eaten, and gather it unto thee,—and it shall be for thee and for them for food. ²²And Noah did so,—according to all that God commanded him, so did he.

⁷And Yahweh said to Noah, Enter thou and all thy house, into the ark,—for, thee, have I seen righteous before me, in this generation. ²Of all the clean beasts, shalt thou take to thee by sevens, a male and his female,—and, of the beasts that are not clean,, shall be two a male and his female. ³Also of the bird of the heavens, by sevens, male and female,—to keep alive a seed on the face of all the earth. ⁴For in seven days more, I, am sending rain on the earth, forty days and forty nights,—so will I wipe out all the living things which I have made, from off the face of the ground. ⁵And Noah did,—according to all that Yahweh commanded him. ⁶Now, Noah, was six hundred years old,—when, the flood, came, even waters on the earth. ⁷So Noah entered, and his sons and his wife and his sons wives with him into the ark,—from before the waters of the flood, ⁸Of the beasts that were clean, and of the beasts that were not clean,—and of the birds, and everything that creepeth on the ground, ⁹two and two, went they in unto Noah, into the ark male and female,—as God commanded Noah. ¹⁰And it came to pass, in the seven days,—that the waters of the flood, came on the earth. ¹¹In the six hundredth year, the year of the life of Noah. in the second month on the seventeenth day of the month on this day, were burst open all the fountains of the great roaring deep, and the windows of the heavens, were set open. ¹²(And it came to pass that the heavy rain was on the earth,—forty days and forty nights.) ¹³On this selfsame day, entered Noah, and Shem and Ham and Japheth. Noah's sons,—and Noah's wife, and his sons' three wives with them into the ark: ¹⁴they, and all the wild-beasts after their kind and all the tame-beasts after their kind, and all the creeping things that creep on the earth after their kind,—and all the birds after their kind, every bird of every wing. ¹⁵So they entered in unto Noah, into the ark,—two and two of all flesh, wherein was the spirit of life. ¹⁶And, they that entered, male and female of all flesh, entered, as God commanded him,—and Yahweh shut him in round about. ¹⁷And it came to pass, that the flood was forty days on the earth,—and the waters increased and bare up the ark, and it was lifted high above the earth, ¹⁸And the waters prevailed and increased greatly, on the earth,—and the ark went its way on the face of the waters. ¹⁹Yea the waters, prevailed very greatly, on the earth,—so that all the high mountains became covered, that were under all the heavens: ²⁰fifteen cubits upwards, prevailed the waters, so that the mountains became covered. ²¹And all flesh ceased to breathe that moved on the earth, of birds and of tame-beasts and of wild-beasts, and of all the swarming things that swarm on the earth,—and all mankind. ²²All in whose nostrils was the breath of the spirit of life of all that were on the dry ground died. ²³Thus was wiped out all that existed on the face of the ground, from man unto beast unto creeping thing, and unto the bird of the heavens, thus were they wiped out from the earth,—so that there was left—only Noah and they that were with him in the ark. ²⁴Thus prevailed the waters on the earth,—a hundred and fifty days.

⁸And God remembered Noah, and all the wild—beasts and all the tame-beasts that were with him in the ark,—and God caused a wind to pass over the earth, and the waters subsided; ²and the fountains of the roaring-deep were shut, and the windows of the heavens,—and the heavy rain was restrained from the heavens; ³and the waters returned from off the earth they went on returning,—and so the waters decreased at the end of a hundred and fifty days. ⁴And the ark rested, in the seventh month, on the seventeenth day of the month,—on the mountains of Ararat. ⁵But, the waters went on decreasing, until the tenth month,—in the tenth month, on the first of the month, were seen the tops of the mountains. ⁶And it came to pass at the end of forty days, that Noah opened the window of the ark that he had made; ⁷and sent forth a raven,—and it kept going forth and returning, until the drying up of the waters from off the earth. ⁸And he sent forth a dove from him,—to see whether the waters had abated, from off the face of the ground; ⁹but the dove found no resting-place for the sole of her foot so she returned unto him into the ark, for, waters, were on the face of all the earth; and he put forth his hand and took her, and brought her in unto him, into the ark. ¹⁰Then stayed he yet seven days more,—and, again sent forth the dove out of the ark. ¹¹And the dove came in unto him at eventide, and lo! a newly sprouted olive-leaf, in her mouth,—so Noah knew that the waters had abated from off the earth. ¹²And he stayed yet seven days more,—and sent forth the dove, but she returned not again unto him any more. ¹³So it came to pass in the six hundred and first year at the beginning, on the first of the month, that the waters had dried up from off the earth,—and Noah removed the covering of the ark, and looked and lo! the face of the ground was dried. ¹⁴And in the second month, on the twenty-seventh day of the month, was the earth dry. ¹⁵So then, God spake to Noah, saying: ¹⁶Come forth out of the ark,—thou and thy wife, and thy sons, and thy sons wives with thee. ¹⁷All the living creatures that are with thee of all flesh among birds, and among beasts, and among all the creeping things that creep on the earth, bring forth with thee,—and they shall swarm in the earth, and be fruitful and multiply, on the earth. ¹⁸So Noah came forth,—and his sons and his wife, and his sons wives with him: ¹⁹All the living creatures, all that move along, and all birds, and all that moveth along over the earth—by their families, came forth out of the ark. ²⁰And Noah builded an altar to Yahweh,—and took of all the clean beasts and of all the clean birds, and caused ascending Sacrifices to go up on the altar. ²¹And Yahweh smelled a satisfying odour, so Yahweh said to himself. I will not, again, curse any more the ground for man's sake, although the device of the heart of man, be wicked from his youth,—neither will I again, any more smite every living thing, as I have done. ²²During all the days of the earth, seedtime and harvest, and cold and heat and summer and winter, and day and night, shall not cease.

⁹So God blessed Noah and his sons,—and said to them Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the earth; ²and let the fear of you and the dread of you be upon every living creature of the earth, and upon every bird of the heavens,—over everything that moveth along on the ground, and over all the fishes of the sea,—into your hand, have they been given. ³As for every moving thing that hath life, yours, shall it be, for food,—Like the green herb, have I given you all things. ⁴Yet flesh with the life thereof, the bleed thereof, shall ye not eat; ⁵And surely your blood, of your lives, will I require, From the hand of every living creature, will I require it,—and from the hand of man From the hand of each ones brother, will I require the life of man: ⁶He that sheddeth man's blood, by man, shall his blood be shed,—For, in the image of God, made he man. ⁷Ye, therefore, be fruitful and multiply, swarm in the earth and multiply therein. ⁸And God spake unto Noah, and unto his sons with him saying: ⁹I, therefore, behold me! establishing my covenant with you,—and with your seed after you; ¹⁰and with every living soul that is with you, of birds, of tame-beasts and of all wild-beasts of the earth that are with you,—of all coming forth out of the ark, even to all wild-beasts of the earth; ¹¹yea, I will establish my covenant with you, so that all flesh shall not be cut off any more, by reason of the waters of a flood,—neither shall there be any more a flood to destroy the earth. ¹²And God said, This, is the sign of the covenant which I am granting betwixt me and you, and every living soul that is with you,—to age-abiding generations:— ¹³My bow, have I set in the cloud,—and it shall be for a sign of a covenant, betwixt me and the earth; ¹⁴and it shall be when I draw a veil of cloud over the earth,—and the bow in the cloud appeareth, ¹⁵then will I remember my covenant which is betwixt me and you, and every living soul among all flesh,—that the waters may no more become a flood, to destroy all flesh:

¹⁶so the bow shall be in the cloud,—and I will behold it, to remember an age-abiding covenant, between God, and every living soul among all flesh that is on the earth. ¹⁷And God said unto Noah, This is the sign of the covenant which have established, between me and all flesh that is on the earth. ¹⁸And the sons of Noah who came forth out of the ark, were—Shem and Ham and Japheth,—now, Ham, was the father of Canaan. ¹⁹These three, were the sons of Noah,—and from these, was all the earth overspread. ²⁰And Noah began to be a husbandman,—so he planted a vineyard: ²¹and drank of the wine and became drunk, and uncovered himself in the midst of his tent. ²²And Ham the father of Canaan saw his father's shame,—and told his two brethren outside. ²³And Shem and Japheth took a mantle, and put it on the shoulder of them both and went backwards, and covered the shame of their father, but their faces were backwards, and the shame of their father, saw they not. ²⁴And Noah awoke from his wine,—and came to know what his youngest sore had done to him. ²⁵And he said, Accursed be Canaan,—a servant of servants, shall he be to his brethren! ²⁶And he said, Blessed be Yahweh, God of Shem,—And let Cantata he their servant: ²⁷God give extension to Japheth, But make his habitation in the tents of Shem, And let Canaan be their servant. ²⁸And Noah lived after the flood,—three hundred and fifty years: ²⁹so, all the days of Noah, were—nine hundred and fifty years,—and he died.

10Now, these are the generations of the sons of Noah, Shem, Ham, and Japheth, and there were born to them sons after the flood. ²The sons of Japheth: Gomer and Magog, and Madai, and Javan and Tubal,—and Meshech, and Tiras. ³And the sons of Gomer: Ashkenaz and Riphath, and Togarmah. ⁴And the sons of Javan: Elisha, and Tarshish. Kittim, and Rodanim,— ⁵From these, were dispersed the inhabitants of the coastlands of the nations, in their lands, each man by his tongue, by their families in their nations. ⁶And, the sons of Ham: Cush and Mizraim and Phut and Canaan. ⁷And, the sons of Cush: Seba and Havilah, and Sabtah and Raamah, and Sabtechah,—And the sons of Raamah, Sheba and Dedan. ⁸And, Cush begat Nimrod.—he, became a hero in the earth; ⁹he, became a hero of hunting before Yahweh, for this cause, it is said. Like Nimrod, a hero of hunting before Yahweh. ¹⁰So the beginning of his kingdom came to be Babel, and Erech, and Accad and Calneh, in the land of Shinar. ¹¹From that land, went forth Asshur,—and he built Nineveh, and Rehoboth-ir, and Calah: ¹²and Resen, between Niveveh and Calah,—the same is the great city. ¹³And, Mizraim, begat Ludim and Anamim and Lehabim, and Naphtuchim; ¹⁴and Pathrusim and Casluhim whence came forth Philistim and Caphtorim. ¹⁵And Canaan begat Zidon his first-born, and Heth: ¹⁶and the Jebusite, and the Amorite, and the Girgashite; ¹⁷and the Hivite and the Arkite, and the Sinite: ¹⁸and the Arvadite and the Zemarite and the Hamathite,—and after-wards, were spread abroad the families of the Canaanite. ¹⁹And it came to pass that the boundary of the Canaanite was from Zidon, as thou enterest in towards Gerar unto Gaza,—as thou enterest in towards Sodom and Gomorrah and Admah and Zeboim, as far as Lasha. ²⁰These, are the sons of Ham, by their families by their tongues, in their lands in their nations. ²¹Now, to Shem, father of all the sons of Eber, elder brother of Japheth, to him also, were children born. ²²The sons of Shem, Elam and Asshur,—and Arpachshad and Lud and Aram. ²³And, the sons of Aram: Uz and Hul, and Gether and Mash. ²⁴Now Arpachshad, begat Shelah, and Shelah begat Eber. ²⁵And to Eber, were born two sons,—the name of the one was Peleg, for in his days, was the earth divided, and the name of his brother was Joktan. ²⁶Now, Joktan, begat Almodad, and Sheleph, and Hazarmaveth, and Jerah; ²⁷and Hadoram and Uzai, and Diklah: ²⁸and Obal and Abimael, and Sheba: ²⁹and Ophir and Havilah, and Jobab—all these were sons of Joktan. ³⁰And it came to pass that their dwelling was from Mesha, as thou enterest in towards Sephar, the mountain of the east. ³¹These are the sons of Shem, by their families by their tongues, in their lands by their nations. ³²These, are the families of the sons of Noah, by their generations in their nations, and from these, were dispersed the nations in the earth after the flood.

11So it came to pass that, all the earth, was of one manner of speech,—and of one stock of words. ²And it came to pass as they brake away onwards, that they found a plain in the land of Shinar, and dwelt there. ³Then said they, each man to his friend, Come on! let us make bricks, and burn them thoroughly,—So the bricks, served them for stone, and bitumen, served them for mortar, ⁴And they said Come on! let us build for ourselves a city, and a tower with its head in the heavens, so let us make for ourselves a name,—lest we be scattered abroad over the face of all the earth. ⁵And Yahweh came down, to behold the city, and the tower,—which the sons of men had built. ⁶Then said Yahweh: Lo! one people and one manner of speech, have they all, this, then is what they have begun to do,—now, therefore, nothing will be withholden from them which they may plan to do. ⁷Come on! let us go down, and there confuse their speech,—that they may not understand, each man the speech of his friend. ⁸So Yahweh scattered them from thence over the face of all the earth,—and so they left off building the city. ⁹For this cause, was the name thereof called Babel; because there, did Yahweh confuse the speech of all the earth,—and, from thence, did Yahweh scatter them abroad, over the face of all the earth. ¹⁰These, are the genealogies of Shem, Shem was a hundred years old when he begat Arpachshad, two years after the flood ¹¹and Shem lived after he begat Arpachshad, five hundred years,—and begat sons and daughters. ¹²And, Arpachshad, lived thirty-five years,—and begat Shelah; ¹³and Arpachshad lived after he begat Shelah, four hundred and three years,—and begat sons and daughters. ¹⁴And, Shelah, lived thirty years,—and begat Eber; ¹⁵and Shelah lived, after he begat Eber, four hundred and three years,—and begat sons and daughters. ¹⁶And Eber lived thirty-four years,—and begat Peleg; ¹⁷and Eber lived after he begat Peleg, four hundred and thirty years,—and begat sons and daughters. ¹⁸And Peleg lived thirty years, and begat Reu: ¹⁹and Peleg lived after he begat Reu, two hundred and nine years,—and begat sons and daughters. ²⁰And Reu lived thirty-two years—and begat Serug; ²¹and Reu lived after he begat Serug, two hundred and seven years,—and begat sons and daughters. ²²And Serug lived thirty years,—and begat Nahor; ²³and Serug lived after he begat Nahor, two hundred years,—and begat sons and daughters. ²⁴And Nahor lived twenty-nine years,—and begat Terah; ²⁵and Nahor lived, after he begat Terah, a hundred and nineteen years,—and begat sons and daughters. ²⁶And Terah lived seventy years,—and begat Abram, Nahor, and Haran. ²⁷These, then are the generations of Terah, Terah begat Abram, Nahor, and Haran,—and, Haran, begat Lot; ²⁸and Haran died, in the presence of Terah his father,—in the land of his birth, in Ur of the Chaldees. ²⁹And Abram and Nahor took to themselves wives; the name of Abrams wife, was Sarai; and, the name of Nahor's wife, Milcah, daughter of Haran father of Milcah, and father of Iscah. ³⁰And, Sara, remained barren,—she had no child, ³¹And Terah took Abram his son and Lot son of Haran his son's son, and Sarai his daughter-in-law, wife of Abram his son,—and came forth with them out of Ur of the Chaldees, that they might go their way towards the land of Canaan, and they came in as far as Haran and dwelt there. ³²And the days of Terah were two hundred and five years,—and Terah died in Haran.

12And Yahweh said unto Abram: Come thou on thy way, Out of thy land and out of the place of thy birth and out of the house of thy father,—Unto the land that I will show thee; ²That I may make thee into a great nation, And bless thee and make great thy name, And become thou a blessing; ³That I may bless them who bless thee, But him who maketh light of thee, will I curse,—So shall be, blessed in thee, all the families of the ground. ⁴And Abram came on his way, according to that which Yahweh had spoken unto him, and Lot came with him,—now, Abram, was seventy-five years old, when he came forth out of Haran. ⁵And Abram took Sarai his wife, and Lot his brother's son, with all the goods that they had gathered and the souls that they had gained in Haran,—and they came forth to go towards the land of Canaan, and came in to the land of Canaan. ⁶And Abram passed along throughout the land, as far as the place of Shechem as far as the Teacher's Terebinth, the Canaanite being then in the land. ⁷And Yahweh appeared unto Abram, and said: To thy seed, will I give this land,—And he built there an altar, unto Yahweh who appeared unto him. ⁸And he moved on from thence towards the hill country, on the east of Bethel and pitched his tent,—with Bethel on the west, and Ai on the east, and built there an altar to Yahweh, and called on the name of Yahweh. ⁹Thus Abram brake up, again and again, towards the South. ¹⁰And it came to pass that there was a famine, in the land,—so Abram went down towards Egypt, to sojourn there, because grievous, was the famine in the land. ¹¹And it came to pass when he had come near to enter into Egypt, that he said unto Sarai his wife: Behold! I beseech thee I know that a woman fair to look on, thou art: ¹²so will it come to pass when the Egyptians behold thee, that they will say, His wife, this! and will slay me while thee, they preserve alive. ¹³Say, I beseech thee that my sister, art thou,—to the end it may be well with me for thy sake, so shall my soul be preserved alive because of thee. ¹⁴And so it was when Abram entered into Egypt, the Egyptians beheld the woman, that fair, was she exceedingly. ¹⁵And the princes of Pharaoh beheld her, and praised her unto Pharaoh,—so the woman was taken to the house of Pharaoh; ¹⁶and with Abram, dealt he well for her sake,—so that he came to have flocks and herds and he-asses, and men-servants, and maid-servants, and she-asses and camels. ¹⁷And Yahweh plagued Pharaoh with great plagues, also his house,—for the matter of Sarai, wife of Abram. ¹⁸And Pharaoh called out to Abram, and said, What is this thou hast done to me? Wherefore didst thou not tell me, that she was, thy wife? ¹⁹Wherefore saidst thou My sister, she; and so I was about to take her to me, to wife? But now, lo! thy wife take her and go thy way. ²⁰And Pharaoh gave command concerning him unto certain men,—and sent him away, with his wife and all that he had.

13So Abram came up out of Egypt he and his wife and all that he had and Lot with him, towards the South. ²Now, Abram, was very rich,—in cattle, in silver and in gold. ³And he went his way, by his removals, from the South even as far as to Bethel,—as far as the place where his tent was at the beginning, between Bethel and Ai: ⁴unto the place of the altar, which he made there at first,—and Abram called there, on the name of Yahweh. ⁵Now, Lot also, who was going with Abram, had flocks and herds and tents. ⁶And the land suffered them not to dwell together,—because their substance had become, great, so that they could not dwell together. ⁷And there arose a strife betwixt the herdmen of Abram, and the herdmen of Lot. Now the Canaanite and the Perizzite, were then dwelling in the land. ⁸So then Abram said unto Lot Pray let not cause of strife arise betwixt me and thee, or betwixt my herdmen and thy herdmen; for brethren, are we. ⁹Is not, all the land, before thee? I pray thee, separate thyself from me,—if to the left hand, then I will go to the right, if to the right hand, then I will go to the left. ¹⁰So Lot lifted up his eyes and beheld all the circuit of the Jordan, that the whole of it, was well-watered,—before Yahweh destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah, like the Garden of Yahweh, like the land of Egypt, as thou enterest into Zoar. ¹¹And Lot chose for himself all the circuit of the Jordan, so Lot brake up eastwards,—and they separated themselves, each man from his brother: ¹²Abram, fixed his dwelling in the land of Canaan,—but, Lot, fixed his dwelling among the cities, of the circuit, and moved his tent as far as Sodom. ¹³Now, the men of Sodom were base and sinful,—against Yahweh, exceedingly. ¹⁴And, Yahweh, said unto Abram after that Lot had separated himself from him, Lift up, I pray thee thine eyes and look, from the place where thou art,—northward and southward and eastward and westward; ¹⁵for all the land which thou art beholding—to thee, will I give it, and to thy seed unto times age-abiding; ¹⁶and I will make thy seed as the dust of the earth,—so that if a man can number the dust of the earth, thy seed also, may be numbered. ¹⁷Rise! go up and down in the land, to the length thereof and to the breadth thereof, for to thee, will I give it. ¹⁸So Abram moved his tent and came in and dwelt among the oaks of Mamre, which were in Hebron,—and built there an altar to Yahweh.

¹⁴And it came to pass, in the days of Amraphel, king of Shinar, Arioch, king of Ellasar,—Chedorlaomer king of Elam, and Tidal king of Goim, ²that they made war, with Bera, king of Sodom, and with Birsha, king of Gomorrah,—Shinab, king of Admah, and Shemeber, king of Zeboim, and the king of Bela—the same, is Zoar. ³All these, joined together in the valley of the open fields, the same, is the Salt Sea. ⁴Twelve years, had they served Chedorlaomer,—but in the thirteenth year had they rebelled; ⁵and in the fourteenth year, had Chedorlaomer come in and the kings who were with him, so they smote the Rephaim in Ashteroth-karnaim, and the Zuzim in Ham,—and the Emim, in Shaveh-kiriathaim; ⁶and the Horites in their Mount Seir,—as far as El-paran, which is by the desert. ⁷So they returned and came in unto En-mishpat, the same, is Kadish, and smote all the field of the Amalekites,—and the Amorites also that dwelt in Hazazon-tamar, ⁸Thus then went forth the King of Sodom and the king of Gomorrah, and the king of Admah and the king of Zeboim, and the king of Bela the same, is Zoar—and set themselves in array against them for battle, in the valley of the open fields: ⁹against Chedorlaomer king of Elam, and Tidal king of Goim, and Amraphel king of Shinar, and Arioch king of Ellasar,—four kings against five. ¹⁰Now, the valley of the open fields, had many pits of bitumen, so the king of Sodom and Gomorrah fled, and fell there,—while, they who remained, towards a mountain, fled. ¹¹And they took all the goods of Sodom and Gomorrah and all their food and went their way. ¹²And they took Lot, Abram's brother's son with his goods, and went their way,—he, being a dweller in Sodom. ¹³Then came in a fugitive, and told Abram the Hebrew,—he, having his dwelling among the oaks of Mature the Amorite brother of Eshcol and brother of Aner, they, also having a covenant with Abram. ¹⁴So Abram, hearing that his brother had been taken captive, drew forth his trained men born in his house three hundred and eighteen, and pursued as far as Dan. ¹⁵And he divided himself against them by night, he, and his servants, and smote them,—and pursued them as far as Hobah, which was on the left of Damascus. ¹⁶So he brought back all the goods,—yea Lot also his brother with his goods, did he bring back, and the women also, and the people. ¹⁷Then came forth the king of Sodom to meet him, after his return from the smiting of Chedorlaomer, and the kings who were with him,—into the vale of Shaveh the same, was the vale of the king. ¹⁸flow Melchizedek king of Salem, had brought forth bread and wine,—he, being priest of GOD Most High. ¹⁹So he blessed him and said,—Blessed be Abram of GOD Most High, possessor of the heavens and earth; ²⁰And blessed be GOD Most High, who hath delivered thine enemies into thy hand. So he gave unto him a tenth of all. ²¹Then said the king of Sodom unto Abram,—Give unto me the persons, but the goods, take thou for thyself. ²²And Abram said unto the king of Sodom,—I have lifted up my hand unto Yahweh GOD Most High, possessor of the heavens and earth: ²³That not from a thread even unto a sandal-thong,—will I take, anything, that is thine,—Lest thou shouldst say, I, enriched Abram! ²⁴Save only what the young men have eaten, and the share of the men who went with me, Aner, Eshcol, and Mamre, they may rake their share.

¹⁵After these things, came the word of Yahweh unto Abram, in a vision saying,—Do not fear Abram, am a shield to thee, thine exceeding great reward. ²And Abram said My Lord Yahweh, what canst thou give me, when, I, am going on childless,—and the heir of my house, is Eliezer, of Damascus, ³And Abram said—Lo, to me, hast thou not given seed,—⁴And lo! a son of my household, is mine heir! And lo! the word of Yahweh came unto him, saying, This one, shall not be thine heir: But one who cometh forth of thy body—he shall be thine heir. ⁵And he brought him forth abroad and said—Look steadfastly. I pray thee towards the heavens, and number the stars, if thou be able to number, them, And he said to him, Thus, shall be thy seed. ⁶And he had faith in Yahweh,—so he reckoned it to him as righteousness. ⁷And he said unto him,—I, am Yahweh, who brought thee forth out of Ur of the Chaldees, to give thee this land to inherit it. ⁸And he said, My Lord Yahweh, whereby, can I know that I shall inherit it? ⁹And he said unto him, Take for me a heifer three years old, and a she-goat three years old, and a ram three years old, and a turtle-dove and a young pigeon. ¹⁰So he took for him all these, and divided them, in the midst, and placed each piece over against its fellow, but the birds, divided he not. ¹¹Then came down the birds of prey upon the carcass, and Abram drove them away. ¹²And it came to pass when, the sun, was about to go in, and a deep sleep, had fallen upon Abram, lo! a terror a great darkness, was falling upon him. ¹³And he said to Abram—Thou must surely know, that, sojourners, will thy seed become in a land not theirs, and shall serve them and they will humble them, four hundred years; ¹⁴moreover also, the nation whom they will serve, I, am going to judge, and after that, shall they come forth with great substance. ¹⁵But, thou, shalt go in unto thy fathers in peace, thou shalt be buried in a good old age. ¹⁶And, in the fourth generation, shall they return hither,—for not complete, is the iniquity of the Amorites, as yet, ¹⁷So it came to pass when, the sun, had gone in, and a thick darkness, had come on, that lo there was a smoking hearth and torch of fire, which passed through between these pieces. ¹⁸In that day, did Yahweh solemnise with Abram a covenant, saying,—To thy seed, have I given this land, from the river of Egypt as far as the great river—the river Euphrates: ¹⁹the Kenite, and the Kenizzite, and the Kadmonite; ²⁰and the Hittite and the Perizzite, and the Rephaim; ²¹and the Amorite, and the Canaanite, and the Girgashite, and the Jebusite.

¹⁶But Sarai, Abram's wife, had borne him no children,—she had, however, an Egyptian handmaid, whose name was Hagar. ²So then Sarai said unto Abram Behold, I pray thee, Yahweh hath restrained me, from bearing, go in I pray thee unto, my handmaid, peradventure I may be built up from, her, And Abram hearkened to the voice of Sarai. ³So Sarai, Abram's wife, took Hagar the Egyptian, her handmaid, at the end of ten years of Abrams dwelling in the land of Canaan, and gave her to Abram her husband, to be to him as a wife. ⁴And he went in unto Hagar and she conceived,—and when she saw that she had conceived, lightly esteemed, was her lady, in her eyes. ⁵Then said Sarai unto Abram: My wrong, is, on thee! I, gave my handmaid into thy broom, and when she seeth that she hath conceived, then am lightly esteemed in her eyes Yahweh judge betwixt me and her. ⁶And Abram said unto Sarai, Lo! thy handmaid, is in thy hand, do to her what is good in thine eyes. So Sarai humbled her, and she fled from her face. ⁷And the messenger of Yahweh found her by the fountain of water in the desert,—by the fountain in the way to Shur. ⁸So he said Hagar! handmaid of Sarai! Whence hast thou come, and whither wouldst thou go? And she said, From the face of Sarai, my lady, am, I, fleeing. ⁹And the messenger of Yahweh said to her, Return unto thy lady,—and humble thyself under her hands. ¹⁰And the messenger of Yahweh said to her, I will, greatly multiply, thy seed—so that it shall not be numbered for multitude. ¹¹And the messenger of Yahweh said to her, Behold thee! with child, and about bearing a son—and thou shalt call his name Ishmael for Yahweh hath hearkened unto thy humiliation. ¹²But, he, will be a wild ass of a man, his hand, against every one, and every ones hand against him—yet, in presence of all his brethren, shall he have his habitation. ¹³And she called the name of Yahweh, who had spoken unto her, Thou GOD of vision! For she said. Do I even here, retain my vision after a vision? ¹⁴On this account, is the well called, the well of the life of vision, lo! it is between Kadesh and Bered. ¹⁵So Hagar bare to Abram a son,—and Abram called the name of his son, whom Hagar bare, Ishmael. ¹⁶Now, Abram, was eighty—six years old,—when Hagar bare Ishmael to Abram.

¹⁷And it came to pass that, when Abram was ninety and nine years old, Yahweh appeared unto Abram, and said unto him, I, am GOD Almighty,—Walk, thou before me and become thou blameless: ²That I may set my covenant betwixt me and thee, And may multiply thee, exceedingly. ³And Abram fell on his face,—and God spake with him, saying: ⁴As for me, lo! my covenant is with thee,—So shalt thou become—father of a multitude of nations; ⁵And thy name shall no more be called Abram,—but thy name shall become Abraham, for father of a multitude of nations, have I appointed thee; ⁶And I will make thee fruitful, exceedingly, and grant thee to be nations,—Yea kings, out of thee, shall come forth; ⁷And I will confirm my covenant betwixt me and thee and thy seed after thee to their generations for an age-abiding covenant,—to become to thee a God, and to thy seed after thee; ⁸And I will give to thee and to thy seed after thee the land of thy sojournings—all the land of Canaan, for an age-abiding possession—And I will be to them a God. ⁹And God said unto Abraham, But, as for thee, my covenant, must thou keep, thou and thy seed after thee, to their generations:—¹⁰This, is my covenant which ye shall keep, betwixt me and you, and thy seed after thee,—To circumcise to you every male: ¹¹So shall ye be circumcised in the flesh of your foreskin,—So shall it become a sign of a covenant, betwixt me and you. ¹²And he that is eight days old, shall be circumcised to you every male to your generations,—he that is born of the house, and he that is bought with silver of any son of a stranger, who is, not of thy seed, ¹³He must surely be circumcised, born of thy house or bought with thy silver,—So shall my covenant be in your flesh for an age-abiding covenant. ¹⁴But, as for the uncircumcised male who shall not be circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin,—that person shall be cut off from among his people,—my covenant, hath he made void. ¹⁵And God said unto Abraham, As for Sarai thy wife, thou shalt not call her name Sarai,—but, Sarah, is her name; ¹⁶and I will bless her, yea moreover will give—from her—to thee, a son,—And I will bless her, and she shall become nations. Kings of peoples, from her, shall arise. ¹⁷And Abraham fell on his face and laughed,—and said in his heart To one a hundred years old, shall a child be born? And shall even Sarah, who is ninety years old, give birth? ¹⁸And Abraham said unto God,—Oh that, Ishmael, might live before thee! ¹⁹And God said—Truly, Sarah thy wife, is about to bear thee a son, and thou shalt call his name, Isaac,—and I will establish my covenant with him as an age-abiding covenant, to his seed after him. ²⁰Yet as for Ishmael, I have heard thee; o! I have blessed him and will make him fruitful, and multiply him, exceedingly,—twelve princes, shall he beget, and I will grant him to be a great nation; ²¹But my covenant, will I establish with Isaac,—whom Sarah shall bear, to thee, by this set time, in the next year. ²²And he left off speaking with him,—and God went up from Abraham. ²³So Abraham took Ishmael his son and all born of his house and all bought with his silver—every male among the men of the house of Abraham,—and circumcised the flesh of their foreskin on this selfsame day, according to that which God had spoken with him. ²⁴Now Abraham, was ninety-nine years old,—when he was circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin. ²⁵And Ishmael, his son, was thirteen years old, when he was circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin. ²⁶On this selfsame day, was Abraham circumcised,—and Ishmael his son; ²⁷and, all the men of his house, born of his house, and bought with silver from the son of a stranger, were circumcised with him.

¹⁸And Yahweh appeared unto him among the oaks of Mamre,—as, he, was sitting at the opening of the tent in the heat of the day. ²And he lifted up his eyes and looked, and lo! three men, standing over against him,—so he looked and ran to meet them from the opening of the tent, and bowed himself to the earth; ³and said,—O My Lord! if, I pray thee, I have found favour in thine eyes, do not I pray thee pass on from thy servant. ⁴Let there be fetched, I pray thee a little water, and bathe ye your feet,—and rest yourselves under the tree. ⁵And let me fetch a morsel of bread, and stay ye your heart, Afterwards, ye may pass on, For on this account, have ye passed by, over against your servant. And they said, Thus, shalt thou do as thou hast spoken. ⁶So Abraham hastened towards the tent unto Sarah,—and said, Hasten thou three measures of fine meal, knead it, and make hearth-cakes. ⁷And unto the herd, ran Abraham,—and took a calf tender and good and gave unto the young man, and he hastened to make it ready. ⁸And he took butter and milk and the calf that he had made ready, and set before them,—while, he, was standing near them under the tree, they did eat. ⁹And they said unto him, As to Sarah thy wife... And he said Lo! she is in the tent. ¹⁰And he said, I will, surely return, unto thee at the quickening season,—and lo! a son for Sarah thy wife. Now Sarah, was hearkening at the opening of the tent, it, being behind him. ¹¹But Abraham and Sarah, were old, far gone in days,—it had ceased to be with Sarah after the manner of women. ¹²So then Sarah laughed within herself, saying: After I am past age, hath there come to me pleasure, my lord, also being old? ¹³And Yahweh said unto Abraham,—Wherefore now did Sarah laugh saying. Can it really and truly be that I should bear, seeing that have become old? ¹⁴Is anything, too wonderful for Yahweh? At the appointed time, I will return unto thee, at the quickening season and Sarah, shall have a son. ¹⁵And Sarah denied, saying, I laughed not, For she was afraid. And he said—Nay! but thou didst laugh! ¹⁶And the men rose up from hence, and looked out over the face of Sodom,—Abraham also going with them to set them on their way. ¹⁷Now, Yahweh, had said,—Am I going to hide from Abraham what I do, ¹⁸when, Abraham, shall surely become, a great and mighty nation,—and all the nations of the earth, shall be blessed in him? ¹⁹For I have become his intimate friend, To the end that he may command his sons and his house after him, so shall they keep the way of Yahweh, by doing righteousness and justice. To the end that Yahweh may bring in for Abraham, what he hath spoken concerning him. ²⁰So Yahweh said, The outcry of Sodom and Gomorrah, because it hath become great,—And their sin, because it hath become exceeding grievous, ²¹Let me go down, pray, and let me behold, whether according to their outcry which hath come in unto me, they have done altogether, And if not. I must know! ²²And the men turned from thence, and went their way, towards Sodom,—but, Yahweh was yet standing before Abraham. ²³So then Abraham drew near and said, Wilt thou really sweep away, the righteous with the lawless? ²⁴Peradventure there are fifty righteous, in the midst of the city, Wilt thou really sweep away, and not spare the place, for the sake of the fifty righteous which are therein? ²⁵Far be it from thee! to do after this manner. to put to death the righteous with the lawless! Then should righteous and lawless be alike, Far be it from thee! Shall, the Judge of all the earth not do justice? ²⁶And Yahweh said, If I find in Sodom fifty righteous in the midst of the city, then will I spare all the place for their sake. ²⁷And Abraham responded and said,—Behold I pray thee I have ventured to speak unto My Lord, though I am dust and ashes: ²⁸Peradventure there may lack, of the fifty righteous, five, Wilt thou destroy for five all the city? And he said, I will not destroy, if I find there forty and five. ²⁹And he added, yet once more, to speak unto him, and said, Peradventure there may be found there—forty. And he said—I will not do it, for the sake of the forty. ³⁰And he said Let it not, I pray thee, be vexing to My Lord, but let me speak, Peradventure there may be found there—thirty And he said, I will not to it, if I find there—thirty. ³¹And he said Behold, I pray thee, I have ventured to speak unto My Lord, Peradventure there may be found there—twenty. And he said I will not destroy it, for the sake of the twenty. ³²And he said, Let it not, I pray thee, be vexing to My Lord, but let me speak only this once, Peradventure there may be found there—ten. And he said, I will not destroy it, for the sake of the ten! ³³And Yahweh went his way, when he had made an end. of speaking unto Abraham,—Abraham, also returned to his place.

¹⁹So the two messengers went in towards Sodom at eventide, Lot, being seated in the gate of Sodom,—so Lot beheld and rose up to meet them, and bowed himself with his face to the earth. ²And he said Behold, I pray you my lords turn aside, I pray you, into the house of your servant,—and tarry the night and bathe your feet, so shall ye rise early, and go on your way. And they said, Nay, but, in the broad way, will we tarry the night. ³But he became exceeding urgent with them, so they turned aside unto him and entered into his house,—and he made for them a banquet, unleavened cakes, also did he bake, and they did eat. ⁴Ere yet they lay down, the men of the city—the men of Sodom, had come round against the house, from youth even unto age,—all the people from every quarter, ⁵And they called unto Lot and said to him, Where are the men who have come in unto thee tonight? Bring them forth unto us, and let us know them! ⁶And Lot went forth unto them to the entrance; but the door, closed he behind him. ⁷And he said,—Do not I pray you my brethren act wickedly. ⁸Behold, I pray you, I, have two daughters who have not known man, I must needs now bring, them, forth unto you, and do ye to them, as may be good in your eyes,—Only to these men, ye may do nothing; for on this account, have they come under the shade of my roof. ⁹And they said, Stand back, And they said, This one, by himself, hath come in to sojourn and must always be acting the judge, Now, will we do more wickedly to thee, than to them. So they pressed sere upon the man—upon Lot—exceedingly, and drew near to break open the door. ¹⁰And the men thrust forth their hand, and brought Lot in unto them into the house—and, the door, they closed: ¹¹the men also who were at the entrance of the house, smote they with blindness, from small even unto great, so that they wearied themselves to find the entrance. ¹²And the men said unto Lot, Whom besides hast thou here? Son-in-law and thy sons and thy daughters, and all that thou hast in the city, bring thou forth out of the place; ¹³For we are about to destroy this place,—for, great, is the outcry of them unto the face of Yahweh, so that Yahweh hath sent us to destroy it. ¹⁴And Lot went forth and spake unto his sons-in—law who were about to take his two daughters and said Arise come forth out of this place, for Yahweh is about to destroy the city. And it came to pass, that he was as one that laughed, in the eyes of his sons-in-law. ¹⁵But as soon as, the dawn had sprung up, the messengers hastened Lot saying,—Arise! take thy wife and thy two daughters that are at hand, lest thou be swept away in the punishment of the city. ¹⁶And he lingered—so the men laid hold of his hand and of the hand of his wife and of the hand of his two daughters, in the tenderness of Yahweh towards him,—and they brought him out and led him forth outside the city. ¹⁷And it came to pass when they had brought them forth outside, that they said, Escape for thy life, Look not behind thee, neither stand still in all the vale,—To the mountain, escape thou lest thou be swept away. ¹⁸And Lot said unto them,—No, I pray thee, My Lord! ¹⁹Behold, I pray thee thy servant hath found favour in thine eyes, so that thou hast magnified thy lovingkindness which thou hast performed with me in keeping alive my soul.—But, I, cannot escape to the mountain, lest calamity overtake me so shall I die. ²⁰Behold, I pray thee, this city, is near for fleeing thither And, it, is a little one, let me I pray thee, escape thither—is it not a, little, one? That my soul may live! ²¹And he said unto him, Behold! I have lifted up thy countenance, even as to this thing,—so that I will not overthrow the city, of which thou hast spoken. ²²Haste thee escape thither, for I cannot do anything, until thou have come in thither. For this cause: was the name of the city called Zoar. ²³When, the sun, had come forth on the earth, Lot had entered into Zoar. ²⁴And, Yahweh, rained, upon Sodom and upon Gomorrah, brimstone and fire,—from Yahweh, out of the heavens: ²⁵so he overthrew these cities, and all the circuit,—and all the inhabitants of the cities, and the produce of the ground. ²⁶But his wife looked from behind him,—and became—a pillar of salt. ²⁷And Abraham gat up early in the morning, unto the place where he had stood before Yahweh; ²⁸and he looked out over the face of Sodom and Gomorrah, and over all the face of the land of the circuit, and beheld and lo! the smoke of the land went up, like the smoke of a furnace. ²⁹And it came to pass when God destroyed the cities of the circuit, that God remembered Abraham, and sent forth Lot out of the midst of the overthrow, when he overthrew the cities wherein Lot had dwelt. ³⁰And Lot went up out of Zoar, and dwelt in the mountain and his two daughters with him. for he feared to dwell in Zoar, so he dwelt in a cave, he, and his two daughters. ³¹And the firstborn said unto the younger. Our father is old,—and, a man, there is not in the earth to come in unto us, after the way of all the earth. ³²Come on! let us cause our father to drink wine and let us lie with him, that we may keep alive from our father, a seed. ³³So they caused their father to drink wine that night,—and the firstborn went in. and lay with her father, but he noticed not her lying down nor her rising up. ³⁴And it came to pass on the morrow, that the firstborn said unto the younger, Lo! I lay, last night with my father, let us cause him to drink wine this night also, and go thou in—lie with him, that we may keep alive from our father, a seed. ³⁵So they caused their father, on that night also to drink wine, and the younger arose, and lay with him, but he noticed not her lying down, nor her rising up. ³⁶Thus did, the two daughters of Lot conceive from their father. ³⁷And the firstborn bare a son, and called his name Moab,—the same, is the father of Moab, unto this day. ³⁸And the younger she also bare a son, and called his name Ben-ammi,—the same, is the father of the sons of Ammon—unto this day.

20And Abraham brake up from thence, towards the land of the South, and fixed his dwelling between Kadesh and Shur, so he sojourned in Gerar. ²And Abraham said of Sarah his wife: My, sister, is she,—So Abimelech king of Gerar sent, and took Sarah. ³Then God went in unto Abimelech, in a dream of the night,—and said to him, Behold thee dead! because of the woman whom thou hast taken, seeing that, she, is a married woman. ⁴Now, Abimelech, had not come near unto her,—so he said, O My Lord! a nation even a righteous one, wilt thou slay? ⁵Had not, he himself, said to me, My sister, is she? and even she herself, said, My brother, is he? In the integrity of my heart and in the pureness of my hand, have I done this! ⁶And God said unto him in a dream, I, also, knew, that in the integrity of thy heart, thou didst this, so then, even I myself, withheld thee from sinning against me, for this reason, have I not suffered thee to touch her. ⁷Now, therefore restore the man's wife, for a prophet, is he, that he may pray for thee and live thou,—But if thou art not going to restore her, know, that thou shalt die, thou—and all that are thine. ⁸So Abimelech rose early in the morning, and called all his servants, and spake all these words in their ears, and the men feared greatly. ⁹Then Abimelech called Abraham, and said to him, What hast thou done to us? and wherein had I sinned against thee, that thou shouldst have brought in over me and over my kingdom, a sin so great? Deeds, which should not be done, hast thou done with me. ¹⁰And Abimelech said unto Abraham,—What hadst thou seen, that thou shouldst have done this thing? ¹¹And Abraham said, Because I thought, Surely there is no fear of God, in this place,—therefore will they slay me for the sake of my wife. ¹²Moreover also, in truth, my sister daughter of my father, she is, only not daughter of my mother,—so she became my wife. ¹³And so it came to pass when the Gods caused me to wander from my fathers house, that I said to her, This, is thy lovingkindness, wherewith thou shalt deal with me,—Into what-soever place we enter, say of me My brother, is he. ¹⁴Then took Abimelech sheep and oxen and men—servants and maid-servants, and gave to Abraham,—and restored to him Sarah his wife. ¹⁵And Abimelech, said, Lo! my land is before thee,—wherever it may seem good in thine eyes, dwell. ¹⁶And to Sarah, he said, Lo! I have given a thousand of silver unto thy brother: Lo! that is for thee as a covering of eyes, to all who are with thee,—And so in every way, hath right been done. ¹⁷And Abraham prayed unto God,—and God healed Abimelech, and his wife, and his maid-servants, so that they bare children, ¹⁸For Yahweh, had restrained from bearing, every female a of the house of Abimelech,—because of Sarah, wife of Abraham.

21Now, Yahweh, visited Sarah, as he had said,—And Yahweh did for Sarah as he had spoken. ²So, Sarah, conceived and bare, to Abraham, a son, for his old age, at the set time, of which God had spoken with him. ³And Abraham called the name of his son that was born to him, whom, Sarah, bare to him, Isaac. ⁴And Abraham circumcised Isaac his son, when eight days old,—as God commanded him. ⁵Now Abraham was a hundred years old,—when Isaac his son was born to him. ⁶And Sarah said, A laughing, hath God made for me,—Everyone that heareth will laugh with me. ⁷And she said—Who would have announced to Abraham, Sarah hath suckled children? yet have I borne a son, for his old age! ⁸And the child grew, and was weaned,—and Abraham made a great banquet, on the day of the weaning of Isaac. ⁹And Sarah saw the son of Hagar the Egyptian woman whom she had borne to Abraham laughing! ¹⁰So she said to Abraham, Cast out this bondwoman and her son,—for the son of this bondwoman must not inherit with my son with Isaac. ¹¹And the word was very grievous in the eyes of Abraham,—on account of his son. ¹²And God said unto Abraham Let it not be grievous in thine eyes concerning the boy and concerning thy bondwoman, In all that Sarah may say unto thee, hearken to her voice,—For in Isaac, shall there be called to thee—a seed. ¹³Yet even the son of the bondwoman, will I appoint to become, a nation, because thy seed, he is. ¹⁴So Abraham rose up early in the morning—and took bread and a skin of water and gave unto hagar,—putting them on her shoulder and the child, and sent her forth,—so she went her way and wandered, in the desert of Beer-sheba. ¹⁵And the water out of the skin was spent,—so she cant the child under one of the shrubs; ¹⁶and went and sat her down over against him at a distance like as of such as draw the bow, for she said Let me not look upon the death of the child,—So she sat down over against him, and the boy lifted up his voice, and wept ¹⁷And God heard the voice of the boy, and a messenger of God called unto Hagar out of the heavens; and said to her, What aileth thee, Hagar? Do not fear, for God hath hearkened unto the voice of the boy where he is. ¹⁸Arise lift up the boy, and hold him up with thy hand,—for, a great nation, will I make him. ¹⁹And God opened her eyes, and she saw a well of water,—and went and filled the skin with water, and gave drink unto the boy ²⁰And it came to pass that God was with the boy, and he grew,—and dwelt in the desert, and he became as he grew up, an archer, ²¹And he dwelt in the desert of Paran,—and his mother took him a wife out of the land of Egypt. ²²And it came to pass at that time, that Abimelech, with Phicol chieftain of his host, spake unto Abraham, saying,—God, is with thee in all that, thou art doing. ²³Now, therefore, swear to me by God, here, that thou wilt not deal falsely by me, nor by mine offspring, nor by my descendants,—according to the lovingkindness wherewith I have dealt with thee, shalt thou deal with me, and with the land wherein thou hast sojourned. ²⁴And Abraham said, I, will swear. ²⁵But Abraham reproved Abimelech,—on account of the well of water, which the servants of Abimelech had seized. ²⁶And Abimelech said, I know not, who hath done this thing,—nor hast even thou, ever told me, nor have even I, ever heard, save to-day. ²⁷And Abraham took sheep and oxen, stud gave to Abimelech,—and they two solemnised a covenant ²⁸So then Abram set seven young sheep of the flock by them-selves, ²⁹And Abimelech said unto Abraham, What, then mean these seven young sheep here, which thou hast set by themselves? ³⁰And he said, The seven young sheep, shalt thou take at my hand,—that they may serve as my witness, that I digged this well. ³¹On this account, was the name of that place called Beer-sheba,—because there, had they two sworn. ³²And when they had solemnised a covenant in Beer-sheba,—then arose Abimelech, with Phicol chief of his host, and returned unto the land of the Philistines. ³³Then planted he a tamarisk tree in Beer-sheba,—and called there on the name of Yahweh the age-abiding GOD. ³⁴So Abraham sojourned in the land of the Philistines many days.

22And it came to pass after these things, that God, did prove Abraham,—and he said unto him, Abraham! And he said Behold me! ²And he said—Take, I pray thee, thy son, thine only one, whom thou lovest, even, Isaac, and get thee into the land of Moriah and cause him to ascend there as an ascending-sacrifice, on one of the mountains which I shall name unto thee. ³So Abraham rose early in the morning, and saddled his ass, and took his two young men with him, and Isaac his son, and clave the pieces of wood for an ascending-sacrifice, and mounted and went his way unto the place which God had named to him. ⁴It was, on the third day, that Abraham lifted up his eyes, and saw the place afar off. ⁵And Abraham said unto his young men—Tarry by yourselves here with the ass, but I and the young man must go yonder,—that we may bow ourselves down and return unto you. ⁶So Abraham took the pieces of wood for the ascending-sacrifice, and laid them on Isaac his son, and took in his own hand the fire and the knife, and they went on their way, both of them together. ⁷Then said Isaac unto Abraham his father, then said he; My father! And he said, Behold me, my son, And he said, Behold the fire, and the pieces of wood,—but where is the lamb, for an ascending-sacrifice? ⁸And Abraham said, God, will provide for himself the lamb for an ascending-sacrifice, my son! So they went on their way, both of them, together. ⁹Then came they into the place which God had named to him, and Abraham built there the altar, and aid in order the pieces of wood, and bound Isaac his son, and laid him on the altar, above the pieces of wood. ¹⁰And Abraham put forth his hand, and took the knife,—to slay his son. ¹¹Then called out unto him the messenger of Yahweh out of the heavens, and said. Abraham, Abraham! And he said Behold me! ¹²Then he said, Do not put forth thy hand unto the young man, neither do to him—anything at all,—for, now, know I that one who reverest God, thou art, when thou hast not withheld thy son, thine only one, from me. ¹³And Abraham lifted up his eyes and looked, and lo! a ram, behind, caught in a thicket by his horns, and Abraham went, and took the ram, and caused him to ascend as an ascending-sacrifice instead of his son. ¹⁴So Abraham called the name of that place Yahweh,—as to which it is still said to-day, In the mountain of Yahweh, will provision be made. ¹⁵Then called out the messenger of Yahweh unto Abraham,—a second time out of the heavens; ¹⁶and said, By myself, have I sworn is the oracle of Yahweh,—Because thou hast done this thing, and hast not withheld thy son, thine only one, ¹⁷That I will, richly bless, thee, and, abundantly multiply, thy seed, as the stars of the heavens, and as the sand which is on the lip of the sea,—that thy seed may take possession of the gate of his foes: ¹⁸So shall all the nations of the earth bless themselves in thy seed,—Because thou didst hearken unto my voice. ¹⁹So Abraham returned unto his young men, and they mounted, and went on their way together unto Beer-sheba,—and Abraham dwelt in Beer-sheba. ²⁰And it came to pass after these things, that it was told Abraham, saying,—Behold! Milcah—she also, hath borne sons, to Nahor thy brother: ²¹Uz his first-born and Buz his brother,—and Kemuel, father of Aram—²²and Chesed and Hazo, and Pildash, and Jidlaph,—and Bethuel; ²³And, Bethuel, hath begotten Rebekah,—These eight, hath Milcah borne to Nahor brother of Abraham. ²⁴And his concubine, whose name was Reumah, she also, hath borne Tebah and Gaham, and Tahash, and Maacah.

23And the life of Sarah came to be, a hundred and twenty-seven years,—the years of the life of Sarah. ²And Sarah died in Kiriath-arba, the same, is Hebron in the land of Canaan,—and Abraham went in to wail for Sarah and to weep for her. ³And Abraham rose up from over the face of his dead,—and spake unto the sons of Heth, saying; ⁴A sojourner and settler, am I with you,—Give me a possession of a buryingplace with you, That I may bury my dead, from before me. ⁵And the sons of Heth answered Abraham, saying to him: ⁶Hear us, my lord! A prince of God, art thou in our midst, In the choice of our burying-places, bury thy dead,—Not, a man from among us his, burying-place, will withhold from thee, from burying thy dead. ⁷And Abraham rose up, and bowed himself down to the people of the land, to the sons of Heth; ⁸and spake with them, saying,—If it is with the consent of your minds that I should bury my dead from before me, hear me, and intercede for me, with Ephron son of Zohar: ⁹That he would give me, the cave of Machpelah, which pertaineth unto him, which is within the bounds of his field,—For full silver, let him give it me in your midst, For a possession of a buryingplace. ¹⁰Now, Ephron, was sitting in the midst of the sons of Heth,—so Ephron the Hittite responded to Abraham, in the ears of the sons of Heth, even all that were entering the gate of his city, saying: ¹¹Nay, my lord, hear me, The field, have I given to thee And, the cave that is therein, to thee, have I given it,—In the eyes of the sons of my people, have I given it thee Bury thy dead. ¹²So Abraham boweth himself down, before the people of the land: ¹³and spake unto Ephron in the ears of the people of the land saying, Only if, thou, wouldst, hear me,—I have given the silver of the field Take it of me, That I may bury my dead here. ¹⁴And Ephron responded to Abraham, saying to him, ¹⁵My lord, hear me,—Land worth four hundred shekels of silver—betwixt me and thee, what is that? And thy dead., bur. thou. ¹⁶And Abraham hearkened unto Ephron, and Abraham weighed out to Ephron the silver of which he had spoken in the ears of the sons of Heth,—four hundred shekels of silver, current with the merchant, ¹⁷So was con-firmed the field of Ephron, which is in Machpelah, which is before Mamre,—the field and the cave which is therein, and all the timber which was in the field, which was in all the boundary thereof round about, ¹⁸to Abraham as a purchase in the eyes of the sons of Heth,—with all who were entering the gate of his city. ¹⁹And after this, did Abraham bury Sarah his wife, within the cave of the field of Machpelah, over against Mamre, the same, is Hebron,—in the land of Canaan. ²⁰So was confirmed the field with the cave which was therein to Abraham, for a possession of a buryingplace,—from the sons of Heth.

²⁴Now, Abraham, was old, far gone in days,—and, Yahweh, had blessed Abraham, in all things. ²So Abraham said unto his servant, elder of his house, ruler of all that he had,—Place, I pray thee thy hand under my thigh; ³that I may put thee on oath, by Yahweh God of the heavens and God of the earth—That thou wilt not take a wife for my son, from among the daughters of the Canaanites in the midst of whom, I, am dwelling: ⁴but unto my own land and unto my own kindred, wilt go,—So shalt thou take a wife for my son—for Isaac. ⁵And the servant said unto him, Peradventure the woman may not be willing to follow me into this land,—May I take back thy son, into the land from whence thou earnest? ⁶And Abraham said unto him,—Beware that thou do not take back my son thither! ⁷Yahweh, God of the heavens, and God of the earth, who took me out of the house of my father, and out of the land of my kindred, and, who spake to me, and who sware to me, saying, To thy seed, will I give this land, he, will send his messenger before thee, so shalt then take a wife for my son from thence. ⁸But if unwilling be the woman to follow thee, then shalt thou be clear from this mine oath,—Only my son, shalt thou not take back thither ⁹So the servant placed his hand, under the thigh of Abraham, his lord,—and sware to him, over this thing. ¹⁰Then took the servant ten camels, from among the camels of his lord, and went his way,—all the goods of his master being in his hand,—so be mounted, and went his way unto Mesopotamia, unto the city of Nahor. ¹¹And he made the camels kneel down outside the city, against the well of water,—at the time of evening, at the time of the coming forth of the women that drew water, ¹²Then he said, O Yahweh, God of my lord Abraham! I pray thee cause it to fall out before me today, that thou deal in lovingkindness with my lord Abraham. ¹³Here am, I, stationed by the fountain of water,—and, the daughters of the men of the city, are coming forth to draw water: ¹⁴so it shall come to pass that the young woman unto whom I shall say. Let down pray. thy pitcher that I may drink, and she shall say, Drink, and to thy camels also, will I give to drink, that, her! hast thou appointed for thy servant for Isaac, And, hereby, shall I get to know, that thou hast dealt in lovingkindness with my lord! ¹⁵And it came to pass, ere yet, he, had done speaking, that lo! Rebekah, was coming forth who had been born to Bethuel son of Milcah, wife of Nahor, brother of Abraham,—with her pitcher upon her shoulder, ¹⁶Now the young woman! was of very pleasing appearance, a virgin whom, no man, had known,—and she went down unto the fountain, and filled her pitcher and came up. ¹⁷And the servant ran to meet her,—and said, I pray thee let me drink a little water out of thy pitcher. ¹⁸And she said, Drink my lord,—And she hastened and lowered her pitcher on her hand and let him drink. ¹⁹And when she had done giving him drink,—she said For thy camels also, will I draw, until they have done drinking. ²⁰So she hastened and emptied her pitcher into the drinking-trough, and ran again unto the well, to draw,—and she drew for all his camels. ²¹Now the man, was eagerly watching her,—keeping silence to see—whether Yahweh had prospered his way., or not. ²²And it came to pass when the camels had done drinking, that the man took a ring of gold, half a shekel its weight,—and two bracelets for her hands, ten of gold their weight; ²³and said Whose daughter art, thou? I pray thee, tell me. Is there in the house of thy father a place for us to tarry the night? ²⁴And she said unto him, Daughter of Bethuel, am, I,— Bethuel son of Milcah whom she bare to Nahor. ²⁵And she said unto him, Both straw and fodder in plenty, have we,—also a place to tarry the night. ²⁶Then the man bowed his head, and bent himself down unto Yahweh; ²⁷and said, Blessed be Yahweh. God of my lord Abraham, who hath not withdrawn his lovingkindness and his faithfulness, from my lord,—I—being in the way, Yahweh led me unto the house of the brethren of my lord! ²⁸And the young woman ran, and told the household of her mother,—according to these words. ²⁹Now, Rebekah, had a brother, whose name, was Laban,—so Laban ran unto the man outside, unto the fountain. ³⁰And it came to pass, when he saw the ring, and the bracelets on the hands of his sister, and when he heard the words of Rebekah his sister saying, Thus, did the man speak unto me, that he came unto the man, and lo! he was standing by the camels near the fountain; ³¹and he said, Come in. thou blessed of Yahweh,—Wherefore shouldst thou stand outside, when I have made ready the house and a place for the camels? ³²So the man came in towards the house, and ungirded the camels,—and there was given him straw and fodder for the camels, and water for bathing his own feet and the feet of the men who were with him; ³³and food was set before him to eat, But he said, I cannot eat, until I have spoken my words. And he said—Speak! ³⁴Then said he,—Servant of Abraham, am I. ³⁵Now, Yahweh, having blessed my lord exceedingly, and made him great,—and given him flocks and herds and silver and gold, and men-servants and maid-servants, and camels, and asses, ³⁶then did Sarah wife of my lord, bear a son to my lord, after she had become old,—so he gave to him all that he had; ³⁷And my lord put me on oath saying,—Thou shalt not take a wife for my son, of the daughters of the Canaanites in whose land, I, am dwelling; ³⁸but, unto the house of my father, shalt thou go, and unto my family,—and take a wife for my son. ³⁹So I said unto my lord,—Peradventure the woman will not follow me. ⁴⁰And he said unto me,—Yahweh, before whom I have walked to and fro, will send his messenger with thee, so shall he prosper thy way, and thou shalt take a wife for my son out of my kindred and out of the house of my father. ⁴¹Then, shalt thou clear thyself from mine oath, for thou shalt go in unto my kindred,—and, if they will not grant her unto thee, then shalt thou be clear from mine oath. ⁴²So I came in to-day, unto the fountain,—and I said O Yahweh God of my lord Abraham! if, I pray thee thou art prospering my way whereon am going, ⁴³here, am I stationed by the fountain of water,—so then it shall come to pass that, the maiden that is coming forth to draw, and I shall say unto her Let me drink. I pray thee a little water out of thy pitcher; ⁴⁴and she shall say unto me Both, thou, drink, and for thy camels also, will I draw, the same, shall be the woman whom Yahweh hath appointed for the son of my lord. ⁴⁵Ere yet, I, could make an end of speaking unto mine own heart, lo! then Rebekah, coming forth, with her pitcher on her shoulder, and she went down to the fountain, and drew,—and I said unto her Let me drink I pray thee! ⁴⁶So she hastened and lowered her pitcher from off her, and said. Drink! and to thy camels also, will I give to drink,—So I drank and the camels also, she let drink. ⁴⁷Then I asked her, and said, Whose daughter art thou? And she said Daughter of

Bethuel son of Nahor, whom, Milcah, bare to him,—Then put I the ring upon her nose, and the bracelets upon her hands; ⁴⁸and bowed my head and bent myself down unto Yahweh,—and I blessed Yahweh God of my lord Abraham, who had led me in a way of faithfulness, to take the daughter of the brother of my lord for his son. ⁴⁹Now, therefore, if ye are dealing in lovingkindness and faithfulness with my lord, tell me,—and, if not, tell me, that I may turn unto the right hand or unto the left. ⁵⁰Then answered Laban and Bethuel and said, from Yahweh, hath come forth the word,—we cannot speak unto thee ill or well. ⁵¹Go! Rebekah, is before thee, Take her and go thy way,—And let her become wife unto the son of thy lord, as Yahweh hath spoken. ⁵²And it came to pass when Abraham's servant heard their words, that he bowed himself down towards the earth unto Yahweh. ⁵³Then the servant brought forth jewels of silver and jewels of gold and raiment, and gave unto Rebekah,—and precious things, gave he to her brother and to her mother. ⁵⁴And they did eat and drink he, and the men who were with him, and they tarried the night,—and when they arose in the morning, he said Let me go unto my lord! ⁵⁵Then said her brother and her mother, Let the young woman remain with us some days or rather ten,—After that, she shall go. ⁵⁶And he said unto them, Do not hinder me, when, Yahweh, hath prospered my journey,—Let me go, that I may take my journey unto my lord! ⁵⁷Then said they, We must call the young woman and ask at her mouth. ⁵⁸So they called Rebekah and said unto her, Wilt thou go with this man? And she said, I will go. ⁵⁹So they let go Rebekah their sister, and her nurse, and Abraham's servant and his men. ⁶⁰And they blessed Rebekah and said to her, Our sister! become thou, thousands of ten thousands,—And let thy seed take possession of the gate of them that hate them! ⁶¹Then mounted Rebekah and her young woman and they rode upon the camels, and followed the man,—so the servant took Rebekah. and went his way. ⁶²Now, Isaac, had come in at the entrance, of Beer-lahai-roi,—for, he, was dwelling in the land of the South: ⁶³and Isaac came forth to meditate in the field at the approach of evening,—so he lifted up his eyes and looked, and lo! camels, coming in. ⁶⁴And Rebekah lifted up her eyes, and saw Isaac,—so she alighted with haste from off the camel; ⁶⁵and said unto the servant, Who is this man that is walking in the field to meet us? And the servant said, That, is my lord. So she took the veil and covered herself. ⁶⁶And the servant recounted to Isaac,—all the things which he had done. ⁶⁷And Isaac brought her into the tent of Sarah his mother; thus he took Rebekah and she became his wife and he loved her,—and Isaac consoled himself, for the loss of his mother.

25And Abraham took another wife and her name, was Keturah; ²and she bare to him Zimran, and Yokshan, and Medan, and Midian,—and Ishbak, and Shuah. ³And, Yokshan, begat Sheba and Dedan,—and, the sons of Dedan, were Asshurim and Letushim, and Leummim. ⁴And the sons of Midian, Ephah and Ephraim and Hanoch, and Abida. and Eldaah,—all these, were the sons of Keturah. ⁵And Abraham gave all that he had to Isaac; ⁶but, to the sons of the concubines whom Abraham had, Abraham gave gifts,—and then sent them away from Isaac his son while he himself yet lived, eastward unto the land of the east. ⁷Now, these, are the days of the years of the life of Abraham which he lived—a hundred and seventy-five years. ⁸So Abraham breathed his last, and died in a fine old age, old and satisfied,—and was gathered unto his people, ⁹And Isaac and Ishmael his sons buried him, in the cave of Machpelah,—in the field of Ephron son of Zohar the Hittite, which is over against Mamre; ¹⁰the field which Abraham purchased of the sons of Heth,—there, was buried Abraham, with Sarah his wife. ¹¹And it came to pass after the death of Abraham, that God blessed Isaac his son,—and Isaac dwelt by Beer-lahai-roi. ¹²Now, these, are the generations of Ishmael son of Abraham,—whom Hagar the Egyptian woman the handmaid of Sarah bare to Abraham; ¹³and these, are the names of the sons of Ishmael, by their names after their generations,—the firstborn of Ishmael, Nebaioth, and Kedar and Adbeel and Mibsam; ¹⁴and Mishma and Dumah, and Massa; ¹⁵Ha-dad, and Tema, Jetur, Naphish, and Kedemah: ¹⁶these, same, are the sons of Ishmael and these, their names, by their villages and by their encampments,—twelve princes, after their tribes. ¹⁷And these, are the years of the life of Ishmael, a hundred and thirty-seven years,—and he breathed his last and died, and was gathered unto his people. ¹⁸And they stretched their habitations from Havilah as far as to Shur, which is over against Egypt, as thou goest in towards Assyria,—over against all his brethren, he settled down. ¹⁹And, these, are the generations of Isaac, son of Abraham,—Abraham, begat Isaac; ²⁰and it came to pass that, Isaac, was forty years old, when he took Rebekah daughter of Bethuel the Syrian, of the Plain of Syria,—sister of Laban the Syrian. to himself to wife. ²¹So then Isaac made entreaty unto Yahweh in behalf of his wife, for she was, barren,—and Yahweh suffered himself to be entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. ²²And the sons within her struggled together, so she said—If so, wherefore now am, I, thus? And she went to seek Yahweh. ²³And Yahweh said to her. Two nations, are in thy womb, And two races, from thy body, shall be parted,—And, one race, shall be stronger, than the other race, And the elder, shall serve the younger. ²⁴Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth,—and lo! twins in her womb. ²⁵And the first came forth red, all over, as a mantle of hair,—so they called his name, Esau, ²⁶And, after that, came forth his brother with his hand fast hold of the heel of Esau, so they called his name Jacob—Now, Isaac, was sixty years old when she bare them, ²⁷And when the youths grew up, it came to pass that Esau was a man skilled in game a man of the field,—but, Jacob, was a ready man, dwelling in tents. ²⁸And, Isaac, loved, Esau, because of the game he put in his mouth,—but, Rebekah, was a lover of Jacob! ²⁹And Jacob had boiled pottage,—when Esau came in from the field, he, being famished. ³⁰So Esau said unto Jacob. Do let me devour some of the red—this red, for, famished, I am. For this cause, was his name called Edom. ³¹And Jacob said,—Come sell, just now, thy birthright unto me. ³²And Esau said, Here am I, on the point of dying,—wherefore, then, should I, have, a birthright? ³³And Jacob said, Come swear to me just now! And he swore to him,—and sold his birthright to Jacob. ³⁴And Jacob, having given to Esau bread and a dish of lentils, he did eat and drink and rose up, and went his way,—thus Esau despised his birthright!

26And there came to be a famine in the land, besides the first famine which happened in the days of Abraham,—so Isaac went his way unto Abimelech, king of the Philistines towards Gerar; ²and Yahweh appeared unto him, and said, do not go down towards Egypt,—Make thy habitation in the land, which I may name unto thee: ³Sojourn in this land, that I may be with thee and bless thee,—for, to thee, and to thy seed, will I give all these lands, So will I establish the oath which I swore to Abraham thy father; ⁴and will multiply thy seed as the stars of the heavens, and will give to thy seed, all these lands,—And all the nations of the earth shall bless themselves in thy seed: ⁵Because that Abraham hearkened unto my voice,—and so kept my charge, my commandments my statutes and my laws. ⁶So Isaac dwelt in Gerar. ⁷Then asked the men of the place as to his wife, and he said, My sister, is she,—For he feared to say My wife, lest said he the men of the place should slay me on account of Rebekah, for fair to Nook on, she is. ⁸And it came to pass when the days had lengthened out to him there, that Abimelech king of the Philistines, looked out through the lattice of a window,—and he beheld and lo! Isaac—laughing with Rebekah his wife. ⁹So Abimelech called for Isaac, and said, But to she is, thy wife! How then, saidst thou, She is, my sister? And Isaac said unto him, Because, I said, Lest I die on her account. ¹⁰Then, said, Abimelech, What is this thou hast done to us? A little more, and one of the people might have lien with thy wife, so shouldst thou have brought upon us, guilt. ¹¹And Abimelech commanded all the people saying,—He that toucheth this man or his wife, shall surely be put to death ¹²And Isaac sowed in that land, and found in the same year, a hundredfold,—seeing that Yahweh had blessed him. ¹³So the man waxed great,—and went on and on waxing great until that he had waxed exceeding great. ¹⁴So he came to have possessions of flocks gild possessions of herds, and a large body of servants,—and the Philistines envied him. ¹⁵And as for all the wells which the servants of his father digged, in the days of Abraham his father, the Philistines stepped them up, and filled them with dust. ¹⁶And Abimelech said unto Isaac,—Get thee from us, for thou hast become far mightier than we. ¹⁷So Isaac went from thence,—and encamped in the valley of Gerar, and dwelt there. ¹⁸And Isaac again digged the wells of water which they had digged in the days of Abraham his father, and which the Philistines stopped up after the death of Abraham,—and he called their names, after the names which his father called them. ¹⁹And Isaac's servants digged in the valley,—and found there a well of living water. ²⁰And the herdmen of Gerar disputed with the herdmen of Isaac saying, Ours, is thee, water! So he called the name of the well Esek, because they had stirred up a quarrel with him. ²¹And they digged another well, and they disputed over that also,—so he called the name thereof Sitnah. ²²And he moved on from thence and digged another well, and they disputed not for it,—so he called the name thereof. Rehoboth, and said, For, now, hath Yahweh made room for us, and we shall be fruitful in the land. ²³And he went up from thence, to Beer-sheba. ²⁴And Yahweh appeared unto him the same night, and said, I, am the God of Abraham thy father,—Do not fear for with thee, am, I, And I will bless thee and multiply thy seed, For the sake of Abraham my servant. ²⁵So he builded there all altar and called on the name of Yahweh, and spread out there, his rent,—and the servants of Isaac cut out there a well. ²⁶And, Abimelech, came unto him from Gerar, with Ahuzzath his friend, and Phicol, commander of his host. ²⁷And Isaac said unto them, Wherefore have ye come in mite me, seeing that, ye, hated me, and sent me away from you? ²⁸And they said: We, saw plainly, that Yahweh was with thee, so we said, Let there be we pray thee an oath betwixt us both, betwixt us and thee,—and let us solemnise a covenant with thee:— ²⁹That, thou wilt not do wrong by us, according as we touched not thee, and according as we did by thee nothing but good, and then sent thee away in peace, thee who, now, art blessed of Yahweh! ³⁰So he made for them a banquet, and they did eat and drink,— ³¹and rose up early in the morning, and took an oath each man to his brother, so Isaac let them go, and they departed from him in peace. ³²And it came to pass, on the same day, that the servants of Isaac came in, and told him concerning the well which they had digged, and said to him, We have found water! ³³So he called it, Shibah. For this cause, hath the name of the city, been Beer-sheba, unto this day. ³⁴And when Esau was forty years old, he took to wife Judith, daughter of Beeri. the Hittite; and Basemath, daughter of Elon, the Hittite; ³⁵and they became a bitterness of spirit, to Isaac and to Rebekah.

27 And it came to pass that Isaac, was old, and his eyes became too dim to see, so he called Esau his elder son and said unto him My son! And he said unto him, Behold me!

²And he said, Behold, I pray thee, I am old,—I know not the day of my death. ³Now, therefore, take I pray thee, thy weapons, thy quiver and thy bow, and go out to the field, and catch for me game; ⁴and make for me dainty meats, such as I love and bring in to me, that I may eat,—To the end my soul may bless thee, ere yet I lie! ⁵Now, Rebekah, was hearkening, when Isaac spake unto Esau his son, and Esau went his way to the field, to catch game, to bring in. ⁶Rebekah, therefore spake unto Jacob her son saying,—Lo! I heard thy father, speaking unto Esau thy brother, saying, ⁷Bring in for me gains and make for me dainty meats, that I may eat; and let me bless thee in the presence of Yahweh before my death. ⁸Now, therefore my son, hearken unto my voice,—in that which I am commanding thee: ⁹Go, I pray thee, unto the flock, and fetch me from thence two kids of the goats, fine ones,—that I may make of them dainty meats for thy father such as he loveth: ¹⁰Then shalt thou take them in unto thy father and he shall eat,—To the end he may bless thee before his death. ¹¹And Jacob said unto Rebekah his mother, Lo! Esau my brother, is a hairy man, whereas, I, am a smooth man: ¹²peradventure my father might feel me, then should I be in his eyes as one that mocketh,—and should bring upon myself a reproach, and not a blessing! ¹³And his mother said to him, Upon me, be thy reproach my son,—only hearken unto my voice and go fetch them for me. ¹⁴So he went, and fetched them, and brought them in to his mother, and his mother made dainty meats, such as his father loved. ¹⁵Then took Rebekah the garments of Esau her elder son, the costly ones, which were with her in the house,—and put them on Jacob her younger son: ¹⁶and the, skins of the kids of the goats, put she upon his hands,—and on the smooth part of his neck; ¹⁷then placed she the dainty meats and the bread, which she had made ready, in the hand of Jacob her son. ¹⁸So he went in unto his father, and said My father! And he said Behold me! who art, thou, my son? ¹⁹And Jacob said unto his father I, am Esau thy firstborn, I have made ready, as thou didst bid me. Rise, I pray thee, sit up, and eat thou of my game, To the end thy soul may bless me. ²⁰Then said Isaac unto his son. How is it thou hast been so quick in finding, my son? And he said, Because Yahweh thy God caused it so to fall out before me. ²¹Then said Isaac unto Jacob. Come near, I pray thee, that I may feel thee my son—whether, thou thyself, art my son Esau, or not. ²²So Jacob came near unto Isaac his father, and he felt him; then said he the voice is the voice of Jacob; But, the hands, are the hands of Esau. ²³So he did not find him out, because, his hands were like the hands of Esau his brother hairy,—so he blessed him. ²⁴And he said, Thou thyself, art my son Esau? And he said, I am! ²⁵So he said, Bring it near to me., that I may eat of the game of my son, To the end my soul may bless thee. And he brought it near to him, and he did eat, and he brought in to him wine, and he drank. ²⁶Then Isaac his father said unto him,—

Come thou near I pray thee and kiss me my son. ²⁷So he came near, and kissed him, and he smelled the smell of his garments and blessed him,—and said. See! the smell of my son, As the smell of a field, which Yahweh hath blessed; ²⁸Then, may God give thee of the dew of the heavens, And of the fatness of the earth,—And abundance of corn and new wine: ²⁹Let peoples serve thee And races bow down to thee, Become thou lord to thy brethren, And let the sons of thy mother bow down to thee,—He that curseth thee, be accursed! And he that blesseth thee, be blessed! ³⁰And it came to pass as soon as Isaac had made an end of blessing Jacob,—yea it came to pass when Jacob, had only just gone forth, from the presence of Isaac his father, that Esau his brother, came in from his hunting. ³¹Then, he too, made dainty meats, and brought in to his father,—and said to his father, Let my father rise that he may eat of the game of his son, To the end thy soul may bless me! ³²And Isaac his father said to him Who art, thou? And he said, I, am thy son thy firstborn, Esau. ³³Then did Isaac tremble with an exceeding great trembling, and said Who then was it that caught game and brought in to me and I did eat of all ere yet thou didst come in and I blessed him? Yea blessed, shall he remain! ³⁴When Esau heard the words of his father, then cried he out with an outcry loud and bitter exceedingly,—and said to his father, Bless even me also, O my father! ³⁵Then he said, Thy brother came in with deceit,—and took away thy blessing. ³⁶And he said, Is it because his name, is called, Jacob, that he hath tricked me, now twice? My birthright, he took away, And lo! now, he hath taken away my blessing! And he said, Hast thou not reserved for me a blessing? ³⁷Then answered Isaac and said to Esau,—Lo a lord, have I appointed him unto thee, And, all his brethren, have I given to him as servants, And with corn and new wine, have I sustained him,—And for thee—now, what can I do, my son? ³⁸And Esau said unto his father, But one blessing, hast thou, O my father? Bless, me also, O my father! And Esau lifted up his voice and wept. ³⁹Then answered Isaac his father and said unto him,—Lo! of the fat parts of the earth, shall be thy dwelling, And of the dew of the heavens, above; ⁴⁰And on thy sword, shalt thou live, And thy brother, shalt thou serve: But it shall come to pass when thou shalt rove at large, Then shalt thou break his yoke from off thy neck. ⁴¹And Esau lay in wait for Jacob, on account of the blessing wherewith his father had blessed him,—and Esau said in his heart, The days of mourning for my father draw near, when I can slay Jacob my brother. ⁴²Then were told to Rebekah, the words of Esau her elder son, so she sent and called for Jacob, her younger son, and said unto him—Lo! Esau, thy brother, is consoling himself as touching thee, to slay thee. ⁴³Now, therefore, my son, hearken to my voice,—and rise flee thou to Laban my brother to Haran; ⁴⁴And thou shalt dwell with him a few days,—until that the wrath of thy brother turn away:

⁴⁵until the turning away of the anger of thy brother from thee, and he forget what thou hast done to him, and I send and fetch thee from thence. Wherefore should I lose, you both, in one day? ⁴⁶So then Rebekah said unto Isaac, I am disgusted with my life because of the daughters of Heth,—Should Jacob be taking a wife of the daughters of Heth, like these, of the daughters of the land, wherefore could I wish for life?

²⁸Then Isaac called Jacob, and blessed him,—and commanded him and said to him, Thou shalt not take a wife of the daughters of Canaan. ²Rise, go thy way to Padan-aram to the house of Bethuel, thy mothers father,—and take thee from thence a wife, of the daughters of Laban, thy mothers brother. ³And, GOD Almighty, bless thee, and make thee fruitful, and multiply thee, so shalt thou become a multitude of peoples. ⁴And may he give thee the blessing of Abraham, to thee, and to thy seed with thee,—that thou mayest possess the land of thy sojournings, which God gave to Abraham. ⁵So Isaac sent away Jacob, and he took his journey to Padan-aram,—unto Laban son of Bethuel, the Syrian, brother of Rebekah, mother of Jacob and Esau. ⁶And Esau beheld that Isaac, when he blessed Jacob, and sent him to Padan-aram, to take to himself from thence a wife, that in blessing him, he laid command upon him, saying, Thou shalt not take a wife of the daughters of Canaan; ⁷And that Jacob hearkened unto his father and unto his mother,—and took his journey to Padan-aram. ⁸So then Esau beheld that displeasing, were the daughters of Caanan,—in the eyes of Isaac his father: ⁹Esau therefore went unto Ishmael,—and took Mahalath daughter of Ishmael son of Abraham sister of Nebaioth, to himself to wife, in addition to the wives that he had. ¹⁰So Jacob went forth from Beer-sheba, and journeyed towards Haran. ¹¹And he lighted on a place, and tarried the night there, because the sun had gone in,—and he took of the stones of the place, and put for his pillow, and lay down in that place, ¹²And he dreamed, and lo! a stairway, planted earthwards, with, its top, reaching towards the heavens,—and lo! messengers of God, ascending and descending thereon; ¹³and lo! Yahweh, standing by him,—and he said, I, am Yahweh, God of Abraham thy father and God of Isaac,—The land whereon, thou, art lying, to thee, will I give it and to thy seed; ¹⁴And thy seed shall become as the dust of the earth, and thou shalt break forth westward and eastward, and northward and southward,—And all the families of the ground shall be blessed in thee and in thy seed. ¹⁵Lo! then, I, am with thee, so will I keep thee in every place whithersoever thou mayest go, and will bring thee back unto this soil,—For I will not forsake thee until I have done that of which I have spoken to thee. ¹⁶And Jacob awoke from his sleep, and said. Surely, Yahweh was in this place, And I, knew it not. ¹⁷And he feared and said, How fearful is this place! None other this, than the house of God! Nor this than the gate of the heavens ¹⁸So Jacob rose early in the morning, and took the stone which he halt lint for his pillow, and put it for a pillar,—and poured out oil upon the top thereof; ¹⁹and called the name of that place—Beth-el,—nevertheless, Luz, was the name of the city, aforetime. ²⁰And Jacob vowed a vow, saying,—If God will be with me, and will keep me in this way whereon, I, am going, and give me bread to eat and raiment to put on; ²¹and I come back in prosperity unto the house of my father, Then will Yahweh prove to be my God,— ²²And, this stone which I have put for a pillar, shall be the house of God,—And, of all which thou shalt give me, a tenth, will I tithe unto thee.

29Then Jacob lifted up his feet,—and went his way towards the land of the sons of the East. ²And he looked, and lo! a well, in the field and lo! there, three flocks of sheep, lying down near it, for out of that well, do they water the flocks, but, the stone, is great, on the mouth of the well: ³so they gather together thither all the flocks, and roll away the stone from off the mouth of the well, and water the sheep,—and put hack the stone upon the mouth of the well, to its place. ⁴And Jacob said to them, My brethren, whence are ye? And they said: From haran, are we. ⁵And he said to them, Know ye Laban, son of Nahor? And they said, We know him. ⁶And he said to them, Is it well with him. And they said, Well, but lo! Rachel his daughter, coming in with the sheep. ⁷And he said Lo! the day is yet high, it is not time for gathering together the cattle,—water the sheep, and go feed. ⁸And they said, We cannot, until that all the flocks are gathered together, and they roll away the stone, from off the mouth of the well,—and then can we water the sheep. ⁹While yet he was speaking with them, Rachel, had come in with the sheep which belonged to her father, for a shepherdess, was she. ¹⁰And it came to pass when Jacob saw Rachel daughter of Laban, his mothers brother, and the sheep of Laban, his mothers brother, that Jacob went near, and rolled away the stone from off the mouth of the well, and watered the sheep of Laban his mother's brother, ¹¹And Jacob kissed Rachel,—and lifted up his voice, and wept. ¹²And when Jacob told Rachel that he was her father's brother, and that he was Rebekah's son, then ran she, and told her father. ¹³And it came to pass when Laban heard the tidings of Jacob his sisters son, that he ran to meet him, and embraced him, and fondly kissed him, and brought him into his house,—when he recounted to Laban all these things. ¹⁴And Laban said to him, Surely, my bone and my flesh, art thou. So he abode with him a month of days. ¹⁵Then said Laban to Jacob, Is it because my brother, thou art, that thou shouldst serve me for naught? Come tell me! What shall be thy wages? ¹⁶Now, Laban, had two daughters,—the name of the elder, Leah, and the name of the younger, Rachel, ¹⁷But, the eyes of Leah were weak,—whereas, Rachel, was comely in form and comely in countenance. ¹⁸So Jacob loved Rachel,—and he said, I will serve thee seven years, for Rachel thy younger daughter. ¹⁹And Laban said, Better that I give her to thee, than that I should give her to another man,—Abide with me! ²⁰So Jacob served for Rachel—seven years,—and they became, in his eyes, as single days, for his love to her. ²¹Then said Jacob unto Laban: Come give me my wife, for fulfilled are my days,—that I may go in unto her. ²²So Laban gathered together all the men of the place and made a banquet, ²³And it came to pass in the evening, that he took Leah his daughter and brought her in unto him,—and he went in unto her. ²⁴And Laban gave her Zilpah, his handmaid, unto Leah his daughter. as handmaid. ²⁵And it came to pass in the morning, that lo! it was Leah,—and he said unto Laban, What is this thou hast done to me? Was it not, for Rachel, I served with thee? Wherefore then hast thou deceived me? ²⁶And Laban said, It must not be done so in our place,—to give the later-born before the firstborn. ²⁷Fulfil the week of this one,—then must we give thee, the other one also, for the service wherewith thou shalt serve with me, yet seven years more. ²⁸And Jacob did so, and fulfilled the week of this one,—and he gave him Rachel his daughter—to him to wife. ²⁹And Laban gave to Rachel his daughter Bilhah his handmaid,—to be hers as a handmaid. ³⁰So he went in, unto Rachel also, and loved, Rachel also, more than Leah,—and he served with him, yet seven years more. ³¹And, when Yahweh saw that Leah was hated, he granted her to bear children,—whereas, Rachel, was barren. ³²So Leah conceived, and hare a son, and called his name Reuben,—for she said, Because, Yahweh hath looked upon my humiliation, For, now, will my husband love me. ³³And she conceived again, and bare a son, and said. Because Yahweh heard that, I, was I hated, he gave me, this one also. So she called his name Simeon. ³⁴And she conceived again and bare a son, and said, Now—this time, will my husband be bound unto me, For I have borne him three sons,—For this cause, called she his name Levi. ³⁵And she conceived again and bare a son, and said This time, will I praise Yahweh, For which cause, she called his name Judah. And she left off bearing.

30And Rachel saw she had borne no children unto Jacob, so Rachel became envious of her sister,—and said unto Jacob, Come! give me children, or else, I die. ²Then kindled the anger of Jacob with Rachel,—and he said, Am I, in the place of God, who hath withheld from thee the fruit of the womb? ³And she said, Lo! my handmaid, Bilhah. Go in unto her,—that she may hear upon my knees, so that, I also, may be builded up by her! ⁴And she gave him Bilhah her handmaid, to wife,—and Jacob went in unto her; ⁵and Bilhah conceived, and bare unto Jacob a son; ⁶and Rachel said God hath vindicated me. Moreover also he hath hearkened unto my voice, and hath given me a son. For this cause, called she his name Dan. ⁷And Bilhah, Rachel's handmaid conceived again, and bare a second son to Jacob. ⁸Then said Rachel With wrestlings of God, have I wrestled with my sister Yea I have prevailed. So she called his name, Naphtali. ⁹Then saw Leah, that she had left off bearing,—so she took Zilpah, her handmaid, and gave her to Jacob to wife. ¹⁰And Zilpah, Leah's handmaid, bare to Jacob a son: ¹¹and Leah said, Victory hath come! So she called his name Gad. ¹²And Zilpah, Leah's handmaid bare a second son to Jacob; ¹³and Leah said, For my happiness, surely happy have daughters pronounced me. So she called his name, Asher. ¹⁴Then went Reuben, in the days of the wheat harvest, and found mandrakes, in the field, and brought them in unto Leah his mother, and Rachel said unto Leah, Pray give me, stone of the mandrakes of thy son ¹⁵And she said to her, Is it, a small thing, that thou hast taken away my husband? And wouldst thou take away, even the mandrakes of my son? Then said Rachel, Therefore, shall he lie with thee to-night, for the mandrakes of thy son. ¹⁶And Jacob came in from the field, in the evening, so Leah went out to meet him and said: Unto me, shall thou come in, for I have hired, thee, even with the mandrakes of my son. And he lay with her that night, ¹⁷And God hearkened unto Leah,—and she conceived and bare to Jacob a fifth son. ¹⁸Then said Leah. God hath given my hire, in that I gave my handmaid to my husband. So she called his name, Issachar. ¹⁹And Leah conceived again and bare a sixth son to Jacob. ²⁰Then said Leah, God hath dowered me even me with a handsome dowry, Now! will my husband dwell with me, for I have borne him six sons. So she called his name, Zebulon. ²¹And afterwards she bare a daughter,—so she called her name, Dinah. ²²Then God remembered Rachel,—and God hearkened unto her, and granted her to bear. ²³So she conceived and bare a son,—and said, God hath taken away my reproach; ²⁴So she called his name Joseph, saying, Yahweh is adding unto me another son. ²⁵And it came to pass, when Rachel had borne Joseph, that Jacob said unto Laban, Let me go that I may take my journey, unto my place, and to my land. ²⁶Come, give me my wives and my children for whom I have served thee and let me take my journey,—for, thou, knowest my service wherewith I have served thee. ²⁷And Laban said unto him, If, I pray thee, I have found favour in thine eyes, ...I have divined that Yahweh hath blessed me for thy sake. ²⁸And he said,—Come, fix thy wages for me, that I may give it! ²⁹And he said unto him, Thou, knowest how I have served thee,—and how thy cattle have fared, with me. ³⁰For it was, little I that thou hadst—before I came and then it brake forth into multitude, and Yahweh blessed thee at my every step. Now, therefore, when am, I, also to do something for my own house? ³¹And he said, What shall I give thee? And Jacob said: Thou shall give me, nothing at all, If thou wilt do for me this thing, I will return, I will shepherd thy flock I will keep it: ³²Let me pass through all thy flock to-day, removing from thence every young one that is speckled and spotted and every young one that is dark-coloured among the young sheep, and spotted and speckled among the goats, and they shall be my wages. ³³And my righteousness shall answer for me on a future day, when thou shall come in respecting my hire that is before thee, Every one that is not speckled and spotted among the goats and dark-coloured among the young sheep, stolen, shall it be accounted, if found with me. ³⁴Then said Laban, Lo! would it might be according to thy word! ³⁵So he removed, on that day, the he-goats that were striped and spotted and all the she-goats that were speckled and spotted, every one that had white in it, and every dark-coloured one among the young sheep,—and delivered then into the hand of his sons; ³⁶then put he a journey of three days between himself and Jacob,—but, Jacob himself, continued tending the flocks of Laban that were left. ³⁷So then Jacob took him rods of young storax, and hazel and maple,—and peeled in them white stripes, laying bare the white which was on the rods. ³⁸And he set the rods which he had peeled, in the channels in the troughs of water,—where the flocks came in to drink straight before the flocks, and the females of the flock used to be in heat when they came in to drink; ³⁹and the males of the flock were in heat before the rods,—so the flocks brought forth ring-straked, speckled, and spotted. ⁴⁰The rams also, did Jacob separate, and then set the faces of the flocks towards the ring-straked and all the dark-coloured, among the flocks of Laban,—and he put his own droves by themselves, and put them not with the flocks of Laban. ⁴¹So it came to pass whensoever the stronger of the flocks were in heat, that Jacob set the rods before the eyes of the flocks in the channels,—that the females might be in heat among the rods; ⁴²but, when the flocks were late in bearing, he did not set them,—and so the late-born were Laban's, out the strong ones Jacob's. ⁴³Thus did the man break forth, exceedingly,—thus came he to have flocks in abundance, and maid-servants, and men-servants and camels and asses.

31Then heard he the words of the sons of Laban, saying, Jacob hath taken away all that belonged to our father; Yea out of what belonged to our father, hath he made all this wealth. ²And Jacob looked upon the face of Laban,—and lo! it was not with him as afore-time. ³Then said Yahweh unto Jacob, Return unto the land of thy fathers and to thy kindred,—that I may be with thee. ⁴So Jacob sent, and called for Rachel and for Leah, to the field unto his flock; ⁵and said to them, Beholding, am I the face of your father, that it is not towards me as aforetime,—nevertheless, the God of my father, hath been with me; ⁶and, ye, know that with all my vigour, have I served your father. ⁷But, your father, hath deceived me, and hath changed my wages ten times,—yet God hath not suffered him to deal harmfully with me. ⁸If thus he saith, The speckled, shall be thy wages, then do all the flock bring forth speckled,—But if thus he saith, The ring-straked, shall be thy wages, then do all the flock bring forth ring-straked. ⁹So hath God stripped away the herds of your father, and given them to me. ¹⁰And it came to pass in the season when the flock were in heat, then lifted I mine eyes and beheld in a dream,—and lo! the he-goats that were leaping upon the flock, were ring-straked speckled and dappled. ¹¹And the messenger of God said unto me in a dream, Jacob! and I said, Behold me! ¹²Then he said Lift, I pray thee, thine eyes and behold All, the he-goats that are leaping upon the flock are ring-straked, speckled, and dappled,—for I have seen all that Laban, has been doing to thee. ¹³I, am the GOD of Beth-el, where thou didst anoint a pillar, where thou didst vow to me a vow,—Now, rise, go forth out of this land, and return unto the land of thy kindred. ¹⁴Then responded Rachel and Leah, and said to him,—Have we any longer a portion or an inheritance in the house of our father? ¹⁵Are we not accounted, aliens, to him seeing that having sold us, he hath then gone on devouring, our silver? ¹⁶Surely all the riches which God hath stripped off from our father, unto us, it belongeth, and unto our sons,—Now, therefore, whatsoever God hath said unto thee, do. ¹⁷So Jacob arose,—and mounted his sons and his wives on the camels; ¹⁸and drove away all his herds and all his goods which he had gathered, the gains he had gained, which he had gathered in Padan-aram; that he might go in unto Isaac his father unto the land of Canaan. ¹⁹Now, Laban, had gone, to shear his sheep,—so Rachel stole the household gods that belonged to her father, ²⁰Thus Jacob stole away unawares to Laban, the Syrian,—in that he had not told him that he was about to flee. ²¹So he fled, the—and all that he had, and he arose, and passed over the River,—and set his face towards the mountain of Gilead. ²²And it was told Laban, on the third day,—that Jacob had fled. ²³So he took his brethren with him, and pursued after him a journey of seven days—and overtook him in the mountain of Gilead. ²⁴And God went in unto Laban the Syrian in a dream of the night,—and said to him Take heed to thyself that thou speak not with Jacob either good or bad. ²⁵So then Laban came up with Jacob,—Jacob, having pitched his tent in the mountain, Laban, also, with his brethren pitched in the mountain of Gilead. ²⁶Then said Laban to Jacob, What hadst thou done, that thou shouldst steal away unawares to me,—and shouldst carry off my daughters, as captives of the sword? ²⁷Wherefore didst thou secretly flee, and rob me,—and didst not tell me, that I might send thee away with rejoicing and with songs, with timbrel and with lyre; ²⁸and didst not suffer me to kiss my sons and my daughters? Now, hast thou done, foolishly. ²⁹It is in the power of my hand, to deal with thee for harm,—but the God of your father, last night, spake unto me, saying, Take heed to thyself that thou speak not with Jacob, either good or bad. ³⁰But, now, though thou, didst even take thy journey, because thou, didst sorely long, for the house of thy father,, wherefore didst thou steal away my gods? ³¹And Jacob answered and said unto Laban,—Because I was afraid, for I said, Lest thou take by force thy daughters from me! ³²He with whom thou find thy gods, shall not live! Before our brethren, note thou for thyself what is with me and take what is thine. Neither did Jacob know that, Rachel, had stolen them. ³³Then entered Laban into the tent of Jacob and into the tent of Leah and into the tent of the two handmaids, and found nothing,—then went he forth out of the tent of Leah, and entered into the tent of Rachel. ³⁴Now Rachel, had taken the household gods and put them in the basket-saddle of the camel, and taken her seat upon them. And Laban felt about throughout all the tent, and found them not. ³⁵And she said unto her father, Let it not be vexing in the eyes of my lord that I cannot rise up at thy presence, for, the way of women, is upon me. So he made search, but found not the household gods, ³⁶And it was vexing to Jacob and he contended with Laban,—and Jacob responded and said to Laban, What was my trespass, what my sin, that thou shouldst have come burning after me? ³⁷Now that thou hast felt about among all my goods, what hast thou found of the goods of thine own house? Set it out here, right before my brethren and thy brethren,—that they may give sentence betwixt us two. ³⁸This twenty years' time, have, I, been with thee—Thy ewes and thy she-goats, have not cast their young,—And the rams of thy flock, have I not eaten, ³⁹The torn, have I not brought in unto thee—I bare the loss, At my hand, didst thou require it,—Stolen by day, or stolen by night. ⁴⁰Thus have I been—By day, drought hath consumed me, And, frost, by, night,—So that my sleep fled away from mine eyes. ⁴¹This, hath been my lot twenty years in thy house,—I served thee fourteen years for thy two daughters, And six years for thy sheep—And thou didst change my wages ten times:— ⁴²But that the God of my father—The God of Abraham, and the Dread of Isaac—Proved to he mine, Surely even now, empty, hadst thou let me go? My humiliation and the wearying toil of my hands, God had seen, And therefore gave sentence last night! ⁴³Then responded Laban and said unto Jacob—the daughters, are my daughters, And the sons, are my sons, And the sheep are my sheep, And, all that, thou, beholdest, To me doth it belong! But to my daughters, what can I do to these this day, Or to their sons whom they have borne? ⁴⁴Now, therefore, come on! Let us solemnise a covenant, I and thou,—So shall it be a witness betwixt me and thee. ⁴⁵So Jacob took a stone,—and set it up as a pillar. ⁴⁶Then said Jacob to his brethren—Gather stones. And they took stones and made a heap,—and they did eat there, by the heap. ⁴⁷And Laban called it, Jegar-sahadutha,—but, Jacob, called it, Galeed. ⁴⁸Then said Laban: This heap, be witness betwixt me, and thee, to—day. For this cause, is the name thereof called Galeed; ⁴⁹also, The Watch Tower, as to which it is said, Yahweh watch betwixt me and thee, when we are parted one from another. ⁵⁰If thou oppress my daughters, or if thou take wives besides my daughters,—there may be no man with us—see! God, be witness betwixt me, and thee! ⁵¹And Laban said to Jacob—Behold this heap, and behold this pillar, which I have set betwixt me, and thee: ⁵²A witness, be this heap, and, a witness, the pillar,—That, I, am not to pass, unto thee, over this heap, And, thou, art not to pass, unto me, over this heap and this pillar for harm. ⁵³The Gods of Abraham and the Gods of Nahor judge betwixt us—the Gods of their fathers. And Jacob sware by the Dread of his father Isaac: ⁵⁴and Jacob offered sacrifice in the mountain, and called on his brethren to eat bread. So they did eat bread, and tarried the night in the mountain. ⁵⁵And Laban rose up early in the morning, and kissed his sons and his daughters, and blessed them: and Laban went his way and returned to his place.

32When, Jacob, had gone on his way, there met him, messengers of God. ²And Jacob said, when he saw them, the camp of God, is this! So he called the name of that place, Mahanaim. ³Then did Jacob send messengers before him unto Esau his brother, to the land of Seir, the field of Edom. ⁴And he commanded them, saying, Thus, shall ye say to my lord to Esau, Thus, saith thy servant Jacob, With Laban, have I sojourned, and tarried until now: ⁵And I have oxen and asses, flocks and men-servants, and maid-servants, So I must needs send to tell my lord, that I might find favour in thine eyes. ⁶And the messengers returned unto Jacob, saying,—We came in unto thy brother unto Esau, moreover also he is on his way to meet thee, and four hundred men with him. ⁷Then was Jacob greatly afraid, and in distress. So he divided the people that were with him and the flocks and the herds and the camels into two camps, ⁸And he said. Should Esau come upon the one camp, and smite it, yet shall the camp that is left escape. ⁹And Jacob said, God of my father Abraham, and God of my father Isaac,—Yahweh, who wast saying unto me,—Return to thy land and to thy kindred that I may deal well with thee: ¹⁰I am too small for all the lovingkindnesses and for all the faithfulness, which thou hast done unto thy servant,—For with my staff, passed I over this Jordan, But, now, have I become two camps. ¹¹Deliver me I pray thee out of the hand of my brother out of the hand of Esau, for I, am afraid of him, lest he come in and smite mother as well as sons ¹²But, thou thyself, saidst,—I wilt deal well with thee. So will I make thy seed as the sand of the sea, which is not to be counted, for multitude. ¹³And he tarried there that night, and took of that which came to his hand a present for Esau his brother: ¹⁴She-goats, two hundred; And he-goats, twenty; Ewes, two hundred; And rams, twenty; ¹⁵Milch camels, with their colts, thirty;

Cows, forty; And bulls, ten; She-asses, twenty; And ¹⁶And he gave them into the hand of his Servants, each drove by itself, and said unto his servants—Pass over before me, and, a breathing-space, shall ye put betwixt drove and drove. ¹⁷And he commanded the first one saying: When Esau my brother shall fall in with thee, and shall ask thee, saying Whose art thou? and whither wouldst thou go? and to whom belong these before thee? ¹⁸then shalt thou say, To thy servant Jacob: It is, a present, sent to my lord, to Esau; And behold he himself also is behind us, ¹⁹And he commanded the second also, and the third yea all that were going on behind the droves, saying,—According to this word, shall ye speak unto Esau, when ye find him. ²⁰Then shall ye say, Also, lo! thy servant Jacob is behind us. For he said: I must pacify him with the present that goeth on before me. And, after that, will I see his face: Peradventure he will accept me. ²¹So the present passed over before him,—whereas he himself tarried that night in the camp. ²²And he arose in that night and took his two wives, and his two handmaids, and his eleven sons,—and pressed over the ford of Jabbok. ²³So he took them, and sent them over the brook,—and sent over that which he had. ²⁴And Jacob was left alone,—and there wrestled a man with him, until the uprisings of the dawn. ²⁵And when he saw, that he prevailed not against him, he touched the hollow of his thigh,—and the hollow of Jacob's thigh was put out of joint, as he wrestled with him. ²⁶Then said he—Let me go, for uprisen hath the dawn. And he said: I will not let thee go, except thou have blessed me ²⁷Then he said unto him—What is thy name? And he said—Jacob. ²⁸Then he said—Not Jacob, shall thy name be called any more, but Israel,—For thou hast contended with God and with men and hast prevailed. ²⁹Then asked Jacob and said, Do, I pray thee, tell me thy name! And he said—Wherefore now, shouldest thou ask for my name? And he blessed him there, ³⁰So Jacob called the name of the place Peniel; For I saw God face to face; and my soul was delivered, ³¹And the sun rose on him as soon as he had passed over Peniel,—he, moreover was halting upon his thigh, ³²For this cause, the sons of Israel eat not of the nerve of the large hip-sinew, which is by the hollow of the thigh, until this day,—because he touched the hollow of the thigh of Jacob, in the nerve of the hip-sinew.

33Then Jacob lifted up his eyes and looked, and lo! Esau, coming in,—and with him, four hundred men. So he divided the children—unto Leah and unto Rachel, and unto the two handmaids; ²and put the handmaids and their children first,—and Leah and her children next, and Rachel and Joseph next; ³but he himself, passed over before them, and bowed himself to the earth seven times, until he had come near unto his brother. ⁴Then ran Esau to meet him, and embraced him, and fell on his neck,—and they wept. ⁵Then lifted he up his eyes, and beheld the women and the children, and said What are these to thee? And he said—The children wherewith God hath favoured thy servant, ⁶Then came near the handmaids, they—and their children,—and bowed themselves. ⁷Then came near Leah also with her children,—and they bowed themselves. And afterwards, came near Joseph with Rachel, and they bowed themselves, ⁸Then said he, What to thee is all this camp, which I have fallen in with? And he said,—To find favour in the eyes of my lord. ⁹Then said Esau, I have an abundance,—my brother, be thine what thou hast! ¹⁰Then said Jacob, Nay, I pray thee, if, I pray thee, have found favour in thine eyes, then thou wilt take my present at my hand,—For on this account, hath my seeing thy face been like seeing the face of God in that thou wast well-pleased with me. ¹¹Take, I pray thee my blessing which hath been brought in to thee, because God hath shewed me favour and because I have everything. So he was urgent with him and he took it. ¹²Then he said, Let us break up and go, and let me go on before thee. ¹³And he said unto him, My lord, is taking note, that, the children are tender,—and the flocks and the herds are giving suck with me,—and, should I overdrive them a single day, then would all the flocks die. ¹⁴Let my lord, I pray thee pass over before his servant, and let, me, lead on in my own easy way, at the pace of the cattle that are before me, and at the pace of the children, until that I come in unto my lord, towards Seir. ¹⁵Then said Esau: Let me leave, I pray thee, along with thee, some of the people who are with me! And he said—Why so? let me find favour in the eyes of my lord! ¹⁶So Esau returned, that day, to his journey towards Mount Seir. ¹⁷But, Jacob, brake up towards Succoth, and built for himself a house, for his cattle, made he places of shelter, for which cause, the name of the place was called, Succoth. ¹⁸And Jacob came in peace to the city of Shechem, which is in the land of Canaan,—when he came in from Padan-aram,—and he encamped before the city. ¹⁹And he bought the portion of the field where he had spread out his tent, at the hand of the sons of Hamor, father of Shechem,—for a hundred kesitahs. ²⁰And he set up there an altar,—and called it, El-elohe-Israel.

34Then went forth Dinah, the daughter of Leah, whom she had borne to Jacob,—to see the daughters of the land. ²And Shechem, son of Hamor the Hivite, prince of the land, saw her,—so he took her, and lay with her, and humbled her. ³And his soul clave unto Dinah, daughter of Jacob,—and he loved the young woman, and spake to the heart of the young woman. ⁴Then spake Shechem unto Hamor his father, saying,—Take me this girl to wife! ⁵Now, Jacob, had heard that he had defiled Dinah his daughter, but, his sons, happened to be with his cattle in the field,—so Jacob kept quiet until they came in. ⁶Then came forth Hamor, father of Shechem, unto Jacob,—to speak with him. ⁷Now the sons of Jacob came in from the field as soon as they heard, and the men were grieved, and it was vexing to them exceedingly,—for, a disgraceful deed, had he done with Israel in lying with Jacob's daughter, seeing that so, it should not be done. ⁸So then Hamor spake with them saying—As for Shechem my son, his soul hath become attached to your daughter,—I pray you give her to him, to wife. ⁹And exchange ye daughters with us in marriage,—your daughters, shall ye give to us, and our daughters, shall ye take to you. ¹⁰And with us, stroll ye dwell,—and, the land, shall be before you, tarry, and go through it, and get possessions therein. ¹¹Then said Shechem unto her father and unto her brethren, Let me find favour in your eyes,—and, whatsoever ye may say unto me, will I give: ¹²Heap on me, exceedingly, dowry and gift, and I will give, just as ye may say unto me,—but give me the young woman, to wife. ¹³And the sons of Jacob answered Shechem and Hamor his father deceitfully, and spake (because he had defiled Dinah their sister)—¹⁴and said unto them—We cannot do this thing, to give our sister to a man that is uncircumcised,—for a reproach, it would be to us. ¹⁵Only herein, can we consent to you,—If ye will become like us, by circumcising to you every male, ¹⁶then will we give our daughters to you, and your daughters, will we take to us,—and we will dwell with you, and become one people. ¹⁷But if ye will not hearken unto us, to be circumcised, then will we take our daughter and be gone. ¹⁸And their words looked fair in the eyes of Hamor,—and in the eyes of Shechem, Hamor's son; ¹⁹and the young man deferred not to do the thing, because he had delight in Jacob's daughter,—he, moreover being more honourable than all the house of his father. ²⁰So Hamor entered with Shechem his son into the gate of their city,—and they spake unto the men of their city, saying: ²¹As for these men, in peace, they are with us—let them therefore dwell in the land and go through it, for, the land, lo! it is roomy on both hands before them,—their daughters, let us take to us for wives, and our daughters, let us give to them. ²²Only herein, will the men consent to us, to dwell with us, to become one people,—If we circumcise to us every male, even as they are circumcised. ²³Their herds and their substance, and all their beasts, shall they, not be, ours? Only, we must consent to them, that they may dwell with us. ²⁴And they hearkened unto Hamor, and unto Shechem his son, even all that were going forth out of the gate of his city,—and every male was circumcised, all that were going forth out of the gate of his city. ²⁵And it came to pass on the third day, when they were in pain, that two of the sons of Jacob Simeon and Levi, Dinah's brothers, took each man his sword, and came in upon the city, boldly,—and slew every, male; ²⁶Hamor also, and Shechem his son, slew they with the edge of the sword,—and took Dinah out of the house of Shechem, and came forth, ²⁷The sons of Jacob, came in upon the slain and plundered the city,—because they had defiled their sister: ²⁸their flocks, and their herds and their asses,—and that which was in the city, and that which was in the field, they took; ²⁹and all their wealth and all their little ones, and their women, took they captive, and seized as plunder,—even all that was in their houses. ³⁰Then said Jacob unto Simeon and unto Levi—Ye have troubled me by making me odious among them that dwell in the land, among the Canaanites, and among the Perizzites,—I, having only men that may be counted, they will gather themselves, together against me and smite me,—and I shall be destroyed both I and my house. ³¹And they said,—As with a harlot, was he to deal with our sister.

35Then said God unto Jacob, Arise, go up to Bethel, and dwell there,—and make there an altar, to the GOD who appeared unto thee, when thou fleddest from the face of Esau thy brother. ²And Jacob said unto his house, and unto all who were with him,—Put away the gods of the alien which are in your midst, and purify yourselves, and change your garments; ³And let us arise, and go up to Beth-el,—that I may make there an altar to the GOD who answered me in the day of my distress, and was with me in the way that I went. ⁴So they gave unto Jacob all the gods of the alien which were in their hand, and the earrings which were in their ears,—and Jacob hid them under the oak, which was by Shechem. ⁵And they brake up,—and it came to pass that the terror of God, was on the cities which were round about them, so that they pursued not after the sons of Jacob. ⁶And Jacob came in towards Luz, which was in the land of Canaan, the same, is Beth-el,—he and all the people who were with him. ⁷And he built there an altar, and called the place El-Beth-el,—because, there, God revealed himself unto him, when he fled from the face of his brother, ⁸And Deborah, Rebekah's nurse died, and was buried below Beth-el, under the oak,—so the name thereof was called, Allon-bacuth. ⁹And God appeared unto Jacob again, when he came in from Padan-aram,—and blessed him. ¹⁰And God said to him, Thy name, is Jacob,—Thy name shall no longer be called Jacob But, Israel, shall be thy name. So he called his name, Israel. ¹¹And God said to him—I, am GOD Almighty! Be fruitful and multiply, A nation, and a multitude of nations shall spring from thee,—And, kings, from thy loins, shall come forth; ¹²And, the land which I gave to Abraham and to Isaac, To thee, will I give it,—And to thy seed after thee, will I give the land. ¹³And God went up from him at the place where he had spoken with him. ¹⁴And Jacob set up a pillar in the place where he had spoken with him, a pillar of stone,—and he poured out thereon a drink-offering, and poured thereon oil. ¹⁵And Jacob called the name of the place where God had spoken with him, Beth-el. ¹⁶Then brake they up from Beth-el, and it came to pass when there was yet a stretch of country, to enter into Ephrath, that Rachel was in childbirth, and had hard-labour in her childbirth. ¹⁷So it came to pass when she was in hard-labour in her child-birth, that the midwife said to her—Do not fear, for this also of thine, is, a son. ¹⁸And it came to pass when her soul was going forth—for she died, that she called his name Ben-oni,—but, his father, called him, Ben-jamin. ¹⁹So Rachel died,—and was buried on the way to Ephrath, the same, is Bethlehem. ²⁰And Jacob set up a pillar, over her grave,—the same, is—The Pillar of the Grave of Rachel until this day. ²¹Then Israel brake up,—and spread his tent at a distance from Migdal Eder. ²²And it came to pass while Israel inhabited that land, that Reuben went and lay with Bilhah his father's concubine; and Israel heard of it. And so the Sons of Israel came to be Twelve. ²³The sons of Leah, the firstborn of Jacob, Reuben,—And Simeon and Levi and Judah, and Issachar and Zebulon: ²⁴The sons of Rachel, Joseph and Benjamin: ²⁵And the sons of Bilhah, handmaid of Rachel, Dan, and Naphtali: ²⁶And the sons of Zilpah, handmaid of Leah, Gad and Asher: These, are the sons of Jacob, who were born to him, in Padan-aram. ²⁷Then came Jacob unto Isaac his father, to Mature, the city of Arba,—the same, is Hebron, where had sojourned Abraham and Isaac. ²⁸And the days of Isaac came to be—n hundred and eighty years. ²⁹And Isaac breathed his last, and died and was added unto his people, old, and satisfied with days,—and Esau and Jacob his sons buried him.

36Now these, are the generations of Esau the same, is Edom. ²Esau, took his wives of the daughters of Canaan,—Even Adah, daughter of Elon, the Hittite, And Oholibamah daughter of Anah, son of Zibeon, the Hivite; ³And Basemath daughter of Ishmael sister of Nebaioth. ⁴So Adah bare to Esau, Eliphaz, and, Basemath, bare Reuel; ⁵and Oholibamah, bare Jeush and Jalam and Korah. These, are the sons of Esau, who were born to him in the land of Canaan. ⁶Then took Esau his wives, and his sons, and his daughters and all the souls of his house, and his herds and all his beasts, and all his possessions whatsoever he had gathered in the land of Canaan,—and went into a land, away from the face of Jacob his brother, ⁷For their substance had become too great for them to dwell together,—neither could the land of their sojournings sustain them, because of their herds, ⁸So Esau dwelt in Mount Seir, Esau, is Edom. ⁹And, these, are the generations of Esau father of Edom,—in Mount Seir. ¹⁰These, are the name of the sons of Esau,—Eliphaz son of Adah wife of Esau, Reuel son of Basemath wife of Esau. ¹¹Then came the sons of Eliphaz to be,—Teman, Omar, Zepho, and Gatam, and Kenaz. ¹²Now, Timna, became the concubine of Eliphaz son of Esau, and she bare to Eliphaz Amalek. These, are the sons of Adah, wife of Esau. ¹³And, these, are the sons of Reuel, Nahath and Zerah Shammah and Mizzah,—These were the sons of Basemath wife of Esau. ¹⁴And, these, were the sons of Oholibamah daughter of Anah, son of Zibeon, wife of—Esau,—she bare to Esau Jeush, and

Jalam, and Korah. ¹⁵These, are the chiefs of the sons of Esau:—The sons of Eliphaz, firstborn of Esau,—Chief Teman, chief Omar, chief Zepho, chief Kenaz, ¹⁶chief Korah, chief Gatam, chief Amalek. These are the chiefs of Eliphaz in the land of Edom, these, the sons of Adah. ¹⁷And these, are the sons of Reuel, son of Esau—Chief Nahath, chief Zerah, chief Shammah, chief Mizzah,—These are the chiefs of Reuel, in the land of Edom, these, the sons of Basemath wife of Esau. ¹⁸And these, are the sons of Oholibamah wife of Esau, Chief Jeush chief Jalam, chief Korah,—These are the chiefs of Oholibamah daughter of Anah wife of Esau. ¹⁹These, are the sons of Esau, and, these, their chiefs—the same, is Edom. ²⁰These, are the sons of Seir, the Horite, who were dwelling in the land,—Lotan and Shobal and Zibeon and Anah; ²¹and Dishon and Ezer and Dishan,—These, are the chiefs of the Horites the sons of Seir, in the land of Edom. ²²Then came the sons of Lotan to be, Hori and Hemam,—And, the sister of Lotan was Timna. ²³And, these, are the sons of Shobal, Alvan and Manahath, and Ebal,—Shepho, and Onam. ²⁴And, these, are the sons of Zibeon: Both Aiah and Anah,—The same, is the Anah that found the warm springs in the desert, as he fed the asses of Zibeon his father. ²⁵And these are the sons of Anah Dishon,—and Oholibamah, is daughter of Anah. ²⁶And, these, are the sons of Dishon,—Hemdan and Es-hban, and Ithran and Cheran. ²⁷These, are the sons of Ezer,—Bilhan and Zaavan, and Akan. ²⁸These, are the sons of Dishan,—Uz and Aran. ²⁹These, are the chiefs of the Horites,—Chief Lotan, chief Shobal, chief Zibeon, chief Anah; ³⁰chief Dishon, chief Ezer, chief Dishan. These, are the chiefs of the Horites, after their chiefs in the land of Seir. ³¹And, these, are the kings, who reigned in the land of Edom,—before there reigned a king of the sons of Israel: ³²There reigned in Edom, Bela, son of Beor,—and the name of his city, was Dinhabah. ³³Then died Bela,—and there reigned in his stead, Jobab son of Zerah, from Bozrah. ³⁴Then died Jobab,—and there reigned in his stead, Husham, from the land of the Temanites. ³⁵Then died Husham,—and there reigned in his stead, Hadad, son of Bedad, who smote Midian in the field of Moab, and, the name of his city, was Avith. ³⁶Then died Hadad,—and there reigned in his stead, Samlah from Masrekah. ³⁷Then died Samlah,—and there reigned in his stead, Shaul, from Rohoboth of the River. ³⁸Then died Shaul,—and there reigned in his stead, Baal-hanan, son of Achbor. ³⁹Then died Baal-hanan son of Achbor, and there reigned in his stead Hadar, and the name of his city, was Pau,—and, the name of his wife, Mehetabel, daughter of Matred, daughter of Me-zahab. ⁴⁰These then are the names of the chiefs of Esau after their families, after their places by their names,—Chief Timnah, chief Alvah chief Jetheth; ⁴¹chief Oholibamah, chief Elah, chief Pinon; ⁴²chief Kenaz, chief Teman, chief Mibzar; ⁴³chief Magdiel, chief Iram. These, are the chiefs of Edom—after their dwellings in the land of their possession, the same, is Esau, father of Edom.

37 So Jacob dwelt in the land of the sojournings of his father,—in the land of Canaan. ²These, are the generations of Jacob—Joseph, when seventeen years old, was shepherding with his brethren among the flocks, and, he, being a youth, was with the sons of Bilhah and with the sons of Zilpah wives of his father,—so then Joseph brought in the talk about them—something bad, unto their father. ³Now, Israel, loved Joseph more than any of his sons, because he was to him, the son of his old age, and he had made him, a long tunic. ⁴So his brethren saw that their father loved him, more than any of his brethren, and they hated him, and could not bid him prosper, ⁵And Joseph dreamed a dream, and told it to his brethren, and they went on yet more to hate him. ⁶And he said unto them, Hear ye I pray you, this dream which I have dreamed: ⁷Lo! then, we, were binding sheaves in the midst of the field, when lo my sheaf rose up, yea and took its stand,—and lo! round about came your sheaves, and bowed themselves down to my sheaf. ⁸And his brethren said to him, Shalt thou, reign, over us, shalt thou, have dominion over us? So they went on yet more to hate him, because of his dreams and because of his words. ⁹Then dreamed he, yet another, dream, and related it to his brethren, and said:—Lo! I have dreamed a dream, yet again, Lo! then, the sun and the moon, and eleven stars, were bowing themselves down to me. ¹⁰So he related it unto his father, and unto his brethren,—and his father rebuked him, and said unto him, What is this dream which thou hast dreamed? Shall we, indeed come in, I, and thy mother and thy brethren, to bow our-selves down to thee to the earth? ¹¹Then were his brethren jealous of him, but his father, marked the word. ¹²Now his brethren went their way,—to feed their father's flock in Shechem. ¹³So Israel said unto Joseph Are not, thy brethren, feeding the flock in Shechem? Come on! and let me send thee unto them. And he said to him Behold me! ¹⁴So he said to him—Go, I pray thee, look after the welfare of thy brethren, and the welfare of the flock, and bring me back word. And he sent him from the vale of Hebron, and he came in towards Shechem. ¹⁵And a man found him, and to! he was wandering about in the field, so the man asked him saying—What seekest thou? ¹⁶And he said, My brethren, am, I, seeking,—do tell me, I pray thee, where they are feeding their flock. ¹⁷And the man said, They have broken up from hence, for I heard them saying Let us go our way towards Dothan. So Joseph went after his brethren, and found them, in Dothan. ¹⁸And they saw him afar off,—and, ere yet he drew near unto them, they conspired against him, to put him to death. ¹⁹And they said each man unto his brother, Lo! that master of dreams yonder, coming in! ²⁰Now, therefore, come! let us slay him and cast him into one of the pits, and we will say A cruel beast, hath devoured him,—And let us see what will become of his dreams. ²¹And Reuben heard it, and rescued him out of their hand, and said Let us not smite him, so as to take his life! ²²And Reuben said unto them Do not shed blood! Cast him into this pit, which is in the wilderness, but put not forth, a hand, against him! that he might rescue him out of their hand, to restore him unto his father. ²³So it came to pass, when Joseph had come in unto his brethren, that they stript Joseph of his tunic, the long tunic which was upon him, ²⁴and took him, and cast him into the pit, but the pit, was empty, there was in it no water. ²⁵And when they had sat down to eat bread, they lifted up their eyes and looked, and lo! a caravan of Ishmaelites, coming in from Gilead,—and, their camels, were bearing tragacanth gum, and balsam and cistus-gum, they were going their way, to take them down to Egypt. ²⁶So Judah said unto his brethren,—What profit that we slay our brother, and conceal his blood? ²⁷Come and let us sell him to the Ishmaelites; but let not, out own hand, be upon him, for our own brother, our own flesh, is he And his brethren hearkened. ²⁸And there passed by certain Midianites travelling merchants, so they drew forth and uplifted Joseph out of the pit, and sold Joseph to the Ishmaelites, for twenty pieces of silver,—and they brought Joseph into Egypt. ²⁹And Reuben returned unto the pit, and lo Joseph was not in the pit, so he rent his clothes; ³⁰and returned unto his brethren, and said,—The lad, is not! And, I, oh where can I, go? ³¹And they took Joseph's tunic,—and slaughtered a buck of the goats, and dipped the tunic in the blood; ³²and sent the long tunic and brought it in unto their father, and said This, have we found! Examine, we pray thee, whether it is the tunic of thy son, or not! ³³So he examined it, and said—The tunic of my son! A cruel beast hath devoured him,—torn in pieces—torn in pieces, is Joseph! ³⁴And Jacob rent his garments, and put sackcloth upon his loins,—and mourned over his son many days. ³⁵And all his sons and all his daughters rose up to console him but he refused to be consoled, and said—Surely I will go down unto my son mourning to hades! And his father wept for him. ³⁶Now, the Midianites, sold him into Egypt,—to Potiphar courtier of Pharaoh, chief of the royal executioners.

38And it came to pass at that time, that Judah went down away from his brethren,—and turned aside unto a certain Adullamite, whose, name, was Hirah. ²And Judah saw there a daughter of a certain Canaanite whose, name, was Shua,—and he took her, and went in unto her; ³and she conceived and bare a son,—and he called his name Er. ⁴And she conceived again and bare a son,—and she called his name Chart. ⁵And she, yet again, bare a son, and called his name Shelah,—and she, was at Chezib, when she bare him. ⁶And Judah took a wife, for Er his firstborn,—and, her name, was Tamar. ⁷And it came to pass that Er, Judah's firstborn was displeasing in the eyes of Yahweh,—so Yahweh put him to death, ⁸Then said Judah to Onan, Go in unto thy brothers wife, and fulfil the duty of a brother-in-law unto her,—and raise up seed, to thy brother. ⁹And Onan knew that the seed would not be his,—and so although he did go in unto his brothers wife, yet made he waste upon the ground, so as not to give seed to his brother. ¹⁰And it was displeasing, in the eyes of Yahweh what he had done,—so he put, him also, to death, ¹¹Then said Judah to Tamar his daughter-in-law—Remain a widow in the house of thy father until Shelah my son grow up. For he said, Lest, he also, die, like his brethren. So Tamar went her way, and remained in the house of her father. ¹²And when the days were multiplied, then died Shua's daughter, Judah's wife,—and Judah consoled himself and went up unto his sheep shearers, he and Hirah his friend the Adullamite, towards Timnah. ¹³And it was told Tamar saying,—Lo! thy father-in-law is going up towards Timnah, to the shearing of his sheep. ¹⁴So she put off from her the garments of her widowhood and covered herself with a veil and wrapped herself up, and sat down in the entrance of, Enaim, which is by the way towards Timnah,—for she saw that Shelah had grown up, and she, had not been given him to wife. ¹⁵And Judah, seeing her, reckoned her to be an unchaste woman,—for she had covered her face. ¹⁶So he turned aside unto her, by the way, and said Grant it! I pray thee, let me come in unto thee! For he knew not that she was his daughter-in-law. And she said, What wilt thou give me, if thou shouldst come in unto me? ¹⁷And he said, I, will send a kid of the goats from the flock. And she said, Wilt thou give a pledge until thou send it? ¹⁸And he said—What is the pledge that I shall give thee? And She said—Thy signet-ring, and thy guard, and thy staff that is in thy hand. So he gave them to her and came in unto her and she conceived by him. ¹⁹Then she arose and went her way, and put off her veil from her,—and put on the garments of her widowhood. ²⁰And Judah sent the kid of the goats by the hand of his friend the Adullamite, to receive the pledge at the hand of the woman,—but he found her not. ²¹So he asked the men of her place saying. Where is the devotee, she that was in Enaim, by the way? And they said,—Then hath been here no devotee. ²²Then returned he unto Judah, and said—I found her not,—moreover also, the men of the place said, There hath been here no devotee.. ²³And Judah said: Thou must take it to her, lest we become a contempt,—lo! I sent this kid, and, thou, hast not found her. ²⁴And it came to pass that about three months after, it was told Judah, saying—Tamar thy daughter-in-law hath been guilty of unchastity, moreover also lo! she hath conceived by unchastity. Then said Judah, Bring her forth and let her be burnt. ²⁵When, she, was about to be brought forth, then, she herself, sent unto her father-in-law saying, By the man to whom these belong, have I, conceived! And she said—Examine, I pray thee, to whom belong the signet-ring, and the guard, and the staff—these! ²⁶So Judah examined them and said—More righteous than I! forasmuch, as I had not given her to Shelah my son. And he knew her again no more. ²⁷And, it came to pass at the time of her travail, that lo! twins, were in her womb. ²⁸And it came to pass when she was in travail, that one put forth a hand,—so the midwife took and bound upon his hand a crimson thread, saying—This came first! ²⁹And so it was that, no sooner had he withdrawn his hand, than lo! his brother had come. And she said, Wherefore hast thou made for thyself a breach? So his name was called Perez. ³⁰And afterwards, came his brother, on whose hand was the crimson thread,—so his name was called, Zerah.

39Now, Joseph, was taken down to Egypt,—and Potiphar, courtier of Pharaoh, chief of the royal executioners, an Egyptian bought him, at the hand of the Ishmaelites, who had brought him down thither. ²And it came to pass that Yahweh, was with Joseph, so that he became a prosperous man,—and was in the house of his lord the Egyptian. ³And his lord saw, that, Yahweh, was with him—and that whatsoever, he was doing, Yahweh, was causing to prosper in his hand. ⁴So Joseph found favour in his eyes and waited upon him,—and he made him overseer over his house, and all that he had, gave he into his hand. ⁵And it came to pass from the time that he made him overseer in his house and over all that he had, that Yahweh blessed the house of the Egyptian, for Joseph's sake,—yea it came to pass, that the blessing of Yahweh, was with all that he had, in the house and in the field; ⁶so that he left all that he had in the hand of Joseph, and took note with him of nothing, save only the bread which, he himself, was eating. And so it was that Joseph was comely in form and comely in countenance. ⁷And it came to pass after these things, that his lord's wife lifted up her eyes unto Joseph,—and she said—Come! lie with me. ⁸And he refused and said unto his lord's wife, Lo! my lord, taketh no note with me as to what is in the house,—but, all that pertaineth to him, hath he delivered into my hand: ⁹There is no one greater in this house than I, neither hath he withheld from me anything, save only thyself in that thou, art his wife,—how, then could I do this great wickedness, and sin against God? ¹⁰And it came to pass, that although she spake unto Joseph day after day, yet hearkened he not unto her to lie beside her to be with her. ¹¹And it came to pass, when, on a certain day, he went into the house to attend to his business,—and there was no man of the household, there in the house, ¹²that she caught him by his garment, saying—Come! lie with me. Then left he his garment in her hand, and fled and got forth outside, ¹³And it came to pass when she saw that he had left his garment in her hand,—and fled forth outside, ¹⁴that she cried out to the men of her house and spake to them, saying, Look ye! he hath brought in to us a Hebrew man to insult us,—He came in unto me, to lie with me, so I cried out with a loud voice. ¹⁵And it came to pass, when he heard that I lifted high my voice, and cried out, then left he his garment beside me, and fled and got forth outside. ¹⁶So she laid by his garment beside her,—until his lord should come into his house, ¹⁷Then spake she unto him, according to these words, saying,—He hath been in unto me—the Hebrew servant whom thou didst bring in to us—to insult me. ¹⁸And it came to pass when I lifted high my voice and cried out, then left he his garment beside me, and fled outside. ¹⁹And it came to pass, when his lord heard the words of his wife which she spake unto him saying, According to these words, hath thy servant done to me, Then was kindled his anger. ²⁰So Joseph's lord took him and delivered him up to the prison, the place where, the prisoners of the king, were imprisoned,—so he was there, in the prison. ²¹And it came to pass that, Yahweh, was with Joseph, and extended unto him lovingkindness,—and gave him his favour in the eyes of the chief of the prison. ²²So the chief of the prison delivered up, into Joseph's hand all the prisoners who were in the prison,—and of all that was doing them, he, was the doer. ²³After nothing, was the chief of the prison looking, of whatever was in his hand,—in that Yahweh, was with him, and whatsoever, he was doing, Yahweh, was causing to prosper.

40And it came to pass after these things, that the butler of the king of Egypt, and the baker, had sinned against their lord the king of Egypt. ²Then fell the wroth of Pharaoh upon his two courtiers, upon the chief of the butlers, and upon the chief of the bakers; ³so he delivered them up into the ward of the house of the chief of the royal executioners, into the prison,—the place where Joseph was imprisoned. ⁴And the chief of the royal executioners charged Joseph with them and he waited upon them, and they were some days in ward. ⁵And they dreamed a dream they two, each man, his dream in one night, each man, according to the interpretation of his dream,—the butler and the baker who belonged to the king of Egypt, who were imprisoned in the prison. ⁶And Joseph came in unto them in the morning,—and looked at them, and lo! they were sad. ⁷So he asked Pharaoh's courtiers who were with him in the ward of his lord's house, saying, Why are your faces troubled to-day! ⁸And they said unto him, A dream, have we dreamed, but there is none, to interpret, it. Then said Joseph unto them—Is it not unto God, that interpretations belong? Relate it. I pray you, to me. ⁹And the chief of the butlers related his dream to Joseph,—and said to him, In my dream, then lo! a vine, before me; ¹⁰and, in the vine, three shoots,—and the same at sprouting time, had shot up her blossom, and her clusters had brought to perfection ripe grapes. ¹¹Now, the cup of Pharaoh, being in my hand, I took the ripe grapes and pressed them out into the cup of Pharaoh, and set the cup upon Pharaohs palm. ¹²And Joseph said to him, This, is the interpretation thereof,—The three shoots are three days: ¹³In three days more, will Pharaoh lift up thy head, and restore thee to thine office, and thou shalt set the cup of Pharaoh in his hand, according to the former custom when thou wast his butler. ¹⁴But if thou remember how I was with thee when it shall go well with thee, then wilt thou I pray thee do me a lovingkindness,—and make mention of me unto Pharaoh, and bring me forth out of this house; ¹⁵For I was, stolen, out of the land of the Hebrews,—and, even here, had I done nothing, that they should have put me in the dungeon, ¹⁶Then the chief of the bakers, seeing that he had well interpreted, said unto Joseph, I, too, was in my dream, when lo! three wicker baskets of fine bread were on my head; ¹⁷and, in the uppermost basket, was some of every kind of food for Pharaoh that a baker could make,—but, the birds, kept eating them out of the basket from off my head. ¹⁸And Joseph responded and said, This, is the interpretation thereof, The three baskets, are, three days: ¹⁹In three days more, will Pharaoh lift up thy head from off thee, and hang thee upon a tree, and the birds shall eat thy flesh from off thee. ²⁰And it came to pass on the third day the birthday of Pharaoh, that he made a banquet for all his servants, and uplifted the head of the chief of the butlers and the head of the chief of the bakers in the midst of his servants; ²¹and restored the chief of the butlers to his butlership, so that he set the cup upon the palm of Pharaoh; ²²but, the chief of the bakers, he hanged,—as, Joseph, had interpreted unto them. ²³Yet the chief of the butlers made no mention of Joseph but did forget him.

⁴¹And it came to pass at the end of two years of days, that, Pharaoh, was dreaming, when lo! he was standing by the river (Nile); ²and lo! from the river, were coming up seven heifers, comely in appearance and fat in flesh,—and they fed among the rushes. ³And lo! seven heifers more coming up after them out of the river, uncomely in appearance and lean in flesh,—and they came and stood beside the heifers, by the lip of the river. ⁴Then did the heifers that were uncomely in appearance, and lean in flesh, eat up, the seven heifers that were comely in appearance and fat. So Pharaoh awoke. ⁵And he fell asleep, and dreamed a second time, when lo! seven ears, coming up on one stalk fat and good; ⁶and lo! seven ears, lean and shrivelled by an east wind, coming up after them. ⁷Then did the lean ears swallow up the seven fat and full ears. So Pharaoh awoke and lo! it was a dream. ⁸And it came to pass in the morning, that his spirit became restless, so he sent and called for all the sacred scribes of Egypt and all her wise men,—and Pharaoh related to them his dreams, a but there was no one that could interpret them. to Pharaoh. ⁹Then spake the chief of the butlers with Pharaoh saying, My faults, would mention this day. ¹⁰Pharaoh, was wroth with his servants,—and put them in the ward of the house of the chief of the royal executioners, me, and the chief of the bakers. ¹¹Then must we needs dream, a dream in one night, I and he,—each man, according to the interpretation of his dream, did we dream. ¹²And, there with us, was a young man, a Hebrew servant to the chief of the royal executioners, and we related to him, and he interpreted to us our dreams,—to each man—according to his dream, did he interpret, ¹³And it came to pass as he interpreted to us, so, it happened,—me, he restored to mine office but him, he hanged. ¹⁴Then sent Pharaoh and summoned Joseph, and they hastened him out of the dungeon,—so he shaved himself and changed his garments, and came in unto Pharaoh. ¹⁵And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, A dream, have I dreamed, but none can interpreted it,—but, I, have heard say concerning thee, that on hearing a dream, thou canst interpret it. ¹⁶And Joseph answered Pharaoh saying, Not to me, doth it pertain! May, God grant in answer, the prosperity of Pharaoh! ¹⁷Then spake Pharaoh unto Joseph,—In my dream, there was I, standing on the lip of the river; ¹⁸When lo! out of the river, were coming up seven heifers, fat in flesh and comely in form,—and they fed among the rushes. ¹⁹And lo! seven other heifers, coming up after them, poor and very uncomely in form and lean in flesh,—I had never seen such in all the land of Egypt, for uncomeliness. ²⁰Then did the lean and uncomely heifers eat up the first seven fat heifers; ²¹and they passed into their stomach yet could it not be known that they had passed into them, their appearance, being uncomely, as at the beginning. So I awoke. ²²Then looked I in my dream,—And lo! seven ears, coming up on one stalk, full and good; ²³And lo! seven ears, withered lean shrivelled by an east wind growing up after them. ²⁴Then did the lean ears swallow up, the seven good ears. So I told these things unto the sacred scribes, but there was none that could explain them to me. ²⁵Then said Joseph unto Pharaoh, The dream of Pharaoh, is, one. What God is about to do hath he announced to Pharaoh. ²⁶The seven good heifers, are, seven years, and, the seven good ears are, seven years,—the dream, is, one. ²⁷And the seven lean and uncomely heifers that were coming up after them, are seven years, and the seven lean ears, shrivelled by an east wind, will turn out to be—seven years of famine. ²⁸The very word that I spake unto Pharaoh, what, God, is about to do, hath he showed unto Pharaoh. ²⁹Lo! seven years, coming in,—of great plenty, in all the land of Egypt. ³⁰Then shall arise seven years of famine, after them, so shall be forgotten all the plenty in the land of Egypt,—and the famine shall consume the land; ³¹neither shall the plenty in the land be discernible, because of that famine coming after,—for it shall be livery severe. ³²And for that there was a repeating of the dream unto Pharaoh, twice, it is because the thing, is established, from God, and God is hastening to do it. ³³Now, therefore, let Pharaoh look out a man discreet and wise,—and set him over the land of Egypt. ³⁴Let Pharaoh do this, that he may appoint overseers over the land,—so shall he take up a fifth of the land of Egypt, during the seven years of plenty. ³⁵And let them gather up all the food of these seven good years that are coming in,—and let them heap up corn under the hand of Pharaoh as food in cities so shall they keep it. ³⁶So shall the food become a store for the land, for the seven years of famine which shall come about in the land of Egypt,—and the land shall not be cut off in the famine. ³⁷And the thing was good in the eyes of Pharaoh,—and in the eyes of all his servants; ³⁸and Pharaoh said unto his servants,—Can we find such a one, a man in whom is the Spirit of God? ³⁹So Pharaoh said unto Joseph, After God hath made known unto thee all this, there is no one discreet and wise like thee. ⁴⁰Thou, shalt be over my house, and on thy mouth, shall all my people kiss,—only as to the throne, will I be greater than thou. ⁴¹And Pharaoh said unto Joseph,—See, I have set thee over all the land of Egypt. ⁴²So Pharaoh took his ring from off his hands and put it upon Joseph's hand,—and clothed him in garments of fine linen, and put the chain of gold upon his neck; ⁴³and made him ride in the second chariot which belonged to him, and they cried out before him. Bow the knee! thus setting him over all the land of Egypt. ⁴⁴And Pharaoh said unto Joseph. I, am Pharaoh, Without thee, therefore shah no man raise his hand or his foot in all the land of Egypt. ⁴⁵And Pharaoh called Joseph's name Zaphenath-paneah, and gave him Asenath daughter of Poti-phaera priest of On, to wife,—and Joseph went forth over the land of Egypt. ⁴⁶Now, Joseph, was thirty years old, when he took his station, before Pharaoh king of Egypt. So Joseph went forth from before Pharaoh, and passed along through all the land of Egypt. ⁴⁷And the land produced, in the seven years of plenty, by handfuls, ⁴⁸And he gathered up all the food of the seven years in which there was plenty in the land of Egypt, and laid up food in cities—the food of the fields of the city. which were round about it, laid he up within it. ⁴⁹Thus did Joseph heap up corn like the sand of the sea making it exceeding abundant,—until one hath left off reckoning, because it cannot be reckoned. ⁵⁰Now to Joseph, were born two sons, ere yet came in the year of famine,—whom Asenath daughter of Poti-phaera priest of On, bare to him. ⁵¹And Joseph called the name of the firstborn Manasseh,—For God hath made me forget all my trouble, and all the house of my father. ⁵²And, the name of the second, called he Ephraim, For God hath made me fruitful in the land of my humiliation. ⁵³Then came to an end the seven years of the plenty,—which was in the land of Egypt; ⁵⁴and the seven years of famine began to come in, according as Joseph had said,—and it came to pass that there was a famine in all the lands, but in all the land of Egypt, there was bread. ⁵⁵Yet was famine felt in all the land of Egypt, and the people made outcry; unto Pharaoh for bread,—and Pharaoh said to all Egypt,—Go ye unto Joseph, that which he saith to you, shall ye do. ⁵⁶Now, the famine, was over all the face of the land,—so Joseph opened all places wherein it was and sold corn to the Egyptians, and the famine laid fast hold of the land of Egypt. ⁵⁷All the earth also, came in to Egypt to buy corn, unto Joseph,—because the famine had laid fast hold on an the earth.

42Then saw Jacob that there was corn in Egypt,—and Jacob said to his sons, Wherefore look ye one at another? ²And he said, Lo I have heard that there is corn in Egypt,—Go down thither and buy corn for us from thence, that we may live and not die. ³So Joseph's ten brethren went down,—to buy corn from the Egyptians; ⁴but, Benjamin, Joseph's own brother, Jacob sent not with his brethren,—for he said, Lest there befall him any mischief. ⁵Thus came in the sons of Israel, to buy corn in the midst of them that came—for the famine was in the land of Canaan. ⁶Now, Joseph—he, it was, that was in power over the land, he, it was that was selling corn to all the people of the land,—so Joseph's brethren came in, and bowed themselves down to him, with their faces to the earth. ⁷And Joseph beheld his brethren and recognised them,—and made himself a stranger unto them and spake with them harsh things and said unto them—Whence have ye come in? And they said, From the land of Canaan, to buy food. ⁸And Joseph recognised his brethren,—whereas they, recognised him not. ⁹And Joseph remembered the dreams which he had dreamed regarding them,—so he said unto them—Spies, are, ye! to see the nakedness of the land, have ye come in! ¹⁰And they said unto him, Nay, my lord,—but, thy servants, are come to buy food. ¹¹All of us, are, sons of one man,—honest men, are we: thy servants are not, spies. ¹²And he said unto him,—Nay! but, the nakedness of the land, are ye come in to see. ¹³And they said: We, thy twelve servants, are, brethren, sons of one man in the and of Canaan,—and lo! the youngest: is with our father this day, and, the one, is not! ¹⁴And Joseph said unto them,—The very thing, that I spake unto you, saying—Spies, are, ye. ¹⁵Hereby, shall ye be proved,—By the life of Pharaoh, ye shall not go forth from hence, save only by the coming in of your youngest brother hither. ¹⁶Send— from among you—one that he may fetch your brother, but be, ye, held as prisoners, that your words may be proved whether, truth, is with you,—and, if not, by the life of Pharaoh, surely, spies, ye are. ¹⁷So he drew them all together into ward, for three days. ¹⁸And Joseph said unto them on the third day, This, do and live,—God himself, do, I, revere. ¹⁹If ye, are, honest men, one brother of you shall be kept as a prisoner in your house of ward,—but, ye, go, take in corn for the famine of your houses; ²⁰and your youngest brother, shall ye bring in unto me, that your words may be confirmed, and ye die not. And they did so. ²¹And they said each man unto his brother—Verily guilty, we are, respecting our brother, in that we saw the distress of his soul when he appealed unto us for favour and we hearkened not,—therefore, hath come in unto us this distress. ²²And Reuben responded to them, saying—Spake I not unto you saying, Do not sin against the child! And ye hearkened not? His very blood, therefore lo! it is required. ²³But, they, knew not that Joseph was hearkening,—for, the interpreter, was between them. ²⁴So he turned away from them, and wept,—then came back unto them and spake unto them, and took away from them Simeon, and bound him prisoner before their eyes. ²⁵Then commanded Joseph that their bags should be filled with corn, and their silver be returned each man's into his sack, and provision be given for the journey,—and it was done to them thus. ²⁶So they lifted up their corn on their asses,—and went their way, from thence. ²⁷And the first opened his sack to give fodder to his ass at the inn,—and beheld his silver, yea there, it was in the mouth of his sack! ²⁸So he said unto his brethren My silver hath been returned, yea verily, there it is in my sack! Then went forth their heart and they turned trembling—each man unto his brother saying. Wharf is this that God hath done to us? ²⁹So they came in unto Jacob their father to the land of Canaan,—and told him all that had befallen them saying: ³⁰The man that is lord of the land spake unto us harsh things,—and then delivered us up. as spies of the land. ³¹And we said unto him Honest men, are, we,—we are not spies! ³²Twelve brethren, are, we, sons of our father,—the one, is not, and the youngest is this day with our father in the land of Canaan. ³³Then said the man the lord of the land unto us, Hereby, shall I get to know that honest men, ye are,—One brother of you, leave ye remaining with me, and corn for the famine of your houses, take ye and go your way; ³⁴And bring ye in your youngest brother unto me, So must I get to know that ye are, not spies, but are honest men: Your brother, will I give up to you, and with the land, shall ye traffic. ³⁵And it came to pass when, they, were emptying their, sacks then lo! each man's bundle of silver, was in his sack,—and when they beheld their bundles of silver—they and their father, they were afraid, ³⁶And Jacob their father said unto them, Me, have ye bereaved,—Joseph, is not, and, Simeon, is not, and Benjamin, ye would take! Against me, have happened all these things. ³⁷Then spake Reuben unto his father saying, My two sons, shalt thou put to death, if I bring him not unto thee,—Come give him up upon my hand, and I, will restore him unto thee. ³⁸And he said, My son shall not go down with you,—For, his brother, is dead and, he alone, is left, and as surely as there befall him any mischief by the way wherein ye go, so surely shall ye bring down my grey hairs with sorrow unto hades.

which they had brought in out of Egypt, that their father said unto them,—Return buy for us a little food. ³Then spake Judah unto him saying,—The man, did protest, to us saying—Ye shall not see my face, except, your brother, is with you. ⁴If thou art sending our brother with us, we will certainly go down, and buy for thee food; ⁵but, if thou art not sending him, we will not go down, for the man, said unto us Ye shall not see my face, except, your brother, is with you. ⁶And Israel said, Wherefore did ye ill to me,—to tell the man, there yet remained to you a brother? ⁷And they said, The man did ask I concerning ourselves and concerning our kindred saying—Is your father yet alive? Have ye a brother? So we told him according to the tenor of these words. Could we, at all know, that he would say, Bring down your brother? ⁸Then said Judah unto Israel his father—Come! send thou down the young man with me that we may arise and go our way,—and live and not die, both we and thou and our little ones. ⁹I, will be surety for him, at my hand, shalt thou require him,—as surely as I bring him not in unto thee, and set him down before thee, so surely will I be counted a sinner against thee all the days, ¹⁰For, if we had not lingered, surely now, had we come back here a second time. ¹¹Then Israel their father said unto them—If so, then do this,—Take of the song of the land in your vessels, and carry down to the man a present,—A little balsam and a little honey, tragacanth gum and cistus gum, pistachio nuts, and almonds. ¹²And double silver, take in your hand,—also the silver that was put back in the mouth of your sacks, carry ye back in your hand, peradventure it was an error, ¹³Your brother also, take ye,—and arise go again unto the man. ¹⁴And, God Almighty, give you compassion before the man, so shall he send with you, your other brother, and Benjamin. But, as for me, when I am bereaved, I am bereaved! ¹⁵So the men took this present, double silver also, took they in their hand and Benjamin,—and arose and went down into Egypt, and stood before Joseph. ¹⁶And Joseph saw—with them—Benjamin, so he said to him that was over his house Bring the men into the house,—and slay meat and make ready, for with me, shall the men eat at noon. ¹⁷So the men did as Joseph had said, and the man brought the men into Joseph's house, ¹⁸Then were the men afraid because they had been brought into the house of Joseph, and they said—For the matter of the silver that came back in our sacks at the beginning, have, we, been brought in,—that he may turn round upon us and fall upon us, and take us for servants and our asses. ¹⁹So they drew near unto the man that was over Joseph's house,—and spake unto him at the entrance of the house; ²⁰and said, May it please my lord! We, did indeed come down, at the beginning to buy food. ²¹And it came to pass when we had entered into the inn, that we opened our sacks, and lo! the silver of each man, in the mouth of his sack,—our silver in its full weight,—so we have bought it back in our hand!

²²And, more silver, have we brought down in our hand, to buy food,—we know not who put our silver in our sacks. ²³And he said—Peace to you do not fear! Your God, and the God of your father, hath given you secret treasure, in your sacks, as for your silver, it came in unto me. And he brought forth unto them Simeon. ²⁴So the man brought the men into Joseph's house,—and gave them water and they bathed their feet, and he gave them provender for their asses. ²⁵And they made ready the present, against the coming in of Joseph at noon,—for they heard that it was there they should eat bread. ²⁶So when Joseph came into the house, they brought in to him the present which was in their hand into the house,—and bowed themselves down to him to the earth. ²⁷Then asked he after their welfare, and said—Is it well with your aged father, of whom ye spake? Is he yet alive? ²⁸And they said—It is well with thy servant our father, he is yet alive. And they bent their heads and bowed themselves down. ²⁹Then lifted he up his eyes, and saw Benjamin his brother son of his mother, and said—Is, this, your youngest brother, of whom ye spake unto me? And he said, God, grant thee favour my son! ³⁰And Joseph made haste for his compassions towards his brother were pent up, and he sought to weep,—so he went into the inner chamber and wept there, ³¹Then bathed he his face and came forth,—and restrained himself, and said Set on bread! ³²So they set on for him—by himself, and for them—by themselves,—and for the Egyptians that were eating with him—by themselves, for the Egyptians might not eat, bread, with the Hebrews for an abomination, had that been to Egyptians. ³³So they took their seats before him, the firstborn, according to his birthright and the youngest, according to his youth,—and the men looked with amazement, each one at his companion. ³⁴And he sent portions from before him unto them, and the portion of Benjamin exceeded the portions of them all, five-fold. And they drank and made merry with him.

44Then commanded he him who was over his house saying—Fill the sacks of the men, with food, as much as they can carry, and put each man's silver in the mouth of his sack; ²and my cup—the cup of silver, shalt thou put in the mouth of the sack of the youngest, with his corn-silver. So he did, according to the word of Joseph, which he had spoken. ³By the time, the morning, was light, the men, had been sent away, they, and their asses. ⁴They themselves, had gone out of the city—they had not gone far, when Joseph said to him who was over his house, Rise chase after the men,—so shalt thou overtake them and shalt say unto them, Wherefore have ye requited evil for good? ⁵Is not this that in which my lord drinketh, and whereby, he himself, doth divine? Ye have done evil in what ye have done. ⁶So he overtook them,—and spake unto them these words. ⁷And they said unto him, Wherefore should my lord speak such words as these? Far be thy servants, from doing such a thing as this! ⁸Lo! the silver that we found in the mouth of our sacks, we brought back unto thee out of the land of Canaan,—how then could we steal out of the house of thy lord, silver or gold? ⁹With whomsoever of thy servants it can be found, he shall die,—and, we also, will become my lord's servants. ¹⁰And he said, Yea, now, according to your words, so, let it be,—he with whom it is found, shall be my servant, Ye, however, shall be clear. ¹¹So they hastened and took down each man his sack to the ground,—and opened each man his sack. ¹²Then made he thorough search, with the eldest, he began, and with the youngest, he ended,—and the cup was found in the sack of Benjamin! ¹³And they rent their mantles,—and laded each man his ass, and returned to the city. ¹⁴And Judah and his brethren came into the house of Joseph, he, yet being there,—and fell down before him to the earth. ¹⁵And Joseph said to them, What is this deed which ye have done? Know ye not that such a man as I, can even divine? ¹⁶Then said Judah—What shall we say to my lord, how shall we speak and how shall we justify ourselves,—when, God himself, hath found out the iniquity of thy servants? Behold us! my lord's servants, both we, and he in whose hand the cup hath been found. ¹⁷And he said, Far be it from me to do this thing! The man in whose hand the cup hath been found, he, shall be my servant, but as for you, go ye up in peace unto your father. ¹⁸Then Judah drew near unto him, and said—Pardon my lord! Pray let thy servant speak a word in the ears of my lord, and do not let thine anger be kindled against thy servant,—for, thus, art, thou as Pharaoh! ¹⁹It was, my lord, who asked his servants, saying,—Have ye a father, or a brother? ²⁰So we said unto my lord, We have an aged father, and the child of his old age a youth,—his brother, being dead, he alone, is left of his mother and, his father, loveth him. ²¹So then thou saidst unto thy servants, Bring him down unto me,—that I may set mine eyes upon him. ²²And we said unto my lord, The lad cannot leave his father,—as surely as he leaveth his father, so surely will he, die. ²³And thou saidst unto thy servants, Except your youngest brother do come down with you, ye shall not again behold my face. ²⁴So it came to pass when we had gone up unto thy servant, my father, that we told him the words of my lord. ²⁵Then said our father,—Go again buy us a little food, ²⁶And we said, We cannot go down,—If our youngest brother be with us, then will we go down, for we cannot see the face of the man if, our youngest brother, is not with us. ²⁷Then said thy servant my father, unto us,—Ye yourselves, know, that, two, did my wife bear to me, ²⁸and the one went forth from me, and I said—Certainly he hath been, torn in pieces,— ²⁹And I have never seen him since. As surely as ye take, this one also, away from before my face and there befall him any mischief, so surely shall ye bring down my grey hairs, with misfortune to hades. ³⁰Now, therefore, as surely as I go in unto thy servant my father, and, the lad, is not with us,—seeing that his soul is bound up with the lads soul, ³¹so surely shall it come to pass that when he sooth that the lad is not with us, then will he die. So shall thy servants bring down the grey hairs of thy servant our father, with sorrow to hades. ³²For thy servant, became surety for the lad, while away from my father saying,—If I bring him not unto thee, then will I count myself a sinner against my father all the days. ³³Now, therefore, I pray thee let thy servant remain instead of the lad, as servant to my lord,—but as for the lad, let him go up with his brethren. ³⁴For how can I go up unto my father, should the lad, not be with me? lest I look on the calamity, that shall find out my father, 45And Joseph could not restrain himself before all who were stationed near him, so he cried out—Have forth every man from me! And there stood no man with him, when Joseph made himself known unto his brethren, ²Then gave he forth his voice in weeping,—and the Egyptians heard, and the house of Pharaoh heard. ³Then said Joseph unto his brethren: I, am Joseph, is my father yet alive? But his brethren could not answer him, for they were terrified because of him. ⁴Then said Joseph unto his brethren—Draw near I pray you, unto me. And they drew near. And he said—I, am Joseph your brother, whom ye sold into Egypt. ⁵But, now, do not grieve, neither let it be vexing in your eyes, that ye sold me hither,—for, to save life, did God send me before you. ⁶For these two years, hath the famine been in the midst of the land,—and, yet five years, are there, in which there shall be neither ploughing, nor harvest. ⁷So then God sent me before you, to plant for you a remainder in the earth,—and to save you alive, by a great deliverance, ⁸Now, therefore it was not ye, who sent me hither, but, God, himself,—who also appointed me to be a father to Pharaoh, and a lord to all his house, and a ruler over all the land of Egypt. ⁹Haste ye and go up unto my father, then shall ye say unto him—Thus saith thy son Joseph, God hath appointed me lord to all Egypt,—come down unto me do not delay; ¹⁰so shalt thou dwell in the land of Goshen, and shalt be near unto me, thou, and thy sons, and thy son's sons,—and thy flocks and thy herds and all that is thine; ¹¹so will I sustain thee, there, for there are yet five years of famine,—lest thou come to poverty—thou and thy house and all who are thine. ¹²Now lo! your own eyes do see, and the eyes of my brother Benjamin,—that it is my own mouth, that doth speak unto you. ¹³As soon as ye have told my father all my honour in Egypt, and all that ye have seen, so soon shall ye hasten and bring down my father hither. ¹⁴Then fell he upon the neck of Benjamin his brother, and wept,—and Benjamin wept on his neck. ¹⁵Then kissed he all his brethren, and wept upon them,—and, thereafter, his brethren spake with him. ¹⁶Now, the report, was heard by the house of Pharaoh, saying, The brethren of Joseph have come in, And it was good in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of all his servants. ¹⁷So then Pharaoh said unto Joseph—Say unto thy brethren This, do,—lade your asses, and go enter into the land of Canaan; ¹⁸and fetch your father and your households and come in unto me,—that I may give you the best of the land of Egypt, and eat ye the fat of the land. ¹⁹Thou, therefore command them, This, do ye,—Take you out of the land of Egypt, waggons for your little ones and for your wives, so shall ye bring your father and come in. ²⁰Your eye, moreover, let it not look with pity upon your goods,—for, the best of all the land of Egypt, is, yours. ²¹And the sons of Israel did so, and Joseph gave them waggons, at the bidding of Pharaoh,—and gave them provisions for the way: ²²to all of them, gave he to each man changes of raiment,—but, to Benjamin, he gave three hundred pieces of silver, and five changes of raiment. ²³Moreover, to his father, sent he as followeth—ten he-asses, laden from the best of Egypt,—and ten she-asses laden with corn and bread and nourishing food for his father for the way. ²⁴Thus sent he forth his brethren and they departed,—and he said unto them, Do not fall out by the way. ²⁵And they went up out of Egypt,—and came into the land of Canaan, unto Jacob their father. ²⁶And they told him saying—Joseph: is, yet alive, yea, indeed, he, is ruler in all the land of Egypt. And his heart became faint, for he believed them not. ²⁷So they spake unto him all the words of Joseph which he had spoken unto them h then saw he the waggons, which Joseph had sent to carry him,—and the spirit of Jacob their father revived. ²⁸And Israel said, Enough! Joseph my son is, yet alive, I must go and see him before I die!

46So Israel brake up, with all that he had, and came in to Beer-sheba,—and offered sacrifices to the God of his father Isaac. ²And God said to Israel in the visions of the night, and he said—Jacob! Jacob! ³And he said—Behold me! And he said: I, am GOD himself, the God of thy father,—Be not afraid of going down to Egypt, seeing that for a great nation, will I plant thee there. ⁴I will go down with thee to Egypt, and will bring thee up, yea wholly up,—and, Joseph, shall lay his own hand upon thine eyes. ⁵So Jacob rose up from Beer-sheba,—and the sons of Israel brought Jacob their father, and their little ones, and their wives, in the waggons which Pharaoh had sent to bring him; ⁶and they took their cattle and the gains which they had gained in the land of Canaan, and came into Egypt,—Jacob and all his seed with him: ⁷his sons, and his son's sons with him, his daughters, and his sons daughters, and all his seed, brought he with him into Egypt. ⁸Now, these, are the names of the sons of Israel who came into Egypt—Jacob and his sons,—the firstborn of Jacob, Reuben: ⁹And, the sons of Reuben,—Hanoah and Pallu, and Hezron and Carmi; ¹⁰And, the sons of Simeon,—

Jemuel and Jamin and Ohad and Jachin and Zohar,—and Shaul, son of the Canaanitess; ¹¹And the sons of Levi,—Gershon, Kohath and Merari; ¹²And the sons of Judah,—Er and Onan and Shelah, and Perez and Zerah,—but Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan, and the sons of Perez were Hezron and Hamul; ¹³And, the sons of Issachar,—Tola and Puvah, and Iob and Shimron; ¹⁴And the sons of Zebulon,—Sered and Elon, and Jahleel. ¹⁵These, are the sons of Leah whom she bare to Jacob in Padan-aram, with Dinah also his daughter,—All the souls of his sons and of his daughters, were thirty-three. ¹⁶And, the sons of Gad,—Zaphon and Haggi, Shuni and Ezbon,—Eri and Arodi and Areli; ¹⁷And, the sons of Asher,—Imnah and Ishvah and Ishvi and Beriah, and Serah their sister,—and the sons of Beriah, Heber and Malchiel. ¹⁸These, are the sons of Zilpah, whom Laban gave to Leah his daughter,—so she bare these to Jacob,—sixteen souls. ¹⁹The sons of Rachel, Jacob's wife,—Joseph and Benjamin; ²⁰And there were born to Joseph in the land of Egypt, whom Asenath daughter of Poti-phaera, priest of On, bare to him,—Manasseh and Ephraim; ²¹And the sons of Benjamin—Bela and Becher, and Ashbel, Gera and Naaman, Ehi and Resh,—Muppm and Huppm, and Ard. ²²These, are the sons of Rachel, who were born to Jacob,—all the souls, were fourteen. ²³And, the sons of Dan,—Hushim; ²⁴And the sons of Naphtali,—Jahzeel and Guni, and Jezer and Shillem. ²⁵These, are the sons of Bilhah, whom Laban gave to Rachel his daughter,—so she bare these to Jacob,—all the souls, were seven. ²⁶All the souls that came in with Jacob to Egypt that had come forth of his loins, besides Jacob's sons wives,—all the souls, were sixty-six; ²⁷and, the sons of Joseph who were born to him in Egypt, were two souls: All the souls of the house of Jacob that came into Egypt, were seventy. ²⁸And he sent, Judah, before him unto Joseph, to direct his face to Goshen,—so they came in towards the land of Goshen. ²⁹Then yoked Joseph his chariot, and went up to meet Israel his father towards Goshen,—and he appeared unto him, and fell upon his neck, and wept upon his neck a good while. ³⁰Then said Israel unto Joseph I am ready to die at last,—now that I have seen thy face, in that thou art, yet alive. ³¹Then said Joseph unto his brethren and unto the house of his father, I must go up, and must tell Pharaoh—and must say unto him, My brethren, and the house of my father, who were in the land of Canaan, have come in unto me. ³²Now, the men, are feeders of flocks, for men of cattle, they are,—and their flocks and their herds and all that they have, have they brought in. ³³So shall it come to pass, when Pharaoh shall call for you,—and shall say—What is your occupation? ³⁴Then shall ye say—Men of cattle, have thy servants been from our youth even until now, both we and our fathers,—To the end ye may dwell in the land of Goshen, for an abomination to Egyptians, is every feeder of a flock,

47 So then Joseph went in, and told Pharaoh, and said—My father and my brethren, and their flocks and their herds and all that they have, are come in from the land of Canaan,—and, here they are, in the land of Goshen. ²Moreover out of the whole number of his brethren, he took with him five men,—and set them before Pharaoh. ³And Pharaoh said unto the brethren of Joseph—What is your occupation? And they said unto Pharaoh—Feeders of flocks, are thy servants, both we and our fathers. ⁴And they said unto Pharaoh—To sojourn in the land, are we come in, for there is no pasture for the flocks which pertain to thy servants, for, severe, is the famine in the land of Canaan. Now, therefore, let thy servants dwell we pray thee in the land of Goshen. ⁵Then spake Pharaoh unto Joseph saying,—Thy father and thy brethren, are come in unto thee. ⁶The land of Egypt, is, before thee, in the best of the land, cause thou thy father and thy brethren to dwell,—let them dwell in the land of Goshen, And if thou knowest that there are among them men of ability, then shalt thou set them as chieftains of cattle over mine. ⁷So Joseph brought in Jacob his father, and caused him to stand before Pharaoh,—and Jacob blessed Pharaoh. ⁸And Pharaoh said unto Jacob: About how many, have been the days of the years of thy life? ⁹And Jacob said unto Pharaoh, The days of the years of my sojournings, have been a hundred and thirty years,—Few and evil, have been the days of the years of my life, neither have they attained unto the days of the years of the lives of my fathers, in the days of their sojournings. ¹⁰And Jacob blessed Pharaoh,—and came forth from the presence of Pharaoh. ¹¹So then Joseph fixed the dwelling of his father and his brethren, and gave them a possession in the land of Egypt in the best of the land. in the land of Rameses,—as Pharaoh had commanded. ¹²And Joseph nourished his father and his brethren, and all his father's house,—with bread, according to the need of their little ones. ¹³But, bread, was there none in all the land,—for the famine was, very severe,—so that the land of Egypt and the land of Canaan fainted by reason of the famine, ¹⁴So Joseph gathered up all the silver that was found in the land of Egypt. and in the land of Canaan, for the corn which, they, were buying,—and Joseph brought the silver into the house of Pharaoh. ¹⁵And the silver was spent out of the land of Egypt and out of the land of Canaan, so all the Egyptians came in unto Joseph, saying—Do give us bread, for why should we die before thee, although, silver, hath failed? ¹⁶Then said Joseph: Give your cattle, and I will give you for your cattle,—if silver hath failed. ¹⁷So they brought in their cattle unto Joseph, and Joseph gave them bread in exchange for the horses and for the cattle of the flock and for the cattle of the herd, and for the asses,—and he provided them with bread for all their cattle, throughout that year. ¹⁸When that year was ended, then came they unto him in the second year and said to him—We will not hide from my lord, how that the silver and the herds of beasts for my lord are come to an end,—there is nothing left before my lord, save only our bodies and our ground: ¹⁹Wherefore should we die before thine eyes both we, and our ground? Buy thou us and our ground, for bread,—and we and our ground will become servants to Pharaoh, and give seed, that we may live, and not die, and the ground, not lie waste. ²⁰So Joseph bought all the ground of the Egyptians for Pharaoh, for the Egyptians sold every man his field, because the famine had laid fast hold upon them,—so the land became Pharaohs. ²¹And as for the people, he brought them into bondage as servants,—from one end of the boundary of Egypt unto the other end thereof. ²²Only, the ground of the priests, bought he not,—for the priests had a statutory-portion, from Pharaoh and they had been eating their statutory-portion, which Pharaoh had given them, for which cause, they had not sold their ground. ²³And Joseph said unto the people, Lo! I have bought you this day, and your ground for Pharaoh,—see, here is seed for you, so shall ye sow the ground; ²⁴and it shall come to pass that, of the yield, ye shall give a fifth to Pharaoh,—but the four parts, shall be your own—for seed for the field, and for your food and for them who are in your households and for food for your little ones. ²⁵And they said—Thou hast saved our lives! let us find favour in the eyes of my lord, so will we become Pharaohs servants. ²⁶And Joseph appointed it for a statute—until this day, regarding the ground of Egypt, that Pharaoh, should take a fifth,—only, the ground of the priests, was, theirs alone, it had not become Pharaohs. ²⁷Thus Israel dwelt in the land of Egypt in the land of Goshen,—and gained possessions therein, and became fruitful and multiplied exceedingly. ²⁸And Jacob lived in the land of Egypt seventeen years,—so it came to pass that the days of Jacob, the years of his life, were a hundred and forty-seven years. ²⁹And the days of Israel drew near that he must die, so he called for his son for Joseph and said to him—If, I pray thee I have found favour in thine eyes, place, I pray thee thy hand under my thigh,—so shalt thou deal with me in lovingkindness and faithfulness—Do not I pray thee, bury me in Egypt. ³⁰When I shall lie down with my fathers, then shalt thou carry me out of Egypt, and bury me in their buryingplace. And he said: I, will do according to thy word. ³¹Then he said: Come, swear to me! And he swore to him. Then did Israel how himself down on the head of the couch.

⁴⁸And it came to pass after these things, that one said to Joseph, Lo! thy father, is sick. So he took his two sons with him, Manasseh and Ephraim. ²And one told Jacob, and said—Lo! thy son Joseph, coming in unto thee. So Israel strengthened himself, and sat up on the couch. ³Then said Jacob unto Joseph, GOD Almighty, appeared unto me in Luz in the land of Canaan,—and blessed me; ⁴and said unto me—Behold me! about to make thee fruitful, so will I multiply thee, and give thee to become a multitude of peoples,—so will I give this land to thy seed after thee, as an age-abiding possession. ⁵Now, therefore thy two sons who were born to thee in the land of Egypt, before I came in unto thee in Egypt, are Ephraim and Manasseh, like Reuben and Simeon, shall be mine. ⁶But thine offspring which thou hast begotten after them, thine own shall they be,—after the name of their brethren, shall they be called in their inheritance. ⁷But, as for me, when I came in from Padan, Rachel died by me, in the land of Canaan, in the way, while yet there was a stretch of country to come into Ephrath,—so I buried her there in the way to Ephrath, the same, is Bethlehem. ⁸Then Israel saw Joseph's sons,—and said—Who are these? ⁹And Joseph said unto his father, My sons, they are, whom God hath given me, in this place. And he said—Bring them, I pray thee, unto me, that I may bless them. ¹⁰Now, the eyes of Israel, had become dim from old age,—he could not see,—so he drew them near unto him, and kissed them, and embraced them. ¹¹And Israel said unto Joseph, To see thine own face, had I not thought,—and lo! God hath caused me to see even thy seed! ¹²And Joseph brought them out from beside his knees, and bowed himself down with his face towards the earth. ¹³And Joseph took them both,—Ephraim in his right hand on Israel's left hand, and Manasseh in his left hand, on Israel's right hand, and drew them near unto him. ¹⁴Then Israel put forth his right hand and laid it upon the head of Ephraim, though, he, was the younger, and his left hand upon the head of Manasseh,—crossing his hands, although, Manasseh, was the first-born. ¹⁵Thus blessed he Joseph, and said,—God himself—before whom walked my fathers. Abraham and Isaac, God himself—who hath been my shepherd, since I came into being until this day;—¹⁶The Messenger—who hath been my redeemer from all evil—bless the lads! And may there be called upon them, my name, and the name of my fathers. Abraham and Isaac; And may they swarm into a multitude, in the midst of the earth! ¹⁷And Joseph saw that his father had laid his right hand on the head of Ephraim and it was displeasing in his eyes,—so he took hold of his fathers hand to remove it from off the head of Ephraim, on to the head of Manasseh. ¹⁸And Joseph said unto his father—Not so, my father! for, this, is the firstborn, lay thy right hand upon his head. ¹⁹And his father refused, and said—I know—my son, I know! He also, shall become a people, and he also, shall become great,—but nevertheless, his younger brother, shall become greater than he, and his seed, shall become a filling up of the nations. ²⁰And he blessed them on that day, saying—In thee, let Israel bless himself saying, God set thee as Ephraim, and as Manasseh! So he set Ephraim before Manasseh. ²¹And Israel said unto Joseph: Lo! I, am about to die,—but it shall come to pass that, God will be with you, and will take you back into the land of your fathers. ²²But, I, have given to thee one mountain-track above thy brethren,—which I took out of the hand of the Amorite, with my sword and with my bow.

49Then called Jacob unto his sons,—and said—Gather yourselves together, and let me tell you, that which shall befall you in the afterpart of the days. ²Assemble yourselves and hear ye sons of Jacob,—And hearken unto Israel your father! ³Reuben, my first-born, thou, My vigour, and the first-fruit of my strength,—Pre-eminence of elevation and pre-eminence of power: ⁴Boiling over like water, thou mayest not have pre-eminence, Because thou didst mount the bed of thy father,—Then, wast thou profane—My marriage-bed, he mounted! ⁵Simeon and Levi, are brethren,—Instruments of violence, are their agreements: ⁶Into their circle, do not thou enter my soul! In their convocation, do not thou join mine honour! For in their anger, they slew brave men, And in their wantonness, they hamstrung oxen. ⁷Accursed, be their anger, because fierce, And their wrath because cruel,—I divide them in Jacob, And I disperse them in Israel. ⁸Judah, as for thee, thy brethren shall praise thee when thy hand is on the neck of thy foes,—The sons of thy father, shall bow themselves down to thee: ⁹A lion's whelp, is Judah, From the prey, my son hast thou come up! He hath stooped—hath crouched As a lion—or as a lioness, Who shall rouse him? ¹⁰The sceptre shall not depart from Judah, Nor the commanders staff a from between his feet,—Until that he come in as a Shiloh, And, his, be the obedience of the peoples: ¹¹Binding, to the vine, his ass, And to the choice vine his ass's colt, He hath washed in wine his raiment, And in the blood of grapes, his mantle: ¹²Darker—his eyes, than wine,—Whiter—his teeth than milk! ¹³Zebulon, by a haven of seas, shall he settle down,—Even he, by a haven of ships, With his utmost part upon b Zidon. ¹⁴Issachar, an ass of strength,—couching between the pens; ¹⁵Then beholdeth he rest, that it is good, And the ground that it is pleasant,—So he bendeth his shoulder to bear, And becometh a tributary servant. ¹⁶Dan, shall vindicate his people,—as one of the tribes of Israel; ¹⁷It cometh to pass that, Dan, is a serpent upon the way, A horned viper, upon the path,—That biteth the heels of the horse, And his rider falleth backwards:—¹⁸For thy salvation, have I waited O Yahweh! ¹⁹Gad! a troop shall troop on him,—But, he, shall troop on the rear. ²⁰Out of Asher, fatness, is his feed,—So, he, setteth forth dainties for a king. ²¹Naphtali, is a slender hind,—That putteth forth antlers of beauty. A fruitful bough, is Joseph, ²²A fruitful bough over a fountain,—Branches creeping over a wail. ²³So they attack him and have shot,—So they enclose him, do the masters of arrows. ²⁴But abideth, as an enduring one, his bow, And supple are the arms of his hands,—From the hands of the Mighty One of Jacob, From thence, is the Shepherd the Stone of Israel: ²⁵From the GOD of thy father who doth help thee And GOD Almighty who doth bless thee,

Blessings of the heavens, above, Blessings of the abyss, couching beneath,—Blessings of breasts and womb: ²⁶The blessings of thy father, have prevailed, Over the blessings of the perpetual mountains, The charm of the age-abiding hills,—They turn out to be, for the head of Joseph, And for the crown of the head of him who was set apart from his brethren. ²⁷Benjamin a wolf that teareth in pieces, In the morning, he eateth prey, And at eventide, he divideth spoil. ²⁸All these, are the twelve tribes of Israel,—And this, is that which their father spake to them when he blessed them, Each man severally according to the blessing wherewith he blessed them. ²⁹Then commanded he them and said unto them—I, am about to be gathered unto my people, Bury me among my fathers,—within the cave, that is in the field of Ephron the Hittite: ³⁰in the cave that is in the field of Machpelah which is over against Mamre, in the land of Canaan,—which Abraham bought, along with the field, from Ephron the Hittite for a possession of a buryingplace:—³¹There, buried they Abraham, and Sarah his wife, There, buried they Isaac, and Rebekah his wife,—And there, buried I Leah:—³²buying the field and the cave that is therein, from the sons of Heth. ³³So Jacob made an end of commanding his sons, and gathered up his feet into the couch,—and ceased to breathe and was gathered unto his people.

50And Joseph fell upon the face of his father, and wept upon him and kissed him. ²Then Joseph commanded his servants the physicians, to embalm his father,—so the physicians embalmed Israel. ³And they fulfilled for him forty days, for so, are they wont to fulfil the days of the embalmed,—and the Egyptians wept for him seventy days. ⁴And, when the days of weeping for him were passed, Joseph spake unto the house of Pharaoh saying,—If I pray you, I have found favour in your eyes, speak ye I pray you in the ears of Pharaoh saying: ⁵My father, made me swear saying,—Lo! I, am about to die,—in my grave which I digged for myself in the land of Canaan, there, shalt thou bury me. Now, therefore, let me go up, I pray thee and bury my father, and return. ⁶And Pharaoh said,—Go up., and bury thy father according as he made thee swear. ⁷So Joseph went up. to bury his father,—and there went up with him all the servants of Pharaoh the elders of his house, and all the elders of the land of Egypt; ⁸and all the house of Joseph, and his brethren, and the house of his father,—only their little ones and their flocks and their herds, left they. in the land of Goshen. ⁹And there went up with him, both chariots and horsemen,—so it came to pass that, the company, was exceeding great, ¹⁰And they came in, as far as the threshing-floor of the Buckthorn, which is beyond the Jordan, then wailed they there—an exceeding great and grievous wailing,—and he made for his father a mourning, of seven days. ¹¹And when the dwellers in the land—the Canaanites—saw the mourning in the threshing-floor of the Buckthorn, they said,—A grievous mourning, this! for the Egyptians. For this cause, was the name thereof called Abel Mizraim, which is beyond the Jordan. ¹²And his sons did for him thus as he had commanded them; ¹³so his sons carried him to the land of Canaan, and buried him in the cave of the field of Machpelah,—which Abraham bought—with the field—for a possession of a burying-place from Ephron the Hittite over against Mamre. ¹⁴Then Joseph returned to Egypt he and his brethren and all who had been up with him to bury his father,—after he had buried his father. ¹⁵Now when the brethren of Joseph saw that their father was dead, they said—Oh! if Joseph should lie in wait for us,—and should return, to us, all the evil wherewith we requited him! ¹⁶So they sent in charge unto Joseph saying,—Thy father, gave command before he died saying: ¹⁷Thus, shall ye say to Joseph—Ah now! do forgive we pray thee the transgression of thy brethren and their sin in that with evil, they requited thee. Now, therefore grant forgiveness we pray thee, for the transgression of the servants of the God of thy father! And Joseph wept when they spake unto him. ¹⁸Then went his brethren also, and fell down before him,—and said, Behold us! thine for servants. ¹⁹And Joseph said unto them—Do not fear,—although in place of God, I am. ²⁰Ye, indeed, planned against me, evil,—God, planned it, for good, for the sake of doing, as at this day, to save alive much people. ²¹Now, therefore do not fear! I will nourish you and your little ones. Thus he consoled them, and spake unto their heart. ²²And Joseph abode in Egypt, he, and his fathers house,—and Joseph lived a hundred and ten years. ²³And Joseph saw Ephraim's, sons of three generations—moreover the sons of Machir, son of Manasseh, were born upon Joseph's knees. ²⁴Then said Joseph unto his brethren, I, am about to die,—but God will surely concern, himself for you, so will he take you up out of this land, into the land which he sware to Abraham to Isaac and to Jacob. ²⁵Then Joseph made the sons of Israel swear saying,—God will, surely concern, himself for you, So shall ye carry up my bones, from hence. ²⁶So Joseph died, being a hundred and ten years old,—and they embalmed him, and put him in a coffin in Egypt.

Exodus

¹Now, these, are the names of the Sons of Israel, who came into Egypt, with Jacob, did each man and his household come in:—²Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah; ³Issachar, Zebulon, and Benjamin; ⁴Dan and Naphtali, Gad and Asher. ⁵And it came to pass that all the persons who were descended from Jacob were seventy souls,—but, Joseph, was already in Egypt. ⁶So then Joseph died and all his brethren, and all that generation. ⁷But the sons of Israel, were fruitful and swarmed and multiplied and waxed mighty, with exceeding vigour,—so that the land was filled with them. ⁸Then arose a new king over Egypt,—who had not known Joseph. ⁹So he said, unto his people, Lo! the people of the sons of Israel are too many and mighty for us! ¹⁰Come on! let us shew ourselves wise with regard to them, lest they so multiply that it shall come to pass when war befalleth us, that they also, shall join themselves unto them who hate us, and shall make war upon us. and then go up out of the land. ¹¹So they set over them chiefs of tribute, to the end they might humiliate them with their burdens,—and they built store-cities for Pharaoh, even Pithom and Raamses. ¹²But the more they were humiliating them, the more, were they multiplying, and, the more, were they breaking forth, so they were filled with alarm because of the sons of Israel. ¹³And the Egyptians rigorously made the sons of Israel serve; ¹⁴and embittered their lives with harsh service, in clay and in bricks, and in all manner of service in the field,—all their service, wherein they rigorously made them serve. ¹⁵Then said the king of Egypt to the Hebrew midwives,—of whom, the name of the one was, Shiprah, and, the name of the other Puah;—¹⁶then he said—When ye act as midwives unto the Hebrew women, then shall ye look out for the sex,—If it is, a son, then shall ye kill it, But, if it is, a daughter, then shall it live. ¹⁷But the midwives feared God, and did not as the king of Egypt spake unto them,—but suffered the male children to live. ¹⁸Then called the king of Egypt for the midwives, and said to them—Wherefore have ye done this thing, that ye should let the male children live? ¹⁹And the midwives said unto Pharaoh. Because not like the Egyptian women, are the Hebrew women, for they are full of life, ere yes the midwife can come in unto them, they have given birth, ²⁰So then God dealt well with the midwives,—and the people multiplied, and waxed exceeding mighty. ²¹And it came to pass, because the midwives feared God, that he made for them households. ²²Then gave Pharaoh command to all his people saying—Every son that is born to the Hebrews, into the river, shall ye cast him; But every daughter, shall ye suffer to live.

²And there went a man of the house of Levi,—and took a laughter of Levi. ²And the woman conceived and bare a son,—and she saw him, that he was a goodly child, so she hid him three months. ³And when she could no longer hide him, she took for him an ark of paper-reed, and covered it over with bitumen, and with pitch,—and put therein the child, and laid it among the rushes upon the bank of the river. ⁴Then did his sister station herself at a distance,—to see what would be done to him. ⁵So then the daughter of Pharaoh came down to bathe by the river, and her, maidens, were walking by the side of the river,—when she saw the ark in the midst of the rushes, and sent her handmaid, and fetched it. ⁶And she opened and beheld it—even the child, and lo! a boy weeping,—so she took pity on him, and said, Of the children of the Hebrews, is this. ⁷Then said his sister unto Pharaoh's daughter, Shall I go and call thee a nurse, of the Hebrew women,—that she may nurse for thee the child? ⁸And Pharaoh's daughter said to her—Go. So the maid went, and called the mother of the child. ⁹And Pharaoh's daughter said to her—Take this child, and nurse it for me, and, I, will give thee thy wages. So the woman took the child, and nursed it. ¹⁰And the child grew, and she brought him in to Pharaoh's daughter, and he became her son. And she called his name Moses, and said—For out of the water, I drew him. ¹¹And it came to pass in those days when Moses grew up, that he went out unto his brethren, and looked on their burdens,—and saw, an Egyptian smiting a Hebrew—of his brethren, ¹²So he turned this way and that, and when he saw that there was no man, he smote the Egyptian, and hid him in the sand. ¹³And he went out on the second day, and lo! two Hebrews, striving together,—so he said to him that did the wrong, Wherefore shouldest thou smite thy fellow? ¹⁴And he said—Who hath set thee for a chief and a judge over us? To slay me, art thou thinking, as thou didst slay the Egyptian? Then was Moses afraid, and said—Surely the thing is, known! ¹⁵So Pharaoh heard this thing, and sought to slay Moses,—and Moses fled from the face of Pharaoh, and dwelt in the land of Midian and sat down by the well. ¹⁶Now, the priest of Midian, had seven daughters,—and they came and drew and filled the troughs, to water their fathers flock. ¹⁷Then came the shepherds, and drave them away,—so Moses rose up, and succoured them, and watered their flock, ¹⁸Then came they in unto Reuel their father,—and he said, Wherefore have ye so early come in to-day? ¹⁹And they said, An Egyptian, delivered us out of the hand of the shepherds,—Moreover also he drew, for us, and watered the flock. ²⁰And he said unto his daughters—And where is he? wherefore is it that ye left the man? Call him that he may eat bread. ²¹And Moses was well-pleased to dwell with the man,—and he gave Zipporah his daughter to Moses. ²²And she bare a son, and he called his name Gershom,—for he said, A, sojourner, I am, in a strange land. ²³And it came to pass, during those many days, that the king of Egypt died, and the sons of Israel sighed by reason of the servitude and lamented,—and their cry for help went up to God, by reason of the servitude. ²⁴And God heard their groaning,—and God remembered his covenant, with Abraham, with Isaac and with Jacob; ²⁵so then, God looked upon the sons of Israel,—and God regarded.

3Now, Moses, was shepherding the flock of Jethro his father-in-law priest of Midian,—so he led forth the flock behind the desert, and came in unto the mountain of God to Horeb. ²Then appeared the messenger of Yahweh unto him, in a flame of fire from the midst of the thorn-bush,—so he looked and lo! the thorn-bush burning with fire and yet the thorn-bush, was not consumed. ³And, Moses said, Let me turn aside, pray, and see this great sight,—why the thorn-bush, doth not burn up. ⁴And Yahweh saw, that he turned aside to see,—so God called unto him out of the midst of the thorn-bush, and said—Moses! Moses! And he said—Behold me! ⁵And he said—Do not draw nigh hither,—put off thy sandals from thy feet, for, the place whereon thou art standing is holy ground. ⁶And he said—I, am the God of thy father, God of Abraham, God of Isaac and God of Jacob. And Moses hid his face, for he was afraid to look upon God. ⁷Then said Yahweh, I have, seen, the humiliation of my people, who are in Egypt,—and their outcry, have I heard, by reason of their task-masters, for I know their pains; ⁸therefore have I come down to deliver them from the hand of the Egyptians, and to take them up out of that land, into a land good and large, into a land flowing with milk and honey,—into the place of the Canaanite and the Hittite, and the Amorite and the Perizzite, and the Hivite, and the Jebusite. ⁹Now, therefore, lo! the outcry of the sons of Israel, hath come in unto me,—moreover also, I have seen the oppression, wherewith the Egyptians are oppressing them. ¹⁰Now, therefore, come thou! that I may send thee unto Pharaoh,—and bring thou forth my people—the sons of Israel—out of Egypt. ¹¹And Moses said unto God, Who am, I, that I should go unto Pharaoh,—and that I should bring forth the sons of Israel out of Egypt? ¹²And he said—I will be with thee, and, this, to thee, shall be the sign, that, I have sent thee,—When thou bringest forth the people out of Egypt, ye shall do service unto God, upon this mountain. ¹³And Moses said unto God—Lo! as surely as, I, go in unto the sons of Israel, and say unto them, The God of your fathers, hath sent me unto you, So surely will they say unto me—What is his name? What shall I say unto them? ¹⁴And God said unto Moses, I Will Become whatsoever I please, And he said—Thus, shalt thou say to the sons of Israel, I Will Become hath sent me unto you. ¹⁵And God said yet further unto Moses—Thus shalt thou say unto the sons of Israel, Yahweh God of your fathers. God of Abraham God of Isaac and God of Jacob, hath sent me unto you. This, is my name to times age-abiding, And, this, my memorial to generation after generation. ¹⁶Go—and thou shalt gather together the eiders of Israel and shalt say unto them—Yahweh. God of your fathers, hath appeared unto me, the God of Abraham Isaac, and Jacob saying,—I am, concerned, for you, and for what is done to you in Egypt; ¹⁷therefore do I say—I will bring you up out of the humiliation of Egypt, into the land of the Canaanite and the Hittite, and the Amorite and the Perizzite, and the Hivite, and the Jebusite,—into a land flowing with milk and honey. ¹⁸So will they hearken to thy voice,—and thou shalt go in—thou, and the elders of Israel, unto the king of Egypt and ye shall say unto him—Yahweh, God of the Hebrews, hath fallen in with us, Now, therefore let us go, we pray thee, a journey of three days into the desert, that we may sacrifice to Yahweh, our God. ¹⁹But, I, know, that the king of Egypt will not suffer you to go,—not even by a firm hand. ²⁰So then I will put forth my hand and smite Egypt, with all my wonders, which I will d in the midst thereof,—and, after that, he will send you forth. ²¹Thus will I give favour to this people in the eyes of the Egyptians,—so shall it come to pass that when ye do go, ye shall not go empty; ²²but every woman shall ask of her neighbour, and of her that sojourneth in her house, jewels of silver, and jewels of gold and mantles,—and ye shall put them upon your sons and upon your daughters, so shall ye spoil the Egyptians.

4Then responded Moses, and said, And lo! they will not believe me, neither hearken to my voice,—for they will say, Yahweh, hath not appeared unto thee. ²And Yahweh said unto him—What is this in thy hand? And he said—A staff. ³Then said he—Cast it to the earth. And he cast it to the earth, and it became a serpent,—and Moses fled from the face thereof. ⁴And Yahweh said unto Moses, Put forth thy hand, and take it by its tail: So he put forth his hand, and laid hold of it, and it became a staff in his hand:—⁵that they may believe that Yahweh, God of their fathers,—God of Abraham, God of Isaac, and God of Jacob hath appeared unto thee. ⁶Then said Yahweh unto him, yet again—Bring, I pray thee, thy hand, into thy bosom. So he brought his hand, into his bosom,—and then took it out, and lo! his hand, was leprous,—like snow, ⁷And he said—Put back thy hand into thy bosom: So he put back his hand into his bosom,—and then took it out of his bosom, and lo it had come again like his own flesh: ⁸thus shall it come to pass, if they will not believe thee, nor hearken to the voice of the first sign, then will they believe the voice of the next sign; ⁹and it shall come to pass if they will not believe even these two signs nor hearken to thy voice, then shalt thou take of the water of the river, and pour it out on the dry land,—so shall the water which thou hast taken from the river, become, yea it shall become, blood, on the dry land. ¹⁰And Moses said unto Yahweh—Pardon, O My Lord! not a man of words, am I, neither heretofore, nor since thou hast spoken unto thy servant,—for heavy of mouth and heavy of tongue, I am. ¹¹Then Yahweh said unto him—Who appointed a mouth for man, or who appointeth him to be dumb, or deaf, or seeing or blind? Is it not I, Yahweh? ¹²Now, therefore go,—and, I, will be with thy mouth, so will I direct thee, what thou shalt speak. ¹³And he said—Pardon, O My Lord! send, I pray thee by the hand of him whom thou wilt send—¹⁴Then was kindled the anger of Yahweh against Moses, and he said—Is there not Aaron, thy brother, the Levite? I know that he lean speak. Moreover also lo! he himself is coming forth to meet thee, as surely as he seeth thee, so surely will he rejoice in his heart. ¹⁵Then shalt thou speak unto him, and shalt put the words in his mouth,—and, I, will be with thy mouth and with his mouth, so will I direct you what ye shall do. ¹⁶And, he, shall speak for thee unto the people,—so shall it come to pass that he shall become thy mouth, and thou shalt become to him as God. ¹⁷And this staff, take thou in thy hand,—wherewith thou shalt do the signs. ¹⁸So Moses went and returned unto Jethro his father-in-law and said to him—Let me go, I pray thee, and return unto my brethren who are in Egypt, that I may see whether they are yet alive. And Jethro said to Moses: Go and prosper. ¹⁹Then said Yahweh unto Moses in Midian, Go, return to Egypt,—for all the men are dead who were seeking thy life. ²⁰So Moses took his wife and his sons, and caused them to ride upon the ass, and he returned to the land of Egypt,—and Moses took the staff of God in his hand. ²¹And Yahweh said unto Moses, When thou goest to return to Egypt, see as touching all the wonders which I have put in thy hand, that thou do them before Pharaoh—but, I, will let his heart wax bold, and he will not suffer the people to go. ²²Then shalt thou say unto Pharaoh, Thus, saith Yahweh—My son—my firstborn, is Israel; ²³Therefore I say unto thee, Let my son go, that he may serve me, But if thou refuse to let him go, behold, I, am going to slay, thy son, thy firstborn. ²⁴And it came to pass, on the way, in the resting-place for the night, that Yahweh fell upon him, and sought to kill him. ²⁵So Zipporah took a sharp stone and cut off the foreskin of her son, and cast it down at his feet,—and said—Surely, a bridegroom by rites of blood, art thou to me! ²⁶So he let him go, Then, it was that she said, A bridegroom by rites of blood—with regard to the rites of circumcision. ²⁷And Yahweh said unto Aaron, Go thy way to meet Moses, towards the desert. So he went his way, and fell in with him in the mountain of God and kissed him. ²⁸And Moses told Aaron, all the words of Yahweh wherewith he had sent him,—and all the signs wherewith he had charged him. ²⁹So Moses and Aaron went their way,—and gathered together all the elders of the sons of Israel. ³⁰And Aaron spake all the words which Yahweh had spoken unto Moses,—and did the signs before the eyes of the people, ³¹And the people believed,—and when they heard that Yahweh had concerned himself for the sons of Israel, and that he had looked upon their humiliation, then bent they their heads and bowed themselves down.

⁵And afterwards, Moses and Aaron went in and said unto Pharaoh,—Thus, saith Yahweh God of Israel, Let my people go, that they may hold a festival to me in the desert. ²Then said Pharaoh, Who is Yahweh that I should hearken to his voice, to let Israel go? I know not Yahweh, and certainly. Israel, will I not let go! ³And they said, the God of the Hebrews, hath met with us,—let us go, we pray thee, a journey of three days into the desert and sacrifice to Yahweh our God, lest he fall upon us with pestilence or with sword. ⁴And the king of Egypt said unto them, Wherefore O Moses and Aaron should ye loose the people from their works? Get you to your burdens. ⁵And Pharaoh said, Lo! many—now, are the people of the land,—and are ye to make them rest from their burdens? ⁶So then Pharaoh gave command on that day, unto the taskmasters over the people and unto their overseers—saying: ⁷Ye shall no more give straw unto the people, for making the bricks as heretofore: Let them, go, themselves, so shall they gather for themselves straw: ⁸Nevertheless, the fixed number of bricks, which they have been making heretofore, shall ye lay upon them, ye shall not diminish therefrom,—for idle, they are, on this account, it is that they are making an outcry, saying, We must go our way, we must sacrifice to our God. ⁹The service must be made heavy on the men that they may labour on it,—and let them not pay regard to words of falsehood. ¹⁰Then went forth the taskmasters of the people and their overseers, and spake unto the people,—saying,—Thus, saith Pharaoh, I am not going to give you straw, ¹¹Ye yourselves go fetch you straw, of any ye can find,—yet hath there not been diminished from your service a single thing. ¹²So the people dispersed themselves throughout all the land of Egypt,— to gather stubble for straw: ¹³the taskmasters, meanwhile, being urgent saying,—Complete your works, The task of a day, in its day, as when the straw was provided. ¹⁴Then were beaten the overseers of the sons of Israel, whom the taskmasters of Pharaoh had set over them saying: Wherefore have ye not completed your task for making bricks, as heretofore, so also, yesterday and, to-day? ¹⁵Then came in the overseers of the sons of Israel, and made outcry unto Pharaoh, saying, Wherefore shouldst thou do thus to thy servants? ¹⁶No straw, is given to thy servants, yet bricks,—they keep saying to us—make ye! And lo, thy servants, are beaten—thou dost, therefore, wrong thy people. ¹⁷But he said: Idle, ye are—idle, on this account, are, ye, saying, We must take our journey, we must sacrifice to Yahweh. ¹⁸Now, therefore, go labour, but, straw, shall not be given you,—yet the tale of bricks, shall ye render. ¹⁹Then did the overseers of the sons of Israel see themselves to be in an evil case, when it was said,—Ye shall not diminish from your bricks—the task of a day, in its day ²⁰So they fell upon Moses and upon Aaron, stationing themselves to meet them,—as they came forth from Pharaoh; ²¹and they said unto them, Yahweh look upon you and judge,—in that ye have made us odious in the eyes of Pharaoh and in the eyes of his servants, putting a sword into their hand to slay us. ²²And Moses returned unto Yahweh and said,—O My Lord wherefore hast thou caused harm to this people? Wherefore now didst thou send me? ²³seeing that from what time I came in unto Pharaoh to speak in thy name, he hath done harm to this people, and thou hast not delivered, thy people, ⁶Then said Yahweh unto Moses, Now, shalt thou see, what I will do to Pharaoh, for with a strong hand, shall he let them go, and with a strong hand, shall he drive them out from his land. ²And Gods spake unto Moses,—and said unto him, I, am Yahweh: ³I appeared, therefore, unto Abraham unto Isaac, and unto Jacob, as GOD Almighty,—although, by my name Yahweh was I not made known to them; ⁴Moreover also I established my covenant with them, to give them the land of Canaan,—even the land of their sojournings wherein they sojourned. ⁵Moreover also, I heard the groaning of the sons of Israel, whom the Egyptians, were holding in servitude, So then I remembered my covenant. ⁶Therefore say thou to the sons of Israel—I, am Yahweh, Therefore will I bring you forth from under the burdens of Egypt, And will deliver you out of their service, And will redeem you with a stretched-out arm, and with great judgments; ⁷And will take you to myself for a people, And will become your God,—And ye shall know that, I Yahweh, am your God, who brought you forth from under the burdens of Egypt: ⁸And I will bring you into the land as to which I uplifted my hand to give it to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob,—and will give it to you as an inheritance: I, am Yahweh. ⁹And Moses spake thus unto the sons of Israel, but they hearkened not unto Moses, through shortness of spirit, and through hard service. ¹⁰And Yahweh spake unto Moses saying: ¹¹Go in speak unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, that he let the sons of Israel go out of his land. ¹²And Moses spake before Yahweh, saying,—Lo! the sons of Israel have not hearkened unto me, how then shall Pharaoh, hear, I, also being of uncircumcised lips. ¹³Thus then did Yahweh speak unto Moses and unto Aaron, yea he gave them a charge unto the sons of Israel, and unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, for the bringing forth of the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt. ¹⁴These, are the heads of their ancestral house: The sons of Reuben the first-born of Israel, Hanoch and Pallu, Hezron and Carmi. These are the families of, Reuben. ¹⁵And, the sons of Simeon, Jemuel and Jamin and Ohad and Jachin and Zohar, and Shaul the son of a Canaanitess. These, are the families of, Simeon. ¹⁶And, these, are the names of the sons of Levi by their generations, Gershon, and Kohath and Merari, And, the years of the life of Levi, were a hundred and thirty-seven years. ¹⁷The sons of Gershon, Libni and Shimei by their families. ¹⁸And the sons of Kohath, Amram and Izhar, and Hebron and Uzziel. And the years of the life of Kohath, were a hundred and thirty-three years. ¹⁹And the sons of Merari, Mahli and Mushi. These, are the families of the Levites by their generations. ²⁰So then, Amram took Jochebed, his father's sister to himself to wife, and she bare to him—Aaron and Moses. And, the years of the life of Amram, were a hundred and thirty-seven. ²¹And the sons of Izhar, Korah and Nepheg, and Zichri. ²²And the sons of Uzziel, Mishael and Elzaphan, and Sithri. ²³And Aaron took Elisheba, daughter of Aminadab, sister of Nahshon, to himself to wife,—and she bare to him—Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. ²⁴And the sons of Korah, Assir and Elkanah, and Abiasaph. These are the families of the Korahites. ²⁵And Eleazar, son of Aaron took to himself one of the daughters of Putiel, to himself to wife, and she bare to him Phinehas. These, are the heads of the fathers of the Levites by their families. ²⁶The same, Aaron and Moses,—to whom said Yahweh, Bring ye forth the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt, according to their hosts: ²⁷They who were to speak unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, to bring forth the sons of Israel out of Egypt: The same, Moses and Aaron. ²⁸Thus came it to pass, that on a certain day, Yahweh spake unto Moses in the land of Egypt. ²⁹So then Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying—I, am Yahweh: Speak thou unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, all that, I, am speaking unto thee. ³⁰And Moses said before Yahweh,—Lo! I, am of uncircumcised lips, how then will Pharaoh hearken unto me?

⁷Then said Yahweh unto Moses—See! I have appointed thee to be God unto Pharaoh,—and, Aaron thy brother, shall be thy prophet! ²Thou, shalt speak all that which I may command thee, and, Aaron thy brother, shall speak unto Pharaoh, and he shall let the sons of Israel go out of his land. ³But, I, will suffer Pharaoh to harden his heart,—so will I multiply my signs and my wonders in the land of Egypt. ⁴And Pharaoh will not hearken unto you, so will I lay my hand on Egypt,—and bring forth my hosts—my people the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt, with great judgments. ⁵And the Egyptians shall know that I, am Yahweh, when I have stretched forth my hand over Egypt,—and brought forth the sons of Israel out of their midst. ⁶And Moses and Aaron did so,—as Yahweh commanded them, so, did they. ⁷Now Moses, was eighty years old, and, Aaron, eighty-three years old,—when they spake unto Pharaoh. ⁸And Yahweh spake unto Moses and unto Aaron saying: ⁹When Pharaoh shall speak unto you saying, Shew for yourselves a wonder, then shalt thou say unto Aaron, Take thy staff, and cast it down before Pharaoh let it become a sea-serpent. ¹⁰So Moses and Aaron went in unto Pharaoh, and did so as Yahweh had commanded,—and Aaron cast down his staff before Pharaoh and before his servants and it became a sea-serpent, ¹¹Then called Pharaoh also for the wise men and for the magicians,—and they too, the sacred scribes of Egypt with their secret arts, did in like manner; ¹²yea they cast down each man his staff, and they became sea-serpents,—but Aaron's staff swallowed up their staves. ¹³Then waxed bold the heart of Pharaoh, and he hearkened not unto them,—as spake Yahweh. ¹⁴Then said Yahweh unto Moses, Dull, is the heart of Pharaoh,—he hath refused to let the people go. ¹⁵Get thee unto Pharaoh in the morning—lo! he is coming out to the waters, therefore shalt thou station thyself to meet him on the bank of the river,—and the staff which was turned into a serpent, shalt thou take in thy hand. ¹⁶Then shalt thou say unto him—Yahweh God of the Hebrews hath sent me unto thee saying,—Let my people go, that they may serve me in the desert,—And lo! thou hast not hearkened hitherto. ¹⁷Thus, saith Yahweh, Hereby, shalt thou know that, I, am Yahweh,—Lo! I, am smiting with the staff that is in my hand upon the waters that are in the river and they shall be turned to blood; ¹⁸and, the fish that is in the river shall die and the river shall be loathsome,—and the Egyptians, shall disdain, to drink water out of the river. ¹⁹And Yahweh said unto Moses,—Say unto Aaron—Take thy staff, and stretch forth thy hand over the waters of Egypt, over their streams over their rivers, and over their pools and over all their collections of water—that they may become blood,—so shall there be blood in all the land of Egypt, both in vessels of wood and in vessels of stone. ²⁰And Moses and Aaron, did so, as Yahweh commanded, and he lifted high the staff, and smote the waters which were in the river, before the eyes of Pharaoh, and before the eyes of his servants,—and all the waters which were in the river were turned to blood; ²¹and the fish that was in the river, died and the river became loathsome, so that the Egyptians could not drink water out of the river,—thus came it to pass that blood was in all the land of Egypt. ²²And the sacred scribes of Egypt did in like manner with their secret arts,—so the heart of Pharaoh waxed bold and he hearkened not unto them, as spake Yahweh. ²³Then Pharaoh, turned away, and entered into his house—neither applied he his heart, even to this. ²⁴And all the Egyptians digged round about the river for water to drink,—for they could not drink of the water of the river. ²⁵And seven days were fulfilled,—after Yahweh had smitten the river.

⁸Then said Yahweh unto Moses, Go in unto Pharaoh,—then shalt thou say unto him—Thus, saith Yahweh,—Let my people go, that they may serve me. ²But if thou art, refusing, to let them go, lo! I, am plaguing all thy boundaries with frogs; ³so shall the river swarm with frogs, and they shall come up, and enter into thy house, and into thy bed-chamber and upon thy couch,—and into the house of thy servants and among thy people, and into thine ovens and into thy kneading-troughs: ⁴both against thee, and against thy people, and against all thy servants, shall come up the frogs. ⁵Then said Yahweh unto Moses, Say unto Aaron—Stretch forth thy hand with thy staff, over the streams over the rivers and over the pools,—and bring up the frogs, over the land of Egypt. ⁶So Aaron stretched forth his hand, over the waters of Egypt,—and the frog came up, and covered the land of Egypt. ⁷And the sacred scribes did in like manner, with their secret arts,—and brought up frogs over the land of Egypt. ⁸Then called Pharaoh for Moses and for Aaron and said—Make entreaty unto Yahweh, that he take away the frogs from me and from my people,—and I must let the people go that they may sacrifice to Yahweh. ⁹And Moses said to Pharaoh—Explain thyself unto me: For what time, shall I make entreaty for thee and for thy servants and for thy people, to cause the frogs to be cut off, from thee and from thy houses,—only in the river, shall they remain? ¹⁰And he said—For tomorrow. And he said—According to thy word! that thou mayest know that there is none like Yahweh, our God: ¹¹so the frogs shall depart—from thee and from thy houses and from thy servants and from thy people,—only in the river, shall they remain. ¹²Then went forth Moses and Aaron from Pharaoh,—and Moses made outcry unto Yahweh, over the matter of the frogs which he had appointed for Pharaoh. ¹³And Yahweh did according to the word of Moses,—and the frogs died, out of the houses and out of the yards, and out of the fields; ¹⁴and they piled them up, heaps—heaps,—and the land became loathsome. ¹⁵But when Pharaoh saw that there had come a respite, then made he his heart dull and hearkened not unto them,—as spake Yahweh. ¹⁶Then said Yahweh unto Moses, Say unto Aaron—Stretch forth thy staff, and smite the dust of the land,—so shall it become gnats in all the land of Egypt. ¹⁷And they did so, and Aaron stretched forth his hand with his staff and smote the dust of the land, and there canto to be gnats, among men and among beasts,—all the dust of the land, became gnats, in all the land of Egypt. ¹⁸And the sacred scribes did in like manner with their secret arts, to bring forth the gnats, but they could not. So there came to be gnats, among men and among beasts. ¹⁹Then said the sacred scribes unto Pharaoh, The finger of God, it is! But the heart of Pharaoh waxed bold and he hearkened not unto them, as spake Yahweh. ²⁰Then said Yahweh unto Moses—Rise thou early in the morning, and station thyself before Pharaoh, lo! he is coming forth to the waters,—then shalt thou say unto him—Thus, saith Yahweh: Let my people go, that they may serve me. ²¹But if thou art not letting my people go, behold me! sending forth—against thee, and against thy servants, and against thy people, and against thy houses the gad-fly,—and the houses of the Egyptians shall be full of the gad-fly, moreover also the ground whereon, they are: ²²then will I make to differ on that day, the land of Goshen wherein my people do dwell, so that there shall not be there a gad-fly! in order that thou mayest know, that I, Yahweh, am in the midst of the land; ²³so will I put a separation betwixt my people and thy people. By to-morrow, shall come to pass this sign. ²⁴And Yahweh did so, and brought a grievous gad-fly unto the house of Pharaoh and the houses of his servants and in all the land of Egypt, and the land was laid waste by reason of the gad-fly. ²⁵Then did Pharaoh cry out—unto Moses and to Aaron,—and said—Go your way, sacrifice to your God, in the land. ²⁶And Moses said: Not meet, is it, to do thus, for, an abomination to the Egyptians, we should sacrifice to Yahweh our God. Lo! could we sacrifice that which is an abomination to the Egyptians before their eyes and they not stone us? ²⁷A journey of three days, must we go, in the desert,—then will we sacrifice to Yahweh our God, as, Yahweh, hath said unto us. ²⁸Then said Pharaoh: I, will let you go—so shall ye sacrifice to Yahweh your God in the desert, only ye shall not go a, very long, journey,—make ye entreaty for me. ²⁹And Moses said: Lo! I, am going out from thee and will make entreaty unto Yahweh, so will he take away the gad-fly—from Pharaoh from his servants, and from his people tomorrow,—only let not Pharaoh again deceive, in not letting the people go, to sacrifice to Yahweh. ³⁰So Moses went out from Pharaoh,—and made entreaty unto Yahweh. ³¹And Yahweh did according to the word of Moses, and took away the gad-fly, from Pharaoh from his servants and from his people,—there remained not, one. ³²And Pharaoh made his heart dull, this time also,—and did not let the people go.

⁹Then said Yahweh unto Moses, Go in unto Pharaoh,—then shalt thou say unto him—Thus, saith Yahweh, God of the Hebrews, Let my people go, that they may serve me. ²But, if, refusing, thou art to let them go,—and still art holding them fast, ³lo! the hand of Yahweh, is coming on thy cattle which are in the field, on the horses, on the asses on the camels, on the herds and on the flocks,—a very grievous pestilence; ⁴and Yahweh will make a difference between the cattle of Israel and the cattle of the Egyptians,—so that there shall not die from among all that pertaineth to the sons of Israel, a thing! ⁵And Yahweh appointed a set time—saying, To-morrow, will Yahweh do this thing, in the land. ⁶So Yahweh did this thing, on the morrow, and all the cattle of the Egyptians died,—but of the cattle of the sons of Israel, died not one. ⁷And Pharaoh sent, and lo! there had not died of the cattle of Israel, so much as one. But Pharaoh's heart became dull, and he did not let the people go. ⁸Then said Yahweh unto Moses and unto Aaron, Take you your hands full of the ashes of an oven,—and Moses shall scatter them towards the heavens, before the eyes of Pharaoh: ⁹then shall they become fine dust, over all the land of Egypt,—and shall become on man and on beast, a burning sore, breaking out in pustules in all the land of Egypt. ¹⁰So they took the ashes of an oven and stood before Pharaoh, and Moses scattered them towards the heavens,—and it came to pass that there was a burning sore in pustules breaking out, among men, and among beasts; ¹¹and the sacred scribes could not stand before Moses, because of the burning sore,—for the burning sore had come on the sacred scribes, and on all the Egyptians. ¹²But Yahweh let the heart of Pharaoh wax bold, and he hearkened not unto them,—as spake Yahweh unto Moses. ¹³Then said Yahweh unto Moses, Rise thou early in the morning, and station thyself before Pharaoh,—then shalt thou say unto him—Thus, saith Yahweh, God of the Hebrews, Let my people go that they may serve me; ¹⁴for this time, am I, sending all my plagues unto thy heart, and amongst thy servants and amongst thy people,—to the intent thou mayest get to know, that there is none like me in all the earth. ¹⁵For now, might I have put forth my hand, and smitten thee and thy people with pestilence,—and thou shouldst have secretly disappeared from the earth; ¹⁶but, in very deed for this purpose, have I let thee remain, for the purpose of showing thee my might,—and that my name may be celebrated in all the earth. ¹⁷Even yet, art thou exalting thyself over my people—in not letting them go? ¹⁸Behold me! raining down, about this time to-morrow, an exceeding heavy hail,—such as hath not been in Egypt, from the day it was founded, even unto the present time. ¹⁹Now, therefore, send—bring into safety thy cattle, and all that thou hast in the field,—as touching all men and beasts which shall be found in the field and shall not be withdrawn into shelter, the hail shall come down upon them and they shall die. ²⁰He that feared the word of Yahweh, among the servants of Pharaoh, made his servants and his cattle flee, under shelter: ²¹but, whoso applied not his heart unto the word of Yahweh, left his servants and his cattle in the field. ²²Then said Yahweh unto Moses—Stretch forth thy hand over the heavens, that there may be hail in all the land of Egypt,—on man and on beast, and on every herb of the field in the land of Egypt. ²³So Moses stretched forth his staff over the heavens, and, Yahweh, gave forth thunderings and hail, and there came fire towards the earth,—and Yahweh rained down hail, on the land of Egypt. ²⁴So there came to be hail, and fire catching hold of itself, in the midst of the hail,—exceeding heavy, such as had not been in all the land of Egypt, from the very time it became a nation. ²⁵And the hail smote in all the land of Egypt all that was in the field, both man and beast,—and every herb of the field, did the hail smite, and every tree of the field, did it shiver. ²⁶Only in the land of Goshen, where were the sons of Israel, was there no hail. ²⁷Then sent Pharaoh, and called for Moses and for Aaron, and said unto them—I have sinned this time,—Yahweh, is the righteous one, and, I and my people, are the wrong-doers. ²⁸Make ye request unto Yahweh, and it shall be enough without there being any more thunderings of God, and hail,—and I must a let you go, and not again shall ye delay. ²⁹And Moses said unto him, As soon as I am gone out of the city, will I spread out my hands unto Yahweh,—the thunderings, shall cease, and, the hail, shall come no more,—that thou mayest know, that to Yahweh, belongeth the earth. ³⁰But as touching thee and thy servants, I know that not yet will ye stand in awe of Yahweh Elohim. ³¹Now, the flax and the barley, were smitten,—for the barley, was in the ear, and, the flax, was in flower; ³²but the wheat and the spelt, were not smitten,—for they were, not ripe. ³³So Moses went away from Pharaoh out of the city, and spread out his hands unto Yahweh,—then did the thunderings and the hail cease, and, rain, was not poured out on the earth. ³⁴And when Pharaoh saw that the rain and the hail and the thunderings had ceased, he again sinned,—and made his heart dull, he, and his servants. ³⁵And the heart of Pharaoh waxed bold, and he did not let the sons of Israel go,—as spake Yahweh by the hand of Moses.

10Then said Yahweh unto Moses, Go in unto Pharaoh,—for, I, have suffered his heart to be dull and the heart of his servants, that I may show these my signs, in their midst; ²and that thou mayest recount in the ears of thy son and thy sons' son, what I did in derision of the Egyptians, and my signs which I displayed among them,—so shall ye know that I, am Yahweh. ³And Moses and Aaron went in unto Pharaoh, and said unto him—Thus, saith Yahweh, God of the Hebrews, How long hast thou refused to humble thyself before me? Let my people go that they may serve me. ⁴But if, refusing, thou art to let my people go, behold me bringing in tomorrow a locust within thy bounds; ⁵and it shall cover the eye of the land, so that one shall not be able to see the land,—and it shall eat the residue that hath escaped, that is left you from the hail, and shall eat up all the trees that sprout for you out of the field; ⁶and they shall fill thy houses, and the houses of all thy servants and the houses of all the Egyptians, such as thy fathers and thy fathers' fathers have never seen, from the day they came to be on the ground, until this day. And he turned away, and came out from the presence of Pharaoh. ⁷Then said the servants of Pharaoh unto him, How long shall this man become to us a snare? Let the men go, that they may serve Yahweh their God. Not yet, knowest thou, that Egypt is, ruined? ⁸So Moses and Aaron were brought back unto pharaoh, and he said unto them—Go, serve Yahweh your God,—who, are they that are going? ⁹And Moses said, With our young and with our old, will we go,—with our sons and with our daughters with our flocks and with our herds, will we go,—for, the festival of Yahweh, is ours. ¹⁰Then he said unto them: Let Yahweh, so, be with you, when I let go you and your little ones! Look out for, harm, is straight before your faces. ¹¹Not so! Go, I pray you, ye grown men and serve Yahweh, for, that, is what, ye, were seeking. And they were driven out from the presence of Pharaoh. ¹²Then said Yahweh unto Moses—Stretch forth thy hand over the land of Egypt for the locust, that it may come up over the land of Egypt,—and may eat up every herb of the land, all that the hail hath left. ¹³And Moses stretched forth his staff over the land of Egypt, and, Yahweh, caused an east wind to drive through the land, all that day, and all the night,—when the morning, had come, the east wind, had brought the locust. ¹⁴And the locust came up over all the land of Egypt, and settled in all the bounds of Egypt,—very grievous, before it, had not been such a locust as that, neither after it, should be one like it. ¹⁵So it covered the eye of all the land and the land was darkened, and it did eat every herb of the land and all the fruit of the trees, which the hail had left remaining,—so that there was not left remaining any green sprout in the trees or in the herb of the field in all the land of Egypt. ¹⁶Then hastened Pharaoh, to call for Moses and for Aaron,—and said—I have sinned against Yahweh your God, and against you. ¹⁷Now, therefore, forgive I pray you my sin—only this time, and make entreaty to Yahweh your God,—that he may take away from me, at least, this death. ¹⁸So he came out from Pharaoh,—and made entreaty unto Yahweh; ¹⁹and Yahweh turned back a west wind strong exceedingly, and carried away the locust and cast it into the Red Sea,—there was not left a single locust in all the bounds of Egypt. ²⁰But Yahweh suffered the heart of Pharaoh to wax bold,—and he did not let the sons of Israel go. ²¹Then said Yahweh unto Moses: Stretch forth thy hand over the heavens, that there may be darkness, over the land of Egypt,—and that one may feel the darkness. ²²So Moses stretched forth his hand over the heavens,—and there was thick darkness in all the land of Egypt for three days; ²³they saw not one another neither rose any man from his couch for three days,—but all the sons of Israel, had light in their dwellings. ²⁴Then Pharaoh called out unto Moses and said—Go serve Yahweh, only, your flocks and your herds, shall be left,—even your little ones shall go with you. ²⁵And Moses said, Even thou thyself, shalt give into our hands sacrifices and ascending-offerings,—so shall we present offerings to Yahweh our God. ²⁶Moreover also, our own cattle, shall go with us—there shall not be left behind, a hoof, for thereof, must we take, to serve Yahweh our God,—even we ourselves, cannot know wherewith we must serve Yahweh, until we have come in thither. ²⁷And Yahweh let the heart of Pharaoh wax bold,—and he was not willing to let them go. ²⁸So Pharaoh said to him—Get thee from me,—take heed to thyself—do not any more! see my face, for in the day thou dost see my face, thou shalt die. ²⁹And Moses said—Well hast thou spoken,—no more again to see thy face.

¹¹Then said Yahweh unto Moses—Yet one plague, will I bring in upon Pharaoh and upon Egypt, after that, he will let you go from hence,—when he doth let you go, he will, altogether drive, you out from hence. ²Speak, I pray you, in the ears of the people,—and let them ask—every man of his neighbour, and every woman of her neighbour, articles of silver and articles of gold. ³And Yahweh gave the people favour, in the eyes of the Egyptians,—even the man Moses himself, was exceeding great in the land of Egypt,—in the eyes of Pharaoh's servants and in the eyes of the people. ⁴And Moses said, Thus saith Yahweh,—About midnight, am, I, going forth in the midst of Egypt; ⁵then shall every firstborn in the land of Egypt die, from the firstborn of Pharaoh who is sitting on his throne, unto the firstborn of the handmaid who is behind the two millstones,—and every firstborn of beasts; ⁶then shall there be a great outcry, in all the land of Egypt,—such, as never was and, such, as shall not be again. ⁷But against none of the sons of Israel, shall a dog sharpen his tongue, neither against man nor beast,—that ye may know that Yahweh maketh a difference between Egypt and Israel. ⁸So shall all these thy servants come down unto me and bow themselves down to me saying—Go forth, thou and all the people who are in thy footsteps, and after that, will I go forth. And he went forth from Pharaoh, in a heat of anger. ⁹And Yahweh had said unto Moses, Pharaoh will not hearken unto you,—that my wonders may be multiplied in the land of Egypt. ¹⁰So then, Moses and Aaron, did all these wonders before Pharaoh,—but Yahweh let Pharaoh's heart wax bold, and he did not let the sons of Israel go out of his land.

¹²Then spake Yahweh, unto Moses and unto Aaron, in the land of Egypt saying—²This month, is, to you, a beginning of months,—the first, it is, to you, of the months of the year. ³Speak ye unto all the assembly of Israel, saying, On the tenth of this month, then let them take to them, each man a lamb for his ancestral household, a lamb for a household. ⁴But if the household be too small for a lamb, then shall he and his neighbour that is near unto his house take one, according to the number of souls,—each man according to his eating, shall ye number for the lamb. ⁵A lamb without defect a male a year old, shall yours be,—from the sheep or from the goats, shall ye take it. ⁶So shall it be yours, to keep, until the fourteenth day of this month,—then shall all the convocation of the assembly of Israel slay it between the two evenings. ⁷And they shall take of the blood, and put upon the two door-posts and upon the upper-beam,—upon the houses wherein they are to eat it. ⁸Then shall they eat the flesh, in the same night,—roast with fire, and with unleavened cakes, with bitter herbs, shall they eat it. ⁹Do not eat of it underdone, nor cooked by boiling in water,—but roast with fire, its head with it, legs, and with its inward parts. ¹⁰And ye shall let nothing thereof remain until morning,—but that which is left remaining until morning, in the fire shall ye consume. ¹¹And, thus, shall ye eat it,—your loins, girded, your sandals, on your feet, and, your staff, in your hand,—so shall ye eat it in haste, it is Yahweh's, passing over. ¹²I will pass along, therefore, throughout the land of Egypt this night, and will smite every firstborn in the land of Egypt, from man even to beast,—and against all the gods of Egypt, will I execute judgments—I, Yahweh. ¹³Then shall the blood serve you for a sign, on the houses wherein ye are, then will I behold the blood, and will pass over you,—and there shall be among you no plague to destroy, when I smite the land of Egypt. ¹⁴So shall this day serve you for a memorial, and ye shall celebrate it, as a festival to Yahweh,—to your generations—as an age-abiding statute, shall ye celebrate it. ¹⁵Seven days, unleavened cakes, shall ye eat, surely, on the first day, shall ye put away leaven, out of your houses,—for whosoever eateth what is leavened, then shall that soul be cut off out of Israel, from the first day, unto the seventh day. ¹⁶Both on the first day, a holy convocation, and on the seventh day—a holy convocation, shall there be to you,—no work, shall be done therein, save only what must be eaten by every soul, that alone, shall be done by you. ¹⁷So then ye shall observe the unleavened cakes, because on this self-same day, brought I forth your hosts out of the land of Egypt,—so then ye shall observe this day to your generations, as a statute age-abiding, ¹⁸In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month in the evening, shall ye eat unleavened cakes,—until the one-and-twentieth day of the month in the evening, ¹⁹For seven days, leaven, shall not be found in your houses,—for, whosoever eateth what is leavened, then shall that soul be cut off out of the assembly of Israel, whether sojourner or native of the land. ²⁰Nothing leavened, shall ye eat,—in all your dwellings, shall ye eat unleavened cakes. ²¹So then Moses called for all the elders of Israel, and said unto them,—Proceed and take for yourselves one of the flock according to your families, and slay the passover. ²²Then shall ye take a bunch of hyssop, and dip it in the blood which is in the basin, and strike the upper beam and the two door-posts, with the blood which is in the basin,—and, ye, shall not go forth any man out of the entrance of his house, until morning. ²³And Yahweh will pass along to plague the Egyptians, and when he beholdeth the blood upon the upper beam and upon the two door-pests, then will Yahweh pass over the entrance, and not suffer the destroyer to enter into your houses to inflict on you the plague. ²⁴And ye shall observe this thing,—for a statute to thee and to thy sons unto times age-abiding. ²⁵And so it shall come to pass when ye shall enter into the land which Yahweh will give you as he hath spoken,—and ye shall observe this service; ²⁶and it shall come to pass that your sons shall say unto you,—What is this your service? ²⁷Then shall ye say—A passover sacrifice, it is to Yahweh, who passed-over the houses of the sons of Israel, in Egypt, when he plagued the Egyptians but our houses, he delivered. Then did the people bend their heads and bow themselves down. ²⁸And the sons of Israel went their way and did,—as Yahweh had commanded Moses and Aaron, so, did they. ²⁹And it came to pass, at midnight, that Yahweh, smote every first-born in the land of Egypt, from the firstborn of Pharaoh who sat upon his throne, unto the firstborn of the captive who was in the pit of his prison,—and every firstborn of beasts. ³⁰Then rose up Pharaoh by night, he, and all his servants, and all the Egyptians, and there arose a great outcry throughout Egypt,—for there was not a house, where there was not one dead. ³¹So he called for Moses and for Aaron by night and said—Rise ye, go forth out of the midst of my people, both ye and the sons of Israel,—and go serve Yahweh according to your word; ³²also, your flocks and your herds, take ye, as ye spake and go your way,—so shall ye bless, even me. ³³And the Egyptians became urgent with the people, to send them in haste out of the land,—for they said—We all, are dying. ³⁴So the people took up their dough, ere yet it was leavened,—with their kneading-bowls, bound up in their mantles on their shoulders, ³⁵And the sons of Israel, did according to the word of Moses,—and asked of the Egyptians, articles of silver and articles of gold and mantles. ³⁶And Yahweh, gave the people favour in the eyes of the Egyptians and they gave them gladly,—so they spoiled the Egyptians. ³⁷Then did the sons of Israel break up from Rameses, towards Succoth,—about six hundred thousand foot of men grown, besides little ones. ³⁸Moreover also, a mixed multitude, came up with them,—flocks also, and herds, exceeding much cattle, ³⁹Then baked they the dough which they had brought out of Egypt—into round unleavened cakes for it had not been leavened,—for they had been driven out of Egypt and could not tarry, and indeed no provisions, had they made ready for themselves. ⁴⁰Now, the time during which the sons of Israel dwelt in Egypt, was four hundred and thirty years. ⁴¹And it came to pass at the end of four hundred and thirty years, yea it came to pass, on this self-same day, that all the hosts of Yahweh had come forth out of the land of Egypt. ⁴²A night of solemn observances, it is unto Yahweh, for bringing them forth out of the land of Egypt,—this same night, pertaineth to Yahweh, for solemn observances by all the sons of Israel to their generations. ⁴³And Yahweh said unto Moses and Aaron: This, is the statute of the passover,—No stranger, shall eat thereof; ⁴⁴but, every man's servant bought with silver,—when thou hast circumcised him, then, shall he eat thereof: ⁴⁵An alien or a hireling, shall not eat thereof. ⁴⁶In one house, shall it be eaten, thou shalt not take forth out of the house any of the flesh outside; and a, bone thereof, shalt thou not break. ⁴⁷All the assembly of Israel, shall keep it. ⁴⁸And when there may sojourn with thee a sojourner who may wish to keep a passover to Yahweh, there must be circumcised to him every male and then, may he draw near to keep it, so shall he be as a native of the land,—but no uncircumcised male, shall eat thereof. ⁴⁹One law, shall there be for the native, and for the sojourner that sojourneth in your midst. ⁵⁰Thus did all the sons of Israel,—as Yahweh had commanded Moses and Aaron, so, did they. ⁵¹And it came to pass, on this self-same day, that Yahweh brought forth the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt, by their hosts.

13And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: ²Hallow to me every firstborn, that which any female first beareth among the sons of Israel, among men and among beasts,—mine! it is. ³And Moses said unto the people—Ye are to remember this day, on which ye came forth out of Egypt out of the house of slaves, that with strength of hand, did Yahweh bring you forth from hence,—there shall not, therefore be eaten anything leavened. ⁴To-day, are, ye, coming forth,—in the month Abib. ⁵And it shall be, when Yahweh shall bring thee into the land of the Canaanite and the Hittite and the Amorite, and the Hivite and the Jebusite, which he sware to thy fathers to give thee, a land flowing with milk and honey, then shalt thou serve with this service, in this month. ⁶Seven days, shalt thou eat unleavened cakes,—and on the seventh day, shall be a festival to Yahweh. ⁷Unleavened cakes, shall be eaten for the seven days,—neither shall there be seen with thee anything leavened, nor shall there be seen with thee leaven, within any of thy bounds, ⁸And thou shalt toll thy son, on that day, saying,—This is because, of that which Yahweh did for me, when he brought me forth out of Egypt. ⁹And it shall be to thee for a sign upon thy hand and for a memorial between thine eyes, in order that the law of Yahweh may be in thy mouth,—for with a strong hand, did Yahweh bring thee forth out of Egypt. ¹⁰So shalt thou observe this statute in its appointed time,—from year to year. ¹¹And it shall be when Yahweh shall bring thee into the land of the Canaanite, as he sware to thee and to thy fathers,—and shalt give it thee, ¹²that thou shalt set apart whatsoever is born first, to Yahweh; and, of all firstlings of beasts which thou shalt have, the males, shall pertain to Yahweh. ¹³But every firstling of an ass, shalt thou redeem with a lamb or if thou wilt not redeem it, then thou shalt break its neck,—but every firstborn of men among thy sons, shalt thou redeem. ¹⁴And it shall be when thy son shall ask thee in time to come, saying, What is this? Then shalt thou say unto him: With strength of hand, did Yahweh bring us forth out of Egypt out of the house of slaves. ¹⁵And it came to pass when Pharaoh had shown himself too hardened to let us go, then did Yahweh slay every firstborn in the land of Egypt, from the firstborn of men even unto the firstborn of beasts. For this cause, am, I, sacrificing to Yahweh whatsoever is born first, of the males, and every firstborn of my sons, must I redeem. ¹⁶And it shall be for a sign upon thy hand, and for frontlets between thine eyes,—that, with strength of hand, did Yahweh bring us forth out of Egypt. ¹⁷And it came to pass when Pharaoh had let the people go, that God did not lead by the land-way of the Philistines, although it was near,—for God said—Lest the people be dismayed when they see war and turn back to Egypt. ¹⁸So God took the people round the desert-way of the Red Sea,—and the sons of Israel went up armed, out of the land of Egypt. ¹⁹And Moses took the bones of Joseph, with him,—for he had, taken an oath, of the sons of Israel saying, God will, surely visit, you, so then ye shall carry up my bones from hence with you. ²⁰And they brake up from Succoth,—and encamped in Etham, at the edge of the desert. ²¹Now, Yahweh, was going before them—by day, in a pillar of cloud to lead them the way, and by night, in a pillar of fire to give them light,—that they might journey day and night: ²²the pillar of cloud by day ceased not, nor the pillar of fire by night,—from before the people.

¹⁴Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: ²Speak unto the sons of Israel, that they turn back and encamp before Pi-hahiroth, between Migdol and the sea,—before Baal-zephon, over against it, shall ye encamp, by the sea. ³Then will Pharaoh say, of the sons of Israel, Entangled, they are in the land,—the desert hath closed in upon them. ⁴So will I let the heart of Pharaoh wax bold, and he will pursue them, that I may get me honour over Pharaoh, and over all his forces, and the Egyptians shall know, that I, am Yahweh. And they did so. ⁵And it was told the king of Egypt, that the people had fled,—and the heart of Pharaoh and his servants was turned against the people, and they said—What is this we have done, that we have let Israel go from serving us? ⁶So he yoked his chariot,—and his people, took he with him. ⁷And he took six hundred chosen chariots, and all the chariots of Egypt,—with warriors in every one. ⁸And Yahweh let the heart of Pharaoh king of Egypt wax bold, and he pursued the sons of Israel,—when the sons of Israel, were going out with a high hand. ⁹So the Egyptians pursued them and overtook them, encamping by the sea—all the horses and chariots of Pharaoh, and his horsemen, and his forces,—by Pi-hahiroth, before Baal-zephon. ¹⁰Now when, Pharaoh, had drawn near, the sons of Israel lifted up their eyes, and lo! the Egyptians, moving along after them and they feared greatly, and the sons of Israel made outcry unto Yahweh. ¹¹Then said they unto Moses, Was it because there were no graves in Egypt, that thou didst fetch us to die in the desert? What is this thou hast done to us, bringing us forth out of Egypt? ¹²Is not this the word which we spake unto thee in Egypt, saying, Let us alone, that we may serve the Egyptians,—for it is better for us, to serve the Egyptians, than to die in the desert? ¹³And Moses said unto the people—Do not fear, stand still and see the salvation of Yahweh, which he will work for you to-day,—for as for the Egyptians whom ye have seen to-day, ye shall not again see them any more to times age-abiding. ¹⁴Yahweh, will fight for you,—and, ye, shall forbear. ¹⁵And Yahweh said unto Moses, What outcry wouldst thou make unto me? Speak unto the sons of Israel, that they go forward; ¹⁶and, thou, lift high thy staff and stretch forth thy hand over the sea and cleave it asunder,—that the sons of Israel may enter into the midst of the sea on dry ground; ¹⁷and, I, behold me letting the heart of the Egyptians wax bold, that they may enter after them,—that I may get me honour over Pharaoh and over his forces, over his chariots, and over his horsemen, ¹⁸And the Egyptians shall know, that, I, am Yahweh,—when I have gotten me honour over Pharaoh, over his chariots and over his horsemen. ¹⁹And the messenger of God who was going on before the camp of Israel removed, and came on behind them,—and the pillar of cloud removed from before them, and stood behind them; ²⁰so it came in between the camp of the Egyptians and the camp of Israel, so it became a cloud and darkness, and yet lighted up the night,—so that the one came not near unto the other, all the night. ²¹And Moses stretched forth his hand over the sea, and Yahweh carried away the sea by a mighty east wind all the night, and turned the sea into dry land,—and the waters were cloven asunder. ²²Then went the sons of Israel into the midst of the sea on the dry ground,—and, the waters, to them, were a wall, on their right hand and on their left. ²³And the Egyptians pursued, and entered after them—all the horses of Pharaoh his chariots and his horsemen,—into the midst of the sea. ²⁴And it came to pass in the morning watch, that Yahweh looked down into the camp of the Egyptians, through the pillar of fire and cloud, and confused the camp of the Egyptians; ²⁵and he took off the wheels of their chariots, and made them drive heavily,—so that the Egyptians said—We must flee from the face of Israel, for Yahweh, is fighting for them against the Egyptians. ²⁶Then said Yahweh unto Moses, Stretch forth thy hand over the sea,—that the waters may return upon the Egyptians, upon their chariots, and upon their horsemen. ²⁷So Moses stretched forth his hand over the sea and the sea returned, towards morning, to its steady flow, when the Egyptians, were fleeing to meet it,—thus Yahweh shook off the Egyptians into the midst of the sea; ²⁸thus the waters returned and covered the chariots, and the horsemen, even all the forces of Pharaoh that were entering after them into the sea,—there was not left remaining among them so much as one. ²⁹But the sons of Israel, had gone their way on dry ground in the saidst of the sea,—and the waters had been to them a wall, on their right hand and on their left. ³⁰Thus did Yahweh, on that day, save Israel, out of the hand of the Egyptians,—and Israel saw the Egyptians, dead on the shore of the sea. ³¹And when Israel saw the mighty hand wherewith Yahweh had wrought against the Egyptians, then did the people revere Yahweh,—and they put their trust in Yahweh, and in Moses, his servant.

15Then, sang Moses, and the sons of Israel, this song unto Yahweh, and they spake, saying,—I will sing to Yahweh, for he is exalted, exalted,—The horse and his rider, hath he cast into the sea. ²My might and melody, is Yah, And he became mine, by salvation,—This, is my GOD, and I will glorify him, The God of my father and I will set him on high. ³Yahweh is a warlike one,—Yahweh, is his name. ⁴The chariots of Pharaoh and his train, hath he cast into the sea,—Yea, the choice of his warriors, were sunk in the Sedgy Sea. ⁵Roaring deeps, covered them,—They went down in the raging depths like a stone. ⁶Thy right hand, O Yahweh is splendid in power,—Thy right hand, O Yahweh dasheth in pieces a foe; ⁷And in the greatness of thine exaltation, dost thou tear down thine opposers,—Thou dost send forth thy wrath, it consumeth them as straw; ⁸And with the blast of thy nostrils, heaped up are the waters, Upreared like a mound, are the flowing waves,—Roaring deeps are congealed in the heart of the sea. ⁹Said the fee—I will pursue—overtake divide spoil,—Take her fill of them—shall my soul, I will bare my sword, root them out—shall my hand. ¹⁰Thou didst blow with thy wind they were covered by the sea,—They rolled like lead, into the waters so wide. Who is, like unto thee, among the mighty O Yahweh? ¹¹Who is, like unto thee, Majestic in holiness,—To be revered in praises, Doing a marvellous thing? ¹²Thou didst stretch forth thy right hand, earth swallowed them up. ¹³Thou hast led forth in thy lovingkindness, the people which thou hast redeemed,—Thou hast guided them in thy might into the home of thy holiness. ¹⁴Peoples have heard they tremble,—A pang, hath seized the dwellers of Philistia: ¹⁵Then, were amazed the chiefs of Edom, The mighty ones of Moab, there seizeth them, a trembling,—Melted away, have all the dwellers of Canaan: ¹⁶There falleth upon them a terror and dread, With the greatness of thine arm, are they struck dumb as a stone,—Till thy people pass over O Yahweh, Till the people pass over, which thou hast made thine own:—¹⁷Thou bringest them in and plantest them, In the mountain of thine inheritance, Thy dwelling-place to abide in which thou hast made, O Yahweh,—A hallowed place O My Lord which thy hands have established. ¹⁸Yahweh, shall reign unto times age-abiding and beyond. ¹⁹For the horses of Pharaoh, with his chariots and his horsemen, entered into the sea, Then did Yahweh bring back upon them the waters of the sea,—But the sons of Israel, had gone their way on the dry ground through the midst of the sea. ²⁰Then took Miriam the prophetess, sister of Aaron the timbrel in her hand,—and all the women came forth after her with timbrels and dances, ²¹And Miriam responded to the men, Sing to Yahweh for he is exalted—exalted, The horse and his rider, hath he cast into the sea. ²²And Moses caused Israel to break up from the Red Sea, and they went out into the desert of Shur,—and journeyed three days in the desert and found no water; ²³and, when they came in towards Marah they could not drink the waters of Marah, for they were bitter,—for this taut, was the name thereof called Marah. ²⁴So the people murmured against Moses—saying, What are we to drink? ²⁵And he made outcry unto Yahweh, and Yahweh pointed out a tree, and he cast it into the waters, and the waters became sweet,—There, he appointed him a statute and regulation And, there, he put him to the proof. ²⁶And he said: If thou, wilt indeed hearken, to the voice of Yahweh thy God, And the thing that is right in his eyes, thou wilt do, And so give ear to his commandments, And keep all his statutes, None of the sicknesses which I laid on the Egyptians, will I lay upon thee, For, I, am Yahweh, thy physician. ²⁷Then came they in to Elim, and there, were twelve fountains of water and seventy palm-trees,—so they encamped there, by the waters.

16Then moved they on from Elim, and all the assembly of the sons of Israel entered into the desert of Sin, which is between Elim and Sinai, on the fifteenth day of the second month, by their coming forth out of the land of Egypt. ²Then did all the assembly of the sons of Israel murmur against Moses and against Aaron in the desert; ³and the sons of Israel said unto them—Oh that we had died by the hand of Yahweh, in the land of Egypt, when we remained by the pot of flesh, when we did eat bread to the full,—for ye have brought us forth into this desert, to cause all this multitude to die by famine. ⁴Then said Yahweh unto Moses, Behold me! ruining down for you bread out of heaven,—and the people shall go out and gather the portion for a day, on its day, that I may prove them whether they will walk in my law, or not. ⁵And it shall come to pass on the sixth day, that they shall settle what they shall bring in,—and it shall be twice as much as they gather day by day. ⁶So Moses and Aaron said unto all the sons of Israel,—At eventide, then shall ye know that it was, Yahweh, who brought you forth, out of the land of Egypt; ⁷and, in the morning, then shall ye see the glory of Yahweh, in that he hath heard your murmurings against Yahweh,—what then are, we, that ye should murmur against, us? ⁸And Moses said—In that Yahweh giveth you in the evening flesh to eat, and bread in the morning, to the full, in that Yahweh heareth your murmurings wherewith ye are murmuring against him, what then are, we? Not against us, do ye murmur but against Yahweh. ⁹And Moses said unto Aaron, Say unto all the assembly of the sons of Israel, Draw near, before Yahweh,—for he hath heard your murmurings. ¹⁰And it came to pass, when Aaron spake unto all the assembly of the sons of Israel, then turned they towards the desert,—and lo! the glory of Yahweh, had appeared in the cloud, ¹¹Then spake Yahweh unto Moses—saying, ¹²I have heard the murmurings of the sons of Israel,—speak unto them, saying—Between the two evenings, shall ye eat flesh, and in the morning, shall ye be filled with bread,—so shall ye know that I Yahweh am your God. ¹³And it came to pass, in the evening, that there came up quail, and covered the camp,—and in the morning was the outpouring of dew, round about the camp; ¹⁴and when the outpouring of dew went up, then lo! on the face of the desert, a thin flake, thin as hoar-frost on the earth, ¹⁵And when the sons of Israel saw it they said one to another—What is that? For they knew not what "that" was. Then said Moses unto them, "That" is the bread which Yahweh hath given you to eat. ¹⁶This, is the thing which Yahweh hath commanded, Gather ye thereof, each man what he needeth for eating,—an omer a head, by the number of your souls, each man—for them who are in his tent, shall ye take. ¹⁷And the sons of Israel did so,—and gathered, some more, and some less; ¹⁸and when they measured it with the omer, he who had gathered more had nothing over, and he who had gathered less had no lack: each man what he needed for eating, did they gather. ¹⁹And Moses said unto them,—Let, no man leave thereof, until morning. ²⁰But they hearkened not unto Moses, but certain men left thereof until morning, and it swarmed with worms and become loathsome,—and Moses was wroth with them. ²¹Thus then they gathered it morning by morning, each man what he needed for eating, and as soon as the sun waxed hot, so soon it melted. ²²And it came to pass on the sixth day, that they gathered food twice as much, two omers for each one,—so all the princes of the assembly came in, and told Moses. ²³And he said unto them—That is what Yahweh spake. The observance of a holy sabbath to Yahweh, is to-morrow,—what ye would bake, bake and what ye would boil, boil, and all that is left over, put by you to keep until the morning. ²⁴So they

put it by until the morning, as Moses had commanded,—and it gave no unpleasant odour, neither was there a worm, therein. ²⁵Then said Moses—Eat ye it to-day, for a sabbath, is to-day, unto Yahweh,—to-day, ye shall not find it in the field. ²⁶Six days, shall ye gather it,—but on the seventh day, a sabbath, it shall not be therein. ²⁷And it came to pass on the seventh day, that there went forth some of the people to gather,—but they found not. ²⁸Then said Yahweh unto Moses,—How long have ye refused to keep my commandments and my laws? ²⁹See because Yahweh hath given you the sabbath, for this cause, is, he, giving you on the sixth day, food for two days,—abide ye every man in his place, let no man go forth from his dwelling, on the seventh day, ³⁰So the people rested on the seventh day. ³¹And the house of Israel called the name thereof Manna,—and the same, was like coriander seed white, and the taste thereof, like flat-cake with honey, ³²And Moses said—This, is the thing which Yahweh hath commanded, Fill an omer therefrom as a thing to be preserved to your generations,—that they may see the bread wherewith I fed you in the desert, when I brought you forth out of the land of Egypt. ³³So Moses said unto Aaron—Take a single basket, and put therein an omer-full of manna,—and set it down before Yahweh, as a thing to be preserved to your generations. ³⁴As Yahweh gave command unto Moses, so did Aaron set it down before the testimony, as a thing to be preserved, ³⁵And, the sons of Israel did eat the manna forty years, until they entered into the land wherein they were to dwell,—the manna, they did eat until they entered into the bounds of the land of Canaan. ³⁶Now, an omer, is, the tenth of the ephah.

17And all the assembly of the sons of Israel set forward out of the desert of Sin, by their removings, at the bidding of Yahweh,—and encamped in Rephidim, and there was no water for the people to drink. ²And the people found fault with Moses, and said—Give us water, that we may drink. And Moses said to them, Why should ye find fault with me? Why should ye put Yahweh to the proof? ³So the people thirsted, there for water, and the people murmured against Moses,—and said—Wherefore is it that thou hast brought us up out of Egypt, to kill me and my sons and my cattle, with thirst? ⁴And Moses made outcry unto Yahweh saying, What am I to do, with this people? Yet a little, and they will stone me. ⁵Then said Yahweh unto Moses—Pass over before the people, and take with thee some of the elders of Israel,—thy staff also wherewith thou didst smite the river, take thou in thy hand, so shalt thou go thy way. ⁶Behold me! standing before thee, there upon the rock in Horeb, then shalt thou smite the rock and there shall come forth therefrom water, and the people shall drink. And Moses did so, in the sight of the elders of Israel. ⁷So he called the name of the place, Massah, and Meribah,—because of the fault-finding of the sons of Israel, and because of their putting Yahweh to the proof, saying, Is Yahweh in our midst or is he not? ⁸Then came in Amalek,—and fought with Israel, in Rephidim. ⁹And Moses said unto Joshua—Choose for us men, and go forth, fight with Amalek,—tomorrow, am, I, stationing myself upon the top of the hill, with the staff of God in my hand. ¹⁰So Joshua did as Moses had said to him, to fight with Amalek,—and Moses, Aaron and Hur, went up to the top of the hill. ¹¹And it shall be when Moses shall lift on high his hands, then shall Israel prevail, but when he shall let down his hands, then shall Amalek prevail. ¹²But, the hands of Moses, were weary, so they took a stone, and put under him, and he sat thereupon,—and, Aaron and Hur, upheld his hands—on this side, one and on that side, one, and so his hands became steady, until the going in of the sun. ¹³So Joshua overthrew Amalek and his people, with the edge of the sword. ¹⁴Then said Yahweh unto Moses—Write this as a remembrancer in a book, and rehearse it in the ears of Jeshua—that I will, wipe out, the remembrance of Amalek, from under the heavens. ¹⁵And Moses built an altar,—and called the name thereof, Yahweh-nissi. ¹⁶And he said—Because of a hand against the throne of Yah, Yahweh hath war with Amalek,—from generation to generation!

18And Jethro, priest of Midian, father-in-law of Moses, heard all that God had done for Moses, and for Israel his people,—in that Yahweh had brought forth Israel out of Egypt. ²So Jethro, Moses father-in-law, took Zipporah, Moses wife,—after she had been sent home; ³and her two sons,—of whom, the name of the one, was Gershom, for, said he, A sojourner, am I in a strange land, ⁴and, the name of the other, Eliezer, for the God of my father, was my help, and delivered me from the sword of Pharaoh. ⁵And Jethro, Moses father-in-law, came in, with his two sons and his wife, unto Moses,—into the desert where, he, was encamping, the mountain of God; ⁶and said unto Moses, I, thy father-in-law, Jethro, am coming in unto thee,—and thy wife, and her two sons, with her. ⁷So Moses went forth to meet his father-in-law, and bowed himself down to him and kissed him, and they asked each other of their welfare,—and came into the tent. ⁸Then Moses recounted to his father-in-law, all that Yahweh had done to Pharaoh and to the Egyptians, for Israel's sake,—all the hardship which had befallen them by the way, and how Yahweh had delivered them. ⁹Then did Jethro rejoice, for all the good which Yahweh had done to Israel,—whom he had delivered out of the hand of the Egyptians. ¹⁰And Jethro said—Blessed be Yahweh, who hath delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians and out of the hand of Pharaoh,—Who hath delivered the people from under the hand of the Egyptians: ¹¹Now, I know, that, greater, is Yahweh than all the gods,—Even in the thing wherein they were arrogant over them. ¹²Then took Jethro father-in-law of Moses, an ascending-offering and sacrifices to God,—and Aaron and all the elders of Israel came in to eat bread with the father-in-law of Moses before God. ¹³Now it came to pass on the morrow, that Moses sat, to judge the people,—and the people stood by Moses, from the morning, until the evening. ¹⁴And when Moses father-in-law saw all that he, was doing for the people, he said—What is this thing which, thou, art doing for the people? Wherefore art, thou, sitting alone, with all the people, stationed by thee, from morning until evening? ¹⁵And Moses said to his father-in-law,—Because the people come in unto me to seek God: ¹⁶When they have a matter, they come in unto me, then do I judge between a man and his neighbour,—and make known the statutes of God and his laws. ¹⁷Then said Moses' father-in-law unto him,—Not good, is the thing that thou art doing. ¹⁸Thou wilt get quite worn out, both thou and this people that is with thee,—for the thing is too heavy for thee, thou canst not do it, alone. ¹⁹Now, hearken thou to my voice—let me counsel thee, and may God be with thee: Be, thou, for the people, in front of God, so shalt, thou, bring the matters unto God; ²⁰and shalt cause to shine upon them, the statutes and the laws,—and make known to them the way wherein they should go, and the work they should do. ²¹Thou thyself, therefore shalt look out, from among all the people—men of ability, reverers of God, men of fidelity, haters of extortion,—and place them over them as rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens. ²²So shall they judge the people at any time, and it shall be, all the great matters, shall they bring in unto thee, but all the small matters, shall, they themselves, judge,—so, lighten thou the burden for thyself, and let them bear it with thee. ²³If, this thing, thou wilt do, and God shall command thee, then shalt thou be able to endure,—yea, moreover, all this people, shall go in, unto their dwellings, contented. ²⁴So Moses hearkened to the voice of his father-in-law, and did all that he had said; ²⁵and Moses chose men of ability out of all Israel, and set them to be heads over the people,—rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens. ²⁶And they shall judge the people, at any time,—the hard matters, shall they bring in unto Moses, but all the small matters, shall, they themselves, judge. ²⁷And Moses sent forth his father-in-law,—and he went his way by himself unto his own land.

19In the third month, by the coming forth of the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt, on this day, came they into the desert of Sinai: ²then was it that they brake up out of Rephidim and came into the desert of Sinai, and encamped in the desert,—yea Israel encamped there before the mountain. ³And when Moses, had gone up unto God, then called Yahweh unto him out of the mountain saying, Thus, shalt thou say to the house of Jacob, And tell the sons of Israel: ⁴Ye, have seen what I did unto the Egyptians,—And how I bare you upon wings of eagles, And brought you in unto myself:—⁵Now, therefore, if ye will, indeed hearken, to my voice, And keep my covenant, Then shall ye be mine as a treasure beyond all the peoples, For, mine, is all the earth; ⁶But, ye, shall be mine, As a kingdom of priests, And a holy nation. These, are the words, which thou shalt speak unto the sons of Israel. ⁷Then came Moses, and called for the elders of the people,—and put before them all these words which Yahweh had commanded him. ⁸And all the people responded together and said, All that Yahweh hath spoken, will we do. And Moses took back the words of the people, unto Yahweh. ⁹Then said Yahweh unto Moses: Lo! I, am coming unto thee in the veiling of cloud, in order that the people may hear when I speak with thee, moreover also, that, in thee, they may trust to times age-abiding. Then told Moses the words of the people unto Yahweh. ¹⁰And Yahweh said unto Moses—Go unto the people, and thou shalt hallow them to-day, and to-morrow,—and they shall wash their clothes; ¹¹and shall be ready, by the third day,—for on the third day, will Yahweh come down in the sight of all the people upon Mount Sinai. ¹²So then thou shalt set bounds for the people round about saying, Take heed to yourselves—that ye go not up into the mountain, nor touch the boundary thereof, whosoever toucheth the mountain, shall, surely die. ¹³No hand shall touch it but he shall be, surely stoned, or be, surely shot, whether beast or man, he shall not live,—When the rams horn soundeth, they themselves, shall come up within the mount, ¹⁴Then Moses went down out of the mount, unto the people,—and hallowed the people, and they washed their clothes. ¹⁵And he said unto the people, Be ready, by the third day,—do not approach a woman. ¹⁶And it came to pass on the third day, when the morning had come, that there were thunderings and lightnings, and a heavy cloud upon the mount, and the sound of a horn, loud exceedingly,—and all the people who were in the camp trembled. ¹⁷And Moses brought forth the people, to meet God out of the camp,—and they stationed themselves in the lower part of the mount, ¹⁸And Mount Sinai, smoked, all over, because Yahweh had come down thereon in fire,—and the smoke thereof went up as the smoke of a furnace, and all the mountain trembled exceedingly. ¹⁹And as oft as the sound of the horn went on and became exceeding loud, Moses, spake and, God, responded to him with a voice. ²⁰Thus came Yahweh down upon Mount Sinai unto the top of the mount,—and Yahweh called Moses unto the top of the mount, and Moses went up. ²¹Then said Yahweh unto Moses, Go dawn adjure the people,—lest they press through unto Yahweh to see, and so there fall from among them a multitude. ²²Yea, even the priests who do approach unto Yahweh, must hallow themselves,—lest Yahweh break in upon them. ²³And Moses said unto Yahweh, The people cannot come up into Mount Sinai,—for, thou thyself, hast adjured us saying:

Set bounds to the mountain and hallow it. ²⁴And Yahweh said unto him—Away, down, then shalt thou come up, thou and Aaron with thee,—but as for the priests and the people, let it not be that they press through to come up unto Yahweh lest he break in upon them. ²⁵So Moses went down unto the people,—and said these things unto them.

20And God spake all these words saying:—²I, am Yahweh thy God,—who have brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of servants:—³Thou shalt not have other gods besides me. ⁴Thou shalt not make to thee an image, or any form, that is in the heavens above,—or that is in the earth beneath,—or that is in the waters beneath the earth: ⁵thou shalt not bow thyself down to them nor be led to serve them—For, I, Yahweh, thy God, am a jealous GOD, visiting the iniquity of fathers upon sons, unto three generations and, unto four, of them that hate me; ⁶but shewing lovingkindness unto thousands of generations,—of them who love me, and keep my commandments. ⁷Thou shalt not utter the name of Yahweh thy God for falsehood, for Yahweh will not let him go unpunished who uttereth his name for falsehood. ⁸Remember the sabbath day, to hallow it: ⁹Six days, shalt thou labour, and do all thy work; ¹⁰but, the seventh day, is a sabbath unto Yahweh thy God,—thou shalt do no work, thou nor thy son nor thy daughter nor thy servant, nor thy handmaid, nor thy beast, nor thy sojourner who is within thy gates, ¹¹For, in six days, did Yahweh make the heavens and the earth, and the sea—and all that in them is, and rested on the seventh day,—for this cause, Yahweh blessed the sabbath day and hallowed it. ¹²Honour thy father, and thy mother,—that thy days may be prolonged upon the soil, which Yahweh thy God is about to give unto thee. ¹³Thou shalt not commit murder. ¹⁴Thou shalt not commit adultery. ¹⁵Thou shalt not steal. ¹⁶Thou shalt not testify against thy neighbour, with a witness of falsehood. ¹⁷Thou shalt not covet, thy neighbours house,—thou shalt not covet, thy neighbour's wife nor his servant nor his handmaid nor his ox, nor his ass, nor anything which belongeth unto thy neighbour. ¹⁸And, all the people, were witnessing the voices and the torches, and the sound of the horn, and the mountain smoking,—so then the people were struck with awe and shrank back, and stood afar off. ¹⁹And they said unto Moses, Speak, thou, with us, and we will hear,—but let not God speak with us lest we die. ²⁰And Moses said unto the people—Do not fear, for to the end he may prove you, hath God come,—and to the end the reverence of him may be upon your faces that ye sin not. ²¹So then the people stood afar off, and, Moses, approached unto the thick gloom, where God was. ²²Then said Yahweh unto Moses, Thus, shalt thou say, unto the sons of Israel,—Ye yourselves, have seen that out of the heavens, have I spoken with you. ²³Ye shall not make aught beside me,—neither gods of silver, nor gods of gold, shall ye make to yourselves. ²⁴An altar of earth, shalt thou make to me, then shalt thou offer thereupon thine ascending-sacrifices and thy peace-offerings, thy sheep, and thine oxen. In every place where I may mention my name, will I come in unto thee and will bless thee. ²⁵But if, an altar of stones, thou wilt make to me, thou shalt not build them hewn,—for as soon as thou hast lifted, thy sharp tool, thereupon, thou hast profaned it; ²⁶neither shalt thou go up, by steps unto mine altar,—lest by any means thy shame be discovered thereupon.

21Now, these are the regulations which thou shalt put before them. ²When thou shalt acquire a servant who is a Hebrew, six years, shall he serve,—but in the seventh shall he go out freely—for nought. ³If, by himself, he came in, by himself, shall he go out,—if he was married, then shall his wife go out with him. ⁴If his lord gave him a wife, and she have borne him sons or daughters, the wife and her children shall be her lords, and, he shall go out by himself. ⁵But, if the servant shall plainly say, I love my lord, and my wife and my sons,—I will not go out free, ⁶then shall his lord bring him near unto God, and shall bring him near unto the door, or unto the door-post,—and his lord shall pierce his ear with an awl, so shall he serve him all his life. ⁷And when a man shall sell his daughter to be a handmaid, she shall not go out according to the outgoing of the men-servants, ⁸If she is uncomely in the eyes of her lord, who hath not assigned her in marriage, then shall he suffer her to be redeemed: to a strange people, shall he not have power to sell her in that he hath dealt treacherously with her. ⁹And if to his soul he assign her, according to the custom for daughters, shall he do for her. ¹⁰If he take to himself another, her food her clothing, and her marriage-right, shall he not withdraw. ¹¹But if these three, he will not do for her, then shall she go out for nought, without silver. ¹²He that smiteth a man, so that he die, shall surely be put to death. ¹³But he who hath not lain in wait, but, God, hath occasioned him to come to his hand, then will I appoint for thee a place, whither he may flee. ¹⁴But, when a man shall act presumptuously against his neighbour to slay him with guile, from mine altar, shalt thou take him to die. ¹⁵And, he that smiteth his father or his mother, shall, surely be put to death. ¹⁶And, he that stealeth a man of the sons of Israel, and selleth him, or he be found in his hand, shall, surely be put to death. ¹⁷And he who revileth his father or his mother, shall, surely be put to death. ¹⁸And when men strive together, and one shall smite the other, with a stone or with his fist,—and he die not, but shall fall to his bed;—¹⁹if he rise and shall walk abroad on his staff, then shall he that smote him be acquitted,—only, for his loss of time, he shall pay, and, shall surely heal, him. ²⁰And when a man shall smite his servant or his handmaid with a rod, and he die under his hand, he shall, surely be avenged; ²¹nevertheless if,

for a day or for two days, he continue, he shall not be avenged, for, his silver, he is. ²²And when men strive together and push against a woman with child, and she miscarry, hut there is no other mischief, he shall, surely be fined, according as the woman's husband shall lay upon him, but he shall give it through judges. ²³But, if mischief follow, then shalt thou give life for life; ²⁴eye for eye, tooth for tooth,—hand for hand, foot for foot, ²⁵brand for brand, wound for wound,—stripe for stripe. ²⁶And, when a man smiteth the eye of his servant, or the eye of his handmaid, and destroyeth it, he shall send him forth, free, for his eye; ²⁷or, if, the tooth of his servant or the tooth of his handmaid, he knock out, he shall send him forth, free, for his tooth. ²⁸And when an ox goreth a man or a woman, and death ensueth, the ox shall, surely be stoned and his flesh shall not be eaten, and the owner of the ox, shall be quit. ²⁹But, if, the ox, was wont to gore before that time and it hath been attested to his owner, and he hath not proceeded to put him under guard, and he causeth the death of man or woman, the ox, shall be stoned, and, his owner also, shall be put to death. ³⁰If, a sin-covering, be laid on him, then shall he give a ransom for his life, according to whatsoever may be laid on him: ³¹if, a son, he gore or, a daughter, he gore, according to this regulation, shall it be done to him; ³²if, a servant the ox gore, or a handmaid, thirty shekels of silver, shall he give to his lord, and, the ox, shall be stoned. ³³And when a man openeth a pit, or when a man diggeth a pit, and doth not cover it,—and there falleth thereinto an ox or an ass, ³⁴the owner of the pit, shall make it good, silver, shall he pay back to the owner thereof,—and the dead beast, shall be his. ³⁵And when the ox of one man thrusteth the ox of his neighbour so that it dieth, then shall they sell the live ox and divide the silver thereof, and the dead ox also, shall they divide, ³⁶Or if it was known that, an ox, was, wont to gore, before that time, and his owner proceeded not to put him under guard, he shall surely make good,—an ox for the ox, and, the dead one, shall be his.

22When a man stealeth an ox or a sheep, and slayeth it, or selleth it, with five of the herd, shall he make good—for the ox, or with four of the flock, for the sheep. ²If, in the place of breaking in, the thief be found and he is smitten so that he dieth, there is due for him no shedding of blood: ³should the sun have arisen upon him, there would be shedding of blood due for him,—he is surely to make restitution, if he hath nothing, then is he to be sold, for his theft. ⁴If the thing stolen is found in his hand—whether ox or ass or sheep, alive, with two, shall he make restitution. ⁵When a man causeth a field or a vineyard to be depastured, or hath sent in his own cattle and stripped the field of another, he shall, surely make restitution, out of his own field, according to the yield thereof; or if, all the field, he depasture, with the best of his own field, or with the best of his own vineyard, shall he make restitution. ⁶When a fire breaketh out and hath come upon thorns and so there is consumed a stack of sheaves, or the standing corn, or the field, he that kindled the fire, shall surely make restitution. ⁷When a man giveth unto his neighbour silver or jewelry, to keep, and it is stolen out of the house of the man: ⁸if the thief be found, he shall give in restitution double, if the thief be not found, then shall the owner of the house be brought near unto God to swear that he hath not laid his hand on the property of his neighbour. ⁹For any affair of trespass—for an ox, for an ass, for a sheep, for a mantle for anything lost as to which one could say—This is it, unto God, shall come the affair of them both,—he whom God shall condemn, shall make restitution of double to his neighbour. ¹⁰When a man delivereth unto his neighbour, an ass, or an ox or a sheep, or any beast, to keep,—and it dieth or is fractured, or is driven away, no one beholding, ¹¹the oath of Yahweh, shall come between them both, That he hath not laid his hand on the property of his neighbour,—then shall the owner thereof accept it and he shall not make restitution. ¹²But, if it be verily stolen, from him, he shall make restitution to the owner thereof. ¹³If it be, verily torn in pieces, he shall bring it in as a witness—for that which was torn, he shall not make restitution. ¹⁴And when a man asketh aught of his neighbour, and it is fractured or dieth, its owner, not being with it, he shall, surely make restitution. ¹⁵If, its owner, was with it, he shall not make restitution,—if it is, hired, it cometh into its hire. ¹⁶And, when a man enticeth a virgin who is not betrothed, and lieth with her, he shall, surely pay a purchase-price, that she may be his wife. ¹⁷If her father utterly refuse, to give her to him, silver, shall he weigh out, according to the purchase-price of virgins. ¹⁸A sorceress, shalt thou not suffer to live. ¹⁹Whosoever lieth with a beast shall surely be put to death. ²⁰He that sacrificeth to the gods shall be devoted to destruction,—except he sacrificeth to Yahweh alone. ²¹And, a sojourner, shalt thou not tread down neither shalt thou drive him away,—for sojourners, ye became in the land of Egypt. ²²Neither widow nor fatherless, shalt thou humiliate: ²³if thou, do humiliate, him, when he in anywise crieth out unto me, I will, surely hear, his outcry: ²⁴so shall kindle mine anger, and I will slay you with the sword,—and your wives, shall become widows, and your, sons fatherless. ²⁵If, silver, thou wilt lend unto my people—unto the humbled one by thee, thou shalt not be to him like one that lendeth on interest,—thou shalt not lay upon him interest. ²⁶If thou, do take in pledge, the mantle of thy neighbour, by the going in of the sun, shalt thou restore it to him; ²⁷for that is his only covering, that, is his mantle, for his skin,—wherein shall he sleep? and it shall come to pass when he maketh outcry unto me, then will I hear because, gracious, I am. ²⁸God, shalt thou not revile,—and a prince among thy people, shalt thou not curse. ²⁹Thy fulness and thine outflow, shalt thou not delay,—the firstborn of thy sons, shalt thou give to me. ³⁰Thus, shalt thou do with thine ox with thy sheep, a seven days, shall it be with its dam, on the eighth day, shalt thou give it to me. ³¹Holy men, therefore shall ye truly become to me,—and flesh in the field torn to pieces, shall ye not eat, to the dogs, shall ye cast it.

23Thou shalt not utter a false report. Do not lay thy hand with a lawless man, to become a witness helping forward violence and wrong. ²Thou shalt not follow multitudes to commit wickedness,—neither shalt thou answer in a quarrel, so as to turn away after multitudes to mislead, ³Even a poor man, shalt thou not prefer in his quarrel. ⁴When thou meetest the ox of thine enemy, or his ass, going astray, thou shalt, surely bring it back, to him. ⁵When thou seest the ass of him that hateth thee sinking down under his burden, and mightest have foreborne to unload him, thou shalt surely help him to unload, ⁶Thou shalt not pervert the vindication of thy needy one in his quarrel. ⁷From a matter of falsehood, thou shalt keep far away,—and the innocent one and the righteous, do not thou slay, for I will not justify a lawless imam ⁸And, a bribe, shalt thou not take,—for the bribe, blindeth the clear-sighted, and perverteth the words of the righteous. ⁹And a sojourner, shalt thou not drive away,—seeing that, ye yourselves, know the, soul of a sojourner; for sojourners, became ye in the land of Egypt. ¹⁰And six years, shalt thou sow thy land,—and shalt gather the yield thereof; ¹¹but the seventh year, shalt thou let it rest and be still so shall the needy of thy people eat, and what they leave, shall the wild-beast of the field eat,—in like manner, shalt thou deal with thy vineyard with thine oliveyard. ¹²Six days, shalt thou do thy work, but on the seventh day, shalt thou keep sabbath,—that thine ox may rest and thine ass, and that the son of thy handmaid and the sojourner may be refreshed. ¹³And, in all that I have said unto thee, shalt thou take heed to thyself,—and the name of other gods, shalt thou not mention, it shall not be heard upon thy mouth. ¹⁴Three times, shalt thou keep festival to me, in the year. ¹⁵The festival of unleavened cakes, shalt thou keep,—seven days, shalt thou eat unleavened cakes, as I commanded thee at the appointed time of the month Abib; for, therein, camest thou forth out of Egypt,—and they shall not see my face, empty-handed. ¹⁶And the festival of harvest with the firstfruits of thy labours, which thou shalt sow in the field, And the festival of ingathering—at the outgoing of the year, when thou hast gathered in thy labours out of the field. ¹⁷Three times in the year, shall all thy males see the face of the Lord, Yahweh. ¹⁸Thou shalt not offer with anything leavened, the blood of my sacrifice,—neither shall the fat of my festival-sacrifice remain until morning. ¹⁹The beginning of the firstfruits of thy ground, shalt thou bring into the house of Yahweh thy God. Thou shalt not boil a kid in the milk of its dam. ²⁰Lo! I, am sending a messenger before thee, to guard thee in the way,—and to bring thee into the place which I have prepared. ²¹Take thou heed of his presence, and hearken to his voice—do not vex him,—for he will not pardon your transgression, for, my name, is within him. ²²But if thou wilt indeed hearken, to his voice, and so wilt do all that I may speak, then will I be an enemy to thine enemies, and an adversary to thine adversaries; ²³for my messenger shall go before thee, and bring thee in—unto the Amorite and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Canaanite, the Hivite and the Jebusite,—so will I destroy them. ²⁴Thou shalt not bow thyself down to their gods neither shalt thou be led to serve them, neither shalt thou do according to their works,—but thou shalt, verily overthrow, them, and, completely break in pieces, their pillars. ²⁵So shall ye serve Yahweh your God, and he will bless thy bread and thy water,—and I will take away sickness out of thy midst. ²⁶There shall be nothing casting its young or barren in thy land,—the number of thy days, will I make full. ²⁷My terror, will I send before thee, and will confound all the people amongst whom thou shalt come, and will deliver up all thine enemies unto thee as they flee. ²⁸And I will send the hornet, before thee,—and it shall drive out the Hivite, the Canaanite, and the Hittite, from before thee. ²⁹I will not drive them out from before thee, in one year,—lest the land should become a desolation, so would the wild-beast of the field multiply over thee. ³⁰Little by little, will I drive them out from before thee. until thou become fruitful, then shalt thou take possession of the land. ³¹So will I set thy bounds from the Red Sea even unto the sea of the Philistines and from the desert unto the River (Euphrates),—for I will deliver into your hand the inhabitants of the land, so shalt thou drive them out from before thee. ³²Thou shalt not make with them or with their gods, a covenant: ³³they shall not dwell in thy land, lest they cause thee to sin against me,—for thou mightest serve their gods, verily! it would become to thee a snare!

²⁴And unto Moses, he said—Come up unto Yahweh—thou, and Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel, so shall ye bow yourselves down from afar. ²And Moses alone shall draw near unto Yahweh, but, they shall not draw near, and, the people, shall not come up with him. ³So Moses came, and recounted to the people all the words of Yahweh, and all the regulations, and all the people responded with one voice and said, All the words which Yahweh hath spoken, will we do. ⁴Then wrote Moses all the words of Yahweh, and rose up early in the morning, and builded an altar, under the mountain, and twelve pillars, for the twelve tribes of Israel: ⁵and he sent young men of the sons of Israel, and they caused to go up, ascending-sacrifices,—and slew peace-offerings to Yahweh, of oxen. ⁶Then took Moses half of the blood, and put it in basins, and half of the blood, dashed he over the altar: ⁷then took

he the book of the covenant, and read in the ears of the people. And they said, All that Yahweh hath spoken, will we do, and will hearken, ⁸Then Moses took the blood, and dashed over the people, and said, Lo! the blood of the covenant which Yahweh hath solemnised with you, over all these words. ⁹Then went up Moses and Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel; ¹⁰and they saw the God of Israel,—and under his feet, like a pavement of sapphire, and like the very heavens for brightness; and ¹¹against the nobles of the sons of Israel, put he not forth his hand,—so then they had vision of God, and did eat and drink, ¹²Then said Yahweh unto Moses—Come thou up unto me in the mountain and remain thou there,—for I must give thee tables of stone and the law and the commandment, which I have written to direct them. ¹³And Moses rose up, and Joshua his attendant, and Moses went up into the mountain of God; ¹⁴but, unto the elders, he said—Tarry for us here, until we return unto you. And lo! Aaron and Hur, are with you, he that hath a cause, let him draw near unto them. ¹⁵So then Moses went up into the mountain,—and the cloud covered the mountain. ¹⁶And the glory of Yahweh rested upon Mount Sinai, and the cloud covered it six days,—then called he unto Moses on the seventh day, out of the midst of the cloud. ¹⁷And the appearance of the glory of Yahweh was like a consuming fire h on the top of the mountain,—in the sight of the sons of Israel. ¹⁸And Moses entered into the midst of the cloud and ascended into the mountain. And it came to pass that Moses was in the mountain forty days and forty nights.

²⁵And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: ²Speak unto the sons of Israel, that they take for me a heave-offering,—of every man whose heart urgeth him, shall ye take my heave-offering. ³And, this is the heave-offering which ye shall take of them,—gold and silver and bronze; ⁴and blue, and purple, and crimson and fine linen, and goats hair; ⁵and rams' skins dyed red, and badgers' skins and acacia wood; ⁶oil for giving light,—perfumes for the anointing oil, and for fragrant incense; ⁷onyx stones, and setting stones,—for the ephod and for the breastpiece: ⁸So shall they make for me a sanctuary,—and I will make my habitation in their midst: ⁹according to all that, I, am shewing thee, the pattern of the habitation, and the pattern of all the furnishings thereof, even so, shall ye make it. ¹⁰And they shall make an ark of acacia wood,—two cubits and a half, the length thereof and, a cubit and a half, the breadth thereof, and, a cubit and a half, the height thereof. ¹¹And thou shalt overlay it with pure gold, within and without, shalt thou overlay it,—and thou shalt make thereon a rim of gold, round about. ¹²And thou shalt cast for it four rings of gold, and shalt put them on the four feet thereof,—even two rings on the one side thereof, and two rings on the other side thereof. ¹³And thou shalt make staves, of acacia wood,—and shalt overlay them with gold. ¹⁴And thou shalt bring in the staves into the rings, on the sides of the ark,—to bear the ark therewith, ¹⁵In the rings of the ark, shall remain the staves,—they shall not be removed therefrom. ¹⁶And thou shalt put into the ark,—the testimony which I will give unto thee. ¹⁷And thou shalt make a propitiatory, of pure gold,—two cubits and a half, the length thereof, and, a cubit and a half, the breadth thereof, ¹⁸And thou shalt make two cherubim of gold,—of beaten work, shalt thou make them, out of the two ends of the propitiatory. ¹⁹And make thou one cherub out of this end, and the other cherub out of that end,—out of the propitiatory, shall ye make the cherubim upon the two ends thereof. ²⁰And the cherubim shall be spreading out two wings on high—making a shelter with their wings over the propitiatory, with their faces one towards the other,—towards the propitiatory, shall be the faces of the cherubim. ²¹And thou shalt put the propitiatory upon the ark above,—and in the ark, shalt thou put the testimony, which I will give unto thee. ²²And I will meet with thee there, and will speak with thee from off the propitiatory, from between the two cherubim, which are upon the ark of the testimony,—whatsoever I may give thee in charge, for thee sons of Israel. ²³And thou shalt make a table, of acacia wood, two cubits, the length thereof, and a cubit the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the height thereof. ²⁴and thou shalt overlay it with pure gold,—and shalt make thereto a rim of gold, round about; ²⁵and thou shalt make thereto a border of a handbreadth, round about,—and shalt make a rim of gold to the border thereof, round about; ²⁶and thou shalt make to it four rings of gold,—and shalt place the rings on the four corners which pertain to the four feet thereof: ²⁷adjoining the border, shall be the rings,—as receptacles for the staves, for lifting the table; ²⁸and thou shalt make the staves of acacia wood, and shalt overlay them with gold,—and the table shall be lifted there, with; ²⁹and thou shalt make its dishes and its pans and its basins and its bowls, for pouring out therewith,—of pure gold, shalt thou make them. ³⁰And thou shalt place upon the table Presence-bread, before me continually. ³¹And thou shalt make a lampstand of pure gold, of beaten work, shall the lampstand be made, even its base and its shaft its cups, its apples, and its blossoms of the same, shall be: ³²with, six branches, coming out of its sides, three branches of the lampstand, out the one side thereof, and three branches of the lampstand, out of the other side thereof: ³³three cups like almond-flowers, in the one branch apple and blossom, and thine cups like almond-flowers in the other branch apple and blossom, so, for the six branches, coming out of the lampstand. ³⁴And in the lampstand itself, four cups,—like almond-flowers—its apples, and its blossoms; ³⁵and an apple under two branches of the same, and, another apple, under two other branches of the same, and another apple under two other branches, of the same,—for the six branches, coming out of the lampstand: ³⁶their apples and their branches, of the same, shall be,—all of it, of one beaten work, of pure gold. ³⁷And thou shalt make the lamps thereof seven, and one shall light up its lamps, and it shall give light, over against the face thereof. ³⁸And, its snuffers, and its snuff-trays of pure gold. ³⁹With a talent of pure gold, shall he make it, with all these vessels, ⁴⁰And see thou and make them, by the pattern of them, which thou wast caused to behold in the mount

26Also the habitation shalt thou make, with ten curtains, of twined linen, and blue, and purple, and crimson, with cherubim, the work of a skilful weaver, shalt thou make them. ²The length of each curtain twenty-eight cubits, and, the breadth four cubits, of each curtain, one measure, for all the curtains. ³The five curtains, shall be joined, one to another, and, the other five curtains, joined, one to another. ⁴And thou shalt make loops of blue on the border of each curtain, at the edge of the set,—and, thus, shalt thou do in the border of the curtain, that is outmost in the second set: ⁵fifty loops, shalt thou make, in the one curtain, and fifty loops, shalt thou make in the edge of the curtain which is in the second set, the loops being opposite, one to another. ⁶And thou shalt make fifty clasps of gold,—so shalt thou join the curtains one to another, with the clasps, and thus shall the habitation be one. ⁷And thou shalt make curtains of goat's hair, for a tent, over the habitation—eleven curtains, shalt thou make them. ⁸The length of each curtain, thirty cubits, and the breadth, four cubits, of each curtain,—one measure, to the eleven curtains. ⁹And thou shalt join the five curtains by themselves, and the six curtains by themselves, and thou shalt fold back the sixth curtain, in the forefront of the tent. ¹⁰And thou shalt make fifty loops on the border of the one curtain, that is outmost in the set, and fifty loops on the border of the curtain, of the second set. ¹¹And thou shalt make fifty clasps of bronze, and bring the clasps into the loops, so shalt thou join the tent, and it shall be one. ¹²And the overplus that remaineth in the curtains of the tent,—the half curtain that remaineth, shall hang over at the back of the habitation. ¹³And, the cubit on the one side, and the cubit on the other side of that which remaineth, in the length of the curtains of the tent shall be hung over the sides of the habitation on this side and on that side to make a covering. ¹⁴And thou shalt make a covering, for the tent, of rams skins dyed red,—and a covering of badger's skins, above. ¹⁵And thou shalt make boards for the habitation,—of acacia wood to stand up: ¹⁶ten cubits, the length of the board, and a cubit and a half cubit the breadth of each board: ¹⁷two tenons, to each board, united one to another,—thus, shalt thou make, for all the boards of the habitation, ¹⁸So then thou shalt make the boards for the habitation, twenty boards, on the south side southwards. ¹⁹And forty sockets of silver, shalt thou make under the twenty boards,—two sockets under the one board for its two tenons, and two sockets, under the next board, for its two tenons. ²⁰And on the second side of the habitation, towards the north, twenty boards; ²¹and their forty sockets of silver,—two sockets, under the one board, and, two sockets, under the next board. ²²And for the hinderpart of the habitation, westward, shalt thou make six boards. ²³And, two boards, shalt thou make, for the comers of the habitation,—in the hinderpart: ²⁴that they may be double beneath, and at the same time, they shall be entire on the top thereof, into each ring,—thus, shall it be for them both, for the two corners, shall they be. ²⁵So shall they be eight boards, and, their sockets of silver, sixteen sockets,—two sockets, under the one board, and, two sockets, under the next board. ²⁶And thou shalt make bars, of acacia wood,—five, for the boards of the one side of the habitation, ²⁷and five bars, for the boards of the other side of the habitation, and five bars, for the boards of the side of the habitation, at the hinderpart westward; ²⁸with the middle bar in the midst of the boards,—running along from end to end. ²⁹And the boards, shalt thou overlay with gold, and their rings, shalt thou make of gold, as receptacles for the bars,—and thou shalt overlay the liars with gold. ³⁰So shalt thou rear up the habitation, according to the fashion thereof, which thou wast caused to see in the mount. ³¹And thou shalt make a veil, of blue and purple, and crimson and fine-twined linen,—of the work of a skilful weaver, shall it be made, with cherubim; ³²and thou shalt hang it upon four pillars of acacia overlaid with gold, with their hooks of gold,—upon four sockets of silver, ³³And thou shalt hang up the veil under the clasps,—and shalt bring in thither, within the veil the ark of the testimony; and the veil shall make a division for you between the holy place and the most holy. ³⁴And thou shalt place the propitiatory, upon the ark of the testimony,—in the most holy place. ³⁵And thou shalt set the table outside the veil, and the lampstand over against the table, on the side of the habitation, southward,—and the table, shalt thou place on the north side. ³⁶And thou shalt make a screen for the opening of the tent, of blue, and purple and crimson, and fine-twined linen,—the work of an embroiderer. ³⁷And thou shalt make for the screen five pillars of acacia, and shalt overlay them with gold, and their hooks shall be of gold,—and thou shalt cast for them five sockets of bronze.

27And thou shalt make the altar of acacia wood,—of five cubits length and five cubits breadth four square, shall the altar be, and three cubits the height thereof. ²And thou shalt make its horns upon its four corners, of the same, shall be its horns,—and thou shalt overlay it with copper. ³And thou shalt make its pans for removing its ashes, and its shovels and its sprinkling bowls, and its flesh-

hooks and its fire-pans,—all its vessels, shalt thou make of bronze. ⁴And thou shalt make to it a grating, a network of bronze,—and thou shalt make upon the network, four rings of bronze, upon the four corners thereof. ⁵And thou shalt place it under the margin of the altar beneath,—so shall the network reach unto the midst of the altar. ⁶And thou shalt make staves for the altar, staves of acacia wood,—and shalt overlay them with copper. ⁷And the staves shall be brought into the rings,—so shall the staves be on the two sides of the altar in lifting it: ⁸Hollow with boards, shalt thou make it,—as it was showed thee in the mount, so, shall they make it. ⁹And thou shalt make the court of the habitation,—on the south side southward, hangings for the court of fine-twined linen, a hundred cubits in length to the one side; ¹⁰and the pillars thereof twenty, with their sockets twenty, of bronze,—and the hooks of the pillars and their cross-rods of silver. ¹¹And, so, for the north side in length, hangings a hundred cubits,—and the pillars thereof twenty, and their sockets twenty. of bronze, and the hooks of the pillars and their cross-rods of silver. ¹²And, the breadth of the court on the west side, hangings fifty cubits,—their pillars ten, and their sockets ten. ¹³And, the breadth of the court on the east side eastward, fifty cubits; ¹⁴and fifteen cubits the hangings for the side-piece,—their pillars three, and their sockets three; ¹⁵and, for the second side-piece, fifteen hangings,—their pillars three, and their sockets three, ¹⁶And for the gate of the court, a screen of twenty cubits, of blue, and purple and crimson and fine-twined linen, the work of an embroiderer,—their pillars four, and their sockets four. ¹⁷All the pillars of the court round about, to be joined with cross-rods of silver, and their hooks of silver,—and their sockets of bronze, ¹⁸The length of the court, a hundred cubits and the breadth fifty throughout and the height five cubits of fine-twined linen,—and their sockets, of bronze. ¹⁹All the utensils of the habitation, throughout all the service thereof,—and all the pins thereof, and all the pins of the court, of bronze. ²⁰Thou thyself, therefore, shalt command the sons of Israel that they bring unto thee—pure, beaten olive-oil, for giving light,—that the lamp may lift up its flame continually. ²¹In the tent of meeting, outside the veil which is by the testimony, shall Aaron and his sons order it from evening until morning, before Yahweh,—a statute age-abiding, to their generations, from the sons of Israel.

28Thou thyself, therefore bring near unto thee—Aaron thy brother and his sons with him out of the midst of the sons of Israel, that they may minister as priests unto me,—Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar sons of Aaron. ²And thou shalt make holy garments for Aaron thy brother,—for glory and for beauty. ³Thou thyself, therefore, shalt speak unto all the wise-hearted, whom I have filled with the spirit of wisdom,—and they shall make

Aaron's garments, to hallow him for ministering as priest unto me. ⁴These, therefore are the garments which they shall make—a breastpiece, and an ephod and a robe, and a tunic of checker work, a turban and a girdle,—so shall they make holy garments for Aaron thy brother and for his sons, for ministering as priests unto me. ⁵They themselves, therefore, shall take the gold, and the blue and the purple,—and the crimson, and the fine linen. ⁶And they shall make the ephod,—of gold, blue and purple crimson and fine-twined linen, the work of a skilful weaver. ⁷Two joining shoulderpieces, shall there be to it upon the two extremities thereof that it may be joined together, ⁸And the curious band for fastening it, that is upon it, like the work thereof of the same, shall it be,—of gold blue and purple and crimson and fine-twined linen, ⁹And thou shalt take two onyx stones,—and engrave upon them the names of the sons of Israel: ¹⁰six of their names, on the one stone,—and the names of the six that remain, on the second stone according to their births: ¹¹with the work of a stone engraver, like seal-ring engravings, shalt thou engrave the two stones, after the names of the sons of Israel,—to be encircled with settings of gold, shalt thou make them. ¹²And thou shalt put the two stones upon the shoulderpieces of the ephod, as stones of memorial for the sons of Israel,—so shall Aaron bear their names before Yahweh upon his two shoulders, for a memorial. ¹³And thou shalt make ouches of gold; ¹⁴and two chains of pure gold, like cord, shalt thou make them, of wreathen work, and thou shalt put the wreathen chains on the ouches. ¹⁵And thou shalt make a breastpiece for giving sentence the work of a skilful weaver, like the work of the ephod, shalt thou make it, of gold, blue, and purple and crimson and fine-twined linen, shalt thou make it. ¹⁶Four-square, shall it be double,—a span the length thereof and a span the breadth thereof. ¹⁷And thou shalt set therein a setting of stones, four rows of stones,—one row—a sardius, a topaz and an emerald, the first row; ¹⁸and the second row a carbuncle a sapphire and a diamond; ¹⁹and the third row an opal, an agate, and an amethyst; ²⁰and the fourth row, a Tarshish stone, a sardonyx, and a jasper,—enclosed with gold, shall they be when they are set. ²¹And the stones shall be after the names of the sons of Israel—twelve, after their names,—as the engravings of a seal-ring everyone after his name, shall they be, for the twelve tribes, ²²And thou shalt make, upon the breastpiece, chains like cords of wreathen work,—of pure gold. ²³And thou shalt make, upon the breastpiece, two rings of gold,—and thou shalt place the two rings, upon the two ends of the breastpiece. ²⁴And thou shalt hang the two wreathen chains of gold upon the two rings,—upon the ends of the breastpiece; ²⁵and the other two ends of the two wreathen chains, shalt thou fasten upon the two ouches, so shalt thou hang them upon the shoulderpieces of the ephod, in the forefront thereof. ²⁶And thou shalt make two rings of gold, and put them on the two ends of the breastpiece upon the border thereof, which is on the side of the ephod inwards. ²⁷And thou shalt make two rings of gold, and place them upon the two shoulderpieces of the ephod beneath, on the front of the face thereof, over against its joining, above the curious band of the ephod: ²⁸that they may bind the breastpiece by the rings thereof unto the rings of the ephod with a cord of blue, so that it may remain upon the curious band of the ephod, and the breastpiece not be removed from of the ephod. ²⁹So shall Aaron bear the names of the sons of Israel in the breastpiece for giving sentence upon his heart when he goeth into the holy place,—for a memorial before Yahweh continually. ³⁰Thus shalt thou place, in the breastpiece for giving sentence, the lights and the perfections, so shall they be upon the heart of Aaron when he goeth in before Yahweh,—so shall Aaron bear the sentence of the sons of Israel, upon his heart before Yahweh continually. ³¹And thou shalt make the robe of the ephod wholly of blue; ³²and the opening for his head shall be in the midst thereof,—a border, shall there be to the opening thereof round about the work of a weaver, like the opening of a coat of mail, shall there be to it, it must not be rent. ³³And thou shalt make upon the skirts thereof pomegranates of blue and purple and crimson, upon the skirts thereof round about—and bells of gold in the midst of them round about: ³⁴a bell of gold and a pomegranate, a bell of gold, and a pomegranate,—upon the skirts of the robe, round about. ³⁵And it shall be upon Aaron, for ministering,—so shall be heard the sound of him—when he goeth into the holy place, before Yahweh, and cometh out, and dieth not. ³⁶And thou shalt make a burnished plate, of pure gold,—and shalt engrave thereupon, like the engravings of a seal-ring, Holiness to Yahweh. ³⁷And thou shalt put it upon a cord of blue, so shall it be upon the turban,—upon the forefront of the turban, shall it be. ³⁸So shall it be upon the forehead of Aaron, and Aaron shall bear the iniquity of the hallowed things, which the sons of Israel shall hallow, for all their hallowed gift,—and it shall be upon his forehead continually, that there may be acceptance for them before Yahweh. ³⁹And thou shalt weave, in checker work the tunic of fine linen, and shalt make a turban of fine linen,—and, a girdle, shalt thou make the work of an embroiderer. ⁴⁰And, for the sons of Aaron, shalt thou make tunics, and shalt make for them girdles,—and caps, shalt thou make for them, for glory and for beauty. ⁴¹And thou shalt clothe therewith Aaron thy brother, and his sons, with him,—and shalt anoint them and install them, and hallow them, so shall they minister as priests unto me. ⁴²And thou shalt make for them breeches of linen, to cover their unseemliness, from the loins even unto the thighs, shall they be; ⁴³so shall they be upon Aaron and upon his sons, when they go into the tent of meeting, or when they approach unto the altar, to minister in the holy place, lest they bear iniquity, and die,—a statute age-abiding, to him and to his seed after

29And, his, is the thing which thou shalt do to them to hallow them, that they may minister as priests unto me,—Take one young bullock and two rams without defect; ²and bread unleavened and cakes unleavened with oil poured over, and wafers unleavened anointed with oil,—of fine wheaten meal, shalt thou make them; ³and thou shalt place them in one basket, and bring them near in the basket,—and the bullock, and the two rams. ⁴And Aaron and his sons, shalt thou bring near, unto the opening of the tent of meeting,—and shalt bathe them in water. ⁵And thou shalt take the garments and clothe Aaron—with the tunic, and with the robe of the ephod, and with the ephod, and with the breastpiece,—and shalt gird him with the curious band of the ephod; ⁶and shalt put the turban upon his head,—and place the holy crown upon the turban. ⁷Then shalt thou take the anointing oil, and pour upon his head,—so shalt thou anoint him. ⁸His sons also, shalt thou bring near,—and clothe them with tunics; ⁹and thou shalt gird them with girdles, Aaron and his sons, and twist round for them caps, so shall they have priesthood by a statute age-abiding,—so shalt thou install, Aaron and his sons. ¹⁰And thou shalt bring near the bullock, before the tent of meeting,—and Aaron and his sons shall lean their hands upon the head of the bullock; ¹¹then shalt thou slay the bullock before Yahweh,—at the opening of the tent of meeting: ¹²and thou shalt take of the blood of the bullock, and place upon the horns of the altar, with thy finger,—and all the remaining blood, shalt thou pour out at the foundation of the altar; ¹³and thou shalt take all the fat that covereth the inner part, and the caul upon the liver, and the two kidneys, with the fat which is upon them, and burn as incense on the altar: ¹⁴but the flesh of the bullock and its skin, and its dung, shalt thou burn up with fire, outside the camp,—a sin-bearer, it is. ¹⁵One ram also, shalt thou take, and Aaron and his sons shall lean their hands, upon the head of the ram; ¹⁶then shalt thou slay the ram,—and take its blood, and dash upon the altar round about; ¹⁷but the ram itself, shalt thou cut up into its pieces,—and shalt bathe its inner part, and its legs, and lay upon its pieces and upon its head; ¹⁸and shalt burn the whole ram as incense on the altar, an ascending-sacrifice, it is to Yahweh,—a satisfying odour, an altar-flame to Yahweh, it is. ¹⁹Then shalt thou take the second ram,—and Aaron and his sons shall lean their hands upon the head of the ram; ²⁰then shalt thou slay the ram, and take of its blood, and place upon the tip of the ear of Aaron and upon the tip of the ear of his sons—the right ear, and upon the thumb of their right hand, and upon the great toe of their right foot,—and shalt dash the blood upon the altar round about. ²¹Then shalt thou take of the blood that is upon the altar and of the anointing oil, and sprinkle upon Aaron and upon his garments, and upon his sons and upon the

garments of his sons with him,—so shall he be hallowed—he, and his garments, and his sons and the garments of his sons, with him. ²²Then shalt thou take from the ram—the fat and the fat-tail and the fat that covereth the inner part and the caul of the liver and the two kidneys with the fat that is upon them, and the right shoulder,—for, a ram of installation, it is,—²³and one round-cake of bread, and one cake of oiled bread, and one wafer,—out of the basket of unleavened cakes, which is before Yahweh; ²⁴and shalt lay the whole upon the trends of Aaron, and upon the hands of his sons,—then shalt thou wave them to and fro as a wave-offering, before Yahweh; ²⁵and shalt take them from their hand, and burn them as incense on the altar upon the ascending-sacrifice,—as a satisfying odour, before Yahweh, an altar-flame, it is to Yahweh. ²⁶Then shalt thou take the breast from the ram of installation which is for Aaron, and shalt wave it as a wave-offering, before Yahweh,—so shall it be thy share, ²⁷And thou shalt hallow the breast of the wave-offering, and the shoulder of the heave-offering, which is waved to and fro, and which is heaved up, from the ram of installation, from that which is for Aaron, and from that which is for his sons; ²⁸so shall it belong to Aaron and to his sons for an age-abiding statute from the sons of Israel, for a heave-offering, it is,—and, a heave-offering, shall it remain, from the sons of Israel out of their peace-offerings, their heave-offering to Yahweh. ²⁹And, the holy garments which belong to Aaron, shall belong to his sons, after him,—to be anointed therein, and to be installed therein, ³⁰Seven days, shall they be put on by him from among his sons who is priest in his stead,—by him who goeth into the tent of meeting, to minister in the holy place. ³¹And, the ram of installation, shalt thou take,—and shalt boil its flesh, in a holy place; ³²and Aaron and his sons shall eat the flesh of the ram, and the bread that is in the basket,—at the opening of the tent of meeting: ³³thus shall they eat those things wherewith a propitiatory-covering hath been made, to install them, to hallow them, but, a stranger, shall not eat, for holy, they are. ³⁴And, if there be left over of the flesh of installation, or of the bread until the morning, then shalt thou burn up what is left over, in the fire, it shall not be eaten for holy, it is. ³⁵So then thou shalt do for Aaron and for his sons, in this manner, according to all which I have commanded, thee,—seven days, shalt thou install them. ³⁶And a sin-bearing bullock, shalt thou offer daily, for them who are to be covered by propitiation, and shalt make a sin-cleansing for the altar, when thou putteth a propitiatory-covering thereon,—and shalt anoint it to hallow it. ³⁷Seven days, shalt thou put a propitiatory-covering over the altar, and so shalt hallow it, thus shall the altar become most holy; whosoever toucheth the altar, must be holy. ³⁸This, moreover, is what thou shalt offer upon the altar, two lambs of a year old day by day, continually: ³⁹The one lamb, shalt thou offer in the morning, and the second lamb, shalt thou offer between the evenings; ⁴⁰and a tenth part of fine meal mingled with a fourth part of the hin of beaten oil, and, as a drink-offering, a fourth part of the hin of wine,—with the one lamb. ⁴¹And the second lamb, shalt thou offer between the evenings,—according to the meal-offering of the morning, and according to the drink-offering thereof, shalt thou offer with it, for a satisfying odour, an altar-flame, to Yahweh: ⁴²a continual ascending-sacrifice to your generations, at the opening of the tent of meeting, before Yahweh, where will meet with you, to speak unto thee there. ⁴³So will I meet there with the sons of Israel, and it shall be hallowed by my glory. ⁴⁴Thus will I hallow the tent of meeting, and the altar,—and, Aaron and his sons, will I hallow, to minister as priests unto me. ⁴⁵Thus will I make my habitation in the midst of the sons of Israel, and will be their God; ⁴⁶and they shall know that, I—Yahweh, am their God, who brought them forth out of the land of Egypt that I might make my habitation in their midst, I—Yahweh, their God.

30And thou shalt make an altar, for burning incense, of acacia wood, shalt thou make it: ²a cubit, the length thereof, and a cubit the breadth thereof four square, shall it be,—and two cubits, the height thereof, of the same, shall be the horns thereof, ³And thou shalt overlay it with pure gold the top thereof, and the sides thereof round about, and the horns thereof,—and thou shalt make to it a border of gold round about. ⁴And, two rings of gold, shalt thou make to it, under the border thereof upon the two corners thereof, shalt thou make them on the two sides thereof,—so shall they become receptacles for the staves, to lift it therewith. ⁵And thou shalt make the staves of acacia wood,—and overlay them with gold. ⁶And thou shalt place it before the veil, which is by the ark of the testimony,—before the propitiatory which is upon the testimony, where I will meet thee. ⁷And Aaron shall burn thereon fragrant incense,—morning by morning, when he trimmeth the lamps, shall he burn it; ⁸and, when Aaron lighteth the lamps, between the evenings, shall he burn it,—a continual incense before Yahweh, to your generations. ⁹Ye shall not cause to ascend thereupon strange incense, nor an ascending-sacrifice, nor a meal-offering,—and a drink offering, shall ye not pour out thereupon. ¹⁰But Aaron shall put a propitiatory-covering upon the horns thereof, once in the year: of the blood of the sin-bearer for propitiatory-coverings, once in the year, shall he put a propitiatory-covering thereupon to your generations, most holy, it is to Yahweh. ¹¹Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying— ¹²When thou takest the sum of the sons of Israel, by their numberings, then shall they give every man a propitiatory-covering for his soul to Yahweh, when they are numbered,—that there may be among them no plague when they are numbered. ¹³This, shall they give—every one that passeth over to them that have been

numbered—a half-shekel by the shekel of the sanctuary,—the shekel is twenty gerahs—the half-shekel, shalt be a heave-offering to Yahweh. ¹⁴All who pass over to the numbered, from twenty years old and upwards, shall give the heave-offering of Yahweh. ¹⁵The rich, shall not give more, and the poor, shall not give less, than the half-shekel,—when they give the heave-offering of Yahweh, to put a propitiatory-covering over your souls. ¹⁶So then thou shalt take the silver for the propitiatory-coverings from the sons of Israel, and shalt expend it upon the service of the tent of meeting,—thus shall it be for the sons of Israel as a memorial before Yahweh, to put a propitiatory-covering over your souls. ¹⁷Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying— ¹⁸And thou shalt make a laver of bronze, and its stand of bronze for bathing,—and thou shalt place it between the tent of meeting and the altar, and shalt put therein water. ¹⁹So shall Aaron and his sons bathe thereat,—their hands, and their feet. ²⁰When they enter the tent of meeting, they shall bathe with water so shall they not die,—or when they approach unto the altar to minister, to burn as incense an altar-flame to Yahweh: ²¹so then they shall bathe their hands and their feet and shall not die,—and it shall be to them an age-abiding statute, to him and to his seed to their generations. ²²Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying— ²³Thou, therefore, take to thee—principal spices,—self-flowing myrrh, five hundred, and fragrant cinnamon, half as much, two hundred and fifty, and, fragrant cane, two hundred and fifty; ²⁴and, cassia, five hundred, by the shekel of the sanctuary,—and, oil olive, a hin. ²⁵And thou shalt make it an oil for holy anointing, a compounded perfume the work of a perfumer,—an oil for holy anointing, shall it be. ²⁶And thou shalt anoint therewith the tent of meeting,—and the ark of the testimony; ²⁷and the table and all its utensils, and the lampstand, and its utensils,—and the incense altar, ²⁸and the altar for the ascending-sacrifice, and all its utensils,—and the laver, and its stand. ²⁹So shalt thou hallow them, and they shall be most holy,—whosoever toucheth them, shall be holy. ³⁰Aaron also, and his sons, shalt thou anoint,—so shalt thou hallow them to minister as priests unto me. ³¹And unto the sons of Israel, shalt thou speak, saying, An oil for holy anointing, shall this be to me, to your generations. ³²Upon the flesh of a common man, shall it not be poured, and according to the proportions thereof, shall ye not make any like it,—holy, it is, holy, shall it be to you. ³³Whosoever compoundeth any like it, and whosoever bestoweth thereof upon a stranger, shall he out off from among his people. ³⁴Then said Yahweh unto Moses—Take to thee aromatic spices stacte and onycha, and galbanum,—aromatic spices, and pure frankincense,—weight for weight, shall it be. ³⁵And thou shalt make of it an incense, a perfume the work of a perfumer,—salted, pure, holy. ³⁶And thou shalt beat some of it to powder, and place thereof before the testimony, in the tong of meeting, where I am to meet with thee,—most holy, shall it be to you. ³⁷And the incense which thou shalt make, according to the proportions thereof, ye shall not make for yourselves,—holy, shall it be to thee, to Yahweh. ³⁸Whosoever shall make like it, to smell of it shall be cut off from among his people.

31Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: ²See, I have called by name, Bezaleel, son of Uri, son of Hur of the tribe of Judah; ³and have filled him with the Spirit of God, in wisdom and in understanding, and in knowledge and in all manner of workmanship; ⁴to devise skilful designs, to work in gold and in silver, and in bronze; ⁵and in the cutting of stones for setting, and in the carving of wood,—to work in all manner of workmanship, ⁶I myself, therefore, lo! I have given with him Oholiab, son of Ahisamach of the tribe of Dan, and in the heart of every one that is wise-hearted, have I put wisdom,—so shall they make all that I have commanded thee— ⁷the tent of meeting, and the ark of the testimony; and the propitiatory which is thereupon, and all the utensils of the tent; ⁸and the table, and its utensils, and the pure lampstand, and all its utensils,—and the incense altar; ⁹and the altar for the ascending-sacrifice, and all its utensils, and the laver, and its stand; ¹⁰and thee cloths of variegated stuff, and the holy garments, for Aaron the priest, and the garments of his sons, for ministering as priests; ¹¹and the anointing oil and the fragrant incense for the holy place, according to all which I have commanded thee, shall they do. ¹²Then spake Yahweh unto Moses saying— ¹³Thou thyself, therefore, speak unto the sons of Israel, saying, Surely, my sabbaths, shall ye keep, for, a sign it is betwixt me and you to your generations, that ye may know that I Yahweh do hallow you. ¹⁴Therefore shall ye keep the sabbath, for holy, it is unto you, he that profaneth it shall be surely put to death; verily whosoever doeth therein any work that souls shall be cut off from the midst of its people: ¹⁵Six days, shall work be done, but on the seventh day, is a holy sabbath-keeping of rest unto Yahweh,—whosoever doeth work on the sabbath day, shall be, surely put to death. ¹⁶Therefore shall the sons of Israel keep the sabbath,—by making it a Day of Rest to your generations, as an age-abiding covenant: ¹⁷between me and the sons of Israel, a sign it is unto times age-abiding,—for in six days, did Yahweh make the heavens and the earth, and on the seventh day, he rested, and was refreshed. ¹⁸Then gave he unto Moses, as he finished speaking with him in Mount Sinai, the two tables of the testimony,—tables of stone, written with the finger of God,

32And, when the people saw that Moses delayed to come down out of the mount, the people gathered themselves together unto Aaron, and said unto him—Up, make for us gods, who shall go before us, for, as for this Moses—the man who brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we know not what hath befallen him. ²And Aaron said unto them, Break off the rings of gold, which are in the ears of your wives, of your sons and of your daughters,—and bring them unto me. ³And all the people of themselves brake off the rings of gold which were in their ears, and brought them unto Aaron. ⁴And he received the gold at their hand, and fashioned it with a graving tool, and made it a molten calf, and they said—These, are thy gods, O Israel, who brought thee up, out of the land of Egypt. ⁵And when Aaron saw it, he built an altar before it. And Aaron made proclamation, and said, A festival to Yahweh, to-morrow! ⁶So they rose up early, on the morrow, and offered ascending-sacrifices, and brought near peace-offerings, and the people sat down, to eat and to drink, and then rose up—to make sport! ⁷Then spake Yahweh unto Moses—Go get thee down, for thy people whom thou hast brought up out of the land of Egypt have corrupted themselves. ⁸They have turned aside quickly out of the way which I commanded them, they have made for themselves—a molten calf, and have bowed themselves down thereto mad have sacrificed thereto, and have said, These, are thy gods, O Israel, who have brought thee up out of the land of Egypt. ⁹So then Yahweh said unto Moses,—I have looked on this people, and lo! a stiff-necked people, it is. ¹⁰Now, therefore, let me alone, that mine anger may kindle upon them and that I may consume them, and may make of thee ¹¹And Moses besought the face of Yahweh his God,—and said—Wherefore, O Yahweh, should thine anger kindle upon thy people, whom thou hast brought forth out of the land of Egypt with great might and with a firm hand? ¹²Wherefore should the Egyptians speak saying—For mischief, hath he taken them forth to slay them among the mountains, and to make an end of them from off the face of the ground? Turn thou from the kindling of thine anger, and be grieved over the calamity to thy people, ¹³Have remembrance of Abraham, of Isaac and of Israel thy servants to whom thou didst swear by thyself, and didst speak unto them saying, I will multiply your seed, as the stars of the heavens,—and, all this land of which I have spoken, will I give to your seed, and they shall inherit it to times age-abiding. ¹⁴So then Yahweh was grieved,—over the calamity—which he had spoken of inflicting on his people. ¹⁵And Moses turned and went down out of the mount, with the two tables of testimony in his hand,—tables written upon on both sides of them, on this and on that, were they written. ¹⁶Now as for, the tables, the work of God, they were,—and, as for the writing, the writing of God, it was, graven upon the tables. ¹⁷And Joshua heard the noise of the people as they shouted,—so he said unto Moses—The noise of war, in the camp! ¹⁸But he said—Not the noise of the cry of heroism, nor yet the noise of the cry of defeat,—the noise of alternate song, do I hear. ¹⁹And it came to pass when he drew near unto the camp, and saw the calf, and the dancings, that the anger of Moses kindled, and he cast out of his hands the tables, and brake them in pieces at the foot of the mountain. ²⁰Then took he the calf which they had made and burned it in the fire, and ground it till it became powder, and strewed it on the face of the waters, and made the sons of Israel drink. ²¹And Moses said unto Aaron, What had this people done to thee,—that thou shouldst have brought upon them a great sin? ²²And Aaron said, Let not the anger of my lord kindle,—thou thyself, knowest the people, that ready for mischief, they are. ²³So they said to me—Make for us gods, who shall go before us,—for, as for this, Moses—the man who brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we know not what hath befallen him. ²⁴And I said to them—Whosoever hath gold let them break it off, So they gave it to me,—and I cast it into the fire, and there came out—this calf. ²⁵And Moses saw the people, that unbridled, they were,—for Aaron had given them the rein, for a whispering, among their enemies. ²⁶So Moses took his stand in the gate of the camp, and said—Who is for Yahweh? ...To me! Then gathered unto him all the sons of Levi, ²⁷And he said to them—Thus, saith Yahweh, God of Israel, Put ye every man his sword upon his thigh,—pass through and return from gate to gate in the camp, and slay ye every man his brother and every man his friend and every man his neighbour. ²⁸So the sons of Levi did, according to the word of Moses,—and there fell from among the people on that day, about three thousand men. ²⁹And Moses said—Install yourselves to-day, unto Yahweh, yea every man for his son and for his brother,—so will he bestow upon you to-day, a blessing. ³⁰And it came to pass, on the morrow, that Moses said unto the people, Ye, have sinned a great sin,—Now, therefore, I must go up unto Yahweh, Peradventure, I may make a propitiatory-covering for your sin. ³¹So Moses returned unto Yahweh, and said,—Oh now, this people hath sinned a great sin, and they have made for themselves—gods of gold. ³²Now, therefore, if thou wilt forgive their sin, ...but if not, blot me I pray thee out of thy book, which thou hast written, ³³And Yahweh said unto Moses,—Him who hath sinned against me, must I blot out of my book. ³⁴Now, therefore, go lead the people to the place of which I spake to thee, lo! a my messenger, shall go before thee,—But, in the day when I do visit, then wilt I visit upon them their sin. ³⁵And Yahweh plagued the people,—for what they had done with the calf, which Aaron made.

33Then spake Yahweh unto Moses—Get thee away, go up from hence, thou, and the people whom thou hast brought up out of the land of Egypt,—into the land of which I sware to Abraham to Isaac and to Jacob, saying, To thy seed, will I give it; ²And I will send before thee a messenger,—and will drive out the Canaanite, the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite; ³into a land flowing with milk and honey,—for I will not go up in thy midst in that a stiff-necked people, thou art, lest I consume thee in the way. ⁴And when the people heard these evil tidings, they afflicted themselves,—and they put not, any man, his ornaments upon him. ⁵Then said Yahweh unto Moses—Say unto the sons of Israel, Ye, are a stiff-necked people, in one moment—if I should go up in thy midst, should I make an end of thee,—Now, therefore lay down thine ornaments from off thee, that I may see what I must do with thee. ⁶So then the sons of Israel stripped themselves of their ornaments, and moved on from Mount Horeb. ⁷And, Moses, proceeded to take a tent, and pitch it by itself outside the camp, afar off from the camp, and he called it, The Tent of Meeting,—and so it came to pass that whosoever was seeking Yahweh went out unto the tent of meeting, which was on the outside of the camp. ⁸And it came about, that, when Moses went out unto the tent, all the people used to rise up, and station themselves every man at the opening of his tent,—and they watched Moses, until he entered the tent. ⁹And it came to pass that when Moses entered the tent, the pillar of cloud came down, and stood at the opening of the tent,—and spake with Moses. ¹⁰And when all the people beheld the pillar of cloud, standing at the opening of the tent, then all the people rose up and bowed themselves down, every man at the entrance of his tent. ¹¹Thus Yahweh used to speak unto Moses face to face, as a man speaketh unto his friend,—and when he returned unto the camp, his attendant Joshua son of Nun, a young man, moved not from the midst of the tent. ¹²Then said Moses, unto Yahweh, See! thou art saying unto me—Take up this people, and yet thou hast no let me know whom thou wilt send with me,—though thou thyself, didst say—I acknowledge thee by name, Yea, moreover, thou hast found favour in mine eyes. ¹³Now, therefore, if, I pray thee, I have found favour in thine eyes, let me know, I beseech thee, thy way, that I may acknowledge thee, to the intent I may find favour in thine eyes,—see thou, therefore, that this nation is thine own people. ¹⁴So then he said,—Mine own presence, shall go on thus will I give thee rest. ¹⁵And he said unto him, If thy presence is not going on, do not take us up from hence. ¹⁶Whereby, indeed, shall it be known then that I have found favour in thine eyes, I, and thy people? Shall it not be, by thy going on with us? So shall we be more distinguished, I, and thy people, than any people that are on the face of the ground. ¹⁷Then said Yahweh unto Moses: Even this thing, which thou hast spoken, will I do—For thou hast found favour in mine eyes, And I have acknowledged thee by name. ¹⁸And he said,—Show me, I pray thee, thy glory. ¹⁹And he said,—I, will cause all my goodness to pass before thee. And will proclaim myself by the name Yahweh, before thee, And will show favour, unto whom I may show favour, And will have compassion on whom I may have compassion. ²⁰But be said—Thou canst not see my face, For no son of earth can see me, and life ²¹And Yahweh, said, Lo! a place near me,—So then thou shalt station thyself upon the rock: ²²And it shall be while my glory passeth by, I will put thee in the cleft of the rock,—and will cover thee with my hand while I pass by: ²³Then will I take away my hand, and thou shalt see behind me, But, my face, must not be seen.

34And Yahweh said unto Moses—Hew thee two tables of stone, like the first,—and I will write upon the tables the words which were upon the first tables which thou didst break in pieces; ²and be thou ready by the morning,—and thou shalt come up. in the morning, into Mount Sinai; then shalt thou station thyself for me there upon the top of the mount; ³and, no man, may come up with thee, and let no man so much as be seen in all the mount,—and let not even the flocks or the herds, feed in front of that mountain. ⁴So he hewed two tables of stone like the first and Moses rose up early in the morning, and went up into Mount Sinai, as Yahweh had commanded him,—and took in his hand two tables of stone. ⁵And Yahweh descended in the cloud, and took his station with him there,—and proclaimed himself by the name Yahweh. ⁶So Yahweh passed before him, and proclaimed,—Yahweh, Yahweh, A God of compassion and favour,—Slow to anger and abundant in lovingkindness and faithfulness: ⁷Keeping lovingkindness to a thousand generations, Forgiving iniquity and transgression and sin, Though he leave not, utterly unpunished, Visiting the iniquity of fathers, Upon sons, And upon sons' sons, Unto a third and unto a fourth generation. ⁸Then Moses made haste,—and bent his head towards the earth and bowed himself down; ⁹and said—If, I pray thee, I have found favour in thine eyes, O My Lord, I pray thee let My Lord go on in our midst,—although a stiff-necked people, it is, so wilt thou pardon our iniquity and our sin and take us as thine own. ¹⁰And he said—Lo! I, am about to solemnise a covenant,—in presence of all thy people, will I do marvellous things, which have not been created in any part of the earth nor among any of the nations,—so shall all the people in whose midst thou, art see the work of Yahweh for a fearful thing, it is, which I, am doing with thee. ¹¹Take thou heed what, I, am commanding thee this day,—behold me! driving out from before thee—the Amorite, and the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Hivite, and the Jebusite. ¹²Take heed to thyself, Lest thou solemnise a covenant with the inhabitant of the land, whereupon, thou, art about to enter,—Lest he become a snare in thy midst; ¹³For their altars, shall ye smash, And their pillars, shall ye shiver,—And their sacred-stems, shall ye fell. ¹⁴For thou shalt not bow thyself down to another GOD,—For as for Yahweh, Jealous, is his name, A jealous GOD, he is: ¹⁵Lest thou solemnise a covenant with the inhabitant of the land,—And then as surely as they go unchastely after their gods and sacrifice to their gods, So surely will he invite thee, And thou wilt eat of his sacrifice; ¹⁶And thou wilt take of his daughters for thy sons,—And his daughters will go unchastely after their gods, And will cause thy sons to go unchastely after their gods. ¹⁷Molten gods, shalt thou not make to thee. ¹⁸The festival of unleavened cakes, shalt thou keep, seven days, shalt thou eat unleavened cakes, which I commanded thee, at the set time, in the month Abib,—for in the month Abib, camest thou forth out of Egypt. ¹⁹Every one that is the first to be born, is mine,—and every one of thy cattle that is born a male, firstling of oxen or sheep. ²⁰But the firstling of an ass, thou mayst redeem with a lamb, and if thou wilt not redeem it, then shalt thou break its neck. Every firstborn of thy sons, shalt thou redeem, and he must not see my face, with empty hand. ²¹Six days, shalt thou labour, but on the seventh day, shalt thou rest,—in plowing time and in harvest, shalt thou rest. ²²And the festival of weeks, shalt thou make to thee, the firstfruits of the wheat harvest,—and the festival of ingathering, at the closing in of the year: ²³three times in the year, shall every one of thy males see the face of the Lord Yahweh the God of Israel. ²⁴For I will root out nations from before thee, and will enlarge thy borders,—and no man shall covet thy land, when thou goes up to see the face of Yahweh thy God, three times in the year. ²⁵Thou shalt not slay, along with anything leavened, the blood of my sacrifice,—neither shall remain to the morning, the sacrifice of the festival of the passover. ²⁶The beginning of the firstfruits of thy ground, shalt thou bring into the house of Yahweh, thy God, Thou shalt not boil a kid, in the milk of its dam. ²⁷And Yahweh said unto Moses, Write for thyself these words, for according to the tenor of these words, have I solemnized with thee, a covenant, and with Israel. ²⁸So then he was there, with Yahweh, forty days and forty nights, bread, did he not eat and, water, did he not drink, and he wrote upon the tables, the words of the covenant, the ten words. ²⁹And it came to pass, when Moses came down out of Mount Sinai, with the two tables of testimony in the hand of Moses, when he came down out of the mount, that, Moses, knew not that the skin of his face shone, through his having spoken with him. ³⁰And Aaron and all the sons of Israel saw Moses, and lo! the skin of his face shone, and they stood in awe of drawing nigh unto him. ³¹So then Moses called unto them, and Aaron and all the princes in the assembly returned unto him,—and Moses spake unto them. ³²And afterwards, came nigh, all the sons of Israel, and he gave them in commandment all that Yahweh had spoken with him in Mount Sinai. ³³And when Moses had made an end of speaking with them, he put over his face a veil: ³⁴but, as often as Moses went in before Yahweh to speak with him, be put aside the veil until he came out,—and, as often as he came out and spake unto the sons of Israel, that which he had been commanded, ³⁵the sons of Israel saw the face of Moses, that the skin of Moses face shone,—so Moses again put the veil over his face, until he went in to speak with him.

35And Moses called together all the assembly of the sons of Israel and said unto them,—These are the things which Yahweh hath commanded to do them. ²Six days, shall work be done, but on the seventh day, shall there be to you a holy sabbath-keeping, unto Yahweh, whosoever doeth work therein shall be put to death. ³Ye shall not kindle a fire, in any of your dwellings,—on the sabbath day. ⁴And Moses spake unto all the assembly of the sons of Israel, saying, This, is the thing which Yahweh hath commanded, saying, ⁵Take ye from among you, a heave-offering to Yahweh, every one whose heart is willing shall bring it in, even the heave-offering of Yahweh, gold and silver and bronze: ⁶and blue and purple and crimson and fine linen and goat's-hair; ⁷and rams' skins dyed red, and badgers skins, and acacia wood; ⁸and oil for giving light, and aromatic spices for the anointing oil, and for fragrant incense; ⁹and onyx stones and setting stones, for the ephod, and for the breastpiece. ¹⁰And, all the wise-hearted among you, shall come in, that they may make, all that which Yahweh hath commanded:—¹¹the habitation, its tent, and its covering,—its clasps its boards, and its bars its pillars, and its sockets: ¹²the ark with its staves the propitiatory, and the screening veil; ¹³the table with its staves and all its utensils, and the Presence-bread: ¹⁴the lampstand for giving light, with its utensils, and its lamps, and the oil for giving light; ¹⁵and the incense altar, with its staves, and the anointing oil, and the fragrant incense,—and the entrance screen, for the entrance of the habitation; ¹⁶the altar for the ascending-sacrifice, and the bronze grating which pertaineth thereto, its stoves and all its utensils, the laver and its stand; ¹⁷the hangings for the court, its pillars and its sockets,—and the screen for the gate of the court: ¹⁸the pins of the habitation, and the pins of the court, and their cords; ¹⁹the cloths of variegated stuff for ministering in the sanctuary,—the sacred garments for Aaron the priest, and the garments of his sons for ministering as priests. ²⁰So all the assembly of the sons of Israel went forth from the presence of Moses; ²¹and they brought in—every man whose heart lifted him up,—and, every one whose spirit made him willing, brought in the heave-offering of Yahweh, for the construction of the tent of meeting, and for all its service, and for the holy garments. ²²Yea they brought in—the men with the women,—all who were willing-hearted, brought in—bracelets and nose-ornaments and rings, and buckles, all manner of jewels of gold, even every man who waved a wave-offering of gold unto Yahweh. ²³And, every man with whom was found blue and purple and crimson and fine linen and goats-hair,—and rams' skins dyed red and badgers skins brought them in. ²⁴Every one who would heave a heave-offering of silver or bronze, brought in the heave-offering of Yahweh,—and, every one with whom was found acacia wood for any construction for the service, brought it in. ²⁵And, all the women who were wise-hearted, with their hands, did spin,—and brought in that which they had spun—the blue, and the purple, the crimson, and the fine linen. ²⁶And, all the women whose hearts lifted them up with wisdom, span the goats-hair. ²⁷And the princes, brought in the onyx stones and the setting stones,—for the ephod and for the breastpiece; ²⁸and the aromatic spices, and the oil,—for giving light, and for anointing oil, and for the fragrant incense. ²⁹In the case of , every male and woman whose heart, made them willing, to bring in for any construction which, Yahweh had commanded them to make, by the hand of Moses, in their case did the sons of Israel bring in a free-will offering unto Yahweh. ³⁰And Moses said unto the sons of Israel—See! Yahweh hath called by name,—Bezaleel son of Uri, son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah; ³¹and filled him with the spirit of God,—in, wisdom in understanding and in knowledge, and in all manner of execution; ³²to devise skilful designs,—to work in gold and in silver and in bronze; ³³and in the cutting of stones for setting, and in the cutting of wood,—to work in any manner of skilful workmanship, ³⁴To teach also, hath be put in his heart, the heart of him, and of Oholiab—son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan; ³⁵hath filled them with wisdom of heart to work all manner of workmanship of cutter, and deviser and embroiderer, in blue and in purple, in crimson and in fine linen and of the weaver,—workers of any manner of workmanship, and devisers of skilful designs.

36Thus shall Bezaleel and Oholiab work, and every man that is wise-hearted, in whom Yahweh hath put wisdom and understanding, to know how to work any manner of workmanship for the holy service,—according to all that Yahweh hath commanded. ²So then Moses called upon Bezaleel, and upon Oholiab, and upon every man that was wise-hearted, in whose heart Yahweh had put wisdom,—every one whose heart lifted him up, to draw near unto the work, to do it. ³And they took, from the presence of Moses, all the heave-offering which the sons of Israel had brought in for the work of the holy service to do it,—howbeit, they, brought in unto him yet more free-will offerings, meriting by morning. ⁴Then came in all the wise men who were doing all the holy work,—man by man from his work which, they, were doing; ⁵and spake unto Moses, saying, More than enough, are the people bringing in,—more than is needed for the service pertaining to the work; which Yahweh hath commanded to be done. ⁶So Moses gave commandment and they passed a proclamation throughout the camp, saying, Let, neither man nor woman, make any more material for the holy heave-offering. So the people were restrained from bringing in. ⁷For the material was enough for all the work, to make it,—and to spare. ⁸Then did all the wise-hearted among the workers of the material make the habitation of ten curtains, of fine-twined linen, and blue and purple and crimson, with cherubim the work of the skilful weaver, did he make them.

⁹The length of each curtain, was twenty-eight cubits, and the breadth four cubits, for each curtain,—one measure, had all the curtains. ¹⁰And he joined the first five curtains, one to another,—and the other five curtains, joined he one to another, ¹¹And he made loops of blue upon the border of the first curtain, at the edge of the set,—thus, made he in the border of the other curtain at the edge of the second set: ¹²Fifty loops, made he in the first curtain, and fifty loops, made he in the edge of the curtain that was in the second set,—the loops being, opposite, one to another. ¹³And he made fifty clasps of gold,—and joined the curtains one to another with the clasps, and so the habitation became, one. ¹⁴And he made curtains of goats-hair, for the tent over the habitation, eleven curtains, did he make them: ¹⁵the length of each curtain, was thirty cubits, and, four cubits, was the breadth of each curtain,—one measure, had the eleven curtains. ¹⁶And he joined five of the curtains by themselves,—and the six curtains, by themselves. ¹⁷And he made fifty loops upon the border of the curtain that was outmost in the one set and fifty loops, made he upon the border of the curtain of the second set. ¹⁸And he made fifty clasps of bronze,—to join together the tent, that it might become one. ¹⁹And he made a covering to the tent, of rams skins dyed red,—and a covering of badgers skins, above. ²⁰And he made the boards for the habitation, of acacia wood, for standing up: ²¹ten cubits, the length of each board, and a cubit and a half the breadth of each board: ²²two tenons to each board, united one to another,—thus, made he for all the boards of the habitation. ²³And he made the boards for the habitation, twenty boards, for the south side southwards; ²⁴and, forty sockets of silver, made he, under the twenty boards, two sockets, under the first board, for its two tenons, and, two sockets, under the next board for its two tenons. ²⁵And for the second side of the habitation to the north quarter, made he twenty boards; ²⁶and their forty sockets of silver, two sockets, under the first board, and, two sockets, under the next board. ²⁷And, for the hinder part of the habitation westward, made he six boards; ²⁸and two boards, made he for the corners of the habitation,—in the hinderpart. ²⁹Thus were they to be double beneath, and at the same time, should they be entire, at the top thereof, into each ring, thus, did he for them both, for the two corners. ³⁰Thus were there to be eight boards, and, their sockets of silver, were sixteen sockets, two sockets apiece under each board. ³¹And he made bars of acacia wood,—five, for the boards of the first side of the habitation, ³²and five bars, for the boards of the other side of the habitation, and, five bars, for the boards of the habitation at the hinderpart westward. ³³And he made the middle bar,—to run along in the midst of the boards, from end to end. ³⁴And the boards, overlaid he with gold and their rings, made he of gold, as receptacles for the bars, and he overlaid the bars with gold. ³⁵And he made the veil, of blue and purple and crimson and fine-twined linen,—of the work of a skilful weaver, made he it, with cherubim. ³⁶And he made for it four pillars of acacia, and overlaid them with gold their hooks of gold, and cast for them, four sockets of silver. ³⁷And he made a screen for the opening of the tent, of blue and purple and crimson and fine twined linen, the work of an embroiderer; ³⁸and the five pillars thereof and their hooks, and he overlaid their capitals and their cross- rods, with gold, but, their five sockets, were of bronze.

37And Bezaleel made the ark, of acacia wood, two cubits and a half, the length thereof and, a cubit and a half, the breadth thereof, and, a cubit and a half, the height thereof; ²and he overlaid it with pure gold within and without,—and made for it a rim of gold, round about; ³and he cast for it four rings of gold, upon the four feet thereof,—even, two rings, on the one side thereof and, two rings, on the other side thereof; ⁴and he made staves of acacia wood, and overlaid them with gold; ⁵and he brought the staves into the rings, upon the sides of the ark, for lifting the ark. ⁶And he made a propitiatory of pure gold,—two cubits and a half, the length thereof, and, a cubit and a half, the breadth thereof: ⁷and he made two cherubim, of gold, of beaten work, did he make them, out of the two ends of the propitiatory: ⁸one cherub, out of this end, and, one cherub, out of that end, out of the propitiatory itself, made he the cherubim, out of the two ends thereof: ⁹and the cherubim were spreading out their wings on high making a shelter with their wings over the propitiatory, with, their faces, one towards the other, towards the propitiatory, were the faces of the cherubim, ¹⁰And he made the table of acacia wood, two cubits, the length thereof and, a cubit, the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the height thereof, ¹¹And he overlaid it with pure gold,—and he made thereto a rim of gold round about: ¹²and he made thereto a border of a handbreadth, round about, and he made a rim of gold to the border thereof round about: ¹³and he cast for it, four rings of gold, and placed the rings upon the four corners, which pertained to the four feet thereof: ¹⁴near to the border, were the rings, as receptacles for the staves, for lifting the table; ¹⁵and he made the staves of acacia wood, and overlaid them with gold,—for lifting the table; ¹⁶and he made the utensils which were to be upon the table, its dishes and its pans and its bowls, and its basins for pouring out therewith, of pure gold. ¹⁷And he made the lampstand, of pure gold, of beaten work, made he the lampstand, its base and its shafts, its cups, its apples and its blossoms were, of the same; ¹⁸with, six branches coming out of its sides,—three branches of the lampstand out of its one side and three branches of the lampstand out of its other side: ¹⁹three cups like almond-flowers in the one branch—apple and blossom, and, three cups like almond-flowers, in the next branch, apple and blossom, so for the six branches coming out of the lampstand; ²⁰and in the lampstand itself, four cups, like almond-flowers, its apples and its blossoms: ²¹with, an apple, under the two branches of the same, and, an apple, under the next two branches of the same, and, an apple, under the next two branches of the same, for the six branches coming out of the same: ²²their apples and their branches were of the same, all of it one beaten work, of pure gold. ²³And he made the lamps thereof seven,—with its snuffers and its snuff-trays, of pure gold. ²⁴Of a talent of pure gold, made he it,—and all the utensils thereof. ²⁵And he made the incense altar, of acacia wood,—a cubit, the length thereof, and, a cubit, the breadth thereof, foursquare, and two cubits the height thereof, of the same, were the horns thereof. ²⁶And he overlaid it with pure gold—the top thereof and the sides thereof round about, and the horns thereof,—and he made thereto a rim of gold, round about. ²⁷And two rings of gold, made he thereto—beneath the rim thereof, upon the two corners thereof, upon the two sides thereof,—as receptacles for the staves, to lift it therewith. ²⁸And he made the staves of acacia wood,—and overlaid them with gold. ²⁹And he made the holy anointing oil, and the pure fragrant incense,—the work of a perfumer.

38And he made the altar for the ascending-sacrifice of acacia wood,—five cubits, the length thereof and, five cubits, the breadth thereof foursquare, and, three cubits, the height thereof. ²And he made the horns thereof, upon the four corners thereof, of the same, were the horns thereof,—and he overlaid it with bronze. ³And he made all the utensils of the altar—the pans and the shovels, and the sprinkling bowls, the flesh-hooks and the fire-pans,—all the utensils thereof, made he of bronze. ⁴And he made to the altar a grating, of network of bronze,—under the margin thereof beneath as far as the midst thereof. ⁵And he cast four rings in the four corners to the grating of bronze,—as receptacles for the staves, ⁶And he made the staves of acacia wood,—and overlaid them with bronze. ⁷And he brought the staves into the rings, upon the sides of the altar, to lift it therewith,—hollow with boards, did he make it. ⁸And he made the laver of bronze, and the stand thereof of bronze,—with the mirrors of the female hosts who did service at the opening of the tent of meeting. ⁹And he made the court,—on the south side southward, the hangings of the court of fine twined linen, a hundred cubits; ¹⁰their pillars, twenty, and their sockets twenty, of bronze,—the hooks of the pillars and their connecting-rods, of silver: ¹¹and, on the north side, a hundred cubits, their pillars, twenty, and, their sockets twenty, of bronze,—the hooks of the pillars and their connecting-rods, of silver. ¹²And on the west side, hangings, fifty cubits, their pillars, ten, and, their sockets, ten,—and, the hooks of the pillars and their connecting-rods, of silver. ¹³And on the east side towards the dawn, fifty cubits: ¹⁴hangings, fifteen cubits, for the side-piece,—their pillars, three, and, their sockets three; ¹⁵and, for the second sidepiece on this side and on that of the gate of the court, hangings, fifteen cubits,—their pillars three, and their sockets, three. ¹⁶All the hangings of the court round about were of fine twined linen. ¹⁷And, the sockets for the pillars, were of bronze, the hooks of the pillars and their connecting-rods of silver,—and the overlaying of their capitals, was silver,—and, they themselves, were filleted with silver, even all the pillars of the court, ¹⁸And, the screen of the gate of the court was the work of an embroiderer, blue and purple and crimson, and fine-twined linen,—and, twenty cubits, in length, and the height, according to the breadth, of five cubits, to match the curtains of the court; ¹⁹and, their pillars, were four, and, their sockets, four, of bronze,—their hooks, of silver, and the overlaying of their capitals and their connecting-rods, of silver. ²⁰And, all the pins for the habitation, and for the court round about, of bronze. ²¹These, are the details of the habitation—the habitation of testimony, which were detailed at the bidding of Moses,—the service of the Levites, by the hand of Ithamar, son of Aaron the priest. ²²So then Bezaleel son of Uri, son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah, made all that Yahweh had commanded Moses. ²³And, with him, was Oholiab, son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan, an artificer and skilful weaver,—and an embroiderer—in blue, and in purple and in crimson and in fine linen. ²⁴As for all the gold that was used for, he work, in all the construction of the sanctuary, it came to pass that the gold of the wave-offering was nine-and-twenty talents, and seven hundred and thirty shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary. ²⁵And, the silver of them who were numbered of the assembly, was one hundred talents,—and one thousand, seven hundred and seventy-five shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary; ²⁶a bekah per head, that is a half shekel, by the shekel of the sanctuary, for all that passed over to them who had been numbered, from twenty years old and upwards, for six hundred and three thousand, and five hundred and fifty. ²⁷And it came to pass that the hundred talents of silver were used for casting the sockets of the sanctuary, and the sockets of the veil,—one hundred sockets with the hundred talents a talent for a socket. ²⁸And with the thousand, seven hundred and seventy-five, made the hooks for the pillars,—and overlaid their capitals and united them with connecting-rods. ²⁹And the bronze of the wave-offering, was seventy talents,—and two thousand and four hundred shekels. ³⁰And he made therewith, the sockets for the opening of the tent of meeting, and the altar of bronze and the grating of bronze which pertained thereto,—and all the utensils of the altar, ³¹and the sockets for the court round about, and the sockets for the gate of the court,—and all the pins for the habitation and all the pins for the court round about.

39And of the blue and the purple, and the crimson, made they cloths of variegated stuff for ministering in the sanctuary,—and they made the holy garments which were for Aaron,—As Yahweh commanded Moses. ²So he made the ephod,—of gold, blue, and purple, and crimson, and fine twined linen, ³And they did beat out the plates of gold and he proceeded to cut them into threads, to work into the midst of the blue and into the midst of the purple and into the midst of the crimson, and into the midst of the fine linen,—with the work of a skilful weaver. ⁴Shoulder-pieces, made they thereto, for joining,—at its two edges, was it joined. ⁵And as for the curious fastening girdle which was thereon, of the same, it was according to the working thereof, gold blue, and purple, and crimson and fine twined linen,—As Yahweh commanded Moses. ⁶And they wrought the onyx stones, enclosed in ouches of gold,—graven with the engravings of a seal-ring, after the names of the sons of Israel. ⁷And he put them on the shoulder-pieces of the ephod, as stones of memorial for the sons of Israel,—As Yahweh commanded Moses. ⁸And he made the breastpiece the work of a skilful weaver like the work of the ephod,—of gold blue and purple and crimson, and fine twined linen. ⁹Foursquare, it was doubled, made they the breastpiece,—a span, was the length thereof, and, a span, the breadth thereof, doubled. ¹⁰And they set therein four rows of stones,—one row sardius, a topaz and an emerald, the first row; ¹¹and the second row,—a carbuncle a sapphire, and a diamond; ¹²and the third row,—an opal an agate and an amethyst; ¹³and the fourth row, a Tarshish stone, a sardonyx, and a jasper,—enclosed in ouches of gold, when they were set ¹⁴And as for the stones, after the names of the sons of Israel, they were twelve, after their names,—with the engravings of a seal-ring, each one, after his name, for the twelve tribes, ¹⁵And they made, upon the breastpiece, chains like cords of wreathen work,—of pure gold. ¹⁶And they made two ouches of gold, and two rings of gold,—and they placed the two rings upon the two ends of the breastpiece; ¹⁷and they placed the two wreathen chains of gold upon the two rings,—upon the ends of the breastpiece; ¹⁸and the other two ends of the two wreathen chains, placed they upon the two ouches,—and placed them upon the shoulder-pieces of the ephod in the forefront thereof. ¹⁹And they made two rings of gold, and put on the two ends of the breastpiece, upon the border thereof, which is towards the ephod, inwards. ²⁰And they made two other rings of gold, and placed them upon the two shoulder-pieces of the ephod below on the front of the face thereof, to match the joining thereof.—above the curious girdle of the ephod, ²¹And they bound the breastpiece by the rings thereof into the rings of the ephod, with a cord of blue that it might remain upon the curious girdle of the ephod, and the breastpiece not be removed from upon the ephod,—As Yahweh commanded Moses. ²²And he made the robe of the ephod, the work of a weaver, wholly of blue; ²³with the opening of the robe in the midst thereof, like the opening of a coat of mail,—a border to the opening thereof round about it might not be rent open. ²⁴And they made upon the skirts of the robe, pomegranates—of blue and purple and crimson,—twined. ²⁵And they made bells of pure gold, and placed the bells in the midst of the pomegranates upon the skirts of the robe, roundabout, in the midst of the pomegranates: ²⁶a bell and a pomegranate, a bell and a pomegranate, upon the skirts of the robe, round about, to minister in—As Yahweh commanded Moses. ²⁷And they made the tunics of fine linen the work of a weaver, for Aaron and for his sons: ²⁸and the turban of fine linen, and the ornamental caps of fine linen,—and the linen drawers, of fine twined linen: ²⁹and the girdle of fine twined liner, and blue and purple and crimson the work of an embroiderer,—As Yahweh commanded Moses. ³⁰And they made the burnished plate of the holy crown of pure gold, and wrote thereupon a writing, with the engravings of a seal-ring Holy unto Yahweh. ³¹And they placed there, upon a cord of blue, to fasten it upon the turban up above, As Yahweh commanded Moses. ³²Thus was finished all the work of the habitation of the tent of meeting,—thus did the sons of Israel, according to all that Yahweh commanded Moses, so, did they. ³³And they brought in the habitation unto Moses, the tent, and all its furniture,—its clasps, its boards, its bars, and its pillars and its sockets; ³⁴and the covering of rams' skins dyed red, and the covering of badgers' skins, and the screening veil; ³⁵the ark of the testimony, with its staves,—and the propitiatory; ³⁶the table all its utensils, and the Presence-bread; ³⁷the pure lampstand the lamps thereof the lamps to be put in order, and all the utensils thereof,—and the oil for giving light; ³⁸and the altar of gold, and the oil of anointing, and the fragrant incense,—and the screen for the opening of the tent; ³⁹the altar of bronze and the grating of bronze which pertaineth thereto, the staves thereof, and all the utensils thereof,—the laver, and its stand, ⁴⁰the hangings of the court its pillars and its sockets, and the screen for the gate of the court, its cords and its pins,—and all the utensils for the service of the habitation for the tent of meeting; ⁴¹them cloths of variegated stuff, for ministering in the sanctuary,—the holy garments for Aaron the priest, and the garments of his sons for ministering as priests. ⁴²According to all that Yahweh commanded Moses, so, did the sons of Israel make all the work. ⁴³And Moses looked upon all the structure and lo! they had made it, as Yahweh had commanded, so, had they made it,—and Moses blessed them.

40Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying— ²On the first day of the month, in the first month, shalt thou rear the habitation, of the tent of meeting; ³and thou shalt put therein, the ark of the testimony,—and shalt screen the ark with the veil; ⁴and thou shalt bring in the table, and set in order what is to be arranged thereupon,—and thou shalt bring in the lampstand, and mount the lamps thereof;

⁵and thou shalt place the altar of gold for incense, before the ark of the testimony,—and put up the screen for the opening of the habitation; ⁶and thou shalt place the altar for the ascending-sacrifice,—before the opening of the habitation of the tent of meeting; ⁷and thou shalt place the laver between the tent of meeting, and the altar, and shalt put therein water, ⁸And thou shalt put up the court round about, and hang up the screen of the gate of the court. ⁹And thou shalt take the oil of anointing, and anoint the habitation and all that is therein,—and shalt hallow it. and all the furniture thereof so shall it be holy. ¹⁰And thou shalt anoint the altar of ascending sacrifice, and all its utensils,—and hallow the altar, so shall the altar be most holy: ¹¹and thou shalt anoint the laver and its stand,—and shalt hallow it. ¹²And thou shalt bring near Aaron and his sons, unto the opening of the tent of meeting,—and shalt bathe them in the water; ¹³and thou shalt clothe Aaron with the holy garments,—and shalt anoint him and hallow him so shall he minister as priest unto me. ¹⁴His sons also, shalt thou bring near,—and shalt clothe them with tunics; ¹⁵and shalt anoint them as thou didst anoint their father, and they shall minister as priests unto me,—so shall their anointing remain to them for an age-abiding priesthood, to their generations. ¹⁶And Moses did,—according to all that Yahweh had commanded him, so did he. ¹⁷Thus came it to pass, in the first month, in the second year, on the first of the month, that the habitation was reared. ¹⁸Yea Moses reared the habitation, and placed its sockets, and fixed its boards, and fastened its bars,—and reared its pillar ¹⁹Then spread he abroad the tent upon the habitation, and put the covering of the tent upon it, above,—As Yahweh commanded Moses. ²⁰And he took and placed the testimony within the ark, and put the staves upon the ark,—and placed the propitiatory upon the ark, above; ²¹and brought in the ark into the habitation, and put up the screening veil, and screened over the ark of the testimony,—As Yahweh commanded Moses. ²²And he placed the table in the tent of meeting,—on the side of the habitation northward,—outside the veil; ²³and set in order thereupon the arrangement of bread before Yahweh,—As Yahweh commanded Moses. ²⁴And he put the lampstand, in the tent of meeting, over against the table,—on the side of the habitation southward; ²⁵and mounted the lamps before Yahweh,—As Yahweh commanded Moses. ²⁶And he put the altar of gold in the tent of meeting,—before the veil; ²⁷and burned thereupon the fragrant incense,—As Yahweh commanded Moses. ²⁸And he put up the screen of the entrance pertaining to the habitation; ²⁹and, the altar of ascending-sacrifice, put he at the entrance of the habitation of the tent of meeting,—and he caused to ascend thereupon the ascending-sacrifice, and the meal-offering,—As Yahweh commanded Moses. ³⁰And he put the laver, between the tent of meeting, and the altar,—and put therein water for bathing; ³¹and Moses and Aaron and his sons

thenceforth bathed thereat,—their hands and their feet; ³²when they were entering into the tent of meeting, and when they were drawing near unto the altar, then used they to bathe,—As Yahweh commanded Moses. ³³And he reared the court round about to the habitation and to the altar, and put up the screen of the gate of the court,—and Moses finished the work. ³⁴Then did the cloud cover the tent of meeting,—and, the glory of Yahweh, filled the habitation; ³⁵and Moses was not able to enter into the tent of meeting, because the cloud had made its habitation thereupon,—and the glory of Yahweh, filled the habitation. ³⁶And whensoever the cloud ascended from off the habitation, then did the sons of Israel set forward, in all their journeyings; ³⁷but if the cloud did not ascend, then did they not set forward—until the day when it did ascend. ³⁸For, the cloud of Yahweh, was upon the habitation by day, and, a fire, came to be by night therein,—in the sight of all the house of Israel in all their journeyings.

Leviticus

¹Then called he unto Moses,—and Yahweh spake unto him, out of the tent of meeting, saying: ²Speak thou unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them When any man, would bring near from among you an oblation, unto Yahweh, from the beasts, from the herd or from the flock, shall ye bring near your oblation. ³If an ascending-sacrifice, be his oblation—of the herd, a male without defect, shall he bring near,—unto the entrance of the tent of meeting, shall he bring it, for its acceptance, before Yahweh. ⁴Then shall he lean his hand, upon the head of the ascending-sacrifice,—and it shall be accepted for him to put a propitiatory covering over him; ⁵and he shall slay the young bullock before Yahweh,—and the sons of Aaron, the priests, shall bring near the blood, and shall dash the blood against the altar round about, even the altar that is at the entrance of the tent of meeting. ⁶Then shall he flay the ascending-sacrifice,—and cut it up into its pieces. ⁷And the sons of Aaron the priest shall place fire upon the altar,—and arrange wood, upon the fire. ⁸And the sons of Aaron, the priests, shall arrange the pieces, the head and the fat,—upon the wood, that is on the fire, that is on the altar. ⁹But its inwards and its legs, shall they bathe with water,—then shall the priest make, of the whole, a perfume at the altar, an ascending-sacrifice an altar-flame of a satisfying odour unto Yahweh. ¹⁰But, if of the flock, be his oblation,—of the sheep or of the goats, for an ascending-sacrifice, a male without defect, shall he bring near. ¹¹And he shall slay it on the side of the altar northward, before Yahweh,—and the sons of Aaron the priests shall dash its blood against the altar round about. ¹²And he shall cut it up into its pieces, and its head, and its fat,—and the priest shall arrange them upon the wood that is on the fire, that is on the altar, ¹³But the inwards and the legs, shall he bathe in water,—then shall the priest bring near the whole and make a perfume at the altar, an ascending-sacrifice, it is an altar-flame of a satisfying odour, unto Yahweh. ¹⁴But, if, of birds, be the ascending-sacrifice of his oblation unto Yahweh, then shall he bring near of the turtle-doves or of the young pigeons, his oblation. ¹⁵And the priest shall bring it near unto the altar shall nip off its head, and make a perfume at the altar,—and its blood shall be drained out upon the wall of the altar. ¹⁶Then shall he take away its crop with its plumage,—and cast it beside the altar, eastward, into the place of fat ashes; ¹⁷and he shall cleave it in its wings—he shall not divide it asunder, so shall the priest make a perfume therewith, at the altar, upon the wood that is on the fire,—an ascending-sacrifice, it is, an altar-flame of a satisfying odour, unto Yahweh.

²But, when any person would bring near as an oblation, a meal-offering, unto Yahweh, of fine meal, shall be his oblation,—and he shall pour out thereon oil, and place thereon, frankincense; ²so shall he bring it in unto the sons of Aaron, the priests, and he shall grasp therefrom a handful of the fine meal thereof and of the oil thereof, besides all the frankincense thereof,—and the priest shall make a perfume with the memorial thereof at the altar, an altar-flame of a satisfying odour unto Yahweh. ³But, the remainder of the meal-offering, pertaineth unto Aaron and unto his sons,—most holy, from among the altar-flames of Yahweh. ⁴Moreover, when thou wouldst bring near as an oblation of a meal-offering, something baked in an oven, round unleavened cakes of fine meal, overflowed with oil, shall it be, or unleavened wafers anointed with oil. ⁵But, if, a meal-offering, on a girdle, be thine oblation, of fine meal, overflowed with oil unleavened, shall it be; ⁶parting it into pieces, then shalt thou pour thereon oil,—a meal-offering, it is, ⁷But, if a meal-offering of the boiler, be thine oblation, of fine meal with oil, shall it be made. ⁸Then shalt thou bring in the meal-offering that is made of these, unto Yahweh,—and one shall bring it near unto the priest, and he shall take it near unto the altar. ⁹Then shall the priest uplift out of the meal-offering, a memorial thereof, and make a perfume at the altar,—an altar-flame of a satisfying odour unto Yahweh. ¹⁰But the remainder of the meal-offering pertaineth to Aaron and to his sons,—most holy from among the altar-flames of Yahweh. ¹¹None of the meal-offerings which ye bring near unto Yahweh shall be made into anything leavened,—for, of no leaven and Of no syrup, may ye make a perfume, as an altar-flame unto Yahweh. ¹²As for an oblation of first-fruits, ye shall bring them near unto Yahweh,—but unto the altar, they shall not take them up, as a satisfying odour. ¹³And, every meal-offering oblation of thine, with salt, shalt thou season, and thou shalt not suffer to be lacking the salt of the covenant of thy God, from upon thy meal-offering,—upon every oblation of thine, shalt thou offer salt. ¹⁴But, if thou wouldst bring near a meal-offering of first-ripe corn, unto Yahweh, of green ears roasted in fire crushed grain of garden-land, shalt thou bring near thy meal-offering of first-ripe corn. ¹⁵And thou shalt place thereon, oil and shalt put thereon, frankincense,—a meal-offering, it is. ¹⁶Then shall the priest make a perfume, with the memorial thereof,—from the crushed grain thereof and from the oil thereof, besides all the frankincense thereof,—an altar-flame, unto Yahweh.

³But, if a peace-offering, be his oblation, if, of the herd, he himself, be bringing near,—whether male or female, without defect, shall he bring it near before Yahweh. ²Then shall he lean his hand upon the head of his oblation, and slay it at the entrance of the tent of meeting,—and the sons of Aaron the priests shall dash the blood against the altar round about, ³Then shall he bring near out of the peace-offering, an altar-flame unto Yahweh,—the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards; ⁴and the two kidneys, and the fat which is upon them, which is upon the loins,—and the caul upon the liver, upon the kidneys, shall he remove it. ⁵Then shall the sons of Aaron make thereof a perfume at the altar, upon the ascending-sacrifice which is on the wood, which is on the fire,—an altar-flame of a satisfying odour unto Yahweh. ⁶But, if out of the flock, be his oblation for a peace-offering unto Yahweh, whether male or female—without defect, shall he bring it near. ⁷If a young sheep, he himself, be bringing near as his oblation, then shall he bring it near, before Yahweh. ⁸And he shall lean his hand upon the head of his oblation, and shall slay it before the tent of meeting,—and the sons of Aaron shall dash the blood thereof against the altar round about. ⁹Then shall he bring near out of the peace-offering, an altar-flame unto Yahweh, the fat thereof the fat-tail thereof entire close to the backbone, shall he remove it,—and the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards; ¹⁰and the two kidneys, with the fat that is on them, which is on the loins,—and the caul that is on the liver, on the kidneys, shall he remove it. ¹¹Then shall the priest make a perfume, at the altar,—the food of an altar-flame, unto Yahweh. ¹²But if a goat, be his oblation, then shall he bring it near, before Yahweh. ¹³And he shall lean his hand upon its head, and shall slay it before the tent of meeting,—and the sons of Aaron shall dash its blood against the altar, round about. ¹⁴Then shall he bring near therefrom as his oblation an altar-flame unto Yahweh,—the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards; ¹⁵and the two kidneys, and the fat that is on them which is on the loins,—the caul upon the liver, on the kidneys, shall he remove it. ¹⁶Then shall the priest make a perfume at the altar,—the food of an altar-flame for a satisfying odour,—all the fat—unto Yahweh. ¹⁷An age-abiding statute to your generations, in all your dwellings,—none of the fat nor of the blood, shall ye eat.

⁴And Yahweh spake, unto Moses, saying: ²Speak thou unto the sons of Israel, saying—When any person, shall sin by mistake, departing from any of the commandments of Yahweh, as to things which should not be done, and shall do any one of them,—³If, the anointed priest, shall sin, so as to bring guilt upon the people, then shall he bring near for his sin which he hath committed a choice young bullock without defect, unto Yahweh as a sin-bearer. ⁴And he shall bring in the bullock unto the entrance of the tent of meeting, before Yahweh,—and shall lean his hand upon the head of the bullock, and shall slay the bullock before Yahweh. ⁵And the anointed priest shall take of the blood of the bullock,—and bring it into the tent of meeting; ⁶and the priest shall dip his finger in the blood,—and sprinkle of the blood seven times, before Yahweh, in front of the veil of the sanctuary. ⁷Then shall the priest put of the blood upon the horns of the altar of fragrant incense before Yahweh, which is in the tent of meeting,—and, all the remainder of the blood of the bullock, shall he pour out at the base of the altar of ascending-sacrifice, which is at the entrance of the tent of meeting, ⁸And all the fat of the sin-bearing bullock, shall he heave up therefrom,—the fat that covereth over the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards; ⁹and the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them which is upon the loins,—and as for the caul upon the liver, upon the kidneys, shall he remove it: ¹⁰just as it is heaved up from the ox of the peace-offering,—and the priest shall make of them a perfume on the altar of ascending-sacrifice, ¹¹But, as for the skin of the bullock and all its flesh with its head and with its legs,—and its inwards, and its dung, ¹²he shall take forth the entire bullock—unto the outside of the camp, unto a clean place unto the outpoured heap of fat-ashes, and shall burn it up on wood in the fire,—upon the outpoured heap of fat-ashes, shall it be burned up. ¹³And, if the whole assembly of Israel, shall make a mistake, and a matter be hidden from the eyes of the convocation,—and so they do something, whereby they depart from any of the commandments of Yahweh as to things which should not be done, and become guilty; ¹⁴and the sin shall become known, which they have committed therein, then shall the convocation bring near a choice young bullock as a sin-bearer, yea they shall bring it in. before the tent of meeting; ¹⁵and the elders of the assembly shall lean their hands upon the head of the bullock before Yahweh,—and shall slay the bullock, before Yahweh; ¹⁶and the anointed priest shall bring in of the blood of the bullock,—into the tent of meeting; ¹⁷and the priest shall dip his finger in the blood,—and shall sprinkle of the blood seven times before Yahweh, upon the face of the veil; ¹⁸and, some of the blood, shall he put upon the horns of the altar which is before Yahweh, which is in the tent of meeting; and, all the remainder of the blood, shall he pour out at the base of the altar of ascending-sacrifice, which is at the entrance of the tent of meeting; ¹⁹and, as for all the fat thereof, he shall heave up therefrom,—and make a perfume at the altar. ²⁰And he shall do to the bullock, as he did to the first sin-bearing bullock, so shall he do with this,—and the priest shall put a propitiatory-covering over them, and it shall be forgiven them. ²¹And he shall take forth the bullock unto the outside of the camp, and burn it up, just as he burned up the first bullock,—the sin-bearer of the convocation, it is. ²²When a prince, shall sin,—and shall do something, departing from any of the commandments of Yahweh his God as to things which should not be done, by mistake and shall become aware of his guilt; ²³or his sin wherein he hath sinned he made known unto him, then shall he bring in. as his oblation a he-goat a male without defect; ²⁴and shall lean his hand upon the head of the goat, and shall slay it in the place where they slay the ascending-sacrifice before Yahweh,—a sin-bearer, it is. ²⁵And the priest shall take of the blood of the sin-bearer with his finger, and put upon the horns of the altar of ascending-sacrifice; and, the remainder of the blood thereof, shall he pour out at the base of the altar of ascending-sacrifice; ²⁶and with all the fat thereof, shall he make a perfume at the altar, as with the fat of the peace-offering,—so shall the priest put a propitiatory-covering over him because of his sin, and it shall be forgiven him. ²⁷And, if, any person, shall sin, by mistake from among the people of the land,—by his doing anything departing from any of the commandments of Yahweh, as to things which should not be done, and shall become aware of his guilt; ²⁸or his sin which he hath committed shall be made known unto, him, then shall he bring in, as his oblation, a kid of the goats a female, without defect, for his sin which he hath committed; ²⁹and shall lean his hand upon the head of the sin-bearer,—and shall slay the sin-bearer in the place of the ascending-sacrifice. ³⁰Then shall the priest take of the blood thereof with his finger, and put upon the horns of the altar of ascending-sacrifice,—and all the remaining bleed thereof, shall he pour out, at the base of the altar; ³¹and all the fat thereof, shall he remove as the fat from off the peace-offering was removed, and the priest shall make a perfume at the altar, for a satisfying odour unto Yahweh,—so shall the priest put propitiatory-covering over him, and it shall be forgiven him. ³²And, if a lamb, he bring in. as his oblation for a sin-bearer, a female without defect, shall he bring in; ³³and shall lean his hand upon the head of the sin-bearer,—and shall slay it as a sin-bearer, in the place where they slay the ascending-sacrifice. ³⁴Then shall the priest take of the blood of the sin-bearer with his finger, and put upon the horns of the altar of ascending-sacrifice,—and all the remaining blood thereof, shall he pour out, at the base of the altar; ³⁵and all the fat thereof, shall he remove as the fat of the lamb is removed, from the peace-offering, and the priest shall make a perfume therewith at the altar, upon the altar-flames of Yahweh,—so shall the priest put a propitiatory-covering over him on account of his sin which he hath committed, and it shall be forgiven him.

⁵Any person, moreover, whensoever he shall sin in that, when he heareth a voice of swearing, he himself, being a witness either seeing or knowing,—if he do not tell and so hath to bear his iniquity:—²Or, any person, who toucheth anything unclean, whether the carcass of an unclean wild-beast or the carcass of an unclean tame-beast, or the carcass of an unclean creeping thing,—and it is hidden from him, he himself being unclean, and he becometh aware of his guilt:—³Or whensoever one shall touch the uncleanness of man, as regardeth any uncleanness of his, where-with one may become unclean,—and it be hidden from him, and then he himself, getting to know it becometh aware of his guilt:—⁴Or, any person, whensoever he shall swear, speaking unadvisedly with the lips, to harm or to help, as regardeth anything wherein the son of earth may speak unadvisedly by way of oath, and it be hidden from him,—and then, he himself, getting to know it, becometh aware of his guilt as regardeth any one of these things. ⁵Then shall it be, when he becometh aware of his guilt, as regardeth any one of these things, that he shall confess that wherein he hath sinned; ⁶and shall bring in as his guilt-bearer unto Yahweh for his sin which he hath committed, a female from the flock—a lamb or a kid of the goats—as a sin-bearer,—so shall the priest put propitiatory-covering over him, because of his sin. ⁷And, if his hand can-not reach sufficient for a lamb, then shall he bring in to bear his guilt—for that he hath sinned—two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons unto Yahweh,—one for a sin-bearer, and one for an ascending-sacrifice. ⁸And he shall take them in unto the priest, who shall bring near that which is for a sin-bearer first,—and shall nip through the neck close to the head but shall not divide it asunder. ⁹And he shall sprinkle of the blood of the sin-bearer upon the wall of the altar, and the remainder of the blood, shall he drain out at the base of the altar,—a, sin-bearer, it is. ¹⁰And of the second, shall he make an ascending-sacrifice according to the regulation,—so shall the priest put a propitiatory-covering over him, because of his sin which he hath committed and it shall be forgiven him. ¹¹But if his hand cannot lay hold of two turtledove, or two young pigeons, then shall he bring in as his oblation—because he hath sinned—the tenth of an ephah of fine meal for bearing sin,—he shall not put thereon oil, neither shall he lay thereon frankincense, for a sin-bearer, it is. ¹²And he shall bring it in unto the priest, and the priest shall take therefrom a handful, as the memorial thereof, and shall make a perfume at the altar, upon the altar-flames of Yahweh,—a sin-bearer, it is.

¹³So shall the priest put a propitiatory-covering over him, on account of his sin which he hath committed, departing from some one of these things, and it shall be forgiven him,—then shall it be the priest's, like the meal-offering.

¹⁴And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying—¹⁵Whensoever, any person, shall commit a trespass, and shall take away by mistake, from the holy things of Yahweh, then shall he bring in as his guilt-bearer unto Yahweh, a ram without defect out of the flock, with thine estimate in silver by shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary, for a guilt-bearer: ¹⁶that, moreover, which he took away from the sanctuary, shall he make good and the fifth part thereof, shall he add thereunto, and shall give it to the priest,—and, the priest, shall put a propitiatory-covering over him with the guilt-bearing ram and it shall be forgiven him. ¹⁷And if any person when he shall sin, and do something, departing from any of the commandments of Yahweh, as to things which should not be done,—though he knew it not, shall so become guilty, and shall bear his iniquity, ¹⁸then shall he bring in a ram without defect out of the flock by thine estimate as a guilt-bearer unto the priest,—and the priest shall put a propitiatory-covering over him, on account of his mistake which he made though he knew it not and it shall be forgiven him: ¹⁹a guilt-bearer, it is,—he was, verily guilty against Yahweh.

⁶And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying—²When any person, shall sin, and shall commit a trespass against Yahweh, and shall withhold something of the truth from his neighbour in respect of a deposit, or a pledge or anything plundered, or shall use extortion with his neighbour; ³or shall find something lost and shall withhold something of the truth therein, and shall swear to a falsehood,—as regardeth a single thing of all that a son of earth may do, to commit sin thereby; ⁴and so it shall come about that he shall commit sin and then become aware of his guilt, then shall he return the plunder which he had plundered, or the extortion which he had extorted, or the deposit that was deposited with him,—or the lost thing which he hath found: ⁵or in anything as to which he hath been swearing to a falsehood, then shall he make it good in the principal thereof, and the fifth part thereof, shall he add thereunto,—to whomsoever it belongeth, to him, shall he give it in the day he cometh aware of his guilt; ⁶but, his guilt-bearer, itself, shall he bring in unto Yahweh,—a ram without defect out of the flock by thine estimate as a guilt-bearer, unto the priest. ⁷So shall the priest put a propitiatory-covering over him before Yahweh, and it shall be forgiven him,—on account of any one thing, of all which one might do, so as to become guilty therein. ⁸And Yahweh spake unto Moses saying: ⁹Command Aaron and his sons, saying, This is the law of the ascending-sacrifice,—the same, is the ascending-sacrifice, which is upon the hearth, upon the altar, nil the night until the morning,—and the fire of the altar, shall be kept burning therein. ¹⁰So then the priest shall put on his upper garment of linen, and, breeches of linen, shall he put on over his flesh, then shall he take up the fat-ashes, whereto the fire consumeth the ascending-sacrifice on the altar,—and shall put them beside the altar. ¹¹Then shall he put off his garments, and put on other garments,—and shall carry forth the fat-ashes unto the outside of the camp, unto a clean place, ¹²And, the fire on the altar, shall be kept burning therein, it shall not be suffered to go out, but the priest shall kindle up thereon pieces of wood, morning by morning,—and shall set in order thereupon the ascending-sacrifice, and shall make a perfume thereon with the fat-pieces of the peace-offerings: ¹³fire, shall continually be kept burning on the altar, it shall not be suffered to go out. ¹⁴And, this, is the law of the meal-offering,—the sons of Aaron shall bring it near before Yahweh, unto the front of the altar. ¹⁵Then shall one lift up therefrom a handful of the fine meal of the meal-offering, and of the oil thereof, and all the frankincense which is upon the meal-offering,—and shall make a perfume at the altar, an altar-flame of a satisfying odour, shall the memorial thereof be, unto Yahweh. ¹⁶And the remainder thereof, shall Aaron and his sons eat,—as unleavened cakes, shall it be eaten, in a holy place, within the court of the tent of meeting, shall they eat it. ¹⁷It shall not be baked into anything leavened, as their portion, have I given it, from among the altar-flames of Yahweh,—most holy, it is, like the sin-bearer, and like the guilt-bearer, ¹⁸Any male among the sons of Aaron may eat it, an age-abiding statute to your generations from among the altar-flames of Yahweh,—every one that toucheth them shall be hal- lowed. ¹⁹And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying—²⁰This, is the oblation of Aaron and his sons, which they shall bring near unto Yahweh in the day when he is anointed, The tenth of an ephah of fine meal, as a continual meal-offering,—half thereof in the morning, and half thereof in the evening; ²¹on a pan, with oil, shall it be made when well mingled, shalt thou bring it in,—in baked portions, as a meal-offering in pieces, shalt thou bring it near as a satisfying odour unto Yahweh. ²²And the priest that is anointed in his stead from among his sons, shall prepare it,—it is an age-abiding statute, that unto Yahweh, shall a perfume, of the entire gift, be made: ²³yea, every meal-offering of a priest, shall be, entire—it shall not be eaten. ²⁴And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying—²⁵Speak unto Aaron and unto his sons, saying, This, is the law of the sin-bearer. In the place where the ascending-sacrifice is slain, shall the sin-bearer be slain, before Yahweh, most holy, it is. ²⁶The priest who maketh it a sin-bearer, shall eat it,—in a holy place, shall it be eaten, in the court of the tent of meeting. ²⁷Every one who toucheth the flesh thereof, shall be hallowed; and when one sprinkleth some of the blood thereof upon a garment, that whereon it was sprinkled, shalt thou wash in a holy place. ²⁸But, the earthen vessel wherein it is boiled, shall be broken,—or, if, in a vessel of bronze, it hath been boiled, then shall the vessel be scoured and rinsed in water. ²⁹Any male among the priests may eat thereof,—most holy, it is. ³⁰But, no sin-bearer whereof any of the blood is taken into the tent of meeting to make a propitiatory-covering in the sanctuary, shall be eaten,—with fire, shall it be consumed.

7 And this, is the law of the guilt-bearer,—most holy, it is! ²In the place where they slay the ascending-sacrifice, shall they slay the guilt-bearer; and, the blood thereof, shall one dash against the altar, round about; ³and, as for all the fat thereof, one shall bring near therefrom,—the fat-tail, and the fat that covereth the inwards; ⁴and the two kidneys, with the fat that is upon them, which is upon the loins,—and the caul upon the liver, up to the kidneys, shall he remove it. ⁵And the priest shall make a perfume with them at the altar, an altar-flame unto Yahweh—a guilt-bearer, it is, ⁶Any male among the priests, may eat thereof,—in a holy place, shall it be eaten, most holy, it is. ⁷As the sin-bearer, so the guilt-bearer,—one law, for them,—the priest who maketh a propitiatory-covering, therewith,—to him, shall it belong, ⁸And, as for the priest who bringeth near the ascending-sacrifice of any man, the skin of the ascending-sacrifices which he hath brought near, to the priest himself, shall it belong. ⁹And as for any meal-offering that may be baked in an oven, or anything that hath been prepared in a boiler or on a girdle, to the priest that bringeth it near—to him, shall it belong, ¹⁰And, as for any meal-offering overflowed with oil or dry,—to all the sons of Aaron, shall it belong, to one as much as to another. ¹¹And, this, is the law of the peace-offering which one may bring near unto Yahweh. ¹²If, for thanksgiving, he bring it near, then shall he bring near, with the thanksgiving sacrifice perforated cakes unleavened, overflowed with oil, and wafers unleavened anointed with oil,—and of fine flour moistened, perforated cakes overflowed with oil. ¹³With perforated cakes of leavened bread, shall he bring near his oblation, with his peace-offering of thanksgiving, ¹⁴Then shall he bring near therefrom one of each oblation, a heave-offering unto Yahweh,—to the priest who dasheth against the altar the blood of the peace-offering—to him, shall it belong. ¹⁵But, as for the flesh of his peace-offering of thanksgiving, on the day of bringing it near, shall it be eaten,—he shall not leave thereof until morning, ¹⁶But, if, a vow or a freewill offering, be his sacrifice of oblation, in the day he bringeth near his sacrifice, shall it be eaten, and on the morrow, then may the remainder thereof, be eaten; ¹⁷but as for the remainder of the flesh of the sacrifice, on the third day—in fire, shall it be consumed. ¹⁸And, if any of the flesh of his peace-offering, be at all eaten, on the third day, he that brought it near shall not be accepted it shall not be reckoned to him, unclean, shall it be,—and the person who shall eat thereof, shall bear his iniquity.

¹⁹And, the flesh that toucheth anything unclean, shall not be eaten, in fire, shall it be consumed,—but, as for the other flesh, any one who is clean, may eat flesh. ²⁰But as for the person who shall eat flesh from the peace-offering, which pertaineth unto Yahweh, while his uncleanness is on him, then shall that person be cut off from among his kinsfolk. ²¹Yea, as for, any person, whensoever he shall touch anything unclean—the uncleanness of man or an unclean beast, or any unclean disgusting thing,—and then eateth of the flesh of a peace-offering that pertaineth unto Yahweh, then shall that person be cut off from among his kinsfolk. ²²And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying— ²³Speak unto the sons of Israel, saying,—No fat, of ox or sheep or goat, shall ye eat: ²⁴and though the fat of what dieth of itself and the fat of that which has been torn in pieces, may be used for any other service, yet shall ye, in nowise eat it. ²⁵Nay, as touching any one who eateth the fat of any beast, wherefrom he might bring near an altar-flame unto Yahweh, then shall the person that eateth be cut off from among his kinsfolk. ²⁶And no manner of blood, shall ye eat, in any of your dwellings,—whether of bird or of beast: ²⁷as touching any person who eateth any manner of blood, then shall that person be cut off from among his kinsfolk. ²⁸And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying, ²⁹Speak unto the sons of Israel saying,—He that offereth his peace-offering unto Yahweh, shall bring in his own oblation unto Yahweh out of his peace-offering: ³⁰his own hands shall bring in the altar-flames of Yahweh,—the fat with the breast, he shall bring it in, the breast, to wave it as a wave-offering before Yahweh. ³¹Then shall the priest make a perfume with the fat at the altar,—and the breast shall be for Aaron and for his sons. ³²But, the right shoulder, shall ye give as a heave-offering, unto the priest,—from among your peace-offerings ³³he that bringeth near the blood of the peace-offerings and the fat from among the sons of Aaron, to him, shall belong the right shoulder for a portion. ³⁴For, the wave-breast and the heave-shoulder, have I taken of the sons of Israel, out of their peace-offerings,—and have given them unto Aaron the priest and unto his sons as an age-abiding statute, from the sons of Israel. ³⁵This, is what pertaineth to the anointing of Aaron and to the anointing of his sons out of the altar-flames of Yahweh,—granted in the day when he brought them near, to minister as priests unto Yahweh: ³⁶which Yahweh commanded to give them in the day when he anointed them, from among the sons of Israel,—an age-abiding statute to their generations. ³⁷This is the law—for the ascending-sacrifice, for the meal-offering, and for the sin-bearer, and for the guilt-bearer,—and for the installation-offerings, and for the peace-offering: ³⁸which Yahweh commanded Moses in Mount Sinai,—in the day when he commanded the sons of Israel to bring near their oblations unto Yahweh in the desert of Sinai.

⁸Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: ²Take thou Aaron and his sons with him, and the garments, and the anointing oil,—and the sin-bearing bullock, and the two rams, and the basket of unleavened cakes; ³and all the assembly, call thou together,—unto the entrance of the tent of meeting. ⁴And Moses did, as Yahweh commanded him,—and the assembly was called together, unto the entrance of the tent of meeting. ⁵Then said Moses unto the assembly,—This is the thing, which Yahweh hath commanded to be done. ⁶So Moses brought near Aaron and his sons,—and bathed them with water, ⁷and put upon him the tunic and girded him with the band, and clothed him with the robe, and put upon him the ephod, and girded him with the curiously-woven band of the ephod, and bound it to him therewith; ⁸and he put upon him the breastpiece,—and placed, in the breastpiece, the Lights and the Perfections; ⁹and he put the turban upon his head,—and put upon the turban, on the forefront thereof the burnished plate of gold—the holy crown, As Yahweh commanded Moses. ¹⁰And Moses took the anointing oil, and anointed the habitation and all that was therein,—and hallowed them; ¹¹and he sprinkled thereof upon the altar seven times,—and anointed the altar, and all the utensils thereof and the laver and its stand to hallow them ¹²and he poured of the anointing oil, upon the head of Aaron,—and anointed him, to hallow him. ¹³And Moses brought near the sons of Aaron and clothed them with tunics and girded them with bands, and wrapped round for them turbans,—As Yahweh commanded Moses. ¹⁴Then was led near the sin-bearing bullock,—and Aaron and his sons leaned their hands upon the head of the sin-bearing bullock, ¹⁵Then was it slain, and Moses took the blood and put thereof upon the horns of the altar round about, with his finger, and cleansed the altar from sin,—and the remainder of the blood, poured he forth at the base of the altar, and hallowed it putting a propitiatory-covering thereupon. ¹⁶And he took all the fat that was on the inwards, and the caul of the liver, and the two kidneys and their fat,—and Moses made a perfume at the altar. ¹⁷But the bullock itself, and its skin and its flesh and its dung, consumed he with fire, outside the camp,—As Yahweh commanded Moses, ¹⁸Then was brought near the ram for the ascending-sacrifice,—and Aaron and his sons leaned their hands upon the head of the ram; ¹⁹and it was slain,—and Moses dashed the blood against the altar round about; ²⁰and the ram itself, was cut up into its pieces,—and Moses made a perfume with the head and with the pieces and with the fat; ²¹but the inwards and the legs, were bathed in water,—and Moses made a perfume with the whole ram at the altar, an ascending-sacrifice, it was—for a satisfying odour an altar-flame, it was unto Yahweh, As Yahweh commanded Moses. ²²Then was brought near the second ram, the ram of installation, and Aaron and his sons leaned their hands upon the head of the ram; ²³and

it was slain, and Moses took of the blood thereof, and put upon the tip of Aaron's right ear,—and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot. ²⁴Then were brought near the sons of Aaron, and Moses put of the blood upon the tip of their right ear, and upon the thumb of their right hand, and upon the great toe of their right foot,—and Moses dashed the blood against the altar round about. ²⁵And he took the fat and the fat-tail, and all the fat that was on the inwards, and the caul of the liver, and the two kidneys and their fat,—and the right shoulder; ²⁶and out of the basket of unleavened-cakes that was before Yahweh, took he one round unleavened-cake and one round oil-cake, and one wafer, and put them upon the fat portions, and upon the right shoulder; ²⁷and placed the whole upon the opened palms of Aaron, and upon the opened palms of his sons,—and waved them as a wave-offering, before Yahweh. ²⁸And Moses took them from off their opened palms, and made a perfume at the altar upon the ascending-sacrifice,—an installation, they were for a satisfying odour, an altar-flame, it was unto Yahweh. ²⁹And Moses took the breast, and waved it as a wave-offering, before Yahweh,—of the ram of installation, unto Moses it belonged, as a portion, As Yahweh commanded Moses. ³⁰And Moses took of the anointing oil and of the blood that was upon the altar, and sprinkled upon Aaron, upon his garments, and upon his sons and upon the garments of his sons with him,—and hallowed Aaron, his garments, and his sons and the garments of his sons with him. ³¹And Moses said unto Aaron and unto his sons Boil ye the flesh, at the entrance of the tent of meeting, and there, shall ye eat it, and the bread which is in the basket of installation,—as I have been commanded, saying, Aaron and his sons, shall eat it. ³²But, that which is left of the flesh, and of the bread, with fire, shall ye consume. ³³And from the entrance of the tent of meeting, shall ye not go forth for seven days, until the day that filleth up the days of your installation,—because for seven days, will he install you: ³⁴as hath been done this day, so hath Yahweh commanded to be done, to put a propitiatory-covering over you. ³⁵Even at the entrance of the tent of meeting, shall ye abide day and night for seven days, and shall keep the watch of Yahweh and shall not die,—for, so, am I commanded. ³⁶And Aaron and his sons did all the things which Yahweh had commanded through the mediation of Moses.

⁹And it came to pass on the eighth day, that Moses called for Aaron, and for his sons,—and for the elders of Israel; ²and said unto Aaron—Take for thyself a choice calf, as a sin-bearer, and a ram for an ascending-sacrifice, each without defect,—and bring them near before Yahweh; ³and unto the sons of Israel, shalt thou speak, saying,—Take ye a he-goat, as a sin-bearer, and a calf and a young sheep, each a year old, without defect for an ascending-sacrifice; ⁴and an ox and a ram for peace-offerings, to sacrifice before Yahweh, and a meal-offering overflowed with oil,—for, to-day, doth, Yahweh, appear unto you. ⁵So they brought that which Moses commanded before the tent of meeting,—and all the assembly drew near, and stood before Yahweh. ⁶And Moses said—This, is the thing which Yahweh hath commanded that ye shall do,—that the glory of Yahweh may appear unto you. ⁷and Moses said unto Aaron—Draw near unto the altar, and offer thy sin-bearer and thine ascending-sacrifice, and put a propitiatory-covering about thyself and about the people,—and offer the oblation of the people and put a propitiatory-covering about them, As Yahweh hath commanded. ⁸So Aaron drew near unto the altar,—and slew the sin-bearing calf which was for himself; ⁹and the sons of Aaron brought the blood unto him, and he dipped his finger in the blood, and put thereof upon the horns of the altar,—and the remainder of the blood, poured he out at the base of the altar; ¹⁰and with the fat and the kidneys and the caul a from the liver, of the sin-bearer, made he a perfume at the altar,—As Yahweh commanded Moses. ¹¹But, the flesh and the skin, consumed he with fire, outside the camp. ¹²Then slew he the ascending-sacrifice,—and the sons of Aaron presented unto him the blood, and he dashed it against the altar round about. ¹³And the ascending-sacrifice, presented they unto him piece by piece thereof also the head,—and he made a perfume upon the altar: ¹⁴and he bathed the inwards and the legs,—and made a perfume upon the ascending-sacrifice at the altar. ¹⁵Then brought he near the oblation of the people,—and took the sin-bearing goat which pertained to the people, and slew it and made therewith a sin-bearer, like the first. ¹⁶Then brought he near the ascending-sacrifice,—and offered it, according to the regulation, ¹⁷Then brought he near the meal-offering, and filled his hand therefrom, and made a perfume upon the altar,—in addition to the ascending-sacrifice of the morning. ¹⁸Then slew he the ox, and the ram, as a peace-offering, which pertained unto the people,—and the sons of Aaron presented the blood unto him, and he dashed it against the altar, round about; ¹⁹and the portions of fat from the ox,—and from the ram, the fat-tail, and the covering, and the kidneys, and the caul of the liver; ²⁰and they put the portions of fat upon the breasts,—and he made a perfume with the fat at the altar; ²¹but the breasts and the right shoulder, did Aaron wave as a wave-offering, before Yahweh,—as Moses commanded, ²²Then Aaron lifted up his hands towards the people, and blessed them,—and he came down from offering the sin-bearer, and the ascending-sacrifice and the peace-offering. ²³And when Moses and Aaron had entered into the tent of meeting,—and had come forth, and blessed the people, then appeared the glory of Yahweh, unto all the people; ²⁴yea, there came forth fire from before Yahweh, and consumed upon the altar, the ascending-sacrifice and the portions of fat,—and all the people beheld and shouted, and fell down upon their faces.

¹⁰Then Aaron's sons, Nadab and Abihu, took each man his censer and placed therein fire, and put thereon incense,—and brought near before Yahweh strange fire, which he had not commanded them. ²Then came there forth fire from before Yahweh, and consumed them,—and they died before Yahweh. ³Then said Moses unto Aaron—The very thing, that Yahweh spake, saying—In them that draw near to me, must I be hallowed, And before the faces of all the people, must I get myself honour,—And Aaron, was dumb. ⁴Then called Moses unto Mishael, and unto Elzaphan, sons of Uzziel, uncle of Aaron,—and said unto them—Draw near bear away your brethren from before the sanctuary, unto the outside of the camp. ⁵So they drew near and bare them away, in their tunics, unto the outside of the camp,—as spake Moses. ⁶Then said Moses unto Aaron and to Eleazar and to Ithamar, his sons—Your heads, ye may not bare and your garments, ye shall not rend so shall ye not die, neither against all the assembly, will he be wroth,—but let, your brethren the whole house of Israel, bewail the consuming fire wherewith Yahweh hath consumed. ⁷But, from the entrance of the tent of meeting, shall ye not go forth, lest ye die, for, the anointing oil of Yahweh is upon you. And they did according to the word of Moses. ⁸Then spake Yahweh unto Aaron, saying: ⁹Wine and strong drink, thou mayest not drink,—thou nor thy sons with thee when ye enter into the tent of meeting, so shall ye not die,—an age-abiding statute to your generations; ¹⁰That ye may make a difference, between the sacred and the common,—and between the unclean and the clean; ¹¹And may teach the sons of Israel,—all the statutes which Yahweh hath spoken unto them, by the mediation of Moses. ¹²Then spake Moses unto Aaron and unto Eleazar and unto Ithamar his sons that were left, Take ye the meal-offering that is left of the altar-flames of Yahweh, and eat it unleavened beside the altar,—for, most holy, it is; ¹³therefore shall ye eat it in a holy place, for, thine by statute, and thy sons by statute, it is, from among the altar-flames of Yahweh,—for, so, am I commanded. ¹⁴And the wave-breast, and the heave-shoulder, shall ye eat in clean place, thou, and thy sons and thy daughters with thee,—for as thine by statute and thy sons by statute, have they been given, from among the peace-offerings of the sons of Israel. ¹⁵The heave-shoulder and the wave-breast upon the altar-flames of the fat portions, shall they bring in, to wave as a wave-offering, before Yahweh,—so shall they be thine, and thy sons with thee, by an age-abiding statute, As Yahweh hath commanded. ¹⁶Now, as for the sin-bearing goat, Moses diligently sought it but lo! it had been burnt up,—then was he wroth against Eleazar and against Ithamar, the sons of Aaron that were left, saying: ¹⁷Wherefore did ye not eat the sin-bearer in the holy place? for most, holy, it is,—and thee same, hath he given you that ye may bear the iniquity of the assembly, to put a propitiatory-covering over them before Yahweh. ¹⁸Lo! the blood thereof had not been taken into the holy place, within,—ye should have, indeed eaten, it, in a holy place, as I commanded. ¹⁹Then spake Aaron unto Moses—Lo! this very day, when they had brought near their own sin-bearer, and their own ascending-sacrifice, there befell me such things as these,—if, then, I had eaten of the sin-bearer this day, would it have been well-pleasing in the eyes of Yahweh? ²⁰And, when Moses heard that, then was it well-pleasing in his eyes.

11And Yahweh spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying unto them: ²Speak ye unto the sons of Israel saying,—These are the living things which ye may eat, of all the beasts which are upon the earth: ³Whatsoever parteth the hoof and is cloven-footed, and cheweth the cud among beasts, that, may ye eat. ⁴Nevertheless, these, shall ye not eat, of them that chew the cud, and of them that part the hoof,—the camel, because though he, cheweth the cud, yet, the hoof, he parteth not, unclean, he is to you; ⁵And, the coney, because, though he cheweth the cud, yet, the hoof, he parteth not,—unclean, he is to you; ⁶And the hare, because though she cheweth the cud, yet the hoof, she parteth not,—unclean, she is to you; ⁷And, the swine, because though he parteth the hoof, and is cloven-footed, yet, the cud, he cheweth not,—unclean, he is to you; ⁸Of their flesh, shall ye not eat, and, their carcase, shall ye not touch,—unclean, they are to you. ⁹these, may ye eat, of all that are in the waters,—all that have fins and scales in the waters, in the seas and in the rivers, them, may ye eat. ¹⁰But, all that have not fins and scales, in the seas and in the rivers, of all that swarm in the waters, and of all the living souls that are in the waters, an abomination, they are unto you; ¹¹and an abomination, shall they remain to you,—of their flesh, ye shall not eat, and their carcasses, shall ye abhor. ¹²Whatsoever hath not fins and scales in the waters, an abomination, it is unto you. ¹³And, these, shall ye abhor of birds, they shall not be eaten, an abomination, they are,—the eagle, and the os-sifrage, and the osprey; ¹⁴and the vulture, and the falcon, after its kind; ¹⁵every raven, after its kind; ¹⁶and the female ostrich, and the male ostrich, and the sea-gull,—and the hawk after its kind; ¹⁷and the pelican and the gannet, and the bittern; ¹⁸and the swan and the vomiting pelican and the little vulture; ¹⁹and the stork, and the parrot, after its kind,—and the mountain-cock and the bat. ²⁰Every creeping thing that flieth, that goeth on all-fours, an abomination, it is unto you. ²¹Nevertheless, these, may ye eat, of all creeping things that fly, that go on all-fours,—such as have legs above their feet, to leap therewith, upon the earth—²²these of them, may ye eat: the swarming-locust after its kind, and the devouring locust

after its kind,—and the chargol-locust after its kind, and the chagab-locust after its kind. ²³But every other creeping thing that flieth, which hath four feet, an abomination, it is unto you; ²⁴and, for these, shall ye count yourselves unclean—whosoever toucheth the carcase of them shall be unclean until the evening; ²⁵and whosoever beareth away aught of the carcase of them, shall wash his clothes and be unclean until the evening. ²⁶As for every kind of beast which, though it parteth the hoof, yet is not cloven-footed nor cheweth the cud, unclean, they are unto you,—every one who toucheth them shall be unclean. ²⁷And, all that go upon their paws, among all the living things that go on all-fours, unclean, they are unto you,—whoso toucheth the carcase of them, shall be unclean until the evening. ²⁸And, he that beareth away the carcase of them shall wash his clothes, and shall be unclean until the evening,—unclean, they are unto you. ²⁹And, these, unto you, shall be unclean, among the creeping things that creep upon the earth,—the weasel and the mouse, and the lizard after its kind; ³⁰and the ferret and the chameleon and the wall-lizard,—and the winding lizard, and the mole. ³¹These, are they which are unclean to you among all that creep,—whosoever toucheth them when they are dead shall be unclean until the evening; ³²and, everything whereon any of them shall fall when they are dead shall be unclean—of any articles of wood, or cloth, or skin, or sackcloth, any article wherewith any work is done,—shall be put in water and shall be unclean until the evening, and then be clean, ³³And, as for any earthen vessel whereinto any of them may fall, everything therein shall be unclean, and, the vessel itself, shall ye break in pieces. ³⁴Of all the food that may be eaten, that whereon shall come water, shall be unclean,—and, all drink which might be drunk in any such vessel, shall he unclean. ³⁵And, everything whereon shall fall any part of the carcase of them shall be unclean, oven or fire-range, it shall be destroyed, unclean, they are,—and, unclean, Shall they remain to you. ³⁶Notwithstanding, a fountain or cistern wherein is a gathering of waters shall be clean,—but, he that toucheth the carcase of them shall be unclean. ³⁷And when any part of the carcase of them shall fall upon seed for sowing, which is to be sown, the same is, clean. ³⁸But, when water shall be put upon seed, and there shall fall thereon any part of the carcase of them, unclean, it is to you. ³⁹And, when any of the beasts which are yours for food shall die, he that toucheth the carcase of it shall be unclean until the evening. ⁴⁰And, he that eateth of the carcase of it, shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the evening,—he also that carrieth away the carcase thereof shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the evening. ⁴¹And, any creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth, an abomination, it is—it shall not be eaten. ⁴²Everything that goeth upon the belly, and everything that goeth upon all-fours, even to everything having many feet, as regardeth any creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth, ye shall not eat them for, an abomination, they are. ⁴³Do not make your persons abominable, with any creeping thing that creepeth,—neither shall ye make yourselves unclean with them, that ye should become unclean thereby. ⁴⁴For, I—Yahweh, am your God, therefore shall ye hallow yourselves and remain holy; for, holy, am, I,—therefore shall ye not make your persons unclean, with any creeping thing that crawleth upon the earth; ⁴⁵for, I—Yahweh, am he that brought you up out of the land of Egypt, that I might become your God,—therefore shall ye be holy, for, holy, am, I. ⁴⁶This, is the law of beast and of bird, and of every living soul that moveth in the waters,—and as to every soul that creepeth upon the earth: ⁴⁷That ye may make a difference—between the unclean and the clean,—and between the living thing that may be eaten, and the living thing which may not be eaten.

12And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: ²Speak unto the sons of Israel, saying, A woman when she conceiveth seed and giveth birth to a male child, then shall she be unclean seven days, according to the days of her removal in her sickness shall she be unclean. ³And, on the eighth day, shall the flesh of his foreskin be circumcised. ⁴And, for thirty-three days, shall she continue in the blood of purification,—no hallowed thing, shall she touch, and, into the sanctuary, shall she not enter, until her days of purification are fulfilled. ⁵But if, a female child, she bear, then shall she be unclean two weeks as in her removal,—and, for sixty-six days, shall she continue in the blood of purification. ⁶And, when the days of her purification are fulfilled, whether for a son or for a daughter, she shall bring in a lamb, the choice of its year, as an ascending-sacrifice, and a young pigeon or a turtle-dove, as a sin-bearer, unto the entrance of the tent of meeting, unto the priest; ⁷and he shall bring it near before Yahweh so shall the priest put a propitiatory-covering over her, and she shall be clean from her fountain of blood. This, is the law for her that hath given birth, to a male child or to a female. ⁸But, if her hand findeth not sufficiency for a lamb, then shall she take two turtle doves or two young pigeons, one for an ascending-sacrifice and one for a sin-bearer,—so shall the priest put a propitiatory-covering over her, and she shall be clean.

13And Yahweh spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying—²When, any man, shall have—in the skin of his flesh—a rising, or a scab, or a bright spot, and it shall become in the skin of his flesh the plague-spot of leprosy, then shall he be brought in unto Aaron the priest, or unto one of his sons the priests; ³and the priest shall view the spot in the skin of his flesh—if, the hair in the plague, have turned white and the appearance of the spot be deeper than the skin of his flesh, the plague-spot of leprosy, it is,—so the priest shall view him and pronounce him unclean. ⁴But, if the bright spot, though white in the skin of his flesh, is not deeper in appearance than the skin, and, the hair, hath not turned white, then shall the priest shut up the plagued one, seven days. ⁵And the priest shall view him on the seventh day, and lo! if the spot hath stayed to his sight, and the spot hath not spread in the skin, then shall the priest shut him up seven days more, ⁶Then shall the priest view him on the seventh day, a second time, and lo! if the spot is, faint, and the spot hath not spread in the skin, then shall the priest pronounce him clean—it is, a scab, and he shall wash his clothes, and be clean. ⁷But if the scab shall have, verily spread, in the skin, since he was shown to the priest that he might be cleansed, then shall he shew himself again unto the priest; ⁸and the priest shall take a view, and lo! if the scab hath spread in the skin, then shall the priest pronounce him unclean—leprosy, it is. ⁹When, the plague of leprosy, cometh to be in any human being, then shall he be brought in unto the priest; ¹⁰and the priest shall take a view, and lo! if there is a white rising in the skin and, the same, hath turned the hair white,—and there be a wound of raw flesh in the rising, ¹¹an old leprosy, it is in the skin of his flesh, and the priest shall pronounce him unclean,—he shall not shut him up, for unclean, he is. ¹²But, if the leprosy, cometh quite out, in the skin, and the leprosy covereth all the skin of him that, is plagued, from his head even unto his feet,—so far as appeareth to the eyes of the priest, ¹³then shall the priest takes view and lo! if the leprosy hath covered all his flesh, then shall he pronounce clean him that was plagued,—all of it, hath turned white, clean, he is. ¹⁴But, the very day there appeareth in him raw flesh, be shall be unclean; ¹⁵so then the priest shall view the raw flesh, and pronounce him unclean,—as for the raw flesh, unclean, it is, leprosy, it is. ¹⁶Or, if the raw flesh turn again and be changed to white, then shall he come in unto the priest; ¹⁷and the priest shall view him, and lo! if the spot hath changed to white, then shall the priest pronounce clean him that was plagued—clean, he is. ¹⁸And, when, any one's flesh, hath, in the skin thereof, a boil,—and then it is healed; ¹⁹but in the place of the boil, is a white rising, or a bright spot, reddish white, then shall it be shown unto the priest. ²⁰And the priest shall take a view and lo! if the appearance thereof, is lower than the skin, and, the hair thereof, hath turned white, then shall the priest pronounce him unclean—the plague-spot of leprosy, it, is, in the boil, broken out. ²¹But, if the priest shall view it and lo! there is no white hair therein, and it is not deeper than the skin, and, in itself, is faint, then shall the priest shut him up seven days; ²²and, if it, clearly spreadeth, in the skin, then shall the priest pronounce him unclean—a plague-spot, it is. ²³But if in its place the bright spot stayeth hath lint spread, a boil, it is,—and the priest shall pronounce him clean. ²⁴Or, when, any ones flesh, hath in the skin thereof a fiery burning,—and the burning wound becometh a bright spot reddish

white, or white, ²⁵then shall the priest view it—and lo! if the hair is turned white in the bright spot and the appearance thereof is deeper than the skin, leprosy, it is, broken out, in the burning,—so the priest shall pronounce him unclean, the plague-spot of leprosy, it is. ²⁶But, if the priest shall view it and lo! there is not, in the bright spot white hair, and it is not deeper than the skin but, itself, is faint, then shall the priest shut him up seven days; ²⁷and the priest shall view him on the seventh day,—if it, hath plainly spread in the skin, then shall the priest pronounce him unclean, the plague-spot of leprosy, it is. ²⁸But, if, in its place the bright spot hath stayed, and hath not spread in the skin, but, itself, is faint, the rising of a burning, it is,—and the priest shall pronounce him clean, for only the inflaming of the burning, it is. ²⁹And, when there cometh to be in, any man or woman, a spot,—in the head or in the beard, ³⁰then shall the priest view the spot and lo! if, the appearance thereof, is deeper than the skin, and, therein, is yellow, thin hair, then shall the priest pronounce him unclean a scall, it is, a leprosy of the head or of the beard, it is. ³¹But when the priest vieweth the spot, and lo! there is, no appearance, of it deeper than the skin, and, no dark hair, is therein, then shall the priest shut up him that hath the plague-spot of scall, seven days; ³²and the priest shall view the spot on the seventh day, and lo! if the scall hath not spread, and there hath not come to be therein yellow hair,—and, the appearance of the scall, is not deeper than the skin, ³³then shall he shave himself, but the scall, shall he not shave, and the priest shall shut up him who hath the scall seven days, more; ³⁴then shall the priest view the scall, on the seventh day, and lo! if the sea hath not spread in the skin, and, the appearance thereof, is not deeper than the skin, then shall the priest pronounce him clean, and he shall wash his clothes, and be clean. ³⁵But, if the scall do indeed spread in the skin,—after he hath been pronounced clean, ³⁶then shall the priest take a view, and lo! if the scall hath spread in the skin, the priest shall not search for the yellow hair—unclean, he is. ³⁷But, if in his eyes, the scall is at a stay, and dark hair hath grown up therein, the scall is healed, clean, he is,—and the priest shall pronounce him clean. ³⁸And when either, man or woman, hath in the skin of their flesh bright spots,—bright spots that are white, ³⁹then shall the priest take a view and lo! if, in the skin of their flesh, are bright spots that are dull white, dead white spot, it is, that hath broken through in the skin—clean, he is. ⁴⁰And, when, any man's, head loseth its hair, though, bald, he is, clean. ⁴¹And if, in front, his head loseth its hair, though bald in the forehead, he is, clean. ⁴²But, should there be, in the baldness behind, or in the baldness in front, a spot that is reddish white, leprosy broken out, it is, in his baldness behind, or in his baldness in front. ⁴³So the priest shall view it, and lo! if, the rising-spot, be reddish white in his baldness behind or in his baldness in front,—like the appearance of leprosy in the skin of the flesh, ⁴⁴a leprous man, is he, unclean, he is,—unclean, shall the priest pronounce him in his head, is his plague. ⁴⁵Now, as for the leper in whom is the plague, His clothes, shall be rent, And, his head, shall be bare, And, his beard, shall he cover,—And, Unclean! Unclean! shall he cry. ⁴⁶All the days that the plague is in him, shall he continue unclean, Unclean, he is,—Alone, shall he remain, Outside the camp, shall be his dwelling. ⁴⁷And, when, in a garment, there is a plague-spot of leprosy,—whether in a garment of wool, or a garment of flax; ⁴⁸either in warp or in weft, made with flax, or with wool,—or in a skin, or in anything wrought of skin; ⁴⁹and the spot cometh to be of a greenish yellow or reddish, in the garment or in the skin, whether in warp or in weft, or in any utensil of skin, the plague-spot of leprosy, it is,—and shall be shown unto the priest; ⁵⁰and the priest shall view the spot,—and shall shut up him that is plagued seven days; ⁵¹then shall he view the spot, on the seventh day if the spot hath spread in the garment whether in warp or in weft, or in the skin, or anything which may be made of skin for service, the spot is a fretting leprosy, unclean, it is. ⁵²Then shall he burn up the garment whether it be in the warp or the weft in wool or in flax, or any utensil of skin, wherein shall be the plague-spot,—for, a fretting leprosy, it is, in fire, shall it be burnt up. ⁵³But if the priest shall take a view, and lo! the spot has not spread, in the garment, either in warp or in weft,—or in any utensil of skin, ⁵⁴then shall the priest give command, and they shall wash that wherein is the spot,—and he shall shut it up seven days more; ⁵⁵then shall the priest take a view after the plagued garment hath been washed and lo! if the spot hath not changed its look, then though the spot hath not spread, yet unclean, it is, in the fire, shalt thou burn it up,—a sunken spot, it is, in the back thereof, or in the front thereof. ⁵⁶And, if the priest hath taken a view, and lo! the spot is, faint, since it hath been washed, then shall he rend it out of the garment, or out of the skin, whether out of the warp or out of the weft; ⁵⁷and, if it appear still in the garment—either in the warp or in the weft, or in any utensil of skin, a breaking out, it is,—in the fire, shalt thou burn up that wherein is the plague. ⁵⁸But, as for the garment—whether the warp or the weft or any utensil of skin which thou shalt wash, and the plague shall depart therefrom, then shall it be washed a second time, and shall be clean. ⁵⁹This, is the law as to the plague-spot of leprosy, in a garment of wool or of flax, whether in the warp or the weft, or in any utensil of skin,—To pronounce it clean, or to pronounce it unclean.

¹⁴And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying—²This, shall be the law of the leper, in the day when he is declared clean,—he shall be brought in unto the priest; ³then shall the priest go forth unto the outside of the camp,—and the priest shall take a view, and lo! if the plague of leprosy hath been healed out of the leper,; ⁴then shall the priest

give command,—and there shall be taken—for him that is to be cleansed—two living clean birds,—and cedar wood, and crimson am hyssop; ⁵and the priest shall give command, and one bird shall be slain,—within an earthen vessel over living water: ⁶as for the living bird, he shall take, it, and the cedar wood and the crimson, and the hyssop,—and shall dip them and the living bird, in the blood of the bird that hath been slain over the living water; ⁷and shall sprinkle upon him that is to be cleansed from the leprosy, seven times,—and shall pronounce him clean, and shall let go the living bird over the face of the field. ⁸And he that is to be declared clean shall wash his clothes and shave off all his hair, and bathe in water, and be clean, and, afterwards, shall he come into the camp,—and dwell outside his tent, seven days; ⁹and it shall be on the seventh day, that he shall shave off all the hair of his head, and his beard, and his eyebrows, even all his hair, shall he shave off,—and shall wash his clothes and bathe his flesh in water so shall he be clean. ¹⁰And, on the eighth day, he shall take two he-lambs, without defect, and one ewe-lamb, the choice of its year without defect,—and three-tenths of fine meal for a meal-offering, overflowed with oil, and one log of oil. ¹¹And the priest that is cleansing him shall cause the man that is to be cleansed, and those things to stand before Yahweh, at the opening of the tent of meeting. ¹²And the priest shall take one he-lamb, and bring him near as a guilt-bearer and the log of oil,—and shall wave them as a wave-offering, before Yahweh; ¹³and shall slay the lamb in the place where the sin-bearer and the ascending-sacrifice are slain, in the holy place,—for like the sin-bearer, the guilt-bearer, is the priests, most holy, it is. ¹⁴Then shall the priest take of the blood of the guilt-bearer, and the priest shall put it upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleansed,—and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot; ¹⁵and the priest shall take of the log of oil,—and shall pour it upon the palm of the priest's left hand, ¹⁶and the priest shall dip his right finger and take of the oil that is on the palm of his left hand,—and shall sprinkle of the oil with his finger seven times before Yahweh: ¹⁷and of the remainder of the oil which is on the palm of his hand, shall the priest put upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleansed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot,—upon the blood of the guilt-bearer; ¹⁸and that which remaineth of the oil that is on the palm of the priest's hand, he shall put upon the head of him that is to be cleansed,—so shall the priest put a propitiatory-covering over him, before Yahweh. ¹⁹Then shall the priest offer the sin-bearer, and shall put a propitiatory-covering over him that is to be cleansed because of his uncleanness,—and, afterwards, shall he slay the ascending-sacrifice. ²⁰And the priest shall cause the ascending-sacrifice, and the meal-offering to ascend at the altar,—so shall the priest put a propitiatory-covering over

him, and he shall be clean. ²¹But if he be poor and his hand hath not enough, then shall he take one he-lamb as a guilt-bearer to be waved to put a propitiatory-covering over him,—and one-tenth of fine meal, overflowed with oil for a meal-offering, and a log of oil, ²²and two turtle-doves or two young pigeons, for which his hand hath enough,—so shall one be a sin-bearer, and the other an ascending-sacrifice. ²³And he shall bring them in on the eighth day, for his cleansing, unto the priest,—unto the entrance of the tent of meeting, before Yahweh. ²⁴Then shall the priest take the guilt-bearing lamb and the log of oil,—and the priest shall wave them as a wave-offering, before Yahweh. ²⁵Then shall the guilt-bearing lamb be slain, and the priest shall take of the blood of the guilt-bearer, and put upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleansed,—and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot; ²⁶also of the oil, shall the priest pour out,—on the palm of his own left hand; ²⁷and the priest shall sprinkle with his right finger, of the oil that is on the palm of his left hand,—seven times, before Yahweh; ²⁸then shall the priest put, of the oil that is on the palm of his hand, upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleansed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot,—upon the place of the blood of the guilt-offering; ²⁹and that which remaineth of the oil which is on the palm of the priest's hand, shall he put upon the head of him that is to be cleansed,—to put a propitiatory-covering over him before Yahweh. ³⁰Then shall he offer one of the turtle-doves, or of the young pigeons,—of that for which his hand hath enough; ³¹even that for which his hand hath enough,—the one as a sin-bearer and the other as an ascending-sacrifice, upon the meal-offering,—so shall the priest put a propitiatory-covering over him that is to be cleansed before Yahweh. ³²This is the law for him in whom hath been the plague of leprosy, whose hand hath not enough for that which pertaineth to his cleansing. ³³And Yahweh spake unto Moses and unto Aaron saying: ³⁴When ye enter into the land of Canaan which I am about to give you for a possession,—and I put a plague-mark of leprosy in a house, of the land of your possession, ³⁵then shall he that owneth the house come in, and tell the priest, saying,—A kind of plague-mark, appeareth to me in the house; ³⁶and the priest shall give command, and they shall empty the house, ere yet the priest cometh in to view the mark, so that he do not pronounce unclean all that is in the house,—and, after this, shall the priest come in to view the house: ³⁷then shall he view the mark and lo! if the mark is in the walls of the house, with sunken places greenish yellow or reddish,—and they appear to be lower than the surface of the wall, ³⁸then shall the priest come forth out of the house, unto the entrance of the house,—and shall shut up the house seven days; ³⁹and the priest shall return on the seventh day,—and take a view, and lo! if the mark hath spread in the walls of the house, ⁴⁰then shall the priest

give command, and they shall pull out the stones, wherein is the mark,—and cast them forth outside the city, into an unclean place; ⁴¹and, the house itself, shall he cause to be scraped on the inside round about,—and they shall pour out the mortar which they have scraped off, outside the city, into an unclean place; ⁴²and shall take other stones, and put in the place of the stones,—and, other mortar, shall he take and plaster the house. ⁴³But if the mark again breaketh out in the house, after the taking out of the stones,—and after the scraping of the house and after the plastering; ⁴⁴then shall the priest come in, and take a view, and lo! if the mark hath spread in the house, a fretting leprosy, it is in the house unclean, it is, ⁴⁵and he shall pull down the house,—the stones thereof, and the timber thereof and all the mortar of the house,—and shall carry them forth outside the city, into an unclean place. ⁴⁶And as for him that entereth into the house, all the days it is shut up, he shall be unclean until the evening; ⁴⁷And, he that lieth in the house, shall wash his clothes, and he that eateth in the house shall wash his clothes. ⁴⁸But, though the priest do come, into the house, and take a view, yet lo! if the plague-mark hath not spread in the house after the house was plastered, then shall the priest pronounce the house clean, for, healed, is the plague. ⁴⁹Then shall he take to cleanse, the house, two birds,—and cedar wood, and crimson, and hyssop; ⁵⁰and shall kill one bird,—within an earthen vessel over living water; ⁵¹and take the cedar wood and the hyssop, and the crimson and the living bird, and dip them in the blood of the slain bird, and in the living water,—and sprinkle the house seven times; ⁵²and so cleanse the house, with the blood of the bird and with the living water,—and with the living bird, and with the cedar wood and with the hyssop, and with the crimson; ⁵³and shall let go the living bird unto the outside of the city, unto the face of the field,—so shall he put a propitiatory-covering over the house and it shall be clean. ⁵⁴This, is the law,—for every plague-mark of leprosy and for scall; ⁵⁵and for garment leprosy, and for house leprosy; ⁵⁶and for rising, and for scab and for a bright spot; ⁵⁷to give instruction, on the day of declaring unclean, and on the day of declaring clean,—This is the law of leprosy.

15And Yahweh spake unto Moses and unto Aaron saying: ²Speak unto the sons of Israel, and ye shall say unto them,—When, any man whatsoever, hath a flowing from his flesh, his flux, is, unclean. ³And, this shall be his uncleanness in his flux,—whether his flesh is running with his flux or his flesh hath closed from his flux, his uncleanness, it is. ⁴All the bed whereon he that hath the flux lieth, shall be unclean,—and, every piece of furniture whereon he sitteth, shall be unclean. ⁵And whosoever toucheth his bed shall wash his clothes and bathe in water and be unclean until the evening. ⁶And, he that sitteth on that whereon he that hath the flux hath sat, shall wash his clothes, and bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening. ⁷And, he that toucheth the flesh of him that hath the flux, shall wash his clothes and bathe in water and be unclean until the evening, ⁸And, when he that hath a flux spitteth on him that is clean, then shall he wash his clothes and bathe in water and be unclean until the evening. ⁹And, every saddle whereon he that hath the flux rideth, shall be unclean. ¹⁰And, whosoever toucheth anything that was under him shall be unclean until the evening; and, he that carrieth them shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening. ¹¹And, whomsoever he that hath the flux toucheth, not having rinsed, his hands in water, then shall he wash his clothes, and bathe in water and be unclean until the evening, ¹²And the earthen vessel which he that hath the flux toucheth shall be broken in pieces,—and, every vessel of wood, shall be rinsed in water. ¹³And when he that hath the flux becometh clean from his flux, then shall he number to himself seven days for his cleansing, and wash his clothes,—and bathe his flesh in living water, and be clean. ¹⁴And, on the eighth day, he shall take for himself two turtle doves or two young pigeons,—and come in before Yahweh, unto the entrance of the tent of meeting, and give them to the priest; ¹⁵and the priest shall offer them, one as a sin-bearer and the other as an ascending-sacrifice,—so shall the priest put a propitiatory-covering over him, before Yahweh, because of his flux. ¹⁶And, when there goeth out from, any man, an outflow of seed, then shall he bathe all his flesh in water, and be unclean until the evening. ¹⁷And, in the case of any garment or any skin whereupon there shall come to be an outflow of seed, then shall it be washed in water, and be unclean until the evening. ¹⁸Also, a woman with whom man lieth carnally, then shall they bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening. ¹⁹And, when a, woman, hath a flow, and her flow in her flesh is, blood, seven days, shall she continue in her removal, and whosoever toucheth her, shall be unclean until the evening; ²⁰and, whatsoever she lieth upon in her removal, shall be unclean,—and, whatsoever she sitteth upon, shall be unclean; ²¹and whosoever toucheth her bed, shall wash his clothes and bathe in water and be unclean until the evening; ²²and, whosoever toucheth any thing whereon she sitteth shall wash his clothes, and bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening; ²³and, whether, on her bed, it is, or on any thing whereon she hath been sitting, when he toucheth it, he shall be unclean until the evening; ²⁴and if man shall even lie with her, and her cause for removal be upon him, then shall he be unclean seven days,—and, all the bed whereon he shall lie, shall be unclean. ²⁵And when any woman's, flow of blood lasteth many day, outside the time of her removal, or when it floweth beyond her removal, all the days of her unclean flow, shall she be as in the days of her removal—unclean, she is. ²⁶All the bed whereon she lieth during all the days of her flow, like her bed in her removal, shall be to her,—and, every thing whereon she sitteth, shall be, unclean, like the uncleanness in her removal; ²⁷and whosoever toucheth them, shall be unclean,—and shall wash his clothes, and bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening. ²⁸But, if she be clean from her flow, then shall she count to her-self seven days and afterwards, shall she count herself clean. ²⁹And, on the eighth day, shall she take to herself two turtle doves, or two young pigeons,—and bring them in unto the priest, unto the entrance of the tent of meeting; ³⁰and the priest shall offer the one as a sin-bearer, and the other as an ascending-sacrifice,—so shall the priest put a propitiatory-covering over her, before Yahweh, because of her unclean flow. ³¹Thus shall ye warn the sons of Israel from their uncleanness, And they shall not die in their uncleanness, By reason of their making unclean my habitation which is in their midst. ³²This, is the law—Of him that hath a flux,—And of him from whom goeth an outflow of seed, making unclean thereby; ³³And of her that is unwell with her cause for removal, And of him whose flux floweth, For the male, and for the female,—And for a man who lieth with her that is unclean.

16And Yahweh spake unto Moses, after the death of the two sons of Aaron,—when they had offered strange fire before Yahweh and died. ²And Yahweh said unto Moses—Speak unto Aaron thy brother, that he do not come at all times into the holy place, within the veil,—into the presence of the propitiatory, which is upon the ark, so shall he not die, for, in the cloud, will I appear upon the propitiatory. ³Herewith, shall Aaron come into the holy place,—With a bullock the choice of the herd as a sin-bearer, and a ram as an ascending-sacrifice. ⁴A holy tunic of linen, shall he put on and drawers of linen, shall be upon his flesh, and with a band of linen, shall he gird himself, and with a turban of linen, shall his head be wrapped about,—holy garments, they are, therefore shall he bathe in water his flesh, and so put them on. ⁵And, from the assembly of the sons of Israel, shall he receive two he-goats, for bearing sin,—and one ram, as an ascending-sacrifice. ⁶Then shall Aaron bring near the sin-bearing bullock which is for himself,—and put a propitiatory-covering about himself, and about his household. ⁷Then shall he take the two goats,—and cause them to stand before Yahweh, at the entrance of the tent of meeting. ⁸And Aaron shall cast lots over the two goats,—one lot for Yahweh, and one lot for Azazel. ⁹Then shall Aaron bring near the goat over which came up the lot for Yahweh,—and shall make of him a sin-bearer; ¹⁰but, the goat over which came up the lot for Azazel, shall he cause to stand alive—before Yahweh to put a propitiatory-covering over him,—to send him away unto Azazel, towards the desert. ¹¹So Aaron shall bring near the sin-bearing bullock which is for himself, and shall put a propitiatory-covering about himself, and about his household,—and shall slay the sin-bearing bullock which is for himself; ¹²and shall take the censer-full of burning coals of fire from off the altar from before Yahweh, and his hands full of fragrant incense, beaten small,—and bring within the veil; ¹³and shall put the incense upon the fire before Yahweh,—and the cloud of incense shall cover the propitiatory which is over the testimony, and he shall not die. ¹⁴Then shall he take of the blood of the bullock, and shall sprinkle with his finger upon the face of the propitiatory, eastwards,—and before the propitiatory, shall he sprinkle seven times, of the blood, with his finger. ¹⁵Then shall he slay the sin-bearing goat which is for the people, and bring in its blood, within the veil,—and do with its blood, as he did to the blood of the bullock, and shall sprinkle it, upon the propitiatory and before the propitiatory: ¹⁶so shall he put a propitiatory-covering, over the holy place because of the uncleanness of the sons of Israel, and because of their transgressions to the extent of all their sins,—and, so, shall he do for the tent of meeting which abideth with them, in the midst of their uncleanness. ¹⁷And no human being, shall be in the tent of meeting, when he cometh in to make a covering by propitiation in the holy place, until he goeth out,—so shall he put a propitiatory-covering about himself and about his household and about all the convocation of Israel. ¹⁸Then shall he go out unto the altar which is before Yahweh and shall put a propitiatory-covering thereupon,—and shall take of the blood of the bullock, and of the blood of the goat, and put upon the horns of the altar, round about; ¹⁹and shall sprinkle upon it, of the blood with his finger seven times,—and shall cleanse it and hallow it, from the uncleannesses of the sons of Israel. ²⁰And, when he hath made an end of covering by propitiation the holy place, and the tent of meeting, and the altar, then shall he bring near the living goat. ²¹And Aaron shall lean his two hands upon the head of the living goat, and confess over him, all the iniquities of the sons of Israel, and all their transgressions, to the extent of all their sins,—and shall put them upon the head of the goat, and then send him away, by the hand of a man appointed towards the desert: ²²so shall the goat bear upon him all their iniquities into a lone land,—and he shall set the goat free, in the desert. ²³Then shall Aaron come into the tent of meeting, and put off the linen garments which he put on when he came into the holy place,—and shall leave them there; ²⁴and shall bathe his flesh in water in a holy place, and put on his other garments,—and go forth, and offer his own ascending-sacrifice, and the ascending-sacrifice of the people, so shall he put a propitiatory-covering about himself, and about the people; ²⁵and, with the fat of the sin-bearer, shall he make a perfume at the altar. ²⁶And he that sent away the goat unto Azazel, shall wash—his clothes, and bathe his flesh in water,—and, after that, shall he come into the camp. ²⁷And the, sin-bearing bullock, and the sin-bearing goat whose blood was brought in to make a propitiatory-covering in the holy place, shall be carried forth outside the camp,—and they shall burn up, in fire, their skins and their flesh, and their dung; ²⁸and he that hath burned them, shall wash his clothes, and bathe his flesh in water,—and, after that, shall he come into the camp. ²⁹And it shall become unto you, a statute age-abiding,—In the seventh month on the tenth of the month, Shall ye humble you souls And, no work, shall ye do, The home-born, Or the sojourner that sojourneth in your midst; ³⁰For on this day, shall a propitiatory-covering, be put over you, to cleanse you,—From all your sins before Yahweh, shall ye be clean. ³¹A sabbath of sacred rest, it is unto you, Therefore shall ye humble your souls, A statute age-abiding. ³²Therefore shall the priest who shall be anointed, and installed, to minister as priest in the stead of his father make propitiation,—So then he shall put on the linen garments the holy garments; ³³And make propitiation for the holy sanctuary, And for the tent of meeting, and for the altar, shall he make propitiation,—Over the priests also and over all the people of the convocation, shall he put a covering by propitiation. ³⁴So shall this become unto you an age-abiding statute,—to put a propitiatory-covering over the sons of Israel because of all their sins, Once in the year. And he did, As Yahweh commanded Moses.

17And Yahweh spake unto Moses saying:—²Speak unto Aaron, and unto his sons and unto all the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,—This, is the thing which Yahweh hath commanded, saying: ³What man soever, there be of the house of Israel, who slayeth an ox or lamb or goat, in the camp,—or who slayeth it outside the camp; ⁴and, unto the entrance of the tent of meeting, bringeth it not in, to present as an oblation unto Yahweh, before the habitation of Yahweh, blood, shall be imputed to that man—blood, hath he shed, therefore shall that man be cut off from the midst of his people: ⁵to the end that the sons of Israel may bring in their sacrifices which they are offering upon the face of the field, that they may bring them in unto Yahweh—unto the entrance of the tent of meeting, unto the priest,—and that so as peace-offerings unto Yahweh, they may offer them. ⁶Then shall the priest dash the blood against the altar of Yahweh, at the entrance of the tent of meeting,—and shall make a perfume of the fat, as a satisfying odour unto Yahweh; ⁷so shall they no more offer their sacrifices unto demons after whom they are unchastely going away,—a statute age-abiding, shall this be to them unto their generations. ⁸Wherefore, unto them, shalt thou say: What man soever, there may be of the house of Israel, or of the sojourners that sojourn in their midst,—who causeth to go up an ascending-offering, or a sacrifice; ⁹and unto the entrance of the tent of meeting, doth not bring it in, to offer it unto Yahweh, then shall that man be cut off from among his kinsfolk. ¹⁰And, what man soever, there may be of the house of Israel, or of the sojourners that sojourn in their midst, that partaketh of any manner of blood, then will I set my face against the person that partaketh of the blood, and will cut him off from the midst of his people. ¹¹For as for the life of the flesh, in the blood, it is, therefore have, I, given it unto you upon the altar, to put a propitiatory-covering over your lives,—for the blood, it is, which, by virtue of the life, maketh propitiation. ¹²For this cause, have I said unto the sons of Israel, Not a person from among you shall partake of blood,—Even the sojourner that sojourneth in your midst, shall not partake of blood. ¹³And, what man soever, there may be of the sons of Israel, or of the sojourners that sojourn in their midst, who taketh by hunting any wild-beast or bird that may be eaten, then shall he pour out the blood thereof, and cover it with dust; ¹⁴for, as for the life of all flesh, the blood thereof, for the life thereof, standeth, therefore have I said unto the sons of Israel—Of the blood of no manner of flesh, shall ye partake, For, the life of all flesh is the blood thereof; whoso partaketh thereof, shall be cut off. ¹⁵And, in the case of any person who eateth that which died of itself or was torn in pieces, whether he be home-born, or a sojourner, then shall he wash his clothes, and bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening, and then be clean. ¹⁶But, if he wash them not, and his flesh, he do not bathe, then shall he bear his iniquity.

18And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: ²Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,—I—Yahweh, am your God:—³After the doings of the land of Egypt wherein ye dwelt, shall ye not do,—And after the doings of the land of Canaan whither, I, am bringing you in, shall ye not do, And, in their statutes, shall ye not walk: ⁴My regulations, shall ye do, And, my statutes, shall ye observe to walk therein,—I—Yahweh, am your God. ⁵Therefore shall ye observe my statutes, and my regulations, Which if the son of earth shall do them, Then shall he live in them,—I, am Yahweh. ⁶No person whatsoever, unto any of the near kin of his own flesh, shall approach to uncover the parts of shame,—I, am Yahweh. ⁷The shame of thy father, even the shame of thy mother, shalt thou not uncover,—thy mother, she is, thou shalt not uncover her shame. ⁸The shame of thy father's wife, shalt thou not uncover,—thy father's shame, it is. ⁹The shame of thy sister daughter of thy father or daughter of thy mother, born at home or horn abroad, thou shalt not uncover their shame. ¹⁰The shame of the daughter of thy son or the daughter of thy daughter, thou shalt not uncover their shame,—for, thine own shame, they are. ¹¹The shame of the daughter of thy father's wife, born to thy father, she being, thy sister, thou shalt not uncover her shame. ¹²The shame of thy father's sister, shalt thou not uncover,—thy father's near of kin, she is. ¹³The shame of thy mother's sister, shalt thou not uncover,—for, thy mother's near of kin, she is. ¹⁴The shame of thy father's brother, shalt thou not uncover unto his wife, shalt thou not approach, thine aunt, she is. ¹⁵The shame of thy daughter-in-law, shalt thou not uncover,—thy son's wife, she is, thou shalt not uncover her shame. ¹⁶The shame of thy brother's wife, shalt thou not uncover,—the shame of thy brother, it is. ¹⁷The shame of a woman, and of her daughter, shalt thou not uncover,—neither the daughter of her son nor the laughter of her daughter, shalt thou take, to uncover her shame, near of kin, they are, wickedness, it is. ¹⁸And, a woman unto her sister, shalt thou not take,—to cause rivalry, by uncovering her shame besides her own while she is living. ¹⁹And unto a woman during her removal for uncleanness, shalt thou not approach, to uncover her shame. ²⁰And of the wife of thy neighbour, shalt thou not have carnal knowledge,—to commit uncleanness with her. ²¹And none of thy seed, shalt thou deliver up, to cause to pass through to Molech,—that thou profane not the name of thy God, I, am Yahweh. ²²And, with mankind, shalt thou not lie as with womankind,—an abomination, it is. ²³And of no beast, shalt thou have carnal knowledge to commit uncleanness therewith,—neither shall a woman present herself to a beast to couch down thereto,—confusion, it is. ²⁴Do not make yourselves unclean in any of these things,—For in all these things, have the nations made themselves unclean, whom, I, am sending out from before you. ²⁵Therefore hath the land become unclean, and I have visited the iniquity thereof upon it,—and the land hath vomited her inhabitants. ²⁶Ye, therefore, shall observe my statutes and my regulations, and have nothing to do with any of these abominations,—whether the home-born, or the sojourner that sojourneth in your midst; ²⁷For all these abominations, have the men of the land done, who were before you; And so the land hath become unclean: ²⁸So shall the land not vomit you, through your making it unclean,—as it vomited the nation which was before you. ²⁹For whosoever shall have anything to do with any of these abominations, the persons who have, shall be cut off, out of the midst of their people. ³⁰Therefore shall ye keep my charge, So that ye may have nothing to do with any of the abominable statutes with which they have had to do before you, So shall ye not make yourselves unclean thereby,—I—Yahweh, am your God.

19And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: ²Speak unto all the assembly of the sons of Israel and thou shalt say unto them—Holy, shall ye be,—For holy, am I—Yahweh—your God ³Ye shall, every one, revere, his father and his mother, And my sabbaths, shall ye observe,—I—Yahweh, am your God. ⁴Do not turn unto things of nought, And, molten gods, shall ye not make to yourselves,—I—Yahweh, am your God. ⁵And when ye would offer a peach-offering unto Yahweh, ye shall offer it that ye may be accepted. ⁶On the day, ye offer it, shall it be eaten, and on the morrow,—but, that which remaineth until the third day, in fire, shall be consumed. ⁷And, if it, be eaten, on the third day, unclean, it is it shall not be accepted, ⁸But he that eateth it, his iniquity, shall bear, because that which had been hallowed unto Yahweh, hath he profaned,—so then that person shall be cut off from among his kinsfolk. ⁹And when ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not wholly clear the border of thy field, in reaping,—nor shalt thou gather up the gleaning of thy harvest. ¹⁰And, thy vineyard, shalt thou not go over again, nor gather, every single grape: for the poor and for the sojourner, shalt thou leave them, I—Yahweh, am your God. ¹¹Ye shall not steal,—nor deceive nor lie one man to another; ¹²Nor swear by my name falsely,—And so profane the name of thy God: I, am Yahweh. ¹³Thou shalt not oppress thy neighbour nor rob him,—The wages of him that is hired shall not tarry with thee, until the morning. ¹⁴Thou shalt not curse the deaf, Nor, before the blind, place a stumbling-block,—So shalt thou stand in awe of thy God I, am Yahweh. ¹⁵Ye shall not act perversely in giving judgment, Thou shalt neither respect the person of the poor, Nor prefer the person of the great,—In righteousness, shalt thou judge thy neighbour. ¹⁶Thou shalt not go about tale-bearing, among thy people Thou shalt not stand by, over the blood of thy neighbour: I, am Yahweh. ¹⁷Thou shalt not hate thy brother in thy heart,—Thou shalt, faithfully reprove, thy neighbour, and not countenance him in sin: ¹⁸Thou shalt not take vengeance neither shalt thou cherish anger against the sons of thy people, So shalt thou love thy neighbour as thyself,—I, am Yahweh. ¹⁹My statutes, shall ye observe, Thy beasts, shalt thou not cause to breed in two kinds, Thy field, shalt thou not sow with two sorts of seed,—And a garment woven of diverse threads, shalt thou not suffer to come upon thee. ²⁰And whosoever lieth carnally with a woman, she being a bondmaid, acquired for a husband, and neither, redeemed, nor, freedom, given her, inquisition, shall be made they shall not be put to death, because she was not free; ²¹but he shall bring in his guilt-bearer unto Yahweh, unto the entrance of the tent of meeting,—even a ram as a guilt-bearer; ²²and the priest shall put propitiatory-covering over him with the guilt-bearing ram before Yahweh, on account of his sin which he hath committed,—so shall he have forgiveness, from his sin which he hath committed. ²³And when ye come into the land, and plant any manner of fruit-tree, then shall ye count as uncircumcised the fruit thereof, three years, shall it be to you as if unclean, it shall not be eaten. ²⁴But, in the fourth year, all the fruit thereof shall be hallowed for a festival of thanksgiving unto Yahweh. ²⁵And in the fifth year, shall ye eat the fruit thereof, that it may enrich you with its increase,—I—Yahweh, am your God. ²⁶Ye shall eat nothing with the blood thereof,—Ye shall not practise divination neither shall ye use magic. ²⁷Ye shall not shave in a circle around your head,—nor shalt thou disfigure the fringe of thy beard. ²⁸Cuttings for a dead person, shall ye not make in your flesh. And punctures in your persons, shall ye not print,—I, am Yahweh. ²⁹Do not profane thy daughter by causing her to be unchaste,—lest the land fall to unchastity, and so the land be filled with wickedness. ³⁰My sabbaths, shall ye observe, And my sanctuary, shall ye revere,—I, am Yahweh. ³¹Do not turn unto mediums, Nor, for oracles, make search, To render yourselves unclean with them, I—Yahweh, am your God. ³²Before a hoary head, shalt thou rise up, And shalt honour the presence of an elder,—So shalt thou stand in awe of thy God—I, am Yahweh. ³³And, when there sojourneth with thee a sojourner in your land, ye shall not oppress him: ³⁴As one home born from among yourselves, shall be unto you the sojourner who sojourneth with you, So shalt thou love him as thyself, For, sojourners, became ye, in the land of Egypt,—I—Yahweh, am your God. ³⁵Ye shall not act perversely in giving judgment,—in measures of extent, in weights in measures of capacity: ³⁶Just balances, just weights, a just ephah and a just hin, shall ye have,—I—Yahweh, am your God, who brought you forth out of the land of Egypt. ³⁷Therefore shall ye observe all my statutes and all my regulations and do them,—I, am Yahweh.

20And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: ²Unto the sons of Israel, therefore shalt thou say, What man soever, there may be of the sons of Israel, or of the sojourners that sojourn in Israel, that giveth of his seed unto Molech, he shall, surely be put to death,—the people of the land shall stone him with stones; ³I, also, will set my face against that man, and will cut him off out of the midst of his people,—because of his seed, hath he given unto Molech, seeing that he hath made unclean my sanctuary, even to the extent of profaning my holy name. ⁴But, if the people of the land, do even hide, their eyes from that man, when he giveth of his seed unto Molech,—so as not to put him to death, ⁵then will I myself, set my face against that man, and against his family,—and will cut him off, and all that follow unchastely after him—in going unchastely after Molech—out of the midst of their people. ⁶The person also that turneth unto mediums and unto oracles, in going unchastely after them, then will I set my face against that person, and will cut him off out of the midst of his people. ⁷Therefore shall ye hallow yourselves and be holy,—Because I—Yahweh, am your God. ⁸Therefore shall ye observe my statutes, and do them,—I—Yahweh, am he that is hallowing you. ⁹When, any man whatsoever, curseth his father or his mother, he shall surely be put to death,—his father or his mother, hath he cursed, his blood, shall be upon himself. ¹⁰And, any man, who committeth adultery with the wife of any other man, he that committeth adultery with the wife of his neighbour shall surely be put to death—the adulterer, and the adulteress. ¹¹And any man who lieth with his father's wife, the shame of his father, hath uncovered,—they both shall, surely be put to death—their blood shall be upon themselves. ¹²And any man who lieth with his daughter-in-law, they both shall, surely be put to death, confusion, have they wrought—their blood shall be upon themselves. ¹³And any man who lieth with mankind as with womankind, an abomination, have both of them wrought,—they shall, surely be put to death,—their blood, shall be upon themselves. ¹⁴And, any man, who taketh a woman and her mother, wickedness, it is,—in fire, shall both he and they be consumed, that wickedness be not in your midst. ¹⁵And, any man, who hath carnal knowledge of a beast, shall, surely be put to death,—and, the beast, shall ye slay. ¹⁶And, a woman, who approacheth unto any beast, to couch down thereto, then shalt thou slay the woman and the beast,—they shall surely be put to death,—their blood, shall be upon themselves. ¹⁷And, any man, who taketh his sister—his father's daughter or his mother's daughter, and vieweth her shame, and, she, vieweth his shame, a disgrace, it is,—they shall therefore be cut off in the sight of the sons of their people,—the shame of his sister, hath he uncovered—his iniquity, shall he bear. ¹⁸And, any man, who lieth with a woman having her sickness, and uncovereth her shame, her fountain, hath he exposed, she, also hath uncovered her fountain of blood,—they shall therefore both be cut off out of the midst of their people. ¹⁹And the shame of thy mother's sister, or of thy father's sister, shalt thou not uncover,—for his near of kin, hath he exposed—their iniquity, shall they bear. ²⁰And, any man, who lieth with his uncle's wife, the shame of his uncle, hath he uncovered,—their sin, shall they bear—childless, shall they die. ²¹And, any man, who taketh his brother's wife, impurity, it is,—the shame of his brother, hath he uncovered—childless, shall they remain. ²²Therefore shall ye observe all my statutes and all my regulations, and do them,—So shall the land whereinto I am bringing you to dwell therein, not vomit you forth; ²³So shall ye not walk in the—statutes of the nations, which I am casting out from before you,—For all these things, had they done, Therefore I abhorred them; ²⁴And said unto you—Ye, shall possess their soil, Yea, I myself, will give it you to possess it, A land flowing with milk and honey,—I—Yahweh, am your God, who have distinguished you from the peoples; ²⁵Therefore shall ye make a distinction—Between the clean beasts, and the unclean,—And between the unclean birds and the clean,—So shall ye not make your persons abominable with beast, or with bird or with anything which creepeth upon the ground, which I have distinguished for you, as unclean. ²⁶Therefore shall ye be unto me, holy persons, for, holy, am, I—Yahweh,—Therefore have I distinguished you from the peoples, that ye may be mine. ²⁷And as touching man or woman, when there shall be in them a familiar spirit, or the spirit of an circle, they shall, surely be put to death,—with stones, shall they be stoned—their blood, shall be upon themselves.

²¹And Yahweh said unto Moses, Say unto the priests, the sons of Aaron,—yea thou shalt say unto them, For a dead person, shall no one make himself unclean among his people: ²Saving for his kin, that are near unto him, for his mother or for his father, or for his son or for his daughter, or for his brother; ³or for his sister, a virgin who is near unto him, who belongeth not unto a husband,—for her, he may make himself unclean: ⁴He shall not make himself unclean being a chief among his people,—by profaning himself: ⁵They shall not make a baldness behind in their head, And the border of their beard, shall they not cut off,—And, in their flesh, shall they not make incisions. ⁶Holy persons, shall they be unto their God, and not profane the name of their God,—for, the altar-flames of Yahweh, the food of their God, do they bring near—Therefore shall they be holy. ⁷A woman that is unchaste or dishonoured, shall they not take, And a woman divorced from her husband, shall they not take,—For holy, he is unto his God. ⁸Therefore shalt thou hold him as holy, for the food of thy God, doth he bring near,—Holy, shall he be to thee, For, holy, am I—Yahweh, who am making you holy. ⁹And, the daughter of any priest, when she profaneth herself by unchastity, Her father, she, doth profane, with fire, shall she be consumed. ¹⁰And, as for the high priest from among his brethren upon whose head is poured the anointing oil, and who is installed, by putting on the garments, His head, shall he not bare, And, his garments, shall he not rend; ¹¹And, unto no persons b of the dead, shall he go in,—For his father or for his mother, shall he not make himself unclean; ¹²And, out of the sanctuary, shall he not go forth, so shall he not profane the sanctuary of his God,—for the consecration of the anointing oil of his God is upon him—I, am Yahweh. ¹³But, he, shall take a woman in her virginity: ¹⁴A widow or a divorced woman or one dishonoured—an unchaste woman, these, shall he not take, But, a virgin from among his own kinsfolk, shall he take to wife; ¹⁵So shall he not profane his seed, among his kinsfolk,—For I—Yahweh, do hallow him. ¹⁶And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: ¹⁷Speak unto Aaron, saying,—No man of thy seed, unto their generations in whom shall be any blemish, shall come near, to present the food of his God. ¹⁸Surely, no man in whom is any blemish, shall come near,—No man who is blind or lame, or hath a flat nose, or is lanky; ¹⁹nor any man who hath a broken foot,—or a broken hand; ²⁰or is hump-backed or a dwarf, or hath defective vision,—or hath scurvy or scab, or is crushed in the stones: ²¹No, man in whom is a blemish of the seed of Aaron the priest, shall approach, to bring near the altar-flames of Yahweh,—a blemish, is in him, the food of his God, shall he not approach to bring near: ²²Of the food of his God, both of the most holy,—and the holy, may he eat: ²³Only, unto the veil, shall he not come in and unto the altar, shall he not approach—because, a blemish, is in him, so shall he not profane my sanctuaries, For, I—Yahweh, am hallowing them. ²⁴And Moses spake these things unto Aaron, and unto his sons,—and unto all the sons of Israel.

²²And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: ²Speak unto Aaron, and unto his sons, That they hold sacredly aloof from the holy things of the sons of Israel, so as not to profane my holy name,—in the things which they are hallowing unto me—I, am Yahweh. ³Say unto them—Unto your generations, as touching any man who cometh near from among any of your seed, unto the hallowed things which the sons of Israel may hallow unto Yahweh, while his uncleanness is upon him, then shall that person be cut off from before me—I, am Yahweh. ⁴No man soever of the seed of Aaron who is a leper, or hath a flux, shall eat of the holy things, until he be clean,—And as for him who toucheth anything that is unclean by the dead, or a man whose seed goeth from him; ⁵or a man who toucheth any creeping thing, which is unclean to him,—or toucheth any human being who hath uncleanness, to the extent of any thing that maketh him unclean, ⁶any person who toucheth any such, shall then be unclean until the evening,—and shall not eat of the hallowed things, unless he bathe his flesh in water. ⁷When the sun tooth in, then is he clean,—and thereafter, he may eat of the hallowed things, for, his food, it is. ⁸That which dieth of itself or is torn in pieces, shall he not eat to make himself unclean thereby,—I, am Yahweh. ⁹Therefore shall they keep my charge, and shall not bear, for it, sin, and die therein, when they profane it,—I—Yahweh, am hallowing them. ¹⁰And, no stranger, shall eat what is hallowed,—neither, one who dwelleth with a priest nor a hireling shall eat what is hallowed. ¹¹But when, a priest, buyeth any person, as the purchase of his silver, he may eat thereof,—and, the children of his household, they, may eat of his food. ¹²And, when, a priest's daughter, belongeth to a husband, who is a stranger, she, of the heave-offering of the hallowed things, may not eat. ¹³But, when a priest's daughter, cometh to be a widow or divorced and hath no seed, and so she returneth unto the house of her father, as in her youth, of the food of her father, she may eat,—but no stranger, shall eat thereof. ¹⁴And, when, any man, eateth what is hallowed, by mistake, then shall he add the fifth part of it thereunto, and give unto the priest the hallowed thing: ¹⁵So shall they not profane the hallowed things of the sons of Israel,—which they heave up unto Yahweh; ¹⁶nor cause them to bear guilty iniquity, when they eat their hallowed things,—For, I—Yahweh, am hallowing them. ¹⁷And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: ¹⁸Speak unto Aaron, and unto his sons, and unto all the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them—What man, soever, of the house of Israel, or of the sojourners in Israel, may bring near his oblation, as regardeth any of their vows, or any of their freewill offerings which they may bring near unto Yahweh, as an ascending-sacrifice, ¹⁹that ye may be accepted, it must be a male without defect, of the beeves, or of the sheep, or of the goats: ²⁰whatsoever hath in it a blemish, shall ye not bring near,—for it shall not be accepted for you. ²¹And, whosoever would bring near a peace-offering unto Yahweh, to consecrate a vow or as a freewill-offering with a bullock or a sheep, without defect, shall it be, to be accepted, no, blemish, shall be therein. ²²Blind, or broken, or rent, or having a running sore, or scurvy, or scab, ye shall not bring these near unto Yahweh,—and no, altar-flame, shall ye present therefrom upon the altar, unto Yahweh. ²³Whether an ox or a lamb long or short limb, as a free-will offering, thou mayest offer it, but, for a vow, it shall not be accepted. ²⁴But that which is bruised in the stones or broken therein, or torn or cut, shall ye neither bring ear unto Yahweh, nor on your own land, shall ye offer. ²⁵Even at the hand of the son of a stranger, shall ye not bring near the food of your God of any of these,—for, their damage is in them, a blemish, is in them, they shall not be accepted for you. ²⁶And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:—²⁷When, a beeve or a sheep or a goat, is brought forth, then shall it be seven days under its dam,—and, from the eighth day and onwards, it shall be accepted as an oblation of an altar-flame unto Yahweh, ²⁸Whether cow or ewe—it and its young, shall ye not slaughter on one day. ²⁹And when ye would offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving unto Yahweh, for your acceptance, shall ye offer it. ³⁰On the same day, shall it be eaten, ye shall not leave thereof until morning,—I, am Yahweh. ³¹So then ye shall observe my commandments, and do them,—I, am Yahweh. ³²So shall ye not profane my holy name, So shall I be hallowed in the midst of the sons of Israel,—I, am Yahweh, who am hallowing you; ³³Who brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, that I might become your God,—I, am Yahweh.

23And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: ²Speak unto the sons of Israel and thou shalt say unto them, As for the appointed seasons of Yahweh, which ye shall proclaim as holy con-vocations, these, are they—my appointed seasons:—³Six days, shall work be done, but, on the seventh day, shall there be a sabbath of sacred rest a holy convocation, no work, shall ye do,—a sabbath, shall it be unto Yahweh, in all your dwellings. ⁴These, are the appointed seasons of Yahweh, holy convocations,—which ye shall proclaim in their appointed season:—⁵In the first month, on the fourteenth of the month, between the evenings, is a Passover unto Yahweh; ⁶and on the fifteenth day of this month, is the festival of unleavened cakes unto Yahweh,—seven days—unleavened cakes, shall ye eat. ⁷On the first day—a holy convocation, shall there be to you: no laborious work, shall ye do. ⁸So then ye shall bring near an altar-flame unto Yahweh, seven days,—on the seventh day, shall there be a holy convocation, no laborious work, shall ye do. ⁹And Yahweh spake unto Moses saying: ¹⁰Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them:—

When ye enter into the land which, I, am giving you, and ye reap the harvest thereof, then shall ye bring in a sheaf of the first-ripe corn of your harvest, unto the priest; ¹¹and he shall wave the sheaf before Yahweh, that ye may be accepted,—on the morrow of the sabbath, shall the priest wave it. ¹²And ye shall offer on the day when ye wave the sheaf, a he-lamb without defect, the finest of its year for an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh; ¹³and the, meal-offering thereof shall be two-tenth parts of fine meal overflowed with oil, as an altar-flame unto Yahweh a satisfying odour,—and, the drink-offering thereof, shall be mine, the fourth of a hin. ¹⁴And neither bread, nor roasted corn, nor garden-land grain, shall ye eat, until this selfsame day, until ye have brought in the oblation of your God,—an age-abiding statute unto your generations, in all your dwellings. ¹⁵Then shall ye keep count to yourselves from the morrow of the sabbath, from the day ye brought in the wave sheaf,—seven sabbaths complete, shall there be: ¹⁶until on the morrow of the seventh sabbath, ye count fifty days,—then shall ye bring near a new meal-offering unto Yahweh. ¹⁷Out of your dwellings, shall ye bring in two wave loaves of two-tenths of an ephah, of fine meal, shall they be, with leaven, shall they be baked,—first-fruits unto Yahweh. ¹⁸Then shall ye bring near with the bread seven he-lambs without defect of the first year, and one young bullock, and two rams,—they shall be an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh, with their meal-offering, and their drink-offerings, an altar-flame of satisfying odour unto Yahweh. ¹⁹Then shall ye offer one he-goat, as a sin-bearer,—and two he-lambs, of the first year, as a peace-offering. ²⁰And the priest shall wave them, with the firstfruits bread, as a wave-offering before Yahweh, with the two he-lambs,—holy, shall they be unto Yahweh, for the priest. ²¹And ye shall make proclamation on this self-same day—a holy convocation, shall it be unto you; no laborious work, shall ye do,—an age-abiding statute in all your dwellings, unto your generations. ²²And, when ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not wholly clear the border of thy field when thou reapest, and, the gleanings of thy field, shalt thou not glean,—for the poor and for the sojourner, shalt thou leave them. I—Yahweh, am your God. ²³And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: ²⁴Speak unto the sons of Israel, saying:—In the seventh month on the first of the month, shall there be unto you a sacred rest, a trumpet-blowing commemoration a holy convocation: ²⁵no laborious work, shall ye do,—but ye shall bring near an altar-flame unto Yahweh. ²⁶And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying, ²⁷Surely on the tenth of this seventh month, is, the Day of Propitiation, a holy convocation, shall it be to you, therefore shall ye humble your souls,—and bring near an altar-flame unto Yahweh. ²⁸And, no work, shall ye do, on this selfsame day,—for a day of propitiation, it is, to put a propitiatory-covering over you before Yahweh your God. ²⁹For, whosoever be the person that shall not be humbled on this selfsame day, then shall he be cut off from among his kinsfolk. ³⁰And, whosoever be the person that shall do any work on this self-same day, then will I destroy that person from the midst of his people. ³¹No work, shall ye do,—an age-abiding statute to your generations, in all your dwellings. ³²A sabbath of sacred rest, shall it be unto you, so shall ye humble your souls,—on the ninth of the month in the evening, from evening to evening, shall ye keep your sabbath. ³³And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: ³⁴Speak unto the sons of Israel, saying:—On the fifteenth day of this seventh month, shall be the festival of booths, for seven days, unto Yahweh. ³⁵On the first day, shall be a holy convocation,—no laborious work, shall ye do. ³⁶Seven days, shall ye bring near an altar-flame unto Yahweh: on the eighth day—a holy convocation, shall there be unto you so shall ye bring near an altar-flame unto Yahweh—the closing of the feast, it is, no laborious work, shall ye do. ³⁷These, are the appointed seasons of Yahweh, which ye shall proclaim, as holy convocations,—for bringing near as an altar-flame unto Yahweh, an ascending-sacrifice, and a meal-offering, a sacrifice and a drink-offering, each day's appointment on its own day:—³⁸besides the sabbaths of Yahweh, and besides your presents, and besides all your vows, and besides all your freewill offerings which ye shall give unto Yahweh. ³⁹Surely, on the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when ye have gathered in the yield of the land, shall ye celebrate the festival of Yahweh seven days,—on the first day, a sacred rest, and, on the eighth day, a sacred rest. ⁴⁰So then ye shall take you, on the first day, boughs of goodly trees, branches, of palm-trees, and boughs of thick trees, and poplars of the ravine,—and shall rejoice before Yahweh your God, seven days. ⁴¹So shall ye celebrate it as a festival unto Yahweh, seven days in the year,—a statute age-abiding, to your generations. In the seventh month, shall ye celebrate it; ⁴²In booths, shall ye dwell seven days;—All the home-born in Israel, shall dwell in booths: ⁴³To the end that your generations may know, that, in booths, made I the sons of Israel to dwell, when I brought them forth out of the land of Egypt,—I—Yahweh, am your God. ⁴⁴So then Moses declared, the appointed seasons of Yahweh, unto the sons of Israel.

24And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: ²Command the sons of Israel, That they bring unto thee—pure oil olive, beaten, for giving light,—to cause the lamp to burn up continually. ³Outside the veil of the testimony, in the tent of meeting, shall Aaron order it, from evening until morning, before Yahweh continually,—a statute age-abiding, to your generations. ⁴Upon the pure lampstand, shall he order the lamps,—before Yahweh, continually. ⁵And thou shalt take fine meal, and bake it, in twelve cakes,—of two-tenths, shall each cake be. ⁶And thou shalt set them in two rows, six in a row,—upon the pure table, before Yahweh. ⁷And thou shalt put upon each row pure frankincense,—so shall it belong unto the bread as a memorial, an altar-flame unto Yahweh. ⁸Sabbath day by sabbath day, shall he order it before Yahweh continually,—from the sons of Israel as an age-abiding covenant: ⁹so shall it be for Aaron and for his sons, and they shall eat it in a holy place,—for most holy, shall it be unto him from among the altar-flames of Yahweh, a statute age-abiding. ¹⁰And forth went the son of a woman of Israel—he being the son of a man of Egypt—in the midst of the sons of Israel; ¹¹and the son of the woman of Israel, and a man of Israel, reviled one another in the camp. And the son of the Israelitish woman uttered contemptuously the Name, and reviled. So they brought him in unto Moses,—now, the name of his mother, was Shelomith, daughter of Dibri, of the tribe of Dan; ¹²and they put him in ward,—that a clear answer might be given to them at the mouth of Yahweh. ¹³Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: ¹⁴Bring forth him that reviled unto the out-side of the camp, then shall all that heard him lean their hands upon his head,—and all the assembly shall stone him. ¹⁵And, unto the sons of Israel, shalt thou speak saying,—What man soever curseth his God shall bear his sin. ¹⁶And, he that contemptuously uttereth the name of Yahweh, shall be, surely put to death, all the assembly shall, surely stone, him,—as the sojourner so the home-born, when he contemptuously-uttereth the Name, he shall be put to death. ¹⁷And, when, any man, by smiting taketh the life of any human being, he shall be surely put to death, ¹⁸And he that by smiting taketh away the life of a beast, shall make it good,—life for life. ¹⁹And, when, any man, inflicteth a blemish upon his neighbour, as he hath done, so, shall it be done to him: ²⁰fracture for fracture, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, as he inflicteth a blemish upon a human being, so, shall one be inflicted upon him. ²¹And he that killeth a beast, shall make it good,—and he that killeth a human being, shall be put to death. ²²One rule, shall ye have, as the sojourner, so the home-born, shall be,—For, I—Yahweh, am your God. ²³So then Moses spake unto the sons of Israel, and they took forth the reviler, unto the outside of the camp, and stoned him with stones. Thus, the sons of Israel did, as Yahweh commanded Moses.

25And Yahweh spake unto Moses in Mount Sinai, saying—²Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them:—When ye enter into the land which, I, am giving you, then shall the land keep a sabbath unto Yahweh. ³Six years, shalt thou sow thy field, and, six years, shalt thou prune thy vineyard,—and gather the increase thereof; ⁴but, in the seventh year—a sabbath of sacred rest, shall there be unto the land, a sabbath unto Yahweh: thy field, shalt thou not sow, and, thy vineyard, shalt thou not prune; ⁵that which groweth of itself of thy harvest, shalt thou not reap; and the grapes of thine unpruned vines, shalt thou not cut off: a year of sacred rest, shall there be to the land. ⁶So shall the sabbath of the land be unto you for food: unto thee, and unto thy servant and unto thy handmaid,—and unto thy hireling, and unto thy settlers that are sojourning with thee; ⁷and unto thy tame-beasts, and unto the wild-beasts that are in thy land, shall belong all the increase thereof for food. ⁸And thou shalt count to thee seven weeks of years, seven years, seven times,—so shall the days of the seven weeks of years become to thee forty-nine years. ⁹Then shalt thou cause a signal-horn to pass through in the seventh month, on the tenth of the month: on the Day of Propitiation, shall ye cause a horn to pass throughout all your land. ¹⁰So shall ye hallow the fiftieth year, and proclaim freedom throughout the land to all the dwellers thereof,—a jubilee, shall it be unto you, and ye shall return, every man unto his possession, and every man unto his family, shall ye return. ¹¹A jubilee, shall that fiftieth year be unto you,—ye shall not sow, neither shall ye reap the self-grown corn thereof, nor cut off the grapes of the unpruned vines thereof. ¹²For, a jubilee, it is, holy, shall it be unto you,—out of the field, shall ye eat her increase. ¹³In this same jubilee year, shall ye return every man unto his possession. ¹⁴And when ye sell anything to thy neighbour, or buy aught at thy neighbour's hand, do not overreach one another. ¹⁵By the number of years after the jubilee, shalt thou buy of thy neighbour,—by the number of the years of increase, shall he sell unto thee; ¹⁶according to the multitude of the years, shalt thou increase the price thereof, and, according to the fewness of the years, shalt thou diminish the price thereof,—because the sum of the increase, it is that he selleth thee. ¹⁷So then ye shall not overreach one another; but thou shalt stand in awe of thy God,—for, I—Yahweh, am your God. ¹⁸Wherefore ye shall do my statutes, and my regulations, shall ye observe and do them,—so shall ye dwell upon the land with confidence; ¹⁹and the land shall yield her fruit; and ye shall eat to the full,—and shall dwell with confidence thereupon. ²⁰And since ye may say, What shall we eat in the seventh year? Lo! we are not to sow, neither are we to gather our increase! ²¹Therefore will I command my blessing upon you, in the sixth year,—and it shall make the increase of three years; ²²and ye shall sow, the eighth year, and eat of old store,—until the ninth year until the coming in of the increase thereof, shall ye eat old store. ²³The land moreover shall not be sold beyond recovery, for, mine, is the land,—for, sojourners and settlers, ye are with me. ²⁴And, in all the land of your possession, a right of redemption, shall ye give to the land. ²⁵When thy brother waxeth poor, and so selleth aught of his possession, then may his kinsman that is near unto him come in, and redeem that which was sold by his brother. ²⁶And, when, any man, hath no kinsman,—but his own hand getteth enough, so that he findeth what is needed to redeem it, ²⁷then shall he reckon the years since he sold it, and restore the overplus to the man to whom he sold it,—and shall return to his possession. ²⁸But, if his hand have not found enough to get it back unto him, then shall that which he sold remain in the hand of him that bought it, until the year of the jubilee,—and shall go out in the jubilee, and he shall return unto his possession. ²⁹And, when, any man, selleth a dwelling-house in a walled city, then shall his right of redemption remain until the completion of a year after he sold it,—for, a year of days, shall his right of redemption remain. ³⁰But, if it be not redeemed before the end of a full year, then shall the house that is in the city that hath walls be confirmed, beyond recovery, to him who bought it, unto his generations,—it shall not go out in the jubilee. ³¹But as for the houses of villages which have no wall round about them, with the fields of land, shall it be reckoned,—a right of redemption, shall belong to it, and, in the jubilee, shall it go out. ³²And as for the cities of the Levites, the houses of the cities of their possession, an age-abiding right of redemption, shall pertain unto the Levites. ³³And, if one of the Levites should not redeem, then shall the sale of the house and the city of his possession go out in the jubilee; for, the houses of the cities of the Levites are their possession, in the midst of the sons of Israel. ³⁴But the field of the pasture-land of their cities, shall not be sold,—for an age-abiding possession, it is unto them. ³⁵And, when thy brother waxeth poor, and his hand becometh feeble with thee, then shalt thou strengthen him, as a sojourner and a settler, so shall he live with thee. ³⁶Do not accept from him interest or profit, but stand thou in awe of thy God,—so shall thy brother live with thee. ³⁷Thy silver, shalt thou not give him on interest,—neither, for profit, shalt thou give him thy food. ³⁸I—Yahweh, am your God, who brought you forth out of the land of Egypt,—to give unto you the land of Canaan, to become your God, ³⁹And when thy brother waxeth poor with thee, and so selleth himself unto thee, thou shalt not bind him with the bondage of a bondman: ⁴⁰as a hired servant, as a settler, shall he remain with thee,—until the year of the jubilee, shall he serve with thee: ⁴¹then shall he go forth from thee, he and his sons with him,—and shall return unto his family, and unto the possession of his fathers, shall he return. ⁴²For, my bondmen, they are, whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt,—they shall not sell themselves with the sale of a bondman. ⁴³Thou shalt not rule over him with rigour,—so shalt thou stand in awe of thy God. ⁴⁴And as for thy bondman and thy bond-maid which thou shalt have, of the nations that are round about you—from them, may ye buy bondman and bond-maid. ⁴⁵Moreover also, of the sons of the settlers who are sojourning with you—of them, may ye buy, and of their families that are with you, which they have begotten in your land,—so shall they become yours, as a possession; ⁴⁶and ye may take them as an inheritance for your sons after you to inherit as a possession, unto times age-abiding, of them, may ye take to be bondmen,—but, over your brethren the sons of Israel—

a man over his brother, ye shall not rule, over him with rigour. ⁴⁷And, when the hand of the sojourner and settler with thee getteth possessions, and thy brother with him, waxeth poor,—and so he selleth himself to the sojourner who is a settler with thee, or to one who hath taken root, of the family of the sojourner, ⁴⁸after that he hath sold himself, a right of redemption, pertaineth to him,—one of his brethren, may redeem him; ⁴⁹or, his uncle or his uncle's son, may redeem him, or, a near flesh-relation of his, of his family, may redeem him, or, his own hand may have gotten enough, and, so he may redeem himself. ⁵⁰Then shall he reckon with him that bought him, from the year that he was sold to him, unto the year of the jubilee,—and the silver for which he was sold shall be by the number of years, according to the days of a hired servant, shall he be with him. ⁵¹If there is yet a multitude of years, according to them, shall he return, as his redemption price, of the silver of him that bought him. ⁵²Or, if there is but a small remainder of years, until the year of the jubilee, then shall he reckon to himself, according to the years thereof, shall he return his price of redemption. ⁵³As a servant hired year by year, shall he be with him, he shall not rule over him with rigour, before thine eyes. ⁵⁴But if he be not redeemed in any of these ways, then shall he go out in the jubilee year, he, and his sons with him. ⁵⁵For, unto me, are the sons of Israel, bondmen, my bondmen, they are, whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt. I, Yahweh, am your God.

26Ye shall not make unto you idols,—neither image nor pillar, shall ye set up for yourselves, nor sculptured stone, shall ye place in your land, to bow yourselves down thereunto,—For, I Yahweh, am your God. ²My sabbaths, shall ye observe, And, my sanctuary, shall ye revere,—I, am Yahweh. ³If, in my statutes, ye will walk,—And my commandments, ye will observe, and do them, ⁴Then will I give your rains in their season,—And the land shall yield her increase, And, the trees of the field, shall yield their fruit. ⁵Then shall your threshing reach unto the vintage, And, the vintage, shall reach unto the seedtime,—And ye shall eat your food to the full, And shall dwell securely in your land. ⁶And I will give peace in the land, And ye shall lie down, and nothing shall make you afraid; And I will take away vicious beasts out of the land; And, the sword, shall not go through your land. ⁷And ye shall chase your foes,—And they shall fall before you by the sword; ⁸And, five, of you shall chase, a hundred, And, a hundred, of you shall put ten thousand to flight,—So shall your foes fall before you, by the sword. ⁹And I will turn unto you, And make you fruitful,—And multiply you, And will establish my covenant with you. ¹⁰And ye shall eat old store well seasoned,—And the old from before the new, shall ye put forth. ¹¹And I will set my habitation in your midst,—And my soul shall not abhor you; ¹²But I will walk to and fro in your midst, And will be unto you a God, And, ye, shall be unto me a people. ¹³I—Yahweh, am your God who brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, that ye should not be their bondmen; so I brake in pieces the staves of your yoke, and caused you to walk, erect. ¹⁴But, if ye will not hearken unto me, And will not do all these commandments; ¹⁵And if, my statutes, ye refuse, And, my regulations, your souls shall abhor,—So that ye will not do all my commandments, But shall break my covenant ¹⁶I also, will do this unto you—I will set over you, for terror, consumption and fever, Causing the eyes to fail and the soul to pine away,—And ye shall sow, in vain, your seed, for it shall be eaten by your foes. ¹⁷And I will set my face against you, And ye shall be smitten before your foes,—And be trodden down by them who hate you, And shall flee when no one is pursuing you. ¹⁸And, if even with these things, ye will not hearken unto me, Then will I yet further correct you seven times, for your sins. ¹⁹So will I break your pomp of power, And will set your heavens as iron, and your land as bronze; ²⁰And your strength shall be spent in vain,—And your land shall not yield her increase, And the trees of the land, shall not yield their fruit. ²¹If therefore, ye will go in opposition to me, And not be willing to hearken unto me, Then will I yet further plague you seven times according to your sins; ²²And will send among you the wild-beast of the field And it shall rob you of your children, And cut off your cattle, And make you few in number; And your roads shall be silent. ²³And, if, by these things, ye will not be corrected by me,—But will go in opposition to me, ²⁴Then will, I also, go in opposition to you. And, I, even I, will plague you seven times for your sins; ²⁵And will bring in upon you a sword that shall inflict the covenanted avenging: So shall ye be gathered into your cities,—Then will I send a pestilence into your midst, And ye shall be delivered into the hand of an enemy. ²⁶When I have broken your staff of bread, then shall ten women bake your bread in one oven, And give back your bread by weight,—And ye shall eat and not be filled. ²⁷And, if, with this, ye will not hearken to me,—But will go in opposition to me, ²⁸Then will I go in a rage of opposition to you,—And I, even I, will correct you seven times for your sins; ²⁹And ye shall eat the flesh of your sons,—Yea, even the flesh of your daughters, shall ye eat. ³⁰And I will destroy your high places And cut down your sun-pillars, And cast your carresses upon the calluses of your manufactured gods,—Thus shall my soul abhor you. ³¹And I will give your cities unto desolation, And make your holy places dumb,—And will find no fragrance in your satisfying odour; ³²And, I, will make the land dumb, And your foes that dwell therein shall regard it with dumb amazement: ³³When, even you, I scatter among the nations, And make bare after you, a sword, Then shall your land become an astonishment, And your cities become a desolation. ³⁴Then, shall the land be paid her sabbaths, All the days she lieth desolate, While, ye, are in the land of your foes,—Then, shall the land keep sabbath, And pay off her sabbaths: ³⁵All the days she lieth desolate, shall she keep sabbath,—the which she kept not as your sabbaths,—while ye dwelt thereupon. ³⁶And as for such as are left of you, Then will I bring faintness into their heart, in the lands of their foes,—So that the sound of a driven leaf shall chase them, And they shall flee as though fleeing from a sword And they shall fall, when no one is pursuing; ³⁷And they shall stumble one upon another as from before a sword, when, pursuer there is none; And ye shall not have wherewith to stand before your foes; ³⁸And ye shall perish among the nations,—And the land of your foes shall eat you up; ³⁹And they who are left of you, shall melt away in their iniquity, in the lands of your foes; Yea also, in the iniquity of their fathers with them, shall they melt away. ⁴⁰Then shall they confess their iniquity, And the iniquity of their fathers, In their unfaithfulness wherewith they had been unfaithful towards me; Yea moreover, because they had gone in opposition to me, ⁴¹I also, must needs go in opposition to them, and bring them into the land of their foes,—Save only that, if, even then, their uncircumcised heart shall be humbled, And, even then, they shall accept as a payment the punishment of their iniquity, ⁴²Then will I remember my covenant with Jacob Yea moreover, my covenant with Isaac, Yea moreover, my covenant with Abraham, will I remember; And the land, will I remember. ⁴³For, the land, shall be left of them, And shall be paid her sabbaths, while she lieth desolate without them, They also, accepting, as a payment, the punishment of their iniquity, Because, yea because, my regulations, they refused, And my statutes, their soul abhorred. ⁴⁴And yet even so when they are in the land of their foes I have not refused them Neither have I abhorred them To make an end of them, To break my covenant with them,—For, I—Yahweh, am their God. ⁴⁵Therefore will I remember in their behalf the covenant of their ancestors,—Whom, I brought forth out of the land of Egypt in the sight of the nations, that I might be their God—I—Yahweh. ⁴⁶These are the statutes and the regulations and the laws, which Yahweh granted between himself, and the sons of Israel,—in Mount Sinai by the mediation of Moses.

27 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: ²Speak unto the sons of Israel and thou shall say unto them—When any man would consecrate and pay a vow by thine estimate of lives unto Yahweh, ³then shall, thine estimate be for the male from twenty years of age even to sixty years of age, yea thine estimate shall be—fifty shekels of silver by the shekel of the sanctuary; ⁴but if it be, a female, then shall thine estimate be thirty shekels. ⁵And, if it be from five years of age even unto twenty years of age, then shall thine estimate be for the male, twenty shekels,—and, for the female, ten shekels. ⁶And, if it be from a month old

even unto five years old, then shall thine estimate be—for the male, five shekels of silver,—and, for the female, thine estimate shall be three shekels of silver. ⁷And if it be from sixty years of age and upwards, if a male, then shall thine estimate be fifteen shekels,—and, for the female, ten shekels. ⁸But if he be, too poor, for thine estimate, then shall he present himself before the priest, and the priest shall estimate him,—according to that which the hand of him who would vow can attain to, shall the priest estimate him. ⁹And if it be a beast whereof men may bring near an oblation unto Yahweh, all that whereof aught is given to Yahweh, shall be holy. ¹⁰He shall not alter it, nor change it—good for bad or bad for good,—but if he, do, change beast for beast, then shall, both it and what was given in exchange for it be holy. ¹¹And, if it be any unclean beast whereof men may not bring near an oblation to Yahweh, then shall he present the beast before the priest: ¹²and the priest shall estimate it, whether it is good or bad,—according to thine estimate, O priest, so, shall it be. ¹³But if he should please to redeem, it, then shall he add the fifth part thereof unto thine estimate. ¹⁴And, when, any man, would hallow his house to be holy unto Yahweh, then shall the priest estimate it, whether it is good or bad,—as the priest shall estimate it, so, shall it stand. ¹⁵But, if he that halloweth it, would redeem his house, then shall he add the fifth part of the silver of thine estimate thereunto and it shall be his. ¹⁶And if of the field of his possession any man would hallow unto Yahweh, then shall thine estimate be according to the seed thereof,—the seed of a homer of barley, at fifty shekels of silver. ¹⁷If, from the year of jubilee, he would hallow his field, according to thine estimate, shall it stand. ¹⁸But if after the jubilee he would hallow his field, then shall the priest reckon to him the silver, according to the years that remain, until the year of the jubilee,—and it shall be abated from thine estimate. ¹⁹But, if he that hath hallowed it should be pleased to redeem, the field, then shall he add the fifth part of the silver of thine estimate thereunto and it shall be assured to him. ²⁰But if he will not redeem the field, but have sold the field to another man, it shall be redeemable no longer; ²¹so shall the field, when it goeth out in the jubilee, be holy unto Yahweh as a devoted, field,—to the priest, shall belong the possession thereof. ²²If, however, a field that he hath bought, which is not of the fields of his possession, he would hallow unto Yahweh, ²³then shall the priest reckon to him the amount of thine estimate until the year of the jubilee,—and he shall give thine estimate, in that day, as holy unto Yahweh. ²⁴In the year of the jubilee, shall the field return unto him from whom he bought it to him whose it was as a possession in the land. ²⁵And, every estimate of thine, shall be by the holy shekel,—twenty gerahs, make the shekel. ²⁶Only the firstling which is born a firstling to Yahweh, among beasts, no man shall hallow it,—whether ox or sheep, unto Yahweh, it belongeth. ²⁷But, if it be among the beasts that are unclean, then shall he ransom it by thine estimate, and add the fifth part of it thereunto,—but, if it is not redeemed, then shall it be sold by thine estimate. ²⁸Only no devoted thing which any man shall devote unto Yahweh, of all that belongeth to him,—of man or beast, or of the field of his possession, shall be either sold or redeemed,—as to every devoted thing, most holy, it is unto Yahweh. ²⁹As touching any one devoted, who may be devoted from among men he shall not be ransomed,—he must be, surely put to death. ³⁰And, as for all the tithe of the land whether of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the trees, unto Yahweh, it belongeth,—as something holy unto Yahweh. ³¹But, if any man should be pleased, to redeem, aught of his tithes, the fifth part thereof, shall he add thereunto. ³²And, as for all the tithe of herd and flock, all that passeth under the rod, the tenth, shall be holy unto Yahweh. ³³He shall not examine whether it be good or bad neither shall he change it,—or, if he do in anywise change, it, then shall both, it and what is given in exchange for it, be holy, it shall not be redeemed. ³⁴These are the commandments which Yahweh commanded Moses for the sons of Israel,—in Mount Sinai.

¹Then spake Yahweh unto Moses in the desert of Sinai in the tent of meeting,—on the first of the second month in the second year by their coming forth out of the land of Egypt saying: ²Reckon ye up the sum of all the assembly of the sons of Israel, by their families by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, every male, by their polls; ³from twenty years old and upwards, every one able to go forth to war in Israel,—ye shall number them by their hosts, thou and Aaron; ⁴and with you, shall be one man for each tribe,—each man, head of his ancestral house, shall be. ⁵These, then, are the names of the men who shall stand with you,—Of Reuben, Elizur, son of Shedeur; ⁶Of Simeon, Shelumiel son of Zurishaddai; ⁷Of Judah, Nahshon, son of Amminadab; ⁸Of Issachar, Nethanel, son of Zuar; ⁹Of Zebulun, Eliab, son of Helon; ¹⁰Of the sons of Joseph,—Of Ephraim, Elishama son of Ammihud; Of Manasseh, Gamaliel, son of Pedahzur; ¹¹Of Benjamin, Abidan son of Gideoni; ¹²Of Dan, Ahiezer son of Ammishaddai; ¹³Of Asher, Pagiel, son of Ochran; ¹⁴Of Gad, Eliasaph son of Deuel; ¹⁵Of Naphtali, Ahira son of Enan. ¹⁶These, are they who had been summoned by the assembly, being princes of the tribes of their fathers,—heads of the thousands of Israeli. ¹⁷So then Moses and Aaron took these men, who were distinguished by name; ¹⁸all the assembly also, called they together on the first of the second month,—and they declared their pedigree according to their families by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names from twenty years old and upwards by their polls. ¹⁹As Yahweh commanded Moses, so he mustered them in the desert of Sinai. ²⁰And they were as followeth —The sons of Reuben, the firstborn of Israel, in their pedigrees—by their families, by their ancestral houses, in the counting of names, by their polls, every male, from twenty years old and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; ²¹such as were numbered of them as belonging to the tribe of Reuben, forty-six thousand and five hundred. ²²Of the sons of Simeon, in their pedigree by their families by their ancestral houses,—such as were numbered of him, in the counting of names by their polls, every male from twenty years old and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; ²³such as were numbered of them as belonging to the tribe of Simeon, fifty-nine thousand and three hundred. ²⁴Of the sons of Gad, in their pedigree—by their families by their ancestral houses, in the counting of names from twenty years old and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; ²⁵such as were numbered of them as belonging to the tribe of Gad, forty-five thousand and six hundred and fifty. ²⁶Of the sons of Judah, in the r pedigrees by their families by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; ²⁷such as were numbered of them as belonging to the tribe of Judah, seventy-four thousand and six hundred. ²⁸Of the sons of Issachar, in their pedigrees—by their families by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty year old and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; ²⁹such as were numbered of them as belonging to the tribe of Issachar, fifty-four thousand and four hundred. ³⁰Of the sons of Zebulun, in their pedigrees—by their families by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names from twenty years old and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; ³¹such as were numbered of them as belonging to the tribe of Zebulun, fifty-seven thousand and four hundred. ³²Of the sons of Joseph—Of the sons of Ephraim, in their pedigrees—by their families by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; ³³such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Ephraim, forty thousand and five hundred. ³⁴Of the sons of Manasseh, in their pedigrees—by their families by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names from twenty years old and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; ³⁵such as were numbered of them as belonging to the tribe of Manasseh, thirty-two thousand, and two hundred. ³⁶Of the sons of Benjamin, in their pedigrees by their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; ³⁷such as were numbered of them as belonging to the tribe of Benjamin, thirty-five thousand and four hundred. ³⁸Of the sons of Dan, in their pedigrees by their families by their ancestral houses, in the counting of names from twenty years old and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; ³⁹such as were numbered of them as belonging to the tribe of Dan, sixty-two thousand, and seven hundred. ⁴⁰Of the sons of Asher, in their pedigrees—by their families by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; ⁴¹such as were numbered of them as belonging to the tribe of Asher, forty-one thousand, and five hundred. ⁴²The sons of Naphtali, in their pedigrees by their families by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; ⁴³such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Naphtali, fifty-three thousand, and four hundred. ⁴⁴These, are they who were numbered, whom Moses and Aaron and the twelve princes of Israel did number, the princes acting each one for his ancestral house. ⁴⁵So then all they who were numbered of the sons of Israel by their ancestral houses, from twenty years old and upwards, every one able to go forth to war in Israel; ⁴⁶so then all they who were numbered were six hundred and three thousand and five hundred and fifty. ⁴⁷But the Levites by the tribe of their fathers were not numbered in their midst. ⁴⁸For Yahweh spake unto Moses saying: ⁴⁹Only the tribe of Levi, shalt thou no number, nor the sum of them, shalt thou reckon up, in the midst of the sons of Israel. ⁵⁰But do, thou thyself, put the Levites in charge over the habitation of the testimony, and over all the furniture thereof and over all that pertaineth thereto, they, shall bear the habitation, and all the furniture thereof, and they, shall attend thereupon; and, round about the habitation, shall they encamp. ⁵¹And, when the habitation is to set forward, the Levites shall take it down, and when the habitation is to be pitched, the Levites, shall set it up, but the stranger that draweth near, shall be put to death. ⁵²So then the sons of Israel shall pitch their tents, every man, near his own camp, and, every man, near his own standard, by their hosts; ⁵³but the Levites, shall pitch their tents round about the habitation of the testimony, that there be no wrath upon the assembly of the sons of Israel,—so shall the Levites keep the watch of the habitation of the testimony. ⁵⁴Thus did the sons of Israel,—according to all that Yahweh commanded Moses, so, did they.

²Then spake Yahweh onto Moses and onto Aaron saying: ²Every man—near his standard with the ensigns belonging to their ancestral houses, shall the sons of Israel encamp,—at a distance round about the tent of meeting, shall they encamp. ³And they who encamp eastwards towards sunrise, shall he the standard of the camp of Judah by their hosts,—even the prince of the sons of Judah, Nashon, son of Ammi-nadab; ⁴and his host, even they who are numbered of them,—seventy-four thousand and six hundred, ⁵Then they who encamp by him the tribe of Issachar,—even the prince of the sons of Issachar, Nethanel, son of Zuar; ⁶and his host even they who are numbered of them,—fifty-four thousand and four hundred. ⁷The tribe of Zebulun, even the prince of the sons of Zebulun, Eliab, son of Helon; ⁸and his host, even they who are numbered of him, fifty-seven thousand and four hundred. ⁹All they who are numbered to the camp of Judah, a hundred and eighty-six thousand four hundred, by their hosts, shall first set forward. ¹⁰the standard of the camp of Reuben south-wards, by their hosts,—even the prince of the sons of Reuben, Elizur son of Shedeur; ¹¹and his host, even they who are numbered of him,—forty-six thousand, and five hundred. ¹²Then they who encamp by him, the tribe of Simeon,—even the prince of the sons of Simeon, Shelumiel son of Zurishaddai; ¹³and his host, even they who are numbered of them,—fifty-nine thousand and three hundred. ¹⁴Then the tribe of Gad, even the prince of the sons of Gad, Eliasaph son of Reuel; ¹⁵and his host, even they who are numbered of them,—forty-five thousand, and six hundred and fifty. ¹⁶All they who are numbered to the camp of Reuben,—a hundred and fifty-one thousand and four hundred and fifty, by their hosts, and they in the second rank, shall set forward. ¹⁷Then shall set forward the tent of meeting—the camp of the Levites in the midst of the camps,—as they encamp, so, shall they set forward, every man at the side thereof by their standards. ¹⁸the standard of the camp of Ephraim, by their hosts westwards,—even the prince of the sons of Ephraim, Elishama son of Ammihud; ¹⁹and his host, even they who are numbered of them,—forty thousand, and five hundred. ²⁰Then by him, the tribe of Manasseh, even the prince of the sons of Manasseh, Gamaliel, son of Pedahzur; ²¹and his host, even they who are numbered of them,—thirty-two thousand and two hundred. ²²Then the tribe of Benjamin, even the prince of the sons of Benjamin, Abidan, son of Gideoni; ²³and his host, even they who are numbered of them,—thirty-five thousand and four hundred. ²⁴All they who are numbered to the camp of Ephraim a hundred and eight thousand and one hundred by their hosts, and they in the third rank, shall set forward. ²⁵the standard of the camp of Dan, north-wards by their hosts, even the prince of the sons of Dan, Ahiezer, son of Ammishaddai; ²⁶and his host, even they who are numbered of them,—sixty-two thousand and seven hundred. ²⁷Then they who encamp by him the tribe of Asher,—even the prince of the sons of Asher, Pagiel, son of Ochran; ²⁸and his host, even they who are numbered of them,—forty-one thousand and five hundred. ²⁹Then the tribe of Naphtali,—even the prince of the sons of Naphtali, Ahira, son of Enan; ³⁰and his host, even they who are numbered of them,—fifty-three thousand and four hundred, ³¹All they who are numbered to the camp of Dan, a hundred and fifty-seven thousand and six hundred, in the hindmost rank, shall they set forward, by their standards. ³²These, are they who were numbered of the sons of Israel by their ancestral houses,—all they who were numbered of the camps by their hosts were six hundred and three thousand and five hundred and fifty. ³³But the Levites, were not numbered in the midst of the sons of Israel,—As Yahweh commanded Moses. ³⁴Thus

did the sons of Israel,—according to all that Yahweh commanded Moses, so, did they encamp by their standards, and so, did they set forward, every one by his families near his ancestral house.

³Now, these, were the pedigrees of Aaron and Moses,—in the day when Yahweh spake with Moses in Mount Sinai. ²And these, are the names of the sons of Aaron—the first-born Nadab,—and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. ³These, are the names of the sons of Aaron, the priests that were anointed,—who were installed to minister as priests. ⁴But Nadab and Abihu died before Yahweh when they brought near strange fire before Yahweh in the desert of Sinai, and sons, had they none,—so then Eleazar and Ithamar ministered as priests, in the presence of Aaron their father. ⁵Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying— ⁶Bring near the tribe of Levi, and thou shalt cause it to stand before Aaron the priest,—so shall they wait upon him; ⁷so shall they keep his charge, and the charge of all the assembly, before the tent of meeting,—to do the laborious work of the habitation; ⁸so shall they have charge of all the furniture of the tent of meeting, even the charge of the sons of Israel,—to do the laborious work of the habitation. ⁹Thus shalt thou give the Levites unto Aaron and unto his sons,—given, given, they are unto him, from among the sons of Israel; ¹⁰but unto Aaron, and unto his sons, shalt thou give oversight, so shall they keep charge of their priesthood,—and, the stranger who cometh near, shall be put to death. ¹¹Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying— ¹²I, therefore, lo! I have taken the Levites out of the midst of the sons of Israel, instead of every firstborn that a mother beareth, from among the sons of Israel,—so shall the Levites be mine; ¹³for, mine, is every firstborn, in the day when I smote every firstborn in the land of Egypt, hallowed unto myself every firstborn in Israel, both of man and of beast,—mine, did they become, and belong unto me, Yahweh. ¹⁴Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, in the desert of Sinai, saying:— ¹⁵Number thou the sons of Levi, by their ancestral houses, by their families,—every male, from one month old and upwards, shalt thou number them. ¹⁶So then Moses numbered them according to the bidding of Yahweh,—as he was commanded. ¹⁷And these were the sons of Levi, by their names,—Gershon, and Kohath, and Merari. ¹⁸And these, the names of the sons of Gershon by their families,—Libni and Shimei. ¹⁹And, the sons of Kohath, by their families Amram, and Izhar, Hebron and Uzziel. ²⁰And the sons of Merari by their families, Mahli and Mushi. These, are they—the families of the Levites by their ancestral houses. ²¹To, Gershon, belonged the family of the Libnites, and the family of the Shimeites,—these, are they—the families of the Gershonites. ²²They who were numbered of them in the counting of every male, from one month old, and upwards,—they who were numbered of them, were seven thousand and five hundred. ²³the families of the Gershonites, to the rear of the habitation, were to encamp, westward. ²⁴And, the prince of the ancestral house of the Gershonites, was Eliasaph son of Lael. ²⁵And, the charge, of the sons of Gershon, was over the tent of meeting, the habitation, and the tent,—the covering thereof, and the screen for the entrance of the tent of meeting; ²⁶and the hangings of the court, and the screen for the entrance of the court which was near the habitation and near the altar, round about,—and the cords thereof, as to all the laborious work thereof. ²⁷And to Kohath, belonged the family of the Amramites and the family of the Izharites, and the family of the Hebronites, and the family of the Uzzielites,—these, are they—the families of the Kohathites. ²⁸In, the counting of every male, from one month old and upwards, there were eight thousand and six hundred, to keep the charge of the sanctuary. ²⁹The, families of the sons of Kohath, were to encamp,—on the side of the habitation, south-ward. ³⁰And the prince of the ancestral house of the families of the Kohathites, was Elizaphan, son of Uzziel. ³¹And their charge, was—the ark and the table and the lampstand and the altars, and the utensils of the sanctuary wherewith they were to minister,—and the screen, as to all the laborious work thereof. ³²And the prince of the princes of the Levites, was Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest,—to have the oversight of them that were to keep the charge of the sanctuary. ³³To Merari, belonged the family of the Mahlites, and the family of the Mushites,—these, are they—the families of Merari. ³⁴And they who were numbered of them in the counting of every male, from one month old and upwards, were six thousand, and two hundred. ³⁵And the prince of the ancestral house of the families of Merari, was Zuriel son of Abihail,—on the side of the habitation, were they to encamp northward. ³⁶And the oversight of the charge of the sons of Merari, was—the boards of the habitation, and the bars thereof and the pillars thereof and the sockets thereof,—and all the furniture thereof, as to all the laborious work thereof; ³⁷also the pillars of the court round about and their sockets,—and their pins and their cords. ³⁸But, they who were to encamp before the habitation eastwards before the tent of meeting, towards sunrise, were Moses and Aaron and his sons. to keep the charge of the sanctuary, as the charge of the sons of Israel and, the stranger that came near, was to be put to death. ³⁹All they who were numbered of the Levites whom Moses and Aaron numbered at the bidding of Yahweh by their families,—every male, from one month old and upwards, were two-and-twenty thousand. ⁴⁰And Yahweh said unto Moses: Number thou every firstborn male belonging to the sons of Israel, from one month old and upwards,—and reckon up the number of their names; ⁴¹then shalt thou take the Levites for me, me Yahweh, instead of every firstborn among the sons of Ishmael,—also the cattle of the Levites, instead of every firstling among the cattle of the sons of Israel. ⁴²So then Moses numbered, as Yahweh commanded him,—every firstborn among the sons of Israel. ⁴³And it was so—that all the firstborn of the males in the counting of names from one month old and upwards of such as were numbered of them,—were two-and-twenty thousand, two hundred and seventy-three. ⁴⁴Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:—⁴⁵Take the Levites, instead of all the firstborn among the sons of Israel, and the cattle of the Levites, instead of their cattle,—so shall the Levites belong unto me, me Yahweh; ⁴⁶and as the ransom of the two hundred and seventy-three,—who are mere than the Levites, of the firstborn of the sons of Israel, ⁴⁷thou shalt take five shekels apiece by the poll,—by the shekel of the sanctuary, shalt thou take it, twenty gerahs to the shekel; ⁴⁸and shalt give the silver to Aaron and to his sons,—as the ransom of them that are in excess over them. ⁴⁹So Moses took the redemption silver from them who were in excess over them who were redeemed by the Levites: ⁵⁰from the firstborn of the sons of Israel, took he the silver,—a thousand three hundred and sixty-five shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary, ⁵¹And Moses gave the redemption silver to Aaron and to his sons at the bidding of Yahweh,—As Yahweh commanded Moses.

⁴Then spake Yahweh unto Moses and unto Aaron saying: ²Reckon up the sum of the sons of Kohath, out of the midst of the sons of Levi,—by their families by their ancestral house: ³from thirty years old, and upwards, even unto fifty years,—every one that can enter into the host, to do service in the tent of meeting. ⁴This, shall be the labour of the sons of Kohath, in the tent of meeting,—the most holy things, ⁵So then Aaron and his sons shall enter when the camp is to set forward, and take down the screening veil,—and enwrap therein the ark of the testimony; ⁶and put thereon a covering of badgers skin, and spread a complete wrapper of blue over above,—and put in the staves thereof. ⁷And over the Presence-table, shall they spread a wrapper of blue and put thereon the dishes and the pans and the bowls and the libation cups, the perpetual bread also, thereupon, shall remain; ⁸and they shall spread over them a wrapper of crimson, and cover the same with a covering of badgers skin,—and shall put in the staves thereof. ⁹Then shall they take a wrapper of blue, and cover the light-giving lampstand, and the lamps thereof, and the snuffers thereof and the snuff-trays thereof,—and all the oil-vessels, thereof, wherewith they minister thereunto; ¹⁰and shall put the same and all the vessels thereof, within a covering of, badger's skin,—and shall put it upon a frame. ¹¹And upon the altar of gold, shall they spread a wrapper of blue, and shall cover the same in a covering of badgers skin,—and shall put in the staves thereof, ¹²And they shall take all the utensils of attendance wherewith they attend in the sanctuary, and put them within a wrapper of blue, and cover the same in a covering of badgers skin,—and put them on a frame. ¹³Then shall they remove the fat-ashes from the altar,—and spread over it a wrapper of purple; ¹⁴and put thereupon all the utensils thereof wherewith they minister thereupon—the fire-pans, the flesh-hooks—and the shovels and the tossing-bowls, all the utensils of the altar,—and shall spread over it covering of badgers skin and put in the staves thereof. ¹⁵So shall Aaron and his sons make an end of covering the sanctuary, and all the utensils of the sanctuary, when the camp is to set forward, then after that, shall the sons of Kohath enter to bear it, but they must not put forth a touch unto that which, is holy, else should they die, these, shall be the burden of the sons of Kohath in the tent of meeting. ¹⁶But the care of Eleazar son of Aaron the priest, shall be—the light-giving oil, and the fragrant incense, and the perpetual meal-offering, and the anointing oil, the care of all the habitation, and all that is therein, both as to the sanctuary, and as to the furniture thereof. ¹⁷Then spake Yahweh unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying: ¹⁸Do not let the tribe of the families of the Kohathites be cut off out of the midst of the Levites. ¹⁹This, therefore, do ye for them, so shall they live and not die when they approach the most holy place,—Aaron and his sons shall enter and set them man by man over his labour, and unto his burden; ²⁰but they shall not enter to see, for a moment, that which is holy, else should they die. ²¹Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: ²²reckon up the sum of the sons of Gershon even of them also,—by their ancestral house by their families; ²³from thirty years old and upwards even to fifty years, shalt thou number them,—All that may enter to take rank in the host, to do laborious work in the tent of meeting. ²⁴This, shall be the labour of the families of the Gershonites,—in labouring and in bearing: ²⁵they shall bear the curtains of the habitation and the tent of meeting, the covering thereof and the covering of badgers skin which is over above it,—and the screen, at the entrance of the tent of meeting; ²⁶and the hangings of the court, and the screen for the entrance of the gate of the court which is near the habitation and near the altar round about, and their cords, and all their articles of service, and all that is to be done to them when they shall do their labour, ²⁷At the bidding of Aaron and his sons, shall he all the labour of the sons of the Gershonites, to the extent of their every burden, and to the extent of all their labour,—so shall ye appoint unto them in charge their every burden. ²⁸This, shall be the labour of the families of the sons of the Gershonites in the tent of meeting,—and, the charge of them, shall be in the hand of Ithamar, son of Aaron the priest. ²⁹As for the sons of Merari,—by their families by their ancestral house, shall ye number them; ³⁰from thirty years old and upwards even to fifty years, shall ye number them,—all that enter into the host, to do laborious work in the tent of meeting, ³¹And, this, shall be their charge of the burdens, to the extent of all their labour in the tent of meeting, the boards of the habitation, and the bars thereof and the pillars thereof and the sockets thereof: ³²and the pillars of the court round about and their sockets anti their pins and their cords, to the extent of all their articles, to the extent of all their labour, and by names, shall ye put under their care the articles of their charge of burdens. ³³This, shall be the labour of the families of the sons of Merari, to the extent of all their labour in the tent of meeting,—in the hand of Ithamar, son of Aaron, the priest. ³⁴Then did Moses and Aaron, and the princes of the assembly, number the sons of the Kohathites, by their families, and by their ancestral house; ³⁵from thirty years old and upwards, even unto fifty years old, all that might enter the host, to labour in the tent of meeting; ³⁶and they who were numbered of them, by their families, were found to be two thousand, seven hundred and fifty. ³⁷These, were they who were numbered of the families of the Kohathites, all that might labour in the tent of meeting, whom Moses and Aaron did number, at the bidding of Yahweh by the mediation of Moses. ³⁸And they who were numbered of the sons of Gershon,—by their families, and by their ancestral house; ³⁹from thirty years old and upwards, even to fifty years old, all that might enter the host, to labour in the tent of meeting; ⁴⁰yea they who were numbered of them, by their families, by their ancestral house,—were found to be—two thousand, and six hundred, and thirty. ⁴¹These, are they who were numbered of the families of the sons of Gershon, all who might labour in the tent of meeting, whom Moses and Aaron did number, at the bidding of Yahweh. ⁴²And they who were numbered of the families of the sons of Merari, by their families by their ancestral house; ⁴³from thirty years old and upwards, even unto fifty years old,—all that might enter the host to labour in the tent of meeting; ⁴⁴yea they who were numbered of them, by their families, were found to be—three thousand and two hundred. ⁴⁵These, are they who were numbered of the families of the sons of Merari,—whom Moses and Aaron did number, at the bidding of Yahweh, by the mediation of Moses. ⁴⁶All they who were numbered, whom Moses and Aaron and the princes of Israel did number, even the Levites, by their families and by their ancestral house; ⁴⁷from thirty years old and upwards, even unto fifty years old, all that might enter, to toil in the work of labouring and in the work of bearing burdens, in the tent of meeting, ⁴⁸yea, they who were numbered of them were found to be—eight thousand, and five hundred, and eighty. ⁴⁹At the bidding of Yahweh, were they put in charge by the mediation of Moses, man by man, over his labour and over his burden,—yea, they who were put in charge by him, were they, whom Yahweh commanded Moses.

⁵And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:—²Command the sons of Israel, that they send forth out of the camp, every leper, and every one that hath a flux,—and every one that is unclean by the dead: ³whether male or female, ye shall send them forth, unto the outside of the camp, shall ye send them,—that they make not their camps unclean, in the midst whereof, I, have my habitation. ⁴And the sons of Israel did so, and sent them forth unto the outside of the camp,—as Yahweh spake unto Moses, so, did the sons of Israel. ⁵And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: ⁶Speak unto the sons of Israel: When any man or woman, shall do aught of an human sin, in acting unfaithfully against Yahweh,—and that person shall become aware of his guilt, ⁷then shall they confess their sin which they have done, and he shall make good that wherein he is guilty, in the principal thereof, and the fifth part thereof, shall he add thereunto,—and give to him against whom he is guilty, ⁸But if one have no kinsman unto whom he may make good that wherein he is guilty, then that wherein he is guilty, which is to be restored to Yahweh, shall be the priests,—besides the ram of propitiation, wherewith a propitiatory-covering is to be put over him. ⁹And every heave-offering, of all the hallowed things of the sons of Israel which they bring near to the priest, unto him, shall it belong. ¹⁰And, every man's hallowed things, shall be, his own,—what any man giveth to the priest, shall be his. ¹¹And Yahweh spake unto Moses saying: ¹²Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,—When any man's wife, shall turn aside, and commit against him an act of unfaithfulness; ¹³and a man shall lie with her carnally, and it shall be concealed from the eyes of her husband and he kept close but, she, hath committed uncleanness,—though witness, there is none against her, and she, hath not been caught; ¹⁴but there shall pass over him a spirit of jealousy, and he shall become jealous of his wife, she having committed uncleanness,—or there shall pass over him a spirit of jealousy, and he shall become jealous of his wife, she not, having committed uncleanness, ¹⁵then shall the man bring in his wife unto the priest, and shall bring in her offering for her, the tenth of an ephah of the meal of barley,—he shall not pour thereon oil, nor put thereon frankincense, for a jealousy gift, it is, a reminding gift bringing to mind iniquity. ¹⁶Then shall the priest bring her near,—and cause her to stand before Yahweh; ¹⁷and the priest shall take hallowed water in an earthen vessel,—and of the dust which shall be upon the floor of the habitation, shall the priest take, and put into the water; ¹⁸and the priest shall cause the woman to stand before Yahweh, and shall bare the head of the woman, and shall place upon her hands the reminding gift, it being a jealousy gift,—and in the hand of the priest, shall be the deadly water that bringeth a curse; ¹⁹and the priest shall put her on oath and shall say unto the woman:—If no man hath lain with thee, and if thou hast not turned aside in uncleanness, unto another instead of thy husband, be thou clear from this deadly water that causeth a curse. ²⁰But, if, thou, hast turned aside, to an-

other instead of thy husband and if thou hast made thyself unclean,—in that a man hath known thee carnally, other than thy husband, ²¹then shall the priest put the woman on oath with an oath of cursing, and the priest shall say unto the woman, Yahweh give thee up for a curse and for an oath in the midst of thy people,—in that Yahweh shall give up thy thigh to fall away, and thy womb to swell: ²²so shall this water that causeth a curse enter into thy body, causing womb to swell and thigh to fall away. And the woman shall say, Amen, Amen. ²³Then shall the priest write these curses in a scroll,—and wipe them out into the deadly water; ²⁴and shall cause the woman to drink the deadly water that causeth a curse,—and the deadly water that causeth a curse shall enter into her. ²⁵Then shall the priest take from the hand of the woman the jealousy meal-offering,—and shall wave the meal-offering before Yahweh, and bring it near unto the altar; ²⁶and the priest shall take a handful from the meal-offering, a remembrancer thereof, and make a perfume at the altar,—and afterwards, shall cause the woman to drink the water. ²⁷And as soon as he causeth her to drink, the water, then shall it be, that, if she have fallen into uncleanness and committed unfaithfulness against her husband, as soon as the deadly water that causeth a curse hath entered into her, so soon shall her womb swell and her thigh fall away,—thus shall the woman become a curse in the midst of her people. ²⁸But, if the woman have not fallen into uncleanness, but is pure, then shall she be clear and shall bear seed. ²⁹This, is the law of jealousies,—when a wife shall turn aside to another instead of her husband, and fall into uncleanness; ³⁰or when there passeth over, a husband, a spirit of jealousy, and he cometh jealous of his wife, then shall he cause the woman to stand before Yahweh, and the priest shall execute upon her all this law: ³¹thus shall the man be clear of iniquity; but that woman, shall bear her iniquity.

is upon his head, ⁸All his days of separation hallowed, is he unto Yahweh. ⁹But if one that is dying should die by him in a moment suddenly, then shall he count unclean his head of separation,—and shall shave his head, on the day he cleanseth himself, on the seventh day, shall he shave it. ¹⁰And on the eighth day, shall he bring in. two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons,—unto the priest, unto the entrance of the tent of meeting; ¹¹and the priest shall make, of one a sin—bearer and of one an ascending-sacrifice, and so put a propitiatory-covering over him, for that he sinned in respect of the dead person,—thus shall he hallow his head on that day. ¹²Then shall he separate unto Yahweh his days of separation, and shall bring in a he-lamb a year old as a guilt-bearer,—and, the first days, shall be lost because his separation, was made unclean. ¹³And, this, is the law of the Separate One, on the day when he fulfilleth his days of separation, he shall be brought in unto the entrance of the tent of meeting: ¹⁴then shall he bring near as his offering unto Yahweh.—one he-lamb a year old, without defect for an ascending-sacrifice, and one ewe-lamb a year old without defect for a sin-bearer,—and one ram, without defect for a peace-offering; ¹⁵and a basket of unleavened cakes—fine meal in round cakes overflowed with oil, and thin cakes of unleavened bread, anointed with oil,—with their meal-offering and their drink-offerings. ¹⁶Then shall the priest bring them near before Yahweh,—and offer his sin-bearer and his ascending-sacrifice; ¹⁷and the ram, shall he offer as a peace-offering unto Yahweh, besides the basket of unleavened cakes,—and the priest shall offer the meal-offering thereof and the drink-offering thereof, ¹⁸Then shall the Separate One shave, at the entrance of the tent of meeting, his head of separation,—and take the hair of his head of separation, and put upon the fire, which is under the peace-offering. ¹⁹Then shall the priest take the shoulder far boiling from the ram, and one unleavened round cake from the basket, and one unleavened thin cake,—and place them on the hands, of the Separate One after he hath shaven off his hair of separation; ²⁰and the priest shall wave them as a wave-offering before Yahweh, hallowed, it is for the priest, besides the wave breast, and besides the heave leg,—and, afterwards, may the Separate One drink wine. ²¹This is the law of One Separate what he shall vow, his offering unto Yahweh with respect to his separation, besides what his hand may obtain: as required by the vow that he shall vow, so, must he do, with respect to the law of his separation. ²²And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: ²³Speak unto Aaron, and unto his sons saying Thus, shall ye bless the sons of Israel,—saying unto them: ²⁴Yahweh bless thee, and keep thee: ²⁵Yahweh cause his face to shine upon thee and be gracious unto thee: ²⁶Yahweh lift up his face unto thee, and appoint unto thee peace. ²⁷Thus shall they put my name upon the sons of Israel,—and, I, myself, will bless them.

⁷And it came to pass, on the day when Moses made an end of rearing up the habitation and anointing it, and hallowing it, and all the furniture thereof, and the altar, and all the utensils thereof,—both of anointing them, and hallowing them, ²that the princes of Israel, the heads of their ancestral houses, made an offering,—they being princes of the tribes, they being the inert who stood over them who were numbered: ³yea then brought they in as their offering, before Yahweh—six covered waggons, and twelve oxen, a waggon for every two of the princes and an ox for each one,—yea they brought them near before the habitation. ⁴Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: ⁵Take them of them, so shall they be for doing the laborious work of the ten of meeting,—and thou shalt give them unto the Levites, to every man according to the need of his laborious work. ⁶So Moses took the waggons, and the oxen,—and gave them unto the Levites: ⁷two of the waggons and four of the oxen, gave he unto the sons of Gershon,—according to the need of their laborious work; ⁸and four of the waggons, and eight of the oxen, gave he unto the sons of Merari,—according to the need of their laborious work, in the hand of Ithamar son of Aaron the priest; ⁹but, unto the sons of Kohath, gave he none,—because as to the laborious work of the sanctuary which pertained unto them, upon their shoulders, were they to carry it. ¹⁰So then the princes offered for the dedication of the altar, on the day it was anointed,—yea the princes offered their oblation before the altar, ¹¹And Yahweh said unto Moses: Each prince on his appointed day, thus shall they offer their oblation, for the dedication of the altar. ¹²And so it was, that, he who on the first day, offered his oblation,—was Nahshon son of Amminadab of the tribe of Judah; ¹³and his offering, was—one charger of silver, a hundred and thirty shekels, the weight thereof, one tossing bowl of silver, seventy shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary,—both of them, full of fine meal overflowed with oil for a meal-offering; ¹⁴one spoon of ten shekels of gold full of incense; ¹⁵one choice young bullock one ram one he-lamb of the first year, as an ascending-sacrifice; ¹⁶one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer; ¹⁷and as a peace-offering, two oxen, five rams five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year,—this, was the offering of Nashon, son of Amminadab. ¹⁸On the second day, Nethanel, son of Zuar, prince of Issachar, brought his offering. ¹⁹He offered as his oblation—one charger of silver, a hundred and thirty shekels, the weight thereof, one tossing bowl of silver, seventy shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary,—both of them, full of fine meal overflowed with oil as a meal-offering; ²⁰one spoon of ten shekels of gold full of incense; ²¹one choice young bullock one ram one he-lamb of the first year, as an ascending-sacrifice; ²²one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer; ²³and, as peace-offering two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year,—this, was the offering of Nethanel, son of Zuar. ²⁴On the third day, the prince of the sons of Zebulun,—Eliab, son of Helon: ²⁵his offering,—one charger of silver a hundred and thirty shekels, the weight thereof, one tossing bowl of silver, seventy shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary,—both of them, full of fine meal overflowed with oil as a meal-offering; ²⁶one spoon, of ten shekels of gold full of incense; ²⁷one choice young bullock, one ram, one he-lamb of the first year, as an ascending-sacrifice; ²⁸one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer; ²⁹and as a peace-offering, two oxen, five rams five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year,—this, was the offering of Eliab, son of Helon. ³⁰On the fourth day, the prince of the sons of Reuben,—Elizur, son of Shedeur: ³¹his offering, one charger of silver, a hundred and thirty shekels, the weight thereof, one tossing bowl of Silver, seventy shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary,—both of them, full of fine meal overflowed with oil, as a meal-offering; ³²one spoon of ten shekels of gold full of incense: ³³one choice young bullock one ram, one he-lamb of the first year, as an ascending-sacrifice; ³⁴one young he-goat for a sin-bearer; ³⁵and as a peace-offering, two oxen, five rams five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year,—this, was the offering of Elizur, son of Shedeur. ³⁶On the fifth day, the prince of the sons of Simeon,—Shelumiel, son of Zurishaddai: ³⁷his offering, one charger of silver a hundred and thirty shekels, the weight thereof, one tossing bowl of silver, seventy shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them, full of fine meal overflowed with oil as a meal-offering; ³⁸one spoon of ten shekels of gold, full of incense; ³⁹one choice young bullock one ram one he-lamb of the first year as an ascending-sacrifice; ⁴⁰one young he-goat as a sin-bearer; ⁴¹and, as a peace-offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year,—this, was the offering of Shelumiel, son of Zurishaddai. ⁴²On the sixth day, the prince of the sons of Gad,—Eliasaph, son of Deuel: ⁴³his offering, one charger of silver, a hundred and thirty shekels, the weight thereof, one tossing bowl, of silver, seventy shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary,—both of them, full of fine meal overflowed with oil, as a meal-offering; ⁴⁴one spoon of ten shekels of gold full of incense; ⁴⁵one choice young bullock one ram one he-lamb of the first year, as an ascending-sacrifice; ⁴⁶one young he-goat a sin-bearer; ⁴⁷and as a peace-offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year,—this, was the offering of Eliasaph, son of Deuel. ⁴⁸On the seventh day, the prince of the sons of Ephraim,—Elishama, son of Ammihud: ⁴⁹his offering, one charger of silver a hundred and thirty shekels, the weight thereof, one tossing bowl of silver, seventy shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary,—both of them, full of fine meal overflowed with oil as a meal-offering; ⁵⁰one spoon of ten shekels of gold, full of incense; ⁵¹one choice young bullock, one ram, one he-lamb of the first year, as an ascending-sacrifice; ⁵²one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer; ⁵³and as a peace-offering, two oxen, five rams five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year,—this, was the offering of Elishama, son of Ammihud.

⁵⁴On the eighth day, the prince of the sons of Manasseh,—Gamaliel, son of Pedahzur: ⁵⁵his offering, one charger of silver, a hundred and thirty shekels, the weight thereof, one tossing bowl, of silver, seventy shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary,—both of them, full of fine meal overflowed with oil as a meal-offering; ⁵⁶one spoon of ten shekels of gold full of incense; ⁵⁷one choice young bullock one ram one he-lamb of the first year as an ascending-sacrifice: ⁵⁸one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer; ⁵⁹and as a peace-offering, two oxen, five rams five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year,—this, was the offering of Gamaliel son of Pedahzur. ⁶⁰On the ninth day, the prince of the sons of Benjamin,—Abidan, son of Gideoni: ⁶¹his offering, one charger of silver, a hundred and thirty shekels, the weight thereof,—one tossing bowl of silver, seventy shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary,—both of them, full of fine meal overflowed with oil, as a meal-offering; ⁶²one spoon, of ten shekels of gold full of incense; ⁶³one choice young bullock, one ram, one he-lamb of the first year as an ascending-sacrifice; ⁶⁴one young he-goat as a sin-bearer; ⁶⁵and as a peace-offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year,—this, was the offering of Abidan, son of Gideoni. ⁶⁶On the tenth day, the prince of the sons of Dan, Ahiezer son of Ammishaddai: ⁶⁷his offering, one charger of silver a hundred and thirty shekels, the weight thereof,—one tossing bowl of silver, seventy shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary,—both of them, full of fine meal overflowed with oil as a meal-offering; ⁶⁸one spoon, of ten shekels of gold, full of incense; ⁶⁹one choice young bullock one ram one he-lamb of the first year as an ascending-sacrifice; ⁷⁰one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer; ⁷¹and as a peace-offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year,—this, was the offering of Ahiezer, son of Ammishaddai. ⁷²On the eleventh day, the prince of the sons of Asher, Pagiel son of Ochran; ⁷³his offering, one charger of silver, a hundred and thirty shekels, the weight thereof, one tossing bowl, of silver, seventy shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary,—both of them, full of fine meal overflowed with oil as a meal-offering; ⁷⁴one spoon of ten shekels of gold, full of incense; ⁷⁵one choice young bullock, one ram one he-lamb of the first year, as an ascending-sacrifice; ⁷⁶one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer; ⁷⁷and as a peace-offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year,—this, was the offering of Pagiel, son of Ochran. ⁷⁸On the twelfth day, the prince of the sons of Naphtali, Ahira, son of Enan: ⁷⁹his offering, one charger of silver a hundred and thirty shekels, the weight thereof, one tossing bowl of silver, seventy shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them, full of fine meal overflowed with oil, as a meal-offering; ⁸⁰one spoon of ten shekels of gold full of incense; ⁸¹one choice young bullock one ram one he-lamb of the first year, as an ascending-sacrifice; ⁸²one young he-goat as a sin-bearer; ⁸³and, as a peace-offering, two oxen, five rams five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year, this, was the offering of Ahira, son of Enan. ⁸⁴This, was the offering for the dedication of the altar in the day when it was anointed, from the princes of Israel,—twelve chargers of silver twelve tossing bowls of silver, twelve spoons of gold; ⁸⁵a hundred and thirty shekels, each charger of silver, and seventy, each tossing bowl,—all the silver of the vessels, two thousand and four hundred shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary; ⁸⁶twelve spoons of gold full of incense, ten shekels each spoon by the shekel of the sanctuary,—all the gold of the spoons, a hundred and twenty shekels. ⁸⁷All the herd for the ascending-sacrifice,—twelve bullocks twelve rams twelve he-lambs of the first year with their meal-offering,—twelve young he-goats for the bearing of sin; ⁸⁸and all the herd for the peace-offering, twenty-four bullocks sixty rams, sixty he-goats sixty he-lambs of the first year,—this, was the offering for the dedication of the altar, after it was anointed. ⁸⁹And when Moses entered into the tent of meeting, that He might speak with him, then heard he the Voice speaking unto him from off the propitiatory that was upon the ark of the testimony, from between the two cherubim,—so He spake unto him.

8And Yahweh spake unto Moses saying: ²Speak unto Aaron, and thou shalt say unto him,—When thou lightest up the lamps, over against the front of the lampstand, shall the seven lamps give light. ³And Aaron did so, over against the front of the lampstand, lighted he up the lamps thereof,—As Yahweh commanded Moses, ⁴Now, this, was the work of the lampstand—beaten work of gold both in the shaft thereof and in the flowers thereof, was it beaten work, according to the appearance which Yahweh caused to appear unto Moses, so, made he the lampstand. ⁵And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: ⁶Take the Levites, out of the midst of the sons of Israel,—and thou shalt purify them. ⁷And, thus, shalt thou do unto them, to purify them, sprinkle upon them sin-cleansing water,—then shall they, cause a razor to pass over all their flesh, and shall wash their clothes and so make themselves pure. ⁸Then shall they take a choice young bullock, with the meal-offering thereof even fine meal overflowed with oil,—and a second choice young bullock, shalt thou take. as a sin-bearer. ⁹Then shalt thou bring the Levites near, before the tent of meeting,—and shalt call together all the assembly of the sons of Israel; ¹⁰and shalt bring the Levites near before Yahweh,—and the sons of Israel shall lean their hands upon the Levites; ¹¹and Aaron shall offer the Levites as a wave-offering before Yahweh, from among the sons of Israel,—so shall they be for performing the laborious work of Yahweh. ¹²And, the Levites, shall lean their hands upon the head of the bullocks; then make thou of the one a sin-bearer and of the other an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh, to put a propitiatory-covering over the Levites. ¹³Thus shalt thou cause the Levites to stand before Aaron and before his sons,—thus shalt thou offer them as a wave-offering unto Yahweh; ¹⁴thus shalt thou separate the Levites out of the midst of the sons of Israel,—thus shall the Levites become mine. ¹⁵And after that, shall the Levites enter to do the labour of the tent of meeting,—so shalt thou purify them, and offer them as a wave-offering, ¹⁶For, given, given, they are unto me, out of the midst of the sons of Israel,—instead of every firstborn that a mother beareth from among the sons of Israel, have I taken them unto me. ¹⁷For mine, is every firstborn among the sons of Israel, among men and among beasts,—on the day when I smote every firstborn in the land of Egypt, did I hallow them unto me. ¹⁸Therefore have I taken the Levites,—instead of every firstborn among the sons of Israel; ¹⁹therefore have I given the Levites as a gift unto Aaron and unto his sons, out of the midst of the sons of Israel, to do the laborious work of the sons of Israel in the tent of meeting, and to put a propitiatory-covering over the sons of Israel,—so shall there be among the sons of Israel, no plague, by the coming nigh of the sons of Israel unto the sanctuary. ²⁰And Moses and Aaron and all the assembly of the sons of Israel did thus unto the Levites,—according to all that Yahweh commanded Moses as touching the Levites, so, did the sons of Israel unto them. ²¹And the Levites accepted the cleansing from sin and washed their clothes, and Aaron offered them as a wave-offering before Yahweh,—and Aaron put a propitiatory-covering over them to make them pure. ²²And after that, went the Levites in to do their laborious work in the tent of meeting, before Aaron and before his sons,—as Yahweh commanded Moses concerning the Levites, so, did they unto them. ²³And Yahweh spake unto Moses saying; ²⁴This is what concerneth the Levites,—from twenty-five years old and upwards, shall they enter to take rank in the host, for doing the laborious work of the tent of meeting; ²⁵but from the age of fifty years, shall they retire from taking rank in the labour, and shall do laborious work no more; ²⁶yet shall they wait upon their brethren in the tent of meeting, by keeping charge, but laborious work, shall they not perform,—thus, shalt thou do unto the Levites, as touching their charges.

9And Yahweh spake unto Moses in the desert of Sinai, in the second year by their coming forth out of the land of Egypt in the first month, saying: ²Let the sons of Israel therefore, keep the passover in its appointed season: ³on the fourteenth day of this month between the two evenings, shall ye keep it, in its appointed season,—according to all the statute thereof and according to all the regulations thereof, shall ye keep it. ⁴Then spake Moses unto the sons of Israel that they should keep the passover. ⁵So they kept the passover in the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month between the two evenings, in the desert of Sinai,—according to all that Yahweh commanded Moses, so, did the sons of Israel. ⁶But so it was that there were, certain men who had become unclean by a dead person, and could not keep the passover on that day,—therefore came they near before Moses and before Aaron on that day. ⁷Then said those men unto him, We, are unclean by a dead person,—wherefore should we become of less esteem for want of offering the oblation of Yahweh in its appointed season, in the midst of the sons of Israel? ⁸And Moses said unto them,—Stay, and let me hear, what Yahweh shall command concerning you! ⁹Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: ¹⁰Speak unto the sons of Israel, saying,—Though, any man, be unclean by a dead person or be on a journey afar off, whether in the case of yourselves or of your generations, yet shall he keep a passover unto Yahweh. ¹¹In the second month, on the fourteenth day between the two evenings, shall they keep it,—with unleavened cakes and bitter herbs, shall they eat it. ¹²They shall not leave thereof until morning, and no bone, shall they break therein—according to all the statutes of the passover, shall they keep it. ¹³But as for the man who is, clean, and no a journey, doth not chance to be and yet faileth to keep the passover, that person shall he cut off from among his kinsfolk,—for the oblation of Yahweh, hath he not offered in its appointed season, his own sin, shall, that man, bear. ¹⁴When moreover there may sojourn with you a sojourner, who would keep a passover unto Yahweh, according to the statute of the passover, and according to the regulation thereof, so, must he keep it,—one statute, shall there be for you, both for the sojourner and for the native of the land. ¹⁵Now, on the day the habitation was reared, the cloud covered the habitation, even the tent of the testimony,—and in the evening, it was over the habitation, like an appearance of fire, until morning, ¹⁶Thus, came it to pass continually, the cloud, covered it,—and an appearance of fire, by night; ¹⁷but at the bidding of the upgoings of the cloud from off the tent, then, after that, the sons of Israel set forward,—and in the place where the cloud abode, there the sons of Israel encamped: ¹⁸at the bidding of Yahweh, the sons of Israel set forward, and at the bidding of Yahweh, they encamped,—all the days that the cloud abode upon the habitation, they remained encamped. ¹⁹And when the cloud lengthened out its stay upon the habitation, many days, then would the sons of Israel keep the watch of Yahweh, and would not set forward. ²⁰And, so it was, when the cloud would be a few days upon the habitation, at the bidding of Yahweh, they remained encamped, and at the bidding of Yahweh, they set forward. ²¹And, so it was, when the cloud would be from evening until morning, as soon as the cloud went up in the morning, so soon did they set forward: whether by day or by night, as soon as the cloud went up, so soon did they set forward. ²²Whether for two days or a month or a year, the cloud lengthened out its stay upon the habitation abiding thereupon, the sons of Israel remained encamped and set not forward,—but at the upgoings thereof, they set forward. ²³At the bidding of Yahweh, they encamped, and at the bidding of Yahweh, they set forward,—the watch of Yahweh, they kept, at the bidding of Yahweh by the hand of Moses.

10And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: ²Make thee two trumpets of silver, of beaten work, shalt thou make them,—and they shall be unto thee for calling the assembly, and for setting forward the camps. ³As soon as they blow therewith, so soon shall all the assembly assemble themselves unto thee, unto the entrance of the tent of meeting. ⁴And, if, only once, they blow, then shall the princes, the heads of the thousands of Israel, gather themselves unto thee. ⁵But when ye blow an alarm, then shall set forward the camps that are encamped eastwards; ⁶and when ye blow a second alarm, then shall set forward the camps that are encamped southwards,—an alarm, shall they blow for setting them forward, ⁷But in calling together the convocation, ye shall blow but shall not sound an alarm. ⁸And, the sons of Aaron the priests, shall blow with the trumpets,—and it shall be unto you for a statute age-abiding, unto your generations. ⁹And when ye go into war in your land against thee assailant that assaileth you, then shall ye blow an alarm with the trumpets,—and bring yourselves to mind before Yahweh your God, and be saved, from your enemies, ¹⁰And in your day of rejoicing and in your appointed seasons and in the beginnings of your months, then shall ye blow with the trumpets, over your ascending-sacrifices, and over your peace-offerings,—so shall they be unto you for a memorial before your God. I—Yahweh, am your God. ¹¹And so it came to pass in the second year, in the second month on the twentieth of the month, that the cloud lifted itself up, from off the habitation of the testimony; ¹²and the sons of Israel set forward by their removals from the desert of Sinai, and then the cloud abode in the desert of Paran. ¹³Thus then did they set forward for the first time,—at the bidding of Yahweh, by the hand of Moses. ¹⁴So the standard of the camp of the sons of Judah set forward first, by their hosts, and over his own host, was Nahshon, son of Amminadab; ¹⁵and, over the host of the tribe of the sons of Issachar, Nethanel, son of Zuar; ¹⁶and, over the host of the tribe of the sons of Zebulun, Eliab, son of Helon. ¹⁷Then was taken down the habitation,—and the sons of Gershon and the sons of Merari set forward bearing the habitation. ¹⁸Then set forward the standard of the camp of Reuben, by their hosts,—and over his own host, Elizur, son of Shedeur; ¹⁹and, over the host of the tribe of the sons of Simeon, Shelumiel, son of Zurishaddai; ²⁰and, over the host of the tribe of the sons of Gad, Eliasaph, son of Deuel. ²¹Then set forward the Kohathites, bearing the sanctuary,—and so the habitation was reared by the time they came in. ²²Then set forward the standard of the camp of the sons of Ephraim by their hosts,—and over his own host, was Elishama son of Ammihud; ²³and, over the host of the tribe of the sons of Man-

asseh, Gamaliel, son of Pedahzur; ²⁴and, over the host of the tribe of the sons of Benjamin, Abidan, son of Gideon. ²⁵Then set forward the standard of the camp of the sons of Dan, bringing up the rear of all the camps, by their hosts,—and over his own host, Ahiezur, son of Ammishaddai; ²⁶and, over the host of the tribe of the sons of Asher, Pagiel, son of Ochran; ²⁷and, over the host of the tribe of the sons of Naphtali, Ahira, son of Enan. ²⁸These, were the settings-forward of the sons of Israel by their hosts,—thus did they set forward. ²⁹Then said Moses to Hobab, son of Raguel the Midianite, father-in-law of Moses: Setting forward, are we unto the place of which Yahweh hath said, The same, will I give unto you,—Oh come with us and we will do thee good, for, Yahweh, hath spoken good, concerning Israel. ³⁰And he said unto him, I will not go,—but unto my own land, and unto my own kindred, will I go. ³¹Then said he: I beseech thee, do not forsake us,—for, on this account, hast thou come to know of our encamping in the desert, so shalt thou be unto us as eyes; ³²and it shall be if thou wilt go with us,—yea it shall be that with the very good wherewith Yahweh shall do us good, will we do good unto thee. ³³So then they went forward, from the mountain of Yahweh, a journey of three days,—and the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, was going before them a journey of three days, to search out for them a resting-place, ³⁴And the cloud of Yahweh, was over them by day,—when they set forward out of the camp. ³⁵And it came to pass when the ark set forward, that Moses said: Arise, O Yahweh! and scattered be thy foes, Let them that hate thee flee before thee; ³⁶But when it rested, he said,—Return, O Yahweh! unto the myriads of the thousands of Israel.

11And it came to pass that when the people were giving themselves up to murmuring, it was grievous in the ears of Yahweh,—so Yahweh hearkened, and kindled was his anger, and the fire of Yahweh burned among them, and consumed the uttermost part of the camp. ²Then did the people make outcry unto Moses,—and Moses prayed unto Yahweh, and the fire sank down. ³So he called the name of that place, Taberah because there burned among them the fire of Yahweh. ⁴Moreover the mixed multitude that was in their midst concealed not their lusting,—and so even the sons of Israel, fell away and wept, and said: Who will grant us to eat flesh? ⁵We remember the fish that we did eat in Egypt, without money,—the cucumbers, and the water-melons, and the leeks and the onions, and the garlick. ⁶But, now, our soul is dried up, there is nothing at all,—unless, unto the manna, we turn our eyes. ⁷Now, the manna, was like coriander seed, and the appearance thereof like the appearance of bdellium, ⁸The people used to go about and pick it up, and grind it with a pair of mill-stones, or pound it in a mortar, and boil it in a pot, and make it into round cakes,—then was the taste thereof like the taste of a sweet cake made with oil. ⁹When the dew came down upon the camp by night, the manna came down thereupon. ¹⁰So then Moses heard the people weeping by their families, every one at the entrance of his tent,—then kindled the anger of Yahweh fiercely, and in the eyes of Moses, it was grievous. ¹¹And Moses said unto Yahweh—Wherefore hast thou let thy servant come to grief, and wherefore have I not found favour in thine eyes,—that thou shouldest lay the burden of all this people upon me. ¹²Did, I, conceive all this people, or, I, beget them,—that thou shouldest say unto me, Carry them in thy bosom, as a nursing father carrieth a suckling, unto the soil which thou didst swear unto their fathers? ¹³Whence should, I, have flesh to give to all this people,—for they keep weeping by me saying, Oh give us flesh that we may eat! ¹⁴Unable, am, I, by myself, to carry all this people,—for they are too heavy for me. ¹⁵But if, in this way, thou art going to deal with me, slay me, I beseech thee, slay, if I have found favour in thine eyes,—and let me not see my grief, ¹⁶Then said Yahweh unto Moses—Gather thou unto me seventy men, from among the elders of Israel, of whom thou knowest that they are elders of the people and their overseers,—then shalt thou take them unto the tent of meeting, and they shall station themselves there with thee. ¹⁷Then will I come down, and speak with thee there, and will take of the spirit that is upon thee and put upon them,—and they shall carry, with thee, the burden of the people, and, thou, shalt not carry it by thyself. ¹⁸And, unto the people, shalt thou say: Hallow yourselves by tomorrow, and ye shall eat flesh, for ye have wept in the ears of Yahweh saying—Who will grant us to eat flesh? for it was well with us in Egypt,—so then Yahweh will give you flesh and ye shall eat. ¹⁹Not one day, shall ye eat nor two days,—nor five days nor ten days, nor twenty days: ²⁰for a month of days until it cometh forth out of your nostrils, so shall it become to you a loathsome thing,—because ye have refused Yahweh who is in your midst, and have wept before him, saying, Wherefore now came we forth out of Egypt? ²¹And Moses said, Six hundred thousand footmen, are the people in whose midst am, I, yet thou hast said—Flesh, will I give unto them, and they shall eat for a month of days. ²²Shall the flocks and herds, be slaughtered for them, that it may suffice for them? Shall all the fishes of the sea, be gathered together unto them that it may suffice for them? ²³Then said Yahweh unto Moses, Shall the hand of Yahweh, fail? Now, shalt thou see whether my word come to pass unto thee or not. ²⁴And Moses went forth and spake unto the people the words of Yahweh,—and gathered together seventy men from among the elders of the people, and caused them to stand round about the tent. ²⁵Then Yahweh came down, in the cloud, and spake unto him, and took of the spirit that was upon him, and gave unto the seventy men—the elders. And it came to pass that when the spirit rested upon them, they prophesied, and then did so no more. ²⁶Now there were two men left behind in the camp—the name of the one, was Eldad and the name of the other, Medad, so then the spirit, rested on them—they, being among them who were written, though they hint not gone forth unto the tent,—but they prophesied in the camp. ²⁷And there ran a young man, and told Moses and said,—Eldad and Medad, are prophesying in the camp! ²⁸Then responded Joshua son of Nun the attendant of Moses from his youth, and said,—My lord Moses forbid them! ²⁹But Moses said unto him, Art, thou, jealous for, me? Oh would that, all the people of Yahweh, were prophets! Yea let Yahweh put his spirit upon them! ³⁰Then was Moses received back into the camp,—he and the elders of Israel. ³¹Now, a wind, had sprung up, from Yahweh, and cut off quails from the sea, and let them lie over the camp—as it were a days journey here and a days journey there, round about the camp,—and as it were two cubits on the face of the land. ³²And the people rose up all that day and all the night and all the next day, and gathered the quails, he that did least, gathered ten homers,—and they spread them out for themselves spreading away, round about the camp. ³³The flesh, was yet between their teeth, not yet chewed,—when the anger of Yahweh, had kindled upon the people, and Yahweh smote the people, with an exceeding great plague. ³⁴And the name of that place was called Kibroth-hattaavah—because there, they buried the people who had lusted, ³⁵From Kibroth-hattaavah, the people set forward to Hazeroth,—and they remained in Hazeroth.

12And Miriam and Aaron spake against Moses, on account of the Cushite woman whom he had taken,—for, a Cushite woman, had he taken. ²And they said: Is it only and solely with Moses, that Yahweh hath spoken? With us also, hath he not spoken? And Yahweh heard it. ³Now, the man Moses, was patient, exceedingly,—above all the sons of earth, who were on the face of the ground. ⁴Then said Yahweh suddenly, unto Moses, and unto Aaron, and unto Miriam, Come out ye three unto the tent of meeting. And they three went out. ⁵Then Yahweh came down in a pillar of cloud, and stood at the entrance of the tent,—and called Aaron and Miriam, and they both went forth. ⁶Then said he Hear, I beseech you my words. When ye have your prophet, As Yahweh in a vision, will I make myself known, unto him; In a dream, will I speak with him. ⁷Not so, my servant Moses,—In all my house, trusty, is he: ⁸Mouth to mouth, do I speak with him And plainly—not in dark sayings, And the form of Yahweh, doth he discern,—Wherefore then, were ye not afraid to speak against my servant—against Moses? ⁹And the anger of Yahweh kindled upon theme and he departed. ¹⁰And, when, the cloud, removed from off the tent,—lo! Miriam, leprous, like snow! And Aaron turned unto Miriam and lo! ...leprous! ¹¹Then said Aaron unto Moses,—Oh my lord, do not I beseech thee lay upon us sin, although we have made ourselves foolish, and although we have sinned. ¹²Let her not, I beseech thee, remain like the still-born,—which when it is born of its mother, the half of its flesh is consumed. ¹³Then Moses made outcry unto Yahweh, saying,—O GOD, I beseech thee grant healing. I beseech thee unto her. ¹⁴And Yahweh said unto Moses: If, her own father, had, but spat, in her face, would she not, have acknowledged the shame for seven days? Let her shut herself up for seven days, outside the camp, and afterwards, let her be received back. ¹⁵So Miriam shut herself up, outside the camp, for seven days,—and, the people, set not forward, until Miriam had been received back. ¹⁶Then afterwards, did the people set forward from Hazeroth, and encamped in the desert of Paran.

¹³Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: ²Send for thee men and let them spy out the land of Canaan, which I am giving unto the sons of Israel,—one man each for the tribe of his fathers, shalt thou send, each one a prince among them. ³So then Moses sent them out of the desert of Paran, at the bidding of Yahweh,—all of them, great men, heads of the seas of Israel, were they. ⁴And, these, are their names,—Of the tribe of Reuben, Shammua, son of Zaccur; ⁵Of the tribe of Simeon, Shaphat, son of Hori; ⁶Of the tribe of Judah, Caleb, son of Jephunneh; ⁷Of the tribe of Issachar, Igal, son of Joseph; ⁸Of the tribe of Ephraim, Hoshea, son of Nun; ⁹Of the tribe of Benjamin, Palti, son of Raphu; ¹⁰Of the tribe of Zebulun, Gaddiel, son of Sodi; ¹¹Of the tribe of Joseph—of the tribe of Manasseh, Gaddi son of Susi; ¹²Of the tribe of Dan, Ammiel, son of Gemalli; ¹³Of the tribe of Asher, Sethur, son of Michael; ¹⁴Of the tribe of Naphtali, Nahbi, son of Vophsi; ¹⁵Of the tribe of Gad, Geuel, son of Machi. ¹⁶These, are the names of the men, whom Moses sent to spy out the land,—but Moses called Hoshea son of Nun, Joshua. ¹⁷So Moses sent them, to spy out the land of Canaan,—and said unto them—Go up, here in the South, Yea ye shall go up the mountain; ¹⁸And shall see the land, what it is,—And the people that dwell thereupon, Whether they are, strong, or weak, Whether they are, few or many; ¹⁹And what, the land, is, wherein they dwell, Whether it is, good, or, bad,—And the cities within which they dwell, Whether in camps or in strongholds; ²⁰And what the land is, Whether, fat, or, lean, Whether there is timber therein or is not, Then shall ye pluck up courage and take of the fruit of the land. Now the days, were the days of the first-fruits of grapes. ²¹So they went up, and spied out the land,—from the wilderness of Zin unto Rehob at the entering in of Hamath. ²²Yea they went up in the South and entered as far as Hebron, and there, were Ahiman Sheshai and Talmai descendants of the Anak. Now, Hebron, was built seven years, before Zoan of Egypt. ²³And they entered as far as the ravine of Eschol, and cut down, from thence a branch with one cluster of grapes, and bare it on a pole between two,—also of the pomegranates and of the figs. ²⁴That place, was called, The Ravine of Eschol—on account of the cluster, which was cut down from thence by the sons of Israel. \fs15 ²⁵And they returned from spying out the land,—at the end of forty days. ²⁶So they took their journey, and came in unto Moses and unto Aaron and unto all the assembly of the sons of Israel into the wilderness of Paran, towards Kadesh,—and brought back word—unto them and unto all the assembly, and showed them the fruit of the land. ²⁷And they recounted unto him, and said, We entered into the land whither thou didst send us, and surely it doth flow with milk and honey, and, this, is the fruit thereof. ²⁸Nevertheless surely mighty, are the people that dwell in the land,—and, the cities, walled in, exceeding great, moreover also, the descendants of the ²⁹Anak, saw we there. Amalek, dwelleth in the land of the South; And, the Hittite, and the Jebusite and the Amorite, dwell in the mountain And the Canaanite, dwelleth by the sea, and by the side of the Jordan. ³⁰And Caleb stilled the people unto Moses,—and said unto them—Let us go straight up, and possess it, for we shall, surely prevail, against it. ³¹But the men who went up with him said, We cannot go up against the people,—for stronger, are they than we. ³²So they sent forth a rumour of the land which they had spied out, among the sons of Israel, saying,—As touching the land through which we passed to spy it out, it is, land that eateth up them who dwell therein, And all the people that we saw in the midst thereof, were men of great stature. ³³And, there, saw we the giants, sons of Anak descended of the giants,—And we were in our own eyes, as grass-hoppers, And, so, were we in their eyes.

¹⁴Then did all the assembly lift up, and give forth their voice,—and the people wept throughout that night. ²And all the sons of Israel, murmured against Moses and against Aaron,—and all the assembly said unto them—Oh that we had died in the land of Egypt, Or in this wilderness, oh that we had died! ³Wherefore then is Yahweh bringing us into this land, to fall by the sword? Our wives and little ones, will become a prey! Would it not be well for us to go back towards Egypt? ⁴And they said, one to another,—Let us appoint a head and let us go back towards Egypt. ⁵Then did Moses and Aaron fall upon their faces,—before all the convocation of the assembly of the sons of Israel. ⁶But, Joshua son of Nun, and Caleb son of Jephunneh, of them who spied out the land, rent their clothes; ⁷and spake unto all the assembly of the sons of Israel, saying,—As for the land through which we passed to spy it out, Good, is the land, exceedingly, ⁸If Yahweh delight in us, then will he bring us into this and, and give it unto us,—A land which doth flow with milk and honey. ⁹Only against Yahweh, do not rebel. Do not, ye, fear the people of the land, For our food, they are,—Their shade hath departed, from over them. And Yahweh is with us, Do not fear them! ¹⁰But when all the assembly bade stone them with stones, the glory of Yahweh, appeared, in the tent of meeting, unto all the sons of Israel. ¹¹Then said Yahweh unto How long! must this people, despise me? And how long can they not believe in me. in view of all the signs which I have done in their midst? ¹²Let me smite them with pestilence, and disinherit them,—And make thee into a nation greater and more mighty than they! ¹³Then said Moses unto Yahweh,—So shall the Egyptians hear, For thou hast brought up. in thy might, this people out of their midst; ¹⁴And will tell it unto the inhabitants of this land: They have heard, That, thou, Yahweh, art in the midst of this people,—That eye to eye, is he seen—thou, Yahweh, And thy cloud, is standing over them, And in a pillar of cloud, thou thyself, art going on before them by day, And in a pillar of fire, by night. ¹⁵As soon, therefore, as thou hast put to death this people as one man, so soon will the nations who have heard thy fame speak saying: ¹⁶Because Yahweh, was not able, to bring in this people into the land which he had sworn unto them, therefore did he slay them in the desert. ¹⁷Now, therefore, I beseech thee let the might of My Lord, be magnified,—according as thou didst speak saying: ¹⁸Yahweh—slow to anger and great in lovingkindness, Forgiving iniquity and transgression: Though he will not leave, wholly unpunished, Visiting the iniquity of fathers upon sons, Upon a third generation, and upon a fourth. ¹⁹Pardon I beseech thee, the iniquity of this people, According to the greatness of thy lovingkindness,—And according as thou hast forgiven this people, from Egypt even thus far. ²⁰And Yahweh said, I have pardoned according to thy word; ²¹Nevertheless as I live,—and that all the earth may be filled with the glory of Yahweh, ²²Verily, none of the men who have been beholding my glory and my signs, which I have done in Egypt and in the desert,—and have put me to the proof these ten times, and have not hearkened unto my voice, ²³shall see the land, which I swear to their fathers,—yea, none of my despisers, shall see it. ²⁴But my servant Caleb—because there was another spirit with him, and he followed me fully, therefore will I bring him into the land whereinto he entered, and his seed, shall possess it. ²⁵Now the Amalekites and the Canaanites, are dwelling in the valley,—to-morrow, turn ye away; and set yourselves forward towards the desert by the way of the Red Sea. ²⁶Then spake Yahweh unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying: ²⁷How long, as regardeth this evil assembly, re they to be murmuring against me? The murmuring of the sons of Israel which, they, have been murmuring against me, have I heard, ²⁸Say unto them: As I live, is the oracle of Yahweh: Surely as ye have spoken in mine ears, so, will I do unto you:— ²⁹In this desert, shall your dead bodies fall And none of you who were numbered in all your counting, from twenty years old and upwards,—who have murmured against me, ³⁰none of you, shall enter into the land, as to which I uplifted my hand to give you an abode therein,—save Caleb son of Jephunneh, and Joshua, son of Nun: ³¹whereas, your little ones, of whom ye said, they should become, a prey, I will bring them in, and they shall acknowledge the land which ye refused. ³²But, your own dead bodies, shall fall in this desert; ³³and your sons, shall be shepherds in the desert forty years, and shall bear your unchastities,—until your dead bodies are consumed in the desert. ³⁴By the number of the days wherein ye spied out the land—forty days, each day for a year, shall they bear your iniquities—forty years,—so shall ye know my opposition. ³⁵I—Yahweh, have spoken, Verily this, will I do to all this evil assembly, who have conspired against me,—In this desert, shall they be consumed And there, shall they die. ³⁶Now as for the men whom Moses sent to spy out the land,—who returned and caused all the assembly to murmur against him by giving out rumour against the land, ³⁷they died—the men who gave out an evil rumor of the land,—by the plague, before Yahweh. ³⁸But, Joshua son of Nun, and Caleb son of Jephunneh! remained alive—of those men who went to spy out the land. ³⁹And Moses spake these words unto all the sons of Israel, and the people were greatly depressed. ⁴⁰So they arose early in the morning, and went up into the top of the mountain, saying,—We are here—therefore will we go up into the place as to which Yahweh hath said that we have sinned. ⁴¹But Moses said, Wherefore is it that, ye, are going beyond the bidding of Yahweh,—since that cannot prosper? ⁴²Do not go up, For Yahweh is not in your midst,—Lest ye be smitten down before your enemies. ⁴³For, the Amalekites and the Canaanites, are there before you, So shall ye fall by the sword,—For inasmuch as ye have turned back from following Yahweh, Therefore will Yahweh not be with you. ⁴⁴But they presumptuously ascended into the top of the mountain,—though, neither, the ark of the covenant of Yahweh nor Mosses moved out of the midst of the camp. ⁴⁵So ten the Amalekites and the Canaanites, that dwelt in that mountain, came down,—and smote them and routed them even unto Hormah.

15Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: ²Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shall say unto them,—When ye shall enter into the land of your dwelling-places, which, I, am giving unto you; ³and ye would offer, as an altar-flame unto Yahweh an ascending-offering or a sacrifice, for celebrating a vow or as a freewill-offering, or in your appointed seasons,—by way of offering a satisfying odour unto Yahweh, from the herd or from the flock, ⁴then shall he that bringeth near his oblation bring near unto Yahweh a meal-offering, of fine meal a tenth part of an ephah overflowed with the fourth part of a hin of oil; ⁵wine also for a drink-offering, the fourth part of a bin, shalt thou offer with the ascending-offering or with the sacrifice,—for each he-lamb. ⁶Or, with a ram, thou shalt offer a meal-offering, of fine meal, two tenths,—overflowed with oil, the third of a hin; ⁷wine also, for a drink-offering, the third of a hin, shalt thou bring near as a satisfying odour unto Yahweh. ⁸And when thou wouldest offer a choice young bullock as an ascending-offering or sacrifice,—for celebrating a vow or as a peace-offering unto Yahweh, ⁹then shall he bring near with his choice young bullock, a meal-offering, of fine meal three tenths,—overflowed with half a hin of oil; ¹⁰wine also, shalt thou bring near for a drink-offering, half a hin,—for an altar-flame of satisfying odour unto Yahweh. ¹¹Thus and thus, shall it be done, for each ox, and for each ram,—and for each young one among the sheep, or among the goats: ¹²according to the number which ye shall offer, thus and thus, shall ye do for each one according to their number. ¹³Every one born in the land, thus and thus, shall offer these things,—when bringing near an altar-flame of a satisfying odour unto Yahweh. ¹⁴And when there shall sojourn with you a sojourner, or one who is in your midst to your generations, and he would offer an altar-flame of a satisfying odour unto Yahweh, as ye offer, so, shall he offer, ¹⁵In the convocation, one statute, shall there be for you and for the sojourner who sojourneth,—an age-abiding statute unto your generations, as ye are, so, the sojourner, shall be before Yahweh: ¹⁶one law and one regulation, shall there be for yourselves and for the sojourner that sojourneth with you. ¹⁷Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: ¹⁸Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,—When ye enter into the land whereinto I, am bringing you, ¹⁹then shall it be, when ye eat the bread of the land, that ye shall heave up a heave-offering unto Yahweh. ²⁰Of the first of your meal, shall ye heave up, a cake, as a heave-offering,—like the heave-offering of grain, so shall ye heave it. ²¹Of the first of your meal, shall ye give unto Yahweh a heave-offering,—unto your generations. ²²And when ye shall make a mistake, and not observe all these commandments,—which Yahweh hath spoken unto Moses; ²³even all that Yahweh hath given unto you in command, by the hand of Moses,—from the day that Yahweh gave command, and onward unto your generations, ²⁴then shall it be—if, any from the eyes of the assembly, it hath been done by mistake, that all the assembly shall offer one choice young bullock for an ascending-sacrifice as a satisfying odour unto Yahweh, with the meal-offering thereof and the drink-offering thereof, according to the regulation,—and one young he-goat as a sin-bearer. ²⁵So shall the priest put a propitiatory, covering over all the assembly of the sons of Israel and pardon shall be granted unto them,—because a mistake, it was, they, therefore have brought in their offering—an altar-flame unto Yahweh and their sin-bearer before Yahweh for their mistake: ²⁶and pardon shall be granted unto all the assembly of the sons of Israel and unto the sojourner that sojourneth in their midst,—for, in the case of all the people, it was, by mistake. ²⁷And if, any one person, shall sin by mistake, then shall he bring near

a she-goat of the first year as a sin-bearer; ²⁸and the priest shall put a propitiatory-covering over the person who hath made the mistake, when he hath sinned by mistake before Yahweh, even put a propitiatory-covering over him, and pardon shall be granted him. ²⁹For the native born among the sons of Israel, and for the sojourner that sojourneth in their midst, one law, shall there be unto you—for acting by mistake. ³⁰But, as for the person who acteth with a high hand—of the native born or of the sojourners, Yahweh himself, he, reproacheth,—therefore shall that person ³¹be cut off out of the midst of his people. Because the word of Yahweh, hath he despised, and his commandment, hath he broken, that person shall be surely cut off, his iniquity, is in himself. ³²While the sons of Israel were in the desert, they found a man gathering sticks on the sabbath day. ³³And they who found him gathering sticks, brought him near, unto Moses and unto Aaron and unto all the assembly. ³⁴And they put him in ward,—because it was not clear what they should do unto him. ³⁵Then said Yahweh unto Moses, The man shall be, put to death,—all the assembly, stoning him with stones, outside the camp. ³⁶So then all the assembly, put him forth, outside the camp, and stoned him with stones, and he died,—As Yahweh commanded Moses. ³⁷And Yahweh spake unto Moses saying: ³⁸Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them, That they shall make them fringes on the corners of their garments unto their generations—and shall put upon the fringe of the corner a cord of blue: ³⁹so shall they serve you as fringes, and when ye see then, then shall ye call to mind all the commandments of Yahweh, and shall do them,—and shall not spy out, after your own hearts, and after your own eyes for things, after which, ye, are ready to go unchastely away: ⁴⁰to the intent ye may call to mind, and do all my commandments, and be holy unto your God. ⁴¹I—Yahweh, am your God—who brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, to become your God,—I,—Yahweh, am your God.

¹⁶Then took Korah, son of Izhar son of Kohath son of Levi,—and Dathan and Abiram sons of Eliab, and On, son of Peleth sons of Reuben; ²and rose up before Moses, with certain men of the sons of Israel, two hundred and fifty,—princes of assembly, called to the stated meeting, men of renown; ³and gathered themselves together against Moses and against Aaron and said unto them Too much for you, when, all the assembly, are, all of them, holy, and in the midst of them, is Yahweh,—Wherefore, then, should ye set yourselves up, above the convocation of Yahweh? ⁴And, when Moses heard it, he fell upon his face. ⁵Then spake he unto Korah, and unto all his assembly, saying, In the morning, will Yahweh make known who are his, and who is the holy one and will cause him to come near unto himself,—yea him whom he shall choose, will he cause to come near unto himself. ⁶This do,—Take to you censers,

Korah and all his assembly; ⁷and place therein fire, and put thereon incense before Yahweh, to-morrow, So shall it be—that, the man whom Yahweh shall choose, he shall be the holy one. Too much for you ye sons of Levi! ⁸And Moses said unto Korah,—Hear, I pray you, ye sons of Levi! ⁹Is it too small a thing for you that the God of Israel hath separated you from the assembly of Israel, to bring you near unto himself,—to do the laborious work of the habitation of Yahweh, and to stand before the assembly, to wait upon them? ¹⁰But having brought thee near, and all thy brethren the sons of Levi with thee, must ye seek priesthood also? ¹¹Wherefore thou and all thine assembly, are conspiring against Yahweh,—But Aaron, what is he, that ye should murmur against him? ¹²Then sent Moses, to call for Dathan and for Abiram sons of Eliab,—and they said We will not come up: ¹³Was it, a small thing, that thou didst bring us up out of land flowing with milk and honey, to put us to death in the desert but thou must, continue even to lord it, over us? ¹⁴Certainly not into a land flowing with milk and honey, hast thou brought us, nor given unto us an inheritance of field and vineyard,—The eyes of those men, wilt thou dig out? We will not come up. ¹⁵Then was Moses very angry, and he said unto Yahweh, Do not thou have respect unto their meal-offering. Not one ass, from them, have I taken, neither have I wronged one of them. ¹⁶And Moses said unto Korah, Thou, and all thine assembly, come ye before Yahweh,—thou, and they, and Aaron to-morrow. ¹⁷And take ye each man his censer and put thereon incense, then shall ye bring near before Yahweh, each man his censer, two hundred and fifty Censers,—and, thou and Aaron, each man his censer. ¹⁸So they took each man his censer and put thereon fire, and placed thereon incense,—and took their stand at the entrance of the tent of meeting with Moses and Aaron. ¹⁹And Korah gathered together against them all the assembly, unto the entrance of the tent of meeting,—then appeared the glory of Yahweh, unto all the assembly. ²⁰Then spake Yahweh unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying: ²¹Separate yourselves out of the midst of this assembly,—that I may consume them in a moment. ²²And they fell upon their faces and said, O GOD, the God of the spirits of all flesh,—shall, one man, sin, and against all the assembly, wilt thou be wroth. ²³And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying, ²⁴Speak unto the assembly, saying,—Get ye up from round about the habitation of Korah, Dathan and Abiram. ²⁵So Moses rose up, and went, unto Dathan and Abiram,—then went, after him the eiders of Israel. ²⁶And he spake unto the assembly, saying—Remove I pray you from beside the tents of these lawless men, and do not touch aught that pertaineth unto them,—lest ye be carried off, in all their sins. ²⁷So they went up from beside the habitation of Korah, Dathan and Abiram on every side,—and, Dathan and Abiram, came out and stationed themselves at the entrance of their tents, with their wives and their sons and their little ones. ²⁸Then said Moses, Hereby, shall ye know, that, Yahweh hath sent me, to do all these works,—verily, not out of my own heart: ²⁹If, as all human beings die, these do die, and the visitation of all human beings, be visited upon them, Yahweh, hath not sent me. ³⁰But, if, a cremation, Yahweh create, and the ground open wide her mouth and swallow them up, with all that pertain unto them, and so they go down alive unto hades, then shall ye know, that these men have despised Yahweh. ³¹And it came to pass as he made an end of speaking all these words, that the ground which was under them, clave asunder; ³²and the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed up them, and their households,—and all the human beings who pertained unto Korah, with all their goods: ³³so, they, and all that pertained unto them, went down, alive unto hades,—and the earth, closed pen them, and they perished out of the midst of the convocation. ³⁴And, all Israel who were round about them, fled at their cry,—for they said, Lest the earth swallow us up. ³⁵Fire also came forth, from Yahweh,—and consumed the two hundred and fifty men, who offered the incense. ³⁶Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: ³⁷Say unto Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest, that he take up the censers out of the midst of the burning, and the fire, scatter thou yonder,—for they have been hallowed. ³⁸As for the censers of these sinners against their own persons, they shall be made into beaten-out plates as an overlay for the altar, for hey had brought them near before Yahweh and hallowed them,—so shall they become a sign unto the sons of Israel. ³⁹And Eleazar the priest took the censers of bronze, which the consumed men had brought near,—and heat them out into plates for overlaying the altar: ⁴⁰a memorial unto the sons of Israel, That no stranger, who is not of the seed of Aaron, shall draw near to offer incense before Yahweh,—lest he become like Korah and like his assembly, As spake Yahweh by the hand of Moses with regard thereto. ⁴¹And all the assembly of the sons of Israel murmured, on the morrow, against Moses and against, Aaron, saying,—Ye, have caused the death of the people of Yahweh. ⁴²And it came to pass, when the assembly gathered themselves together against Moses and against Aaron, that they turned towards the tent of meeting, and lo! the cloud had covered it: and the glory of Yahweh, appeared. ⁴³And Moses and Aaron came in, before the tent of meeting. ⁴⁴Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: ⁴⁵Lift yourselves up out of the midst of this assembly, that I may consume them, as in a moment,—And they fell upon their faces. ⁴⁶Then said Moses unto Aaron—Take the censer and place thereon fire, from off the altar, and put incense thereon, and, going quickly into the assembly, put a propitiatory-covering over them,—for wrath hath gone forth from before Yahweh the plague, hath begun. ⁴⁷Then took Aaron, as Moses spake, and ran into the midst of the convocation, and lo! the plague had begun among the people,—so he placed the incense, and put a propitiatory-covering over the people: ⁴⁸thus did he take his stand between the dead and the living,—and the plague was restrained. ⁴⁹And so it was that they who died in the plague were fourteen thousand and seven hundred,—besides them who died over the matter of Korah. ⁵⁰And Aaron returned unto Moses, unto the entrance of the tent of meeting,—when, the plague, had been restrained.

17Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: ²Speak unto the sons of Israel and take of them one staff each for an ancestral house of all their princes, by their ancestral houses, twelve staves,—each man's name, shalt thou write upon his staff; ³and, Aaron's name, shalt thou write upon the staff of Levi,—for, one staff, shall there be for the head of their ancestral house. ⁴Then shalt thou lay them up in the tent of meeting,—before the testimony, where I meet with you. ⁵So shall it come to pass, that, the man whom I shall choose, his staff, shall bud,—so will I cause to cease from against me the murmurings of the sons of Israel, wherewith they, are murmuring against you. ⁶And Moses spake unto the sons of Israel and every one of their princes gave unto him, a staff apiece, for each prince, by their ancestral houses, twelve staves,—and the staff of Aaron, was in the midst of their staves. ⁷So Moses laid up the staves before Yahweh,—in the tent of the testimony. ⁸And it came to pass, on the morrow, that Moses entered into the tent of the testimony; and lo! the staff of Aaron for the house of Levi, had budded,—yea it had brought forth buds and bloomed blossoms, and borne ripe almonds. ⁹So then Moses brought forth all the staves, from before Yahweh, unto all the sons of Israel,—and they saw and took, each man his own staff. ¹⁰And Yahweh said unto Moses—Put back the rod of Aaron, before the testimony, to be kept as a sign unto such as are perverse,—that thou mayest bring to an end their murmurings against me that they die not. ¹¹Thus did Moses,—as Yahweh commanded him, so, did he. ¹²Then spake the sons of Israel unto Moses saying: Lo! we have breathed our last—we are lost, we are, all, lost: ¹³whosoever draweth near—draweth near—unto the habitation of Yahweh, dieth,—are we ever to have made an end of breathing our last?

18And Yahweh said unto Aaron, Thou and thy sons and the house of thy father with thee, shall bear the iniquity of the sanctuary,—and, thou, and thy sons with thee, shall bear the iniquity of your priesthood. ²Therefore also thy brethren of the tribe of Levi the stem of thy father, bring thou near with thee, and let them be joined unto thee, and let them wait upon thee,—both on thee and on thy sons with thee, before the tent of the testimony. ³So shall they keep thy charge, and the charge of all the tent,—only, unto the vessels of the sanctuary, and unto the altar, shall they not come near, lest they die—both they, and ye. ⁴So shall they be joined unto thee, and shall keep the charge of the tent of meeting, as to all the laborious work of the tent,—but a stranger, shall not come near unto you. ⁵So shall ye keep the charge of the sanctuary, and the charge of the altar,—that there no more be wrath against the sons of Israel. ⁶I, therefore, lo! I have taken your brethren the Levites, out of the midst of the sons of Israel,—unto you, as a gift are they given, unto Yahweh, to do the laborious work of the tent of meeting. ⁷But thou and thy sons with thee, shall keep the charge of your priesthood, as to every matter of the altar and as to the interior of the veil, and shall do the laborious work, as a laborious service of gifts, do I give your priesthood, and, the stranger who cometh near shall be put to death. ⁸And Yahweh spake unto Aaron, I, therefore, lo! I have given unto thee the charge of my heave-offerings,—as to all the hallowed things of the sons of Israel—unto thee, have I given them. as pertaining to the anointing, and unto thy sons. for a statute age-abiding, ⁹This, shall be thine, out of the things most holy, out of the fire,—their every oblation—to the extent of their every meal-offering, and their every sin-bearer, and their every guilt-bearer wherewith they make amends unto me, most holy unto thee, shall it be and unto thy sons. ¹⁰As something most holy, shall ye eat it,—every male, shall eat it, holy, shall it be unto thee. ¹¹This, therefore, shall be thine—the heave-offering of their gift even all the wave-offerings of the sons of Israel, unto thee, have I given them and unto thy sons and unto thy daughters with thee by a statute age-abiding,—every one that is clean in thy house, shall eat it. ¹²All the best of oil, and all the best of new-wine and corn,—the firstfruits thereof which they shall give unto Yahweh, unto thee, have I given them. ¹³The firstfruits of all that is in their land which they shall bring in unto Yahweh, thine, shall it be,—every one that is clean in thy house, shall eat it: ¹⁴every devoted thing in Israel, thine, shall it be: ¹⁵every thing that is born first of all flesh that may be offered unto Yahweh among men and among beasts, shall be thine,—only thou shalt, redeem, the firstborn of men, and the firstborn of unclean beasts, shalt thou redeem. ¹⁶And, as to the redemption price thereof, from a month old, shalt thou redeem, by thine estimate five shekels of silver by the shekel of the sanctuary,—twenty gerahs, it is. ¹⁷Only a firstling ox or a firstling sheep or a firstling goat, shalt thou not redeem, hallowed, they are,—their blood, shalt thou dash against the altar and of their fat, shalt thou make a perfume, an altar-flame, for a satisfying odour unto Yahweh: ¹⁸and their flesh, shall be thine,—as the wave-breast and as the right leg, thine, shall it be: ¹⁹all the heave-offerings of the holy things which the sons of Israel shall heave up unto Yahweh, have I given unto thee and unto thy sons and unto thy daughters with thee by a statute age-abiding,—an age-abiding covenant of salt, it is before Yahweh, for thee and for thy seed with thee. ²⁰Then said Yahweh unto Aaron: In their land, thou shalt have no inheritance, and no allotted portion, shalt thou have in their midst,—I, am thine allotted portion and thine inheritance in the midst of the sons of Israel. ²¹And unto the sons of Levi, lo! I have given all the tenth in Israel for an inheritance,—the allotted portion for their laborious work which, they are performing, the laborious work of the tent of meeting: ²²that the sons of Israel come near no more, unto the tent of meeting,—to bear sin, to die. ²³So shall the Levites themselves perform the laborious work of the tent of meeting, and, they, shall bear their iniquity, a statute age-abiding, unto your generations, and in the midst of the sons of Israel, shall they take no inheritance. ²⁴Because the tenth of the sons of Israel which they shall offer up unto Yahweh as a heave-offering, have I given unto the Levites as an inheritance,—for this cause, said I regarding them, In the midst of the sons of Israel, shall they take no inheritance. ²⁵Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: ²⁶Unto the Levites, therefore shalt thou speak and shalt say unto them, When ye shall take of the sons of Israel the tenth which I have given unto you from them as your inheritance, then shall ye offer up therefrom the heave-offering of Yahweh, a tenth of the tenth. ²⁷shall your heave-offering be reckoned your own,—as corn out of the threshing-floor, and as the abundance out of the wine-press. ²⁸Thus, shall ye also, offer up the heave-offering of Yahweh, out of all your tenths which ye shall take from the sons of Israel,—and give therefrom the heave-offering of Yahweh, unto Aaron the priest. ²⁹Out of all your gifts, shall ye offer up every b heave-offering of Yahweh,—out of all the best thereof, the hallowed part thereof out of it. ³⁰And thou shalt say unto them,—When ye offer the best thereof out of it, then shall it be reckoned to belong unto the Levites, as the increase of the threshing-floor and as the increase of the wine-press, ³¹And ye shall eat it in any place, ye, and your household,—for a reward, it is unto you, the allotted portion for your laborious work in the tent of meeting. ³²And ye shall not by reason of it bear sin, when ye offer up the best thereof, out of it; and the hallowed things of the sons of Israel, shall ye not profane neither shall ye die.

19And Yahweh spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying: ²This, is the statute of the law, which Yahweh hath commanded, saying,—Speak unto the sons of Israel—That they bring unto thee a red heifer, without defect wherein is no blemish, and whereupon hath come no yoke. ³Then shall ye give her unto Eleazar the priest, and he shall take her forth unto the outside of the camp, and she shall be slain before him; ⁴and Eleazar the priest shall take of her blood with his finger,—and shall sprinkle towards the front of the tent of meeting: of her blood, seven times; ⁵and the heifer shall be burned up before his eyes,—her skin, and her flesh, and her blood, with her dung shall be burned up. ⁶Then shall the priest take cedar-wood and hyssop and

crimson,—and east lute the midst of the burning up of the heifer. ⁷And the priest shall wash his clothes and bathe his flesh in water, and afterwards come into the camp,—but the priest shall be unclean until the evening, ⁸And, he that burneth her, shall wash his clothes in water, and bathe his flesh in water,—and be unclean until the evening, ⁹Then shall a man that is clean gather up the ashes of the heifer, and put them by, outside the camp, in a clean place,—so shall they be for the assembly of the sons of Israel to keep for water of separation it is a taking away of sin. ¹⁰Then shall he that gathered up the ashes wash his clothes, and be unclean until the evening,—so shall it be for the sons of Israel and for the sojourner that sojourneth in your midst by a statute age-abiding. ¹¹He that toucheth the dead, even any human person, shall be unclean seven days. ¹²He, shall cleanse himself from sin therewith on the third day, then on the seventh day, shall he be clean,—but if he cleanse not himself from sin on the third day, then on the seventh day, shall he not be clean, ¹³Whoso-ever toucheth the dead the person of the human being that dieth and doth not cleanse himself from sin, the habitation of Yahweh, hath he made unclean; that person therefore shall be cut off out of Israel,—because, the water of separation, was not dashed upon him, unclean, shall he be, his uncleanness is yet upon him. ¹⁴This, is the law—When, a human being, shall die in a tent, every one who goeth into the tent and every one who is in the tent shall be unclean seven days. ¹⁵And, in the case of every open vessel, on which no cover is fastened, unclean, it is. ¹⁶And, whoso-ever toucheth on the face of the field, one slain with a sword, or one who hath died, or a human bone or a grave, shall be unclean seven days. ¹⁷And they shall take, for him that is un-clean, of the ashes of the burning of the sin-bearer,—and living water shall be put thereon in a vessel, ¹⁸Then shall a man that is clean take hyssop, and dip in the water, and sprinkle upon the tent, and upon all the vessels, and upon the persons who were there,—and upon him that touched the bone or him who had been slain, or him who had died of himself or the grave; ¹⁹and the clean person shall sprinkle upon the unclean, on the third day, and on the seventh day,—so shall he cleanse himself from sin, on the seventh day, and shall wash his clothes, and bathe in water and be clean in the evening. ²⁰But in the ease of the man who shall be unclean and shall not cleanse himself from sin, that person shall be cut off, out of the midst of the convocation,—for, the sanctuary of Yahweh, hath he made unclean, the water of separation, hath not been dashed upon him unclean, he is. ²¹So shall it be unto them for statute age-abiding,—and, he that sprinkleth the water of separation, shall wash his clothes, and he that toucheth the water of separation shall be unclean until the evening; ²²and, whatsoever the unclean person toucheth, shall be unclean,—and the person who toucheth it shall be unclean until the evening.

²⁰Then came the sons of Israel the whole assembly, into the desert of Zin in the first month, and the people dwelt in Kadesh,—and Miriam died there, and was buried there. ²And there was no water for the assembly,—so they gathered together against Moses and against Aaron. ³And the people contended with Moses,—and spake saying, Would then we had died a when our brethren died, before Yahweh! ⁴Wherefore then hast thou brought the convocation of Yahweh into this desert,—to die there, we, and our cattle? ⁵And wherefore did ye cause us to come up out of Egypt, to bring us into this wretched place?—not a place of seeds, and figs, and vines and pomegranates, even water, is there none to drink. ⁶And Moses and Aaron went in from the presence of the multitude unto the entrance of the tent of meeting, and fell upon their faces,—and the glory of Yahweh appeared unto them. ⁷Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: ⁸Take the staff and gather together the assembly, thou, and Aaron thy brother, then shall ye speak unto the cliff before their eyes and it shall give forth it waters,—so shalt thou bring forth unto them water, out of the cliff, and shalt cause the assembly, and their cattle to drink. ⁹And Moses took the staff from before Yahweh,—as he commanded him. ¹⁰And Moses and Aaron gathered together the convocation before the cliff,—and he said unto them: Hear I pray you ye rebels! Out of this cliff, must we bring forth for you water? ¹¹And Moses lifted high his hand and smote the cliff with his staff, twice,—and there came forth water in abundance, and the assembly and their cattle, did drink. ¹²Then said Yahweh unto Moses and unto Aaron, Because ye believed not in me, to hallow me in the eyes of the sons of Israel, therefore, shall ye not bring in this convocation into the land which I have given unto them. ¹³The same, were the waters of Meribah \u01 that is "Contention" \u00 in that the sons of Israel contended with Yahweh,—and so he hallowed himself among them. ¹⁴And Moses sent messengers from Kadesh, unto the king of Edom,—Thus, saith thy brother Israel, Thou thyself, knowest all the distress which befell us; ¹⁵and how our fathers went down to Egypt, and we abode in Egypt, many days, and that the Egyptians ill-treated us, and our fathers; ¹⁶and we made outcry unto Yahweh, and he heard our voice, and sent a messenger, and brought us forth out of Egypt,—lo! then, we, are in Kadesh, a city at the extremity of thy boundary, ¹⁷Let us, we pray thee, pass through thy land—we will not pass through field or vineyard, nor will we drink the waters of a well,—by the kings road, will we go—we will turn neither to the right hand nor to the left, until we get through thy boundary. ¹⁸And Edom said unto him, Thou shalt not pass through my land,—lest with the sword, I come out to meet thee. ¹⁹And the sons of Israel said unto him—By the highway, will we go up, and if thy waters, we should drink—I, and my cattle then would I give the price thereof,—only—it is nothing!—with my feet, would I pass through. ²⁰And he said, Thou shalt not pass through. And Edom came out to meet him, with a strong people, and with a firm hand. ²¹Thus did Edom refuse to give Israel passage through his boundary,—and Israel turned away from him. ²²Then set they forward from Kadesh,—and the sons of Israel, all the assembly, came in to Mount Hor. ²³Then spake Yahweh unto Moses and unto Aaron in Mount Hor,—near the boundary of the land of Edom saying: ²⁴Aaron shall be withdrawn unto his kinsfolk, for he shall not enter into the land, which I have given unto the sons of Israel,—because ye spurned my bidding, at the waters of Meribah. ²⁵Take thou Aaron, and Eleazar his son,—and bring them up Mount Hor; ²⁶and strip thou Aaron of his garments, and put them upon Eleazar his son,—and, Aaron, shall be withdrawn and shall lie there. ²⁷And Moses did as Yahweh commanded,—and they went up into, Mount Hor, in sight of all the assembly. ²⁸And Moses stripped Aaron of his garments and put them upon Eleazar his son, and Aaron died there, in the top of the mount,—and Moses and Eleazar came down out of the mount. ²⁹And all the assembly saw that Aaron was dead; and they bewailed Aaron thirty days, even all the house of Israel.

²¹And the Canaanite, the king of Arad who dwelt in the South, heard that Israel had entered by the way of Atharim,—so he made war with Israel, and took some of them captive. ²Then Israel vowed vow unto Yahweh, and said,—If thou wilt, surely deliver up, this people into my band, then will I utterly destroy their cities. ³And Yahweh hearkened unto the voice of Israel and delivered up the Canaanite into his hand, so he utterly destroyed them, and their cities, and called the name of the place Hormah that is, Utter Destruction. ⁴Then brake they up from Mount Hor, by way of the Red Sea, to go round the land of Edom,—and the soul of the people became impatient because of the way, ⁵So then the people spake against God and against Moses, Wherefore have ye brought us up out of Egypt, to die in the desert? for there is neither bread nor water, and our soul, doth loathe this contemptible bread! ⁶And Yahweh sent among the people the poisonous serpents, and they bit the people,—and much people out of Israel died. ⁷Then tamed the people of Israel unto Moses and said—We have sinned in that we spake against Yahweh and against thee, Pray thou unto Yahweh, that he may take from us the serpent. So Moses prayed for the people. ⁸Then said Yahweh unto Moses—Make thee a like serpent, and put it upon standard,—and it shall come to pass, that, any one who is bitten, as soon as he seeth it, shall live. ⁹So Moses made a serpent of bronze, and put it upon the standard,—and it came to pass—that if the serpent had bitten any man, as soon as he directed his look unto the serpent of bronze, he lived. ¹⁰And the sons of Israel brake up,—and encamped in Oboth. ¹¹And they brake up from Oboth,—and encamped in Ije-Abarim, in the desert which is over against Moab, towards the rising of the sun. ¹²From thence, brake they up,—and encamped in the ravine of Zered. ¹³From thence, brake they up, and encamped on the other side of Arnon which is in the desert, that cometh forth out of the boundary of the Amorites,—for, Arnon, is the boundary of Moab, between Moab and the Amorites. ¹⁴For this cause is it said, in the Book of the Wars of Yahweh,— ...Waheb with a hurricane, And the ravines of Arnon; ¹⁵And the bottom of the ravines, that extendeth toward the dwelling of Ar,—And adjoineth to the boundary of Moab, ¹⁶And from thence, towards Beer,—the same, is the well whereof Yahweh said unto Moses, Gather together the people, that I may give them water. ¹⁷Then, sang Israel this song,—Spring thou up, O well! Respond ye thereunto; ¹⁸A well!—princes digged it, Nobles of the people, delved it, With a sceptre, With their staves. And, from the desert, to Mattanah; ¹⁹and from Mattanah, to Nahaliel; and from Nahaliel, to Bamoth; ²⁰and, from Bamoth of the valley, which is in the field-country of Moab, to the top of Pisgah,—which overlooketh Jeshimon. ²¹Then sent Israel messengers, unto Sihon king of the Amorites, saying: ²²Let me pass through thy land we will not turn aside into field or into vineyard, nor will we drink the water of a well,—by the kings road, will we go, until we get through thy boundary. ²³And Sihon suffered not Israel to pass through his boundary, but Sihon gathered together all his people, and came forth to meet Israel, towards the desert, and entered Jahaz, and fought with Israel. ²⁴And Israel smote him with the edge of the sword,—and took possession of his land, from Arnon unto Jabbok, unto the sons of Ammon, for strong, was the boundary of the sons of Ammon. ²⁵So Israel took all these cities,—and Israel dwelt in all the cities of the Amorites, in Heshbon and in all her villages; ²⁶for, as for Heshbon, the city of Sihon king of the Amorites, it was, he, having fought with the former king of Moab, and taken all his land out of his hand, unto Arnon. ²⁷For this cause, say the poets—Enter ye Heshbon,—Built and prepared be the city of Sihon; ²⁸For, a fire, hath come forth out of Heshbon, A flame, out of the stronghold of Sihon; It hath consumed Ar of Moab, The lords of the high places of Arnon. ²⁹Woe to thee, Moab, Thou art lost, O people of Chemosh,—He hath given up his sons as fugitives, And his daughters into captivity, Unto the king of the Amorites, Sihon. ³⁰Then we shot them—Heshbon is destroyed, as far as Dibon,—Then laid we waste as far as Nophah, A fire reacheth unto Medeba. ³¹So then Israel dwelt in the land of the Amorites. ³²And Moses sent to spy out Jazer, and they captured the villages thereof,—and dispossessed the Amorites that were there. ³³Then turned they, and went up by the way of Bashan,—and Og, king of Bashan, came forth to meet them—he and all his people, to give battle at Edrei. ³⁴Then said Yahweh unto Moses—Do not fear him, for into thy hand, have I delivered him and all his people, and his land,—Therefore shalt thou do unto him, as thou didst unto Sihon king of the Amorites, who was dwelling in Heshbon. ³⁵So then they smote him and his sons and all his people, until there was not left him a remnant,—and took possession of his land.

22Then did the sons of Israel break up,—and encamp in the waste plains of Moab, on the other side of the Jordan by Jericho. ²And Balak son of Zipper saw all that Israel had done unto the Amorites; ³and Moab shrank with great fear from the presence of the people because, many, they were,—and Moab was alarmed at the presence of the sons of Israel. ⁴So Moab said unto the elders of Midian—Now, shall the gathered host lick up all that are round about us, as the ox doth lick up the verdure of the field. But, Balak son of Zippor, was king unto Moab at that time. ⁵So he sent messengers unto Balaam son of Boor, to Pethor which was by the river of the land of the sons of his people to call him,—saying Lo! a people, hath come forth out of Egypt Lo! he hath covered the eye of the land, Yea he, is tarrying over against me. ⁶Now, therefore, do come, I pray thee curse me this people. For stronger, he is than I, If peradventure I prevail, we shall smite him, That I may drive him out of the land,—For I know that, he whom thou dost bless, is to be blessed, And the whom thou dost curse, is to be cursed. ⁷And the elders of Moab and the elders of Midian went their way, with the rewards of divination in their hand,—so they came in unto Balaam, and spake unto him the words of Balak. ⁸And he said unto them—Tarry ye here for the night, and I will bring you back word, as Yahweh shall speak unto me. So the princes of Moab abode with Balaam. ⁹And God came in unto Balaam,—and said, Who are these men with thee? ¹⁰Then said Balaam unto God,—Balak, son of Zipper king of Moab, hath sent unto me: ¹¹Lo! the people that hath come forth out of Egypt—he covereth the eye of the land. Now, do come, do revile me him, Peradventure I shall prevail in making war with him, And shall drive him out. ¹²And God said unto Balaam, Thou shalt not go with them,—Thou shalt not curse the people, For blessed, he is. ¹³And Balaam rose up in the morning, and said unto the princes of Balak, Get you into your own land,—For Yahweh hath refused to let me go with you. ¹⁴So the princes of Moab arose, and came in unto Balak,—and said, Balaam refused to come with us. ¹⁵Then added Balak again,—to send princes, more and weightier than these. ¹⁶And they came in unto Balaam,—and said unto him—Thus, said Balak son of Zipper, Do not be withheld, I pray thee from coming unto me: ¹⁷For I will honour, thee, exceedingly, and all that thou shalt say unto me, will I do. Do come therefore I pray thee oh revile me this people. ¹⁸And Balaam responded and said unto the servants of Balak, Though Balak would give me his house full of silver and gold, I could not go beyond the bidding of Yahweh my God, to do less or more. ¹⁹Now, therefore abide here, I pray you even ye,—for the night,—that I may get to know what further Yahweh may be speaking with me. ²⁰And God came in unto Balaam, by night, and said unto him—If, to call thee, the men have come in, arise go with them,—But only, the thing that I shall speak unto thee, that, shalt thou do. ²¹So Balaam arose in the morning, and saddled his ass,—and went with the princes of Moab. ²²Then kindled the anger of God, because he was going, and the messenger of Yahweh stationed himself in the way, to withstand him,—as he was riding upon his ass, his two young men being with him. ²³And the ass saw the messenger of Yahweh stationed in the road with his drawn sword in his hand, so the ass turned aside out of the road and went into the field,—and Balaam smote the ass, to make her turn back into the road. ²⁴But the messenger of Yahweh took his stand, in a hollow pass of the vineyards,—with a fence on this side, and a fence on that side. ²⁵And when the ass saw the messenger of Yahweh, she squeezed herself against the wall, and squeezed the foot of Balaam against the wall,—and again he smote her. ²⁶And the messenger of Yahweh went on further, and took his stand in a narrow place, where there was no way to turn to the right hand or to the left. ²⁷And, when the ass saw the messenger of Yahweh, she sank down under Balaam,—then was Balaam's anger kindled, and he smote the ass with the staff. ²⁸And Yahweh opened the mouth of the ass,—and she said unto Balaam—What have I done to thee, that thou hast smitten me, these three times? ²⁹And Balaam said unto the ass, Surely thou hast been making sport of me,—Would there had been a sword in my hand, for, now, would I have slain thee. ³⁰Then said the ass unto Balaam—Am not I thine own ass on which thou hast ridden all thy life, until this day? Have I, been wont, to do unto thee, thus? And he said, Nay! ³¹Then did Yahweh unveil the eyes of Balaam, and he saw the messenger of Yahweh stationed in the road, with his sword drawn in his hand,—so he bent his head and bowed down before him. ³²And the messenger of Yahweh said unto him, Wherefore hast thou smitten thine ass, these three times? Lo! I, myself, am come forth to withstand thee, because headlong was thy way before me. ³³And the ass hath seen me, and hath turned aside at my presence these three times: Unless she had turned aside from my presence, yea now even thee, had I slain, but, her, had I suffered to live. ³⁴Then said Balaam unto the messenger of Yahweh—I have sinned, for I knew not, that, thou, wast stationed to meet me in the road,—Now, therefore, if it be displeasing in thine eyes, I must get me back again. ³⁵And the messenger of Yahweh said unto Balaam—Go with the men: Only the word that I shall speak unto thee, that, shalt thou speak. So Balaam went his way with the princes of Balak. ³⁶And Balak heard that Balaam, was coming,—so he went forth to meet him unto a city of Moab which was upon the boundary of Arnon, which was in the utmost part of the boundary. ³⁷And Balak said unto Balaam: Did I not, send, unto thee, to call thee? Wherefore didst thou not come unto me? Am I not in very deed, able to honour thee? ³⁸And Balaam said unto Balak—Lo! I am come unto thee, Now, can, I, possibly, promise any-thing? The word that God shall put in my mouth, that, must I speak. ³⁹So Balaam went with Balak,—and they entered Kiriath-huzoth. ⁴⁰And Balak sacrificed herd and flock,—and sent unto Balaam, and unto the princes that were with him. ⁴¹And it came to pass in the morning, that Balak took Balaam, and brought him up the high places of Baal,—and he saw from thence the utmost part of the people.

23Then said Balaam unto Balak: Build me here seven altars,—and prepare me here, seven bullocks and seven rams. ²And Balak did as Balaam had spoken,—and Balak and Balaam caused to ascend a bullock and a ram on each altar. ³Then said Balaam unto Balak: Station thyself by thine ascending-sacrifice, and let me go my way—peradventure Yahweh may come and meet me, and what thing soever he may show me, I will tell thee. So he went his way to a bare height. ⁴And God came unto Balaam,—so he said unto him The seven altars, have I built in a row, and have caused to ascend, bullock and a ram on each altar. ⁵And Yahweh put a word into the mouth of Balaam,—and said—Return unto Balak, and, thus, shalt thou speak. ⁶So he returned unto him, and lo! he was stationed by his ascending-sacrifice,—he, and all the princes of Moab. ⁷So he took up his parable and said,—From Aram, doth Balak conduct me, The king of Moab, from the mountains of the East, Come thou! curse me Jacob, Yea, come thou! rage on Israel. ⁸How can I revile one whom GOD hath not reviled? Yea, how can I rage on one on whom Yahweh hath not raged. ⁹Surely from the head of the rocks, do I see him, Yea, from the hills, do I observe him,—Lo! a people, who alone doth dwell, And among the nations, he doth not reckon himself. ¹⁰Who hath counted the dust of Jacob? Or who hath numbered the fourth part of Israel? Let me die the death of the upright, And let my hereafter be like his! ¹¹Then said Balak unto Balaam, What hast thou done for me? To revile mine enemies, I summoned thee, and lo! thou hast kept on blessing. ¹²And he answered and said,—Was it not to be so that whatsoever Yahweh should put into my mouth, the same, should I take heed to speak? ¹³Then said Balak unto him—Come, I pray thee, with me unto another place, from whence thou mayest see him, nothing but his utmost part, shalt thou see, but all of him, shalt thou not see,—and so revile me him from thence. ¹⁴And he took him to the field of Zophim, unto the head of Pisgah,—and built seven altars, and caused to ascend a bullock and a ram on each altar. ¹⁵Then said he to Balak, Station thyself here by thine ascending-sacrifice,—while, I, meet him yonder. ¹⁶And Yahweh met Balaam, and put a word into his mouth,—and said—Return unto Balak and thus shalt thou speak. ¹⁷So he came in unto him and, there he was-stationed by his ascending-sacrifice, and the princes of Moab with him. And Balak said unto him, What hath Yahweh spoken? ¹⁸Then took he up his parable and said,—Rise, Balak, and hear, Give ear unto me son of Zippor! ¹⁹GOD is, not a man, that he should lie, Nor a son of Adam, that he should repent,—Hath, he, said, and will not perform? Yea spoken, and will not make it stand fast? ²⁰Lo! to bless, have I received command,—And I will bless, nor will I take it back. ²¹He hath not discovered trouble in Jacob, Neither hath he seen wretchedness in Israel,—Yahweh, his God, is with him, And, the acclaim of a king, in his midst: ²²GOD having brought them forth out of Egypt, The very horns of the buffalo, are his: ²³Surely, there is no enchantment against Jacob, Nor divination against Israel,—Now, shall it be said—Of Jacob and of Israel, What hath GOD wrought! ²⁴Lo, a people, like a lioness, shall rise, And like a strong lion, shall rouse himself up; He will not lie down till he eat the torn, And the blood of the slain, he drink. ²⁵Then said Balak unto Balaam, Thou shalt neither revile, him,—nor bless him. ²⁶And Balaam responded, and said unto Balak,—Spake I not unto thee, saying, All that Yahweh shall speak, that, must I do? ²⁷And Balak said unto Balaam, Come, I pray thee! let me take thee unto another place,—peradventure, it may be right in the eyes of God, that thou revile me him. from thence. ²⁸So Balak took Balaam,—unto the head of Peor, that looketh over the face of the Jeshimon. ²⁹And Balaam said unto Balak, Build me here, seven altars,—and prepare me here, seven bullocks and seven rams. ³⁰And Balak did as Balaam said,—and caused to ascend a bullock and a ram on each altar.

24And when Balaam saw that it was good in the eyes of Yahweh to bless Israel, he went not as at other times to invoke enchantments,—but set towards the desert, his face. ²So Balaam lifted up his eyes and saw Israel, dwelling, according to his tribes,—then came upon him the Spirit of God; ³and he took up his parable, and said,—The oracle of Balaam, son of Beor, Yea the oracle of the man, of opened eye; ⁴The oracle of one hearing sayings of GOD, Who the sight of the Almighty, receiveth in vision, Who falleth down but hath unveiled eyes:—⁵How pleasing are thy tents, O Jacob,—Thy habitations, O Israel: ⁶Like ravines extended, Like gardens by a river,—Like aloe-trees Yahweh hath planted, Like cedars by waters: ⁷He poureth forth water from his buckets, And, his seed, is among many waters,—And taller than Agag is his King, And exalted is his kingdom. ⁸GOD having brought him forth out of Egypt, The very horns of the buffalo, are his,—He eateth up nations that assail him And the bones of them, he breaketh And the loins of him, he crusheth: ⁹He hath knelt—hath lain down, Like a strong lion, yea like a lioness, Who shall rouse him up? Such as bless thee are each one blessed, But, such, as curse thee, are each one cursed. ¹⁰Then kindled the anger of Balak against Balaam, and he smote together his hands,—and Balak said unto Balaam—To revile my foes, I called thee, And lo! thou hast kept on blessing, these three times. ¹¹Now, therefore, flee thou unto thy place,—I said, I will, highly honour, thee; but lo! Yahweh hath kept thee back from honour. ¹²And Balaam said unto Balak,—Was it not so that even unto thy messengers whom thou didst send unto me, I spake saying—¹³Though Balak would give me his house full of silver and gold, yet could I not go beyond the bidding of Yahweh, to, do good or ill, out of my own heart,—what Yahweh shall speak, that, must I speak? ¹⁴Now, therefore, behold me! going to my own people,—Come now! let me advise thee, what this people shall do unto thy people in the after-part of the days. ¹⁵So he took up his parable and said,—The oracle of Balaam, son of Beer, Yea the oracle of the man, of opened eye; ¹⁶The oracle of one hearing sayings of GOD, And knowing the knowledge of the Most High,—Who the sight of the Almighty, receiveth in vision, Who falleth down but hath unveiled eyes:—¹⁷I see One, who is not now, I observe One, who is not nigh,—There hath marched forth a Star out of Jacob. And arisen a Sceptre out of Israel, That hath dishonoured the beard of Mesh, Yea the crown of the head of all the tumultuous; ¹⁸So Edom hath become a possession, Yea a possession is Seir to his foes,—But, Israel, is doing valiantly; ¹⁹Yea One wieldeth dominion out of Jacob,—Who hath destroyed the remnant out of the fortress. ²⁰And, when he saw Amalek, he took up, his parable, and said—The beginning of nations,—Amalek, But his latter end is even to perish. ²¹And when he saw the Kenite, he took up his parable, and said,—Enduring thy dwelling-place, Set thou then in the crag, thy nest; ²²Yet shall it be for destruction, O Kain,—How long shall Assyria hold thee captive? ²³And he took up his parable, and said,—Alas who shall survive its fulfillment by GOD; ²⁴When, ships, come from the coast of the isles, And humble Assyria, and humble the Hebrew,—And he too, is even to perish? ²⁵Then Balaam arose, and went and returned unto his place,—and, Balak also, went his way.

25And Israel remained among the acacias,—and the people began to go away unchastely unto the daughters of Moab; ²who invited the people unto the sacrifices of their gods,—so the people did eat, and did bow themselves down unto their gods. ³Thus Israel let himself be bound unto Baal-peor, and the anger of Yahweh kindled upon Israel. ⁴And Yahweh said unto Moses—Take all the heads of the people, and crucify them unto Yahweh. in the face of the sun,—that the heat of the anger of Yahweh may turn away from Israel. ⁵And Moses said unto the judges of Israel,—Slay ye each one his men, who have let them-selves be herald unto Baal-peor. ⁶And lo! a man of the sons of Israel coming in, who brought near unto his brethren a Midianite woman, before the eyes of Moses, and before the eyes of all the assembly of the sons of Israel, when they were weeping at the entrance of the tent of meeting. ⁷And Phinehas son of Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest saw it, so he rose up out of the midst of the assembly, and took a spear in his hand; ⁸and went in after the man of Israel into the pleasure-tent, and thrust both of them through, the man of Israel and the woman, in her parts of shame,—so the plague was restrained from against the sons of Israel. ⁹Then was it found that they who had died by the plague were four and twenty thousand. ¹⁰Then spake Yahweh unto Moses saying: ¹¹Phinehas on of Eleazar son of Aaron the priest, hath turned back my wrath front against the sons of Israel, in that he was jealous with my jealousy, in their midst, so that I made not an end of the sons of Israel. in my jealousy. ¹²Wherefore say,—Behold me! giving unto him my covenant of peace; ¹³so shall it prove to be unto him and unto his seed after him, the covenant of our age-abiding priesthood, because he was jealous for his God, and did put a propitiatory-covering over the sons of Israel. ¹⁴Now, the name of the man of Israel that was smitten, who was smitten with the Midianitish woman, was Zimri son of Salu,—prince of an ancestral house of the Simeonites; ¹⁵and, the name of the woman who was smitten, the Midianitess, was Cozbi, daughter of Zur,—the head of his kindred, of an ancestral house in Midian, was he. ¹⁶And Yahweh spake unto Moses saying: ¹⁷Besiege the Midianites,—and ye shall smite them: ¹⁸for, besiegers, were they unto you, with their wives wherewith they beguiled you, over the matter of Peor,—and over he matter of Cozbi, daughter of a prince of Midian, their sister, who was smitten in the day of the plague, over the matter of Peor.

²⁶And it came to pass, after the plague, that Yahweh spake unto Moses, and unto Eleazar son of Aaron the priest, saying: ²Reckon ye up the sum of all the assembly of the sons of Israel from twenty years old and upwards, by their ancestral houses,—every one able to go forth to war in Israel. ³So then Moses and Eleazar the priest spake with them, in the waste plains of Moab,—by the Jordan near Jericho saying: ⁴From twenty years old and upwards, As Yahweh commanded Moses, and the sons of Israel, who had come forth out of the land of Egypt. ⁵Reuben, the first-born of Israel,—the sons of Reuben, To Hanoch, pertained the family of the Hanochites; To Pallu, the family of the Palluites; ⁶To Hezron, the family of the Hezronites,—To Carrel, the family of the Carmites. ⁷These, are the families of the Reubenites,—and they who were numbered of them were found to be—forty-three thousand, and seven hundred, and thirty. ⁸Now, the sons of Pallu, were Eliab; ⁹and the sons of Eliab, Nemuel, and Dathan and Abiram,—The same, Dathan and Abiram, notable men of the assembly, who contended against Moses and against Aaron in the assembly of Korah, when they contended against Yahweh; ¹⁰and the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them up—with Korah also, when the assembly died,—when the fire consumed two hundred and fifty men, and they became a warning; ¹¹But, the sons of Korah, died not. ¹²The sons of Simeon, by their families, To Nemuel, pertained the family of the Nemuelites, To Jamin, the family of the Jaminites,—To Jachin, the family of the Jachinites: ¹³To Zerah, the family of the Zerahites,—To Shaul, the family of the Shaulites: ¹⁴These, are the families of the Simeonites,—two and twenty thousand and two hundred. ¹⁵The sons of Gad, by their families, To Zephon, pertained the family of the Zephonites; To Haggi, the family of the Haggites,—To Shuni, the family of the Shunites; ¹⁶To Ozni, the family of the Oznites,—To Eri, the family of the Erites; ¹⁷To Arod, the family of the Arodites,—To Arelites, the family of the Arelites: ¹⁸These, are the families of the sons of Gad, as to them who were numbered of them,—forty thousand and five hundred. ¹⁹The sons of Judah, Er and Onan,—but Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan. ²⁰And so, as to the sons of Judah, by their families, it was found that—To Shelah, pertained the family of the Shelanites, To Perez, the family of the Perezites,—To Zerah, the family of the Zerahites; ²¹And, as to the sons of Perez, it was found that—To Hezron, pertained the family of the Hezronites,—To Hamul, the family of the Hamulites: ²²These, are the families of Judah, as to them who were numbered of them,—seventy-six thousand, and five hundred, ²³The sons of Issachar, by their families, Unto Tola, pertained the family of the Tolaites,—To Puvah, the family of the Puvites; ²⁴To Jashub, the family of the Jashubites,—To Shimron, the family of the Shimronites: ²⁵These, are the families of Issachar. as to them who were numbered of them,—sixty-four thousand, and three hundred. ²⁶The sons of Zebulun, by their families, To Sered, pertained the family of the Seredites, To Elon, the family of the Elonites,—To Jahleel, the family of the Jahleelites: ²⁷These are the families of the Zebulunites as to them who were numbered of them,—sixty thousand, and five hundred. ²⁸The sons of Joseph by their families,—Manasseh, and Ephraim. ²⁹The sons of Manasseh, To Machir, pertained the family of the Machirites, and, Machir, begat Gilead,—To Gilead, pertained the family of the Gileadites. ³⁰These are the sons of Gilead: Iezer, the family of the Iezerites,—To Helek, the family of the Helekites; ³¹And Asriel, the family of the Asrielites; And, Shechem, the family of the Shechemites; ³²And Shemida, the family of the Shemidaites; And, Hephher, the family of the Hephherites. ³³Now Zelophehad, son of Hephher, had no sons, but only, daughters,—and, the names of the daughters of Zelophehad, were Mahlah and Noah, Hoglah Milcah, and Tirzah. ³⁴These, are the families of Manasseh,—and, they who were numbered of them,—fifty-two thousand, and seven hundred. ³⁵These are the sons of Ephraim by their families, To Shuthelah, pertained the family of the Shuthelahites, To Becher, the family of the Becherites,—To Tahan, the family of the Tahanites. ³⁶And, these, are the sons of Shuthelah, To Eran, pertained the family of the Eranites. ³⁷These, are the families of the sons of Ephraim, as to them who were numbered of them,—thirty-two thousand, and five hundred, These, are the sons of Joseph by their families. ³⁸The sons of Benjamin by their families, To Bela, pertained the family of the Belaites, To Ashbel, the family of the Ashbelites,—To Ahiram, the family of the Ahiramites; ³⁹To Shephupham, the family of the Shuphamites,—To Hupham, the family of the Huphamites. ⁴⁰And the sons of Bela were Ard and Naaman,—To Ard, pertained the family of the Ardites, To Naaman, the family of the Naamites. ⁴¹These, are the sons of Benjamin by their families,—and they who were numbered of them,—were forty-five thousand and six hundred. ⁴²These, are the sons of Dan, by their families: To Shuham, pertained the family of the Shuhamites,—These, are the families of Dan by their families: ⁴³All the families of the Shuhamites, as to them who were numbered of them, were, sixty-four thousand, and four hundred. ⁴⁴The sons of Asher, by their families: To Imnah, pertained the family of the Imnites, To Ishvi, the family of the Ishvites,—To Beriah, the family of the Beriites; ⁴⁵To the sons of Beriah, To Heber, pertained the family of the Heberites, To Malchiel, the family of the Malchielites; ⁴⁶And, the name of the daughter of Asher, was Serah. ⁴⁷These, are the families of the sons of Asher as to them who were numbered of them,—fifty-three thousand and four hundred. ⁴⁸The sons of Naphtali, by their families, To Jahzeel, pertained the family of the Jahzeelites; To Guni, the family of the Gunites: ⁴⁹To Jezer, the family of the Jezerites; To Shillem, the family of the Shillemites. ⁵⁰These are the families of Naphtali, by their families,—and they who were numbered of them, were forty-five thousand and four hundred. ⁵¹These, are they who were numbered of the sons of Israel, six hundred and thirteen thousand,—seven hundred and thirty, ⁵²Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: ⁵³Unto these, shall be apportioned the land as an inheritance by the number of names. ⁵⁴For the large one, thou shalt make large his inheritance, and for the small one, thou shalt make small his inheritance,—unto each one, in proportion to them who were numbered of him, shall he given his inheritance. ⁵⁵Nevertheless by lot, shall the land be apportioned,—by the names of the tribes of their fathers, shall they inherit. ⁵⁶At the bidding of the lot, shall be apportioned his inheritance,—between large and small. ⁵⁷And these, are they who were numbered of the Levites by their families, To Gershon, pertained the family of the Gershonites, To Kohath, the family of the Kohathites; To Merari, the family of the Merarites. ⁵⁸These, are the families of Levi—The family of the Libnites, The family of the Hebronites, The family of the Mahlites, The family of the Mushites, The family of the Korahites,—And, Kohath, begat Amram; ⁵⁹and the name of the wife of Amram, was Jochebed daughter of Levi, who was born to Levi in Egypt,—and she bare to Amram Aaron and Moses, and Miriam their sister: ⁶⁰And, there were born to Aaron, Nadab and Abihu,—Eleazar and Ithamar; ⁶¹But Nadab and Abihu died,—when they brought near strange fire before Yahweh: ⁶²And they who were numbered of them were found to be—twenty-three thousand, all the males from one month old and upwards—for they had not numbered themselves in the midst of the sons of Israel, because there was given unto them no inheritance, in the midst of the sons of Israel. ⁶³These, are they who were numbered by Moses, and Eleazar, the priest,—when they numbered the sons of Israel, in the waste plains of Moab, by Jordan, near Jericho. ⁶⁴And among these, was there not found a man of them who had been numbered by Moses, and Aaron the priest,—when they numbered the sons of Israel in the desert of Sinai. ⁶⁵For Yahweh had said of them, They shall surely die, in the desert. And there was not left of them a man, save only, Caleb on of Jephunneh, and Joshua son of Nun.

27 Then came near the daughters of Zelophehad, son of Hephher, son of Gilead son of Machir son of Manasseh pertaining to the families of Manasseh, son of Joseph,—these being the names of his daughters, Mahlah Noah and Hoglah and Milcah, and Tirzah. ²So they stood before Moses and before Eleazar the priest, and before the princes, and all the assembly,—at the entrance of the tent of meeting, saying: ³Our father, died in the desert, although, he, was not among the assembly that conspired against Yahweh, in the assembly of Korah,—but, in his own sin, died he; and sons, had he none. ⁴Wherefore should the name of our father be withdrawn out of the midst of his family, because he had no son? Give ye unto us a possession, ill the midst of the brethren of our father. ⁵And Moses brought near their cause before Yahweh. ⁶Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: ⁷A right thing, are the daughters of Zelophehad speaking: Thou shalt, surely give, them a possession for an inheritance, in the midst of the brethren of their father,—and shalt cause the inheritance of their father to pass over unto them. ⁸And unto the sons of Israel, shalt thou speak, saying,—When, any man, shall die, having no son, then shall ye cause his inheritance to pass over to his daughter. ⁹And, if he hath no daughter, then shall ye give his inheritance unto his, brethren. ¹⁰And if he hath no brethren, then shall ye give his inheritance unto the brethren of his father. ¹¹And, if his father hath no brethren, then shall ye give his inheritance unto his blood-relation that is near unto him of his family, and he shall possess it,—So shall it serve the sons of Israel as a regulative statute, As Yahweh commanded Moses.

¹²And Yahweh said unto Moses, Go up into this mount of Abarim,—and see, the and which I have given unto the son of Israel; ¹³And, when thou hast seen it, then shalt thou also be withdrawn unto thy kinsfolk,—as Aaron thy brother was withdrawn; ¹⁴because ye resisted my bidding—in the desert of Zin when the assembly contended,—that ye should hallow me regarding the waters, before their eyes,—the same, were the waters of Meribah, of Kadesh in the desert of Zin. ¹⁵Then spake Moses unto Yahweh saying: ¹⁶Let Yahweh, God of the spirits of all flesh, appoint a man over the assembly; ¹⁷who may go out before them and who may come in before them, and who may take them out and who may bring them in,—that the assembly of Yahweh become not as sheep that have no shepherd. ¹⁸And Yahweh said unto Moses: Take thee Joshua son of Nun, a man in whom is spirit,—then shalt thou lean thy hand upon him; ¹⁹and shalt cause him to stand before Eleazar the priest, and before all the assembly,—and shalt charge him before their eyes; ²⁰and shalt put some of thine honour upon him,—that all the assembly of the sons of Israel may hearken. ²¹And, before Eleazar the priest, shall he stand, and shall ask by him for the decision of the Lights, before Yahweh,—at the bidding thereof, shall they go out, and at the bidding thereof, shall they come in—he, and all the sons of Israel with him, even all the assembly. ²²And Moses did Yahweh commanded him,—and took Joshua, and caused him to stand before Eleazar the priest, and before all the assembly; ²³and leaned his hands upon him and charged him,—As Yahweh spake by the hand of Moses.

28And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: ²Command the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,—My offering, my food for my altar-flames my satisfying odour, shall ye take heed to offer unto me in its season, ³Therefore shalt thou say to them. This, is the altar-flame, which ye shall offer unto Yahweh,—he-lambs a year old, without defect, two day, as a continual ascending-sacrifice. ⁴The one lamb, shalt thou offer in the morning,—and the other lamb, shalt thou offer between the two evenings; ⁵also the tenth of an ephah of fine meal for a meal-offering,—overflowed with beaten oil the fourth of a hin: ⁶a continual ascending-sacrifice,—which was offered in Mount Sinai, as a satisfying odour an altar-flame unto Yahweh. ⁷Also he drink-offering thereof the fourth of a hin for each lamb,—in a holy place, shall it be poured out as a libation of strong drink unto Yahweh. ⁸And, the other lamb, shalt thou offer between the two evenings; like the meal-offering of the morning, and like the drink-offering thereof, shalt thou offer, an altar flame a satisfying odour unto Yahweh. ⁹But, on the sabbath day, two he-lambs a year old without defect, and two-tenths of fine meal as a meal-offering, overflowed with oil and the drink-offering thereof: ¹⁰the ascending-sacrifice of a sabbath, on its own sabbath,— besides the continual ascending-sacrifice and the drink-offering thereof. ¹¹And in the beginnings of your months, shall ye bring near an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh, two choice bullocks and one ram, seven he-lambs a year old without defect; ¹²and three-tenths of fine meal, as a meal-offering, overflowed with oil, to each bullock,—and two-tenths of fine-meal as a meal-offering, overflowed with oil, to each ram; ¹³and a tenth, severally, of fine meal as a meal-offering, overflowed with oil, to each lamb,—an ascending-sacrifice, a satisfying odour, an altar-flame unto Yahweh. ¹⁴And as their drink-offerings, half a hin, shall be to a bullock and the third of a hin to a ram, and the fourth of a hin to a lamb, of wine,—This, is the ascending-sacrifice of a month in its month, for the months of the year. ¹⁵Also one he-goat as a sin-bearer unto Yahweh,—besides the continual ascending-sacrifice, shall it be offered, with the drink-offering thereof. ¹⁶And, on the first month on the fourteenth day of the month, shall be a passover unto Yahweh; ¹⁷and, on the fifteenth day of this month, a festival,—seven days, unleavened cakes, shall be eaten. ¹⁸On the first day, a holy convocation,—no laborious work, shall ye do; ¹⁹but ye shall bring near—as an altar-flame—an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh,—two choice bullocks and one ram,—and seven he-lambs a year old, without defect, must they be for you; ²⁰and, for their meal-offering, fine meal, overflowed with oil,—three-tenths for a bullock, and two-tenths for a ram, shall ye offer; ²¹a tenth, severally, shalt thou offer for each lamb,—for the seven lambs; ²²also one he-goat for bearing sin, to put a propitiatory-covering over you: ²³in addition to the ascending-sacrifice of the morning, which is for the continual ascending-sacrifice, shall ye offer these. ²⁴Like these, shall ye offer, daily, for seven days, as the food of the altar-flame of a satisfying odour, unto Yahweh,—besides the continual ascending-sacrifice, shall it be offered, with the drink-offering thereof. ²⁵And on the seventh day, shall ye have, a holy convocation,—no laborious work, shall ye do. ²⁶And on the day of firstfruits when ye bring near a new meal-offering unto Yahweh, in your weeks, a holy convocation shall there be unto you, no laborious work, shall ye do; ²⁷but ye shall bring near as an ascending-sacrifice, for a satisfying odour unto Yahweh, two choice bullocks one ram,—seven he-lambs a year old; ²⁸also their meal-offering, fine meal, overflowed with oil,—three-tenths for each bullock, two-tenths for the one ram; ²⁹a tenth severally, for each lamb,—of the seven lambs; ³⁰one young he-goat,—for putting a propitiatory-covering over you: ³¹in addition to, the continual ascending-sacrifice, with the meal-offering thereof, shall ye offer them,—without defect, shall they be for you, with their drink-offerings.

29And in the seventh month, on the first of the month, a holy convocation, shall there be unto you, no laborious work, shall ye do,—a day of loud acclamation, shall

it be unto you. ²Therefore shall ye offer, as an ascending-sacrifice for a satisfying odour unto Yahweh, one choice bullock one ram,—seven he-lambs a year old without defect; ³and as their meal-offering, fine meal, overflowed with oil,—three-tenths to a bullock two-tenths to a ram; ⁴and one-tenth to each lamb,—of the seven lambs; ⁵and one young he-goat as a sin-bearer,—for putting a propitiatory-covering over you: ⁶in addition to the monthly ascending-sacrifice with the meal-offering thereof and the continual ascending sacrifice, with the meal-offering thereof and the drink-offering thereof according to their regulation,—for a satisfying odour, an altar-flame, unto Yahweh. ⁷And on the tenth of this seventh month, a holy convocation, shall there be unto you,—when ye shall humble your souls,—no work, shall ye do; ⁸but ye shall bring near, as an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh a satisfying odour, one choice bullock one ram,—seven he-lambs a year old, without defect, shall they be for you; ⁹and, as their meal-offering, fine meal overflowed with oil,—three-tenths to a bullock, two-tenths to the one ram; ¹⁰a tenth severally to each lamb,—of the seven lambs; ¹¹one young he-goat as a sin-bearer,—in addition to, the propitiatory sin-bearer, and the continual ascending-sacrifice, with its meal-offering and their drink-offerings. ¹²And on the fifteenth day of the seventh month, a holy convocation shall there be unto you, no laborious work, shall ye do, but ye shall celebrate a festival unto Yahweh, seven days. ¹³Then shall ye bring near as an ascending-sacrifice—an altar-flame of a satisfying odour unto Yahweh,—thirteen choice bullocks two rams,—fourteen he-lambs a year old without defect, shall they be; ¹⁴and, as their meal-offering, fine-meal over-flowed with oil, three-tenths to each bullock of the thirteen bullocks, two-tenths to each ram, of the two rams; ¹⁵and a tenth severally, to each lamb,—of the fourteen lambs; ¹⁶also one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer,—in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, the meal-offering thereof and the drink-offering thereof. ¹⁷And on the second day, twelve choice bullocks two rams,—fourteen he-lambs a year old without defect; ¹⁸with their meal-offerings and their drink-offering—to the bullocks, to the rams, and to the lambs, by their number according to the regulation; ¹⁹also one young he-goat as a sin-bearer,—in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, with its meal-offering, and their drink-offerings. ²⁰And on the third day, eleven bullocks two rams,—and fourteen he-lambs a year old without defect; ²¹with their meal-offering and their drink-offerings, to the bullocks, to the rams, and to the lambs, by their number, according to the regulation; ²²also one young he-goat as a sin-bearer, in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, with the meal-offering thereof and the drink-offering thereof. ²³And on the fourth day, ten bullocks, two rams,—fourteen he-lambs a year old without defect; ²⁴their meal-offering, and their drink-offerings, to the bullocks, to the rams, and to the lambs, by their number, according to the regulation; ²⁵also one he-goat as a sin-bearer,—in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, the meal-offering thereof and the drink-offering thereof. ²⁶And on the fifth day, nine bullocks two rams,—fourteen he-lamb, a year old without defect; ²⁷with their meal-offering and their drink-offerings,—to the bullocks to the rams, and to the lambs, by their number, according to the regulation: ²⁸also one young he-goat as a sin-bearer,—in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, with the meal-offering thereof and the drink-offering thereof. ²⁹And on the sixth day, eight bullocks, two rams, fourteen he-lambs a year old without defect; ³⁰with their meal-offering and their drink-offerings to the bullocks, to the rams, and to the lambs, by their number, according to the regulation; ³¹also one young he-goat as a sin-bearer,—in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, the meal-offering thereof and the drink-offerings thereof, ³²And on the seventh day, seven bullocks, two rams, fourteen he-lambs a year old, without defect: ³³with their meal-offering and their drink-offering, to the bullock, to the rams, and to the lambs by their number, according to their regulation; ³⁴also one young he-goat as a sin-bearer, in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, the meal-offering thereof and the drink-offering thereof ³⁵And on the eighth day, a closing feast shall there be unto you, no laborious work, shall ye do; ³⁶but ye shall bring near—as an ascending-sacrifice, an altar-flame of a satisfying odour, unto Yahweh—one bullock, one ram,—seven he-lambs a year old, without defect: ³⁷with their meal-offering and their drink-offerings—to the bullock to the ram, and to the lambs—by their number, according to the regulation; ³⁸also one young he-goat as a sin-bearer,—in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, with the meal-offering thereof, and the drink-offering thereof. ³⁹These, shall ye offer unto Yahweh in your appointed seasons,—besides your vow-offerings and your freewill offerings—as your ascending-sacrifices, and as your meal-offerings, and as your drink-offerings and as your peace-offerings. ⁴⁰So Moses told the sons of Israel,—According to all that Yahweh commanded Moses.

30And Moses spake unto the heads of the tribes of the sons of Israel saying: This, is the thing which Yahweh hath commanded— ²When, a man, shall vow a vow unto Yahweh, or swear an oath to bind a bond upon his soul, he shall not break his word,—according to all that proceedeth out of his mouth, shall he do. ³And, when, a woman, shall vow a vow unto Yahweh, and bind a bond, in the house of her father, in her youth; ⁴and her father shall hear her vow or her bond which she bindeth upon her soul, and her father shall hold his peace at her, then shall all her vows stand, and every bond which she hath bound upon her soul shall stand. ⁵But, if her father forbade her, in the day when he heard, none of her vows or her bonds which she hath bound upon her soul, shall stand,—and, Yahweh, will pardon her, because her father forbade her. ⁶But, if she, belonged to a husband, when her vows were taken upon her,—or a rash utterance fell from her lips, wherewith she put a bond upon her soul; ⁷and her husband heard it, and on the day that he heard, he held his peace at her, then shall her vows stand and her bonds which she hath bound upon her soul, shall stand, ⁸But if, on the day her husband heard, he forbade her, then shall he have made of none effect her vow that is upon her, or the rash utterance of her lips, wherewith she put a head upon her soul,—and, Yahweh, I will pardon her. ⁹But as for the vow of a widow, or of a woman divorced, whatsoever she hath bound on her soul, shall stand against her. ¹⁰But, if in the house of her husband, she vowed, or bound a bond upon her soul. with an oath; ¹¹and her husband heard, and held his peace at her, did not forbid her, then shall all her vows stand, and every bond which she hath bound upon her soul, shall stand. ¹²But if her husband, did make, them, of none effect, on the day he heard, nothing which came forth out of her lips—of her vows, or of the bond of her soul, shall stand,—her husband, made it of none effect, and Yahweh, will pardon her: ¹³As for any vow, or any oath of binding, to humble ones soul, her husband, may make it stand, or, her husband, may make it of none effect. ¹⁴But if her husband do hold his peace, at her, from day to day, then shall he cause all her vows to stand, or all her bonds which are upon her,—cause them to stand, because he held his peace at her, on the day when he heard. ¹⁵And, if he, do make them of none effect, after that he hath heard them, then shall he bear her iniquity. ¹⁶These are the statutes which Yahweh commanded Moses, between a man and his wife, between a father and his daughter, in her youth in the house of her father.

31 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: ²Exact thou the avenging of the sons of Israel, from the Midianites,—and, afterwards, shalt thou be withdrawn unto thy kinsfolk. ³So Moses spake unto the people saying, Arm ye from among you men, for the war, and let them go against Midian, to render the avenging of Yahweh upon Midian. ⁴A thousand from each tribe,—of all the tribes of Israel, shall ye send forth unto the war. ⁵And there volunteered out of the thousands of Israel, a thousand of each tribe,—twelve thousand, armed for war. ⁶And Moses sent them a thousand of each tribe to the war,—them, and Phinehas son of Eleazar the priest, to the war, with the vessels of the sanctuary, and the alarm trumpets, in his hand. ⁷So they made war upon Midian, as Yahweh had commanded Moses, and slew every male: ⁸and the kings of Midian, slew they besides their other slain namely, Evi, and Rekem, and Zur, and Hur, and Reba, five kings of Midian,—Balaam also, son of Beor, slew they with the sword. ⁹And the sons of Israel took captive the women of Midian and their little ones,—all their cattle also and all their flocks and all their substance, carried they off as a prey; ¹⁰all their cities also in their sites, and all their encampments, burned they up with fire. ¹¹Then took they all the spoil, and all the booty,—both of man and beast; ¹²and brought in unto Moses and unto Eleazar the priest and unto the assembly of the sons of Israel—the captives and the booty, and the spoil unto the camp,—unto the waste plains of Moab, which are by Jordan, near Jericho. ¹³And Moses, and Eleazar the priest and all the princes of the assembly, went forth to meet them,—unto the outside of the camp. ¹⁴Then was Moses sore displeased with the officers of the force,—the princes of thousands, and the princes of hundreds who were coming in from the warring host. ¹⁵And Moses said unto them,—Have ye saved alive every female? ¹⁶Lo! they, became unto the sons of Israel, by the advice of Balaam, the cause of daring acts of treachery against Yahweh, over the affair of Peor,—and then came the plague against the assembly of Yahweh! ¹⁷Now, therefore, slay ye every male among the young,—every woman also that hath cohabited with man, slay ye. ¹⁸But all the young of womankind that have, not cohabited with man, preserve alive for yourselves. ¹⁹Ye, then, pitch outside the camp, for seven days,—whosoever hath killed a person and whoever hath touched the slain, cleanse yourselves (from sin) on the third day and on the seventh day ye and your captives,. ²⁰Every garment also, and every article of skin and every thing made of goats-hair, and every article of wood, shall ye cleanse (from sin). ²¹Then said Eleazar the priest unto the men of the host, who had been to the war: This, is the statute of the law, which Yahweh hath commanded Moses: ²²Surely the gold and the silver,—the bronze the iron, the tin and the lead, ²³whatsoever thing can go into fire, ye shall pass through fire and it shall be clean, only with the water of separation, shall ye cleanse it (from sin). But whatsoever cannot go into fire, ye shall pass through water. ²⁴And ye shall wash your clothes on the seventh day, and be clean,—and after-wards, shall ye come into the camp. ²⁵Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: ²⁶Reckon thou up the sum of the booty that was captured, both of man and of beast,—thou and Eleazar the priest, and the ancestral heads of the assembly; ²⁷and divide the booty into two parts, between them who took upon them the war, who went out in the host,—and all the rest of the assembly. ²⁸Then shalt thou levy a tribute unto Yahweh—from the men of war, who went forth in the host, one living thing, out of five hundred,—of the human beings, and of the herd, and of the asses and of the flock: ²⁹out of their half, shall ye take them,—and thou shall give them unto Eleazar the priest as a heave-offering unto Yahweh. ³⁰And out of the half allotted to the sons of Israel, shalt thou take one allotted portion out of fifty of the human beings, of the herd, of the asses and of the flock of all the cattle,—and shalt give them unto the Levites, who keep the charge of the habitation of Yah-

weh. ³¹And Moses and Eleazar the priest did,—As Yahweh commanded Moses. ³²And it came to pass that the booty, over and above the prey which the people of the host had seized, was,—of the flock, six hundred and seventy-five thousand; ³³and, of the herd, seventy-two thousand; ³⁴and, of the asses, sixty-one thousand; ³⁵and, of the human persons, even of the woman-kind who had not cohabited with man,—all the persons, thirty-two thousand. ³⁶And the half, the share of them who had gone forth in the host, was,—the number of the flock—three hundred and thirty-seven thousand and five hundred; ³⁷and so, the tribute unto Yahweh, out of the flock, was—six hundred and seventy-five; ³⁸and the herd, thirty-six thousand,—and the tribute of them unto Yahweh—seventy-two; ³⁹and the asses, thirty thousand and five hundred,—and the tribute of them unto Yahweh, sixty-one; ⁴⁰and the human persons, sixteen thousand,—and the tribute of them unto Yahweh, thirty-two persons. ⁴¹And Moses gave the tribute—the heave-offering of Yahweh, unto Eleazar the priest,—As Yahweh commanded Moses. ⁴²And, of the half, allotted unto the sons of Israel,—which Moses halved away from the men who had gone out in the host, ⁴³the half allotted unto the assembly, was—of the flock, three hundred and thirty-seven thousand, and five hundred; ⁴⁴and, of the herd, six and thirty thousand; ⁴⁵and, of asses, thirty thousand and five hundred; ⁴⁶and, human persons, sixteen thousand. ⁴⁷So then Moses took—out of the half belonging to the sons of Israel the allotted portion one out of fifty, of the human beings and of the beasts,—and gave them unto the Levites, the keepers of the charge of the habitation of Yahweh, As Yahweh commanded Moses. ⁴⁸Then came near unto Moses the officers who belonged unto the thousands of the host,—the princes of thousands and the princes of hundreds; ⁴⁹and said unto Moses, Thy servants have reckoned up the sum of the men of war who are in our hand,—and there is not missed from among us, a man! ⁵⁰Therefore have we brought near an offering unto Yahweh, what, each man, hath found—articles of gold, ankle chains and bracelets, rings earrings and buckles,—to put a propitiatory-covering over our souls before Yahweh. ⁵¹So Moses, and Eleazar the priest took the gold of them,—all the wrought articles. ⁵²And all the gold of the heave-offering which they offered up unto Yahweh, was—sixteen thousand seven hundred and fifty shekels,—of the princes of thousands, and of the princes of hundreds. ⁵³The men of the host, had taken prey, each man for himself. ⁵⁴So then Moses and Eleazar the priest took the gold of the princes of thousands, and hundreds,—and brought it into the tent of meeting, as a memorial for the sons of Israel before Yahweh.

32Now, much cattle, had come into the possession of the sons of Reuben and of the sons of Gad, an exceeding mighty number. And when they saw the land of Jazer

and the land of Gilead, lo! the place, was a place for cattle. ²So the sons of Gad and the sons of Reuben came in,—and spake unto Moses and unto Eleazar the priest, and unto the princes of assembly, saying, ³As touching Atroth and Dibon, and Jazer and Nimrah, and Heshbon, and Elealeh,—and Sebam and Nebo, and Beon- ⁴the land which Yahweh smote before the assembly of Israel, a land for cattle, it is,—and, thy servants, have cattle. ⁵And they said—If we have found favour in thine eyes, let this land be given unto thy servants, for a possession,—do not take us over the Jordan. ⁶Then said Moses unto the sons of Gad and unto the sons of Reuben,—Shall, your brethren, go into the war, and ye, settle down here? ⁷Wherefore, then, should ye dissuade the heart of the sons of Israel, from passing over into the land which Yahweh hath given to them? ⁸Thus, did your fathers,—when I sent them from Kadesh-barnea, to view the land, ⁹and they went up as far as the ravine of Eschol, and viewed the land, and then dissuaded the heart of the sons of Israel from entering into the land, which Yahweh had given them. ¹⁰Then was the anger of Yahweh kindled on that day,—and he aware, saying: ¹¹Surely none of the men that came up out of Egypt from twenty years old and upwards, shall see the soil, which I swore unto Abraham, unto Isaac and unto Jacob, because they have not followed after me fully; ¹²save Caleb son of Jephunneh, the Kenezite, and Joshua, son of Nun,—for they followed after Yahweh, fully. ¹³So the anger of Yahweh kindled upon Israel, and he made them wander in the desert, forty years,—until all the generation who had done the evil in the eyes of Yahweh, had wasted away! ¹⁴Lo! therefore, ye have arisen in the room of your fathers, brood of sinful men,—to heap up yet more upon the heat of the anger of Yahweh, towards Israel. ¹⁵If ye do turn away from following him, then will he yet again leave them behind in the desert,—so shall ye bring destruction upon all this people. ¹⁶Then came they near unto him, and said, Folds, for flocks, would we build for our cattle, here,—and cities for our little ones; ¹⁷but, we, would arm ourselves promptly, before the sons of Israel, until that we have brought them into their place,—so should our little ones remain in the fortified cities, because of the inhabitants of the land. ¹⁸We would not return unto our houses,—until the sons of Israel have possessed themselves each man, of his inheritance. ¹⁹For we would not inherit with them, over the Jordan, and onwards,—because our inheritance hath come unto us on this side the Jordan towards sunrise. ²⁰And Moses said unto them, If ye will indeed do this thing,—if ye will arm yourselves, before Yahweh, for the war; ²¹and every armed man of you pass over the Jordan before Yahweh,—until he hath dispossessed his enemies, from before him; ²²and the land be subdued before Yahweh then afterwards, shall ye return, and shall be acquitted by Yahweh and by Israel,—and this land shall be yours for a possession before Yahweh. ²³But, if ye shall not do this, lo! ye will have sinned against

Yahweh,—and take note of your sin, that it will find you out. ²⁴Build you cities for your little ones, and folds for your flocks,—and then that which hath gone forth from your mouth, ye shall do. ²⁵Then spake the sons of Gad, and the sons of Reuben unto Moses, saying,—thy servants, will do, as, my lord, is giving command. ²⁶Our little ones, our wives, our cattle, and all our beasts, shall remain there in the cities of Gilead; ²⁷and thy servants, will pass over every one armed for war, before Yahweh to battle,—as, my lord is speaking. ²⁸So Moses gave command concerning them, unto Eleazar the priest and unto Joshua son of Nun, and unto the headset the fathers of the tribes, of the sons of Israel; ²⁹and Moses said unto them—If the sons of Gad and the son of Reuben will pass with you over the Jordan, every one armed for the war before Yahweh, and the land be subdued before you, then shall ye give unto them the land of Gilead, for a possession. ³⁰But, if they will not pass over armed, with you, then shall they accept a possession in your midst, in the land of Canaan. ³¹Then responded the sons of Gad and the sons of Reuben, saying,—That which Yahweh had spoken unto thy servants, so, will we do. ³²We, will pass over armed, before Yahweh into the land of Canaan,—then shall be ours, the possession of our inheritance across the Jordan. ³³So then Moses gave unto them even unto the sons of Gad and unto the sons of Reuben and unto the half tribe of Manasseh son of Joseph the kingdom of sion, king of the Amorites, and the kingdom of Og, the king of Bashan, the land by her cities with boundaries, even the cities of the land round about. ³⁴And the sons of Gad built Dibon, and Ataroth,—and Aroer; ³⁵and Atroth-shophan and Jazer, and Jogbehah; ³⁶and Beth-nimrah, and Beth-haran,—fortified cities and folds for flocks. ³⁷And the sons of Reuben built Heshbon, and Elealeh,—and Kiriathaim, ³⁸and Nebo and Baal-meon—their names being changed, and Sibmah,—and they gave names to the cities which they built. ³⁹Then went the sons of Machir son of Manasseh to Gilead, and captured it, and dispossessed the Amorites who were therein, ⁴⁰So Moses gave Gilead unto Machir son of Manasseh, and he dwelt therein. ⁴¹And Jair, son of Manasseh, went, and captured their encampments,—and called them Havvoth-jair. ⁴²And, Nobah, went, and captured Kenath, with the villages thereof,—and called it Nobah, after his own name.

33These, are the departures of the sons of Israel whereby they came forth out of the land of Egypt by their hosts,—in the hand of Moses and Aaron. ²And Moses wrote their coming forth by their departures, at the bidding of Yahweh,—and these, are their departures by their comings forth. ³So then they brake up from Rameses in the first month, on the fifteenth day of the first month, on the morrow of the passover, came forth the sons of Israel with an uplifted hand, in the sight of all the Egyptians; ⁴when the Egyptians, were burying them whom Yahweh had smitten among them, every firstborn,—when, upon their gods, Yahweh had executed judgments, ⁵Thus then the sons of Israel brake up from Rameses,—and encamped in Succoth. ⁶And they brake up from Succoth,—and encamped in Etham, which is at the edge of the desert. ⁷And they brake up from Etham, and turned upon Pi-hahiroth, which is over against Baal-zephon,—and encamped before Migdol. ⁸And they brake up from before Hahiroth, and passed through the midst of the sea towards the desert,—and went their way a journey of three days in the desert of Etham, and encamped in Marah. ⁹And they brake up from Marah, and came in towards Elim; there being, in Elim, twelve fountains of water, and seventy palm-tree, so they encamped there. ¹⁰And they brake up from Elim,—and encamped by the Red Sea. ¹¹And they brake up from the Red Sea,—and encamped in the desert of Sin. ¹²And they brake up from the desert of Sin,—and encamped in Dophkah. ¹³And they brake up from Dophkah,—and encamped in Alush. ¹⁴And they brake up from Alush,—and encamped in Rephidim, where was no water for the people to drink. ¹⁵And they brake up from Rephidim,—and encamped in the desert of Sinai. ¹⁶And they brake up from the desert of Sinai,—and encamped in Kibroth-hattaavah. ¹⁷And they brake up from Kibroth-hattaavah,—and encamped in Hazeroth. ¹⁸And they brake up from Hazeroth,—and encamped in Rithmah. ¹⁹And they brake up from Rithmah,—and encamped in Rimmon-perez. ²⁰And they brake up from Rimmon-perez,—and encamped in Libnah. ²¹And they brake up from Libnah,—and encamped in Rissah. ²²And they brake up from Rissah,—and encamped in Kehelathah. ²³And they brake up from Kehelathah,—and encamped in Mount Shepher. ²⁴And they brake up from Mount Shepher,—and encamped in Haradah. ²⁵And they brake up from Haradah,—and encamped in Makheloth. ²⁶And they brake up from Makheloth,—and encamped in Tahath. ²⁷And they brake up from Tahath,—and encamped in Terah. ²⁸And they brake up from Terah,—and encamped in Mithkah. ²⁹And they brake up from Mithkah,—and encamped in Hashmonah. ³⁰And they brake up from Hashmonah,—and encamped in Moseroth. ³¹And they brake up from Moseroth, and encamped in Bene-jaakan. ³²And they brake up from Bene-jaakan, and encamped in Hor-haggidgad. ³³And they brake up from Hor-haggidgad,—and encamped in Jotbathah,— ³⁴And they brake up from Jotbathah,—and encamped in Abronah. ³⁵And they brake up from Abronah,—and encamped in Eziongeber. ³⁶And they brake up from Eziongeber,—and encamped in the desert of Zin, the same, is Kadesh. ³⁷And they brake, up from Kadesh,—and encamped in Mount Hor, on the outskirts of the land of Edom; ³⁸and Aaron the priest went up into Mount Hor, at the bidding of Yahweh, and died there, in the fortieth year, by the coming forth of the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt, in the fifth month, on the first of the month. ³⁹Now, Aaron, was a hundred and twenty-three years old, when he died in Mount Hor. ⁴⁰And a Canaanite king of Arad, who was dwelling in the South, in the land of Canaan, heard of the coming in of the sons of Israel. ⁴¹And, they brake up from Mount Hor,—and encamped in Zalmonah. ⁴²And they brake up from Zalmonah,—and encamped in Punon. ⁴³And they brake up from Punon, and encamped in Oboth. ⁴⁴And they brake up from Oboth,—and encamped in Iye-abarim, within the bounds of Moab. ⁴⁵And they brake up from Iyim,—and encamped in Dibon-gad. ⁴⁶And they brake up from Dibon-gad, and encamped in Almon-diblathaim. ⁴⁷And they brake up from Almon-diblathaim,—and encamped among the mountains of Abarim, before Nebo. ⁴⁸And they brake up from the mountains of Abarim,—and encamped in the waste plains of Moab, by Jordan near Jericho. ⁴⁹Thus did they encamp by the Jordan from Beth-jeshimoth unto Abel-Shittim \ul1 that is, "The acacia—meadows"\ul0—in the waste plains of Moab. ⁵⁰And Yahweh spake unto Moses, in the waste plains of Moab, by Jordan near Jericho saying: ⁵¹Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,—When ye do pass over the Jordan into the land of Canaan, ⁵²then shall ye dispossess all the inhabitants of the land from before you, and shall destroy all their figured stones,—all their molten images, also shall ye destroy, and all their high places, shall ye lay waste. ⁵³So shall ye possess the land, and settle down therein,—for unto you, have given the land to possess it. ⁵⁴And ye shall take your inheritance in the land by lot by your families—for the large one, ye shall make large his inheritance, and for the small one, make small his inheritance, whithersoever the lot cometh out to him, his, shall, it be, by the tribes of your fathers, shall ye take your inheritance. ⁵⁵But if ye do not dispossess the inhabitants of the land from before you, then shall it be. that they whom ye leave remaining of them will become pricks in your eyes, and thorns in your sides, and will harass you, concerning the land, wherein, ye are settling down. ⁵⁶And it shall be, that as I thought to do unto them, I will do unto you.

34And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: ²Command the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them, When, ye, are coming into the land of Canaan, this is the land which shall fall unto you, as an inheritance, even the land of Canaan, by the boundaries thereof. ³Ye shall therefore have a south corner, from the desert of Zin, on the side of Edom,—so shall ye have a south boundary, from the end of the salt sea, eastward: ⁴and the boundary shall go round for you from the south towards the cliffs of Akrabbim, then cross over towards Zin, and the extension thereof shall be from the south to Kadesh-barnea, then shall it reach out to Hazar-addar, and cross over towards Azmon; ⁵then shall the boundary turn round from Azmon towards the ravine of Egypt,—and the extension thereof shall be towards the sea. ⁶And, for a west boundary,—ye shall have the great sea, even a boundary, this, shall serve you as west boundary. ⁷And, this, shall serve you as a north boundary,—From the great sea, ye shall draw a line for you to Mount Hor: ⁸From Mount Hor, ye shall draw a line to the entering in of Hamath,—and the extension of the boundary shall be towards Zedad: ⁹then shall the boundary reach out towards Ziphron, and the extension thereof, be to Hazar-enan. This, shall serve you as a north, boundary. ¹⁰Then shall ye draw for yourselves a line, for an east boundary,—from Hazar-enan towards Shepham; ¹¹and the boundary shall go down from Shepham towards Riblah, on the east of Ain—then shall the boundary go down and strike on the side of the Sea of Chinnereth, eastward: ¹²then shall the boundary go down towards the Jordan, and the extension thereof be to the salt sea. This shall be your land by the boundaries thereof round about. ¹³And Moses commanded the sons of Israel saying,—This, is the land, which ye shall inherit by lot, which Yahweh had commanded to be given to the nine tribes and the half tribe. ¹⁴For the tribe of the sons of the Reubenites by their ancestral house, and the tribe of the sons of Gad, by their ancestral house, have received, and, the half tribe of Manasseh have received, their inheritance: ¹⁵the two tribes, and the half tribe, have received their inheritance—on this side Jordan near Jericho, eastwards, towards sunrise. ¹⁶Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: ¹⁷These, are the names of the men who shall receive for you the land, as an inheritance, Eleazar, the priest, and Joshua, son of Nun. ¹⁸Also, one prince from each tribe, shall ye take to receive the land, as an inheritance. ¹⁹These, therefore, are the names of the men,—For the tribe of Judah, Caleb son of Jephunneh; ²⁰And, for the tribe of the sons of Simeon, Shemuel son of Ammihud: ²¹For the tribe of Benjamin, Elidad son of Chislon; ²²And, for the tribe of the sons of Dan, a prince—Bukki, son of Jogli: ²³For the sons of Joseph, For the tribe of the sons of Manasseh, a prince,—Hanniel son of Ephod; ²⁴And, for the tribe of the sons of Ephraim, a prince,—Kemuel, son of Shiphtan; ²⁵And, for the tribe of the sons of Zebulun, a prince,—Elizaphan, son of Parnach; ²⁶And, for the tribe of the sons of Issachar, a prince,—Paltiel son of Azzan; ²⁷And, for the tribe of the sons of Asher, a prince,—Ahihud son of Shelomi: ²⁸And, for the tribe of the sons of Naphtali, a prince,—Pedahel, son of Ammihud. ²⁹These, are they whom Yahweh hath commanded to receive for the sons of Israel their inheritance, in the land of Canaan.

35And Yahweh spake unto Moses in the waste plains of Moab,—by Jordan, near Jericho, saying: ²Command the sons of Israel, that they give unto the Levites—out of the inheritance which they possess—cities to dwell in,—pasture land also unto the cities, round about them, shall ye give unto the Levites. ³So shall the cities be theirs, to dwell in,—and their pasture lands, shall, ye for their cattle and for their goods and for all their beasts. ⁴And, the pasture lands of the cities which ye shall give unto the Levite, shall be,—from the wail of the city, and outwards, a thousand cubits round about ⁵So ye shall measure—on the outside of the city—the eastward quarter two thousand by the cubit, and the south quarter two thousand by the cubit, and the west quarter two thousand by the cubit, and the north quarter two thousand by the cubit, with, the city, in the midst. This, shall be unto them the pasture lands of the cities, ⁶And, among the cities which ye shall give unto the Levites, shall be the six cities of refuge, which ye shall give that the manslayer may flee thither,—and besides them, ye shall give, forty-two cities, ⁷All the cities which ye shall give unto the Levites, shall be forty-eight cities,—them, and their pasture lands, ⁸And as touching the cities which ye shall give out of the possession of the sons of Israel from the many, shall ye take many, and from the few, shall ye take few,—each, according to his inheritance, which they shall inherit, shall We of his cities unto the Levites. ⁹Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: ¹⁰Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,—When ye are passing over the Jordan unto the land of Canaan, ¹¹then shall ye find for you, convenient cities, cities of refuge, shall they be unto you,—and the manslayer, who hath slain a person, by mistake, shall flee thither. ¹²So shall the cities serve you for places of refuge from the redeemer,—that the manslayer may not die, until he has stood before the assembly, for judgment, ¹³And as touching the cities which ye shall give six cities of refuge, shall there be unto you. ¹⁴Three of the cities, shall ye give, on this side the Jordan, and three of the cities, shall ye give in the land of Canaan,—cities of refuge, shall they be. ¹⁵For the sons of Israel and for the sojourner. and for the settler in your midst, shall these six cities serve, as places of refuge,—that any one may flee thither who hath slain a person, by mistake. ¹⁶If, then, with an instrument of iron, he smote him, and he died, a manslayer, he is,—a manslayer, shall surely die. ¹⁷Or if with a stone thrown by hand, where-by one might die, he smote him and he died, a manslayer, he is,—the man-slayer, shall surely die, ¹⁸Or, if with hand-weapon of wood, wherewith one might die, he smote him and he died a manslayer, he is,—the manslayer shall surely die. ¹⁹The blood-redeemer, he, shall put to death the man-slayer,—when he lighteth upon him, he, shall put him to death. ²⁰Or if with hate, he shall thrust at him, or hurl at him designedly, and he have died, ²¹or if with enmity, he hath smitten him with his band and he is dead, then shall he that dealt the blow, be surely put to death. a manslayer, he is—the blood-redeemer shall put to death the man-slayer, when he lighteth upon him. ²²But if suddenly, without enmity, he shall thrust him, or hurl upon him any missile, without design; ²³Or with any stone whereby one might die without seeing him, and it fall upon him, and he dieth; he, not being at enmity with him, nor seeking to harm him, ²⁴then shall the assembly judge, between him that smote and the blood-redeemer,—according to these regulations; ²⁵and the assembly shall rescue the manslayer out of the hand of the blood-redeemer, and the assembly shall restore him unto his city of refuge whither he had fled,—and he shall dwell therein until the death of the high priest, who hath been anointed with the hallowing oil. ²⁶But if the man-slayer, go out, of the bounds of his city of refuge, whereinto he hath fled; ²⁷and the blood-redeemer, find him, outside the bounds of his city of refuge, then may the blood-redeemer slay the slayer, without being guilty of blood; ²⁸for in his city of refuge, should he have remained, until the death of the high priest,—and, after the death of the high priest, might he have returned into the land which he doth possess. ²⁹So shall these serve you as a regulative statute unto your generations,—whosoever ye may dwell. ³⁰Whosoever taketh away life, at the mouth of witnesses, shall, the slayer be slain,—but, one witness, shall not testify against a person, to put him to death. ³¹And ye shall accept no ransom for the life of him that slayeth, if he have unlawfully caused death,—but he, must surely be put to death. ³²And ye shall accept no ransom for him that hath fled to his city of refuge, if he should return to dwell in the land before the death of the priest. ³³So shall ye not pollute the land wherein ye are, for blood, doth pollute the land, and for the land, no propitiatory-covering can be made, as touching blood, that is shed therein, save with the blood of him that shed it; ³⁴thou must not then make unclean the land wherein, ye, are dwelling, in the midst of which, I, have my habitation; for, I,—Yahweh, am making my habitation in the midst of the sons of Israel.

36Then came near the heads of fathers, belonging to the family of the sons of Gilead son of Machir son of Manasseh, out of the families of the sons of Joseph,—and spake before Moses, and before the princes, heads of fathers belonging to the sons of Israel; ²and they said—Unto my lord, did Yahweh give command, to bestow the land as an inheritance, by lot, unto the sons of Israel,—my lord, therefore, was commanded by Yahweh, to give the inheritance of Zelophehad our brother unto his daughter. ³When, therefore, unto any one from among the sons of the other tribes of the sons of Israel, they become wives their inheritance shall disappear out of the inheritance of our fathers, and be added to the inheritance of the tribe to which they shall be received,—and so out of the lot of our inheritance, shall it disappear, ⁴And when the jubilee shall come to the sons of Israel, then shall their inheritance be added unto the inheritance of the tribe to which they shall be received—and, out of the, inheritance of the tribe of our fathers, shall their inheritance disappear. ⁵Then Moses commanded the sons of Israel, at the bidding of Yahweh saying,—A right thing, are, the tribe of the sons of Joseph, speaking, ⁶This, is the thing which Yahweh hath commanded, as to the daughters of Zelophehad saying: Unto whomsoever it may be good in their eyes, let them become wives,—save only unto the family of the tribe of their father, let them become wives. ⁷So shall no inheritance belonging to the sons of Israel go round from tribe to tribe,—for the sons of Israel shall, each one, cleave, unto the inheritance of the tribe of his fathers, ⁸And, every daughter possessing all inheritance from among the tribes of the sons of Israel, unto one of the family of the tribe of her father, shall become wife,—to the intent that the sons of Israel may possess each one the inheritance of his fathers; ⁹and no inheritance go round from one tribe to another tribe,—for the tribes of the sons of Israel shall cleave, each one unto his own inheritance. ¹⁰As Yahweh commanded Moses, so, did the daughters of Zelophehad. ¹¹Thus then did Mahlah, Tirzah, and Hoglah, and Milchah, and Noah, the daughters of Zelophehad, become wives, unto the sons of their father's brethren. ¹²Unto men from among the families of the son of Manasseh son of Joseph, became they wives,—and so their inheritance remained with the tribe of the family of their father. ¹³These are the commandments and the regulations which Yahweh gave in charge, by the hand of Moses, unto the sons of Israel,—in the waste plains of Moab, by Jordan near Jericho.

Deuteronomy

¹These, are the words, which Moses spake unto all Israel, over the Jordan,—in the wilderness in the waste plain over against Suph, between Paran and Tophel, and Laban and Hazeroth and Di-zahab: ²eleven days from Horeb, by way of Mount Seir, as far as Kadesh-barnea. ³And it came to pass, in the fortieth year, in the eleventh month, on the first of the month, that Moses spake unto the sons of Israel, according to all that Yahweh had given him in charge for them; ⁴after he had smitten Sihon, king of the Amorites, who dwelt in Heshbon,—and Og, king of Bashan, who dwelt in Ashtaroth, in Edrei: ⁵over the Jordan, in the land of Moab, did Moses take in hand to expound this law, saying:— ⁶Yahweh our God, spake unto us in Horeb, saying, Long enough, have ye dwelt in this mountain: ⁷Turn ye and set yourselves forward, and enter into the hill country of the Amorites, and into all the places near, in the plain, in the mountain, and in the lowland, and in the south, and in the coast of the sea,—the land of Canaan and the Lebanon, as far as the great river, the river Euphrates. ⁸See! I have set before you the land,—enter and possess the land, which, Yahweh sware unto your fathers to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, to give unto them, and unto their seed, after them. ⁹So spake unto you, at that time saying, I am unable, by myself, to carry you. ¹⁰Yahweh your God hath multiplied you, and here ye are to-day, like the stars of the heavens for multitude. ¹¹Yahweh, the God of your fathers, be adding unto you the like of you, a thousand times,—and bless you, as he hath spoken unto you! ¹²How should I carry by myself the fatigue of you and the burden of you and your controversies? ¹³Set forth for you—men wise and discerning, and known to your tribes,—that I may appoint them to be heads over you. ¹⁴And ye answered me,—and said, Good, is the word which thou hast spoken to be done. ¹⁵So I took heads for your tribes wise men and known, and placed them as heads over you, captains of thousands, and captains of hundreds, and captains of fifties and captains of tens, and overseers for your tribes. ¹⁶And I charged your judges, at that time, saying,—Ye are to hear between your brethren and shall judge righteously, between each magi and his brother and his sojourner. ¹⁷Ye shall not take note of faces in judgment—so the small as the great, shall ye hear, ye shall not shrink from the face of any man, for judgment, unto God, belongeth,—but the thing which is too hard for you, shall ye bring near unto me, and I will hear it. ¹⁸So I commanded you at that time all the things which ye should do. ¹⁹And when we brake up from Horeb, we came through all that great and terrible desert which ye saw, by way of the hill-country of the Amorites, as Yahweh our God commanded us,—and we entered in as far as Kadesh-barnea. ²⁰Then said I unto you,—Ye are come in as far as the hill-country of the Amorites, which Yahweh our God, is giving unto us. ²¹See thou—Yahweh thy God hath set before thee the land,—go up—take possession as Yahweh the God of thy fathers hath spoken unto thee, do not fear, neither be dismayed. ²²And ye came near unto me all of you, and said Let us send men before us, that they may search out for us the land,—and bring us back word, the way by which we must go up, and the cities whereinto we must enter, ²³And the thing, was good in mine eyes,—so I took from among you twelve men, one man for each tribe. ²⁴And they turned and went up the hill-country, and entered in as far as the ravine of Eshcol, and explored it. ²⁵And they took in their hand of the fruit of the country, and bare it down unto us, and brought us back word, and said, Good is the land, which Yahweh our God, is giving unto us. ²⁶Nevertheless ye were not willing to go up,—but rebelled against the bidding of Yahweh, your God; ²⁷and murmured in your tents and said, Because Yahweh hated us, hath he brought us forth out of the land of Egypt,—to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to destroy us. ²⁸Whither, are, we, to go up? Our own brethren, have made our heart melt saying—A people greater and taller than we, cities large and walled-up into the heavens,—yea, moreover sons of Anakim, have we seen there. ²⁹Then I said unto you,—Ye must not tremble, nor be afraid of them: ³⁰Yahweh your God, who is going before you, he, will fight for you,—according to all that he did with you in Egypt, before your eyes; ³¹also in the desert which thou hast seen, where Yahweh thy God carried thee as a man will carry his son, throughout all the way that ye journeyed, until ye entered as far as, this place. ³²But in this firing, ye were putting no trust in Yahweh your God; ³³who was going before you in the way—to search out for you a place, where ye might encamp,—in the fire by night, that ye might get sight of the way wherein ye should go, and in the cloud, by day. ³⁴And Yahweh heard the voice of your words,—and was wroth and swore—saying: ³⁵Surely, not one of these men, this wicked generation,—shall see the good land, which I swore to give unto your fathers: ³⁶saving Caleb son of Jephunneh, he, shall see it, and unto him, will I give the land through which he hath trodden, and unto his sons,—because he hath wholly followed Yahweh. ³⁷Even with me, did Yahweh show himself angry, for your sakes, saying,—Even thou, shalt not enter therein. ³⁸Joshua son of Nun, who standeth before thee, he, shall enter in thither, him, strengthen thou, for he, shall cause Israel to inherit it. ³⁹And your little ones, of whom ye said they should become, a prey, and your sons who to-day know not good and evil, they, shall enter in thither,—and unto them, will I give it, and they, shall possess it. ⁴⁰But as for you, turn ye, for your part,—and set forward towards the desert, by way of the Red Sea. ⁴¹Then responded ye and said unto me—We have sinned against Yahweh, We, ourselves, will go up, and fight, according to all that Yahweh our God hath commanded us. And when ye had girded on every man his weapons of war, ye foolishly went up towards the hill-country. ⁴²Then said Yahweh unto me—Say unto them Ye shall not go up, nor fight, for I am not in your midst,—lest ye should be smitten before your enemies. ⁴³So I spake unto you howbeit ye hearkened not,—but rebelled against the bidding of Yahweh, and presumptuously went up the hill-country. ⁴⁴Then came forth the Amorites who were dwelling in that country, to meet you, and they chased you, as do, bees; and struck you down in Seir, as far as Hormah. ⁴⁵So then ye returned and wept before Yahweh,—but Yahweh hearkened not unto your voice, nor gave ear unto you. ⁴⁶And ye abode in Kadesh many days,—how many were the days that ye abode there !

²Then turned we, and set forward towards the desert by way of the Red Sea, as Yahweh, spake unto me; and we encompassed Mount Seir many days. ²And Yahweh spake unto me, saying: ³Long enough, have ye encompassed this mountain,—turn yourselves north, wards. ⁴And, the people, command thou saying, Ye are about to pass through the boundary of your brethren the sons of Esau, who are dwelling in Seir,—and should they be afraid of you, take ye good heed to yourselves: ⁵do not engage in strife with them, for I will not give you of their land, so much as place for the tread of a foot-sole,—for as a possession to Esau, have I given Mount Seir. ⁶Food, shall ye buy of them with silver so shall ye eat,—yea even water, shall ye buy of them with silver so shall ye drink. ⁷For Yahweh thy God, hath blessed thee in all the work of thy hand, he hath considered thy traversing of this great desert,—these forty years, hath Yahweh thy God been with thee, thou hast lacked, nothing. ⁸So we passed on, a way from our brethren the sons of Esau who dwell in Seir, from the way of the waste plain, from

Elath, and from Ezion-geber,—and we turned and passed on by way of the desert of Moab. ⁹And Yahweh said unto me—Do not lay siege to Moab, nor engage in strife with them in battle,—for I will not give unto thee of his and as a possession, for unto the sons of Lot, have I given Ar, as a possession. ¹⁰the Emim, formerly dwelt therein,—a people great and many and tall, like the Anakim. ¹¹Giants, used, they also, to be accounted like the Anakim,—but the Moabites, called them Emim. ¹²And in Seir, dwelt the Horim aforetime, but, the sons of Esau, dispossessed them, and destroyed them from before them, and dwelt in their stead,—as did Israel unto the land of his own possession, which Yahweh had given unto them. ¹³Now, arise, and pass ye over the ravine of Zered. So we passed over the ravine of Zered. ¹⁴Now, the days in which we journeyed from Kadesh-barnea, as far as where we crossed the ravine of Zered, were thirty-eight years,—until all the generation of the men of war were consumed out of the midst of the camp, as Yahweh had sworn unto them. ¹⁵Yea, even the hand of Yahweh was against them, to destroy them out of the midst of the camp,—until they were consumed. ¹⁶So it came to pass when all the men of war were consumed by dying, out of the midst of the people, ¹⁷then spake Yahweh unto me, saying: ¹⁸Thou, art passing, to-day, the boundary of Moab even Ar; ¹⁹so wilt thou draw near over against the sons of Ammon, do not thou besiege them neither engage in strife with them,—for I will not give of the land of the sons of Ammon unto thee as a possession, for unto the sons of Lot, have I given it as a possession. ²⁰A land of giants, used, that also, to be accounted,—giants, dwelt therein aforetime, but the Ammonites, called them Zamzummin: ²¹a people great and many and tall, like the Anakim,—but Yahweh destroyed them from before them, and they took their possessions, and dwelt in their stead: ²²as he did for the sons of Esau, who are dwelling in Seir,—when he destroyed the Horim from before them, and they took their possessions and have dwelt in their stead, even unto this day. ²³The Avvim also, who dwelt in settlements as far as Gaza, Caphtorim, who were coming forth out of Caphtor, destroyed them, and dwelt in their stead. ²⁴Arise ye, set forward and cross over the ravine of Arnon, see! I have given into thy hand—Sihon king of Heshbon, the Amorite and his land, begin—take possession,—and engage in strife with him in battle. ²⁵This day, will I begin to extend the dread of thee and the fear of thee over the face of the peoples under all the heavens,—who will hear the report of thee, then will they quake and writhe in pain because of thee. ²⁶So I sent messengers out of the desert of Kademoth, unto Sihon, king of Heshbon,—with words of peace saying: ²⁷I would pass along through thy land, by the road, by the road, will I go,—I will not turn aside, to the right hand or to the left: ²⁸Food for silver, shalt thou sell me so will I eat, and water for silver, shalt thou let me have, so will I drink,—only I would pass through on my feet;—²⁹as the sons of Esau, who are dwelling in Seir, did to me, and the Moabites who are dwelling in Ar,—until that I pass over the Jordan, into the land which, Yahweh our God, is giving unto us. ³⁰But Sihon king of Heshbon, was not willing, to let us pass along through it,—for Yahweh thy God had suffered him to make his spirit harsh and his heart bold, that he might give him into thy hand—(as appeareth this day). ³¹Then said Yahweh unto me, See! I have begun to deliver up before thee Sihon and his land,—begin take possession, that thou mayest make a possession of his land. ³²So then Sihon came out to meet us he, and all his people, to give battle at Jahaz. ³³And Yahweh our God delivered him up before us,—and we smote him and his sons, and all his people ³⁴And we captured all his cities, at that time, and devoted to destruction every city of males, with the women and the little ones,—we left not remaining a survivor: ³⁵only the cattle, made we our prey,—and the spoil of the cities which we captured. ³⁶From Aroer, which is on the edge of the ravine of Arnon and the city that is in the ravine even as far as Gilead, there was not a fortress that proved too high for us,—the whole, did Yahweh our God deliver up before us. ³⁷Only unto the land of the sons of Ammon, didst thou not come near,—all the side of the Jabbok ravine, nor the cities of the hill country, nor any which Yahweh our God had forbidden to us.

3Then turned we and went up, the way of Bashan; and Og king of Bashan, came out to meet us, he, and all his people, to give battle at Edrei. ²And Yahweh said unto me: Do not fear him, for into thy hand, have I delivered him and all his people and his land,—so then thou shalt do unto him, as thou didst unto Sihon king of the Amorites who was dwelling in Heshbon. ³Then did Yahweh our God deliver into our hand, Og also, king of Bashan and all his people,—so we smote him until there was not left remaining to him a survivor. ⁴And we captured all his cities, at that time, there was no fortress which we took not from them,—sixty cities all the region of Argob, the kingdom of Og in Bashan. ⁵All these, were fortified cities each with a high wall, folding gates and a bar,—besides country towns exceeding many. ⁶And we devoted them to destruction, doing unto them as we did unto Sihon king of Heshbon,—devoting to destruction every city of males, the women, and the little ones. ⁷But all the cattle, and the spoil of the cities, made we our prey. ⁸Thus did we at that time take the land out of the hand of the two kings of the Amorites (which was over the Jordan),—from the ravine of Arnon as far as Mount Hermon. ⁹Sidonians, call Hermon Sirion,—but, the Amorites, call it Senir. ¹⁰All the cities of the table-land, and all Gilead, and all Bashan,—unto Salecah, and Edrei,—cities of the kingdom of Og, in Bashan. ¹¹For, only Og, king of Bashan was left remaining of the remnant of the giants, lo! his bedstead, was a bedstead of iron, is not, the same, in Rabbath of the sons of Ammon? nine cubits, the length thereof and four cubits, the breadth thereof, by the fore-arm of a man. ¹²And this land, took we in possession at that time,—from Aroer which is by the ravine of Arnon, and half the hill-country of Gilead and the cities thereof, gave I unto the Reubenites and unto the Gadites; ¹³but the remainder of Gilead, and all Bashan the kingdom of Og, gave I unto the half tribe of Manasseh,—all the region of the Argob with all Bashan. The same, is called, A land of giants. ¹⁴Jair, son of Manasseh, took all the region of Argob, as far as the boundary of the Geshurites, and the Maachathites,—and called them after his own name The Bashan of Havvoth-jair unto this day. ¹⁵And, unto Machir, gave I Gilead; ¹⁶And unto the Reubenites and unto the Gadites, gave I—from Gilead even as far as the ravine of Arnon, the middle of the ravine and boundary,—even as far as the Jabbok ravine, the boundary of the sons ¹⁷Ammon; the Waste Plain also and the Jordan and boundary,—from Chinnereth, even as far as the sea of the Waste Plain the Salt Sea, under the slopes of Pisgah, on the east. ¹⁸So I commanded you, at that time saying,—Yahweh your God hath given unto you this land to possess it, armed, shall ye pass over before your brethren the sons of Israel all the sons of valour, ¹⁹Only, your wives and your little ones and your cattle—I know that ye have much cattle—shall abide in your cities which I have given unto you; ²⁰until that Yahweh shall give rest unto your brethren, as well as you, so shall, they too, possess the land which, Yahweh your God, is giving unto them, over the Jordan,—then shall ye return every man unto his possession, which I have given unto you. ²¹Jeshua also, commanded I, at that time saying,—Thine are the eyes, that have seen all that Yahweh your God hath done unto these two kings, thus, will Yahweh do unto all the kingdoms whereunto thou, art passing over: ²²ye shall not fear them,—for, Yahweh your God, he, it is that is fighting for you. ²³Then sought I Yahweh at that time, for a favour saying: ²⁴My Lord Yahweh, thou thyself, hast begun to shew thy servant thy greatness, and thy firm hand,—as to which, what GOD is there, in the heavens or in the earth, that can do according to thy doings, and according to thy mighty deeds? ²⁵Let me pass over, I pray thee that I may see the good land that is over the Jordan,—this good mountain, and the Lebanon. ²⁶But Yahweh had been provoked with me for your sakes, and hearkened not unto me,—and Yahweh said unto me, Enough for thee! do not add a word unto me further in this matter. ²⁷Ascend the top of the Pisgah, and lift up thine eyes—westward, and northward and southward and eastward—and see with thine own eyes,—for thou shalt not pass over this Jordan. ²⁸But command thou Joshua and confirm him and embolden him,—for, he, shall pass over before this people, and, he shall cause them to inherit the land which thou shalt see. ²⁹So we abode in the valley, over against Beth-peor.

⁴Now, therefore, O Israel, hearken thou unto the statutes, and unto the regulations, which, I, am teaching you, to do them,—to the end ye may live and enter and possess the land, which, Yahweh, the God of your fathers, is giving unto you. ²Ye shall not add unto the word which, I, am commanding you, neither shall ye take away therefrom,—that ye may keep the commandments of Yahweh your God, which, I, am commanding you. ³Yours are the eyes, that have seen what Yahweh did in Baal-peor, for every man who went after Baal-peor, did Yahweh thy God destroy out of thy midst; ⁴but, ye who kept on cleaving unto Yahweh your God, alive, are ye all to-day. ⁵See! I have taught you statutes, and regulations, as Yahweh my God commanded me,—that ye should do so, in the midst of the land whereinto ye are entering to possess it. ⁶Therefore shall ye observe, and do them, for that, will be your wisdom, and discernment, in the eyes of the peoples,—who will hear all these statutes, and will say—Nevertheless, a people wise and discerning, is this great nation. ⁷For what great nation is there which hath gods nigh unto it,—like Yahweh our God, whensoever we have cried out unto him. ⁸Or what great nation which hath righteous statutes and regulations, like all this law, which, I, am setting before you to-day? ⁹Only take thou heed to thyself and keep thy soul diligently, so that thou forget not the things which thine own eyes have seen, and so that they go not out of thy heart, all the days of thy life,—but thou shalt make them known unto thy sons and unto thy son's sons:—¹⁰What day thou didst stand before Yahweh thy God, in Horeb, when Yahweh said unto me, Gather unto me the people, that I may let them hear my words,—which they must learn that they may revere me all the days which they are living upon the soil, their children also, must they teach. ¹¹So ye drew near and stood, under the mountain. Now, the mountain, was burning with fire, up to the midst of the heavens,—darkness, cloud, and thick gloom. ¹²Then spake Yahweh unto you out of the midst of the fire,—a voice of words, ye were hearing, no form, were ye seeing, there was only a voice. ¹³Then declared he unto you his covenant which he commanded you to do, the ten words,—and wrote them upon two tables of stone. ¹⁴And unto me, gave Yahweh command, at that time, to teach you statutes and regulations,—that ye should do them, in the land whereinto ye are passing over to possess it. ¹⁵Ye must take diligent heed, therefore unto your own souls, for ye saw no manner of form, on the day Yahweh spake unto you in Horeb out of the midst of the fire; ¹⁶lest ye should break faith, and make you an image, a form of any likeness,—a model of male or female; ¹⁷a model of any beast that is in the earth,—a mode of any winged bird, that flieth in the heavens; ¹⁸a model of any thing that creepeth on the ground,—a model of any fish that is in the waters beneath the earth; ¹⁹or lest thou shouldst lift up thine eyes towards the heavens and see the sun and the moon, and the stars—all the host of the heavens, and shouldst be seduced, and shouldst bow thyself down to them and he led to serve them,—the which Yahweh thy God hath assigned unto all the peoples under all the heavens; ²⁰whereas you, hath Yahweh taken, and brought you forth out of a smelting-pot of iron, out of Egypt,—that ye might become his own inherited people as at this day. ²¹But, Yahweh shewed himself angry with me, for your sakes,—and swore that I should not pass over the Jordan, and that I should not enter into the good land, which, Yahweh thy God, is giving unto thee as an inheritance; ²²for, I, am about to die in this land, I am not to pass over the Jordan,—but, ye, are to pass over, and possess this good land. ²³Take heed to yourselves lest ye forget the covenant of Yahweh your God, which he hath solemnised with you,—and so make for yourselves an image, the form of anything, the which Yahweh thy God hath forbidden thee; ²⁴seeing that as for Yahweh thy God, a consuming fire, he is,—a jealous GOD. ²⁵When thou shalt beget sons, and sons' sons, and become careless in the land and break faith and make an image the form of any thing, and shalt do the thing that is wicked in the eyes of Yahweh thy God provoking him to anger, ²⁶I take both the heavens and the earth to witness against you to-day, that ye shall, perish, speed, from off the land which ye are passing over the Jordan to possess,—ye shall not prolong your days thereupon; for, ye shall surely be laid waste; ²⁷and Yahweh will scatter you among the peoples,—and ye shall have left remaining of you men easily counted, among the nations whither Yahweh will drive you; ²⁸and ye will serve there gods made by the hands of man,—wood or stone, which neither see nor hear nor eat nor smell. ²⁹If thou shalt seek from thence, Yahweh thy God, then shalt thou find him,—when thou shalt search after him with all thy heart, and with all thy soul. ³⁰In thy distress, when all these things have found thee out—in the afterpart of the days, thou wilt return unto Yahweh thy God, and writ hearken to his voice. ³¹For, a GOD of compassion, is Yahweh thy God, he will not forsake thee neither will he destroy thee,—nor forget the covenant of thy fathers which he swore unto them. ³²For ask, I pray you, of the former days which were before thee, even from the day when God created man upon the earth, yea from one end of the heavens even to the other end of the heavens,—whether aught was ever brought to pass, like this great thing, or was ever heard of like it: ³³Did a people ever hear the voice of a god speaking out of the midst of fire, as, thou, didst hear, and yet live? ³⁴Or did a god ever make trial of entering in to take unto him a nation out of the midst of a nation, by provings, by signs and by wonders and by fighting, and by a firm hand and by a stretched-out arm, and by great terrors,—according to all that Yahweh your God did for you in Egypt, before your eyes? ³⁵Thou, wast allowed to see that thou mightest know, that Yahweh, he is God, there is none other than

he alone. ³⁶Out of the heavens, he let thee hear his voice to instruct thee,—and, upon the earth, he let thee see his great fire, and his own words, thou didst hear out of the midst of the fire. ³⁷And because that he loved thy fathers, therefore chose he his seed after him,—and brought thee forth with his presence with his great might, out of Egypt; ³⁸to dispossess nations, greater and stronger than thou from before thee,—to bring thee in. to give unto thee their land for an inheritance: As at this day. ³⁹So then thou must consider to-day, and bring it back to thy heart, that, Yahweh, he is God in the heavens above and upon the earth beneath,—there is none other. ⁴⁰So shalt thou keep his statutes and his commandments which, I, am commanding thee to-day, that it may go well with thee, and with thy sons after thee,—and to the end thou mayest prolong thy days upon the soil, which Yahweh thy God, is giving thee, all the days. ⁴¹Then, did Moses set apart three cities, over the Jordan,—towards the rising of the sun: ⁴²that the manslayer might flee thither who should slay his neighbour unawares, he, not having hated him, aforetime,—and might flee unto one of these cities, and live: ⁴³namely Bezer, in the desert of the table-land, for the Reubenites,—and Ramoth in Gilead for the Gadites, and Golan in Bashan, for the Manassites. ⁴⁴This, then is the law which Moses set before the sons of Israel: ⁴⁵These, are the testimonies, and the statutes and the regulations,—which Moses spake unto the sons of Israel when they came forth out of Egypt: ⁴⁶over the Jordan in the valley over against Beth-peor, in the land of Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt in Heshbon,—whom Moses and the sons of Israel smote, when they came forth out of Egypt: ⁴⁷so they took possession of his land, and the land of Og king of Bashan the two kings of the Amorites, who were over the Jordan,—towards the rising of the sun; ⁴⁸from Aroer which is on the edge of the ravine of Arnon, even unto Mount Sion, the same, is Hermon; ⁴⁹and all the waste plain over the Jordan, towards sunrise, even unto the sea of the waste plain,—under the slopes of the Pisgah.

5Then called Moses unto all Israel and said unto them—Hear, O Israel, the statutes and the regulations, which I am speaking in your ears to-day,—so shall ye learn them, and observe to do them. ²Yahweh our God, solemnised with us a covenant in Horeb: ³not with our fathers did Yahweh solemnise this covenant,—but with us, ourselves—these here to-day, all of us living. ⁴Face to face, spake Yahweh with you in the mount out of the midst of the fire, ⁵(I was standing between Yahweh and you, at that time, to declare unto you the word of Yahweh,—for ye shrank with fear from the presence of the fire, and went not up in the mount) saying:—⁶I, am Yahweh thy God, who have brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt out of the house of servants:—⁷Thou shalt not have other gods, besides me: ⁸Thou shalt not make unto thee an image, any form that is in the heavens above, or that is in the earth beneath or that is in the waters beneath the earth: ⁹thou shalt not bow thyself down to them nor be led to serve them,—for, I Yahweh thy God, am a jealous GOD, visiting the iniquity of fathers upon sons even unto three generations and unto four, unto them that hate me; ¹⁰but shewing lovingkindness unto a thousand generation—unto them who love me, and keep my commandments: ¹¹Thou shalt not utter the name of Yahweh thy God, for falsehood,—for Yahweh will not at him go unpunished who uttereth his name for falsehood: ¹²Observe the sabbath day, to hallow it,—as Yahweh thy God, hath commanded thee: ¹³six days, shalt thou labour, and do all thy work; ¹⁴but, the seventh day, is a sabbath unto Yahweh thy God,—thou shalt do no work—thou nor thy son nor thy daughter nor thy servant nor thy handmaid nor thine ox nor thine ass nor any of thy cattle, nor thy sojourner who is within thy gates, that thy servant and thy handmaid may rest, as well as thou. ¹⁵So shalt thou remember that a servant, wast thou in the land of Egypt, and that Yahweh thy God brought thee forth from thence, with a firm hand, and with a stretched-out arm,—for this cause, hath Yahweh thy God commanded thee to keep the sabbath day: ¹⁶Honour thy father and thy mother, as Yahweh thy God hath commanded thee,—that thy days may be prolonged and that it may go well with thee, upon the soil which Yahweh thy God is about to give unto thee: ¹⁷Thou shalt not commit murder: ¹⁸Neither shalt thou commit adultery: ¹⁹Neither shalt thou steal: ²⁰Neither shalt thou testify against thy neighbour with a witness of falsehood: ²¹Neither shalt thou covet thy neighbour's wife,—neither shalt thou desire thy neighbour's house, his field, or his servant, or his handmaid, his ox or his ass, or anything that is thy neighbour's. ²²These words, spake Yahweh unto all the convocation of you in the mount out of the midst of the fire the cloud and the thick gloom, a loud voice, and added not,—and he wrote them upon two tables of stone, and gave them unto me. ²³And it came to pass, when ye heard the voice out of the midst of the darkness, the mountain also burning with fire, then drew ye near unto me, even all the heads of your tribes and your elders, ²⁴and ye said—Lo! Yahweh our God hath let us see his glory and his greatness, his voice also, have we heard out of the midst of the fire,—this day, have we seen, that God may speak with man who yet may live. ²⁵Now, therefore why should we die? for this great fire, will consume, us,—if we ourselves, hear the voice of Yahweh our God any more, we shall die. ²⁶For who is there of all flesh, that ever heard the voice of a Living God speaking out of the midst of fire as we, and yet lived? ²⁷Go, thou, near, and hear, all that Yahweh our God shall say,—so shalt thou speak unto us, all that Yahweh our God shall speak unto thee and we will hear and do. ²⁸And Yahweh heard the voice of your words, when ye spake unto me,—and Yahweh said unto me—I have heard the voice of the words of this people which they have spoken unto thee, they have well said all which they have spoken. ²⁹Oh that this their heart might remain in them to revere me, and to keep all my commandments all the days,—that it might be well with them and with their sons unto times age-abiding. ³⁰Go, say unto them,—Return ye to your tents. ³¹Thou, therefore here stand with me and let me speak unto thee—all the commandment and the statutes and the regulations which thou shalt teach them,—that they may do them in the land which I am giving unto them to possess it. ³²So then ye must observe to do, as Yahweh your God hath commanded you,—ye must not turn aside to the right hand or to the left. ³³In all the way which Yahweh your God hath commanded you, must ye walk,—that ye may live and it be well with you, and that ye may prolong your days in the land, which ye shall possess.

6This, then is the commandment—namely the statutes and the regulations, which Yahweh your God hath commanded to teach you,—that ye may do them in the land whither ye are passing over to possess it: ²that thou mayest revere Yahweh thy God, so as to keep all his statutes and his commandments which I am commanding thee, thou and thy son and thy sons' son, all the days of thy life,—and that thy days may be prolonged. ³Therefore shalt thou hear, O Israel, and shalt observe to do, that it may be well with thee, and that ye may multiply greatly, as Yahweh the God of thy fathom hath spoken to thee, in a land flowing with milk and honey. ⁴Hear, O Israel: Yahweh, is our God,—Yahweh alone. ⁵Thou shalt therefore love Yahweh thy God,—with all thy heart and with all thy soul, and with all thy might; ⁶so shall these words which I am commanding thee to-day, be upon thy heart; ⁷and thou shalt impress them upon thy sons, and shalt speak of them,—when thou sittest in thy house and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down and when thou risest up; ⁸and thou shalt bind them for a sign upon thy hand,—and they shall serve for bands between thine eyes; ⁹and thou shalt write them upon the pests of thy house and within thy gates. ¹⁰So shall it be, when Yahweh thy God shall bring thee into the land, which he sware to thy fathers—to Abraham to Isaac and to Jacob to give unto thee,—into cities great and goodly, which thou didst not build; ¹¹and houses full of all good things, which thou filledst not, and hewn cisterns which thou hewedst not, vineyards and oliveyards which thou plantedst not,—and shalt eat and be full, ¹²take heed unto thyself, lest thou forget Yahweh,—who brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt out of the house of servants. ¹³Yahweh thy God, shalt thou revere And him, shalt thou serve,—And by his name, shalt thou swear. ¹⁴Ye shall not go after other gods,—of the gods of the peoples who are surrounding you; ¹⁵for a jealous GOD, is Yahweh thy God in thy midst,—lest the anger of Yahweh thy God kindle upon thee, and so he destroy thee from off the face of the ground. ¹⁶Ye shall not put Yahweh your God to the proof,—as ye put him to the proof in Massah that is, "The place of proving". ¹⁷Ye shall, keep, the commandments of Yahweh your God and his testimonies and his statutes which he hath commanded thee; ¹⁸so shalt thou do what is right and what is pleasing in the eyes of Yahweh,—that it may be well with thee, and thou mayest enter in and possess the good land, which Yahweh sware unto thy fathers; ¹⁹to thrust out all thine enemies from before thee,—As spake Yahweh. ²⁰When thy son shall ask thee in time to come, saying,—What mean the testimonies and the statutes and the regulations, which Yahweh our God commanded you? ²¹Then shalt thou say unto thy son, Servants, were we unto Pharaoh in Egypt,—and Yahweh brought us forth out of Egypt with a firm hand; ²²and Yahweh put forth signs and wonders great and sore upon Egypt upon Pharaoh and upon all his household before our eyes; ²³but he brought us forth from thence,—that he might bring us in, to give unto us the land, which he sware unto our fathers. ²⁴So then Yahweh commanded us to do all these statutes, to revere Yahweh our God,—for our good, all the days, to preserve us alive as at this day; ²⁵and righteousness, shall it be to us,—when we take heed to do all this commandment, before Yahweh our God, as he commanded us.

7When Yahweh thy God shall bring thee into the land which thou art going in to possess, and shall clear away many nations from before thee—the Hittites and the Girgashites and the Amorites, and the Canaanites and the Perizzites, and the Hivites and the Jebusites—seven nations greater in number and stronger than thou; ²and Yahweh thy God shall deliver them up before thee, and thou shalt smite them, thou shalt devote them to destruction, thou shalt not solemnise with them a covenant neither shalt thou shew them favour; ³neither shalt thou intermarry with them,—thy daughter, shalt thou not give unto his son, nor his daughter, shalt thou take for thy son; ⁴for he will turn aside thy son from following me, and they will serve other gods,—so shall the anger of Yahweh kindle upon you, and he will destroy thee, speedily. ⁵Verily, thus, shall ye do unto them: Their altars, shall ye tear down, And their pillars, shall ye break in pieces,—And their sacred stems, shall ye hew down, And their carved images, shall ye burn up in the fire. ⁶For a holy people, art thou unto Yahweh thy God: of thee, hath Yahweh thy God, made choice, that thou shouldest become his people as a treasure, above all the peoples that are on the face of the ground: ⁷not because ye were more in number than any of the peoples, did Yahweh become attached to you and make choice of you,—for, ye, were fewer than any of the peoples; ⁸but because Yahweh loved you and because he would keep the oath which he sware unto your fathers, did Yahweh bring you forth with a firm hand,—and redeem thee out of the house of servants, out of the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt. ⁹So then, thou must know that, Yahweh thy God, he, is God,—the faithful GOD, keeping his covenant and his lovingkindness with them that love him and keep his commandments, to a thousand generations ¹⁰but requiting them who hate him unto his face to destroy them,—he will not be slack towards him that hateth him, unto his face, will he requite him. ¹¹So shalt thou keep the commandment and the statutes and the regulations, which I am commanding thee to-day, to do them. ¹²Then shall it come to pass if ye will hearken unto these regulations, and keep and do them, then will Yahweh thy God keep with thee the covenant and the lovingkindness which he sware unto thy fathers; ¹³and will love thee, and bless thee and multiply thee,—and bless the fruit of thy body and the fruit of thy ground thy corn and a thy new wine and thine ell the young of thy kine and the ewes of thy flock, upon the soil which he swart unto thy fathers to give unto thee. ¹⁴Blessed shalt thou be beyond all the peoples,—there shall not be in thee a barren male or female, nor among thy cattle; ¹⁵and Yahweh, will turn away, from thee, all disease,—and as for all the sore sicknesses of Egypt which thou knowest, he will not lay them upon thee, but will put them upon all who hate thee; ¹⁶and thou shalt devour all the peoples whom, Yahweh thy God, delivering up unto thee, thine eye shall not look with pity upon them, neither shalt thou serve their gods, for a snare, would it be unto thee. ¹⁷Although thou mightest say in thy heart: More in number, are these nations than I,—how can, I dispossess them? ¹⁸thou must not be afraid of them,—thou must, remember, what Yahweh thy God did, unto Pharaoh and unto all Egypt: ¹⁹the great provings which thine own eyes saw, and the signs and the wonders and the firm hand and the stretched-out arm, wherewith Yahweh thy God brought thee forth,—so, will Yahweh thy God do unto all the peoples, before whom thou art afraid. ²⁰Moreover also, the hornet, will Yahweh thy God send among them,—until they are destroyed who are left remaining, and who are hiding themselves from thy face. ²¹Thou shalt not be affrighted at their presence,—for Yahweh thy God in thy midst is a Go great and to be revered. ²²So will Yahweh thy God, clear away these nations from before thee little by little,—thou mayest not consume them at once, lest the wild beast of the field should multiply ever thee. ²³But Yahweh thy God will deliver them up before thee,—and discomfit them with a great discomfiture, until they are destroyed; ²⁴and will deliver their kings into thy hand and thou shalt destroy their name, from under the heavens,—not a man shall stand before thee, until thou hast destroyed them. ²⁵The carved images of their gods, shalt thou consume with fire,—thou shalt not covet the silver and gold upon them to take unto thee, lest thou be ensnared thereby; for the abomination of Yahweh thy God, it is; ²⁶and thou shalt not bring an abomination into thy house, and so become devoted to destruction, like it, thou shalt, abhor, it, and thou shalt, loathe it, because a thing devoted to destruction, it is.

⁸All the commandment which I am commanding thee to-day, shalt thou, observe, to do,—that ye may, live, and multiply, and enter in and possess the land, which Yahweh sware unto your fathers. ²So then, thou shalt remember all the way in which Yahweh thy God caused thee to journey these forty years in the desert,—that he might humble thee to put thee to the proof to know what was in thy heart,—whether thou wouldst keep his commandments or not. ³So he humbled thee, and suffered thee to hunger, and fed thee with manna which thou hadst not known, neither had thy fathers' known,—that he might lead thee to consider that not on bread alone, shall the son of earth live, but on whatsoever cometh from the bidding of Yahweh, shall the son of earth live. ⁴Thy mantle, hath not fallen with age from off thee, and, thy foot, hath not become swollen,—these forty years. ⁵Thou must consider, then with thy heart,—that as a man chasteneth his son, Yahweh thy God, hath been chastening thee. ⁶Thou shalt therefore keep the commandments of Yahweh thy God,—to walk in his ways and to revere him. ⁷For, Yahweh thy God, is bringing thee into a good land; a land of ravines of water, of fountains and depths, coming forth in valley, and in mountain: ⁸a land of wheat and barley, and vine and fig-tree, and pomegranate,—a land of olive oil, and honey: ⁹a land wherein not in scarcity, shalt thou eat food, thou shalt lack nothing therein,—a land whose stones are iron, and out of whose hills thou mayest hew copper. ¹⁰So then thou shalt eat and be satisfied,—and bless Yahweh thy God, for the good land which he hath given unto thee. ¹¹Take heed to thyself, lest thou forget Yahweh thy God,—so as not to keep his commandments and his regulations and his statutes, which I am commanding thee to-day; ¹²lest thou eat, and be satisfied,—and goodly houses, thou build and inhabit; ¹³and thy herd and thy flock, increase, and silver and gold, increase unto thee,—and all that thou hast, increase; ¹⁴and so thy heart be lifted up,—and thou forget Yahweh thy God, who brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt out of the house of servants; ¹⁵who caused thee to journey through the great and terrible desert, of fiery serpents and scorpions, and thirsty wastes where was no water,—who brought forth for thee water out of the flinty rock; ¹⁶who fed thee with manna in the desert, which thy fathers had not known,—that he might humble thee, and that he might put thee to the proof, to do thee good in thy hereafter, ¹⁷and lest thou shouldst say in thy heart,—Mine own strength and the might of mine own hand, have gotten me this wealth. ¹⁸But thou shalt remember Yahweh thy God, that it was, he, who had been giving thee strength to get wealth,—that so he might establish his covenant which he sware to thy fathers as at this day. ¹⁹But it shall be if thou forget, Yahweh thy God, and go after ether gods, and serve them, and bow thyself down to them, I testify against you to-day, that ye shall perish: ²⁰like the nations which, Yahweh, is causing to perish from before you, so, shall ye perish, because ye would not hearken unto the voice of Yahweh your God.

⁹Hear O Israel! thou art passing, to-day, over the Jordan, to go in to dispossess nations, greater and stronger than thou,—cities great and fortified into the heavens; ²a people great and tall, the sons of Anakim,—whom, thou, knowest, and of whom thou hast heard say, Who can stand before the sons of Anak? ³So then, thou must consider to-day, that Yahweh thy God, he it is that is passing over before thee as a consuming fire, he, will destroy them, and, he, will cause them to bow down before thee,—so shalt thou dispossess them, and destroy them speedily, as Yahweh hath spoken unto thee. ⁴Do not speak in thy heart, when Yahweh thy God casteth them out from before thee saying, For mine own righteousness, hath Yahweh brought me in, to possess this land,—whereas it is for the lawlessness of these nations, that, Yahweh, is dispossessing them from before thee. ⁵Not for thine own righteousness, nor for the uprightness of thine own heart, art thou going in to possess their land,—but or the lawlessness of these nations, is, Yahweh thy God driving them out from before thee, and that he may establish the word which Yahweh swore unto thy fathers, unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob. ⁶So then, thou must consider that, not for thine own righteousness, is Yahweh thy God giving unto thee this good land to possess it,—for a stiff-necked people, thou art. ⁷Remember—do not forget, how thou didst provoke Yahweh thy God, in the desert,—yea from the day when thou earnest forth out of the and of Egypt until ye entered as far as this place, have ye been quarrelling, with Yahweh. ⁸Even in Horeb, ye provoked Yahweh to wrath,—so that Yahweh showed himself angry with you to destroy you. ⁹When I went up into the mountain to receive the tables of stone—the tables of the covenant, which Yahweh had solemnised with you, then abode I in the mountain forty days and forty nights, food, did I not, eat, and water, did I not drink. ¹⁰Then did Yahweh deliver unto me the two tables of stone, written with the finger of God,—and there was upon them, according to all the words which Yahweh had spoken with you in the mountain out of the midst of the fire in the day of the convocation. ¹¹So then it came to pass at the end of forty days and forty nights, that Yahweh gave unto me the two tables of stone the tables of the covenant. ¹²Then said Yahweh unto me—Up! get down quickly out of this mountain, for thy people whom thou hast brought forth out of Egypt, have broken faith,—they have turned aside quickly, out of the way which I commanded them,—they have made them a molten image. ¹³And Yahweh spake unto me saying,—I have looked on this people, and lo! a stiff-necked people, it is. ¹⁴Let me alone, that I may destroy them, and wipe out their name from under the heavens,—and make thee into a nation stronger and more in number than they. ¹⁵So I turned, and came down out of the mountain, now the mountain was burning with fire,—and the two tables of the covenant were upon my two hands. ¹⁶Then looked I, and lo! ye had sinned against Yahweh your God, ye had made you a molten calf,—ye had turned aside quickly, out of the way which Yahweh had commanded you. ¹⁷So I seized the two tables, and cast them from off my two hands,—and brake them in pieces before your eyes. ¹⁸Then lay I prostrate before Yahweh as at the first, forty days and forty nights, food, did I not eat, and water, did I not drink,—because of all your sin which ye had sinned, in doing the thing that was wicked, in the eyes of Yahweh. to provoke him to anger. ¹⁹For I shrank with fear from the face of the anger and the hot displeasure, wherewith Yahweh was provoked against you to destroy you,—but Yahweh hearkened unto me, even at that time. ²⁰And with Aaron, did Yahweh show himself exceedingly angry, to destroy him,—so I prostrated myself, even in behalf of Aaron at that time. ²¹And your sin which ye had made even the calf, took I and burned it up with fire, and pounded it very small, until it was fine as dust,—then cast I the dust thereof into the torrent that descended out of the mountain. ²²Also, at Taberah, and at Massah, and at Kibroth-hataavah, a cause of provocation, became ye unto Yahweh. ²³Also when Yahweh sent you out of Kadesh-barnea saying, Go up and possess the land which I have given unto you then quarreled ye with the bidding of Yahweh your God, and trusted him not, neither hearkened unto his voice. ²⁴Ye have been quarrelling, with Yahweh,—from the day that I first knew you. ²⁵Thus, then lay I prostrate before Yahweh, the forty days and the forty nights that I did lie prostrate,—because Yahweh spake of destroying you. ²⁶Therefore I prostrated myself unto Yahweh and said, My Lord Yahweh! Do not destroy thy people even thine inheritance, which thou hast redeemed in thy greatness,—which thou hast brought forth out of Egypt with a firm hand. ²⁷Have remembrance of thy servants, of Abraham, of Isaac and of Jacob,—do not regard the obduracy of this people, or their lawlessness or their sin: ²⁸lest the land out of which thou hast brought us forth say, Because Yahweh was not able to bring them into the land of which he had spoken to them,—and because he hated them, took he them forth to put them to death in the desert. ²⁹Yet, they, are thy people and thine inheritance,—whom thou hast brought forth with thy great strength, and with thy stretched-out arm.

¹⁰At that time, said Yahweh unto me—Cut thee out two tables of stone like the first, and come up unto me into the mountain,—and make thee an ark of wood; ²that

I may write, upon the tables, the words which were on the first tables which thou brakest in pieces,—then shalt thou put them in the ark. ³So I made an ark of acacia wood, and cut out two tables of stone like the first,—and went up the mountain, having the two tables in my hand. ⁴And he wrote upon the tables according to the first writing—the ten words, which Yahweh had spoken unto you in the mountain, out of the midst of the fire in the day of the convocation,—and Yahweh delivered them unto me. ⁵Then turned I, and came down out of the mountain, and put the tables in the ark which I had made,—and they have remained there, as Yahweh commanded me. ⁶And, the sons of Israel, set forward out of Beeroth Bene-jaakan to Moserah,—there, died Aaron and was buried there, and Eleazar his son became priest in his stead. ⁷From thence, set they forward unto the Gudgodah,—and from the Gudgodah to Jotbathah, a land of torrents of water. ⁸At that time, did Yahweh separate the tribe of Levi, to bear the ark of the covenant of Yahweh,—to stand before Yahweh to wait upon him and to bless in his name (until this day). ⁹For this cause, hath Levi neither portion nor inheritance with his brethren,—Yahweh, is his inheritance, as Yahweh thy God spake unto him. ¹⁰But, I, stayed in the mountain according to the former days, forty days and forty nights,—and Yahweh hearkened unto me at that time also, Yahweh was not willing a to destroy thee. ¹¹So then Yahweh said unto me, Up with thee—to break away onward, before the people,—that they may enter in and possess the land, which I swore unto their fathers, to give unto them. ¹²Now, therefore, O Israel, what is, Yahweh thy God, asking of thee,—but to revere Yahweh thy God to walk in all his ways, and to love him, and to serve Yahweh thy God, with all thy heart, and with all thy soul: ¹³to keep the commandments of Yahweh and his statutes, which I am commanding thee to-day,—for thy good? ¹⁴Lo! unto Yahweh thy God, belong the heavens even the highest heavens,—the earth, with all that is therein. ¹⁵Only unto thy fathers, Yahweh became attached so as to love them,—therefore made he choice of their seed after them—of you—out of all the peoples, (as at this day). ¹⁶Therefore must ye circumcise the foreskin of your hearts,—and your necks, must ye stiffen no more. ¹⁷For as touching Yahweh your God, he, is God of gods, and Lord of lords; the great the mighty, and the fearful GOD, who respecteth not persons, nor accepteth a bribe; ¹⁸executing the vindication of the orphan and the widow,—and loving sojourner, giving him food and raiment. ¹⁹Therefore shall ye love the sojourner,—for sojourners, became ye in the land of Egypt. ²⁰Yahweh thy God, shalt thou revere, Him, shalt thou serve,—And unto him, shalt thou cleave, And in his name, shalt thou swear. ²¹He, is thy song of praise, And, he, thy God,—who hath done with thee these great and fearful things, which thine own eyes have seen. ²²As seventy souls, went thy fathers down to Egypt,—and, now, Yahweh thy God hath made thee like the stars of the heavens for multitude.

¹¹Therefore shalt thou love Yahweh thy God and keep his observance and his statutes and his regulations and his commandments all the days. ²And ye must know to-day, (for not with your sons do I speak who know not, neither have they seen) the discipline of Yahweh your God,—his greatness, his firm hand, and his stretched-out arm; ³and his signs and his doings, which he did in the midst of Egypt,—unto Pharaoh king of Egypt and unto all his land; ⁴and what he did unto the forces of Egypt—unto his horses and unto his chariots in that he caused the waters of the Red Sea to flow over their faces, when they were pursuing after you,—and so Yahweh destroyed them (unto this day); ⁵and what he did unto you, in the desert,—until ye came in as far as this place; ⁶and what he did to Dathan and to Abiram, sons of Eliab, son of Reuben, in that the earth opened wide her mouth, and swallowed-up them and their households and their tents,—and all the living things that attended them, in the midst of all Israel. ⁷For yours, are the eyes that have seen every great deed of Yahweh,—which he hath done. ⁸Therefore shall ye keep all the commandment which I am commanding thee, today,—that ye may be strong, and so enter and possess the land, whither ye are passing over to possess it; ⁹and that ye may prolong your days upon the soil which Yahweh swore unto your fathers, to give unto them and unto their seed,—a land flowing with milk and honey. ¹⁰For the land which thou art entering to, possess, not like the land of Egypt, it is, from whence ye came out,—where thou didst sow thy seed, and then water it with thy foot, like a garden of herbs; ¹¹but the land whereinto ye are passing over to, possess it, is a land of hills, and valleys,—which of the rain of the heavens, cloth drink water: ¹²a land which Yahweh thy God careth for,—continually are the eyes of Yahweh thy God upon it, from the beginning of the year, even unto the end of the year. ¹³And it shall come to pass, if ye will hearken, unto my commandments, which, I am commanding you to-day,—to love Yahweh your God, and to serve him, with, all your heart, and with all your soul, ¹⁴then saith he I will give the rain of your land in it season, the early rain and the latter rain; so shalt thou gather in thy corn, and thy new wine and thine oil; ¹⁵and I will give grass in thy field for thy cattle,—and thou shalt eat and be satisfied. ¹⁶Take heed to yourselves, lest your heart be befooled,—and ye turn aside and serve other gods, and bow down to them. ¹⁷So would the anger of Yahweh kindle upon you and he would shut up the heavens, that them should he no rain, and the ground, would not yield her increase,—so should ye perish speedily, from off the good land, which Yahweh is giving unto you. ¹⁸Therefore shall ye lay these my words upon your heart, and upon your soul,—and bind them for a sign upon your hand, and they shall serve as bands between your eyes; ¹⁹and ye shall

teach them unto your children by speaking of them,—when thou sittest in thy house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down and when thou risest up; ²⁰and thou shalt write them upon the door-posts of thy house and within thy gates: ²¹that your days may multiply, and the days of your children, upon rite soil which Yahweh sware unto your fathers, to give unto them,—like the days of the heavens upon the earth. ²²For if ye do, indeed keep, all this commandment which I am commanding you to do it,—to love Yahweh your God, to Walk in all his ways, and to cleave unto him, ²³then will Yahweh dispossess all these nations, from before you,—and ye shall dispossess nations greater and stronger than ye: ²⁴every place whereon the sole of your foot shall tread yours, shall it be,—from the desert and the Lebanon from the river—the river Euphrates, even unto the hinder sea, shall be your boundary. ²⁵No man shall stand before you,—the dread of you and the fear of you, will Yahweh your God put forth over the face of all the land whereon ye shall tread, as he spake unto you. ²⁶See! I am setting before you to-day,—a blessing, and a curse: ²⁷the blessing, when ye shall hearken unto the commandments of Yahweh your God, which I am commanding you to-day; ²⁸and the curse if ye, shall not hearken unto the commandments of Yahweh your God, but shall turn aside out of the way which I am commanding you to-day,—to go after other gods which ye know not. ²⁹And it shall come to pass when Yahweh thy God shall bring thee into the land which thou art entering to possess, then shalt thou put the blessing, upon Mount Gerizim, and the curse, upon Mount Ebal. ³⁰Are, they, not over the Jordan on the way towards the entering in of the sun, in the land of the Canaanite who dwelleth in the plain over against Gilgal beside the Teacher's Terebinths? ³¹For ye are passing over the Jordan, to enter to possess the land which Yahweh your God, is giving unto you,—so shall ye possess it and dwell therein. ³²Therefore shall ye observe to do all the statutes and the regulations,—which I am setting before you to-day.

12These are the statutes and the regulations which ye must observe to do, in the land which Yahweh the God of thy fathers hath given unto thee, to possess it,—all the days that ye are living upon the sell: ²Ye must utterly destroy, all the places where the nations whom ye are dispossessing have served their gods,—Upon the high mountains And upon the hills, And under every green tree; ³And ye must tear down their altars And break in pieces their pillars, And, their sacred stems, must ye consume with fire, And the carved images of their gods, must ye fell to the ground,—And destroy their name out of that place. ⁴Ye must not do thus unto Yahweh your God; ⁵but, unto the place which Yahweh your God shall choose out of all your tribes, to put his name there,—as his habitation, shall ye ask your way, and come in thither; ⁶and bring in thither your ascending-offerings and your sacrifices, and your tithes, and the heave-offering of your hand,—and your vow-offerings and your freewill-offerings, and the firstlings of your herd and of your flock; ⁷and shall eat there before Yahweh your God, and rejoice in all whereunto ye are putting your hand, Ye, and your households,—wherewith Yahweh thy God hath blessed thee. ⁸Ye must not do according to all that we are doing here to-day,—every man, whatsoever is right in his own eyes. ⁹Because ye have not entered as yet,—into the resting-place and into the inheritance which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee. ¹⁰But, when ye shall pass over the Jordan, and settle down in the land which, Yahweh your God, is causing you to inherit,—and he shall give you rest from all your enemies round about, and ye shall dwell securely, ¹¹then shall it be, that unto the place which Yahweh your God shall choose to make a habitation for his name there, thither, shall ye bring in all that I am commanding you,—your ascending-offerings and your sacrifices your tithes and the heave-offering of your hand, and all your chosen vow-offerings which ye shall vow unto Yahweh. ¹²So shall ye rejoice before Yahweh your God, Ye, and your sons, and your daughters, and your servants and your handmaids,—and the Levite that is within your gates, forasmuch as he hath neither portion nor inheritance with you. ¹³Take heed to thyself, lest thou cause thine ascending-sacrifice to go up in just any place which thou shalt see; ¹⁴but, in the place which Yahweh shall choose in one of thy tribes, there, shalt thou cause thine ascending-sacrifice to go up, and, there, shalt thou do all that I am commanding thee. ¹⁵Howbeit of anything thy soul desireth, mayest thou sacrifice and so eat flesh—according to the blessing of Yahweh thy God which he hath bestowed upon thee, in all thy gates, the unclean and the clean may eat thereof,—as the gazelle and as the hart, ¹⁶Howbeit, the blood, shall ye not eat,—upon the earth, shalt thou pour it out, like water. ¹⁷Thou mayest not eat within thy gates, the tithe of thy corn or of thy new wine or of thine oil, or the firstlings of thy herd, or of thy flock,—nor any of thy vow-offerings which thou shalt vow, nor thy freewill, offerings, nor the heave-offering of thy hand; ¹⁸but before Yahweh thy God, shalt thou eat it in the place which Yahweh thy God shall choose, thou and thy son and thy daughter, and thy servant and thy handmaid, and the Levite who is within thy gates,—so shalt thou rejoice before Yahweh thy God, in all whereunto thou putttest thy hand. ¹⁹Take heed to thyself, lest thou forsake the Levite,—all thy days upon thy soil. ²⁰When Yahweh thy God shall enlarge thy boundary—as he hath spoken unto thee—and thou shalt say, I would eat flesh because thy soul desireth to eat flesh, of whatsoever thy soul desireth, mayest thou eat flesh. ²¹When the place which Yahweh thy God shall choose to put his name there, shall be I too far for thee, then shalt thou sacrifice of thy herd or of thy flock which Yahweh hath given unto thee, as I have

commanded thee,—and shalt eat, within thine own gates, of whatsoever thy soul desireth. ²²Even as the gazelle and the hart is eaten, so, shalt thou eat it,—the unclean and the clean, alike shall eat it. ²³Howbeit firmly refrain from eating the blood; for the blood, is the life,—therefore must thou not eat the life with the flesh. ²⁴Thou shalt not eat it,—upon the earth, shalt thou pour it out, like water. ²⁵Thou shalt not eat it,—that is may be well With thee and With thy children after the when thou shalt do that which is right in the eyes of Yahweh. ²⁶Howbeit, thy holy things which thou shalt have and thy vow-offerings, shalt thou take and come in, unto the place which Yahweh shall choose; ²⁷and shalt offer thine ascending-sacrifices, the flesh and the blood, upon the altar of Yahweh thy God,—and the blood of thine other sacrifices, shall be poured out upon the altar of Yahweh thy God, and then the flesh, shalt thou eat. ²⁸Observe and hear all these things which I am commanding thee,—that it may be well with thee and with thy children after thee,—unto times age-abiding, so long as thou shalt do that which is pleasing and right in the eyes of Yahweh thy God. ²⁹When Yahweh thy God shall cut off from before thee, the nations Whom thou art going in to dispossess,—and thou do dispossess them, and dwell in their land, ³⁰take heed to thyself lest thou be thrust after them, after they have been destroyed from before thee,—and lest thou enquire after their gods, saying—In what manner, did these nations serve their gods, that, I too, may do likewise? ³¹Thou shalt not do likewise unto Yahweh thy God,—for everything that is an abomination unto Yahweh which he doth hate, have they done unto their gods, for even their sons and their daughters, do they consume with fire unto their gods. ³²Whatsoever be the thing which I am commanding you, the same, shall ye observe to do,—thou shalt neither add thereunto, nor take away therefrom.

13When there shall arise in thy midst—a prophet, or a dreamer of dreams,—and he shall give unto thee a sign or a wonder; ²and the sign or the wonder shall come in, whereof he spake unto thee, saying,—Let us go after other gods, which ye know not and let us serve them ³thou shalt not hearken unto the words of that prophet, or unto that dreamer of dreams,—for Yahweh your God, is putting you to the proof, to know whether ye do love Yahweh your God, with all your heart and with all your soul. ⁴After Yahweh your God, shall ye walk And him, shall ye revere,—And his commandments, shall ye observe. And unto his voice, shall ye hearken, And him, shall ye serve And unto him, shall ye cleave. ⁵And that prophet or that dreamer of dreams, shall be put to death because he hath spoken revolt against Yahweh your God,—who brought you forth out of the land of Egypt and redeemed thee out of the house of servants, to seduce thee out of the way wherein Yahweh thy God hath commanded thee to walk,—so shalt thou consume

the wicked thing out of thy midst. ⁶When thy brother—son of thine own mother or thine own son or thine own daughter, or the wife of thy bosom, or thy friend who is as thine own soul, shall entice thee secretly, saying,—Let us go and serve other gods, whom thou hast not known, thou, nor thy fathers; ⁷of the gods of the peoples who are round about you, who are near unto thee, or who are far off from thee,—from one end of the earth even unto the other end of the earth, ⁸thou shalt not consent unto him, neither shalt thou hearken unto him,—neither shall thine eye look with pity upon him, neither shalt thou spare—neither shalt thou conceal him; ⁹but thou shalt slay, him, thine own hand, shall be on him first, to put him to death,—and the hand of all the people afterwards. ¹⁰And thou shalt stone him with stones that he die,—for he hath sought to seduce thee from Yahweh thy God, who brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of servants. ¹¹And, all Israel, shall hear and fear,—and shall not again do according to this wickedness in thy midst. ¹²When thou shalt hear—in one of thy cities which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee to dwell there—saying: ¹³There have gone forth men sons of the Abandoned One, out of thy midst, and have seduced the inhabitants of their city, saying,—Let us go, and serve other gods which ye have not known; ¹⁴and thou shalt enquire, and search out, and ask diligently,—and lo! true—certain, is the thing, this abomination, hath been done, in thy midst, ¹⁵then shalt thou smite, the inhabitants of that city with the edge of the sword, devoting it to destruction, and all that is therein and the cattle thereof: with the edge of the sword,—¹⁶and all the spoil thereof, shalt thou gather together into the midst of the broad way thereof, and shalt consume with fire the city and all the spoil thereof every whirl unto Yahweh thy God,—and it shall be a heap unto times age-abiding, it shall be built no more. ¹⁷So shall there not cleave to thy hand aught of the devoted thing,—that Yahweh may turn away, from the glow of his anger and grant thee compassion and have compassion upon thee and multiply thee, as he sware unto thy fathers; ¹⁸so long as thou shalt hearken unto the voice of Yahweh thy God, to keep all his commandments, which I am commanding thee to-day,—to do what is right in the eyes of Yahweh thy God.

14Sons, are ye unto Yahweh your God,—ye shall not cut yourselves, neither shall ye put baldness between your eyes for the dead. ²For, a holy people, thou art unto Yahweh thy God,—and, of thee, did Yahweh make choice, that thou shouldest become his people as a treasure, above all the peoples that are on the face of the ground. ³Thou shalt not eat any abominable thing. ⁴These, are the beasts which ye may eat,—the ox, the young of sheep, and the young of goats; ⁵the hart and the gazelle and the roebuck,—and the wild goat and the mountain goat, and the wild ox, and the mountain sheep. ⁶And every beast that parteth

the hoof and cleaveth the cleft into two claws, chewing the cud, among beasts, the same, shall ye eat. ⁷Nevertheless these, shall ye not eat, of them that chew the cud, and of them that divide the cloven hoof,—the camel and the hare and the rabbit for, though they do chew the cud, yet the hoof, do they not part, unclean, they are unto you. ⁸And, the swine, because though he doth divide the hoof, yet he cheweth not the cud, unclean, he is unto you,—of their flesh, shall ye not eat, and their carcasses, shall ye not touch. ⁹These, may ye eat of all that that are in the waters,—whatsoever hath fins and scales, ye may eat; ¹⁰and, whatsoever hath not, fins and scales, ye may not eat,—unclean, it is unto you. ¹¹Of every clean bird, ye may eat; ¹²saving these, of which ye may not eat,—the eagle and the ossifrage and the osprey; ¹³and the vulture and the kite, and the falcon after its kind; ¹⁴and every raven after its kind; ¹⁵and the female ostrich, and the male ostrich and the sea-gull,—and the hawk, after its kind; ¹⁶and the pelican and the bittern, and the swan; ¹⁷and the vomiting pelican and the little vulture and the gannet; ¹⁸and the stork, and the parrot, after its kind,—and the mountain-cock, and the bat. ¹⁹And, as for every creeping thing that flieth, unclean, it is unto you,—they, shall not be eaten. ²⁰All clean fowls, ye may eat. ²¹Ye shall not eat any thing that dieth of itself: to the sojourner who is within thy gates, mayest thou give it and he may eat it or thou mayest sell it to a foreigner, for a holy people, art thou unto Yahweh thy God. Thou shalt not boil a kid, in the milk of its dam. ²²Thou shalt surely tithe, all the increase of thy seed,—which the field bringeth forth year by year. ²³And thou shalt eat before Yahweh thy God—in the place which he shall choose to make a habitation for his name there,—the tithe of thy corn thy new wine and thine oil, and the firstlings of thy herd and of thy flock,—that thou mayest learn to revere Yahweh thy God all the days. ²⁴But, when the way becometh too long for thee because thou canst not carry it, because the place is too far for thee which Yahweh thy God shall choose to put his name there,—because Yahweh thy God blesseth thee, ²⁵then shalt thou turn it into silver,—and shalt bind up the silver in thy hand, and shalt journey unto the place, which Yahweh thy God shall choose; ²⁶and shalt turn the silver into whatsoever thy soul desireth—of the herd or of the flock, or of wine or of strong drink, or of whatsoever thy soul shall ask thee for,—and shalt eat it there, before Yahweh thy God, and shalt rejoice, thou and thy household, ²⁷and, the Levite who is within thy gates, thou shalt not forsake him,—for he hath neither portion nor inheritance with thee. ²⁸At the end of three years, shalt thou bring forth all the tithe of thine increase in that year,—and shalt lay it up within thy gates; ²⁹and the Levite shall come in—because he hath neither portion nor inheritance with thee—and the sojourner and the fatherless and the widow who are within thy gates, and they shall eat and be satisfied,—that Yahweh thy God may bless thee, in all the work of thy hand which thou shalt do.

15At the end of seven years, shalt thou make a release. ²And, this, shall be the manner of the release, Every creditor who lendeth aught to his neighbour, his hand shall release it,—he shall not exact it of his neighbour or his brother, because there hath been proclaimed a release unto Yahweh. ³Of a foreigner, thou mayest exact it,—but, what thou hast with thy brother, thy hand shall release; ⁴save, when there shall be among you no needy person,—for Yahweh will indeed bless, thee, in the land which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee as an inheritance to possess it: ⁵only if thou do hearken unto the voice of Yahweh thy God,—to observe to do—all this commandment which I am commanding time to-day. ⁶When, Yahweh thy God, hath blessed thee, as he spake unto thee, then shalt thou lead unto many nations but thou, shalt not borrow, and, thou shalt rule over many nations but over thee, shall they not rule. ⁷When there cometh to be among you a needy person any one of thy brethren within any one of thy gates, in thy land, which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee, thou shalt not harden thy heart nor shut thy hand from thy needy brother; ⁸but thou shalt, open, thy hand unto him,—and, lend, him enough to meet the poverty which doth impoverish him. ⁹Take thou heed to thyself lest there be something near thine abandoned heart, saying—Drawing nigh, is the seventh year the year of release, and so thine eye be evil, against thy needy brother, and thou give not unto him,—and he cry out against thee unto Yahweh, and it become in thee a sin! ¹⁰Thou shalt, give, unto him, and thy heart shall not be evil when thou givest unto him,—for on account of this very thing, will Yahweh thy God bless thee, in all that thou doest and in all whereunto thou puttest thy hand. ¹¹For the needy will not cease out of the midst of the land—for this cause, am I commanding thee, saying, Thou shalt open, thy hand unto thy brother to thy poor and to thy needy, in thy land. ¹²When thy brother a Hebrew man (or a Hebrew woman) selleth himself unto thee, then shall he serve thee six years,—and in the seventh year, shalt thou let him go out free from thee; ¹³and when thou lettest him go out free, from thee, thou shalt not let him go out empty: ¹⁴thou shalt, richly load, him out of thy flock, and out of thy threshing-floor and out of thy wine-vat,—of that wherewith Yahweh thy God hath blessed thee, shalt thou give unto him; ¹⁵and thou shalt remember that a servant, thou wast in the land of Egypt, and that Yahweh thy God, redeemed thee,—for this cause, am I commanding thee this thing, to-day. ¹⁶And it shall be, if he shall say unto thee, I will not go away from thee,—because he loveth thee, and thy household, because he is well off with thee, ¹⁷then shalt thou take an awl and thrust it through his ear unto the door, so shall he be thy servant all his life. And unto thine handmaid also, shalt thou do thus. ¹⁸It shall not be hard in thine eyes when thou lettest

him go out free, from thee; for to the double of the hire of a hireling, hath he served thee six years,—so will Yahweh thy God bless thee, in all that thou doest. ¹⁹Every firstling that is brought forth in thy herd and in thy flock that is a male, shalt thou hallow unto Yahweh thy God,—thou shalt not work with a firstling of thine oxen, neither shalt thou shear a firstling of thy flock: ²⁰before Yahweh thy God, shalt thou eat it year by year, in the place which Yahweh shall choose,—thou, and thy households. ²¹But, when there is in it any blemish, lameness or blindness, any ill blemish, thou shalt not sacrifice it unto Yahweh thy God: ²²within thine own gates, mayest thou eat it,—the unclean of you and the clean alike, as the gazelle and as the hart. ²³Only the blood thereof, shalt thou not eat,—on the earth, shalt thou pour it out like water.

16Observe the month of Abib, when thou shalt keep a passover unto Yahweh thy God,—for in the month of Abib, did Yahweh thy God bring thee forth out of Egypt by night: ²therefore shalt thou sacrifice a passover unto Yahweh thy God of flock or herd,—in the place which Yahweh shall choose to make a habitation for his name there. ³Thou shalt not eat therewith any thing leavened, seven days, shalt thou eat therewith unleavened cakes the bread of humiliation,—for in haste, camest thou forth out of the land of Egypt, that thou mayest remember the day when thou earnest forth out of the land of Egypt, all the days of thy life. ⁴And there shall not be seen with thee leaven in any of thy bounds seven days,—neither shall there remain all night of the flesh which thou shalt sacrifice in the evening, on the first day, unto the morning. ⁵Thou mayest not sacrifice the passover,—within any of thine own gates which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee; ⁶but in the place which Yahweh thy God shall choose to make a habitation for his name, there, shalt thou sacrifice the passover in the evening,—at the going in of the sun, at the very time thou earnest forth out of Egypt. ⁷Therefore shalt thou cook and eat it in the place which Yahweh thy God, shall choose,—and shalt turn away in the morning, and go thy way unto thy tents. ⁸Six days, shalt thou eat unleavened cakes,—and, on the seventh day, shall be a closing feast, unto Yahweh thy God, thou shalt do no work. ⁹Seven weeks, shalt thou count unto thee,—from the beginning of thrusting in the sickle into the standing corn, shalt thou begin to count, seven weeks. ¹⁰So shalt thou keep the festival of weeks unto Yahweh thy God, in the measure of the freewill offering of thy hand which thou shalt give,—as Yahweh thy God shall bless thee. ¹¹So shalt thou rejoice before Yahweh thy God—thou, and thy son and thy daughter and thy servant and thy handmaid, and the Levite who is within thy gates, and the sojourner, and the fatherless and the widow who are in thy midst,—in the place which Yahweh thy God shall choose, to make a habitation for his name there. ¹²So shalt thou remember that a servant, thou wast in Egypt,—and shalt observe and do these statutes. ¹³The festival of booths, shalt thou keep for thyself seven days,—when thou hast gathered in out of thy threshing-floor and out of thy wine-vat. ¹⁴And thou shalt rejoice in thy festival,—thou, and thy son and thy daughter, and thy servant and thy handmaid, and the Levite and the sojourner, and the fatherless and the widow, who are within thy gates. ¹⁵Seven days, shalt thou keep festival unto Yahweh thy God, in the place which Yahweh shall choose,—for Yahweh thy God, will bless thee, in all thine increase and in all the work of thy hands,—therefore shalt thou do nothing but, rejoice. ¹⁶Three times in the year, shall each one of thy males see the face of Yahweh thy God, in the place which he shall choose, at the festival of unleavened cakes and at the festival of weeks and at the festival of booths,—and none shall see the face of Yahweh empty-handed: ¹⁷every man according as his hand can give,—according to the blessing of Yahweh thy God, which he hath bestowed upon thee. ¹⁸Judges and officers, shalt thou appoint thee in all thy gates, which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee, by thy tribes,—and they shall judge the people, with righteous judgment, ¹⁹Thou shalt not wrest judgment, thou shalt not take note of faces,—nor shalt thou accept a bribe, for the bribe, blindeth the eyes of wise men, and perverteth the words of righteous men. ²⁰What is right, what is right, shalt thou pursue,—that thou mayest live and possess the land, which, Yahweh thy God, is giving unto thee. ²¹Thou shalt not plant thee, as a sacred stem, any tree,—near unto the altar of Yahweh thy God which thou shalt make for thyself; ²²neither shalt thou set thee up a pillar,—which Yahweh thy God, doth hate.

17Thou shalt not sacrifice unto Yahweh thy God a bullock or a sheep wherein is a blemish, any unseemly thing: for an abomination unto Yahweh thy God, it would be. ²When there shall be found in thy midst, within any of thy gates, which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee, man or woman who doeth the thing which is wicked in the eyes of Yahweh thy God by transgressing his covenant; ³yea hath gone, and served other gods, and bowed down unto them,—whether unto the sun or unto the moon or unto any of the host of the heavens which I have not commanded; ⁴and it shall be told thee and thou shalt hear,—and shalt enquire diligently, and lo! true—certain, is the report, this abominable thing hath been done in Israel, ⁵then shalt thou bring forth that man or that woman who hath done this wicked thing, within thy gates—the man, or the woman,—and shalt stone them with stones that they die. ⁶At the mouth of two witnesses or three witnesses, shall he that is to die be put to death,—he shall not be put to death at the mouth of one witness. ⁷The hand of the witnesses, shall be upon him first to put him to death, and the hand of all the people, afterwards,—so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of thy midst. ⁸When any matter of judgment, shall be too difficult for thee—between blood and blood between plea and plea or between stroke and stroke, matters of contention within thy gates, then shalt thou arise and go up unto the place which Yahweh thy God shall choose; ⁹and shalt come in unto the priests the Levites, and unto the judge who shall be in those days,—and shalt enquire and they shall declare unto thee, the sentence of judgment; ¹⁰and thou shalt do according to the sentence which they shall declare unto thee, out of that place, which Yahweh, shall choose,—yea thou shalt observe to do according to all which they shall direct thee: ¹¹according to the direction wherewith they direct thee and after the judgment which they shall announce to thee, shalt thou do,—thou shalt not turn aside from the sentence which they shall declare unto thee to the right hand or to the left. ¹²And, the man who shall do presumptuously by not hearkening unto the priest that standeth to minister there to Yahweh thy God, or unto the judge, that man shall die, and so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of Israel. ¹³And, all the people, shall hear and fear,—and shall not act presumptuously any more. ¹⁴When thou shalt enter into the land which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee, and shalt possess it and dwell therein,—and shalt say—I will set over me a king, like all the nations that are round about me, ¹⁵thou shalt, set, over thee as king, him whom Yahweh thy God shall choose,—out of the midst of thy brethren, shalt thou set over thee a king, thou mayest not appoint over thee a man that is a foreigner, who is not thy brother. ¹⁶Moreover he shall not multiply to himself horses, neither shall he cause the people to return to Egypt that he may multiply horses,—when, Yahweh, hath said unto you, Ye shall not again return this way any more. ¹⁷Neither shall he multiply to himself wives, that his heart turn not aside,—nor silver and gold, shall he multiply to himself greatly. ¹⁸But it shall be when he sitteth upon the throne of his kingdom, then shall he write for himself a copy of this law upon a scroll, out of that which is before the priests the Levites: ¹⁹so shall it be with him, and he shall read therein all the days of his life,—that he may learn to revere Yahweh his God, to observe all the words of this law and these statutes to do them: ²⁰that his heart may not be lifted up above his brethren, and he may not turn aside from the commandment to the right hand or to the left,—that he may prolong his days over his kingdom—he and his sons, in the midst of Israel.

¹⁸Neither the priests the Levites nor any of the tribe of Levi, shall have either portion or inheritance with Israel,—the altar-flames of Yahweh and his inheritance, shall they eat. ²But inheritance, shall he not have, in the midst of his brethren,—Yahweh, is his inheritance, as he spake unto him. ³This, therefore shall be the due of the priests from the people from them who offer the sacrifice whether ox or lamb,—there shall be given unto the priest, the shoulder and the two cheeks and the maw: ⁴the firstfruit of thy corn thy new wine and thine oil and the first of the fleece of thy flock, shalt thou give unto him. ⁵For of him, hath Yahweh thy God made choice out of all thy tribes,—to stand to minister in the name of Yahweh of him and his sons all the days. ⁶And when the Levite shall come in out of any of thy gates out of any part of Israel, where he is sojourning,—yea shall come in with all the desire of his soul, into the place which Yahweh shall choose, ⁷then may he minister in the name of Yahweh his God,—like any of his brethren the Levites who are standing there before Yahweh. ⁸Portion for portion, shall they eat,—apart from his possessions upon his patrimony. ⁹When thou art coming into the land which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee, thou shalt not learn to do according to the abominable doings of those nations. ¹⁰There shall not be found in thy midst—One who causeth his son or his daughter to pass through fire,—Or who useth divination, hidden arts or enchantments Or who muttereth incantations; ¹¹Or who bindeth with spells,—Or who asketh of a familiar spirit or an oracle, Or who seeketh unto the dead. ¹²For, an abomination unto Yahweh, is everyone who doeth these things,—and on account of these abominations, is Yahweh thy God dispossessing them from before thee. ¹³Blameless, shalt thou be with, Yahweh thy God; ¹⁴for, these nations whom thou art dispossessing, unto them who use hidden arts and unto diviners, do hearken, but as for thee, not so, doth Yahweh thy God suffer thee. ¹⁵A prophet out of thy midst of thy brethren like unto me, will Yahweh thy God, raise up unto thee—unto him, shall ye hearken: ¹⁶according to all which thou didst ask of Yahweh thy God, in Horeb, in the day of the convocation saying,—Let me no further hearken unto the voice of Yahweh my God, and this great fire, let me not see any more lest I die. ¹⁷And Yahweh said unto me: They have well said what they have spoken. ¹⁸A prophet, will I raise up unto them, out of the midst of their brethren, like unto thee,—and I will put my words in his mouth, so shall he speak unto them whatsoever I shall command him. ¹⁹And it shall come to pass, that, the man who will not hearken unto my words which he shall speak in my name, I, myself will require it of him. ²⁰Howbeit the prophet who shall presume to speak a word in my name which I have not commanded him to speak, or who shall speak in the name of other gods, that prophet shall die. ²¹And, when thou shalt say in thy heart,—In what manner shall we know the word which Yahweh hath not spoken!?, ²²When the prophet shall speak in the name of Yahweh and the word shall not come to pass, neither shall come in, that, is the word which Yahweh, hath not spoken,—presumptuously, hath the prophet spoken it, thou shall not be in dread of him.

¹⁹When Yahweh thy God, shall cut off the nations

whose land Yahweh thy God is giving thee,—and thou shalt dispossess them, and dwell in their cities and in their houses, ²three cities, shalt thou set apart for thee,—in the midst of thy land which Yahweh thy God is giving thee to possess. ³Thou shalt prepare for thee a way, and shalt divide into three parts the boundary of thy land which Yahweh thy God shall cause thee to inherit,—and it shall be that every manslayer shall flee thither. ⁴And, this, is the case of the manslayer, who shall flee thither and live,—Whoso shall smite his neighbour unwittingly, he, not having hated him aforetime; ⁵as when one entereth with his neighbour into a forest, to fell trees, and his hand fetcheth a stroke with the axe, to cut down the tree, and the head flieth off from the handle, and lighteth upon his neighbour, that he die, he, shall flee into one of these cities, and live; ⁶lest the blood redeemer pursue the manslayer because his heart is hot, and overtake him because the way is long, and he smite him so as to take away his life,—he not being worthy of death, seeing that he had not been hating him aforetime. ⁷For this cause, am I commanding thee saying,—Three cities, shalt thou set apart for thee. ⁸But, if Yahweh thy God should enlarge thy heralds, as he aware unto thy fathers,—and should give thee all the land, which he spake of giving unto thy fathers; ⁹because thou dost observe all this commandment to do it which I am commanding thee to-day, to love Yahweh thy God and to walk in his paths all the days, then shalt thou add unto thee yet three cities, unto these three; ¹⁰that innocent blood may not be sired in the midst of thy land, which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee as an inheritance,—and so shed-blood be upon thee. ¹¹But, when any man shall be hating his neighbour, and shall lie in wait for him and rise up against him, and smite him so as to take away his life that he dieth,—and shall then flee into one of these cities, ¹²then shall the elders of his city send and fetch him from thence,—and deliver him into the hand of the blood redeemer that he die; ¹³thine eye shall not look with pity upon him,—so shall thou consume the shedding of innocent blood out of Israel and it shall go well with thee. ¹⁴Thou shalt not move back the boundary of thy neighbour, by which they set bounds at first,—in thine inheritance which thou shalt receive in the land which Yahweh thy God is giving thee to possess. ¹⁵One witness I shall not rise up, against a man for any iniquity, or for any sin, with regard to any sin that he may commit,—at the mouth of two witnesses or at the mouth of three witnesses, must a matter be establish. ¹⁶When there shall rise up a wrongful witness against a man,—to answer against him perversely, ¹⁷then shall the two men who are at variance stand before Yahweh,—before the priests and the judges who shall be in those days; ¹⁸and the judges shall make diligent inquisition,—and lo! if the witness be, a false witness and, falsely, have answered against his brother, ¹⁹then shall ye do unto him as he had thought to do unto his brother,—so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of thy midst; ²⁰and, they who remain shall hear and fear,—and not go on to do again according to this wicked thing, in thy midst: ²¹neither shall thine eye pity,—life for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot.

20When thou shalt go out to wage war against thine enemy, and shalt see the horses and chariots of a people more in number than thou, thou shalt not be afraid of them,—for, Yahweh thy God, is with thee, who brought thee up out of the land of Egypt. ²And it shall be, when ye are coming nigh unto the battle, that the priest shall approach and speak unto the people; ³and shall say unto them,—Hear, O Israel, ye are coming near to-day, unto battle against your enemies,—let not your heart faint do not fear nor start nor quake because of them. ⁴For Yahweh your God, is he that is going with you,—to fight for you against your enemies to save you. ⁵Then shall the officers speak unto the people saying, Who is the man that hath built a new house and hath not dedicated it? let him go and return unto his house,—lest he die in the battle, and, another man dedicate it. ⁶And who is the man that hath planted a vineyard and hath not thrown it open? let him go and return unto his house,—lest he die in the battle, and another man, throw it open. ⁷And who is the man that hath betrothed a wife and hath not taken her? let him go and return unto his house,—lest he die in the battle, and, another man, take her. ⁸Then shall the officers further speak unto the people, and say—Who is the man that is fearful and faint-hearted? let him go and return unto his house,—lest his brethren's heart melt as well as his heart. ⁹And it shall be, when the officers have made an end of speaking unto the people, then shall they appoint captains of hosts at the head of the people. ¹⁰When thou shalt come nigh unto a city, to fight against it,—then shalt thou proclaim unto it—peace, ¹¹and it shall be if peace, be the answer it giveth thee, and it open unto thee, then shall it be, that, all the people that are found therein, shall become thy tributaries and shall serve thee. ¹²But if it will not make peace with thee, but will make war with thee, then shalt thou lay siege to it; ¹³and Yahweh thy God will deliver it into thy hand,—and thou shalt smite every male thereof with the edge of the sword; ¹⁴but the women and the little ones and the cattle and all that shall be in the city—all the spoil thereof, shalt thou take as thy prey,—so shalt thou eat the spoil of thine enemies, whom Yahweh thy God hath delivered unto thee. ¹⁵Thus, shalt thou do unto all the cities that are very far away from thee,—which are not of the cities of those nations. ¹⁶But of the cities of these peoples which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee as an inheritance, shalt thou not save alive, any breathing thing. ¹⁷But thou shalt devote them to destruction—the Hittites and the Amorites the Canaanites and the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites,—as Yahweh thy God hath commanded thee: ¹⁸lest they teach you to do, according to all their abominations, which they have done unto their gods,—and so ye sin against Yahweh your God. ¹⁹When thou shalt besiege a city for many days to fight against it, to take it, thou shalt not destroy the trees thereof by wielding against them an axe, when of them, thou mightest eat, them, therefore shalt thou not cut down,—for, Is the tree of the field, a man, that it should enter, because of thee into the siege? ²⁰Nevertheless, the tree of which thou knowest that it is, not a tree yielding food, the same, mayest thou destroy, and cut down,—and so build up a siege-work against the city which is making war with thee, until thou hast subdued it.

21When there shall be found one slain on the soil which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee to possess, lying prostrate in the field,—it not being known who smote him, ²then shall thine elders and thy judges go forth,—and measure unto the cities that are round about the slain; ³and it shall be that the city that is nearest unto the slain, the elders of that city shall take a heifer of the herd which hath not been wrought with, which hath not drawn in a yoke; ⁴and the elders of that city shall take down the heifer into a ravine with an everflowing stream, which is neither tilled nor sown,—and shall behead there the heifer in the ravine. ⁵Then shall the priests the sons of Levi come near, for of them, hath Yahweh thy God made choice to wait upon him, and to bless in the name of Yahweh,—and at their bidding, shall be settled every controversy and every punishment; ⁶and, all the elders of that city who are nearest unto the slain, shall bathe their hands over the heifer that hath boon beheaded in the ravine, ⁷and shall respond, and say,—Our hands, shed not this blood, neither did, our eyes, see the deed. ⁸Be propitious unto thy people Israel whom thou hast redeemed, O Yahweh, and do not impute innocent blood in the midst of thy people Israel. So shall they obtain propitiation for the guilt of shedding blood. ⁹Thou, therefore shalt consume the guilt of shedding innocent blood out of thy midst,—when thou shalt do that which is right in the eyes of Yahweh. ¹⁰When thou shalt go forth to war against thine enemies,—and Yahweh thy God shall deliver them into thy hand and thou shalt take them captive; ¹¹and shalt see among the captives a woman of beautiful figure,—and shalt have a desire unto her, and wouldest take her to thee to wife, ¹²then shalt thou bring her into the midst of thy house,—and she shall shave her head and pare her nails; ¹³and put away the raiment of her captivity from off her, and shall remain in thy house, and bewail her father and her mother for the space of a month,—and after that, mayest thou go in unto her, and he her husband, and she shall be thy wife. ¹⁴And it shall be, if thou hast no pleasure in her, then shalt thou let her go whither she will but thou shalt not sell, her for silver,—thou shalt not make merchandise of her, because thou hast humbled her. ¹⁵When a man shall have two wives—the one beloved and, the other hated, and they have borne him sons, both she that is beloved, and she that is hated,—and it shall be that the firstborn son belongeth to her that is hated, ¹⁶then shall it be, that in the day when he maketh his sons to inherit that which he hath, he may not treat the son of the beloved, instead of the son of the hated, as the firstborn; ¹⁷but the true firstborn the son of her that is hated, shall he treat as firstborn by giving him double out of all that is found to be his,—for, he, is the beginning of his strength, his, is the right of the firstborn. ¹⁸When a man hath a son, rebellious and insulting, who will not hearken to the voice of his father, and to the voice of his mother,—though they chastise him, yet will not hearken unto them, ¹⁹then shall his father and his mother, lay hold of him,—and bring him forth unto the elders of his city, and unto the gate of his place; ²⁰and shall say unto the elders of his city: This our son, is rebellious and insulting,—he will not hearken unto our voice,—a glutton and a tippler. ²¹Then shall all the men of his city stone him with stones that he die, so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of thy midst,—and, all Israel, shall hear and fear. ²²But when there shall be in any man a sin worthy of death and he is to be put to death,—and thou shalt hang him on a tree, ²³his dead body shall not remain all night upon the tree but thou shalt bury, him on the same day, for a reproach unto God, is he that is hanged,—so shalt thou not make unclean thy soil which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee for an inheritance.

22Thou shalt not see the ox of thy brother or his sheep, going astray, and turn away from them,—thou shalt, bring them back unto thy brother. ²And, if thy brother be not nigh unto thee or thou know him not, then shalt thou make room for it within thee own shed and it shall be with thee, until thy brother seek after it, when thou shalt return it unto him. ³And, so, shalt thou do with his ass, and, so, shalt thou do with his mantle and, so, shalt thou do with any lost thing of thy brothers, which shall go astray from him and thou shalt find,—thou mayest not turn away. ⁴Thou shalt not see the ass of thy brother or his ox fallen in the way, and turn away from them,—thou shalt, raise, them with him. ⁵A woman shall not have on the wearing apparel of a man, nor shall a man put on the mantle of a woman; for an abomination to Yahweh thy God, is any one who doeth these things. ⁶When a bird's-nest chanceth to be before thee,—in the way, in any tree or upon the ground, whether with nestlings or eggs, and, the mother, be sitting upon the nestlings or upon the eggs, thou shalt not take the mother upon the young; ⁷thou shalt let toll the mother, and then, her young, mayest thou take for thyself,—that it may go well with thee, and that thou mayest prolong thy days. ⁸When thou buildest a new house, then shalt thou make a parapet to thy roof, so shalt thou not treasure up blood-guiltiness against thy house, for he that is in danger of falling might fall therefrom. ⁹Thou shalt not sow thy vineyard with two sorts of seed,—lest the fulness of the seed which thou sowest, and the increase of thy vineyard be profaned. ¹⁰Thou shalt not plough with an ox and an ass together, ¹¹Thou shalt not put on linsey-woolsey, of wool and flax together. ¹²Tassels, shalt thou make thee,—on the four corners of thy vesture, wherewith thou dost cover thyself. ¹³When a man taketh a wife,—and goeth in unto her and hateth her; ¹⁴and raiseth against her occasions of speech, and bringeth upon her an evil name, and saith—This woman, I took, and approached her, and found not that she had the tokens of virginity, ¹⁵then shall the father of the damsel and her mother take and bring forth the tokens of the virginity of the damsel, unto the elders of the city, in the gate; ¹⁶and the father of the damsel shall say unto the elders,—My daughter, gave I unto this man to wife and he hated her; ¹⁷and lo! he, hath raised occasions of speech, saying—I found not that thy daughter had the tokens of virginity and yet, these, are the tokens of the virginity of my daughter. And they shall spread out the garment before the elders of the city. ¹⁸Then shall the elders of that city take the man, and chastise him; ¹⁹and fine him a hundred shekels of silver and give unto the father of the damsel, because he hath brought an evil name upon a virgin of Israel, and she shall remain his wife, he may not put her away, all his days. ²⁰But if this thing be true, and the tokens of virginity be not found with the damsel, ²¹then shall they bring forth the damsel into the entrance of her father's house, and the men of her city shall stone her with stones that she die, because she hath wrought wickedness in Israel, by committing unchastity in her father's house,—so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of thy midst. ²²When a man is found lying with a woman married to a husband, then shall, both, of them die, the man that lay with the woman, and the woman, so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of Israel. ²³When a damsel that is a virgin is betrothed to a husband,—and a man findeth her in the city, and lieth with her, ²⁴then shall ye bring them, both, out unto the gate of that city, and stone them with stones that they die, the damsel, because she made not an outcry in the city, and the man because he hath humbled his neighbour's wife,—so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of thy midst. ²⁵But if in the field, the man find the betrothed damsel and the man force her and lie with her, then shall the man that lay with her die he alone; ²⁶but, unto the damsel, shalt thou do nothing, the damsel, is not guilty of a sin worthy of death, for as when a man riseth up against his neighbour, and smiteth him so as to take away life, so, is this matter; ²⁷for in the field, he found her,—the betrothed damsel, made an outcry, and there was none to save her. ²⁸When a man findeth a damsel that is a virgin who is not betrothed, and layeth hold of her and lieth with her, and they are found, ²⁹then shall the man who lay with her give unto the damsel's father fifty shekels of silver,—and she shall be, his, wife, because he hath humbled her, he may not put her away, all his days. ³⁰A man shall not take his father's wife,—neither shall he turn aside his father's coverlet.

23Neither he that hath been mutilated by crushing, nor he that hath had his privy member cut off, shall enter into the convocation of Yahweh. ²A bastard shall not enter into the convocation of Yahweh,—even to the tenth generation, shall none of his enter into the convocation of Yahweh. ³Neither an Ammonite nor a Moabite shall enter into the convocation of Yahweh,—even to the tenth generation, shall none that belong to them enter into the convocation of Yahweh, unto times age-abiding: ⁴because they met you not with bread and water, in the way, when ye came forth out of Egypt,—but hired against thee Balaam son of Beer from Pethor of Mesopotamia, to curse thee. ⁵Nevertheless, Yahweh thy God consented not to hearken unto Balaam, but Yahweh thy God turned, for thee, the curse into a blessing,—because Yahweh thy God loved thee. ⁶Thou shalt not seek their peace nor their welfare,—all thy days, unto times age-abiding. ⁷Thou shalt not abhor an Edomite, for thy brother, he is,—thou shalt not abhor an Egyptian, for a sojourner, becamest thou in his land; ⁸the sons who are born to them, of the third generation, may enter unto them in the convocation of Yahweh. ⁹When thou goest forth into camp against thine enemies, then shalt thou beware of everything foul. ¹⁰When there is in thy midst a man who is not clean through a mischance of the night, then shall he go forth unto the outside of the camp, he shall not come into the midst of the camp; ¹¹but it shall be, when the evening cometh on, he shall bathe himself in water,—and at the going in of the sun, he shall come into the midst of the camp. ¹²And a place aside, shalt thou have, without the camp,—whither thou canst go forth abroad; ¹³and a blade, shalt thou have upon thy staff,—so shall it be, that when thou wouldest sit down outside, thou shalt dig therewith, and shalt turn back and cover that which hath passed from thee: ¹⁴for, Yahweh thy God, walketh to and fro in the midst of thy camp, to rescue thee, and to deliver up thine enemies before thee, so shall thy camps be holy,—and he shall see in thee no shameful thing, that he should turn away from following thee. ¹⁵Thou shalt not deliver up a slave unto his lord,—one who maketh his escape unto thee, from his lord: ¹⁶with thee, shall he remain in thy midst, in the place which he shall choose in any of thy gates where it seemeth good to him,—thou shalt not oppress him. ¹⁷There shall be no female devotee of the daughters of Israel,—neither shall there be, a male devotee, of the sons of Israel. ¹⁸Thou shalt not bring the wages of an unchaste woman, or the hire of a dog, into the house of Yahweh thy God for any vow,—for, an abomination unto Yahweh thy God, are they both. ¹⁹Thou shalt not lend on interest to thy brother, interest of silver, interest of food,—interest of any thing that can be lent on interest: ²⁰to a foreigner, thou mayest lend on interest, but to thy brother, shalt thou not lend on interest,—that Yahweh thy God may bless thee, in everything where-unto thou puttest thy hand, upon the land which thou art entering to possess. ²¹When thou shalt vow a vow unto Yahweh thy God, thou shalt not delay to make it good,—for Yahweh thy God would, require, it of thee, and it should be in thee sin. ²²But, if thou refrain from vowing, it shall not be in thee sin. ²³That which goeth forth out of thy lips, thou must observe and do,—according as thou didst vow unto Yahweh thy God the free-will, offering of which thou didst speak with thy mouth. ²⁴When thou enterest into the vineyard of thy neighbour, then mayest thou eat grapes at thy pleasure to thy fill,—but into thy vessel, shalt thou put none. ²⁵When thou enterest the standing corn of thy neighbour, thou mayest pluck off ears with thy hand,—but a sickle, shalt thou not wield against the standing corn of thy neighbour.

24When a man taketh a woman, and marrieth her, then shall it be, if she find not favour in his eyes, because he hath found in her some matter of shame, that he shall write her a scroll of divorcement, and put it into her hand, and shall send her forth, out of his house. ²And, when she cometh forth out of his house, then may she go her way, and become another man's. ³But if the latter husband hate her, and write her a scroll of divorcement and put it into her hand, and send her away out of his house,—or, if the latter husband die, who had taken her to him to wife, ⁴then may her first husband who sent her away not again take her to become his wife after that she hath been defiled, for that were an abomination, before Yahweh,—lest thou bring sin upon the land which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee for an inheritance. ⁵When a man taketh a new wife, he shall not go forth to war, neither shall he be charged with any business,—free, shall he be for his own house one year, and shall rejoice with his wife whom he hath taken. ⁶No man shall take in pledge a handmill, or an upper millstone,—for he would be taking life, in pledge. ⁷When a man is found stealing any person from among his brethren of the sons of Israel, and making merchandise of him, or selling hint, then shall that thief die, so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of thy midst. ⁸Take heed, in the plague of leprosy, that thou observe diligently, and do,—according to all that the priests the Levites shall direct you, as I have commanded them, so shall ye observe to do. ⁹Remember that which Yahweh thy God did to Miriam,—by the way, as ye came forth out of Egypt. ¹⁰When thou lendest thy neighbour a loan of anything, thou shalt not enter into his house to secure his pledge: ¹¹outside, shalt thou stand, and the man to whom thou art lending, shall bring forth unto thee his pledge outside, ¹²And, if he be a poor man, thou shalt not sleep in his pledge: ¹³thou shalt, restore, to him the pledge at the going in of the sun, so shall he sleep in his own mantle, and bless thee,—and, unto thee, shall it be righteous-ness before Yahweh thy God. ¹⁴Thou shalt not oppress a hired servant that is poor and needy,—of thy brethren or of thy sojourners that are in thy land, within thy gates; ¹⁵for his day, shalt thou give his hire neither shall the sun, go in upon it, for, poor, he is, and, unto it, is he lifting up his soul,—lest he cry out against thee, unto Yahweh, and it be, in thee a sin. ¹⁶Fathers shall not be put to death for sons, nor shall sons, be put to death for fathers,—every man, for his own sin, shall he put to death. ¹⁷Thou shalt not pervert the judgment of the sojourner or the fatherless,—neither shalt thou take in pledge the garment of a widow; ¹⁸so shalt thou remember that, a servant, becamest thou in Egypt, and that Yahweh thy God, redeemed thee, from thence,—therefore, am I commanding thee to do this thing. ¹⁹When thou cuttest down thy harvest in thy field and forgettest a sheaf in the field, thou shalt not turn back to fetch it, to the sojourner, to the fatherless, and to the widow, shall it belong,—that Yahweh thy God, may bless thee, in all the Work of thy hands. ²⁰When thou beatest thine olive-tree, thou shalt not glean after thee,—to the sojourner to the fatherless and to the widow, shall it belong, ²¹When thou cuttest off the grapes of thy vineyard, thou shalt not go about picking after thee,—to the sojourner to the fatherless and to the widow, shall it belong: ²²so shalt thou remember that a servant, becamest thou in the land of Egypt,—therefore, am I commending thee to do this thing.

25When there ariseth a controversy between men, and they come nigh unto judgment, and judgment is granted them, then shall they justify the righteous man, and condemn the lawless. ²And it shall be—if the lawless man be, worthy of stripes, then shall the judge cause him to lie down and he beaten before him, according to the measure of his lawlessness, by number: ³forty stripes, may he give him not going beyond,—lest, if he do go beyond to smite him above these, with many stripes, then should thy brother be of no account in thine eyes. ⁴Thou shalt not muzzle an ox when he is treading out the corn. ⁵When brethren dwell together, and one of them dieth, having, no son, the wife of the dead shall not marry outside to a stranger,—her husband's brother, shall go in unto her, and take her unto him to wife and do for her as a husband's brother. ⁶And it shall be, that, the firstborn which she beareth, shall succeed in the name of his brother who is dead,—so shall his name not be wiped out from Israel. ⁷But, if the man like not to take his sister-in-law, then shall his sister-in-law go up unto the gate, unto the elders, and say—My husband's brother hath refused, to raise up unto his brother a name in Israel, he is not willing to do as a husband's brother unto me. ⁸Then shall the elders of his city call him and speak unto him,—and he shall stand and say, I like not to take her. ⁹Then shall his brothers wife come near unto him in the presence of the elders, and draw his shoe from off his foot, and spit in his face,—and respond and say, Thus shall it be done unto the man who will not build up the house of his brother. ¹⁰And his name shall be called in Israel,—The house of him who had his shoe drawn off. ¹¹When men strive together one with another, and the wife of the one draweth near to deliver her husband out of the hand of him that smiteth him,—and she putteth forth her hand, and seizeth him by his parts of shame, ¹²then shalt thou cut off her hand, thine eye shall not pity. ¹³Thou shalt not have in thy bag divers weights,—a great and a small. ¹⁴Thou shalt not have in thy house divers measures,—a great and a small. ¹⁵A weight full and just, shalt thou have, a measure full and just, shalt thou have,—that thy days may be prolonged upon the soil which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee. ¹⁶For an abomination unto Yahweh thy God, is every one that doeth these things,—every one that doeth unjustly. ¹⁷Remember that which Amalek did unto thee by the way when ye came forth out of Egypt; ¹⁸how he encountered thee by the way and cut off in thy rear all the worn-out behind thee, thou thyself, being weary and worn,—how he feared not God. ¹⁹Therefore shall it be when Yahweh thy God hath given thee rest from all thine enemies round about in the land which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee for an inheritance to possess it, then shalt thou wipe out the remembrance of Amalek from under the heavens,—thou shalt not forget.

26 And it shall be when thou shalt enter into the land which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee for an inheritance, and shalt possess it and dwell therein, ²then shalt thou take—of the first of all the fruit of the soil which thou shalt bring in from thy land which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee and shalt put it in a basket,—and go thy way unto the place which Yahweh thy God shall choose, to make a habitation for his name there. ³And thou shalt come in unto the priest who shall be in those days,—and shalt say unto him—I declare to-day unto Yahweh thy God, that I am come into the land which Yahweh sware unto our fathers that he would give unto us. ⁴Then shall the priest take the basket out of thy hand,—and set it down before the altar of Yahweh thy God. ⁵And thou shalt respond and say before Yahweh thy God—A Syrian ready to perish, was my father, so he went down to Egypt, and became a sojourner there with men only few; but he became there a nation great, mighty and numerous; ⁶and the Egyptians, badly entreated us, and humiliated us,—and put upon us harsh service; ⁷so we made outcry unto Yahweh God of our fathers,—and Yahweh hearkened unto our voice, and looked upon our humiliation and our toil, and our oppression; ⁸and Yahweh, brought us forth, out of Egypt, with a firm hand and with a stretched-out arm, and with great terror,—and with signs and with wonders; ⁹and brought us into this place, and gave unto us this land, a land flowing with milk and honey. ¹⁰Now, therefore lo! I have brought in the first of the fruit of the soil, which thou hast given unto me, O Yahweh. Thus shalt thou set it down before Yahweh thy God, and shall bow thyself down before Yahweh thy God; ¹¹and shalt rejoice in all the good things which Yahweh thy God, hath given unto thee, and unto thy house,—thou and the Levite, and the sojourner who is in thy midst. ¹²When thou shalt make an end of tithing all the tithe of thine increase in the third year the year of tithing,—and shalt give unto the Levite unto the sojourner, unto the fatherless and unto the widow, and they shall eat within thy gates and be satisfied, ¹³then shalt thou say—before Yahweh thy God:—I have carefully removed that which was hallowed out of the house moreover also I have given it unto the Levite, and unto the sojourner unto the fatherless and unto the widow, according to all thy commandment which thou hast commanded me,—I have not transgressed any of thy commandments neither have I forgotten, ¹⁴I have not eaten in my sorrow therefrom neither have I removed therefrom when unclean, neither have I given thereof unto the dead,—I have hearkened unto the voice of Yahweh my God, I have done according to all which thou hast commanded me. ¹⁵Look thou down out of thy holy habitation out of the heavens and bless thy people Israel, and the soil which thou hast given unto us,—as thou didst swear unto our fathers, a and flowing with milk and honey. ¹⁶This day, is Yahweh thy God commanding thee to do these statutes and the regulations,—thou shalt therefore observe and do them, with all thy heart and with all thy soul. ¹⁷Thou hast avowed to-day that Yahweh, shall be, thy God, and that thou wilt walk in his ways, and keep his statutes and his commandments and his regulations and wilt hearken unto his voice. ¹⁸And, Yahweh, hath avowed to-day that thou shalt be, his people, as a treasure, as he spake unto thee,—and that thou shalt observe all his commandments; ¹⁹and hath avowed that he will set thee on high above all the nations which he hath made, for praise, and for renown and for glory, and that thou shalt be a holy people unto Yahweh thy God as he hath spoken.

27 And Moses with the elders of Israel commanded the people saying,—Observe all the commandment which I am commanding you to-day. ²So then it shall be in the day when ye shall pass over the Jordan, into the land which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee,—that thou shalt rear thee up great stones, and plaster them with plaster; ³and shalt write upon them all the words of this law, when thou shalt pass over,—to the end that thou mayest enter upon the land which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee a land flowing with milk and honey, as Yahweh the God of thy fathers hath spoken unto thee. ⁴So then it shall be when ye shall pass over the Jordan, that ye shall rear up these stones which I am commanding you to-day in Mount Ebal,—and thou shalt plaster them with plaster. ⁵And thou shalt build there an altar unto Yahweh thy God,—an altar of stones, thou shalt not wield thereupon any tool of iron. ⁶Of whole stones, shalt thou build the altar of Yahweh thy God,—then shalt thou cause to go up thereon ascending-sacrifices, unto Yahweh thy God; ⁷and thou shalt sacrifice peace-offerings and shalt eat there,—and rejoice before Yahweh thy God. ⁸And thou shalt write upon the stones all the words of this law doing it plainly and well. ⁹And Moses and the priests the Levites spake unto all Israel saying,—Keep silence and hear O Israel, This day, hast thou been made a people unto Yahweh thy God. ¹⁰Thou shalt therefore hearken unto the voice of Yahweh thy God,—and do his commandments and his statutes, which I am commanding thee to-day. ¹¹And Moses commanded the people on that day, saying: ¹²These, shall stand to bless the people upon Mount Gerizim, when ye have passed over the Jordan,—Simeon and Levi and Judah, and Issachar and Joseph and Benjamin; ¹³and, these, shall stand by the curse in Mount Ebal,—Reuben Gad and Asher, and Zebulun Dan and Naphtali. ¹⁴Then shall the Levites respond and say unto every man of Israel with voice uplifted:—¹⁵Cursed, be the man that maketh an image—cut or molten—an abomination unto Yahweh the work of the hands of the craftsman and putteth it in a secret place. And all the people shall respond and say—Amen. ¹⁶Cursed, be he that holdeth in light esteem his father or his mother. And all the people shall say—Amen. ¹⁷Cursed, be he that moveth back the boundary of his neighbour. And all the people shall say—Amen. ¹⁸Cursed, be he that causeth the blind to wander in the way. And all the people shall say—Amen. ¹⁹Cursed, be he that perverteth the right of the sojourner, the fatherless, or the widow. And all the people shall say—Amen. ²⁰Cursed, be he that lieth with his father's wife, because he hath turned aside his father's coverlet. And all the people shall say—Amen. ²¹Cursed, be he that lieth with any beast. And all the people shall say—Amen. ²²Cursed, be he that lieth with his sister, daughter of his father or daughter of his mother. And all the people shall say—Amen. ²³Cursed, be he that lieth with his mother-in-law. And all the people shall say—Amen. ²⁴Cursed, be he that smiteth his neighbour secretly. And all the people shall say—Amen. ²⁵Cursed, be he that taketh a bribe to shed innocent blood. And all the people shall say—Amen. ²⁶Cursed, be he that establisheth not the words of this law to do them. And all the people shall say—Amen.

of Yahweh thy God, to observe to do all his commandments which I am commanding thee to-day, then will Yahweh thy God set thee on high, above all the nations of the earth; ²and all these blessings shall come in upon thee, and reach thee,—because thou dost hearken unto the voice of Yahweh thy God:—³Blessed shalt, thou be in the city,—and blessed shalt thou be in the field: ⁴Blessed shall be the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy ground and the fruit of thy cattle,—the young of thy kine, and the ewes of thy flock: ⁵Blessed, shall be thy basket and thy kneading-trough: ⁶Blessed, shalt thou be when thou comest in,—and, blessed, shalt thou be when thou goest out: ⁷Yahweh will deliver thine enemies who rise up against thee, to be routed before thee,—one way, shall they come out against thee, and seven ways, shall they flee before thee: ⁸Yahweh will command to be with thee the blessing, in thy storehouses and in all whereunto thou settest thy hand,—and will bless thee in the land which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee: ⁹Yahweh will confirm thee unto himself for a holy people, as he sware unto thee,—because thou dost keep the commandments of Yahweh thy God, and dost walk in his ways. ¹⁰And all the peoples of the earth shall see that, the name of Yahweh, hath been called upon thee,—and shall be afraid of thee. ¹¹And Yahweh will cause thee to abound in that which is good, in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattle and in the fruit of thy soil,—upon the soil which Yahweh sware unto thy fathers, to give unto thee: ¹²Yahweh will open unto thee his rich storehouse—the heavens, to give the rain of thy land in its season, and to bless ever, work of thy hand, so shalt thou lend unto many nations, but thou, shalt not borrow: ¹³And Yahweh, will give thee, to be the head, and not the tail, and thou shalt be only above, and shalt not be beneath,—because thou dost hearken unto the commandments of Yahweh thy God, which I am commanding thee, to-day, to observe and to do; ¹⁴and dost not turn side from any of the words which I am commanding you to-day, to the right hand or to the left,—to go after other gods, to serve them, ¹⁵But it shall be, if thou do not hearken unto the voice of Yahweh thy God, to observe to do all his commandments and his statutes which I am commanding thee to-day, then shall come in upon thee all these curses and shall reach thee:—¹⁶Cursed, shalt thou be in the city,—and cursed, shalt thou be in the field: ¹⁷Cursed, shall be thy basket, and thy kneading-trough: ¹⁸Cursed, shall be the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy ground—the young of thy kine and the ewes of thy flock: ¹⁹Cursed, shalt thou be, when thou comest in,—and, cursed, shalt thou be, when thou goest out: ²⁰Yahweh will send upon thee cursing, confusion and rebuke, in all whereunto thou settest thy hand that thou mayest do it,—until thou be destroyed and until thou perish quickly, because of the wickedness of thy doings, whereby thou hast forsaken me. ²¹Yahweh will cause to cleave unto thee—the pestilence,—

until he hath consumed thee from off the soil which thou art entering to possess. ²²Yahweh, will smite thee, with consumption and with fever, and with inflammation and with violent heat and with the sword, and with blight and with mildew,—and they shall pursue thee, until thou perish. ²³And thy heavens which are over thy head shall become bronze,—and the earth which is under thee iron. ²⁴Yahweh will cause the rain of thy land to be powder and dust,—out of the heavens, shall it come down upon thee, until thou be destroyed. ²⁵Yahweh will give thee up to be routed before thine enemies, one way, shalt thou go out against them, and, seven ways, shalt thou flee before them,—and thou shalt become a terror unto all the kingdoms of the earth. ²⁶And thy dead body shall become food for every bird of the heavens, and for the beast of the earth,—with none to fright them away. ²⁷Yahweh, will smite thee, with the burning sores of Egypt and with the hemorrhoids, and with scab, and with itch,—of which thou canst not be healed. ²⁸Yahweh, will smite thee, with madness and with blindness,—and with terror of heart; ²⁹and thou shalt be groping about in noonday brightness, as the blind man gropeth in thick darkness, and thou shalt not make thy ways prosper,—but shalt be only oppressed and spoiled all the days with none to save. ³⁰A wife, shalt thou betroth, and, another man shall lie with her. A house, shalt thou build, and shalt not dwell therein,—A vineyard, shalt thou plant, and shalt not throw it open; ³¹Thine ox slaughtered before thine eyes, and thou shalt not eat thereof, Thine ass stolen from before thee, and shall not be restored to thee,—Thy flock given to thine enemies, and thou shalt have none to save. ³²Thy sons and thy daughters given to another people, thine eyes looking on, and failing for them all the day, thine own hand being powerless. ³³The fruit of thy soil, and all thy toilsome produce, shall a people whom thou knowest not, eat up,—and thou shalt be only oppressed and crushed, all the days; ³⁴so that thou shalt be mad,—for the sight of thine eyes which thou shalt see. ³⁵Yahweh, will smite thee, with a grievous boil, upon the knees and upon the legs, of which thou canst not be healed,—from the sole of thy foot even unto the crown of thy head. ³⁶Yahweh will bring thee and thy king whom thou wilt set up over thee, unto a nation which thou hast not known, thou nor thy fathers,—and thou shalt serve there other gods of wood and of stone. ³⁷Thus shalt thou become a horror, a byword, and a mockery, among all the peoples whither Yahweh thy God will drive thee. ³⁸Much seed, shalt thou take out into the field,—and little, shalt thou gather in, for the locust shall consume it. ³⁹Vineyards, shalt thou plant, and dress,—but wine, shalt thou not drink, neither shalt thou gather the grapes, for the worm shall eat them. ⁴⁰Olive trees, shalt thou have in all thy bounds,—but with oil, shalt thou not anoint thyself, for thine olives, shall drop off. ⁴¹Sons and daughters, shalt thou beget, and they shall not be thine, for they shall go into captivity. ⁴²All thy trees, and the fruit of thy ground, shall the grasshopper, devour. ⁴³The sojourner who is in thy midst, shall mount up above thee higher and higher,—whereas, thou, shalt come down lower and lower: ⁴⁴he, shall lend to thee, but, thou, shalt not lend to him,—he, shall become head, and, thou, shalt become tail. ⁴⁵Moreover, all these curses, shall come in upon thee, and pursue thee and overtake thee, until thou be destroyed,—because thou didst not hearken unto the voice of Yahweh thy God, to keep his commandments and his statutes which he hath commanded thee; ⁴⁶and they shall be upon thee, for a sign, and for a wonder, and upon thy seed, unto times age-abiding. ⁴⁷Because thou servedst not Yahweh thy God, with rejoicing, and with gladness of heart, for abundance of all things, ⁴⁸therefore shalt thou serve thine enemies, whom Yahweh will send against thee, with hunger and with thirst and with nakedness, and with want of all things,—and he, will put a yoke of iron upon thy neck, until he hath destroyed thee. ⁴⁹Yahweh will bring against thee a nation from afar, from the end of the earth, as darteth a bird of prey,—a nation whose tongue thou canst not understand; ⁵⁰a nation of fierce countenance,—who wilt not respect an elder nor to the young, show favour; ⁵¹then shall be eat the young of thy cattle and the fruit of thy ground until thou art destroyed, who will not leave for thee corn, new wine or oil, the young of thy kine, or the ewes of thy flock,—until he hath caused thee to perish. ⁵²And he shall lay siege to thee in all thy gates, until thy high and fortified walls come down wherein thou wast trusting, in all thy land,—yea he will lay siege to thee in all thy gates, in all thy land which Yahweh thy God, hath given, unto thee. ⁵³And thou wilt eat the fruit of thy body, the flesh of thy sons and of thy daughters, whom Yahweh thy God hath given unto thee—in the siege and in the straitness wherewith thine enemy will straiten thee. ⁵⁴The man that is tender among you, and exceedingly delicate, his eye will be jealous of his brother and of the wife of his bosom, and of the remnant of his sons, whom he might leave behind; ⁵⁵so that he will not give to any one of them, of the flesh of his sons which he will eat, because he hath nothing at all left him,—in the siege and in the straitness wherewith thine enemy will straiten thee within all thy gates. ⁵⁶The tender and delicate woman among you who hath never adventured the sole of her foot to set it upon the ground, through delicateness and through tenderness, her eye shall be jealous of the husband of her bosom, and of her own son, and of her own daughter; ⁵⁷both as to her afterbirth that cometh forth from between her feet and as to her children which she shall bear, for she will eat them for want of all things secretly,—in the siege and in the straitness wherewith thine enemy will straiten thee within thine own gates. ⁵⁸If thou wilt not take heed to do all the words of this law, which are written in this scroll,—to revere this glorious and reverend name, Yahweh

thy God, ⁵⁹then will Yahweh make thy plagues wonderful, and the plagues of thy seed,—plagues great and lasting, and diseases grievous and lasting; ⁶⁰and he will bring back on thee all the sickness of Egypt, because of which thou wast afraid,—and they shall cleave unto thee; ⁶¹even every disease and, every plague, which are not written in this scroll of the law, will Yahweh bring up against thee, until thou art destroyed, ⁶²And ye shall be left men few in number, whereas ye had become as the stars of the heavens for multitude,—because thou hast not hearkened unto the voice of Yahweh thy God. ⁶³And it shall come to pass that as Yahweh rejoiced over you to do you good and to multiply you, so, will Yahweh rejoice over you, to cause you to perish and to destroy you,—and ye shall be torn away, from off the soil, whither thou art going in to possess it; ⁶⁴and Yahweh will scatter thee among all the peoples, from one end of the earth even unto the other end of the earth,—and thou wilt serve there other gods whom thou hast not known—thou nor thy fathers,—of wood and of stone. ⁶⁵And among those nations, shalt thou find no ease, neither shall there be a place of rest for the sole of thy foot,—but Yahweh will give unto thee there a trembling heart, and a failing of eyes and faintness of soul. ⁶⁶And thy life will be hung up for thee in front,—and thou wilt be in dread by night and by day, and wilt not trust in thy life. ⁶⁷In the morning, thou wilt say—Oh that it were evening! and in the evening, thou wilt say—Oh that it were morning! because of the dread of thy heart which thou wilt dread, and because of the sight of thine eyes which thou wilt see. ⁶⁸And Yahweh will take thee back again to Egypt in ships, by the way whereof I said unto thee, Thou shalt not again any more see it. And ye will offer yourselves there for sale unto thine enemies as servants and as handmaids with no one to buy.

29These, are the words of the covenant which Yahweh commanded Moses to solemnise with the sons of Israel in the land of Moab,—besides the covenant, which he solemnised with them in Horeb. ²And Moses called unto all Israel and said unto them,—Ye yourselves, saw all that Yahweh did before your eyes in the land of Egypt, unto Pharaoh and unto all his servants and unto all his land: ³the great provings which thine own eyes saw,—those great signs and wonders: ⁴yet hath Yahweh not given onto you a heart to know, or eyes to see or ears to hear,—until this day. ⁵I led you, therefore forty years in the desert,—your mantles fell not with age, from off you, even thy sandal, fell not with age from off thy foot: ⁶Bread, ye did not eat, and wine and strong drink, ye did not drink,—that ye might know that, I, Yahweh, was your God. ⁷And when ye entered into this place, then came forth Sihon king of Heshbon and Og king of Bashan to meet us in battle and we smote them; ⁸and we took their land, and gave it for an inheritance unto the Reubenites and unto the Gadites,—and unto the half

tribe of Manasseh. ⁹Ye must, therefore, keep the words of this covenant, and do them,—that ye may prosper in all that ye do. ¹⁰Ye are stationed, to-day, all of you, before Yahweh your God,—your heads your tribes, and your elders and your officers, every man of Israel; ¹¹your little ones your wives, and thy sojourner that is in the midst of thy camps,—from him that heweth thy wood unto him that draweth thy water: ¹²that thou mayest pass through into the covenant of Yahweh thy God and into his oath,—which Yahweh thy God is solemnising with thee, to-day: ¹³that he may confirm thee to-day as his own people, while, he, becometh thine own God, as he spake unto thee,—and as he sware unto thy fathers, unto Abraham unto Isaac and unto Jacob. ¹⁴And not with you alone, am I solemnising this covenant and this oath; ¹⁵but with him who is here with us, standing to-day before Yahweh our God,—and with him who is not here with us to-day. ¹⁶(For, ye, know, how we dwelt in the land of Egypt,—and how we passed through the midst of the nations which ye did pass through; ¹⁷and ye saw their disgusting images, and their manufactured gods,—the wood and the stone, the silver and the gold that are with them.) ¹⁸Lest there be among you—a man or a woman or a family or a tribe, whose heart is turning to-day, from Yahweh our God, to go and serve the gods of those nations,—lest there be among you a root fruitful of poison and wormwood; ¹⁹and so it come to pass while he is hearing the words of this oath, that he will bless himself in his heart—saying, Prosperity, shall I have, although in the stubbornness of my heart, I go on,—so that the drunkenness addeth to the thirst: ²⁰Yahweh will not be willing to forgive him, but, then, will the anger of Yahweh and his jealousy smoke against that man, and all the oath that is written in this scroll, shall settle down upon him,—and Yahweh wipe out his name from under the heavens; ²¹and Yahweh single him out for calamity, out of all the tribes of Israel,—according to all the oaths of the covenant that is written in this scroll of the law. ²²So that the generation coming after—your sons who shall rise up after you, and the foreigner who shall come in from a far-off land, will say—when they see the plagues of that land and the sicknesses thereof wherewith Yahweh hath made it sick: ²³brimstone and salt burning up all the land thereof, it shall not be sown neither shall it shoot forth neither shall there come up thereon any herbage,—like the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah, Admah and Zeboiim, which Yahweh overthrow in his anger and in his wrath: ²⁴yea all the nations will say, For what cause, hath Yahweh done, thus, unto this land? what meaneth this great heat of anger? ²⁵Then will men say, Because they forsook the covenant of Yahweh the God of their fathers,—which he solemnised with them, when he brought them forth out of the land of Egypt; ²⁶and went and served other gods, and bowed down to them,—gods which they had not known, and in which he had given them no share: ²⁷therefore did the anger of Yahweh kindle upon that land,—to bring in upon it all the curse that is written in this scroll; ²⁸and therefore hath Yahweh rooted them out, from off their own soil, in anger and in wrath and in great indignation,—and cast them into another land as at this day. ²⁹The secret things, belong unto Yahweh our God and, the things that are revealed, belong to us and to our children unto times age-abiding, that we may do all the words of this law.

30And it shall come to pass, when all these things shall come in upon thee—the blessing and the curse, which I have set before thee,—and thou shalt bring them back unto thy heart among all the nations whither Yahweh thy God hath driven thee; ²and thou shalt return unto Yahweh thy God and shalt hearken unto his voice, according to all that I am commanding thee to-day,—thou and thy sons, with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, ³then will Yahweh thy God bring back thy captivity and have compassion upon thee,—and return and gather thee from among all the peoples whither Yahweh thy God hath scattered thee. ⁴Though thou be driven out unto the utmost part of the heavens, from thence, will Yahweh thy God gather thee, and, from thence will he fetch thee; ⁵and Yahweh thy God will bring thee into the land which thy fathers possessed, and thou shalt possess it,—and he will do thee good and multiply thee beyond thy fathers. ⁶And Yahweh thy God will circumcise thy heart, and the heart of thy seed,—to love Yahweh thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul, that thou mayest live. ⁷And Yahweh thy God will put all these oaths upon thine enemies and upon them who hated thee who persecuted thee. ⁸But, thou, wilt return, and hearken unto the voice of Yahweh,—and wilt do all his commandments, which I am commanding thee, to-day, ⁹And Yahweh thy God will make thee pre-eminent, in every work of thy hand—in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattle and in the fruit of thy ground, for good,—for Yahweh will again rejoice over thee for good, as he rejoiced over thy fathers: ¹⁰if thou hearken unto the voice of Yahweh thy God, to keep his commandments, and his statutes, which are written in this scroll of the law,—if thou return unto Yahweh thy God, with all thy heart and with all thy soul. ¹¹For as touching this commandment, which I am commanding thee to-day, it is not, too wonderful, for thee, neither is it far off. ¹²It is, not in the heavens,—that thou shouldest say—Who shall ascend for us into the heavens that he may fetch it for us, that we may hear it, and do it? ¹³Neither is it, over the sea,—that thou shouldest say, Who will pass over for us to the other side of the sea, that he may fetch it for us, that we may hear it, and do it? ¹⁴But, near unto thee, is the word, exceedingly,—in thy mouth and in thy heart, that thou mayest do it. ¹⁵See! I have set before thee, to-day, life and prosperity,—and death and calamity; ¹⁶for thou must keep the commandments of Yahweh thy God which I am commanding thee to-day, to love Yahweh thy God, to walk in his ways, and to keep his commandments and his statutes, and his regulations,—so shalt thou live and multiply, and Yahweh thy God will bless thee, in the land which thou art entering to possess. ¹⁷But, if thy heart shall turn away, and thou wilt, not hearken,—but shalt be drawn away, and shalt bow thyself down to other gods and serve them, ¹⁸I declare unto you, to-day, that ye shall perish,—ye shall not prolong your days, upon the soil which thou art passing over the Jordan to enter and possess. ¹⁹I call to witness against you to-day, the heavens and the earth, that life and death, have I set before thee, the blessing and the curse,—therefore shouldest thou choose life, that thou mayest live, thou and thy seed; ²⁰to love Yahweh thy God, to hearken unto his voice, and to cleave unto him,—for, he, is thy life, and thy length of days, that thou mayest abide upon the soil which Yahweh sware to thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac and to Jacob, to give unto them.

31And Moses went, and spake these words unto all Israel; ²and said unto them—A hundred and twenty years old, am I to-day, I can no more go out and come in,—Yahweh indeed hath said unto me, Thou shalt not pass over this Jordan. ³Yahweh thy God, is passing over before thee, he, will destroy these nations from before thee so shalt thou dispossess them,—Joshua is passing over before thee, as Yahweh hath spoken. ⁴So will Yahweh do unto them as he did unto Sihon and unto Og, kings of the Amorites, and unto the land of them whom he destroyed. ⁵So will Yahweh deliver them up before you,—and ye shall do unto them—according to all the commandment which I have commanded you. ⁶Be firm and bold, do not fear nor tremble because of them,—for Yahweh thy God, it is who is going with thee, he will not fail thee nor forsake thee. ⁷And Moses called for Joshua, and said unto him, in the sight of all Israel. Be firm and bold, for, thou, shalt go with this people into the land which Yahweh sware unto their fathers to give unto them, and, thou shalt cause them to inherit it. ⁸But, Yahweh, it is who is going before thee, he will be with thee, he will not fail thee nor forsake thee,—thou must not fear nor be dismayed. ⁹And Moses wrote this law, and delivered it unto the priests the sons of Levi, who were bearing the ark of the covenant of Yahweh,—and unto all the elders of Israel. ¹⁰And Moses commanded them, saying,—At the end of seven years in the appointed season of the year of release, during the festival of booths; ¹¹when all Israel cometh in to see the face of Yahweh thy God, in the place which he shall choose, thou shalt lead this law before all Israel, in their hearing. ¹²Call together the people—the men and the women and the little ones, and thy sojourner who is within thy gates,—that they may hear, and that they may learn, so shall they revere Yahweh your God, and observe to do all the words of this law; ¹³and that their children who know not, may hear and learn, that they may revere Yahweh your God,—all the days that ye are living upon the soil, which ye are passing over the Jordan to possess. ¹⁴Then said Yahweh unto Moses: Lo! thy days have drawn near that thou must die. Call Joshua and station yourselves in the tent of meeting, that I may command him. So Moses went, with Joshua, and they took their station in the tent of meeting. ¹⁵And Yahweh appeared in the tent, in a pillar of cloud,—and the pillar of cloud stood, at the entrance of the tent. ¹⁶Then said Yahweh unto Moses, Lo! thou art about to sleep with thy fathers,—and this people will rise up, and go away unchastely after the gods of the foreigners of the land into the midst of whom they are entering, and will forsake me and break my covenant which I solemnised with them. ¹⁷Then will mine anger kindle upon them in that day, and I will forsake them and will hide my face from them and they shall be consumed, and many calamities and misfortunes shall find them out,—and they will say, in that day, Is it not because my God is not in my midst, that these calamities have found me out? ¹⁸But, I, will utterly, hide, my face, in that day, because of all the wickedness which they have done, in that they have turned away unto other gods. ¹⁹Now, therefore write ye for you this Song, and teach it unto the sons of Israel put it in their mouths,—that this Song may become for me a witness against the sons of Israel. ²⁰When I bring them upon the soil which I swore unto their fathers, flowing with milk and honey, and they shall eat and be filled and wax fat, then will they turn away unto other gods and serve them, and despise me, and break my covenant. ²¹And it shall come to pass, when many calamities and misfortunes shall find them out, then shall this Song respond to their face, as a witness, for it shall not be forgotten out of the mouth of their seed, for I know their imagination, which they are forming to-day, ere yet I bring them into the land of which I swore unto their fathers. ²²Moses therefore wrote this Song on that day,—and taught it unto the sons of Israel. ²³And he commanded Joshua, son of Nun, and said—Be firm and bold, for, thou shalt bring the sons of Israel into the land which I have sworn to them,—and, I, will be with thee. ²⁴And it came to pass, when Moses had made an end of writing the words of this law, upon a scroll,—until he had finished them, ²⁵then Moses commanded the Levites, who were bearing the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, saying: ²⁶Take this scroll of the law, and put it at the side of the ark of the covenant of Yahweh your God,—so shall it be there in thy midst as a witness. ²⁷For, I, know thy perverseness, and thy stiff neck,—lo! while I am yet alive with you to-day, ye are, quarrelling, with Yahweh, and how much more after my death? ²⁸Call together unto me all the elders of your tribes and your officers,—and let me speak in their hearing these words, and let me take to witness against them the heavens and the earth. ²⁹For I know that after my death, ye will break faith, and turn aside out of the way which I have commanded you,—and calamity will befall you in the afterpart of the days, because ye will do the thing that is wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, to provoke him with the work of your own hands. ³⁰So Moses spake in the hearing of all the convocation of Israel the words of this Song, until they were ended:—

32Give ear O ye heavens and I will speak, And let the earth hear the sayings of my mouth: ²Let my teaching drop as the rain, Let my speech distil as the dew,—As copious rains on tender grass, As myriad drops on seeding plants. ³When, the name of Yahweh, I proclaim, Ascribe ye greatness unto our God:— ⁴A Rock! faultless his work, For, all his ways, are just, A GOD of faithfulness and without perversity, Right and fair, is he! ⁵They have broken faith with him to be no sons of his—their fault,—A generation twisted and crooked. ⁶Is it Yahweh, ye thus requite, O impious people and unwise? Is not, he, thy father who begat thee? He, that made thee and established thee? ⁷Remember the days of age-past times, Remark the years of many generations,—Ask thy father and he will tell thee, Thine elders and they will say to thee:— ⁸When the Most High gave inheritances unto the nations, When he spread abroad the sons of Adam, He set the bounds of the peoples, According to the number of the sons of Israel. ⁹For, Yahweh's portion is his people,—Jacob, his inherited possession. ¹⁰He met him in a desert land, And in the howling waste of a wilderness,—He encompassed him watched over him, Shielded him as the pupil of his own eye. ¹¹As, an eagle, stirreth up his nest, Over his young ones, fluttereth, Spreadeth abroad his wings, taketh one, Beareth it up on his pinions, ¹²Yahweh alone did lead him,—And there was with him no GOD of a stranger. ¹³He made him ride on the high places of the land, Caused him to eat the increase of the fields,—And gave him to suck honey out of the cliff, And oil out of the rock of flint: ¹⁴Curds of kine and milk of sheep,—With fat of well-fed lambs, Yea rams bred in Bashan, and he-goats, With the white of the kernels of wheat,—And, the blood of the grape, thou didst drink as it foamed. ¹⁵Then Jeshurun waxed fat, and kicked: Thou wast fat, Thou wast thick, Thou wast gorged, So he forsook the GOD who made him, And treated as foolish his Rock of salvation. ¹⁶They moved him to jealousy with foreign gods,—With abominations, angered they him: ¹⁷They sacrificed to mischievous demons to a No-GOD, Gods whom they knew not,—New ones lately come in, Your fathers never shuddered at them! ¹⁸Of the Rock who had begotten thee, thou wast unmindful,—And didst forget GOD who had given thee birth. ¹⁹When Yahweh, he derided,—Because his sons and his daughters gave pro-vocation. ²⁰So he said:—I will hide any face from them, I will see what will be their hereafter,—For a generation given to intrigue, they are, Sons, whom there is no trusting; ²¹They have moved me to jealousy with a No-GOD, They have angered me with their vanities: I, therefore, will move them to jealousy with a No-people, With an impious nation, will I anger them. ²²For, a fire, is kindled in mine anger, And shall burn as far as hades beneath,—And consume the earth with her produce, And set ablaze the foundations of the mountains: ²³I will heap on them, calamities,—Mine arrows, will I spend upon them: ²⁴The meltings of hunger, The devourings of fever, And the dangerous pestilence,—And, the tooth of beasts, will I send among them, With the poison of crawlers of the dust: ²⁵Without, shall the sword bereave, In the inmost recesses, terror,—To both young man and virgin, Suckling, with man of grey hairs. ²⁶I said, I would puff them away, I would destroy from mortals, their memory; ²⁷Were it not that the taunt of the foe, I feared, Lest their adversaries should mistake,—Lest they should say—Our own hand, is exalted, It is not Yahweh, therefore who hath wrought all this! ²⁸For a nation of vanished sagacity, they are,—And there is in them no understanding. ²⁹If they had been wise, they would have understood this,—They would have given heed to their here-after! ³⁰Oh! how would one, have chased, a thousand! And, two, put, ten thousand to flight,—Were it not that their Rock had sold them, And, Yahweh, had abandoned them; ³¹For, not like our Rock, is their rock, Our enemies themselves, being judges; ³²For of the vine of Sodom, is their vine, And of the vineyards of Gomorrah,—Their grapes, are grapes of gall, Clusters of bitter things, are theirs: ³³The poison of large serpents, is their wine,—Yea the fierce venom of asps. ³⁴Is not, that, stored up with me,—Sealed up amongst my treasures; ³⁵Unto the days of vengeance and requital: Unto the time their foot shall totter? For, near, is the day of their fate, And their destiny speedeth on. ³⁶For Yahweh will vindicate his people, And upon his servants, will have compassion,—When he seeth that strength is exhausted, And there is no one shut up or at large, ³⁷Then will he say, Where are their gods, The rock in whom they have trusted; ³⁸Who used to eat the fat of their sacrifices, To drink the wine of their libations? Let them rise up and help you, Let them be over you for a covenant! ³⁹See, now, that, I, I, am, he that is, And there are no gods with me,—I, kill—and make alive, I wound and, I, heal, And there is none who, from my hand, can deliver, ⁴⁰For I lift up unto the heavens my hand,—And say, Living am, I, unto times age-abiding: ⁴¹If I whet my flashing sword, And my hand take bold on justice, I will return vengeance unto mine adversaries, And them who hate me, will I requite: ⁴²I will make mine arrows drunk with blood, And, my sword, shall devour flesh,—With the blood of the slain and the captive, With the flesh of the chief leader of the foe. ⁴³Shout for joy O ye nations with his people, For the blood of his servants, he avengeth,—And, vengeance, he returneth unto his adversaries, And is propitious unto the soil of his people. ⁴⁴So Moses came in and spake all the words of this Song in the hearing of the people,—he and Hoshea son of Nun. ⁴⁵And, when Moses made an end of speaking all these words unto all Israel, ⁴⁶he said unto them—Apply your hearts unto all the words which I am witnessing against you, to-day,—how that ye must command your sons to observe to do all the words of this law; ⁴⁷for it is not, too small a thing, for you, for, it, is your life,—and, hereby, shall ye prolong your days upon the soil whereunto ye are, passing over the Jordan to possess it. ⁴⁸And Yahweh spake unto Moses, on this selfsame day, saying: ⁴⁹Get thee up into this mountain of the Abarim, Mount Nebo, which is in the land of Moab, which is over against Jericho—and behold the land of Canaan which I am giving unto the sons of Israel, for a possession; ⁵⁰and die thou in the mount whither thou art going up, and he withdrawn unto thy kinsfolk,—as Aaron thy brother died in Mount Hor, and was withdrawn unto his kinsfolk; ⁵¹for that ye acted unfaithfully against me in the midst of the sons of Israel, regarding the waters of Meribah-Kadesh in the desert of Zin,—for that ye hallowed me not in the midst of the sons of Israel. ⁵²Yet, over against thee, shalt thou behold the land,—but thereinto, shalt thou not enter, into the land which I am giving unto the sons of Israel.

33Now, this, is the blessing wherewith Moses, the man of God, blessed the sons of Israel,—before his death. ²And he said—Yahweh from Sinai, came near,—Yea he dawned, out of Seir, upon them, He shone forth out of Mount Paran, Yea he came out of holy myriads,—Out of his right hand proceeded fire to guide them. ³Yea he loved the tribes, All his holy ones, were in thy hand,—Yea, they, were encamped at thy feet, Each one bare away some of thy words. ⁴A law, did Moses command us,—A possession, for the convocation of Jacob. ⁵Thus became he in, Jeshurun, a king,—When the heads of the people gathered them-selves together, As one man, the tribes of Israel. Reuben — ⁶Let Reuben live and not die,—Nor his men he easily counted. ⁷And, this, is for Judah, when he said, Hear, O Yahweh, the voice of Judah, That unto his own people, thou wouldst bring him home,—Let, his own hands, suffice him, And, a helper from his adversaries, do thou become. ⁸And of Levi, he said: Let, thy perfections and thy lights, belong unto thy man of lovingkindness,—Whom thou didst put to the proof at Massah, With whom thou didst contend over the waters of Meribah; ⁹Who saith of his father and of his mother, I behold them not, And, his own brethren, regardeth he not, And, his own sons, observeth he not,—Because they watch thy speech, That, thy covenant, they may preserve; ¹⁰May teach thy regulations unto Jacob, And thy law unto Israel,—May put incense in thy nostrils, And a whole-offering upon thine altar. ¹¹Bless, O Yahweh his substance, And with the work of his hands, wilt thou be well pleased,—Crush thou the loins of them who rise up against him, And of them who hate him, that they rise not again. ¹²Of Benjamin, he said, The beloved of Yahweh, shall settle down securely,—With one to throw a shade over him all the day long, Yea, between his shoulders, hath he found rest. ¹³And of Joseph, he said, Blessed of Yahweh, be his land,—With the precious things of the heavens with the dew, And with the abyss, couching beneath; ¹⁴And with the precious fruits of the sun,—And with the precious yield of the moons; ¹⁵And with the chief of the ancient mountains,—And with the precious things of the age-abiding hills; ¹⁶And with the precious things of the earth and its fulness, And with the goodwill of One who dwelt in a thorn-bush.—Let it come on the head of Joseph, And on the crown of the head of him who was consecrated among his brethren. ¹⁷His firstborn ox, be an honour to him. And the horns of a buffalo, be his horns, With them, let him thrust, peoples, All at once, to the ends of the earth,—Yea, with these, the myriads of Ephraim, And, with those, the thousands of Manasseh. ¹⁸And, of Zebulun, he said, Rejoice, Zebulun in thy going out,—And thou, Issachar in thy tents: ¹⁹The peoples, unto the mountain, will they call, There, will they offer the sacrifices of righteousness,—For, the abundance of the seas, will they suck, Hidden treasures of the sand. ²⁰And, of Gad, he said: Blessed, be he that hath made room for Gad,—As a lioness, hath he laid himself down, And hath torn an arm likewise the crown of the head; ²¹And hath provided a first part for himself, For, there, a commander's portion hath been hid,—So he cometh with the heads of the people, The righteousness of Yahweh, he executeth, And his regulations, with Israel. ²²And, of Dan, he said, Dan, is a lion's whelp,—He leapeth out of Bashan. ²³And, of Naphtali, he said, O Naphtali! satisfied with favour, And full with the blessing of Yahweh,—The west and the sunny south, do thou possess. ²⁴And, of Asher, he said, Most blessed of sons, be Asher,—Let him have the goodwill of his brethren, And let him dip, in oil, his foot: ²⁵Iron and bronze, be thy sandals, And, as thy days, be thy strength. ²⁶There is none like GOD, O Jeshurun,—Riding upon the heavens to thy help,—And for his own majesty, on the skies; ²⁷Above, is the God of aforetime, And, beneath, are the Arms of the ages,—So he driveth before thee the foe, And doth say—Destroy! ²⁸Thus hath Israel settled down securely, Alone, the fountain of Jacob, Within a land both of corn and new wine,—His heaven also droppeth down dew. ²⁹How happy art thou, O Israel! Who is like unto thee, O people victorious in Yahweh? Thy helpful shield, who also is thy majestic sword,—So that thy foes come cringing unto thee, And, thou, upon their heights, dost march along.

far as the hinder sea; ³and the South,—and the circuit of the valley of Jericho, the city of palm trees as far as Zoar. ⁴And Yahweh said unto him—This, is the land which I sware to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, saying, Unto thy seed, will I give it. I have let thee see with thine own eyes, But thither, shalt thou not pass over. ⁵So Moses, the servant of Yahweh, died there, in the land of Moab, at the bidding of Yahweh; ⁶and he buried him, in a valley in the land of Moab, over against Beth-peor,—but no man hath known his burying-place, until this day. ⁷Now, Moses, was a hundred and twenty years old, when he died,—his eye had not dimmed, nor had his freshness fled. ⁸And the sons of Israel bewailed Moses in the waste plains of Moab thirty day,—then were completed the wailing-days of the mourning for Moses. ⁹But, Joshua, son of Nun, was full of the spirit of wisdom, for Moses had laid his hands upon him,—so the sons of Israel hearkened unto him, and did, as Yahweh commanded Moses. ¹⁰And there arose not a prophet any more in Israel, like unto Moses,—whom Yahweh acknowledged, face to face; ¹¹by all the signs and the wonders which Yahweh sent him to do in the land of Egypt,—unto Pharaoh and unto all his servants and unto all his land; ¹²and by all the firm hand, and by all the great terror which Moses wrought in the sight of all Israel.

³⁴So then Moses went up, from the waste plains of Moab into Mount Nebo, the head of Pisgah, which is over against Jericho,—and Yahweh showed him all the land—even Gilead as far as Dan; ²and all Naphtali, and the land of Ephraim and Manasseh,—and all the land of Judah, as

Joshua

¹And it came to pass, after the death of Moses the servant of Yahweh,—that Yahweh spake unto Joshua son of Nun, the attendant of Moses, saying: ²Moses my servant, is dead,—Now, therefore, arise, pass over this Jordan, thou, and all this people, into the land which I am giving unto them—unto the sons of Israel. ³Every place whereon the sole of your foot shall tread, unto you, have I given it,—as I spake unto Moses. ⁴From the desert and this Lebanon, even unto the great river—the river Euphrates, all the land of the Hittites, and unto the great sea, toward the going in of the sun, shall be your boundary. ⁵No man shall stand before thee, all the days of thy life,—as I was with Moses, so I will be with thee, I will not fail thee, neither will I forsake thee. ⁶Be firm and bold,—for, thou, shalt cause this people to inherit the land which I swore unto their fathers,—to give unto them. ⁷Only be very firm and bold, taking heed to do according to all the law which Moses my servant commanded thee, do not turn aside therefrom, to the right hand or to the left,—that thou mayest prosper, whithersoever thou goest. ⁸This scroll of the law must not cease out of thy mouth, but thou must talk to thyself therein, day and night, that thou mayest take heed to do according to all that is written therein,—for, then, shalt thou make thy way prosperous, and, then, shalt thou have good success. ⁹Have I not commanded thee, Be firm and bold, do not start nor be dismayed,—for, with thee, is Yahweh thy God, whithersoever thou goest? ¹⁰So then Joshua commanded the officers of the people, saying: ¹¹Pass ye through the midst of the camp, and command the people, saying: Make ready for yourselves, provisions,—for, in three days more, are ye to pass over this Jordan, to go in and possess the land which Yahweh your God is giving you, to possess. ¹²And, unto the Reubenites, and unto the Gadites, and unto the half tribe of Manasseh, spake Joshua, saying: ¹³Remember the word which Moses the servant of Yahweh commanded you, saying,—Yahweh your God, is granting you rest, and doth give you this land. ¹⁴Your wives, your little ones, and your cattle, shall remain in the land which Moses hath given you over the Jordan,—but, ye, shall pass over, armed, before your brethren,—all ye mighty men of valour, and shall help them; ¹⁵until that Yahweh shall grant rest unto your brethren, as unto you, so shall, they also, possess the land which Yahweh your God giveth them,—then shall ye return unto the land of your possession, and possess it, which Moses the servant of Yahweh hath given you over the Jordan, towards the rising of the sun. ¹⁶Then responded they to Joshua, saying,—All that thou hast commanded us, will we do, and, whithersoever thou shalt send us, will we go: ¹⁷As in every thing we hearkened unto Moses, so, will we hearken unto thee,—only let Yahweh thy God be with thee, as he was with Moses. ¹⁸Any man who shall rebel against thy bidding, and not hearken unto thy words in all that thou shalt command him, shall be put to death,—only be firm and bold.

²Then did Joshua son of Nun, send out from The Aca-cias, two men to spy out silently, saying, Go view the land, and Jericho. So they came, and entered the house of a har-lot, whose name was Rahab, and lay there. ²And it was told the king of Jericho, saying,—Lo! men, have come in hither to-night of the sons of Israel to search out the land. ³So the king of Jericho sent unto Rahab, saying,—Bring forth the men that are come in unto thee who have entered thy house, for, to search out all the land, have they come. ⁴And the woman took the two men and hid them,—and said: Even so, the men did come in unto me, but I knew not from whence they were; ⁵and it came to pass, as the gate was about to be shut in the darkness, that, the men, went out, I know not whither the men went,—pursue them quickly for ye shall overtake them. ⁶But, she, had taken them up to the roof,—and concealed them with the stalks of flax which she had laid in order for herself upon the roof. ⁷So, the men, pursued them by way of the Jordan unto the fords,—the gate being shut as soon as they who pursued them had gone forth. ⁸And, ere yet they slept, she, went up unto them, upon the roof; ⁹and said unto the men, I know that Yahweh hath given unto you the land,—and that the terror of you hath fallen upon us, and that all the inhabitants of the land, have melted away, from before you. ¹⁰For we have heard how Yahweh, dried up, the waters of the Red Sea from before you, when ye came forth out of Egypt,—and what ye did unto the two kings of the Amorites who were over the Jordan unto Sihon and unto Og, whom ye devoted to destruction; ¹¹and, when we heard, then did our heart melt, and there rose up no longer any spirit in any man because of you,—for, as for Yahweh your God, he, is God—in the heavens above, and upon the earth beneath. ¹²Now, therefore I pray you, swear unto me by Yahweh, since I have dealt with you in lovingkindness, that, ye also, will deal with the house of my father in lovingkindness, and will give me a token of faithfulness, ¹³and will save alive my father and my mother, and my brethren and my sisters, and all that they have,—and will deliver our souls from death. ¹⁴And the men said unto her, Our souls in your stead unto death, if ye utter not this our business,—so shall it be, when Yahweh shall give us the land, that we will deal with thee in lovingkindness and in faithfulness. ¹⁵And she let them down with a cord through the window,—for, her house, was within the wall of the rampart, and, within the rampart, she was dwelling. ¹⁶And she said unto them—To the mountain, get you, lest the pursuers, fall in, with you,—and hide yourselves there, three days until the pursuers return, and, afterwards, shall ye go your way. ¹⁷And the men said unto her,—Free, will we be from this thine oath which thou hast made us swear: ¹⁸Lo! when we are coming into the land, this cord of crimson thread, must thou bind in the window by which thou didst let us down, and, thy father and thy mother and thy brethren and all the household of thy father, must thou gather together unto thee unto the house. ¹⁹And it shall be, whosoever shall go forth out of the doors of thy house into the street, his blood, shall be on his own head and, we, shall be free,—but, whosoever shall be with thee in the house, his blood, shall be on our heads, if a, hand, be upon him. ²⁰Or, if thou utter this our business, then shall we be free from this thine oath which thou hast made us swear. ²¹And she said—According to your words, so, shall it be. Thus sent she them away and they departed,—and she bound the crimson cord in the window. ²²And they went and came into the mountain, and abode there three days, until the pursuers had returned,—so the pursuers, made search, throughout all the way, but found them not. ²³And the two men returned and came down out of the mountain, and crossed over and came unto Joshua, son of Nun,—and recounted to him all that had befallen them; ²⁴and they said unto Joshua, Yahweh, hath delivered, into our hand all the land,—moreover also all the inhabitants of the land, have melted away, from before us.

3So then Joshua rose early in the morning, and they brake up from The Acacias and came as far as the Jordan, he and all the sons of Israel,—and they lodged there before they passed over. ²And it came to pass, after three days, that the officers went through the midst of the camp, ³and commanded the people saying, When ye see the ark of the covenant of Yahweh your God, and, the priests the Levites, bearing it, ye also, shall break up out of your place, and come after it. ⁴Yet shall there be, a distance, between you and it, about two thousand cubits by measure,—do not come near unto it that ye may get to know the way by which ye must go, for ye have not passed this way, heretofore. ⁵Then said Joshua unto the people, Hallow yourselves,—for, to-morrow, will Yahweh do in your midst, wonderful things. ⁶And Joshua spake unto the priests, saying, Take ye up the ark of the covenant, and pass on before the people. So they took up the ark of the covenant, and went on before the people. ⁷Then said Yahweh unto Joshua: This day, will I begin to magnify thee in the eyes of all Israel,—who shall know, that, as I was with Moses, I will be with thee. ⁸Thou, therefore, shalt command the priests who am bearing the ark of the covenant, saying,—When ye are come as far as the edge of the waters of the Jordan, in the Jordan, shall ye stand. ⁹Then said Joshua, unto the sons of Israel,—Draw near hither, and hear ye the words of Yahweh your God. ¹⁰And Joshua said, Hereby, shall ye know, that a Living GOD is in your midst,—and that he will, certainly dispossess, from before you, the Canaanite and the Hittite, and the Hivite and the Perizzite, and the Girgashite, and the Amorite, and the Jebusite. ¹¹Lo! the ark of the covenant of the Lord of all the earth, is about to pass before you into the Jordan. ¹²Now, therefore, take you twelve men, out of the tribes of Israel,—one man severally for each tribe; ¹³and it shall be, when the soles of the feet of the priests who are bearing the ark of Yahweh, Lord of all the earth, do rest, in the waters of the Jordan, the waters of the Jordan, shall be cut off, the waters that are coming down from above,—and shall stand in one mound. ¹⁴And it came to pass, when the people set out from their tents, to cross the Jordan,—with the priests, bearing the ark of the covenant before the people, ¹⁵then, as the bearers of the ark came as far as the Jordan, and, the feet of the priests who were bearing the ark, were dipped in the edge of the waters,—the Jordan being full over all his banks, all the days of harvest, ¹⁶that the waters which were coming down from above, stood—rose up in one mound, a great way off, by the city Adam, which is beside Zarethan, and, they which were going down to the sea of the waste plain, the salt sea, failed—were cut off,—and, the people, passed over, right against Jericho. ¹⁷And the priests who were bearing the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, stood on dry ground, in the midst of the Jordan, with firm footing,—while all Israel were passing over on dry ground, until all the nation had made an end of passing over the Jordan.

4And it came to pass, when all the nation had made an end of passing over the Jordan, that Yahweh slake unto Joshua, saying: ²Take unto you, from among the people, twelve men, one man severally from each tribe; ³and command ye them, saying, Take you up from hence, out of the midst of the Jordan, from the place where stood the feet of the priests with firm footing, twelve stones;—and carry them over with you, and lay them down in the lodging-

place where ye shall lodge, tonight. ⁴So Joshua called unto the twelve men whom he had made ready, from among the sons of Israel,—one man severally out of each tribe; ⁵and Joshua said unto them: Pass ye over, before the ark of Yahweh your God, into the midst of the Jordan,—and lift ye up, each man one stone upon his shoulder, according to the number of the tribes of the sons of Israel: ⁶that this may be a sign in your midst,—for your sons will ask in time to come, saying, What mean these stones to you? ⁷Then shall ye say unto them—That the waters of the Jordan, were cut off, from before the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, when it passed into the Jordan, the waters of the Jordan, were cut off. So shall these stones become a memorial unto the sons of Israel, unto times age-abiding. ⁸And the sons of Israel did so, as Joshua commanded, and took up twelve stones out of the midst of the Jordan, as spake Yahweh unto Joshua, according to the number of the tribes of the sons of Israel,—and carried them with them unto the place where they lodged, and laid them down there. ⁹Twelve stones also, did Joshua set up in the midst of the Jordan, in the place where stood the feet of the priests who were bearing the ark of the covenant,—and they have remained there until this day. ¹⁰Now, the priests who were bearing the ark, continued standing in the midst of the Jordan, until everything was finished which Yahweh commanded Joshua, to speak unto the people, according to all that Moses commanded Joshua,—the people therefore hastened, and passed over. ¹¹And so it was, as soon as all the people had made an end of passing over,—then passed over the ark of Yahweh, and the priests, in presence of the people. ¹²Also the sons of Reuben and the sons of Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh, passed over, armed, before the sons of Israel,—as Moses had spoken unto them: ¹³about forty thousand, equipped for the war, passed over before Yahweh, to battle, into the waste plains of Jericho. ¹⁴On that day, did Yahweh magnify Joshua in the eyes of all Israel,—and they revered him, as they revered Moses, all the days of his life. ¹⁵Then spake Yahweh unto Joshua, saying: ¹⁶Command the priests who are bearing the ark of testimony,—that they come up out of the Jordan. ¹⁷So Joshua commanded the priests, saying,—Come ye up out of the Jordan. ¹⁸And it came to pass, when the priests who were bearing the ark of the covenant of Yahweh came up out of the midst of the Jordan, and the soles of the feet of the priests were withdrawn unto the dry ground, then returned the waters of the Jordan unto their place, and went, as before, over all his banks. ¹⁹So, the people, came up out of the Jordan, on the tenth of the first month,—and encamped in Gilgal, at the eastern end of Jericho. ²⁰And, these twelve stones which they took out of the Jordan, did Joshua set up, in Gilgal. ²¹Then spake he unto the sons of Israel, saying,—When your sons shall ask, in time to come, of their fathers, saying,—What mean these stones? ²²then shall ye let your sons know, saying,—On dry ground, came

Israel over this Jordan; ²³in that Yahweh your God dried up the waters of the Jordan, from before you, until ye had passed over,—as Yahweh your God had done unto the Red Sea, which he dried up from before us, until we had passed over: ²⁴that all the peoples of the earth might know the hand of Yahweh, that, firm, it is; that they might revere Yahweh your God, all the days.

⁵And it came to pass, when all the kings of the Amorites who were over the Jordan westward, and all the kings of the Canaanites who were by the sea, heard how that Yahweh had dried up the waters of the Jordan, from before the sons of Israel, until they had passed over, that their heart melted, and there was no spirit in them any more, because of the sons of Israel. ²At that time, said Yahweh unto Joshua, Make thee knives of flint,—and again circumcise the sons of Israel, a second time. ³So Joshua made him knives of flint,—and circumcised the sons of Israel, at the Hill of Foreskins. ⁴Now, this, is the cause why Joshua did circumcise,—all the people who came forth out of Egypt, who were males, all the men of war, died in the desert, by the way, after they came forth out of Egypt. ⁵For, though all the people who came forth had been circumcised, yet, all the people who were born in the desert by the way, after they came forth out of Egypt, had they not circumcised. ⁶Because, for forty years, did the sons of Israel journey in the desert, until all the nation who were men of war, who came forth out of Egypt, were consumed, because they hearkened not unto the voice of Yahweh,—unto whom Yahweh swore that he would not let them see the land, which Yahweh swore unto their fathers, that he would give unto us, a land flowing with milk and honey. ⁷Their sons, therefore, whom he had raised up in their stead, them, did Joshua circumcise,—for, uncircumcised, they were, in that they had not circumcised them by the way. ⁸And so it came to pass, when they had made an end of circumcising all the nation, they remained in their place, in the camp, until they were healed. ⁹Then said Yahweh unto Joshua, To-day, have I rolled away the reproach of Egypt from off you. Wherefore the name of that place is called Gilgal unto this day. \fs15 ¹⁰Thus then the sons of Israel encamped in Gilgal,—and kept the passover on the fourteenth day of the month, in the evening, in the waste plains of Jericho. ¹¹And they did eat of the corn of the land, on the morrow of the passover, unleavened cakes and parched ears of corn,—on this selfsame day. ¹²And the manna ceased on the morrow, when they had eaten of the corn of the land, neither had the sons of Israel manna any more,—so they did eat of the yield of the land of Canaan throughout that year. ¹³And it came to pass, while Joshua was at Jericho, that he lifted up his eyes, and looked, and lo! a man standing over against him, with his sword drawn, in his hand,—so Joshua went unto him, and said to him, For us, art thou, or for our adversaries? ¹⁴And he said—

Nay, but, I, as prince of the host of Yahweh, have, now, come. So Joshua fell on his face to the earth, and worshipped, and said unto him, What is my lord speaking unto his servant? ¹⁵Then said the prince of the host of Yahweh unto Joshua—Slip off thy sandals from thy feet, for, as for the place whereon thou art standing, holy, it is. And Joshua did so.

⁶Now, Jericho, was shut up and barred because of the sons of Israel,—none came out and none went in. ²Then said Yahweh unto Joshua, See, I have delivered, into thy hand, Jericho and her king,—the mighty men of valour. ³So then ye shall compass the city all ye men of war, going round the city, once,—thus, shall thou do six days. ⁴And, seven priests, shall bear the seven rams' horns before the ark, and, on the seventh day, shall ye compass the city seven times,—and, the priests, shall blow with the horns. ⁵And it shall come to pass, when the ram's horn soundeth, when ye hear the sound of the horn, that all the people shall shout with a great shout,—and then shall the wall of the city fall down under it, and the people shall go up, every man straight before him. ⁶Then called Joshua son of Nun unto the priests, and said unto them, Bear ye the ark of the covenant,—and let, seven priest, bear seven rams horns, before the ark of Yahweh. ⁷Then said he unto the people, Pass on and compass the city,—and let, the armed host, pass on before the ark of Yahweh. ⁸And it was so, when Joshua had spoken unto the people, that, the seven priests who were bearing the seven rams' horns before Yahweh, passed on and blew with the horns,—the ark of the covenant of Yahweh also coming after them. ⁹And, the armed host, went on before the priests who blew with the horns,—and, the rear-guard, came after the ark, going on and blowing with the horns. ¹⁰Now, unto the people, had Joshua given command, saying—Ye shall not shout nor let your voice be heard, neither shall there go out of your mouth, a word,—until the day when I say unto you Shout! then shall ye shout. ¹¹So he caused the ark of Yahweh to compass the city, going round once,—and they came into the camp, and lodged in the camp. ¹²And Joshua rose early in the morning,—and the priests bare the ark of Yahweh; ¹³and, the seven priests who bare the seven rams' horns before the ark of Yahweh, went on and on, and blew with the horns,—with, the armed host going on before them, and, the rear-guard, coming after the ark of Yahweh, going on and blowing with the horns. ¹⁴So they compassed the city on the second day once, and returned into the camp,—thus, did they, six days. ¹⁵And it came to pass, on the seventh day, that they rose early at the uprisings of the dawn, and compassed the city after this manner, seven times,—only on that day they compassed the city seven times. ¹⁶And it came to pass, at the seventh time—when the priests blew with the horns, then did Joshua say unto the people—Shout, for Yahweh hath delivered unto you the city. ¹⁷And it shall be, that, as for the city, devoted, shall it be and all that is therein unto Yahweh,—nevertheless, Rahab the harlot, shall live, she and all who are with her in the house, because she hid the messengers whom we sent. ¹⁸But, in any wise, do, ye, beware of what is devoted, lest ye should covet, and then take of what is devoted,—and so cause the camp of Israel to be devoted, and bring trouble upon it. ¹⁹But, as for all silver and gold and vessels of bronze and iron, hallowed, it is to Yahweh,—unto the treasury of Yahweh, shall it come. ²⁰So the people shouted, when the horns were blown,—yea it came to pass, when the people heard the sound of the horn, that the people shouted with a great shout, and the wall fell down under it, and the people went up into the city every man straight before him, and so they captured the city. ²¹And they devoted all that were in the city, both man and woman, both young and old,—and ox and sheep and ass, with the edge of the sword. ²²But, unto the two men who spied out the land, Joshua said, Go into the house of the woman, the harlot,—and bring out thence the woman and all that she hath, as ye aware unto her. ²³So the young men the spies went in and brought out Rahab and her father and her mother and her brethren and all that she had, yea, all her kindred, brought they out,—and set them outside the camp of Israel. ²⁴But, the city, burned they with fire, and all that was therein,—save only, the silver and the gold and the vessels of bronze and of iron, put they into the treasury of the house of Yahweh. ²⁵And, Rahab the harlot and the household of her father and all that she had, did Joshua save alive, so she hath dwelt in the midst of Israel until this day,—because she hid the messengers whom Joshua sent to spy out Jericho. ²⁶And Joshua imposed an oath at that time, saying,—Cursed be the man before Yahweh who shall raise up and build this city—Jericho, At the price of his firstborn, shall he lay its foundation, and, at the price of his youngest, shall he set up its doors. ²⁷And so it was that Yahweh was with Joshua,—and his fame was in all the land.

⁷But the sons of Israel had committed an act of unfaithfulness in respect of what was devoted,—for Achan son of Carmi son of Zabdi, son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah had taken of what was devoted, and the anger of Yahweh had kindled against the sons of Israel. ²And Joshua sent men from Jericho to Ai which was beside Beth-aven on the east side of Bethel, and spake unto them saying, Go up and spy out the land. So the men went up, and spied out Ai. ³And they returned unto Joshua and said unto him—Let not all the people go up, about two thousand men or three thousand men, can go up and smite Ai,—do not weary the whole people to go thither, for, but few, they are. ⁴There went up thither of the people therefore, about three thousand men,—but they fled before the men of Ai. ⁵And the men of Ai smote of them about thirty-six men, and pursued them before the gate as far as the Shebarim, and smote them on the slope,—so that the heart of the people melted and became as water. ⁶Then Joshua rent his clothes and fell upon his face to the earth before the ark of Yahweh until the evening, he and the elders of Israel,—and they lifted up dust upon their heads. ⁷And Joshua said—Alas! My Lord Yahweh! Wherefore hast thou, brought, this people over the Jordan, to deliver us into the hand of the Amorite to destroy us? Would then we had been content to dwell on the other side of the Jordan! ⁸Oh My Lord,—what shall I say, after Israel have turned their backs before their enemies? ⁹Only let the Canaanite and all the inhabitants of the land hear, and they will surround us, and cut off our name out of the earth,—what then wilt thou do for thy great name? ¹⁰And Yahweh said unto Joshua—Get thee up! wherefore is it that thou art lying upon thy face? ¹¹Israel hath sinned, yea moreover they have transgressed my covenant which I commanded them,—yea moreover they have taken of what was devoted, yea moreover they have stolen, yea moreover they have dissembled, yea moreover they have put it among their own goods. ¹²Therefore cannot the sons of Israel stand before their enemies, their back, do they turn before their enemies, because they have become devoted,—I will no more be with you, except ye destroy the devoted thing out of your midst. ¹³Up! hallow the people, and thou shalt say, Hallow yourselves by to-morrow,—for, Thus, saith Yahweh, God of Israel: A devoted thing, is in the midst of thee O Israel, Thou canst not stand before thine enemies, until ye have put away the devoted thing out of your midst. ¹⁴Therefore shall ye be brought near in the morning by your tribes,—and it shall be that—the tribe which Yahweh shall seize, shall come near, by families, and the family which Yahweh shall seize, shall come near, by households, and the household which Yahweh shall seize, shall come near, man by man; ¹⁵and it shall be, that—He that is seized with the devoted thing, shall be burned with fire, he and all that he hath,—because he hath transgressed the covenant of Yahweh, and because he hath wrought impiety in Israel. ¹⁶So Joshua rose up early in the morning, and brought Israel near by their tribes,—and, the tribe of Judah, was seized; ¹⁷and he brought near the family of Judah, and, the family of the Zarhites, was seized,—and he brought near the family of the Zarhites, man by man, and, Zabdi, was seized; ¹⁸and he brought near his household, man by man,—and, Achan son of Carmi son of Zabdi son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, was seized. ¹⁹And Joshua said unto Achan—My son give I pray thee glory unto Yahweh God of Israel and make to him confession,—and tell me I pray thee what thou hast done, do not hide it from me. ²⁰And Achan answered Joshua and said,—Of a truth, I, have sinned against Yahweh God of Israel, and, thus and thus, have I done: ²¹When I saw among the spoil a certain goodly mantle of Babylonia and two hundred shekels of silver and a certain wedge of gold—fifty shekels the weight thereof, then I coveted them, then I took them,—and, there they are, hid in the earth, in the midst of my tent, and the silver under it. ²²So Joshua sent messengers, and they ran unto the tent,—and, there it was, hid in his tent, and, the silver, under it. ²³And they took them out of the midst of the tent, and brought them in unto Joshua, and unto all the sons of Israel,—and poured them out before Yahweh. ²⁴And Joshua, and all Israel with him, took Achan—son of Zerah, and the silver and the mantle and the wedge of gold, and his sons and his daughters, and his oxen and his asses and his sheep and his tent, and all that he had, and brought them up the valley of Achor. ²⁵And Joshua said—Why hast thou troubled us? Yahweh, will trouble thee, this day. And all Israel stoned him with stones, and burned them up with fire, and covered them with stones; ²⁶yea they raised over him a great heap of stones which remaineth until this day. And Yahweh turned from the fierceness of his anger,—for which cause, hath the name of that place been called—The Valley of Achor, until this day.

⁸Then said Yahweh unto Joshua—Do not fear nor be dismayed, take with thee all the army, and arise, go up to Ai,—see! I have given into thy hand, the king of Ai and his people, and his city, and his land; ²so shalt thou do unto Ai and to her king, as thou didst unto Jericho unto her king, save only, the spoil thereof and the cattle thereof, shall ye take as your own prey,—set thee an ambush for the city, behind it. ³So Joshua arose, and all the people of war, to go up to Ai,—and Joshua chose out thirty thousand men, the mighty men of valour, and sent them forth by night. ⁴And he commanded them, saying—See! ye, shall be lying in ambush against the city, behind the city, do not go very far from the city,—so shall ye all be ready. ⁵But, I, and all the people who are with me, will draw near unto the city,—and it shall be, when they come out to meet us, as at the first, then will we flee before them; ⁶so will they come out after us, until we have drawn them away from the city, for they will say, Fleeing before us, as at the first! therefore will we flee before them. ⁷Then, ye, shall rise up out of the ambush, and take possession of the city,—and Yahweh your God will deliver it into your hand. ⁸And it shall be, when ye have seized the city, then shall ye burn the city with fire, according to the word of Yahweh, shall ye do,—see! I have commanded you. ⁹So Joshua sent them forth, and they went into ambush, and abode between Bethel and Ai, on the west of Ai,—but Joshua lodged that night in the midst of the people. ¹⁰And Joshua rose up early in the morning, and mustered the people,—and went up—he and the elders of Israel, before the people, to Ai. ¹¹And, all the people of war who were with him, went up, and drew near, and came in, right before the city,—and pitched on the north of Ai, with, a valley, between them and Ai.

¹²And he took about five thousand men,—and set them in ambush between Bethel and Ai, on the west of the city. ¹³And, when the people had set all the host that was on the north of the city, with the rear thereof on the west of the city, then went Joshua, during the night, into the midst of the valley. ¹⁴And it came to pass, when the king of Ai saw it, that they hasted, and rose up early, and the men of the city came out to meet Israel for battle, he and all his people, at an appointed time, before the waste plain,—he not knowing that there was an ambush lying in wait for him, behind the city. ¹⁵So then Joshua and all Israel suffered themselves to be smitten before them,—and fled, by the way of the wilderness; ¹⁶and all the people who were in the city were called out to pursue them,—and they pursued Joshua, and so were drawn out away from the city. ¹⁷And there remained not a man, in Ai or Bethel, who had not gone out after Israel,—and they left the city, open, and pursued Israel. ¹⁸Then said Yahweh unto Joshua—Stretch out with the javelin which is in thy hand, towards Ai, for, into thy hand, will I deliver it. So Joshua stretched out with the javelin which was in his hand, towards the city. ¹⁹And, the ambush, rose up quickly, out of their place, and ran, when he stretched out his hand, and entered the city, and captured it,—and hasted, and set the city on fire. ²⁰And the men of Ai turned behind them, and looked, and lo! the smoke of the city had risen up towards the heavens, and there was in them no strength, to flee this way or that way,—moreover, the people that were fleeing to the wilderness, turned back upon the pursuers. ²¹Yea, when, Joshua and all Israel, saw that the ambush had captured the city, and that the smoke of the city had risen up, then returned they, and smote the men of Ai. ²²And, the others, came forth out of the city to meet them, so they were in the midst of Israel, some on this side, and some on that side,—and they smote them, until there was left them none to remain or to escape. ²³And, the king of Ai, they caught alive,—and brought him near unto Joshua. ²⁴And it came to pass, when Israel had made an end of slaying all the inhabitants of Ai in the field, in the wilderness whither they had pursued them, and all of them had fallen by the edge of the sword until they were consumed, then all Israel returned to Ai, and smote it with the edge of the sword. ²⁵And so it was, that all who fell that day, both of men and of women, were twelve thousand,—all people of Ai. ²⁶Now, Joshua, drew not back his hand which he had stretched out with the javelin,—until he had utterly destroyed all the inhabitants of Ai. ²⁷Nevertheless, the cattle and the spoil of that city, Israel took as their own prey,—according to the word of Yahweh, which he commanded Joshua. ²⁸So then Joshua burned Ai,—and made of it an age-abiding heap—a desolation, as it remaineth until this day. ²⁹And, the king of Ai, hanged he on a tree until eventide,—but, at the going in of the sun, Joshua gave command and they took down his dead body from the tree, and cast it in at the opening of the gate of the city, and raised up over it a great heap of stones— which remaineth until this day. ³⁰Then, built Joshua, an altar, unto Yahweh, God of Israel,—in Mount Ebal: ³¹as Moses, the servant of Yahweh, commanded the sons of Israel, as it is written in the scroll of the law of Moses, an altar of whole stones, whereon had not been wielded any tool of iron,—and they caused to go up thereon, ascending-sacrifices unto Yahweh, and sacrificed peace-offerings. ³²Then wrote he there, upon the stones, a copy of the law of Moses, which he wrote, in the presence of the sons of Israel. ³³And, all Israel, and their elders and officers, and their judges, were standing on this side and on that side of the ark, before the priests the Levites, who were bearing the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, as well the sojourner as the home-born, half of them over against Mount Gerizim, and half of them over against Mount Ebal,—as Moses the servant of Yahweh commanded to bless the sons of Israel, first of all. ³⁴And, after that, read he all the words of the law, the blessing and the cursing,—according to all that was written in the scroll of the law. ³⁵Them was not a word of all that Moses commanded,—which Joshua read not before all the convocation of Israel, with the women and the little ones, and the sojourner who was going on in their midst.

⁹And it came to pass, when they heard,—namely, all the kings who were over the Jordan, in the hill country and in the lowland, and in all the coast of the great sea, over against the Lebanon,—the Hittite, and the Amorite, the Canaanite, the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite;—²then gathered they themselves together as one man, to fight with Joshua, and with Israel,—with one accord. ³Now, the inhabitants of Gibeon, heard that which Joshua had done unto Jericho and unto Ai; ⁴they, however, acted craftily, and went and started,—and took old sacks for their asses, and leathern wine bottles, old, and rent, and bound up; ⁵and sandals, old and patched, upon their feet, and worn-out mantles upon them,—and, all the bread of their provision, was dry and broken. ⁶So they took their journey unto Joshua, unto the camp, at Gilgal,—and said unto him, and unto the men of Israel, From a far country, are we come, Now, therefore, solemnise with us a covenant. ⁷And the men of Israel said unto the Hivites,—Peradventure, in our midst, ye are dwelling, how then can we solemnise with you a covenant? ⁸And they said unto Joshua: Thy servants, we are. And Joshua said unto them: Who, are ye? And, from whence, come ye? ⁹And they said unto him—From a very far country, have thy servants come, because of the name of Yahweh thy God,—because we had heard his fame, and all that he had done in Egypt; ¹⁰and all that he had done unto the two kings of the Amorites who were over the Jordan,—unto Sihon, king of Heshbon, and unto Og, king of Bashan, who was in Ashtaroth.

¹¹So our elders and all the inhabitants of our land spake unto us, saying—Take ye, in your hand, provision for the journey, and go your way to meet them,—then shall ye say unto them, Your servants, we are. Now, therefore, solemnise with us a covenant. ¹²This our bread, took we, hot, for our provision, out of our houses, on the day we came forth to journey unto you,—but, now, lo! it is dry, yea it is broken; ¹³and, these leathern wine bottles, which we filled new, lo! also, they are rent,—and, as for these our mantles and our sandals, they are worn out, by reason of the very long journey. ¹⁴So the men took of their provision,—but, the bidding of Yahweh, had they not asked. ¹⁵And Joshua made peace with them, and solemnised with them a covenant to let them live,—and the princes of the assembly, entered into an oath with them. ¹⁶And it came to pass, at the end of three days after they had solemnised with them a covenant, that they heard that, near neighbours, they were unto them, and, in their midst, they were dwelling. ¹⁷So the sons of Israel brake up, and came in unto their cities on the third day,—their cities, being Gibeon, and Chephirah, and Beeroth, and Kiriath-jearim. ¹⁸And the sons of Israel smote them not, because the princes of the assembly had sworn unto them by Yahweh, God of Israel,—but all the assembly murmured against the princes. ¹⁹And all the princes said unto all the assembly, We, have sworn unto them, by Yahweh, God of Israel,—now, therefore, we may not touch them. ²⁰This, will we do unto them, even let them live,—lest there come on us wrath, because of the oath which we have sworn unto them. ²¹And the princes said unto them—Let them live. So they became hewers of wood and drawers of water unto all the assembly, as the princes spake unto them. ²²And Joshua called for them, and spake unto them, saying,—Wherefore did ye deceive us, saying—We are, very far, from you, whereas, ye, in our midst, are dwelling? ²³Now, therefore, accursed, ye are,—and ye shall not cease to be in bond-service as hewers of wood and drawers of water, for the house of my God. ²⁴And they responded to Joshua, and said—Because it was, plainly told, thy servants, how that Yahweh thy God had commanded Moses his servant to give unto you all the land, and to destroy all the inhabitants of the land from before you,—therefore feared we greatly, for our lives, because of you, and did this thing. ²⁵Now, therefore, here we are, in thy hand,—as may be good and right in thine eyes, to do unto us, do. ²⁶And he did to them so,—and rescued them out of the hand of the sons of Israel, and they slew them not. ²⁷And Joshua appointed them that day to be hewers of wood and drawers of water unto the assembly,—and unto the altar of Yahweh, as they are until this day, in the place which he should choose.

10And it came to pass, when Adonizedec, king of Jerusalem, heard that Joshua had captured Ai, and devoted it to destruction, as he had done unto Jericho and her king, so, had he done unto Ai and her king,—and that the inhabitants of Gibeon had made peace with Israel and had come into their midst, ²then feared they greatly, because Gibeon was, a great city, as one of the royal cities,—and because, it, was greater than Ai, and, all the men thereof, were mighty: ³therefore sent Adonizedec, king of Jerusalem, unto Hoham, king of Hebron, and unto Piram, king of Jarmuth, and unto Japhia, king of Lachish, and unto Debir, king of Eglon, saying: ⁴Come up unto me and help me, that we may smite Gibeon,—for it hath made peace with Joshua, and with the sons of Israel. ⁵So they gathered themselves together and came up, even the five kings of the Amorites—the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish, the king of Eglon,—they, and all their hosts,—and encamped near Gibeon, and made war against it. ⁶So the men of Gibeon sent unto Joshua, unto the camp at Gilgal, saying, Do not withhold thy hand from thy servants,—Come up unto us quickly, and save us, and help us, for all the kings of the Amorites that dwell in the hill-country, are gathered together against us. ⁷So Joshua went up from Gilgal, he and all the people of war with him, even all the mighty men of valour. ⁸And Yahweh said unto Joshua: Do not fear because of them, for, into thy hand, have I delivered them,—not a man of them shall stand before thee. ⁹So then Joshua came in unto them, suddenly,—all the night, came he up, from Gilgal. ¹⁰And Yahweh confused them before Israel, and smote them with a great slaughter at Gibeon,—and chased them along the way that goeth up Beth-horon, and smote them as far as Azekah and as far as Makkedah. ¹¹And it came to pass, when they fled from before Israel, they, being on the slope of Beth-horon, that, Yahweh, cast down upon them great stones out of the heavens, as far as Azekah, and they died,—more, were they who died by the hailstones, than they whom the sons of Israel slew with the sword. ¹²Then, spake Joshua unto Yahweh, on the day when Yahweh delivered up the Amorites before the sons of Israel,—yea he said, in the presence of Israel—Thou Sun! in Gibeon, be still, and thou Moon! in the vale of Aijalon. ¹³So the sun, was still, and, the moon, stayed, until a nation should be avenged on its foes. Is not, that, written in the Book of the Upright? So then the sun stayed in the middle of the heavens, and hastened not to go in, about a whole day. ¹⁴And there was no day like that—before it or after it, when Yahweh hearkened unto the voice of a man,—in that, Yahweh, himself fought for Israel. ¹⁵So Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, unto the camp at Gilgal. ¹⁶So these five kings fled,—and hid themselves in a cave, at Makkedah. ¹⁷And it was told Joshua, saying,—The five kings are found, hid in a cave at Makkedah. ¹⁸And Joshua said, Roll ye great stones against the mouth of the cave,—and set over it men, to watch them; ¹⁹but do not, ye, stay, chase after your enemies, so shall ye attack them in the rear,—do not suffer them to enter into their cities, for Yahweh your God hath delivered them into your hand. ²⁰And it came to pass, when Joshua and the sons of Israel had made an end of smiting them with a very great slaughter, until they were spent, then did, the remainder that were left of them, enter into the fortified cities. ²¹And all the people returned unto the camp, unto Joshua at Makkedah, in peace,—none sharpened his tongue at any man of the sons of Israel. ²²Then said Joshua, Open ye the mouth of the cave,—and bring out unto me, these five kings, out of the cave. ²³And they did so, and brought out unto him, these five kings, out of the cave,—namely, the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish, the king of Eglon. ²⁴And it came to pass, when they brought out these kings unto Joshua, that Joshua called for all the men of Israel, and said unto the captains of the men of war who had been with him, Come near, put your feet upon the necks of these kings. So they came near, and put their feet upon the necks of them. ²⁵Then said Joshua unto them: Do not fear, nor be alarmed,—be firm and bold, for, thus and thus, will Yahweh do unto all your enemies, against whom ye do fight. ²⁶And Joshua smote them after this, and put them to death, and hanged them upon five trees,—and they remained hung on the trees, until the evening, ²⁷And it came to pass, at the time of the going in of the sun, that Joshua gave command, and they took them down off the trees, and cast them into the cave, where they had hid themselves,—and put great stones upon the mouth of the cave, which remain, until this very day. ²⁸And Joshua captured, Makkedah, on that day, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and, the king thereof, devoted he to destruction, them and all the souls that were therein, he left no survivor,—but did unto the king of Makkedah, as he had done unto the king of Jericho. ²⁹And Joshua passed over, and all Israel with him, from Makkedah unto Libnah,—and fought against Libnah; ³⁰and Yahweh delivered, it also, into the hand of Israel, with the king thereof, and he smote it with the edge of the sword, with all the souls that were therein, he left therein no survivor,—but did unto the king thereof, as he had done unto the king of Jericho. ³¹And Joshua passed over, and all Israel with him, from Libnah unto Lachish,—and encamped against it, and fought against it; ³²and Yahweh delivered Lachish into the hand of Israel, and he captured it on the second day, and smote it with the edge of the sword, with all the souls that were therein,—according to all that he had done unto Libnah. ³³Then, came up Horem, king of Gezer, to help Lachish,—and Joshua smote him and his people, until he had not left him a survivor. ³⁴And Joshua passed over, and all Israel with him, from Lachish unto Eglon,—and they encamped against it, and fought against it; ³⁵and captured it on the same day, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and, all the souls that were therein, on that day, devoted he to destruction,—according to all that he had done to Lachish. ³⁶And Joshua went up, and all Israel with him, from Eglon unto Hebron,—and they fought against it; ³⁷and captured it, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and the king thereof, and all the cities thereof, with all the souls that were therein—he left not a survivor, according to all that he had done to Eglon,—he devoted it to destruction, and all the souls that were therein. ³⁸Then Joshua turned back, and all Israel with him, unto Debir,—and fought against it; ³⁹and captured it, and the king thereof, and all the cities thereof, and smote them with the edge of the sword, and devoted to destruction every soul that was therein, he left not a survivor,—as he had done unto Hebron, so, did he unto Debir, and unto the king thereof, as also he had done unto Libnah, and unto her king. ⁴⁰So Joshua smote all the land—the hill country, and the south, and the lowland, and the slopes, and all their kings, he left not a survivor,—but, every breathing thing, devoted he to destruction, as Yahweh, God of Israel, had commanded. ⁴¹Yea Joshua smote them, from Kadesh-barnea, even as far as Gaza,—and all the land of Goshen, even as far as Gibeon. ⁴²Yea, all these kings and their land, did Joshua capture at one time,—because, Yahweh, God of Israel, fought for Israel. ⁴³And Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, unto the camp at Gilgal.

11 And it came to pass, when Jabin king of Hazor heard, that he sent unto Jobab king of Madon, and unto the king of Shimron, and unto the king of Achshaph; ²and unto the kings who were on the north in the hill country and in the waste plain south of Chinneroth, and in the lowland,—and in the heights of Dor, on the west: ³the Canaanite on the east and on the west, and the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite and the Jebusite, in the hill country,—and the Hivite, under Hermon, in the land of Mizpah; ⁴and they came out—they, and all their hosts with them, much people, like the sand that is upon the seashore for multitude,—with horses and chariots very many. ⁵And, when all these kings were gathered together, they came in, and encamped as one man, at the waters of Merom, to fight with Israel. ⁶Then said Yahweh unto Joshua—Do not fear because of them, for, to-morrow, about this time, am I going to deliver up all of them, slain, before Israel,—their horses, shalt thou ham-string, and, their chariots, shalt thou burn up with fire. ⁷So Joshua, and all the army with him, came in upon them, by the waters of Merom, suddenly, and fell upon them. ⁸And Yahweh delivered them up into the hand of Israel, and they smote them, and chased them as far as great Zidon, and as far as Misrephoth-maim, and as far as the valley of Mizpeh, eastward,—yea they smote them until they left them not a survivor. ⁹And Joshua did unto them, as Yahweh had said unto him,—their horses, he ham-strung, and, their chariots, burned he up with fire. ¹⁰Then Joshua turned back, at that time, and captured Hazor, and, the king thereof, smote he with the sword,— for, Hazer, aforetime, was the head of all these kingdoms. ¹¹And they smote all the souls that were therein, with the edge of the sword, devoting them to destruction, there was left no breathing thing,—and, Hazer, burned he up with fire. ¹²And, all the cities of these kings, and all the kings thereof, did Joshua capture, and he smote them with the edge of the sword, devoting them to destruction,—as Moses, the servant of Yahweh, commanded. ¹³Yet, none of the cities that were still standing upon their mound, did Israel burn, none but Hazer alone, did Joshua burn. ¹⁴But, all the spoil of these cities, and the cattle, did the sons of Israel take as their prey,—nevertheless, all the human beings, smote they with the edge of the sword, until they had destroyed them, they left remaining no breathing thing. ¹⁵As Yahweh commanded Moses his servant, so, Moses commanded Joshua, and, so, Joshua, did, he set aside nothing of all that Yahweh commanded Moses. ¹⁶So Joshua took all this land—the hill country, and all the south, and all the land of Goshen, and the lowland, and the waste plain,—and the hill country of Israel, and the lowland thereof: ¹⁷from Mount Halak, that goeth up to Seir, even as far as Baal-gad, in the valley of the Lebanon, under Mount Hermon,—and, all their kings, he captured, and smote them, and put them to death. ¹⁸Many days, did Joshua, with all these kings, make war. ¹⁹There was not a city that made peace with the sons of Israel, save the Hivites dwelling in Gibeon,—the whole, took they in battle. ²⁰For, from Yahweh, came it to pass, that their heart was emboldened to come out to war with Israel, that he might devote them to destruction, that they might find no favour,—but that he might destroy them,—as Yahweh commanded Moses. ²¹And Joshua came in, at that time, and cut off the Anakim from the hill country—from Hebron, from Debir, from Anab, and from all the hill country of Judah, and from all the hill country of Israel,—with their cities, did Joshua devote them to destruction. ²²There was left remaining none of the Anakim, in the land of the sons of Israel,—save only, in Gaza, in Gath, and in Ashdod, did some remain. ²³So Joshua took the whole land, according to all that Yahweh had spoken unto Moses, and Joshua gave it for an inheritance unto Israel, according to their portions by their tribes,—and, the land, had rest from war.

12Now, these, are the kings of the land, whom the sons of Israel had smitten, and of whose land they had taken possession, over the Jordan, towards the rising of the sun,—from the ravine of Arnon, as far as Mount Hermon, and all the waste plain, on the east: ²Sihon, king of the Amorites, who dwelt in Heshbon,—ruling from Aroer, which is on the edge of the ravine of Arnon, and the middle of the ravine, and half Gilead, even as far as the ravine Jabbok, the boundary of the sons of Ammon; ³and the waste plain as far as the sea of Chinneroth, on the east, even as far as the sea of the waste plain, the salt sea, on the east, the way to Bethjeshimoth,—and, on the south, under the slopes of Pisgah; ⁴and the boundary of Og, king of Bashan, of the remnant of the giants,—him who dwelt in Ashtaroth and in Edrei; ⁵ruling also in Mount Hermon, and in Salecah, and in all Bashan, as far as the boundary of the Geshurites, and the Maacathites,—and half Gilead, the boundary of Sihon king of Heshbon:—⁶Moses the servant of Yahweh, and the sons of Israel, had smitten them,—and Moses the servant of Yahweh, had given it, as a possession, unto the Reubenites, and unto the Gadites, and unto the half tribe of Manasseh. ⁷And, these, are the kings of the land, whom Joshua and the sons of Israel smote over the Jordan, towards the west, from Baal-gad in the valley of the Lebanon, even as far as the Mount Halak that goeth up towards Seir,—and Joshua gave it unto the tribes of Israel, as a possession, according to their portions; ⁸in the hill country and in the lowland, and in the waste plain, and in the slopes, and in the desert, and in the south,—the Hittite, the Amorite, and the Canaanite, the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite:—⁹The king of Jericho, one, the king of Ai, which is beside Bethel, one, ¹⁰The king of Jerusalem, one, the king of Hebron, one, ¹¹The king of Jarmuth, one, the king of Lachish, one, ¹²The king of Eglon, one, the king of Gezer, one, ¹³The king of Debir, one, the king of Geder, one, ¹⁴The king of Hormah, one, the king of Arad, one, ¹⁵The king of Libnah, one, the king of Adullam, one, ¹⁶The king of Makkedah, one, the king of Bethel, one, ¹⁷The king of Tappuah, one, the king of Hepher, one, ¹⁸The king of Aphek, one, the king of Lashsharon, one, ¹⁹The king of Madon, one, the king of Hazer, one, ²⁰The king of Shimron-meron, one, the king of Achshaph, one, ²¹The king of Taanach, one, the king of Megiddo, one, ²²The king of Kadesh, one, the king of Jokneam in Carmel, one, ²³The king of Dor, in the height of Dor, one, the king of Goim in Gilgal, one, ²⁴The king of Tirzah, one,—All the kings, thirty and one.

13Now, Joshua, was old, advanced in days,—so then Yahweh said unto him—Thou, art old, advanced in days, and, much the larger part of the land, remaineth to be possessed. ²This, is the land that remaineth,—all the regions of the Philistines, and all the Geshuri; ³from the Shihor which faceth Egypt, even as far as the boundary of Ekron, northward, to the Canaanites, is it counted,—five princes of Philistines, the Gazites, and the Ashdodites, the Ashkalonites, the Gittites, and the Ekronites, also the Avvim ⁴on the south: all the land of the Canaanites, and Mearah which belongeth to the Zidonians, as far as Aphek,—as far as the boundary of the Amorites; ⁵and the land of the Gebalites, and all the Lebanon, to the rising of the sun, from Baal-gad, under Mount Hermon,—as far as the entering in of Hamath: ⁶all the inhabitants of the hill country, from the Lebanon as far as Misrephothmaim—all the Zidonians, I myself, will dispossess them from before the sons of Israel,—nevertheless, assign thou it by lot unto Israel, for an inheritance, as I have commanded thee. ⁷Now, therefore, apportion this land as an inheritance, unto the nine tribes,—and the half tribe of Manasseh. ⁸With them, the, Reubenites and the Gadites, received their inheritance,—which Moses gave them beyond the Jordan, eastward, as Moses the servant of Yahweh gave unto them: ⁹from Aroer, which is on the edge of the ravine of Arnon, and the city, which is in the midst of the ravine, and all the table-land of Medeba, as far as Dibon; ¹⁰and all the cities of Sihon, king of the Amorites, who reigned in Heshbon,—as far as the boundary of the sons of Ammon; ¹¹and Gilead, and the boundary of the Geshurites and the Maacathites, and all Mount Hermon, and all Bashan, as far as Salecah; ¹²all the kingdom of Og, in Bashan, who reigned in Ashtaroth and in Edrei,—he, being left of the remnant of the giants; and Moses smote them and dispossessed them; ¹³the sons of Israel, however, did not dispossess, the Geshurites or the Maacathites,—but Geshur and Maacath have remained in the midst of Israel until this day. ¹⁴Howbeit, unto the tribe of Levi, gave he no inheritance,—the altar-flames of Yahweh God of Israel, are his inheritance, as he spake unto him. ¹⁵Thus then Moses gave an inheritance unto the tribe of the sons of Reuben by their families; ¹⁶and their boundary was from Aroer, that is on the edge of the ravine of Arnon and the city which is in the midst of the ravine and all the table-land by Medeba; ¹⁷Heshbon and all her cities which are on the table-land,—Dibon and Bamoth-baal, and Beth-baal-meon; ¹⁸and Jahaz and Kedemoth and Maphaath; ¹⁹and Kiriathaim and Sibmah, and Zareth-shahar on the mount of the vale; ²⁰and Beth-peor, and the slopes of Pisgah, and Beth-jeshimoth; ²¹and all the cities of the table-land, and all the kingdom of Sihon king of the Amorites, who reigned in Heshbon,—whom Moses smote—with the princes of Midian, Evi and Rekem and Zur and Hur and Reba, dukes of Sihon dwelling in the land; ²²Balaam also son of Beor, the diviner, did the sons of Israel slay with the sword among their slain. ²³And so the boundary of the sons of Reuben was the Jordan and district. This, is the inheritance of the sons of Reuben by their families, the cities and the villages thereof. ²⁴And Moses gave an inheritance unto the tribe of Gad, unto the sons of Gad by their families; ²⁵and their boundary was—Jazer, and all the cities of Gilead, and half the land of the sons of Ammon,—as far as Aroer, which faceth Rabbah; ²⁶and from Heshbon as far as Ramath-mizpeh, and Botonim,—and from Mahanaim as far as the boundary of Debir; ²⁷and in the valley—Beth-haram and Beth-nimrah and Succoth and Zaphon, the rest of the kingdom of Sihon king of Heshbon, the Jordan and district,—as far as the end of the sea of Chinnereth, beyond the Jordan eastward. ²⁸This, is the inheritance of the sons of Gad, by their families,—the cities and the villages thereof. ²⁹And Moses gave an inheritance unto the half tribe of Manasseh,—so it belonged to the half tribe of the sons of Manasseh by their families; ³⁰and their boundary was—from Mahanaim all Bashan all the kingdom of Og king of Bashan and all the Encampments of Jair which are in Bashan three-score cities; ³¹and, half Gilead and Ashtaroth and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Bashan, pertained to the sons of Machir son of Manasseh, to half the sons of Machir by their families. ³²These, are the portions which Moses gave for inheritance, in the waste plains of Moab,—over the Jordan by Jericho eastward. ³³But, unto the tribe of Levi, Moses gave no inheritance,—Yahweh God of Israel, he, was their inheritance, as he spake unto them.

¹⁴And, these, are the inheritances which the sons of Israel received in the land of Canaan,—which Eleazar the priest, and Joshua the son of Nun, and the ancestral heads of the tribes of the sons of Israel gave them to inherit. ²By lot, was their inheritance divided,—as Yahweh commanded by the hand of Moses, unto the nine tribes and unto the half tribe. ³For Moses had given the two tribes and the half tribe their inheritance over the Jordan,—but, unto the Levites, gave he no inheritance in their midst; ⁴for the sons of Joseph became two tribes: Manasseh and Ephraim,—so they gave no portion to the Levites in the land, save only cities to dwell in, with the pasture lands thereof, for their cattle and for their substance. ⁵As Yahweh commanded Moses, so, did the sons of Israel,—when they apportioned the land. ⁶Then came near the sons of Judah unto Joshua in Gilgal, and Caleb the son of Jephunneh, the Kenizzite, said unto him,—Thou, knowest the word which Yahweh spake unto Moses the man of God in my behalf and in thine in Kadesh-barnea. ⁷Forty years old, was I when Moses the servant of Yahweh sent me from Kadesh-barnea to spy out the land,—so I brought him back word, as was in my heart. ⁸But, my brethren who had been up with me, made the heart of the people melt,—whereas, I, wholly followed Yahweh my God. ⁹So then Moses swore on that day saying, Surely, the land on which thy foot hath trodden, unto thee, shall belong, for an inheritance, and unto thy sons, unto times age-abiding,—because thou hast wholly followed Yahweh my God. ¹⁰Now, therefore lo! Yahweh hath kept me alive as he spake these forty and five years from the time Yahweh spake this word unto Moses, while Israel journeyed in the desert. Now, therefore lo! I—to-day, am eighty and five years old: ¹¹I remain, to-day, as courageous as on the day when Moses sent me, as my strength was then, so also my strength is now,—for war, both to go out and to come in. ¹²Now, therefore, give me this mountain, whereof Yahweh spake, on that day,—for, thou thyself, didst hear, on that day, that, Anakim, were there, and great cities fortified, if so be Yahweh be with me, then shall I dispossess them, as spake Yahweh. ¹³So

Joshua blessed him, and gave Hebron unto Caleb son of Jephunneh, for an inheritance. ¹⁴For this cause, hath Hebron belonged unto Caleb son of Jephunneh the Kenezite, for an inheritance, unto this day,—because he wholly followed Yahweh, God of Israel. ¹⁵Now, the name of Hebron, was formerly, City of Arba, the greatest man among the Anakim, was he. And, the land, had rest from war.

15So then the boundary of the tribe of the sons of Judah, by their families,—reached unto the boundary of Edom, the desert of Zin southward, on the extreme south; ²so their south boundary beginneth at the end of the Salt Sea,—from the bay that turneth to the south; ³and goeth forth on the south of the cliffs of Akrabbim, and crosseth over to Zin, and goeth up on the south of Kadesh-barnea,—and passeth over by Hezron, and goeth up to Addar, and turneth round to Karka; ⁴and passeth over to Azmon, and goeth forth at the ravine of Egypt, and so the extensions of the boundary are to the sea. This, shall be your south boundary. ⁵And, a boundary eastward, is the Salt Sea, as far as the end of the Jordan. And, the boundary on the north side, is from the bay of the sea, from the end of the Jordan. ⁶And the boundary goeth up Beth-hoglah, and passeth over, on the north, by Beth-arabah,—and the boundary goeth up by the Stone of Bohan, son of Reuben; ⁷and the boundary goeth up towards Debir, out of the vale of Achor, then northward, turning unto Gilgal, which is over against the ascent of Adummim, which is on the south side of the ravine,—then the boundary passeth over unto the waters of En-shemesh, and so the extensions thereof are unto En-rogel: ⁸then ascendeth the boundary by the valley of the son of Hinnom, to the side of the Jebusite, on the south, the same, is Jerusalem,—and the boundary goeth up unto the top of the mountain which faceth the valley of Hinnom, to the west, which is at the end of the Vale of Giants, northwards; ⁹and the boundary turneth round, from the top of the mountain, unto the fountain of the waters of Nephtoah, and goeth out unto the cities of Mount Ephron,—then the boundary turneth round to Baalah, the same, is Kiriath-jearim; ¹⁰then the boundary goeth round from Baalah westward, unto Mount Seir, and passeth over unto the slope of Mount Yearim, on the north, the same, is Chesalon,—and descendeth Bethshemesh, and passeth over Timnah; ¹¹then the boundary goeth forth unto the side of Ekron, northward, then the boundary turneth round towards Shikkeron, and crosseth over Mount Baalah, and goeth out at Jabneel,—and the extensions of the boundary are to the sea. ¹²And, as a west boundary, are the great sea and coast. This, is the boundary of the sons of Judah, round about, by their families. ¹³And, to Caleb, son of Jephunneh, gave he a portion, in the midst of the sons of Judah, at the bidding of Yahweh, by Joshua,—even the City of Arba, father of Anak, the same, is Hebron. ¹⁴And Caleb dispossessed from thence, the three sons of Anak,—Sheshai, and Ahiman, and Talmai, the descendants of Anak. ¹⁵And he went up from thence, against the inhabitants of Debir,—now, the name of Debir, formerly, was Kiriath-sepher. ¹⁶Then said Caleb, He that smiteth Kiriath-sepher, and captureth it, I will give unto him Achsah, my daughter, to wife. ¹⁷And Othniel son of Kenaz, brother of Caleb, captured it,—so he gave unto him Achsah, his daughter, to wife. ¹⁸And it came to pass, when she came, that she moved him to ask of her father a field, and, when she alighted from off the ass, Caleb said unto her—What aileth thee? ¹⁹And she said—Give me a present, for, dry land, hast thou given me, therefore must thou give me, pools of water. So he gave her upper pools and lower pools. ²⁰This, is the inheritance of the tribe of the sons of Judah, by their families. ²¹And the uttermost cities of the tribe of the sons of Judah, towards the boundary of Edom in the south, were,—Kabzeel and Eder, and Jagur, ²²and Kinah and Dimonah, and Adadah,—²³and Kedesh and Hazor, and Ithnan, ²⁴Ziph and Talem, and Bealoth, ²⁵and Hazor-hadattah and Kerioth-hezron, the same, is Hazor; ²⁶Amam and Shema, and Moladah, ²⁷and Hazar-gaddah and Heshmon, and Beth-pelet. ²⁸and Hazarshual and Beer-sheba, with the hamlets thereof, ²⁹Baalath and Iyyim, and Ezem, ³⁰and Eltolad and Chesil, and Hormah, ³¹and Ziklag and Madmannah, and Sansannah, ³²and Lebaoth and Shilhim, and En-rimmon,—all the cities are twenty-nine, with their villages. ³³In the lowland,—Eshtaol and Zorah, and Ashnah, ³⁴and Zanoah and En-gannim, Tappuah, and Enam; ³⁵Jarmuth, and Adullam, Socoh, and Azekah; ³⁶and Shaaraim, and Adithaim, and Gederah, and Gederothaim,—fourteen cities, with their villages. ³⁷Zenan and Hadashah, and Migdal-gad, ³⁸and Dilan and Mizpeh, and Joktheel, ³⁹Lachish and Bozkath, and Eglon, ⁴⁰and Cabbon and Lahmas, and Chithlish, ⁴¹and Gederath, Beth-dagon and Naamah, and Makkedah,—sixteen cities, with their villages. ⁴²Libnah and Ether, and Ashan, ⁴³and Iphtah and Ashnah, and Nezib, ⁴⁴and Keilah and Achzib, and Mareshah,—nine cities, with their villages. ⁴⁵Ekron with her towns, and her villages. ⁴⁶From Ekron, even unto the sea,—all that were by the side of Ashdod with their villages. ⁴⁷Ashdod, her towns and her villages. Gaza, her towns and her villages, as far as the ravine of Egypt,—and the great sea and coast. ⁴⁸And in the hill-country,—Shamir and Jattir, and Socoh, ⁴⁹and Dannah and Kiriath-sannah, the same, is Debir, ⁵⁰and Anab and Eshtemoh, and Anim, ⁵¹and Goshen and Holon, and Giloh,—eleven cities, with their villages. ⁵²Arab and Rumah and Eshan, ⁵³and Janim and Beth-tappuah and Aphekah, ⁵⁴and Humtah, and Kiriath-arba, the same, is Hebron, and Zior,—nine cities, with their villages. ⁵⁵Maon, Carmel, and Ziph and Jutah, ⁵⁶and Jezreel and Jokdeam, and Zanoah, ⁵⁷Kain, Gibeah and Timnah,—ten cities, with their villages. ⁵⁸Halhul, Beth-zur, and Gedor, ⁵⁹and Maarath and Beth-anoth, and Eltekon,— six cities, with their villages. ⁶⁰Kiriath-baal, the same, is Kiriath-jearim, and Rabbah,—two cities, with their villages. ⁶¹In the desert,—Beth-arabah, Middin, and Secacah, ⁶²and Nibshan and the City of Salt, and En-gedi,—six cities, with their villages. ⁶³But, as for the Jebusites, the inhabitants of Jerusalem, the sons of Judah could not dispossess them,—so the Jebusites have dwelt with the sons of Judah, in Jerusalem, until this day.

16Then came out the lot, for the sons of Joseph, from the Jordan by Jericho, at the waters of Jericho, eastward,—the desert, going up from Jericho, through the hill country to Bethel; ²and it goeth out from Bethel towards Luz,—and passeth over unto the boundary of the Archites at Ataroth; ³and descendeth westward, unto the boundary of the Japhletites, as far as the boundary of Bethhoron the nether, and as far as Gezer,—and the extensions thereof are to the sea. ⁴So the sons of Joseph, Manasseh and Ephraim, received their inheritance. ⁵And the boundary of the sons of Ephraim, by their families, was,—yea the boundary of their inheritance on the east, was Ataroth-addar, as far as Beth-horon the upper; ⁶and the boundary goeth out westward at Michmethath, on the north, then the boundary bendeth round eastward, to Taanath-shiloh,—and passeth by it on the east to Janoah; ⁷and goeth down from Janoah to Ataroth and to Naarah,—and toucheth upon Jericho, and goeth out at the Jordan. ⁸From Tappuah, runneth the boundary along westward, to the ravine of Kanah, and the extensions thereof are to the sea,—this, is the inheritance of the tribe of the sons of Ephraim, by their families; ⁹together with the cities which were separated for the sons of Ephraim, in the midst of the inheritance of the sons of Manasseh,—all the cities, with their villages. ¹⁰But they did not dispossess the Canaanites who were dwelling in Gazer,—so the Canaanites have dwelt in the midst of Ephraim unto this day, and have become tributary servants.

17And the lot for the tribe of Manasseh was, for, he, was the firstborn of Joseph,—as for Machir, the firstborn of Manasseh, the father of Gilead, because, he, was a man of war, therefore had he Gilead and Bashan. ²So the lot pertained to the rest of the sons of Manasseh, by their families, to the sons of Abiezer, and to the sons of Helek, and to the sons of Asriel, and to the sons of Shechem, and to the sons of Hephher, and to the sons of Shemida,—these, were the sons of Manasseh, son of Joseph, even the male descendants, by their families. ³But, Zelophehad, son of Hephher, son of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh, had no sons, but only daughters,—and, these, are the names of his daughters, Mahlah and Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah. ⁴And they had come near, before Eleazar the priest, and before Joshua son of Nun, and before the princes, saying, Yahweh, commanded Moses, to give us an inheritance in the midst of our brethren,—And he had given them, according to the bidding of Yahweh, an inheritance, in the midst of the brethren of their father. ⁵Thus there fell ten portions to Manasseh,—besides the land of Gilead, and Bashan, which is beyond the Jordan; ⁶because, the daughters of Manasseh, received an inheritance in the midst of his sons,—and, the land of Gilead, became the possession of the sons of Manasseh that remained. ⁷So then the boundary of Manasseh was from Asher, Michmethath, which faceth Shechem,—and the boundary goeth along unto the right hand, unto the inhabitants of En-tappuah. ⁸Manasseh, had the land of Tappuah,—but, Tappuah itself, towards the boundary of Manasseh, pertained unto the sons of Ephraim; ⁹and the boundary goeth down to the ravine of Kanah, southward of the ravine, these cities, belong to Ephraim, in the midst of the cities of Manasseh,—but, the boundary of Manasseh, was on the north side of the ravine, and the extensions thereof were to the sea; ¹⁰southward, pertaineth to Ephraim, and, northward, to Manasseh, and the sea was the boundary thereof,—and they touch, Asher, on the north, and Issachar on the east. ¹¹And Manasseh had—in Issachar and in Asher—Bethshean and her towns, and Ibleam and her towns, and the inhabitants of Dor and her towns, and the inhabitants of En-dor and her towns, and the inhabitants of Taanach and her towns, and the inhabitants of Megiddo, and her towns—the three heights, ¹²The sons of Manasseh, however, could not dispossess these cities,—but the Canaanites were determined to remain in this land; ¹³but, when the sons of Israel had waxed strong, they put the Canaanites under tribute,—though they, dispossessed, them not. ¹⁴Then spake the sons of Joseph unto Joshua, saying,—Why hast thou given me, as an inheritance, but one lot and one portion, seeing that, I, am a numerous people, because hitherto hath Yahweh blessed me. ¹⁵And Joshua said unto them: If, a numerous people, thou art, get thee up to the forest, and cut down for thyself there, in the land of the Perizzites and of the Rephaim,—seeing that, too narrow for thee, is the hill country of Ephraim. ¹⁶And the sons of Joseph said, The hill country is not enough for us,—and there are, chariots of iron, among all the Canaanites that dwell in the land of the valley, belonging both to them in Bethshean, and her towns, and to them in the valley of Jezreel. ¹⁷And Joshua made answer unto the house of Joseph, to Ephraim and to Manasseh, saying,—A numerous people, thou art, and, great vigour, thou hast, thou shalt not have one lot only; ¹⁸for, the hill country, shall be thine, in that, a forest, it is, therefore canst thou cut it down, and thine shall be the extensions thereof,—for thou shalt dispossess the Canaanites, though, chariots of iron, they have, and though, strong, they are.

18Then were gathered together all the assembly of the sons of Israel at Shiloh, and they set up there, the tent of meeting,—the land, having been subdued before them. ²But there remained among the sons of Israel, to whom had not been apportioned their inheritance,—seven tribes. ³So Joshua said unto the sons of Israel,—How long, will ye be too slothful, to enter in and take possession of the land, which Yahweh God of your fathers, hath given unto you? ⁴Set forth for you three men for each tribe,—that I may send them, that they may arise—and go up and down in the land—and map it out as required for their inheritance, and come in unto me. ⁵So shall they apportion it for themselves into seven parts,—Let, Judah, stay upon his boundary, on the south, and, the house of Joseph, stay upon their boundary, on the north, ⁶but, ye, shall map out the rest of the land, into seven parts,—and bring in your descriptions unto me, here,—then will I cast lots for you here, before Yahweh our God. ⁷For Levi hath no portion in your midst, for, the priesthood of Yahweh, is his inheritance,—and, Gad, and Reuben, and the half tribe of Manasseh, have received their inheritance, beyond the Jordan on the east, which Moses the servant of Yahweh gave unto them. ⁸So the men arose, and went,—and Joshua commanded them who were going, to map out the land, saying—Take your journey and go up and down in the land, and map it out, and return unto me, and, here, will I cast lots for you before Yahweh, in Shiloh. ⁹So the men went, and passed through the land, and mapped it out by cities, into seven parts, upon a scroll,—and came in unto Joshua, unto the camp, in Shiloh. ¹⁰And Joshua cast for them lots, in Shiloh, before Yahweh,—and Joshua there apportioned the land unto the sons of Israel, according to their portions. ¹¹Then came up the lot of the tribe of the sons of Benjamin, by their families,—and the boundary of their lot came out, between the sons of Judah and the sons of Joseph. ¹²And so their boundary, on the north border, was from the Jordan,—and the boundary goeth up unto the side of Jericho on the north, and goeth up in the hill country, westward, and the extensions thereof are towards the wilderness of Beth-aven; ¹³and the boundary passeth over from thence towards Luz, to the side of Luz, southwards, the same, is Bethel,—and the boundary goeth down to Ataroth-addah, by the mountain that is on the south of Beth-horon the nether; ¹⁴then turneth the boundary and goeth round the west border, southward, from the mountain which faceth Beth-horon, southward, and so the extensions thereof are unto Kiriath-baal—the same, is Kiriath-jearim, a city of the sons of Judah,—this, is the west border. ¹⁵And, the border southward, is from the uttermost part of Kiriath-jearim,—and the boundary goeth out westward, yea it goeth out unto the fountain of the waters of Nephtoah; ¹⁶and the boundary goeth down to the uttermost part of the mountain which faceth the valley of the son of Hinnom, which is in the Vale of Gihon, northward,—and descendeth the valley of Hinnom, unto the side of the Jebusite, southward, and then descendeth to En-rogel; ¹⁷and it turneth on the north, and goeth out at En-shemesh, and goeth out unto Geliloth, which is over against the ascent of Adummim,—and goeth down by the Stone of Bohan, son of Reuben; ¹⁸and passeth along unto the side over against the Arabah, northward,—and goeth down toward the Arabah; ¹⁹and the boundary passeth along unto the side of Beth-hoglah, northward, and so the extensions of the boundary are unto the bay of the Salt Sea, northward, unto the end of the Jordan, southward,—This, is the south boundary. ²⁰And, the Jordan itself, boundeth it as an eastward border. This, is the inheritance of the sons of Benjamin, by the boundaries thereof round about, by their families. ²¹So then the cities of the tribe of the sons of Benjamin, by their families, are,—Jericho and Beth-hoglah, and Emekkeziz, ²²and Beth-arabah and Zemaraim, and Bethel, ²³and Avvim and Parah and Ophrah, ²⁴and Chephar-ammoni and Ophni, and Geba,—twelve cities, with their villages: ²⁵Gibeon and Ramah, and Beeroth, ²⁶and Mizpeh and Chephirah, and Mozah, ²⁷and Rekem and Irpeel, and Taralah, ²⁸and Zelah, Eleph, and the Jebusite, the same, is Jerusalem, Gibeath and Kiriath, fourteen cities, with their villages. This, is the inheritance of the sons of Benjamin, by their families.

19And the second lot came out, for Simeon, for the tribe of the sons of Simeon, by their families,—and their inheritance was in the midst of the inheritance of the sons of Judah. ²And they had for their inheritance,—Beer-sheba or Sheba, and Moladah, ³and Hazar-shual, and Balah, and Ezem, ⁴and Eltolad and Bethul, and Hormah, ⁵and Ziklag and Beth-marcaboth, and Hazar-susah, ⁶and Beth-lebaoth, and Sharuhin,—thirteen cities, with their villages: ⁷Ain, Rimmon, and Ether and Ashan,—four cities, with their villages, ⁸and all the villages that were round about these cities, as far as Baalath-beer, Ramah of the South. This, is the inheritance of the tribe of the sons of Simeon, by their families: ⁹Out of the portion of the sons of Judah, is the inheritance of the sons of Simeon,—for it came to pass that what was allotted to the sons of Judah, was too much for them, therefore did the sons of Simeon receive an inheritance in the midst of their inheritance. ¹⁰Then came up the third lot, for the sons of Zebulun, by their families,—and the boundary of their inheritance was as far as Sarid. ¹¹And their boundary goeth up westward, even towards Maralah, and toucheth Dabbesheth,—and reacheth unto the ravine that faceth Jokneam; ¹²and turneth back from Sarid, eastward, toward the rising of the sun, upon the boundary of Chisloth-tabor,—and goeth out unto Daberath, and ascendeth Japhia; ¹³and, from thence, it passed along in front on the east, towards Gath-hepher, towards Eth-kazin,—and goeth out at Rimmon which turneth about towards Neah; ¹⁴and the boundary goeth round it, on the north to Hannathon,—and so the extensions thereof are the valley of Iphtah-el; ¹⁵and Kattath and Nahalal, and Shimron, and Idalah and Bethlehem,—twelve cities, with their villages. ¹⁶This, is the inheritance of the sons of Zebulun, by their families,—these cities, with their villages. ¹⁷For Issachar, came out the fourth lot,—for the sons of Issachar, by their families. ¹⁸And their boundary was,—Jezreel and Chesulloth, and Shunem, ¹⁹and Hapharaim and Shion, and Anaharath, ²⁰and Rabbith and Kishion, and Ebez, ²¹and Remeth, and En-gannim, and Enhaddah, and Beth-pazzez; ²²and the boundary toucheth Tabor and Shahazumah, and Beth-shemesh, and so the extensions of their boundary are to the Jordan,—sixteen cities, with their villages. ²³This, is the inheritance of the tribe of the sons of Issachar, by their families,—the cities, with their villages. ²⁴Then came out the fifth lot, for the tribe of the sons of Asher, by their families. ²⁵And their boundary was,—Helkath and Hali, and Beten and Achshaph, ²⁶and Allam-melech and Amad, and Mishal,—and it toucheth Carmel to the west, and Shihor-libnath; ²⁷and it turneth toward sun-rise—to Beth-dagon, and toucheth Zebulun and the valley of Iphtah-el northward, and Bethemek, and Neiel; and goeth out unto Cabul, on the left, ²⁸and Ebron and Rehob, and Hammon and Kanah,—as far as Zidon the populous; ²⁹and the boundary turneth to Ramah, and as far as the city of the fortress of Tyre,—then the boundary turneth to Hosah, and so the extensions thereof are, on the west, from Hebel to Achzib; ³⁰Ummah also and Aphek, and Rehob,—twenty-two cities, with their villages. ³¹This, is the inheritance of the tribe of the sons of Asher, by their families,—these cities, with their villages. ³²For the sons of Naphtali, came out the sixth lot,—for the sons of Naphtali, by their families. ³³And their boundary was from Heleph, from the terebinth of Bezaannim, and Adami-nekeb, and Jabneel, as far as Lakkum; and so the extensions thereof were to the Jordan; ³⁴and the boundary turneth westward, to Aznoth-tabor, and goeth out from thence, toward Hukkok,—and toucheth Zebulun on the south, and, Asher, it toucheth on the west, and Judah, at the Jordan towards sunrise. ³⁵And, the fortified cities, are,—Ziddim, Zer, and Hammath, Rakkath and Chinnereth, ³⁶and Adamah and Ramah, and Hazor, ³⁷and Kedesh and Edrei, and En-hazor, ³⁸and Iron and Migdalel, Horem and Beth-anath, and Beth-shemesh,—nineteen cities, with their villages. ³⁹This, is the inheritance of the tribe of the sons of Naphtali, by their families,—the cities, with their villages. ⁴⁰And, for the tribe of the sons of Dan, by their families, came out the seventh lot. ⁴¹And the boundary of their inheritance was,—Zorah and Esh-taol, and Ir-shemesh, ⁴²and Shaalabbin and Aijalon, and Ithlah, ⁴³and Elon and Timnah, and Ekron, ⁴⁴and Eltekeh and Gibbethon, and Baalath, ⁴⁵and Jehud and Beneberak, and Gath-rimmon, ⁴⁶and Me-jarkon, and Rakkon,—with the boundary over against Joppa. ⁴⁷And, when the boundary of the sons of Dan went out beyond these, then went up the sons of Dan and fought against Leshem, and captured it, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and took possession thereof, and dwelt therein, and they called Leshem—Dan, after the name of Dan their father, ⁴⁸This, is the inheritance of the tribe of the sons of Dan, by their families,—these cities, with their villages. ⁴⁹When they had made an end of distributing the land by the boundaries thereof, then gave the sons of Israel an inheritance unto Joshua son of Nun, in their midst: ⁵⁰at the bidding of Yahweh, gave they unto him the city which he asked, even Timnath-serah, in the hill country of Ephraim,—and he built the city and dwelt therein. ⁵¹These, are the inheritances which Eleazar the priest and Joshua son of Nun and the ancestral heads distributed for inheritance to the tribes of the sons of Israel, by lot, in Shiloh, before Yahweh, at the entrance of the tent of meeting,—so they made an end of apportioning the land.

20And Yahweh spake unto Joshua, saying: ²Speak unto the sons of Israel, saying,—Set out for you the cities of refuge, whereof I spake unto you, by the hand of Moses: ³that the manslayer who slayeth a person by mistake, unwittingly, may flee thither,—so shall they be unto you for refuge from the blood-redeemer, ⁴and he shall flee unto one of these cities and present himself at the entrance of the gate of the city, and shall speak, in the ears of the elders of that city, his defence,—and they shall take him for protection into the city unto them, and shall give him a place, so shall he dwell with them. ⁵And, when the blood-redeemer pursueth after him, then shall they not deliver up the manslayer, into his hand,—because, unwittingly, it was that he slew his neighbour, and had not been, cherishing hatred, towards him, aforesaid; ⁶so shall he remain in that city, until he standeth before the assembly, for judgment, until the death of the high-priest who shall be in those days,—then, shall the manslayer return, and enter into his own city, and into his own house, within the city from whence he fled. ⁷So then they set apart Kadesh in Galilee, in the hill country of Naphtali, and Shechem, in the hill country of Ephraim, and Kiriath-arba, the same, is Hebron, in the hill country of Judah. ⁸And, beyond the Jordan, by Jericho eastward, they appointed Bezer in the wilderness, in the table-land, out of the tribe of Reuben,—and Ramoth in Gilead, out of the tribe of Gad, and Golan in Bashan, out of the tribe of Manasseh. ⁹These, were the cities appointed for all the sons of Israel, and for the sojourner who sojourneth in their midst, that whosoever should slay a person by mistake, might flee thither,—and not die by the hand of the blood-redeemer, until he should stand before the assembly.

21Then came near the ancestral heads of the Levites, unto Eleazar, the priest, and unto Joshua son of Nun,—and unto the ancestral heads of the tribes, of the sons of Israel; ²and spake unto them in Shiloh in the land of Canaan, saying: Yahweh himself, commanded, by the hand of Moses, that there should be given unto us cities to dwell in,—with their pasture-lands for our cattle. ³So the sons of Israel gave unto the Levites, out of their own inheritance, at the bidding of Yahweh,—these cities, with their pasture-lands. ⁴And, when the lot came out for the families of the Kohathites, then had the sons of Aaron the priest, from among the Levites—out of the tribe of Judah and out of the tribe of the Simeonites and out of the tribe of Benjamin—by lot, thirteen cities. ⁵And, the sons of Kohath that remained, had—out of the families of the tribe of Ephraim and out of the tribe of Dan and out of the half tribe of Manasseh—by lot, ten cities. ⁶And, the sons of Gershon, had—out of families of the tribe of Issachar and out of the tribe of Asher and out of the tribe of Naphtali and out of the half tribe of Manasseh in Bashan—by lot, thirteen cities. ⁷The sons of Merari, by their families, had—out of the tribe of Reuben and out of the tribe of Gad and out of the tribe of Zebulun, twelve cities. ⁸So the sons of Israel gave unto the Levites these cities, with their pasture lands,—as Yahweh commanded, by the hand of Moses, by lot. ⁹Thus then they gave—out of the tribe of the sons of Judah and out of the tribe of the sons of Simeon—these cities which are mentioned by name. ¹⁰And the sons of Aaron, from among the sons of Kohath, from among the sons of Levi, had them,—because, theirs, was the first lot; ¹¹yea there was given unto them, the city of Arba, the father of Anak, the same, is Hebron, in the hill country of Judah,—with the pasture land thereof, round about it; ¹²whereas, the fields of the city, and the villages thereof, gave they unto Caleb son of Jephunneh, as his possession. ¹³But, unto the sons of Aaron the priest, gave they the city of refuge for the manslayer, even Hebron, with the pasture lands thereof,—Libnah also, with her pasture lands; ¹⁴and Jattir with her pasture land, and Eshtemoa with her pasture land; ¹⁵and Holon, with her pasture land, and Debir, with her pasture land; ¹⁶and Ain, with her pasture land, and Juttah, with her pasture land, Beth-shemesh, with her pasture land,—nine cities, out of these two tribes. ¹⁷And, out of the tribe of Benjamin, Gibeon, with her pasture land,—Geba, with her pasture land; ¹⁸Anathoth, with her pasture land, and Almon, with her pasture land,—four cities. ¹⁹All the cities of the sons of Aaron, the priests, were thirteen cities, with their pasture lands. ²⁰And, as for the families of the sons of Kohath, the Levites, which remained of the sons of Kohath, the cities of their lot were out of the tribe of Ephraim. ²¹So they gave unto them a city of refuge for the manslayer, even Shechem with her pasture land, in the hill country of Ephraim,—also Gezer, with her pasture land; ²²and Kibzaim, with her pasture land, and Beth-horon, with her pasture land,—four cities. ²³And, out of the tribe of Dan, Elteke, with her pasture land,—Gibbethon, with her pasture land; ²⁴Aijalon, with her pasture land, Gath-rimmon, with her pasture land,—four cities. ²⁵And, out of the half tribe of Manasseh, Taanach, with her pasture land, and Gath-rimmon, with her pasture land,—two cities. ²⁶All the cities, were ten, with their pasture lands: for the families of the sons of Kohath which remained. ²⁷And, the sons of Gershon, of the families of the Levites, had, out of the half tribe of Manasseh, a city of refuge for the manslayer, even Golan in Bashan, with her pasture land, and Beeshterah, with her pasture land,—two cities. ²⁸And, out of the tribe of Issachar, Kishion, with her pasture land,—Daberath, with her pasture land; ²⁹Jarmuth, with her pasture land, En-gannim, with her pasture land,—four cities. ³⁰And, out of the tribe of Asher, Mishal, with her pasture land, Abdon, with her pasture land; ³¹Helkath, with her pasture land, and Rehob, with her pasture land,—four cities. ³²And, out of the tribe of Naphtali, a city of refuge for the manslayer—even Kedesh in Galilee, with her pasture land, and Hammoth-dor, with her pasture land, and Kartan, with her pasture land,—three cities. ³³All, the cities of the Gershonites, by their families, were thirteen cities, with their pasture lands. ³⁴And, unto the families of the sons of Merari, the Levites that remained, out of the tribe of Zebulun, Jokneam, with her pasture land,—Kartah, with her pasture land; ³⁵Dimnah, with her pasture land, Nahalal, with her pasture land,—four cities. ³⁶And, out of the tribe of Reuben, Bezer, with her pasture land,—and Jahaz, with her pasture land; ³⁷Kedemoth, with her pasture land and Mephaath, with her pasture land,—four cities. ³⁸And, out of the tribe of Gad, a city of refuge for the manslayer—even Ramoth in Gilead, with her pasture land,—and Mahanaim, with her pasture land; ³⁹Heshbon, with her pasture land, Jazer, with her pasture land,—in all, four cities. ⁴⁰All the cities for the sons of Merari, by their families, who remained of the families of the Levites, yea their lot was, twelve, cities. ⁴¹All the cities of the Levites, in the midst of the possession of the sons of Israel, were forty-eight cities, with their pasture lands: ⁴²these cities passed, each severally, with its pasture lands round about it; thus, was it with all these cities. ⁴³So Yahweh gave unto Israel, all the land which he had sworn to give unto their fathers,—and they took possession thereof, and dwelt therein. ⁴⁴And Yahweh gave them rest round about, according to all that he had sworn unto their fathers,—and there stood not a man before them, of all their enemies; all their enemies, did Yahweh deliver into their hand. ⁴⁵There failed not a thing, out of all the good things, whereof Yahweh had spoken unto the house of Israel,—the whole, came to pass.

22Then, called Joshua—for the Reubenites, and for the Gadites,—and for the half tribe of Manasseh; ²and said unto them, Ye, have observed all that Moses the servant of Yahweh commanded you,—and have hearkened unto my voice, in all that I commanded you: ³ye have not forsaken your brethren, these many days, unto this day,—but have kept the charge of the commandment of Yahweh your God. ⁴Now, therefore, that Yahweh your God hath given rest unto your brethren, according as he spake unto them,—now, therefore, turn ye and get you to your homes within the land of your possession, which Moses the servant of Yahweh gave unto you, over the Jordan. ⁵Only, take ye diligent heed, to do the commandment and the law, which Moses the servant of Yahweh commanded you—to love Yahweh your God, and to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments, and to cleave unto him,—and to serve him—with all your heart, and with all your soul. ⁶So Joshua blessed them,—and sent them away, and they took their journey unto their homes. ⁷Now, unto the one half tribe of Manasseh, had Moses given a possession in Bashan, and, unto the other half, did Joshua give possession with their brethren, over the Jordan, westward,—moreover also, when Joshua sent them away unto their homes, he blessed them, ⁸and spake unto them, saying—With much wealth, return ye unto your homes, even with very much cattle, with silver and with gold, and with copper and with iron, and with very much raiment,—divide ye the spoil of your enemies with your brethren. ⁹So the sons of Reuben and the sons of Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh. returned and departed from the sons of Israel, from Shiloh, which was in the land of Canaan,—to go unto the land of Gilead, unto the land of their possession, wherein they had received their possessions, at the bidding of Yahweh by the hand of Moses. ¹⁰And, when they came into the circles of the Jordan, which were in the land of Canaan,—then did the sons of Reuben and the sons of Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh build there an altar by the Jordan, an altar of large dimensions, ¹¹And the sons of Israel heard say,—Lo! the sons of Reuben and the sons of Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh have built an altar in front of the land of Canaan, in the circles of the Jordan, in the region opposite the sons of Israel. ¹²And, when the sons of Israel heard, all the assembly of the sons of Israel gathered themselves together at Shiloh, to go up against them to war. ¹³And the sons of Israel sent unto the sons of Reuben and unto the sons of Gad and unto the half tribe of Manasseh, within the land of Gilead,—Phinehas, son of Eleazar the priest; ¹⁴and ten princes with him, one prince of an ancestral house for each of the tribes of Israel,—they being, severally heads of their ancestral houses, among the thousands of Israel. ¹⁵So they came in unto the sons of Reuben and unto the sons of Gad and unto the half tribe of Manasseh, within the land of Gilead,—and spake with them, saying: ¹⁶Thus, say all the assembly of Yahweh—What is this act of treachery which ye have committed against the God of Israel, that ye should turn back, to-day, from following Yahweh,—in that ye have builded you an altar, that ye might rebel, to-day, against Yahweh? ¹⁷Too little for us, was the iniquity of

Peor, from which we have not cleansed ourselves, unto this day,—although the plague came upon the assembly of Yahweh; ¹⁸but that, ye, must turn back to-day from following Yahweh,—though it must needs be that, if, ye, rebel to-day against Yahweh, then, to-morrow, with all the assembly of Israel, will he be wroth? ¹⁹Howbeit, if, unclean, be the land of your possession, do ye on your part come over into the land of the possession of Yahweh, where abideth the habitation of Yahweh, and take your possession in our midst,—but, against Yahweh, do not rebel, nor, against us, rebel, by building yourselves an altar apart from the altar of Yahweh our God. ²⁰Did not, Achan son of Zerah, commit an act of treachery, with a devoted thing, and, upon all the assembly of Israel, came wrath,—so that not, he—one man alone, died in his iniquity. ²¹Then responded the sons of Reuben and the sons of Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh,—and spake unto the heads of the thousands of Israel: ²²El-Elohim-Yahweh, El-Elohim-Yahweh, he knoweth, and, Israel, he, shall know,—if in rebellion, or if in treachery, against Yahweh, do not save us this day: ²³that we should build for ourselves an altar, to turn back from following Yahweh,—or, if that we might cause to go up thereon ascending-sacrifice or meal-offering, or if that we might offer thereon peace-offerings, let Yahweh himself require it; ²⁴if, indeed, we have not, rather, out of anxiety and of purpose, done this thing, saying,—. In time to come, your sons might speak to our sons, saying, What have ye to do with Yahweh, God of Israel; ²⁵seeing that, a boundary, hath Yahweh put between us and you, ye sons of Reuben and ye sons of Gad—even the Jordan, ye have no portion in Yahweh,—so might your sons cause our sons, to cease from revering Yahweh. ²⁶We said, therefore, Let us prepare, we pray you, to build us an altar,—not for ascending-offering, nor for sacrifice; ²⁷but that, a witness, it may be between us and you, and between our generations after us, that we are to do the service of Yahweh, before him, with our ascending-offerings and with our sacrifices, and with our peace-offerings,—that your sons may not say, in time to come, to our sons, Ye have no portion in Yahweh. ²⁸Therefore said we, And it shall be, when they so say to us, or to our generations, in time to come,—that we will say—Behold ye the pattern of the altar of Yahweh, which our fathers made, not for ascending-offerings nor for sacrifice, but that, a witness, it might be between us and you. ²⁹Far be it from us—that we should rebel against Yahweh, or turn back, to-day, from following Yahweh, by building an altar, for ascending-offering, or meal-offering or for sacrifice,—other than the altar of Yahweh our God, which is before his habitation. ³⁰And, when Phinehas the priest, and the princes of the assembly, even the heads of the thousands of Israel who were with him, heard the words which the sons of Reuben and the sons of Gad and the sons of Manasseh spake, then was it well-pleasing in their eyes. ³¹And Phinehas son of Eleazar the priest said unto the sons of Reuben and unto the sons of Gad and unto the sons of Manasseh—To-day, we know that, in our midst, is Yahweh, in that ye have not committed, against Yahweh, this act of treachery,—now, have ye rescued the sons of Israel out of the hand of Yahweh. ³²So Phinehas son of Eleazar the priest and the princes returned from the sons of Reuben and from the sons of Gad, out of the land of Gilead, unto the land of Canaan, unto the sons of Israel,—and brought them back word. ³³And the thing was well-pleasing in the eyes of the sons of Israel, and the sons of Israel blessed God,—and spake not of going up against them, to war, to lay waste the land, wherein the sons of Reuben and the sons of Gad dwelt. ³⁴So the sons of Reuben and the sons of Gad named the altar a Witness : A witness, it is between us, That, Yahweh, is God.

23And it came to pass, after many days, when Yahweh had given rest unto Israel, from all their enemies round about,—and, Joshua, had become old, advanced in days, ²that Joshua called for all Israel, for their elders, and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their officers,—and said unto them, I, am old, advanced in days; ³but, ye, have seen—all that Yahweh your God hath done unto all those nations, because of you,—for, Yahweh your God, is he that hath fought for you. ⁴Behold, I have allotted to you these nations which remain, as an inheritance, for your tribes,—from the Jordan, and all the nations which I have cut off, even unto the great sea, at the going in of the sun. ⁵But, Yahweh your God—he, will thrust them out from before you, and drive them away out of your sight,—so shall ye possess their land, as Yahweh your God spoke unto you. ⁶Therefore must ye be very firm to observe and to do all that is written in the scroll of the law of Moses,—so as not to turn aside therefrom, to the right hand or to the left; ⁷so as not to go in among these nations, these which remain with you,—and, with the name of their gods, shall ye neither make memorial nor put on oath, and neither serve them,—nor bow down to them. ⁸But, unto Yahweh your God, must ye cleave,—as, ye have done until this day; ⁹therefore hath Yahweh dispossessed, from before you, nations great and strong,—but, as for you, not a man hath stood before you, until this day. ¹⁰One man of you, can chase a thousand,—for, Yahweh your God, is he that fighteth for you, as he spake to you. ¹¹Take diligent heed, therefore, unto your souls,—to love Yahweh your God. ¹²But, if ye, do in any wise turn back, and cleave unto the remnant of these nations, these which remain with you,—and intermarry with them, and go in with them, and, they, with you; ¹³know, that Yahweh your God will no further drive out these nations from before you,—but they will become unto you a snare and a hook, and a goad in your sides, and thorns in your eyes, until ye have perished from off this goodly soil, which Yahweh your God hath given unto you. ¹⁴But lo! I am going to-day, in the way of all the earth,—ye must acknowledge, therefore, with all your heart and with all your soul, that there hath not failed a single thing, out of all the good things which Yahweh your God spake concerning you, the whole, hath come to pass to you, there hath not failed thereof, a single thing. ¹⁵But it shall be that, as all the good things have come unto you, which Yahweh your God spake unto you, so, will Yahweh bring upon you all the evil things, until he hath destroyed you from off this goodly soil, which Yahweh your God hath given unto you. ¹⁶When ye transgress the covenant of Yahweh your God which he hath commanded you, and go and serve other gods, and bow yourselves down unto them, then will the anger of Yahweh kindle upon you, and ye will perish quickly, from off the good land which he hath given unto you.

24And Joshua gathered together all the tribes of Israel, unto Shechem,—and called for the elders of Israel, and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their officers, and they presented themselves before God. ²Then said Joshua unto all the people—Thus, saith Yahweh, God of Israel, Beyond the River, dwelt your fathers from age-past times, unto Terah, father of Abraham, and father of Nahor,—and they served other gods. ³So I took your father, Abraham, from beyond the River, and led him through all the land of Canaan,—and multiplied his seed, and gave unto him, Isaac; ⁴and gave unto Isaac Jacob and Esau,—and gave unto Esau, Mount Seir, to possess it, but, Jacob and his sons, went down into Egypt. ⁵Then sent I Moses and Aaron, and plagued Egypt, according to that which I did in their midst, and, afterwards, brought you forth. ⁶Yea I brought forth your fathers, out of Egypt, and ye came unto the sea, and the Egyptians pursued after your fathers, with chariots and with horsemen, unto the Red Sea. ⁷So they made outcry unto Yahweh, and he put darkness between you and the Egyptians, and brought in upon them the sea, and covered them,—and your eyes beheld what I did with the Egyptians. And, when ye had remained in the desert many days, ⁸then I brought you into the land of the Amorites, who were dwelling over the Jordan, and they fought with you,—then delivered I them into your hand, and ye took possession of their land, so I destroyed them from before you. ⁹Then rose up Balak, son of Zippor, king of Moab, and made war with Israel,—and sent and called for Balaam son of Beor, to curse you; ¹⁰but I was not willing to hearken unto Balaam,—so, he kept on blessing, you, and I rescued you out of his hand. ¹¹Then passed ye over the Jordan, and came in unto Jericho, and, when they would have made war with you—even the lords of Jericho—the Amorite and the Perizzite and the Canaanite and the Hittite and the Girgashite, the Hivite and the Jebusite, then delivered I them into your hand. ¹²And I sent before you the hornet, which drove them out from before you, the two kings of the Amorites,—not with thy sword, nor with thy bow. ¹³Thus I gave unto you a land on which thou hadst not laboured, and cities which ye had not built, and ye proceeded to dwell therein,—of vineyards and oliveyards, which ye planted not, ye are eating. ¹⁴Now, therefore, revere ye Yahweh, and serve him, in sincerity and in truth,—and put away the gods which your fathers served beyond the River, and in Egypt, and serve ye Yahweh. ¹⁵But, if it be, a vexation, in your eyes, to serve Yahweh, choose ye for yourselves, to-day, whom ye will serve, whether the gods which your fathers served, that were beyond the River, or the gods of the Amorites, in whose land ye are dwelling,—but, I and my house, will serve Yahweh. ¹⁶Then responded the people, and said, Far be it from us, that we should forsake Yahweh,—to serve other gods; ¹⁷for, as for Yahweh our God, he, brought up both us and our fathers, out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of servants,—and who did before our eyes, these great signs, and preserved us throughout all the way wherein we journeyed, and among all the peoples through the midst of whom we passed; ¹⁸then did Yahweh drive out all the peoples, even the Amorites were dwelling in the land, from before us,—we too, will serve Yahweh, for, he, is our God. ¹⁹Then said Joshua unto the people—Ye cannot serve Yahweh, for, a holy God, he is, a jealous GOD, he is, he will not forgive your transgression, nor your sins. ²⁰When ye forsake Yahweh, and serve the gods of a stranger, then will he turn, and inflict on you calamity, and consume you, after that he hath dealt well with you. ²¹But the people said unto Joshua,—Nay! but, Yahweh, will we serve. ²²Then said Joshua unto the people—Witnesses, are ye, against yourselves, that, ye yourselves, have chosen you Yahweh, to serve him. And they said: Witnesses! ²³Now, therefore, put ye away the gods of the stranger, that are in your midst,—and incline your heart unto Yahweh, God of Israel. ²⁴And the people said unto Joshua,—Yahweh our God, will we serve, and, unto his voice, will we hearken. ²⁵So then Joshua solemnised a covenant for the people, on that day,—and set for them a statute and a regulation, in Shechem. ²⁶And Joshua wrote these words in the scroll of the law of God,—and took a great stone, and set it up there, under the oak that was by the sanctuary of Yahweh. ²⁷And Joshua said unto all the people—Lo! this stone, shall serve against us as a witness, for, it, hath heard all the sayings of Yahweh, which he hath spoken with us,—so shall it serve against you as a witness, lest ye should act deceptively against your God. ²⁸And Joshua sent the people away, every man unto his inheritance. ²⁹And it came to pass, after these things, that Joshua son of Nun, servant of Yahweh, died, being a hundred and ten years old. ³⁰And they buried him within the bounds of his own inheritance, in Timnath-serah, which is in the hill country of Ephraim, on the north of Mount Gaash. ³¹So then Israel served Yahweh all the days of Joshua,—and all the days of the elders who prolonged their days after Joshua, and who had known all the work of Yahweh, which he had wrought for Israel. ³²And, the bones of Joseph—which the sons of Israel had brought up out of Egypt, buried they in Shechem, in the portion of field, which Jacob bought of the sons of Hamor, father of Shechem, for a hundred pieces of money,—and they belonged unto the sons of Joseph, as an inheritance. ³³And, Eleazar son of Aaron, died,—and they buried him in the hill of Phinehas his son, which was given to him, in the hill country of Ephraim.

Judges

¹And it came to pass, after the death of Jeshua, that the sons of Israel asked of Yahweh, saying,—Who shall go up for us against the Canaanites, first, to make war upon them? ²And Yahweh said—Judah, shall go,—lo! I have delivered the land into his power. ³Then said Judah, unto Simeon his brother—Come up with me into the territory allotted me, and let us make war on the Canaanites, then will, I also, go with thee, into thy territory. So Simeon went with him. ⁴And Judah went up, and Yahweh delivered the Canaanites and the Perizzites into their hand,—and they smote them in Bezek, ten thousand men. ⁵And they found Adoni-bezek in Bezek, and fought with him,—and smote the Canaanites and the Perizzites. ⁶But Adoni-bezek fled, and they pursued him,—and took him, and cut off his thumbs, and his great toes. ⁷Then said Adoni-bezek—Seventy kings, with their thumbs and great toes cut off, have been picking up crumbs under my table, as I have done, so, hath God requited me. And they brought him into Jerusalem, and he died there. ⁸And the sons of Judah made war upon Jerusalem, and captured it, and smote it with the edge of the sword,—and, the city, they set on fire. ⁹And, afterwards, the sons of Judah went down to make war upon the Canaanites,—dwelling in the hill country, and in the south, and in the lowland. ¹⁰And Judah went against the Canaanites who were dwelling in Hebron, now, the name of Hebron, formerly, was Kiriath-arba,—and they smote Sheshai and Ahiman, and Talmai. ¹¹And he went from thence, against the inhabitants of Debir,—now, the name of Debir, formerly, was Kiriath-sepher. ¹²And Caleb said, He that smiteth Kiriath-sepher, and captureth it, I will give unto him Achsah my daughter, to wife. ¹³Then Othniel, son of Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother, captured it,—and he gave him Achsah his daughter, to wife. ¹⁴And it came pass, when she came, that she moved him to ask of her father a field, and, when she alighted from off the ass, Caleb said unto her—What aileth thee? ¹⁵And she said unto him—Give me a present; for, south land, hast thou given me, give me therefore pools of water. So Caleb gave her Upper-pools, and Lower-pools. ¹⁶Now, the sons of the Kenite, father-in-law of Moses, had come up from the city of palm-trees, with the sons of Judah, into the wilderness of Judah, which is in the south of Arad,—so they went and dwelt with the people. ¹⁷Then went Judah, with Simeon his brother, and they smote the Canaanites dwelling in Zephath,—and devoted it to destruction, and the name of the city was called Hormah. ¹⁸And Judah captured Gaza with the boundaries thereof, and Ashkelon, with the boundaries thereof,—and Ekron, with the boundaries thereof. ¹⁹And it came to pass that Yahweh was with Judah, and he took possession of the hill country,—but did not dispossess the inhabitants of the vale, because they had, chariots of iron. ²⁰So they gave unto Caleb Hebron, as spake Moses,—and he drave out from thence the three sons of Anak. ²¹But, the Jebusites dwelling in Jerusalem, the sons of Benjamin did not drive out,—but the Jebusites have dwelt with the sons of Benjamin, in Jerusalem, unto this day. ²²Then went up the house of Joseph—they also,—unto Bethel,—and, Yahweh, was with them. ²³And the house of Joseph sent to spy out Bethel,—now, the name of the city, formerly, was, Luz. ²⁴So the watchers saw a man, coming forth from the city,—and they said unto him—Shew us, we pray thee, the way to get into the city, and we will deal with thee, in lovingkindness. ²⁵And he shewed them the way to get into the city, and they smote the city, with the edge of the sword,—but, the man and all his family, they let go. ²⁶And the man went into the land of the Hittites,—and built a city, and called the name thereof, Luz, that, is the name thereof, unto this day. ²⁷But Manasseh took not possession of Beth-shean and her towns, nor of Taanach and her towns, nor dispossessed the inhabitants of Dor and her towns, nor the inhabitants of Ibleam, and her towns, nor the inhabitants of Megiddo, and her towns,—but the Canaanites were determined to remain in this land; ²⁸when Israel, however, had waxed strong, they put the Canaanites under tribute,—though they, dispossessed, them not. ²⁹And, Ephraim, dispossessed not the Canaanites who were dwelling in Gezer,—so the Canaanites remained in their midst, in Gezer. ³⁰Zebulun, dispossessed not the inhabitants of Kitron, nor the inhabitants of Nahalol,—but the Canaanites remained in their midst, and came under tribute. ³¹Asher, dispossessed not the inhabitants of Acco, nor the inhabitants of Zidon,—nor of Ahlab, nor of Achzib, nor of Helbah, nor of Aphik, nor of Rehob; ³²but the Asherites dwelt in the midst of the

Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land,—for they dispossessed them not. ³³Naphtali, dispossessed not the inhabitants of Beth-shemesh nor the inhabitants of Beth-anath, but they dwelt in the midst of the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land,—and, the inhabitants of Beth-shemesh, and of Beth-anath, became theirs, under tribute. ³⁴And the Amorites forced the sons of Dan into the hill country,—for they suffered them not to come down into the vale; ³⁵and, though the Amorites were determined to remain in the hill country of Heres, in Aijalon, and in Shaalbim, yet was the hand of the house of Joseph heavy, so that they came under tribute. ³⁶And, the boundary of the Amorites, was from the ascent of Akrabbim, from Sela and upwards.

2And the messenger of Yahweh came up from Gilgal, unto Bochim. And he said—I led you up out of Egypt, and brought you into the land, which I had sworn unto your fathers, And I said, I will not break my covenant with you, to times age-abiding; ²But, ye, must not solemnise a covenant with the inhabitants of this land, Their altars, must ye tear down,—But ye have not hearkened unto my voice, what is this ye have done? ³Wherefore also I said, I will not drive them out from before you,—but they shall be your adversaries, and, their gods, shall become unto you a snare. ⁴And it came to pass, when the messenger of Yahweh had spoken these words unto all the sons of Israel, that the people lifted up their voice, and wept. ⁵So they called the name of that place, Bochim, and offered sacrifice there, unto Yahweh. ⁶Now, when Joshua had let the people go, the sons of Israel went their way, every man to his inheritance, to take possession of the land. ⁷And the people served Yahweh all the days of Joshua,—and all the days of the elders who outlived Joshua, who had seen all the great work of Yahweh which he had wrought for Israel. ⁸So then Joshua, the son of Nun, the servant of Yahweh, died,—being a hundred and ten years old. ⁹And they buried him within the bounds of his inheritance, in Timnath-heres, in the hill country of Ephraim,—on the north of Mount Gaash. ¹⁰All that generation also, were gathered unto their fathers,—and there arose another generation, after them, who had not known Yahweh, nor even the work which he had wrought for Israel. ¹¹So the sons of Israel did the thing that was wicked in the sight of Yahweh,—and served the Baals; ¹²and forsook Yahweh, the God of their fathers, who brought them up out of the land of Egypt, and went after other gods, from among the gods of the peoples who were round about them, and bowed themselves down unto them,—and angered Yahweh. ¹³Yea, they forsook Yahweh,—and did service unto the Baal and unto Ashtaroth. ¹⁴Then kindled the anger of Yahweh upon Israel, and he delivered them into the hand of spoilers, who plundered them,—and he sold them into the hand of their enemies round about, so that they could no longer stand before their enemies.

¹⁵Whithersoever they went out, the hand of Yahweh was found to be against them for misfortune, as spake Yahweh, and as sware Yahweh unto them,—and they were distressed exceedingly. ¹⁶And, though Yahweh raised up judges,—who saved them out of the hand of them that plundered them, ¹⁷yet, even unto their judges, did thy not hearken, for they went unchastely astray after other gods, and bowed themselves down to them,—they turned aside speedily out of the way wherein their fathers who hearkened unto the commandments of Yahweh, walked, they did not so. ¹⁸And, when Yahweh raised them up judges, then was Yahweh with the judges, and saved them out of the hand of their enemies, all the days of the judge,—for Yahweh was grieved at their outcry, because of them who oppressed them, and ill-treated them. ¹⁹But, when the judge was dead, they again broke faith more than their fathers, by going their way after other gods, by serving them, and bowing themselves down to them,—they ceased not from their doings nor from their stubborn way. ²⁰So then the anger of Yahweh kindled upon Israel, and he said—Forasmuch as this nation have transgressed my covenant, which I commanded their fathers, and have not hearkened unto my voice, ²¹I also, will no further dispossess a man from before them,—from among the nations which Joshua left remaining, when he died; ²²that I may, by them, put Israel to the proof,—whether they are going to be observant of the way of Yahweh, to walk therein as their fathers observed it, or not. ²³Thus then Yahweh left these nations, not dispossessing them speedily,—neither had he delivered them into the hand of Joshua

3Now, these, are the nations which Yahweh left, that he might, by them, put Israel to the proof,—all who had not known any of the wars of Canaan; ²that the generations of the sons of Israel might certainly get to know, by being taught to make war,—such, at least, as aforetime knew nothing thereof:—³five lords of the Philistines, and all the Canaanites, and the Zidonians, and the Hivites dwelling in Mount Lebanon,—from Mount Baal-hermon as far as the entering in of Hamath. ⁴So then these were left, that, by them, he might put Israel to the proof,—to know whether they would hearken unto the commandments of Yahweh which he commanded their fathers by the hand of Moses. ⁵And thus, the sons of Israel, dwelt in the midst of the Canaanites,—the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites; ⁶and took their daughters to be their wives, their own daughters moreover, gave they unto their sons, and they served their gods. ⁷Thus did the sons of Israel the thing that was wicked in the sight of Yahweh, and forgat Yahweh their God,—and served the Baals and the Asherahs. ⁸Then kindled the anger of Yahweh upon Israel, and he sold them into the hand of Chushan-rishathaim, king of Mesopotamia,—and the sons of Israel served Chushan-rishathaim, eight years. ⁹And the sons of Israel made outcry unto Yahweh, so Yahweh raised up a saviour unto the sons of Israel, who saved them,—even Othniel son of Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother. ¹⁰And the Spirit of Yahweh came upon him, and he judged Israel, and went out to war, and Yahweh delivered into his hand, Chushan-rishathaim, king of Syria,—and his hand prevailed over Chushan-rishathaim. ¹¹And the land had rest forty years,—and Othniel son of Kenaz, died. ¹²And the sons of Israel again did the thing that was wicked, in the sight of Yahweh,—and Yahweh emboldened Eglon, king of Moab, against Israel, because they did the thing that was wicked in the sight of Yahweh; ¹³and he gathered unto him, the sons of Ammon, and Amalek,—and came and smote Israel, and took possession of the city of palm-trees. ¹⁴So the sons of Israel served Eglon king of Moab, eighteen years. ¹⁵And the sons of Israel made outcry unto Yahweh, and Yahweh raised up unto them a saviour, Ehud son of Gera, a Benjamite, a man left-handed,—and the sons of Israel sent, by his hand, a present, unto Eglon king of Moab. ¹⁶So Ehud made himself a sword which had two edges, a cubit in length,—and girded it under his raiment, upon his right thigh. ¹⁷So he offered the present unto Eglon, king of Moab,—now, Eglon, was an exceedingly fat man. ¹⁸And so it was, when he had made an end of offering the present, that he sent away the people who had been bearing the present; ¹⁹but, he himself, turned back from the images that were by Gilgal, and said, A secret word, have I, unto thee, O king! And he said—Silence! Thereupon went out from his presence all who had been standing near him. ²⁰And, Ehud, came in unto him, he, having been sitting in a summer parlour, which he had for himself, alone, and Ehud said, A divine word, have I, unto thee. So he arose from off his seat. ²¹And Ehud put forth his left hand, and took the sword from off his right thigh,—and thrust it into his body; ²²and, the handle also, went in after the blade, and the flesh closed upon the blade, for he withdrew not the sword out of his body,—and he came out into the ante-chamber. ²³And, when Ehud came out into the porch, he closed the doors of the parlour upon him, and bolted them. ²⁴When, he, had come out, his servants, went in, and looked, and lo! the doors of the parlour were bolted,—so they said, Surely he covereth his feet, in the summer chamber. ²⁵But, though they tarried a long time, yet lo! he opened not the doors of the parlour,—so they took the key, and opened them, when lo! their lord, fallen to the ground dead. ²⁶But, Ehud, escaped while they delayed,—yea, he, passed the images, and escaped into Seirah. ²⁷And so it was, when he came, that he blew with a horn, throughout the hill country of Ephraim,—and the sons of Israel came down with him, out of the hill country, he, being before them. ²⁸And he said unto them—Come down after me, for Yahweh hath delivered your enemies, the Moabites, into your hand. So they came down after him, and captured the fords of the Jordan, towards Moab, and suffered not a man to pass over. ²⁹And they smote of Moab, at that time, about ten thousand men, every one a mighty man, and every one a man of valour,—and, there escaped not a man. ³⁰And Moab was subdued on that day, under the hand of Israel. And the land had rest eighty years, and Ehud judged them until his death. ³¹And, after him, was Shamgar, son of Anath, who smote of the Philistines, six hundred men, with an ox-goad,—and, he also, saved Israel.

⁴And the sons of Israel again did the thing that was wicked in the sight of Yahweh,—when, Ehud, was dead. ²So Yahweh sold them into the hand of Jabin king of Canaan, who reigned in Hazor,—now, the prince of his host, was Sisera, and, he, dwelt in Harosheth of the nations. ³And the sons of Israel made outcry unto Yahweh,—for he had, nine hundred chariots of iron, and, he, oppressed the sons of Israel heavily, twenty years. ⁴And, Deborah, a woman who was a prophetess, wife of Lapidoth, she, was judging Israel, at that time: ⁵she used to sit, therefore, under the palm-tree of Deborah, between Ramah and Bethel, in the hill country of Ephraim,—and the sons of Israel came up to her, for justice. ⁶And she sent and called for Barak son of Abinoam, out of Kadesh-naphtali,—and said unto him—Hath not Yahweh God of Israel, commanded,—Come and draw towards Mount Tabor, and bring with thee—ten thousand men, of the sons of Naphtali, and of the sons of Zebulun; ⁷and I will draw unto thee, unto the torrent of Kishon, Sisera, prince of the host of Jabin, with his chariots, and with his multitude,—and will deliver him into thy hand? ⁸And Barak said unto her, If thou wilt go with me, then will I go—but, if thou wilt not go with me, I will not go. ⁹And she said—I will, go, with thee; only, it shall not be, thine own honour, that shall arise from the journey which thou art about to take, for, into the hand of a woman, will Yahweh sell Sisera. So Deborah arose, and went with Barak, towards Kadesh. ¹⁰And Barak called together Zebulun and Naphtali, towards Kadesh, and there went up at his feet—ten thousand men,—and Deborah, went up with him. ¹¹Now, Heber the Kenite, had separated himself from the Kenites, even from the sons of Hobab, father-in-law of Moses,—and moved his tent as far as the oak of Zaanaim, which is near Kadesh. ¹²And they told Sisera that Barak, son of Abinoam, had gone up to Mount Tabor. ¹³So Sisera called together all his chariots—nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the people that were with him,—from Harosheth of the nations, unto the torrent of Kishon. ¹⁴Then said Deborah unto Barak—Up! for, this, is the day on which Yahweh hath delivered Sisera into thy hand, hath not, Yahweh, gone forth before thee? So Barak went down from Mount Tabor, with ten thousand men after him. ¹⁵And Yahweh put to flight Sisera and all the chariots and all the host, with the edge of the sword, before Barak,—so Sisera alighted from his chariot, and fled on foot. ¹⁶Now, Barak, pursued the chariots, and the host, as far as Harosheth of the nations,—and all the host of Sisera fell by the edge of the sword, there was not left so much as one. ¹⁷Now, Sisera, had fled on foot, unto the tent of Jael, wife of Heber the Kenite, for there was peace between Jabin, king of Hazer, and the house of Heber the Kenite. ¹⁸And Jael went out to meet Sisera, and said unto him: Turn aside, my lord, turn aside with me, do not fear. So he turned aside with her into the tent, and she threw over him a coverlet. ¹⁹And he said unto her—Let me drink, I pray thee, a little water, for I am thirsty. So she opened the bottle of milk, and gave him to drink, and spread over him the coverlet. ²⁰And he said unto her, Stand at the entrance of the tent,—and it shall be, if any man come and ask thee and say—Is there here a man? that thou shalt say, There is not. ²¹Then took Jael, wife of Heber, the tent-pin, and put the mallet in her hand, and went in unto him, softly, and smote the tent-pin into his temples, and it pierced through into the ground,—he being fast asleep and shrouded in darkness, and he died. ²²And lo! Barak—in pursuit of Sisera! So Jael went forth to meet him, and said unto him, Come and let me shew thee—the man whom thou art seeking. And he came in with her, and lo! Sisera—lying dead, with the tent-pin in his temples. ²³Thus God subdued, on that day, Jabin king of Canaan,—before the sons of Israel. ²⁴And the hand of the sons of Israel went on, waxing more and more heavy upon Jabin king of Canaan,—until they had cut off Jabin king of Canaan.

⁵Then sang Deborah, and Barak, son of Abinoam,—on that day, saying:—²For the leadership of leaders in Israel, For the volunteering of the people,—Bless ye Yahweh! ³Hear, ye kings! Give ear, ye princes! I, unto Yahweh,—I, will sing, Will make melody to Yahweh, God of Israel. ⁴O Yahweh! When thou didst come forth out of Seir, When thou didst march along out of the field of Edom, Earth, trembled, Heaven also, poured forth,—Yea, dark clouds, poured forth waters; ⁵From, mountains, came down streams In presence of Yahweh,—From this Sinai, In presence of Yahweh, God of Israel. ⁶In the days of Shamgar son of Anath, in the days of Jael, the roads were forsaken,—and, the frequenters of highways, betook them to roundabout paths: ⁷There was a failure of rulers, in Israel, a failure,—until I arose, a Deborah, arose, a mother in Israel:—⁸They chose gods that were new, Then,—war at the gates! Was there, a shield, to be seen? or a spear? among forty thousand in Israel? ⁹My heart saith—for the governors of Israel, for the volunteers among the people, Bless ye Yahweh! ¹⁰Ye that ride on white asses, ye that sit on carpets, and ye that walk upon the road, speak! ¹¹In the place of the noise of bowmen among the wells, there, laud ye—the righteous acts of Yahweh, the righteous acts of his rule over Israel. Then, had come down to the gates the people of Yahweh. ¹²Awake! awake! Deborah, Awake! awake! utter words of song,—Arise! Barak, and bind fast thy captives, O son of Abinoam! ¹³Then, came down a remnant to the nobles—a people,—Yahweh, came down with me against the mighty. ¹⁴Out of Ephraim, came down they whose root was in Amalek, After thee, Benjamin, among thy tribes,—Out of Machir, had come down governors, And, out of Zebulun, such as bear aloft the staff of the marshal; ¹⁵And, my princes in Issachar, were with Deborah, yea, Issachar, was the support of Barak, Into the vale rushed they forth at his feet. Among the divisions of Reuben, great were the resolves of the heart: ¹⁶Wherefore abodes thou among the folds? To hear the mocking of the flocks? The divisions of Reuben, had great counsellings of heart. ¹⁷Gilead, beyond the Jordan, took his rest, but, Dan, wherefore remained he with the ships? Asher, abode by the shore of the seas, and, by his creeks, must needs rest. ¹⁸Zebulun—a people that scorned their souls unto death; and, Naphtali,—upon the heights of the field. ¹⁹On came kings, they fought, Then, fought the kings of Canaan, In Taanach, by the waters of Megiddo,—Plunder of silver, they took not away! ²⁰From heaven, was the battle fought,—The stars in their courses, fought against Sisera. ²¹The torrent of Kishon, swept them away, the torrent of olden times, the torrent of Kishon! Let my soul march along, with victorious strength! ²²Then, stamped hoofs of horses, With the gallopings, gallopings of his mighty steeds. ²³Curse ye Meroz, saith the messenger of Yahweh, Curse ye with a curse, the inhabitants thereof,—because they came not in to the help of Yahweh, to the help of Yahweh, against the mighty. ²⁴Blessed above women, shall be Jael, wife of Heber the Kenite,—Above women in the tent, be blessed: ²⁵Water, he asked, Milk, she gave,—In a bowl for nobles, presented cream: ²⁶Her hand, to the tent-pin, put she forth, and, her right hand, to the toilers' mallet,—Then smote she Sisera, She shattered his head, Yea she split open and pierced through his temples: ²⁷Between her feet, he bowed—he fell, he lay,—Between her feet, he bowed—he fell, Where he bowed, There, he fell—destroyed! ²⁸Through the window, looked out and shrilly cried, The mother of Sisera, through the lattice,—Why is his chariot ashamed to come? Why delay the wheels of his chariot? ²⁹The wise ladies, her princesses, responded,—Nay! she, returned answer to, herself:—³⁰Is it not They keep finding—dividing spoil, One damsel, two damsels, to every several hero, Spoil, of divers coloured raiment for Sisera, Spoil, of divers coloured raiment, embroidered, Coloured raiment richly embroidered, on the necks of them who are taken as spoil? ³¹So, perish all thine enemies, O Yahweh, But be, they who love him, as the going forth of the sun, in his might! And the land had rest forty years.

6And the sons of Israel did the thing that was wicked, in the sight of Yahweh,—so Yahweh delivered them into the hand of Midian seven years; 2and the hand of Midian prevailed against Israel,—because of Midian, did the sons of Israel prepare for themselves the hollows which were in the mountains, and the caves, and the strongholds. 3And so it used to be, if Israel had sown, then came up Midian and Amalek and the sons of the east, yea came up against them, 4and encamped against them, and destroyed the increase of the land, until thou comest unto Gaza,—neither left they sustenance in Israel, nor sheep nor ox, nor ass; 5for, they with their cattle, used to come up, with their tents—yea they used to come like locusts, for multitude, both they and their cattle, were without number,—so they came into the land, to lay it waste. 6Thus was Israel greatly impoverished, because of Midian,—and the sons of Israel made outcry unto Yahweh. 7And it came to pass, when the sons of Israel cried unto Yahweh,—on account of Midian, 8then sent Yahweh a prophet unto the sons of Israel,—who said unto them—Thus, saith Yahweh, God of Israel, I, led you up out of Egypt, and brought you forth out of the house of servants; 9Yea I rescued you out of the hand of Egypt, and out of the hand of all who oppressed you,—that I might drive them out from before you, and I gave unto you their land; 10Yea and I said to you,—I, Yahweh, am your God, Ye must not fear the gods of the Amorites, in whose land ye are about to dwell,—But ye have not hearkened unto my voice. 11Then came the messenger of Yahweh, and sat down under the oak which was in Ophrah, which belonged to Joash, the Abiezrite; and, Gideon his son, was beating out wheat in the winepress, to escape the notice of the Midianites; 12so the messenger of Yahweh appeared unto him,—and said unto him, Yahweh, is with thee, thou mighty man of valour! 13And Gideon said unto him—Pardon, my lord! if Yahweh be with us, then wherefore hath all this befallen us? and where are all his wonders, which our fathers have recounted to us—saying, Was it not, out of Egypt, that Yahweh brought us up? But, now, hath Yahweh abandoned us, and delivered us into the hand of Midian. 14And Yahweh, turned unto him, and said—Go in this thy might, and thou shalt save Israel, out of the hand of Midian,—have I not sent thee? 15And he said unto him—Pardon, O my Lord! How, shall I save Israel? Lo! my thousand, is the poorest in Manasseh, and, I, am the youngest in the house of my father. 16And Yahweh said unto him—I will be with thee,—so shalt thou smite the Midianites, as one man. 17And he said unto him, If, I beseech thee, I have found favour in thine eyes, then wilt thou work for me a sign, that it is, thou, who art speaking with me. 18Do not, I beseech thee, withdraw from hence, until I come unto thee, and bring forth my present, and set it before thee. And he said: I, will tarry until thou return. 19So, Gideon, went in, and made ready a kid of the goats, and, of an ephah of meal, unleavened cakes, the flesh, he put in a basket, and, the broth, he put in a pot,—and brought them forth unto him, under the oak, and presented them. 20And the messenger of God said unto him—Take the flesh and the cakes, and set them on this crag, and, the broth, do thou pour out. And he did so. 21Then the messenger of Yahweh put forth the end of the staff, that was in his hand, and touched the flesh, and the cakes,—and there came up fire out of the rock, and consumed the flesh, and the cakes, and, the messenger of Yahweh, had departed out of his sight. 22Then saw Gideon that, the messenger of Yahweh, it was,—so Gideon said—Alas, My Lord Yahweh! forasmuch as I have seen the messenger of Yahweh, face to face! 23And Yahweh said unto him—Peace be unto thee! Do not fear,—thou shalt not die. 24So Gideon built there an altar unto Yahweh, and called it, Yahweh-shalom. Unto this day, it remaineth, in Ophrah of the Abiezrites. 25And it came to pass, on that night, that Yahweh said unto him—Take the young bullock that belongeth to thy father, even the second bullock of seven years,—and throw thou down the altar of Baal, that belongeth to thy father, and, the sacred stem that is by it, shalt thou cut down. 26Then shalt thou build an altar, unto Yahweh thy God, on the top of this fort, with the pile,—and shalt take the second bullock, and cause it to go up as an ascending-sacrifice, with the wood of the sacred stem which thou shalt cut down. 27So Gideon took ten men from among his servants, and did as Yahweh had spoken unto him,—and so it was that, as he too much feared the house of his father, and the men of the city, to do it by day, he did it by night. 28And the men of the city rose up early in the morning, and lo! the altar of Baal, had been overthrown, and, the sacred stem that was by it, had been cut down, and the second bullock had been caused to ascend upon the altar that had been built. 29So they said, one to another, Who hath done this thing? And they inquired, and made search, and it was said, Gideon son of Joash, hath done this thing. 30So the men of the city said unto Joash, Bring forth thy son, that he may die,—because he hath overthrown the altar of Baal, and because he hath cut down the sacred stem that was by it. 31And Joash said unto all who stood by him—Will, ye, plead for Baal, or will, ye, save him? Whoso pleadeth for him, let him be put to death while it is yet morning,—if, a god, he be let him plead for himself, because one hath overthrown his altar. 32So he was called on that day, Jerubbaal, saying,—Let Baal, plead against him. Because he had overthrown his altar. 33Now, all the Midianites and the Amalekites and the sons of the east, were gathered together,—and they crossed over and pitched in the vale of Jezreel. 34But, the spirit of Yahweh, clothed Gideon,—so he blew with a horn, and Abiezer was gathered after him. 35Messengers also, sent he throughout all Manasseh, and, they also, were gathered after him,—messengers also, sent he throughout Asher, and throughout Zebulun, and throughout Naphtali, and they came up to meet them. ³⁶And Gideon said unto God,—If thou art about to bring salvation, by my hand, unto Israel, as thou hast spoken, ³⁷lo! I am placing a woollen fleece, on the threshing-floor,—if, dew, be on the fleece alone and, on all the ground, it be dry, then shall I know that thou wilt bring salvation, by my hand, unto Israel, as thou hast spoken. ³⁸And it was so, and he rose up early, on the morrow, and pressed together the fleece,—and wrung out the dew from the fleece, a small bowl full of water. ³⁹Then said Gideon unto God, Let not thine anger kindle upon me, but let me speak, only this once,—Let me, I pray thee, put to the proof, only this once, with the fleece, I pray thee, let it be dry on the fleece alone, while, on all the ground, there be dew. ⁴⁰And God did so on that night,—and it was dry on the fleece alone, while, on all the ground, there was dew.

⁷Then Jerubbaal, the same, is Gideon, and all the people that were with him, rose up early, and encamped by the fountain of Harod,—and, the camp of Midian, was on the north of them, by the hill of Moreh, in the vale. ²And Yahweh said unto Gideon, Too many, are the people that are with thee, for me to deliver the Midianites into their hand,—lest Israel vaunt themselves against me, saying, Mine own hand, hath saved me. ³Now, therefore, proclaim, I pray thee, in the ears of the people, saying, Whoso feareth and trembleth—let him turn and go hack from Mount Gilead. And there returned of the people twenty-two thousand, and, ten thousand, remained. ⁴Then said Yahweh unto Gideon—Yet, are the people too many, take them down unto the waters, that I may prove them for thee, there,—and it shall be, that, he of whom I say unto thee, This one, shall go with thee, the same, shall go with thee, and, every one of whom I say unto thee, This one, shall not go with thee, the same, shall not go. ⁵So he took down the people unto the waters,—and Yahweh said unto Gideon—Every one that lappeth with his tongue of the water, as a dog lappeth, thou shalt set him by himself, likewise, every one that boweth down upon his knees, to drink. ⁶And so it was, that, the number of them that lapped with their hand to their mouth, was three hundred men,—but, all the rest of the people, bowed down on their knees, to drink water. ⁷Then said Yahweh unto Gideon—By the three hundred men that lapped, will I save you, and deliver the Midianites into thy hand; and let, all the rest of the people, go every man to his own place. ⁸So the people took provisions in their hand, and their horns, but, every man of Israel besides, sent he away every man to his home, whereas, the three hundred men, he retained. Now, the camp of Midian, was beneath him in the vale. ⁹And it came to pass, on that night, that Yahweh said unto him, Arise! go down against the camp,—for I have delivered it into thy hand. ¹⁰Or, if, thou, art afraid to go down, go down—thou and Purah thy young man, unto the camp; ¹¹so shalt thou hear what they shall say,—and, afterward, shall thy hands grow strong, and thou shalt go down against the camp. Then went he down, he and Purah his young man, unto the outmost part of the armed men that were in the camp. ¹²Now, the Midianites and the Amalekites and all the sons of the east, were lying along in the vale, like locusts for multitude,—their camels also, were without number, as the sand that is by the sea side, for multitude. ¹³And Gideon came in, and lo! a man relating to his neighbour a dream,—and he said—Lo! a dream, have I dreamt, and lo! a round cake of barley bread tumbling into the camp of Midian, and it came as far as the tent—and smote it that it fell, and turned it upside down, and the tent lay along. ¹⁴Then responded his neighbour and said:—Nothing else, is this, than the sword of Gideon son of Joash, a man of Israel,—God hath delivered into his hand, both Midian and all the host. ¹⁵And it was so, when Gideon heard the story of the dream, and the interpretation thereof, that he bowed himself down,—and returned unto the camp of Israel, and said—Arise! for Yahweh hath delivered into your hand the host of Midian. ¹⁶And he divided the three hundred men, into three companies,—and put horns into the hands of them all, with empty pitchers, and torches inside the pitchers. ¹⁷Then he said unto them, On me, shall ye look, and, in like manner, shall ye do,—and lo! when I am coming unto the outermost part of the camp, then shall it be, that, as I do, so, shall ye do. ¹⁸When I shall blow with the horn, I and all who are with me, then shall, ye also, round about all the camp, blow with your horns, and shall say, For Yahweh and for Gideon! ¹⁹So Gideon came, and the hundred men that were with him, unto the outermost part of the camp, at the beginning of the middle watch, they had but, newly set, the watchers,—and they blew with the horns, and brake in pieces the pitchers, that were in their hand. ²⁰Yea the three companies blew with the horns, and shivered the pitchers, and caught hold—with their left hands—of the torches, while, in their right hands, were the horns, to blow with,—and they cried, A sword for Yahweh, and for Gideon! ²¹And they stood still, every man in his place, round about the camp,—and all the host ran and shouted, and fled. ²²When the three hundred blew the horns, Yahweh set the sword of every man, against his neighbour, and against all the host,—and the host fled, as far as the Place of Acacias, towards Zererath, as far as the border of Abel-meholah, by Tabbath. ²³And the men of Israel were called together, out of Naphtali and out of Asher, and out of all Manasseh,—and pursued Midian. ²⁴And, messengers, did Gideon send through all the hill country of Ephraim, saying—Go down to meet Midian, and capture, before them, the waters, as far as Beth-barah, and the Jordan. So all the men of Ephraim were called out, and captured the waters, as far as Beth-barah, and the Jordan. ²⁵And they captured the two princes of Midian, Oreb and Zeeb, and slew Oreb at Oreb's Rock, and, Zeeb, they slew at Zeeb's Winepress, and pursued Midian,—and, the heads of Oreb and Zeeb, brought they in unto Gideon at the ford of the Jordan.

8 And the men of Ephraim said unto him—What is this thing thou hast done to us, in not calling us, when thou wentest to fight with Midian? And they did chide with him, sharply. 2 And he said unto them, What have I done, now, in comparison with you? Is not the grape-gleaning of Ephraim better than the vintage of Abiezer? 3 Into your hand, hath God delivered the princes of Midian—Oreb and Zeeb, what then had I been able to do in comparison with you? Then, was their spirit softened toward him, when he had spoken this word. 4 And Gideon came towards the Jordan, being about to pass over—he, and the three hundred men who were with him, faint yet pursuing. 5 So he said unto the men of Succoth, Give, I pray you, loaves of bread to the people that are following me; for, faint, they are, and, I, am in pursuit of Zebah and Zalmunna, kings of Midian. 6 And the princes of Succoth said, Are the palms of the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna already in thy power,—that we should give to thine army bread? 7 And Gideon said, Therefore, when Yahweh hath delivered Zebah and Zalmunna into my power, then will I tear your flesh with the thorns of the wilderness, and with the nettles. 8 So he went up from thence, to Penuel, and spake unto them in like manner,—and the men of Penuel answered him, as had answered the men of Succoth. 9 So he spake to the men of Penuel also, saying,—When I return with success, I will break down this tower. 10 Now, Zebah and Zalmunna, were in Karkor, and their hosts with them, about fifteen thousand, all that were left out of all the host of the sons of the east,—and, the fallen, were a hundred and twenty thousand men, who had drawn the sword. 11 So Gideon went up by the way of the tent-dwellers, on the east of Nobah and Jogbehah, and smote the host, when, the host, had become secure. 12 And when Zebah and Zalmunna fled, then he pursued them, and captured the two kings of Midian—Zebah and Zalmunna, and, all the host, put he in terror. 13 And Gideon son of Joash returned from the battle,—from the ascent of Heres; 14 and caught a young man, of the men of Succoth, and enquired of him,—so he wrote down for him the princes of Succoth, and the elders thereof, seventy-seven men. 15 Then came he in unto the men of Succoth, and said, Lo! Zebah and Zalmunna,—concerning whom ye did taunt me, saying—Are the palms of the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna already in thy power, that we should give to thy weary men bread? 16 So he took the elders of the city, and the thorns of the wilderness and the nettles, and taught therewith the men of Succoth: 17 the tower of Penuel also, brake he down,—and slew the men of the city. 18 Then said he unto Zebah and unto Zalmunna, What manner of men were they, whom ye slew at

Tabor? And they said, As thou art, so were they, each one, as handsome as the sons of a king. 19 And he said: My brethren, sons of my mother, they were! As Yahweh liveth, if ye had saved them alive, I would not have slain you. 20 So he said to Jether his firstborn, Up! slay them. But the youth drew not his sword, for he feared, because he was yet a youth. 21 Then said Zebah and Zalmunna—Up! thou, and fall upon us, for, like the man, is his might. So Gideon arose, and slew Zebah and Zalmunna, and took the crescents that were on the necks of their camels. 22 Then said the men of Israel, unto Gideon, Rule over us—even thou, and thy son, and thy son's son,—for thou hast saved us out of the power of Midian. 23 And Gideon said unto them, I, will not rule over you, neither shall my son rule over you,—Yahweh, shall rule over you. 24 And Gideon said unto them—I would make to you a request, Give me, then, every man the nose-ring of his spoil. For they had, nose-rings of gold, for, Ishmaelites, they were. 25 And they said, We will, freely give. So they spread out a mantle, and cast therein, every man the nose-ring of his spoil. 26 And so it was, that the weight of the nose-rings of gold which he requested, was a thousand and seven hundred shekels of gold,—besides the crescents, and the pendants, and the raiment of purple that were upon the kings of Midian, and besides the ornaments that were on the necks of their camels. 27 And Gideon made thereof an Ephod, and set it up in his own city, in Ophrah, and all Israel went unchastely astray after it there,—so it became, to Gideon and to his house, a snare. 28 Thus was Midian subdued, before the sons of Israel, neither did they again lift up their head,—and the land had rest forty years, in the days of Gideon. 29 So then Jerubbaal, son of Joash, went and dwelt in his own house. 30 And, Gideon, had seventy sons, sprung from his own loins,—for, many wives, had he. 31 And, his concubine who was in Shechem, she also, bare him a son,—and he gave him the name of Abimelech. 32 And Gideon, son of Joash, died in a good old age,—and was buried in the grave of Joash his father, in Ophrah, of the Abiezrites. 33 And it came to pass that, as soon as Gideon was dead, the sons of Israel turned back, and went unchastely astray after the Baals,—and appointed them Baal-berith, to be god: 34 so the sons of Israel remembered not Yahweh, their own God,—who had rescued them out of the hand of all their enemies, on every side; 35 neither dealt they in lovingkindness with the house of Jerubbaal namely Gideon,—according to all the goodness wherewith he had dealt with Israel.

9 Then went Abimelech son of Jerubbaal, to Shechem, unto the brethren of his mother,—and spake unto them, and unto all the family of the house of his mother's father, saying; 2 Speak, I pray you, in the ears of all the owners of Shechem—Which is better for you, that there should rule over you, seventy men, all sons of Jerubbaal, or that there should rule over you, one man? And remember that, your bone and your flesh, am I. ³So the brethren of his mother spake for him, in the ears of all the owners of Shechem, all these words,—and their heart inclined after Abimelech, for they said—Our own brother, is he. ⁴So they gave him seventy pieces of silver, out of the house of Baal-berith,—and Abimelech hired therewith, loose and unstable men, and they followed him. ⁵And he entered the house of his father, at Ophrah, and slew his brethren, sons of Jerubbaal, seventy men, upon one stone,—but there remained Jotham, the youngest son of Jerubbaal, for he had hidden himself. ⁶Then were gathered together all the owners of Shechem, and all the house of Millo, and they went and made Abimelech king,—by the oak of the pillar, that was in Shechem. ⁷And, when it was told Jotham, he went and stood on the top of Mount Gerizim, and lifted up his voice, and cried aloud,—and said unto them—Hearken unto me, ye owners of Shechem, and may God, hearken unto you. ⁸The trees, went their way, to anoint over them, a king,—and they said unto the olive tree—Reign thou over us. ⁹But the olive tree said unto them, Should I leave my fatness, which, in me, gods and men do honour,—and go to wave to and fro, over the trees? ¹⁰Then said the trees unto the fig-tree,—Come! thou reign over us. ¹¹But the fig-tree said unto them, Should I leave my sweetness, and mine excellent increase,—and go to wave to and fro, over the trees? ¹²Then said the trees unto the vine,—Come! thou, reign over us. ¹³But the vine said unto them, Should I leave my new wine, that rejoiceth gods and men,—and go to wave to and fro, over the trees? ¹⁴Then said all the trees, unto the bramble,—Come, thou, to reign over us. ¹⁵And the bramble said unto the trees, If, in truth, ye are about to anoint me to be king over you, come, take refuge in my shade,—but, if not, there shall come forth fire out of the bramble, and devour the cedars of Lebanon. ¹⁶Now, therefore, if, in truth and sincerity, ye have acted, in making Abimelech king,—and if ye have dealt, well, with Jerubbaal and with his house, and if, according to the deserving of his hands, ye have done unto him; ¹⁷in that my father fought for you, and cast his soul away from before him, and rescued you out of the hand of Midian;—¹⁸yet have, ye, risen up against the house of my father, to-day, and slain his sons—seventy men, upon one stone,—and made Abimelech, son of his maidservant, king over the owners of Shechem, because he is, your brother; ¹⁹if then, in truth and in sincerity, ye have dealt with Jerubbaal and with his house, this day, rejoice ye in Abimelech, and let, him also, rejoice in you; ²⁰but, if not, let fire come out from Abimelech, and devour the owners of Shechem, and the house of Millo,—and let fire come out from the owners of Shechem, and from the house of Millo, and devour Abimelech! ²¹And Jotham hasted away, and fled, and went to Beer,—and dwelt there, away from the face of Abimelech his brother. ²²And Abimelech ruled over Israel

three years. ²³Then God let go a spirit of mischief between Abimelech and the owners of Shechem,—and the owners of Shechem dealt treacherously with Abimelech: ²⁴that the cruel wrong to the seventy sons of Jerubbaal might come upon them,—and that their blood might be laid upon Abimelech their brother, who slew them, and upon the owners of Shechem who strengthened his hands, to slay his brethren. ²⁵So the owners of Shechem set for him liers in wait, upon the tops of the mountains, and they robbed all who crossed over them by the road,—and it was told Abimelech. ²⁶And Gaal son of Ebed came, with his brethren, and they passed through to Shechem,—and the owners of Shechem put their trust in him. ²⁷Then went they out into the fields, and gathered the fruit of their vineyards and trode the grapes, and held a vintage festival,—and entered the house of their god, and did eat and drink, and poured contempt on Abimelech. ²⁸And Gaal son of Ebed said: Who is Abimelech—and who is the son of Shechem, that we should serve him? Is he not the son of Jerubbaal? and Zebul his officer? Serve ye the men of Hamor, Shechem's father, but why should, we, serve him? ²⁹Would, then, this people were in my hand! that I might set aside Abimelech,—and say to Abimelech, Increase thine army, and come out! ³⁰And, when Zebul, governor of the city, heard the words of Gaal the son of Ebed, then was kindled his anger. ³¹And he sent messengers unto Abimelech, by deceit, saying,—Lo! Gaal son of Ebed, and his brethren, are coming into Shechem; and lo! are fortifying the city against thee. ³²Now, therefore, up by night, thou and the people that are with thee, and lie in wait in the field; ³³and it shall be, in the morning, about sunrise, thou shalt get up early, and spread thyself out against the city,—when lo! he and the people that are with him coming out against thee, so shalt thou do unto him as thy hand shall find opportunity. ³⁴So Abimelech rose up,, and all the people that were with him, by night,—and they lay in wait above Shechem, in four companies. ³⁵Then came forth Gaal son of Ebed, and took his stand at the opening of the gate of the city,—so Abimelech rose up, and the people that were with him, from the place of ambush. ³⁶And, when Gaal saw the people, he said unto Zebul, Lo! people coming down from the tops of the mountains. And Zebul said unto him, The shadow of the mountains, thou seest, like men. ³⁷Then did Gaal yet further speak, and say—Lo! people coming down from the highest part of the land,—and one company, coming in by way of the Conjurers' Terebinth. ³⁸So then Zebul said unto him—Where, then, is thy mouth that kept on saying, Who is Abimelech, that we should serve him? Is not, this, the people which thou didst despise? Go forth, I pray thee, now, and fight with them! ³⁹And Gaal went forth before the owners of Shechem,—and fought against Abimelech. ⁴⁰And Abimelech chased him, and he fled before him,—and there fell a multitude of slain as far as the entering of the gate. ⁴¹Then dwelt Abimelech in Arumah,—and Zebul thrust out Gaal and his brethren, that they should not dwell in Shechem. ⁴²And it came to pass, on the morrow, that the people went forth into the field,—and they told Abimelech. ⁴³So he took the people and divided them into three companies, and lay in wait in the field,—and he looked, and lo! the people coming forth out of the city, so he rose up against them, and smote them. ⁴⁴And, Abimelech, and the companies that were with him, spread themselves out, and one of the companies took their stand at the opening of the gate of the city,—while, the two companies, spread themselves out against all that were in the field, and smote them. ⁴⁵And, Abimelech, fought against the city, all that day, and captured the city, the people also that were therein, he slew,—and brake down the city, and sowed it with salt. ⁴⁶And, when all the owners of the tower of Shechem heard, they entered into the basement of the house of El-berith. ⁴⁷And it was told Abimelech, that all the owners of the tower of Shechem had gathered themselves together. ⁴⁸So Abimelech went up Mount Zalmon, he and all the people that were with him, and Abimelech took an axe in his hand, and cut down a bough from the trees, and lifted it, and laid it on his shoulder,—and said unto the people that were with him—What ye have seen me do, haste! do likewise. ⁴⁹So, even all the people cut down every man his bough, and followed Abimelech, and laid them over the basement, and set it on fire over them who were therein,—even all the men of the tower of Shechem died about a thousand men and women. ⁵⁰Then went Abimelech unto Thebez,—and encamped against Thebez, and captured it. ⁵¹Now, a strong tower, was in the midst of the city, and there fled thither all the men and the women, and all the owners of the city, and shut themselves in,—and went up on the roof of the tower. ⁵²And Abimelech came in as far as the tower, and fought against it,—and so came near, as far as the entrance of the tower, to burn it with fire. ⁵³And a certain woman cast an upper millstone upon the head of Abimelech,—and brake in pieces his skull. ⁵⁴Then called he hastily unto the young man bearing his armour, and said unto him—Draw thy sword, and put me to death, lest they say of me, A woman, slew him! So his young man thrust him through, and he died. ⁵⁵And, when the men of Israel saw that Abimelech was, dead, they went their way every man to his own place. ⁵⁶Thus did God requite the wickedness of Abimelech, which he had done to his father, in slaying his seventy brethren; ⁵⁷all the wickedness also, of the men of Shechem, did God requite upon their own head,—and so brought in upon, them the curse of Jotham, son of Jerubbaal.

10And there arose, after Abimelech, to save Israel—Tola son of Puah son of Dodo, a man of Issachar,—and, he, used to sit in Shamir, in the hill country of Ephraim; ²and he judged Israel, twenty-three years,—and died, and was buried in Shamir. ³And there arose, after him, Jair the Gileadite,—and judged Israel twenty-two years. ⁴Now he had thirty sons, that rode on thirty ass colts, and they had, thirty cities,—they are called Havvoth-jair, until this day, which are in the land of Gilead. ⁵And Jair died, and was buried in Kamon. ⁶And the sons of Israel again did the thing that was wicked in the sight of Yahweh, and served the Baals and the Ashtoreths, and the gods of Syria, and the gods of Zidon, and the gods of Moab, and the gods of the sons of Ammon, and the gods of the Philistines,—and forsook Yahweh, and served him not. ⁷So the anger of Yahweh kindled upon Israel,—and he sold them into the hand of the Philistines, and into the hand of the sons of Ammon; ⁸and they enfeebled and oppressed the sons of Israel in that year,—eighteen years, did they this unto all the sons of Israel who were beyond the Jordan, in the land of the Amorites, that was in Gilead. ⁹And the sons of Ammon crossed the Jordan, to fight, even against Judah and against Benjamin, and against the house of Ephraim,—so that Israel was sore distressed. ¹⁰Then did the sons of Israel make outcry unto Yahweh, saying,—We have sinned against thee, because we have forsaken our God, and have served the Baals. ¹¹Then said Yahweh unto the sons of Israel,—Was it not, from the Egyptians, and from the Amorites, and from the sons of Ammon, and from the Philistines, that I saved you? ¹²The Zidonians also, and the Amalekites, and the Maonites, oppressed you,—and ye made outcry unto me, and I saved you out of their hand. ¹³Yet have, ye, forsaken me, and served other gods,—therefore will I not again save you. ¹⁴Go and make outcry unto the gods whom ye have chosen,—they, must save you, in the time of your tribulation. ¹⁵And the sons of Israel said unto Yahweh—We have sinned, do, thou, with us, according to all that is fitting in thine eyes,—only rescue us, we beseech thee this day. ¹⁶And they put away the gods of the stranger out of their midst, and served Yahweh,—and his soul was impatient of the misery of Israel. ¹⁷Now the sons of Ammon were called out, and they encamped in Gilead,—and the sons of Israel assembled themselves together, and encamped in Mizpah. ¹⁸Then said the people, the princes of Gilead, one to another, Who is the man that will begin to fight against the sons of Ammon? he shall become head to all the inhabitants of Gilead.

11Now, Jephthah the Gileadite, was a mighty man of valour, but, he, was the son of an unchaste woman,—yet Gilead was the father of Jephthah. ²And the wife of Gilead bare him sons,—and, when the wife's sons grew up, they thrust out Jephthah, and said unto him—Thou shalt not inherit with the house of our father, for, son of an alien woman, art thou. ³So Jephthah fled from the face of his brethren, and dwelt in the land of Tob,—and there gathered about Jephthah unemployed men, who went forth with him. ⁴And so it came to pass, after a time,—that the sons of Ammon made war with Israel. ⁵When, therefore, it came to pass that the sons of Ammon made war with Israel, then went the elders of Gilead, to summon Jephthah out of the land of Tob. ⁶And they said to Jephthah, Oh! come and be our commander,—that we may do battle with the sons of Ammon. ⁷But Jephthah said to the elders of Gilead, Have not, ye, hated me, and thrust me out from the house of my father? Wherefore then, are ye come unto me, now, when ye are in distress? ⁸And the elders of Gilead said unto Jephthah—Therefore, have we, now, returned unto thee, that, if thou go with us, and do battle with the sons of Ammon, then shalt thou become our head, for all the inhabitants of Gilead. ⁹And Jephthah said unto the elders of Gilead—If ye do bring me back to do battle with the sons of Ammon, and Yahweh deliver them up before me, shall, I myself, become your head? ¹⁰And the elders of Gilead said unto Jephthah—Yahweh himself, will be hearkening between us, if, according to thy word, so, we do not. ¹¹Then went Jephthah with the elders of Gilead, and the people set him over them, as head and commander,—and Jephthah spake all his words before Yahweh, in Mizpah. ¹²So then Jephthah sent messengers unto the king of the sons of Ammon, saying,—What occasion is there between us, that thou shouldst have come unto me, to fight against my land? ¹³And the king of the sons of Ammon said unto the messengers of Jephthah—Because Israel took away my land, when they came up out of Egypt, from Arnon even unto the Jabbok, and unto the Jordan,—now, therefore, restore them in peace. ¹⁴And Jephthah yet once more sent messengers unto the king of the sons of Ammon; ¹⁵and said a unto him, Thus, saith Jephthah,—Israel took not away the land of Moab, or the land of the sons of Ammon; ¹⁶for, when they came up out of Egypt, and Israel journeyed through the desert as far as the Red Sea, and came in unto Kadesh, ¹⁷then did Israel send messengers unto the king of Edom, saying—Let me pass, I pray thee, through thy land, but the king of Edom hearkened not, unto the king of Moab also, sent they, but he would not consent,—so Israel abode in Kadesh. ¹⁸Then journeyed they through the desert, and went round the land of Edom, and the land of Moab, and so came, from the rising of the sun, to the land of Moab, but encamped beyond Arnon,—and entered not within the boundary of Moab, for, Arnon, is the boundary of Moab. ¹⁹Then did Israel send messengers unto Sihon king of the Amorites, king of Heshbon,—and Israel said unto him, Let us pass, we pray thee, through thy land as far as my own place. ²⁰But Sihon trusted not Israel, to pass through his boundary, so Sihon gathered together all his people, and encamped in Jahaz,—and fought against Israel. ²¹Then did Yahweh, God of Israel, deliver up Sihon, and all his people, into the hand of Israel, and they smote them,—so Israel took possession of all the land of the Amorites, the inhabitants of that land. ²²Yea they took possession of all the territory of the Amorites,—from Arnon, even as far as the Jabbok, and from the desert, even as far as the Jordan. ²³Now, therefore, it was, Yahweh God of Israel, that dispossessed the Amorites from before his people Israel,—and shalt, thou, possess it? ²⁴What Chemosh thy god giveth thee to possess, that, wilt thou not possess? and, whatsoever Yahweh our God hath set before us to possess, that, shall we not possess? ²⁵Now, therefore, art thou, really better, than Balak son of Zippor, king of Moab? Hath there been any, striving at all, with Israel, or any, fighting at all, with them, ²⁶all the time that Israel hath been dwelling in Heshbon and in her towns, and in Aroer and in her towns, and in all the cities that are on the banks of Arnon,—for three hundred years? Wherefore, then, have ye not made a rescue within that time? ²⁷I, therefore, have not sinned against thee; but, thou, art doing me a wrong, in fighting against me,—Let Yahweh, the Judge, give judgment today, between the sons of Israel, and the sons of Ammon! ²⁸But the king of the sons of Ammon hearkened not unto the words of Jephthah, which he sent unto him. ²⁹Then came upon Jephthah the spirit of Yahweh, and he passed through Gilead and Manasseh,—and passed through Mizpeh of Gilead, and, from Mizpeh of Gilead, he passed through unto the sons of Ammon. ³⁰And Jephthah vowed a vow unto Yahweh, and said,—If thou wilt, deliver, the sons of Ammon into my hand, ³¹then shall it be, that, whosoever cometh forth out of the doors of my house, to meet me, when I return successful, from the sons of Ammon, shall belong unto Yahweh, and I will offer him up, as an ascending-sacrifice. ³²So then Jephthah passed over unto the sons of Ammon, to fight against them,—and Yahweh delivered them into his hand; ³³and he smote them, from Aroer even till thou enterest in to Minnith, even twenty cities, and as far as Abel-keramim, with an exceeding great smiting,—and thus were the sons of Ammon subdued before the sons of Israel. ³⁴Then came Jephthah towards Mizpah, unto his own house, and lo! his daughter, coming forth to meet him, with timbrels, and with dances,—and, she, was none other than his only child, he had not, besides her, either son or daughter. ³⁵And it came to pass, when he saw her, that he rent his clothes, and said—Alas! my daughter, Thou hast, brought me low, Even, thou, hast come to be among them who trouble me,—Yet, I, opened wide my mouth unto Yahweh, and cannot go back. ³⁶And she said unto him—My father! Thou hast opened wide thy mouth unto Yahweh, Do with me, according to that which hath gone forth out of thy mouth,—after that Yahweh hath exacted for thee an avenging from thine enemies, from the sons of Ammon. ³⁷And she said unto her father, Let this thing, be done for me,—Let me alone two months, that I may depart, and go down upon the mountains, and bewail my virginity, I and my companions. ³⁸And he said—Depart. So he let her go, for two months,—and she departed, she and her companions, and bewailed her virginity, upon the mountains. ³⁹And it came to pass, at the end of two months, that she returned unto her father, and he fulfilled on her his vow which he had vowed,—she not having known man. And it became a statute, in Israel:—⁴⁰From year to year, departed the daughters of Israel, to lament aloud for the daughter of Jephthah, the Gileadite, four days in the year.

12And the men of Ephraim were called together, and passed over northward,—and said unto Jephthah—Wherefore didst thou pass over to do battle with the sons of Ammon, and, for us, didst not call, to go with thee? Thy house, will we consume over thee with fire. ²And Jephthah said unto them, Great strife, had, I and my people, even with the sons of Ammon; but, when I cried unto you for help, ye saved me not out of their hand. ³So, when I saw that thou wast not going to save, then put I my life in my hand, and passed over against the sons of Ammon, and Yahweh delivered them into my hand. Wherefore, then, have ye come up against me this day, to fight against me? ⁴And Jephthah gathered together all the men of Gilead, and fought with Ephraim,—and the men of Gilead smote Ephraim, because they said—Fugitives of Ephraim, are, ye, O ye Gileadites, in the midst of Ephraim, in the midst of Manasseh. ⁵And the Gileadites captured the fords of the Jordan, against the Ephraimites,—and so it was, that, when the fugitives of Ephraim said, Let me pass over, the men of Gilead said to him, An Ephraimite, art thou? and, if he said—Nay! ⁶they said to him, Come now, say Shibboleth, and, if he said Sibboleth, and he could not take heed to speak in that manner, then laid they hold on him, and slew him at the fords of the Jordan,—and there fell, at that time, of the Ephraimites, forty-two thousand. ⁷And, when Jephthah had judged Israel six years, then Jephthah the Gileadite died, and was buried in one of the cities of Gilead. ⁸And there judged Israel, after him, Ibzan of Bethlehem. ⁹And so it was, he had thirty sons, and, thirty daughters, sent he abroad, while, thirty daughters, brought he from abroad for his sons. And he judged Israel seven years. ¹⁰And Ibzan died, and was buried in Bethlehem. ¹¹And, after him, did Elon the Zebulunite judge Israel,—and he judged Israel, ten years. ¹²And Elon the Zebulunite died, and was buried in Aijalon, in the land of Zebulun. ¹³And there judged Israel, after him, Abdon son of Hillel, the Pirathonite. ¹⁴And so it was, he had forty sons and thirty grandsons, who rode on seventy ass colts,—and he judged Israel eight years. ¹⁵And Abdon son of Hillel, the Pirathonite died,—and was buried in Pirathon, in the land of Ephraim, in the hill country of the Amalekites.

13And the sons of Israel again did the thing that was wicked in the sight of Yahweh,—so Yahweh delivered them up into the hand of the Philistines, forty years. ²And there was a certain man of Zorah, of the family of the

Danites, and, his name, was Manoah; and, his wife, was barren, and had borne no child. ³And the messenger of Yahweh appeared unto the woman,—and said unto her—Lo! I pray thee, thou, art barren, and hast borne no child, but thou shalt conceive, and shalt bear a son. ⁴Now, therefore, beware, I pray thee, and do not drink wine or strong drink,—nor eat anything unclean; ⁵for lo! thou, art about to conceive and bear a son, and no, razor, shall come on his head, for, one separate unto God, shall the boy be from his birth,—and, he, shall begin to save Israel out of the hand of the Philistines. ⁶So the woman came in, and told her husband, saying, A man of God, came unto me, and, his, appearance, was as the appearance of the messenger of God, reverend exceedingly,—and I asked him not whence he was, and, his name, he told me not. ⁷But he said unto me, Lo! thou art about to conceive, and bear a son,—now, therefore, do not drink wine or strong drink, nor eat anything unclean, for, one separate unto God, shall the boy be, from his birth until the day of his death. ⁸Then Manoah made entreaty unto Yahweh, and said: Pardon, O My Lord! the man of God whom thou didst send, I pray thee, let him come again unto us, that he may teach us what we are to do, unto the boy that is to be born. ⁹And God hearkened unto the voice of Manoah,—and the messenger of God came again unto the woman, as, she, was sitting in the field, Manoah her husband, not being with her. ¹⁰So the woman made haste, and ran, and told her husband,—and said unto him, Lo! the man, hath appeared unto me, who came the other day unto me. ¹¹Then Manoah arose, and followed his wife,—and came unto the man, and said unto him—Art, thou, the man that spake unto the wife? And he said—I am. ¹²And Manoah said, Now, let thy words come to pass,—What shall be the rule for the boy, and his work? ¹³And the messenger of Yahweh said unto Manoah,—Of all that I said unto the woman, let her beware. ¹⁴Of nothing that cometh of the vine, may she eat, nor wine nor strong drink, let her drink, nor, anything unclean, let her eat,—all that I commanded her, let her observe. ¹⁵And Manoah said unto the messenger of Yahweh,—I pray thee, let us detain thee, that we may make ready for thy presence, a kid. ¹⁶But the messenger of Yahweh said unto Manoah—Though thou detain me, yet will I not eat of thy food, and, though thou make ready an ascending-sacrifice, unto Yahweh, must thou cause it to ascend. For Manoah had not discerned that, the angel of Yahweh, he was. ¹⁷Then said Manoah unto the messenger of Yahweh, What is thy name,—that, when thy word cometh to pass, we may do thee honour? ¹⁸And the messenger of Yahweh said unto him, Wherefore is it, that thou shouldst ask after my name,—seeing that, it, is Wonderful? ¹⁹So Manoah took the kid, and the meal-offering, and caused them to ascend upon the rock unto Yahweh, who was about to do, wondrously, while Manoah and his wife were looking on. ²⁰And it came to pass, when the flame ascended from off the altar, towards the heavens, that the messenger of Yahweh ascended in the flame of the altar,—while Manoah and his wife were looking on. Then fell they on their faces, to the earth. ²¹And the messenger of Yahweh did no more appear unto Manoah or unto his wife. Then, Manoah knew that, the messenger of Yahweh, he was. ²²And Manoah said unto his wife, We shall, die,—for, upon God, have we looked. ²³But his wife said unto him, If Yahweh had been pleased to put us to death, he would not have received at our hand, an ascending-sacrifice and a meal-offering, nor would he have shewed us all these things,—and, at such a time, have let us hear the like of this! ²⁴So the woman hare a son, and called his name Samson,—and the boy grew, and Yahweh blessed him. ²⁵And the spirit of Yahweh began to urge him to and fro, in the camp of Dan,—between Zorah and Eshtaol.

¹⁴And Samson went down to Timnath,—and saw a woman in Timnath, of the daughters of the Philistines. ²So he came up, and told his father and his mother, and said—A woman, have I seen in Timnath, of the daughters of the Philistines,—now, therefore, take her for me, to wife. ³And his father and his mother said to him—Is there not, among the daughters of thy brethren, or among all my people, a woman, that thou art going away to take a woman from among the uncircumcised Philistines? But Samson said unto his father—Take, her, for me, for, she, is pleasant in mine eyes. ⁴Now, his father and his mother, knew not, that, from Yahweh, it was, that, an occasion, he was seeking of the Philistines,—at that time, the Philistines having dominion over Israel. ⁵So Samson went down, and his father and his mother, to Timnath,—and they came as far as the vineyards of Timnath, when lo! a young lion, roaring to meet him. ⁶And the Spirit of Yahweh, came suddenly over him, and he tore it in pieces as if he had torn in pieces a kid, there being, nothing at all, in his hand,—but he told not his father or his mother what he had done. ⁷So he went down, and spake unto the woman,—and she was pleasant in the eyes of Samson. ⁸And he returned, after a time, to take her, and went aside to see the carcass of the lion,—and lo! a swarm of bees, in the body of the lion, and, honey, ⁹which he took into his hands, and went on—eating as he went, and came unto his father and unto his mother, and gave unto them, and they did eat,—but he told them not that, out of the carcass of the lion, he had taken the honey. ¹⁰And his father went down unto the woman,—and Samson made there a banquet, for, so, used the young men, to do. ¹¹And it came to pass, because they feared him, that they took thirty companions, who remained with him. ¹²And Samson said unto them, I pray you let me put you forth a riddle,—if ye, tell, it me, within the seven days of the banquet, and find it out, then will I give you thirty linen wraps and thirty changes of raiment;

¹³but, if ye cannot tell me, then shall, ye, give me thirty linen wraps, and thirty changes of raiment. And they said unto him, Put forth thy riddle, that we may hear it. ¹⁴And he said to them—Out of the eater, came forth food, And, out of the strong, came forth sweetness. But they could not tell the riddle, in three days. ¹⁵And it came to pass, on the fourth day, that they said to Samson's wife, Entice thy husband, that he may tell us the riddle, lest we burn thee and the house of thy father, with fire. Was it not, to impoverish us, that ye invited us—was it not? ¹⁶And the wife of Samson wept upon him, and said—Thou dost, altogether hate me, and dost not love me, a riddle, hast thou put forth to the sons of my people, and, unto me, thou hast not told it! And he said to her, Lo! to my own father and mother, have I not told it, and, to thee, shall I tell it? ¹⁷So she wept upon him the seven days,—while their banquet lasted,—and it came to pass, on the seventh day, that he told her, because she urged him, and she told the riddle unto the sons of her people. ¹⁸And the men of the city said to him, on the seventh day—ere yet the sun went in, What is sweeter than honey? And what is stronger than a lion? And he said to them: If ye had not ploughed with my heifer, Ye had not found out my riddle! ¹⁹And the Spirit of Yahweh, came suddenly over him, and he went down to Ashkelon, and smote of them thirty men, and took their garments, and gave the changes of raiment to them who had told the riddle,—and his anger was kindled, and he went up to his father's house. ²⁰And the wife of Samson was given unto his companion who had served him as his friend.

¹⁵And it came to pass, after a time, in the days of wheat-harvest, that Samson went to visit his wife, with a kid, and he said—I will go in unto my wife, in the chamber. But her father would not suffer him to go in. ²And her father said—I, thought, that thou didst, hate, her, so I gave her to thy companion,—Is not, her younger sister, fairer than she? Pray let her be thine, in her stead. ³And Samson said of them, I shall be more blameless, this time, than the Philistines,—though I should do them a mischief. ⁴So Samson went, and caught three hundred jackals,—and took torches, and turned tail to tail, and put one torch between the two tails, in the midst. ⁵And, when he had set fire to the torches, he let them go into the standing corn of the Philistines,—and set fire, both to the stack of sheaves and to the standing corn, and besides to the olive plantation. ⁶Then said the Philistines—Who hath done this? And they said—Samson, son-in-law of the Timnite, because he hath taken his wife, and given her to his companion. So the Philistines went up and burned her and her father, with fire. ⁷And Samson said to them, Though ye do the like of this, yet will I be avenged upon you, and, afterwards, will I cease. ⁸So he smote them, leg on thigh, with a great smiting,—and went down and dwelt in a cleft of the crag Etam. ⁹Then went up the Philistines, and encamped in Judah,—and were spread abroad in Lehi. ¹⁰And the men of Judah said, Wherefore have ye come up against us? And they said—To bind Samson, are we come up, to do unto him as he hath done unto us. ¹¹Then went down three thousand men out of Judah, unto the cleft of the crag Etam, and said unto Samson—Knowest thou not that the Philistines are lording it over us? What, then, is this thou hast done to us? And he said unto them, As they have done to me, so, have I done to them. ¹²And they said to him—To bind thee, are we come down, to deliver thee into the hand of the Philistines. And Samson said to them, Swear to me, that ye will not fall upon me, yourselves. ¹³And they answered him, saying—Nay; but we will, bind, thee, and deliver thee into their hand, but we will not, put thee to death. So they bound him with two new ropes, and took him up from the crag. ¹⁴He, was coming in as far as Lehi, and, the Philistines, came shouting to meet him,—when the Spirit of Yahweh came suddenly over him, and the ropes that were upon his arms became as threads of flax which have been ignited with fire, so that his bonds melted from off his hands. ¹⁵Then found he the jawbone of an ass newly-slain,—so he thrust forth his hand, and took it, and smote therewith, a thousand men. ¹⁶And Samson said, With the jawbone of an ass,—have I piled them up in heaps! With the jawbone of an ass, have I smitten a thousand men! ¹⁷And it came to pass, when he had made an end of speaking, that he cast away the jawbone out of his hand,—and called the name of that place, Ramath-lehi. ¹⁸And he was sore athirst, so he cried unto Yahweh, and said, Thou thyself, hast given, into the hand of thy servant, this great salvation,—and, now, must I die of thirst, and fall into the hand of the uncircumcised? ¹⁹So then God clave open the hollow that is in Lehi, and there came therefrom water, and he drank, and his spirit came back, and he revived,—for this cause, called he the name thereof—Ain-hakkore, which is in Lehi, until this day. ²⁰And he judged Israel, in the days of the Philistines, twenty years.

16Then went Samson unto Gaza,—and saw there an unchaste woman, and went in unto her. ²And it was told the Gazites, saying—Samson hath come in hither. So they came round, and lay in wait for him, all the night, in the gate of the city,—but kept themselves quiet all the night, saying, Until the light of the morning, then will we slay him. ³And Samson lay till midnight, and arose at midnight, and took hold of the doors of the gate of the city, and of the two doorposts, and tare them away, with the bar, and put them on his shoulders,—and carried them up to the top of the hill that faceth Hebron. ⁴And it came to pass, after this, that he loved a woman in the ravine of Shorek, whose, name, was Delilah. ⁵So the lords of the Philistines came up unto her, and said to her—Entice him, and see wherein lieth his great strength, and where-with we may prevail against him, and bind him, to humble him,—and, we, will give thee, every man, eleven hundred pieces of silver. ⁶So Delilah said unto Samson, Do tell me, I pray thee, wherein lieth thy great strength,—and wherewith thou mightest be bound, to humble thee. ⁷And Samson said unto her, If they bind me with seven green cords, that have not been dried, then shall I become weak, and be as any other man. ⁸So the lords of the Philistines brought up to her seven green cords, that had not been dried,—and she bound him therewith. ⁹Now, the liers in wait, were tarrying for her, in an inner chamber,—and she said unto him,—The Philistines, are upon thee, Samson! And he snapped the cords as a thread of tow is broken, when fire bloweth thereon, so his strength was not discovered. ¹⁰And Delilah said unto Samson, Lo! thou hast been laughing at me, and speaking unto me falsehoods,—Now, do tell me, I pray thee, wherewith thou mightest be bound. ¹¹And he said unto her, If they, bind me fast, with new ropes, wherewith work was never done, then shall I become weak, and be as any other man. ¹²So Delilah took new ropes, and bound him therewith, and said unto him—The Philistines, are upon thee, Samson! Now, the liers in wait, were tarrying in an inner chamber. And he snapped them off his arms like a thread. ¹³And Delilah said unto Samson—Hitherto, hast thou been laughing at me, and speaking unto me falsehoods, do tell me, wherewith thou mightest be bound. And he said unto her, If thou weave the seven braids of my head with the warp. ¹⁴So she beat them up with the pin, and said unto him, The Philistines, are upon thee, Samson! And he awaked out of his sleep, and pulled out the pin of the loom, and the warp. ¹⁵And she said unto him—How canst thou say, I love thee, when, thy heart, is not with me? These three times, hast thou laughed at me, and hast not told me wherein lieth thy great strength. ¹⁶And it came to pass, when she urged him with her words continually, and pressed him, that his soul became impatient, unto death; ¹⁷so he told her all his heart, and said to her—No, razor, hath come on my head, for, one separate unto God, have I been, from my birth,—if I were shaven, then would depart from me my strength, and I should become weak, and be as any other man. ¹⁸And, when Delilah saw that he had told her all his heart, she sent and called for the lords of the Philistines, saying—Come up this once, for he hath told me all his heart. And the lords of the Philistines came up unto her, and brought up the silver in their hand. ¹⁹And she made him sleep upon her knees, and called for a man, and caused him to shave off the seven braids of his head,—and she began to humble him, and his strength departed from him. ²⁰And she said—The Philistines, are upon thee, Samson! And he awoke out of his sleep, and said—I will go out now, as time after time, and shake myself free: he, not knowing, that, Yahweh, had departed from him. ²¹And the Philistines

seized him, and put out his eyes,—and took him down to Gaza, and bound him with fetters of bronze, and it came to pass that he used to grind in the prison. ²²And the hair of his head began to grow, after he had been shaven. ²³Now, the lords of the Philistines, had gathered themselves together to offer a great sacrifice unto Dagon their god, and to rejoice,—and they said, Our god hath delivered into our hand, Samson our enemy. ²⁴And, when the people saw him, they praised their god,—for they said—Our god hath delivered into our hand our enemy, even him who laid waste our land, and who multiplied our slain. ²⁵And it came to pass, when their heart was merry, that they said, Call for Samson, that he may make sport for us. So they called for Samson out of the prison, and he made sport before them, and they stationed him between the pillars. ²⁶And Samson said unto the youth that held him by his hand, Place me where I may feel the pillars whereon the house resteth, that I may lean upon them. ²⁷Now, the house, was full of men and women, there, also were all the lords of the Philistines,—and, on the roof, were about three thousand men and women, looking on while Samson made sport. ²⁸So then Samson cried unto Yahweh, and said,—My Lord Yahweh! remember me, I pray thee,—and strengthen me, I pray thee, only this once, O God, that I may be avenged, with one avenging, for my two eyes, upon the Philistines. ²⁹Then did Samson grasp the two middle pillars, whereon the house rested, and whereon it was upheld, and he braced himself against them,—the one with his right hand, and the other with his left. ³⁰And Samson said—Let my soul die with the Philistines! And he bowed mightily, and the house fell upon the lords, and upon all the people that were therein. So the dead, whom he slew at his death, were more than they whom he slew in his life. ³¹Then came down his brethren, and all the house of his father, and lifted him, and carried him up, and buried him, between Zorah and Eshtaol, in the buryingplace of Manoah his father,—he, having judged Israel twenty years.

17And there was a man of the hill country of Ephraim, whose, name, was Micah. ²And he said unto his mother—The eleven hundred pieces of silver that were taken by thee, when, thou, didst utter a curse, and didst also say in my hearing, Lo! the silver, is with me! I took it. Then said his mother, Blessed, be my son by Yahweh. ³And, when he had restored the eleven hundred shekels of silver to his mother, his mother said—I had, hallowed, the silver unto Yahweh out of mine own hand, for my son, to make a graved (molten) image, now, therefore, I will restore it unto thee. ⁴But he restored the silver to his mother,—so his mother took two hundred pieces of silver, and gave it to the silversmith, who made thereof a graved (molten) image, and it was in the house of Micah. ⁵Now, the man Micah, had a house of gods,—and he made an ephod, and teraphim, and installed one of his sons, who became his priest. ⁶In those days, there was no king in Israel,—every man did, that which was right in his own eyes. ⁷And there was a young man out of Bethlehem-judah, of the family of Judah,—he, being a Levite, and, he, being a sojourner there. ⁸So the man took his journey out of the city, out of Bethlehem-judah, to sojourn, wheresoever he could find a home,—and he came into the hill country of Ephraim, as far as the house of Micah, in pursuing his journey. ⁹And Micah said unto him, Whence comest thou? And he said unto him—A Levite, am I, from Bethlehem-judah, and, I, am taking my journey to sojourn, wheresoever I can find a home. ¹⁰And Micah said unto him—Dwell with me, and be to me a father and a priest, and, I, will give thee ten pieces of silver by the year, and a suit of apparel, and thy sustenance. So the Levite went. ¹¹And the Levite was content to dwell with the man,—and the young man became to him, as one of his sons. ¹²And Micah installed the Levite, and the young man became his priest,—and remained in the house of Micah. ¹³Then said Micah—Now, I know that Yahweh will do me good,—seeing I have a Levite as my priest.

18In those days, there was no king in Israel,—and, in those days, the tribe of the Danites was seeking for itself an inheritance to dwell in for there had not fallen to them, unto that day, in the midst of the tribes of Israel, enough for an inheritance. ²So then the sons of Dan sent, out of their family, five men out of their bounds—men who were sons of valour—out of Zorah and out of Eshtaol—to spy out the land, and to explore it, and they said unto them, Go! explore the land. And they came into the hill country of Ephraim, as far as the house of Micah, and lodged there. ³They, being by the house of Micah, knew the voice of the young man, the Levite,—so they turned aside there, and said to him—Who brought thee in hither? and what art thou doing in this place, and what hast thou here? ⁴And he said unto them, Thus and so, hath Micah dealt with me, and hath hired me, and I am become his priest. ⁵So they said unto him—Ask of God, we pray thee,—that we may know whether the journey on which we are going shall have good success. ⁶And the priest said unto them—Go! and prosper,—before Yahweh, is your journey on which ye go. ⁷So the five men went their way, and entered Laish,—and saw the people who were therein, dwelling securely, after the manner of the Zidonians, quietly and securely, and there was no one to reproach them with anything in the land, none to possess himself of dominion, they being, far away, from the Zidonians, and having no dealings with any one. ⁸So they came unto their brethren, in Zorah and Eshtaol,—and their brethren said unto them—Why are ye minded to do nothing? ⁹And they said—Arise! and let us go up against them, for we have seen the land, and lo! it is very good,—are, ye, then, minded to do nothing? do not be too slothful to go, and enter, and take possession of the land. ¹⁰When ye do enter, ye will enter amongst a people secure, and, the land, is of ample bounds,—yea God hath delivered it into your hands,—a place where there is no lack of anything that is in the earth. ¹¹So there brake up from thence, out of the family of the Danites, out of Zorah and out of Eshtaol, six hundred men, begirt with weapons of war. ¹²And they went up and encamped in Kiriath-jearim, in Judah,—wherefore they have called that place, Mahaneh-dan—unto this day, lo! it is behind Kiriath-jearim. ¹³And they passed on from thence unto the hill country of Ephraim,—and came as far as the house of Micah. ¹⁴Then responded the five men who had been to spy out the land of Laish, and said unto their brethren, Know ye that there are in these houses, an ephod, and teraphim, and a graven image, and a molten image,—now, therefore, know what ye will do! ¹⁵So they turned aside thither, and entered into the house of the young man the Levite, the house of Micah,—and asked him of his welfare. ¹⁶Now, the six hundred men, begirt with weapons of war, were standing at the entrance of the gate,—they being of the sons of Dan. ¹⁷Then went up the five men who had been to spy out the land, they came in thither, they took the graven image, and the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image,—now, the priest, was standing at the entrance of the gate, with the six hundred men who were begirt with weapons of war. ¹⁸But, when, these, had entered the house of Micah, and taken the graven image and the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image, the priest said unto them, What are ye doing? ¹⁹And they said unto him—Hold thy peace, lay thy hand upon thy mouth, and go with us, and become to us a father and a priest,—is it better that thou be priest to the house of one man, or that thou be priest to a tribe and to a family in Israel? ²⁰Then was the heart of the priest glad, and he took the ephod, and the teraphim, and the graven image,—and came into the midst of the people. ²¹So they turned, and went their way,—and put the little ones, and the cattle, and the goods, before them. ²²They, had gone a good way from the house of Micah, when, the men that were in the houses near to the house of Micah, were called out and overtook the sons of Dan. ²³And they called unto the sons of Dan, who turned their faces,—and said unto Micah, What aileth thee, that thou hast called out thy neighbours? ²⁴And he said—My gods which I had made, ye have taken away, and the priest, and have departed, and what have I more? How then is it that ye can say unto me, What aileth thee? ²⁵And the sons of Dan said unto him, Do not let thy voice be heard among us,—lest men embittered in soul fall upon you, and thou gather in thy life and the lives of thy household. ²⁶And the sons of Dan went on their journey,—and, when Micah saw that they were, too strong, for him, he turned and went back unto his house. ²⁷They, therefore, took what Micah had made, and the priest that he had, and came upon Laish, upon a people quiet and secure, and smote them with the edge of the sword,—the city also, burned they with fire. ²⁸And there was no one to rescue, because it was, far, from Zidon, and they had no, dealings, with any one, it, being in the vale that pertaineth to Beth-rehob. Then built they the city, and dwelt therein, ²⁹and called the name of the city, Dan, by the name of Dan their father, who was born to Israel,—howbeit, Laish, was the name of the city, at the first. ³⁰And the sons of Dan set up for themselves the graven image,—and, Jonathan, son of Gershom, son of Moses, he and his sons, became priests to the tribe of the Danites, until the day of the captivity of the land. ³¹So they set up for themselves the graven image of Micah, which he had made,— and let it remain all the days that the house of God was in Shiloh.

19And it came to pass in those days, when, king, there was none in Israel, that there was a certain Levite sojourning on the farther side of the hill country of Ephraim, who took to him a concubine out of Bethlehem-judah. ²And his concubine went astray against him, and departed from him, unto the house of her father, in Bethlehem-judah,—and remained there, the space of four months. ³Then arose her husband, and went after her, to speak unto her heart, that he might bring her back again, having his young man with him, and a couple of asses,—and she brought him into the house of her father, and, when the father of the damsel saw him, he rejoiced to meet him. ⁴And his father-in-law, the father of the damsel, constrained him, and he abode with him three days,—and they did eat and drink, and lodged there. ⁵And it came to pass, on the fourth day, when they arose early in the morning, and gat up to go, that the father of the damsel said unto his son-in-law,—Stay thy heart with a morsel of bread, and, afterwards, ye shall go your way. ⁶So they both of them sat down and did eat together, and drink. Then said the father of the damsel unto the man, Be content, I pray thee, and tarry the night, and let thy heart be glad. ⁷And, when the man rose up to go, his father-in-law pressed him, so he turned back and tarried the night there. ⁸And, when he arose early on the morning of the fifth day, to go, the father of the damsel said—Come now, stay thy heart, and tarry ye until the decline of the day. And they did eat, both of them. ⁹And, when the man rose up to go—he and his concubine and his young man,—his father-in-law, the father of the damsel, said to him, Come now, see! the day hath sunk down towards evening, come now! tarry the night; lo! the day goeth down, tarry the night here, and let thy heart be glad, so shall ye rise early to-morrow for your journey, and thou shalt go thy way to thine own home. ¹⁰But the man would not tarry the night, but rose up and went his way, and came as far as over against Jebus, the same, is Jerusalem,—and, with him, were a couple of asses, saddled, his concubine also, was with him. ¹¹They being by Jebus, and, the day, having gone far down, the young man said unto his lord—Do come, I pray thee, and let us turn aside into this city of the Jebusites, and tarry the night therein. ¹²And his lord said unto him, We will not turn aside into a city of aliens, who are, not of the sons of Israel,—but will pass on as far as Gibeah. ¹³And he said to his young man, Come and let us draw near unto one of the places,—and tarry the night in Gibeah, or in Ramah. ¹⁴So they passed on, and went their way,—and the sun went in upon them beside Gibeah, which belongeth to Benjamin. ¹⁵Then turned they aside there, to go in and tarry the night in Gibeah,—so he went in and abode in the Broadway of the city; and there was no one minded to take them into a house, to tarry the night. ¹⁶But lo! an old man, coming in from his work, out of the field, in the evening, and, the man, was from the hill country of Ephraim, he himself, being a sojourner in Gibeah,—but, the men of the place, were Benjamites. ¹⁷So he lifted up his eyes, and saw a way-faring man in the Broadway of the city,—and the old man said—Whither goest thou? and from whence hast thou come? ¹⁸And he said unto him—We, are passing along, from Bethlehem-judah, unto the farther side of the hill country of Ephraim, whence I am, but I have been as far as Bethlehem-judah, and now, unto the house of Yahweh, am I going, and there is no one minded to take me into a house. ¹⁹Nevertheless, straw and fodder too, is there for our asses, yea moreover, bread and wine, there are for me, and for thy handmaid, and for the young man that is with thy servants,—there is lack, of nothing. ²⁰And the old man said—Thou art welcome! only, all thy wants, be on me,—by no means, in the Broadway, mayest thou lodge. ²¹So he brought him into his house, and gave provender to the asses,—and they bathed their feet, and did eat and drink. ²²They, were gladdening their heart, when lo! men of the city, men of the sons of the Abandoned One, beset the house round about, beating violently against the door,—and they spake unto the old man the owner of the house, saying, Bring forth the man that hath entered into thy house, that we may know him. ²³And the man, the owner of the house, went forth unto them, and said unto them, Do not, my brethren, do not act vilely, I pray you,—after this man hath entered into my house, do not commit this impiety. ²⁴Lo, my virgin daughter, and his concubine, I must needs now bring, them, forth, and ye must humble, them, and do, unto them, what seemeth good in your own eyes,—but, unto this man, must ye not do this impious thing! ²⁵But the men would not hearken unto him, so the man laid hold on his concubine, and brought her forth unto them, outside,—and they knew, her, and abused her all the night, until the morning, and let her go at the uprisings of the dawn. ²⁶So the woman came in at the turnings of the morning,—and fell down at the entrance of the man's house where her lord was, and lay there till it was light. ²⁷So then her lord rose up in the morning, and opened the doors of the house, and went forth, to go on his journey,—when lo! the woman, his concubine, fallen at the entrance of the house, with her hands upon the threshold. ²⁸And he said unto her—Up! and let us be going. But there was no answer. So he took her up on the ass, and the man rose up, and went his way to his own place. ²⁹And, when he was come into his house, he took a knife, and laid hold on his concubine, and divided her, limb by limb, into twelve pieces,—and sent her throughout all the bounds of Israel. ³⁰And so it was, that every one who beheld said—There hath not happened, nor been seen the like of this, from the day when the sons of Israel came up out of the land of Egypt, until this day: Put it to yourselves contemning it, take counsel and speak!

20Then went forth all the sons of Israel, and the assembly came together as one man, from Dan even to Beersheba with the land of Gilead,—unto Yahweh at Mizpah. ²And the chiefs of all the people—all the tribes of Israel—presented themselves in the convocation of the people of God,—four hundred thousand footmen, that drew the sword. ³And the sons of Benjamin heard that the sons of Israel had gone up to Mizpah. Then said the sons of Israel, Tell us, In what manner was brought to pass this vileness? ⁴And the Levite, husband of the woman that was cut in pieces, responded and said,—Into Gibeah that pertaineth to Benjamin, I entered, I and my concubine, to tarry the night. ⁵And the owners of Gibeah rose up against me, and beset the house, for my sake, by night,—me, they thought to slay, and, my concubine, they so humbled, that she died. ⁶So I laid hold on my concubine, and cut her in pieces, and sent her throughout all the country of the inheritance of Israel,—because they had wrought lewdness and impiety, in Israel. ⁷Lo! ye all, are sons of Israel,—give your word and counsel, here. ⁸Then arose all the people, as one man, saying,—No man of us will go to his tent, and no man of us will turn aside to his house. ⁹Now, therefore, this is the thing, that we will do to Gibeah,—Go against it by lot; ¹⁰and we will take ten men of a hundred, of all the tribes of Israel, and a hundred of a thousand, and a thousand of ten thousand, to fetch provisions for the people,—that they may do, when they come to Gibeah of Benjamin, according to all the impiety that it hath wrought in Israel. ¹¹So all the men of Israel were gathered together against the city, as one man knit together. ¹²And the tribes of Israel sent men throughout all the divisions of Benjamin, saying,—What is this vile thing that hath been brought to pass, among you? ¹³Now, therefore, deliver up the men—the sons of the Abandoned One—who are in Gibeah, that we may put them to death, and vileness be consumed out of Israel. But the sons of Benjamin would not hearken unto the voice of their brethren, the sons of Israel. ¹⁴Then did the sons of Benjamin gather themselves together out of the cities, unto Gibeah,—to go forth to battle against the sons of Israel. ¹⁵And the sons of Benjamin were numbered on that day, out of the cities, twenty-six thousand men, that drew the sword,—besides, of the inhabitants of Gibeah, were numbered seven hundred chosen men. ¹⁶Out of all this people, were seven hundred chosen men, left-handed,—any one of whom could sling with a stone to a hair's-breadth, and not miss. ¹⁷And, the men of Israel, were numbered, apart from Benjamin, four hundred thousand men, that drew the sword,—every one of these being a man of war. ¹⁸And they arose, and went up to Bethel, and asked of God, and the sons of Israel said, Who shall go up for us first, to fight against the sons of Benjamin? And Yahweh said—Judah, first. ¹⁹And the sons of Israel arose in the morning,—and encamped against Gibeah. ²⁰And the men of Israel went forth, to fight against Benjamin,—so the men of Israel set themselves in array against them, to fight against Gibeah. ²¹Then came forth the sons of Benjamin out of Gibeah,—and laid low of Israel, on that day, twenty-two thousand men, to the ground. ²²And the people, the men of Israel, encouraged themselves,—and again set themselves in array for battle in the place where they had set themselves in array on the first day. ²³Now the sons of Israel had gone up, and wept before Yahweh, until the evening, and asked of Yahweh, saying, Shall I again draw near to battle against the sons of Benjamin, my brother? And Yahweh said, Go up against him. ²⁴So the sons of Israel came near against the sons of Benjamin, on the second day. ²⁵And Benjamin came forth to meet them out of Gibeah, on the second day, and laid low, of the sons of Israel, yet eighteen thousand men, to the ground,—all these, drew the sword. ²⁶Then went up all the sons of Israel, and all the people, and came to Bethel, and wept, and tarried there before Yahweh, and fasted on that day, until the evening,—and caused to go up ascending-sacrifices and peace-offerings, before Yahweh. ²⁷And the sons of Israel asked of Yahweh,—there, being the ark of the covenant of God, in those days; ²⁸and Phinehas, son of Eleazar, son of Aaron, was standing before it in those days, saying: Shall I yet again go forth to battle, against the sons of Benjamin, my brother, or shall I forbear? And Yahweh said—Go up, for, to-morrow, will I deliver him into thy hand. ²⁹And Israel set liers in wait against Gibeah, round about. ³⁰So the sons of Israel went up against the sons of Benjamin, on the third day,—and set themselves in array against Gibeah, as time after time. ³¹And the sons of Benjamin came forth against the people, they were drawn away from the city,—and began to smite of the people, slaying as time after time, in the highways, whereof, one, goeth up to Bethel, and, the other, to Gibeah in the field, about thirty men in Israel. ³²Then said the sons of Benjamin, They are, being smitten, before us, as at the first. But the sons of Israel had said—Let us flee, and draw them away from the city, into the highways. ³³And, all the men of Israel, rose up out of their place, and set themselves in array in Baal-tamar,—

and, the liers in wait of Israel, began to break forth out of their place, out of the forest of Gibeah. ³⁴And there came over against Gibeah ten thousand chosen men, out of all Israel, and the battle was severe,—they, not knowing that disaster was overtaking them. ³⁵Thus Yahweh smote Benjamin before Israel, and the sons of Israel destroyed in Benjamin, that day, twenty-five thousand and one hundred men,—all these, drew the sword. ³⁶So the sons of Benjamin saw that they were smitten,—and that the men of Israel had given place to Benjamin, because they trusted to the liers in wait, whom they had set near Gibeah. ³⁷And, the liers in wait, hastened, and rushed upon Gibeah,—and the liers in wait marched forward, and smote all the city with the edge of the sword. ³⁸Now, the appointed sign, between the men of Israel and the liers in wait, had been,—to cause a great cloud of smoke to ascend out of the city. ³⁹So, when the men of Israel turned in the battle,—and, the Benjamites, began to smite and slay of the sons of Israel, about thirty men, for they said, Yea! they are, smitten, before us, as in the first battle, ⁴⁰then, the cloud, began to ascend out of the city, a pillar of smoke,—and the Benjamites looked behind them, and lo! the whole city flamed up towards the heavens. ⁴¹And, when, the men of Israel, turned, then were the men of Benjamin dismayed,—for they saw that disaster had overtaken them. ⁴²And, when they turned before the men of Israel unto the way of the desert, the battle, over took them,—while, as for them that came out of the cities, they began to destroy them in their midst:— ⁴³they hemmed in the Benjamites, they pursued them, with ease, trode they them down,—as far as over against Gibeah, towards sunrise. ⁴⁴So there fell of Benjamin, eighteen thousand men,—all these being men of valour. ⁴⁵And, when they turned and fled towards the desert unto the cliff Rimmon, then gleaned they of them, in the highways, five thousand men,—and they followed hard after them as far as Gidom, and smote of them, two thousand men. ⁴⁶So then it came to pass that, all the fallen of Benjamin, were twenty-five thousand men, that drew the sword, on that day,—all these being men of valour. ⁴⁷But there turned and fled, towards the desert, unto the cliff Rimmon, six hundred men,—who abode in the cliff Rimmon, four months. ⁴⁸Thus, the men of Israel, turned against the sons of Benjamin, and smote them with the edge of the sword, beginning with the city, each and every one down to the beast, even to every one that was met with,—moreover, all the cities they came to, they set on fire.

21Now, the men of Israel, had sworn in Mizpah, saying,—Not a man from among us, shall give his daughter unto Benjamin, to wife. ²So then the people came to Bethel, and abode there, until the evening, before God,—and lifted up their voice, and wept bitterly, ³and said, Wherefore, O Yahweh, God of Israel, hath this come about in Israel,—

that there should be lacking, to-day, out of Israel, one tribe? ⁴And it came to pass, on the morrow, that the people rose early, and built there, an altar,—and offered ascending-sacrifices, and peace-offerings. ⁵And the sons of Israel said, Who was there that came not up, in the convocation, out of all the tribes of Israel, unto Yahweh? For, the great oath, had been taken, as to any who came not up unto Yahweh at Mizpah, saying—He shall be, put to death. ⁶And the sons of Israel grieved for Benjamin, their brother,—and they said, There is cut off, to-day, one tribe out of Israel. ⁷What are we to do for them who remain, for wives,—seeing that, we ourselves, have sworn by Yahweh, not to give them of our daughters, for wives? ⁸So they said, What one of the tribes of Israel is there, that hath not come up unto Yahweh at Mizpah? And lo! no man had come into the camp, out of Jabesh-gilead, unto the convocation: ⁹When the people were numbered, lo! there was not there a man of the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead. ¹⁰So the assembly sent thither twelve thousand men, of the sons of valour,—and commanded them, saying:—Go and smite the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead, with the edge of the sword, with the women, and the little ones. ¹¹And, this, is the thing that ye shall do,—Every male, and every woman that hath cohabited with man, shall ye devote to destruction. ¹²And they found—of the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead—four hundred young women, virgins, who had not cohabited with man,—so they brought them into the camp, at Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan. ¹³Then the whole assembly sent, and spake unto the sons of Benjamin, who were in the cliff Rimmon,—and proclaimed to them, peace. ¹⁴So Benjamin returned at that time, and they gave them the women whom they had saved alive of the women of Jabesh-gilead,—but they found not for them to suffice, even so. ¹⁵Now, the assembly, had grieved for Benjamin,—because Yahweh had made a breach, in the tribes of Israel. ¹⁶So then, the elders of the assembly said, What are we to do for them who remain, for wives,—for womankind, hath been destroyed out of Benjamin? ¹⁷And they said, There is an inheritance for the escaped of Benjamin,—and there must not be wiped out, a tribe, out of Israel. ¹⁸Yet, we, may not give them wives, of our own daughters, For the sons of Israel had sworn, saying, Cursed, be he that giveth a wife to Benjamin. ¹⁹Then said they—Lo! the festival of Yahweh in Shiloh, from year to year, Which Shiloh is on the north of Bethel, towards sunrise, by the highway that goeth up from Bethel, towards Shechem, and on the south of Lebonah. ²⁰And they commanded the sons of Benjamin, saying,—Go and lie in wait in the vineyards; ²¹and look, and lo! if the daughters of Shiloh come out to dance in the dances, then shall ye come forth out of the vineyards, and catch you every man his wife, of the daughters of Shiloh,—and go your way to the land of Benjamin. ²²And it shall be, when their fathers, or their brethren, come in to complain to us, that we will say unto them—

As a favour to us, grant them, because we took not for each man his wife in the battle,—for, ye yourselves, gave them not unto them, so as, now, to be guilty. ²³And the sons of Benjamin did so, and carried off wives, according to their number, of them who were dancing, whom they seized,—and they went their way, and returned unto their inheritance, and built the cities, and dwelt therein. ²⁴And the sons of Israel at that time went their several ways from thence, every man to his own tribe, and to his own family,—yea they went forth from thence, every man to his own inheritance. ²⁵In those days, there was no king in Israel,—every man did, that which was right in his own eyes.

Ruth

¹And it came to pass, in the days when the Judges administered justice, that there was a famine in the land,—and so a certain man went his way, out of Bethlehem-judah to sojourn in the country of Moab, he, and his wife, and his two sons. ²And, the name of the man, was Elimelech, and, the name of his wife, Naomi, and, the name of his two sons, Mahlon and Chilion—Ephrathites out of Bethlehem-judah,—so they came into the country of Moab, and remained there. ³And Elimelech, husband of Naomi, died,—and she was left, she and her two sons. ⁴And they took them wives, of the women of Moab, the name of the one, was Orpah, and, the name of the other, Ruth,—and they dwelt there, about ten years. ⁵And, they also, both, died, Mahlon and Chilion,—so the woman was bereft of her two sons, and of her husband. ⁶Then she arose, she and her daughters-in-law, and returned out of the country of Moab,—for she had heard, in the country of Moab, how that Yahweh had visited his people, in giving unto them, bread. ⁷So she went forth out of the dwelling-place where she had remained, and her two daughters-in-law with her,—and they went on the way, to return unto the land of Judah. ⁸Then said Naomi to her two daughters-in-law: Go return, each one to the house of her mother,—Yahweh deal with you in lovingkindness, as ye have dealt with the dead, and with me. ⁹Yahweh grant you, that ye may find a place of rest, each one in the house of her husband,—And she kissed them, and they lifted up their voice, and wept. ¹⁰And they said to her,—With thee, will we return, unto thy people. ¹¹Then said Naomi—Go back, my daughters! wherefore should ye journey with me? Have I, yet, sons in my womb, that they should become your, husbands? ¹²Go back, my daughters, go your way, for I am too old to have a husband,—If I should say, I have, hope, if I should, even to-night have a husband, and should, even bear sons, ¹³would ye, therefore, tarry until they were grown? would ye, therefore, shut yourselves up from having husbands? Nay! my daughters, for it is far more bitter for me than for you, that forth hath gone against me, the hand of Yahweh. ¹⁴And they lifted up their voice and wept, yet more. Then Orpah kissed her mother-in-law, but, Ruth, clave unto her. ¹⁵And she said—Lo! thy sister-in-law hath gone back, unto her people, and unto her gods,—go thou back, after thy sister-in-law. ¹⁶And Ruth said—Do not urge me to leave thee, to go back from following thee,—for, whither thou goest, I will go, and, where thou lodgest, I will lodge, thy people, shall be my people, and, thy God, my God; ¹⁷where thou diest, I will die, and, there, will I be buried: So, let Yahweh do to me, and, so, let him add, if, death itself, part me and thee. ¹⁸And, when she saw that, bravely determined, was she to go with her, she ceased entreating her. ¹⁹So, they two, went their way, until they entered Bethlehem. And it came to pass, when they entered Bethlehem, that all the city was moved concerning them, and the women said—Is this Naomi? ²⁰And she said unto them, Do not call me Naomi,—call me Mara, for the Almighty hath dealt very bitterly with me: \fs15 \fs15 ²¹I was full when I departed, but, empty, am I brought back of Yahweh,—wherefore should ye call me Naomi, when, Yahweh, hath given answer against me, and, the Almighty, hath crushed me? ²²So Naomi returned, and Ruth the Moabitess, her daughter-in-law, with her, who returned out of the country of Moab,—and, they, entered Bethlehem in the beginning of barley harvest.

²Now, Naomi, had an acquaintance of her husband's, a man of great integrity, of the family of Elimelech,—whose name, was Boaz. ²And Ruth the Moabitess said unto Naomi—Let me go, I pray thee, to the field, and glean ears of corn after him in whose eyes I may find favour. And she said to her—Go, my daughter. ³So she went her way, and came, and gleaned in the field, after the reapers,—and it happened to her, to light upon the portion of field-land belonging to Boaz, who was of the family of Elimelech. ⁴And lo! Boaz coming from Bethlehem, and he said to the reapers, Yahweh, be with you! and they said to him, Yahweh bless thee! ⁵Then said Boaz to his young man, that was set over the reapers,—Whose is this maiden? ⁶And the young man that was set over the reapers answered and said,—The Moabitish maiden, is she who came back with Naomi, out of the country of Moab; ⁷and she said—Let me glean, I pray thee, and gather among the sheaves, after the reapers; so she came in, and hath continued from that time, all the morning until just now, and hath not rested in the house, for a little. ⁸And Boaz said unto Ruth—

Hearst thou not, my daughter? Do not go to glean in any other field, neither indeed shalt thou pass on, from hence,—but, here, shalt thou keep fast by my maidens: ⁹thine eyes, be on the field which they shall reap, and go thou after them, Have I not commanded the young men, that they touch thee not? And, when thou art athirst, then go unto the vessels, and drink of what the young men shall draw. ¹⁰Then she fell upon her face, and bowed herself to the ground,—and said unto him—Wherefore have I found favour in thine eyes, that thou shouldest take notice of me, seeing that, I, am, a stranger? ¹¹And Boaz answered, and said to her, It hath been, told, me—all that thou hast done unto thy mother-in-law, since the death of thy husband,—and how thou hast left thy father and thy mother, and the land of thy nativity, and come unto a people whom thou knewest not, aforetime. ¹²Yahweh recompense thy deed,—and let thy reward be full from Yahweh, the God of Israel, unto whom thou hast come to take refuge under his wings. ¹³And she said—Let me find favour in thine eyes, my lord, for that thou hast comforted me, and for that thou hast spoken unto the heart of thy handmaid,—though, I, be not as, one of thine own handmaidens. ¹⁴And Boaz said to her at mealtime—Draw nigh hither, and eat of the bread, and dip thy morsel in the vinegar. So she sat beside the reapers, and there was reached to her parched corn, and she did eat and was satisfied, and left thereof remaining. ¹⁵And, when she rose up to glean, Boaz commanded his young men, saying—Even between the sheaves, let her glean, and reproach her not; ¹⁶yea moreover, draw out, for her, from the bundles,—and leave behind that she may glean it, and rebuke her not. ¹⁷So she gleaned in the field, until the evening,—and beat out that which she had gleaned, and there was about an ephah of barley. ¹⁸And she took it up, and came into the city, and, when her mother-in-law had seen what she had gleaned, she brought forth and gave her what had been left remaining, after that she was satisfied. ¹⁹And her mother-in-law said to her—In what place hast thou gleaned, today? and where hast thou wrought? May he that took notice of thee, be blessed! So she told her mother-in-law, with whom she had wrought, and said—The name of the man with whom I wrought today, is Boaz. ²⁰Then said Naomi, to her daughter-in-law—Blessed, be he of Yahweh, who hath not left off his lovingkindness to the living, and to the dead. And Naomi said to her—Near to us, is the man, of our own kinsmen, is he! ²¹And Ruth the Moabitess said,—Yea for he said unto me—By my young men, shalt thou keep fast, until they have ended all my harvest. ²²And Naomi said unto Ruth her daughter-in-law,—Good, is it, my daughter, that thou go forth with his maidens, and that they meet thee not, in any other field. ²³So she kept fast by the maidens of Boaz, to glean, until the end of the barley harvest, and the wheat harvest,—and dwelt with her mother-in-law.

³Then Naomi her mother-in-law said to her,—My daughter! shall I not seek for thee a place of rest, in which it may be well with thee? ²Now, therefore, is not, Boaz, of our kindred, with whose maidens thou hast been? Lo! he is winnowing the barley threshing-floor, to-night! ³Thou wilt, therefore, bathe thee, and anoint thee, and put thine apparel upon thee, and go down to the threshing-floor,—do not make thyself known to the man, until he have done eating and drinking. ⁴And it shall be, when he lieth down, that thou shalt mark the place where he doth lie, and shalt go in and turn aside the covering of his feet, and lay thee down,—and, he, will tell thee what thou shalt do. ⁵And she said unto her,—All that thou sayest, will I do. ⁶So she went down to the threshing-floor,—and did according to all that her mother-in-law had commanded her. ⁷And, when Boaz had eaten, and drunk, and his heart was glad, he went in to lie down at the end of the heap of corn. Then came she in softly, and turned aside the covering of his feet, and laid her down. ⁸And it came to pass, in the middle of the night, that the man started up, and turned,—and lo! a woman, lying at his feet. ⁹And he said, Who art, thou? And she said, I, am Ruth, thy handmaid, spread, therefore, thy wing over thy handmaid, for, a kinsman, thou art. ¹⁰And he said—Blessed, be thou of Yahweh, my daughter, for thou hast made thy last lovingkindness better than the first,—in not following after young men, whether poor, or rich. ¹¹Now, therefore, my daughter, do not fear, whatsoever thou shalt say, I will do for thee,—for all the gate of my people doth know, that, a virtuous woman, thou art. ¹²And, now, although it is true that, a kinsman, am I, yet is there a kinsman nearer than I. ¹³Tarry the night, and it shall be, in the morning, if he will act as kinsman to thee, well, let him so act, but, if he inclineth not to act as kinsman to thee, then will, I, so act to thee—by the life of Yahweh,—Lie still, until the morning. ¹⁴So she lay at his feet, until the morning, and rose up before one could know his neighbour. And he said—Do not let it be known that a woman came into the threshing-floor. ¹⁵And he said—Bring the cloak that is upon thee, and hold it. So she held it,—and he measured six measures of barley, and laid it upon her, and he went into the city. ¹⁶And, when she came unto her mother-in-law, she said—Who art, thou, my daughter? And she told her all that the man had done for her. ¹⁷And she said—These six measures of barley, gave he unto me,—for he said, Do not go in empty, unto thy mother-in-law. ¹⁸And she said—Abide, my daughter, until that thou get to know, how the matter will fall out,—for the man will not rest, except he have finished the thing to-day.

⁴Now, Boaz, went up to the gate, and sat him down there, and lo! the kinsman, passing by, of whom Boaz had spoken, so he said—Turn aside! and sit down here, such a one! And he turned aside, and sat down. ²Then fetched

he ten men of the elders of the city, and said—Sit ye down here. And they sat down. ³Then said he to the kinsman, The parcel of land that was our brother Elimelech's, is to be disposed of by Naomi, who hath returned out of the country of Moab; ⁴and, I, thought, I would unveil thine ear, saying—Take it over in presence of such as are here seated, and in presence of the elders of my people. If thou wilt act as kinsman, act as kinsman, but, if thou wilt not so act, only tell me—that I may know, for there is none who can set thee aside as kinsman, but, I, am after thee. And he said, I, will act as kinsman. ⁵Then said Boaz, What day thou takest over the land from the hand of Naomi, also, of Ruth the Moabitess, wife of the dead, dost thou take it, to raise up the name of the dead upon his inheritance. ⁶Then said the kinsman—I cannot act as kinsman for myself, lest I mar my own inheritance,—do, thou, for thyself act as kinsman in my right, for I cannot so redeem. ⁷Now, this aforetime, was the way in Israel, at a redeeming, and at an exchanging, to confirm every word: A man drew off his shoe, and gave it to his neighbour,—yea, this, was the way of taking to witness, in Israel. ⁸So the kinsman said unto Boaz, Take it over for thyself,—and he drew off his shoe. ⁹Then said Boaz to the elders, and all the people—Witnesses, are ye to-day, that I have taken over all that was Elimelech's, and all that was Chilion's, and Mahlon's,—from the hand of Naomi: ¹⁰Moreover, Ruth the Moabitess, wife of Mahlon, have I taken over, to be my wife, to raise up the name of the dead upon his inheritance, that the name of the dead be not cut off—from among his brethren, and from the gate of his dwelling- place,—Witnesses, are ye to-day! ¹¹Then said all the people who were in the gate, and the elders—Witnesses!,—Yahweh grant the woman who is coming into thy house, to be as Rachel, and as Leah, which two of them did build the house of Israel. Do thou bravely, then, in Ephrathah, and proclaim thou a name in Bethlehem, ¹²And let thy house be like the house of Perez, whom Tamar bare to Judah,—of the seed which—may Yahweh give thee, of this young woman. ¹³So Boaz took Ruth, and she became his wife, and he went in unto her,—and Yahweh granted her conception, and she bare a son. ¹⁴Then said the women unto Naomi, Blessed, be Yahweh! who hath not let thee fail of a kinsman to-day,—and may his name, be proclaimed, in Israel; ¹⁵So shall he become a restorer of thy life, and a nourisher of thine old age,—for, thy daughter-in-law who loveth thee, hath borne him, even, she, who is better to thee than seven sons. ¹⁶So Naomi took the boy, and laid him in her bosom, and she became his nurse. ¹⁷And the women, her neighbours, gave him a name, saying, There is born a son to Naomi,—So they called his name Obed, he, was, the father of Jesse, the father of David. ¹⁸These, then, are the generations of Perez: Perez, begat, Hezron; ¹⁹And, Hezron, begat, Ram, and, Ram, begat, Amminadab; ²⁰And, Amminadab, begat Nahshon, and, Nahshon, begat, Salmon, ²¹And, Salmon, begat, Boaz, and, Boaz, begat, Obed; ²²And, Obed, begat, Jesse, and, Jesse, begat, David.

I Samuel

¹And there was a certain man, of Ramathaim-zuphi, of the hill country of Ephraim,—whose name, was Elkanah, son of Jeroham, son of Elihu, son of Tohu, son of Zuph, an Ephraimite; ²and, he, had two wives, the name of the one, Hannah, and, the name of the other, Peninnah,—and Peninnah had children, but, Hannah, had no children. ³So then that man went up, out of his city, from time to time, to worship and to sacrifice unto Yahweh of hosts, in Shiloh,—and, there, were the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, priests unto Yahweh. ⁴And, when the day came for Elkanah to sacrifice, he used to give, to Peninnah his wife, and to all her sons and her daughters, portions; ⁵and, unto Hannah, used he to give one portion,—howbeit, Hannah, he loved, although, Yahweh, had restrained her from having children. ⁶And her rival used even to cause her great vexation, for the sake of provoking her,—because Yahweh had restrained her from having children. ⁷And, thus, used she to do, year by year, whenever she went up to the house of Yahweh, thus, used she to vex her,—and she wept, and would not eat. ⁸So Elkanah her husband said to her—Hannah! wherefore shouldst thou weep? and wherefore wilt thou not eat? and wherefore should thy heart be sad? Am, I, not better to thee, than ten sons? ⁹And Hannah rose up, after she had eaten in Shiloh, and after she had drunk,—and, Eli the priest, was sitting upon his chair, by the door-post of the temple of Yahweh; ¹⁰and, she being in bitterness of soul, prayed unto Yahweh, and, wept sore. ¹¹And she vowed a vow, and said—Yahweh of hosts! If thou wilt, look, upon the humiliation of thy handmaid, and remember me, and not forget thy handmaid, but wilt give unto thy handmaid a man-child, then will I give him unto Yahweh, all the days of his life, and no, razor, shall come upon his head. ¹²And so it was, as she continued praying before Yahweh, that Eli was watching her mouth. ¹³But as for, Hannah, she, was speaking in her heart, only her lips, were moving, but, her voice, could not be heard,—so Eli thought she had been drunken. ¹⁴And Eli said unto her, How long, wilt thou be, drunken? Put away thy wine from thee. ¹⁵And Hannah responded and said—Nay! my lord; A woman depressed in spirit, am I: neither wine nor strong drink, have I drunk,—but I poured out my soul, before Yahweh. ¹⁶Do not count thy handmaid for an abandoned woman,—for, out of the abundance of my grief and my vexation, have I spoken, hitherto. ¹⁷Then responded Eli, and said—Go and prosper! And the, God of Israel, grant thy petition which thou hast asked of him! ¹⁸And she said: Let thy serving-woman find favour, in thine eyes. So the woman went her way, and did eat, and, her countenance, was sad no longer. ¹⁹And they rose up early in the morning, and worshipped before Yahweh, and returned, and entered their own house, in Ramah,—and Elkanah knew Hannah his wife, and Yahweh remembered her. ²⁰And so it was, when the days had come round during which Hannah was with child, that she bare a son,—and called his name Samuel, Because, of Yahweh, I asked him. ²¹And the man Elkanah, and all his house, went up, to offer unto Yahweh the yearly sacrifice, and each his own vow. ²²But, Hannah, went not up,—for she said to her husband— Not till the boy is weaned, then will I take him, and he shall appear before Yahweh, and abide there evermore. ²³And Elkanah her husband said to her—Do what is good in thine own eyes, tarry until thou have weaned him, only may Yahweh establish his word! So the woman tarried, and nursed her son, until she weaned him. ²⁴Then took she him up with her, when she had weaned him, with a bullock of three years old, and one ephah of meal, and a skin of wine, and took him to the house of Yahweh, at Shiloh,—the boy yet being young. ²⁵So they slew the bullock,—and took the boy in, unto Eli. ²⁶And she said—Pardon, my lord! By the life of thy soul, my lord,—I, am the woman who was standing near thee here, praying unto Yahweh: ²⁷For this boy, I prayed,—And Yahweh hath given me my petition which I asked of him. ²⁸Hence, I also, have loaned him unto Yahweh, all the days that he liveth. He, is lent unto Yahweh. And he bowed down there, unto Yahweh.

²Then prayed Hannah, and said, My heart hath leaped for joy in Yahweh, My horn is exalted in Yahweh, My mouth is opened wide, o'er my foes, Because I rejoice in thy salvation. ²There is none holy like Yahweh, Nay! there, is none, except Thee, Nor, is, there a rock, like our God. ³Do not multiply words, so loftily—loftily, Nor let arrogance proceed from your mouth,—For, a GOD of knowledge, is Yahweh, And, for himself, are great doings made firm.

⁴The bow of the mighty, is dismayed,—While, the fainting, are girded with strength; ⁵The sated, have, for bread, taken hire, But, the famished, have left off their toil,—So that, the barren, hath given birth unto seven, While, she that hath many sons, languisheth: ⁶Yahweh, doth kill, and make alive,—Taketh down to hades, and bringeth up: ⁷Yahweh, maketh poor, and enricheth,—Layeth low, yea exalteth; ⁸Raiseth, from the dust, the poor, From the dunghill, uplifteth the needy, To give them a dwelling with nobles, And, a throne of glory, to make them inherit. For, to Yahweh, belong the pillars of the earth, And he setteth thereon the habitable world. ⁹The feet of his loving ones, he doth guard, But, the lawless, in darkness shall be silent,—For, by strength, shall no man prevail. ¹⁰As for Yahweh,—they shall be shattered who contend with him, Over him, in the heavens will he thunder, Yahweh, will judge the ends of the earth,—That he may give strength to his King, And exalt the horn of his Anointed One. ¹¹Then went Elkanah to Ramah, unto his own house,—but, the boy, remained ministering unto Yahweh, before Eli the priest. ¹²Now, the sons of Eli, were abandoned men,—they knew not Yahweh. ¹³And, the custom of the priests with the people, was—when any man offered a sacrifice, then would come the priests young man, as the flesh was boiling, with a three-pronged fork in his hand; ¹⁴and would strike it into the boiler, or into the trough, or into the kettle, or into the pot, all that the fork would bring up, the priest took for himself. Thus and thus, used they to do unto all Israel, who came thither, in Shiloh. ¹⁵Also, before any could make perfume with the fat, the priests young man would come in and say to the person who was sacrificing, Come! give flesh for the priest's roastings,—for he will not take of thee boiled flesh—only raw. ¹⁶And, if the man said to him, Let them at least, make incense, at once with the fat, then take thou as much as thy soul craveth, Then said he to him, But, at once, shalt thou give it; or else, I will take it by force. ¹⁷And so it was, that, the sin of the young men, was exceeding great, before Yahweh,—for men scorned the offerings of Yahweh. ¹⁸But, as for Samuel, he was ministering before Yahweh,—a boy girded with an ephod of linen. ¹⁹Also, a little robe, used his mother to make for him, and bring it up to him, from year to year,—when she came up with her husband, to offer the sacrifice of the year. ²⁰And Eli used to bless Elkanah and his wife, and to say—Yahweh give thee seed of this woman, instead of the loan that hath been lent unto Yahweh. So they went their way to his own place. ²¹And Yahweh visited Hannah, and she conceived, and bare three sons, and two daughters. Thus did the boy Samuel grow up with Yahweh. ²²Now, Eli, was very old,—but he used to hear all that his sons did unto all Israel, and how they even lay with the women who did service, at the opening of the tent of meeting. ²³So he said to them, Wherefore should ye do such things as these? for I keep hearing of your wicked

doings, from all these people. ²⁴Nay, my sons! for it is no good report that I do hear: leading into transgression the people of Yahweh. ²⁵If one man sin against another, God will interpose, but, if, against Yahweh, a man sin, who will intercede, for him? But they hearkened not unto the voice of their father, for Yahweh was pleased to put them to death. ²⁶But, the boy Samuel, went on growing in stature, and in favour,—both with Yahweh, and also with men. ²⁷And there came a man of God, unto Eli,—and said unto him—Thus, saith Yahweh, I, did indeed reveal myself, unto the house of thy father, when they were in Egypt, as servants unto the house of Pharaoh; ²⁸choosing him out of all the tribes of Israel unto myself, to minister as priest, to offer upon mine altar, to perfume with incense to bear an ephod before me,—Therefore gave I unto the house of thy father all the altar-flames of the sons of Israel. ²⁹Wherefore have ye been kicking at my sacrifices, and my presents, which I commanded, to serve for a home,—and shouldest have honoured thy sons more than me: fattening yourselves, with the first of every present of Israel, before me? ³⁰Hence, the oracle of Yahweh God of Israel, I, said, that, thy house, and the house of thy father, should go to and fro in my presence, unto times age-abiding: But, now, (is the oracle of Yahweh)—Be it far from me! For, them who honour me, will I honour, but, they who despise me, shall be lightly esteemed. ³¹Lo! days are coming, when I will hew off thine arm, and the arm of the house of thy father,—that there shall be no elder in thy house; ³²But thou shalt descry distress at home, in all that shall gladden Israel,—and there shall not be an elder in thine own house, all the days. ³³But, any man of thine whom I may not cut off from mine altar, it shall be—to consume his eyes, and grieve his soul; Howbeit, all the multitude of thy house, shall die, by the sword of men. ³⁴And, this, for thee is the sign, which shall come upon thy two sons, upon Hophni and Phinehas,—In one day, shall they, both of them, die; ³⁵And I will raise me up a faithful priest, According to that which is in my heart and in my soul, will he do; Therefore will I build for him an assured house, and he shall go to and fro in presence of mine Anointed, all the days. ³⁶And it shall be, that, any that is left in thy house, shall come bowing down to him for a small coin of silver, and for a cake of bread, and shall say: Appoint me, I pray thee, to one of the priestly offices, that I may eat a morsel of bread.

3Now, the boy Samuel, was ministering unto Yahweh, before Eli,—and, the word of Yahweh, had become rare in those days, there was no well-known vision. ²But it came to pass, at that time, when Eli was lying down in his place, his eyes, having begun to be dim, he could not see, ³though, the lamp of God, was not yet to be put out, and, Samuel, was lying down in the temple of Yahweh, where was the ark of God, ⁴that Yahweh called unto Samuel, and he said—Behold me! ⁵So he ran unto Eli and said—Behold me! for thou calledst me. And he said—I called not, return—Its down. So he went, and lie down. ⁶And again Yahweh called once there—Samuel! Then rose Samuel, and went unto Eli, and said—Behold me! for thou calledst me. And he said—I called not, my son, return—lie down. ⁷Now, Samuel, as yet knew not Yahweh,—nor, as yet, had been revealed unto him, the word of Yahweh. ⁸And again Yahweh called—Samuel! a third time. Then he arose, and went unto Eli, and said—Behold me! for thou calledst me. Then did Eli perceive, that, Yahweh, was calling the boy. ⁹So Eli said to Samuel—Go, lie down, and it shall be, if he call unto thee, that thou shalt say—Speak, Yahweh, for thy servant is listening. And Samuel went, and lay down in his place. ¹⁰Then came Yahweh, and stood, and called as time after time—Samuel! Samuel! And Samuel said, Speak, for thy servant is listening. ¹¹And Yahweh said unto Samuel, Lo! I am doing a thing, in Israel,—at which both ears of everyone that heareth it shall tingle. ¹²In that day, will I confirm against Eli, all that I have spoken against his house,—beginning and finishing. ¹³Therefore do I tell him, that I am about to judge his house unto times age-abiding, for the iniquity which he knoweth, in that his sons are cursing God, and he hath not rebuked them. ¹⁴And therefore have I sworn, respecting the house of Eli,—that the iniquity of the house of Eli shall receive no propitiatory-covering, by sacrifice or by present, unto times age-abiding. ¹⁵And Samuel lay until the morning, and rose early in the morning, and opened the doors of the house of Yahweh,—but, Samuel, feared to tell the appearing, unto Eli. ¹⁶So Eli called Samuel, and said—Samuel! my son. And he said—Behold me! ¹⁷And he said—What is the word, which he spake unto thee? I pray thee, do not hide it from me. So, let God do to thee, and, so, let him add, if thou hide from me a word, out of anything which he hath spoken unto thee. ¹⁸So Samuel told him all the words, and hid nothing from him. And he said, Yahweh, he is; what is good in his own eyes, let him do. ¹⁹And Samuel grew,—and, Yahweh, proved to he with him, and let none of all his words fall to the ground. ²⁰So all Israel, from Dan even to Beersheba, came to know,—that Samuel had become confirmed as a prophet unto Yahweh. ²¹Thus did Yahweh again appear in Shiloh,—for Yahweh had revealed himself unto Samuel in Shiloh, in the word of Yahweh.

⁴And so it was, when the word of Samuel had reached all Israel, that Israel went forth to meet the Philistines in battle, and they encamped near Eben-ezer, while, the Philistines, encamped in Aphek. ²And the Philistines set themselves in array to meet Israel, and, when the battle spread, then was Israel smitten before the Philistines,—and there were slain of the army in the field about four thousand men. ³And, when the people came into the camp, the elders of Israel said, Wherefore hath Yahweh smitten us to-day, before the Philistines? Let us fetch unto us, out of Shiloh, the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, that, when it cometh into our midst, it may save us out of the hand of our enemies. ⁴So the people sent to Shiloh, and bare from thence the ark of the covenant of Yahweh of hosts, who inhabiteth the cherubim,—and, there, were the two sons of Eli, with the ark of the covenant of God, namely, Hophni and Phinehas. ⁵And so it was, when the ark of the covenant of Yahweh came into the camp, that all Israel brake out into a loud shout of joy,—so that the earth rang again. ⁶And, when the Philistines heard the noise of the shout, they said—What meaneth the noise of this loud shout of joy in the camp of the Hebrews? And they learned that, the ark of Yahweh, had come into the camp. ⁷And the Philistines were afraid, for they said—God hath come into the camp. And they said—Woe to us! for there hath not happened the like of this, heretofore. ⁸Woe to us! Who shall rescue us out of the hand of these majestic gods? These, are the gods, who smote the Egyptians with all manner of smiting in the desert! ⁹Take courage, and quit yourselves like men, ye Philistines, lest ye come into bondage to the Hebrews, as they have been in bondage unto you,—therefore must ye quit yourselves like men, and fight. ¹⁰So the Philistines fought, and Israel was smitten, and they fled every man to his home; and the slaughter became exceeding great,—and there fell of Israel—thirty thousand footmen. ¹¹And, the ark of God, was taken,—and, the two sons of Eli, were slain, Hophni and Phinehas. ¹²And there ran a man of Benjamin out of the army, and entered Shiloh on the same day,—with his clothes rent, and with earth upon his head. ¹³And, when he entered, lo! Eli was sitting upon his chair, by the way-side, watching, for his heart was trembling for the ark of God,—and, the man, entered to tell the news in the city, and all the city made outcry. ¹⁴And, when Eli heard the noise of the outcry, he said—What meaneth the noise of this tumult? And, the man, hastened, and came, and told Eli. ¹⁵Now, Eli, was ninety-eight years old; and his eyes were fixed, that he could not see. ¹⁶So the man said unto Eli, I, am he that came in from the army, yea, I, from the army, fled to-day. And he said—What is the thing that hath happened, my son? ¹⁷And the bearer of tidings answered, and said—Israel hath fled before the Philistines, Moreover also, a great smiting, hath taken place among the people,—Moreover also, thy two sons, are slain, Hophni and Phinehas, And, the ark of God, is taken. ¹⁸And it came to pass, when he mentioned the ark of God, that he fell from off his seat backwards, at the side of the gate, and his neck brake, and he died, for, old, was the man, and, heavy,—and, he had judged Israel forty years. ¹⁹Now, his daughter-in-law, wife of Phinehas, was with child, ready to give birth, and, when she heard the tidings, as to the taking of the ark of God, and the death of her father-in-law, and her husband, she bowed herself and gave birth, for her pains had seized her. ²⁰And, about the time of her death, the women that stood by her said: Do not fear, for, to a son, hast thou given birth. But she neither answered nor regarded. ²¹And she called the boy I-chabod! saying, Exiled is the glory from Israel,—In regard to the taking of the ark of God, and to her father-in-law, and to her husband. ²²So she said—Exiled is the glory from Israel,—For the ark of God hath been taken.

⁵Now, the Philistines, having taken the ark of God,—brought it in from Eben-ezer, unto Ashdod. ²And, when the Philistines took the ark of God, they brought it into the house of Dagon,—and placed it by the side of Dagon. ³And, when they of Ashdod rose early on the morrow and entered into the house of Dagon, they looked and lo! Dagon, was lying prostrate on his face to the earth, before the ark of Yahweh,—so they took Dagon and restored him to his place. ⁴And, when they rose up early in the morning of the morrow, lo! Dagon, was lying prostrate on his face to the earth, before the ark of Yahweh—and, the head of Dagon, and both the palms of his hands, had been cut off against the threshold, only, Dagon himself, was left to him. ⁵For this cause, do not the priests of Dagon, nor any that enter into the house of Dagon, tread upon the threshold of Dagon, in Ashdod,—until this day. ⁶Then was the hand of Yahweh heavy against them of Ashdod, and he astounded them,—and smote with tumours Ashdod and her bounds. ⁷And, when the men of Ashdod saw that, so, it was, then kept they saying, Let not the ark of the God of Israel abide with us, for, hard, is his hand upon us, and upon Dagon our god. ⁸So they sent and gathered together all the lords of the Philistines unto them, and said—What shall we do with the ark of the God of Israel? And they said: To Gath, let the ark of the God of Israel go round. So they took round the ark of the God of Israel. ⁹And so it was, after they had taken it round, then was the hand of Yahweh against the city, with an exceeding great consternation, and he smote the men of the city, from the least, even unto the greatest,—and they brake out with tumours. ¹⁰Then sent they the ark of God to Ekron,—and so it was, when the ark of God entered Ekron, that the Ekronites made outcry, saying—They have brought round unto me the ark of the God of Israel, to slay me, and my people! ¹¹So they sent and gathered together all the lords of the Philistines, and said—Send away the ark of the God of Israel, and restore it to its own place, that it slay not me, and my people. For there had come a deadly consternation, throughout all the city, heavy exceedingly, was the hand of God there. ¹²And, the men who died not, were smitten with the tumours,—so the cry of the city for help, ascended the heavens.

⁶And it came to pass, that the ark of Yahweh was in the country of the Philistines, seven months. ²Then called the Philistines for the priests and for the diviners, saying, What shall we do with the ark of Yahweh? Let us know, wherewith we shall send it to its own place. ³And they said—If ye are going to send away the ark of the God of Israel, do not send it away, empty, but ye must, surely return, to him, a guilt-offering,—then, shall ye be healed, and it shall be known to you, wherefore his hand would not turn away from you. ⁴And they said—What shall be the guilt-offering, that we shall return to him? And they said—By the number of the lords of the Philistines, five tumours of gold, and five mice of gold,—for, one plague, was on you all, and on your lords. ⁵Wherefore ye shall make likenesses of your turnouts, and likenesses of your mice that are laying waste the land, and shall, give unto the, God of Israel, glory,—Peradventure he will lighten his hand from off you, and from off your god, and from off your land. ⁶Wherefore, then, should ye make your heart dull, as the Egyptians and Pharaoh made their heart dull! When he had done his great doings upon them, did they not let them go, and they departed? ⁷Now, therefore, take and get ready, one new waggon, and two milch kine, whereon hath never come yoke,—then shall ye fasten the kine in the waggon, and withdraw their calves from them, into the shed; ⁸and ye shall take the ark of Yahweh, and place it in the waggon, also, the jewels of gold which ye send back to him as a guilt-offering, shall ye put into a coffer, at the side thereof,—so shall ye let it go, and it shall depart. ⁹Then shall ye look—if, by the way of its own boundary, it goeth up to Beth-shemesh, he, it was who caused us this great affliction,—but, if not, then shall we know that it was not, his hand, that smote us, a chance, it was, that befell us. ¹⁰The men, therefore, did so, and took two milch kine, and fastened them in the waggon,—but, their calves, shut they up in the shed. ¹¹And they put the ark of Yahweh, into the waggon,—also the coffer, with the mice of gold, and the likenesses of their tumours. ¹²And the kine went straight along the road, on the way to Beth-shemesh, yea, along the main highway, they went, lowing as they went, turning not aside, to the right hand or to the left. And, the lords of the Philistines, went along after them, as far as the bounds of Beth-shemesh. ¹³Now, they of Beth-shemesh, were reaping their wheat-harvest in the vale,—so they lifted up their eyes, and saw the ark, and rejoiced to meet it. ¹⁴And, the waggon, entered into the field of Joshua, a man of Beth-shemesh, and stood still, there, where also, was a great stone,—so they clave into pieces the planks of the waggon, and, the kine, offered they up as an ascending-sacrifice, unto Yahweh. ¹⁵And, the Levites, took down the ark of Yahweh, and the coffer that was with it, wherein were the jewels of gold, and put them upon the great stone,—and, the men of Beth-shemesh, caused to go up ascending-offerings and offered sacrifices, that day, unto Yahweh. ¹⁶And, the five lords of the Philistines, saw it,—and returned unto Ekron, the same day. ¹⁷Now, these, are the golden boils which, the Philistines returned as a guilt-offering unto Yahweh,—For Ashdod, one, for Gaza, one, for Ashkelon, one, for Gath, one, for Ekron, one; ¹⁸And the golden mice, by the number of all the cities of the Philistines, pertaining to the five lords, both fortified cities, and country villages,—yea, even the great meadow whereon they rested the ark of Yahweh, until this day, is in the field-land of Joshua, the man of Beth-shemesh. ¹⁹And, when he smote the men of Beth-shemesh, because they looked into the ark of Yahweh, yea smote of the people seventy men and fifty thousand men, the people mourned, for that Yahweh had smitten the people with a great smiting. ²⁰Then said the men of Beth-shemesh, Who is able to stand before Yahweh, this holy God? and, unto whom, shall he go up from us? ²¹And they sent messengers unto the inhabitants of Kiriath-jearim, saying,—The Philistines have returned the ark of Yahweh, come down, fetch it up unto you.

⁷Then came the men of Kiriath-jearim and fetched up the ark of Yahweh, and brought it into the house of Abinadab, in the hill,—and, Eleazar his son, hallowed they, to guard the ark of Yahweh. ²And so it was, that, from the day the ark came to dwell in Kiriath-jearim, the days multiplied, and became twenty years,—and all the house of Israel went mourning after Yahweh. ³And Samuel spake unto all the house of Israel, saying, If, with all your heart, ye are returning unto Yahweh, then put away the gods of the foreigner out of your midst, and the Ashtoreths—and firmly set your heart towards Yahweh, and serve him, alone, that he may deliver you out of the hand of the Philistines. ⁴So the sons of Israel put away the Baals, and the Ashtoreths,—and served Yahweh, alone. ⁵And Samuel said, Gather all Israel unto Mizpah,—that I may pray for you, unto Yahweh. ⁶So they gathered themselves unto Mizpah, and drew water, and poured it out before Yahweh, and fasted on that day, and said, there, We have sinned against Yahweh. And Samuel judged the sons of Israel in Mizpah. ⁷And, when the Philistines heard that the sons of Israel had gathered themselves together unto Mizpah, the lords of the Philistines went up against Israel,—and, when the sons of Israel heard it, they shrank with fear, from the face of the Philistines. ⁸And the sons of Israel said unto Samuel, Do not turn in silence from us, from making outcry unto Yahweh our God,—that he would save us out of the hand of the Philistines. ⁹So Samuel took one sucking lamb, and offered it up, as an entire ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh,—and Samuel made outcry unto Yahweh, for Israel, and Yahweh answered him. ¹⁰And, when Samuel was offering up the ascending-sacrifice, the Philistines, drew near to fight against Israel,—but Yahweh thundered with a great noise throughout that day, over the Philistines, and confused them, and they were smitten before Israel. ¹¹And the men of Israel went forth out of Mizpah, and pursued the Philistines,—and smote them as far as under Beth-car. ¹²And Samuel took a certain stone, and set it between Mizpah and Yeshanah, and called the name thereof Eben-ezer,—and said, Hitherto, hath Yahweh helped us. ¹³So the Philistines were subdued, and, no more, came within the boundary of Israel,—and the hand of Yahweh was against the Philistines, all the days of Samuel. ¹⁴And the cities which the Philistines had taken from Israel were restored to Israel, from Ekron even as far as Gath; even the boundaries thereof, did Israel rescue out of the hand of the Philistines,—thus came there to be peace between Israel and the Amorites. ¹⁵And Samuel judged Israel, all the days of his life. ¹⁶And he used to take his journey, from year to year, and go round to Bethel, and Gilgal, and Mizpah,—and used to judge Israel, at all these places. ¹⁷And, his returning, was to Ramah, for, there, was his house, and, there, judged he Israel,—so he built there an altar unto Yahweh.

⁸And it came to pass, when Samuel was old, that he appointed his sons judges to Israel; ²and the name of his firstborn son was, Joel, and the name of his second, Abijah,—they were judges in Beer-sheba. ³Howbeit his sons walked not in his ways, but stooped to extortion,—and took bribes, and perverted judgment. ⁴So then all the elders of Israel gathered themselves together,—and came unto Samuel, to Ramah; ⁵and said unto him—Lo! thou, art old, and, thy sons, walk not in thy ways: Now, appoint for us a king to judge us, like all the nations. ⁶But the thing was displeasing in the eyes of Samuel, when they said, Give unto us a king to judge us. So Samuel prayed unto Yahweh. ⁷And Yahweh said unto Samuel, Harken unto the voice of the people, in all that they shall say unto thee,—for, not thee, have they rejected, but, me, have they rejected, from being king over them. ⁸According to all the doings which they have done, from the day I brought them up out of Egypt, even until this day, in that they have forsaken me, and served other gods, so, are they doing even unto thee. ⁹Now, therefore, hearken to their voice,—save that thou, enter protest, against them, and tell them the manner of the king who will reign over them. ¹⁰So then Samuel spake all the words of Yahweh unto the people, who were asking of him, a king. ¹¹And he said, This, will be the manner of the king who will reign over you,—Your sons, will he take and appoint for himself, as his charioteers and as his horsemen, and they shall run before his chariots; ¹²and he will appoint for himself, princes of thousands, and princes of fifties,—and to plough his fields, and to reap his harvest, and to make his weapons of war, and the instruments of his chariots; ¹³And, your daughters, will he take,—as perfumers and as cooks, and as bakers; ¹⁴And, your fields, and your vineyards, and your oliveyards, the best of them, will he take, and give to his servants; ¹⁵And, your seed, and your vineyards, will he tithe, and give to his courtiers and to his servants; ¹⁶And, your men-servants, and your maidservants, and your oxen, even the goodliest, and your asses, will he take,—and put them to his work; ¹⁷Your flocks, will he tithe,—and, ye yourselves, shall become his servants. ¹⁸Then will ye make outcry, in that day, because of your king whom ye have chosen for yourselves,—and Yahweh will not answer you, in that day. ¹⁹But the people refused to hearken unto the voice of Samuel,—and they said—Nay! but, a king, shall be over us: ²⁰so shall, even we, become like all the nations,—and our king shall judge us, and go forth before us, and fight our battles. ²¹And Samuel heard all the words of the people,—and spake them in the ears of Yahweh. ²²And Yahweh said unto Samuel, Hearken unto their voice, and make them a king. And Samuel said unto the men of Israel: Go ye, every man to his own city.

⁹Now there was a man of Benjamin, whose name, was Kish—son of Abiel, son of Zeror, son of Becorath, son of Aphiah, son of a Benjamite,—a mighty man of valour; ²and, he, had a son, whose name, was Saul, a choice young man and of noble appearance, and there was not a man of the sons of Israel, more noble than he,—from his shoulders and upwards, was he taller than any of the people. ³Now there had gone astray asses belonging to Kish, Saul's father,—so Kish said unto Saul his son—I pray thee, take with thee one of the young men, and arise—go, seek the asses. ⁴And he passed through the hill country of Ephraim, and passed through the land of Shalishah, but they found them not,—then passed they through the land of Shaalim, and they were not there, then passed he through the land of the Benjamites, but they found them not. ⁵They, had come into the land of Zuph when, Saul, said to his young man who was with him, Come! and let us return; lest my father leave off caring for the asses, and be concerned for us. ⁶And he said to him: Lo! I pray thee, a man of God, liveth in this city, and, the man, is held in honour, all that he saith, surely cometh to pass. Now, let us go thither; peradventure he may tell us our way, whereon we should have gone. ⁷Then said Saul to his young man: Behold, if we go, what shall we bring the man, for, the bread, hath failed from our sacks, and, present, there is none to bring to the man of God,—what is there with us? ⁸And the young man again answered Saul, and said—Lo! there is found in my hand, the fourth part of a shekel of silver,—which thou canst give to the man of God, and he will tell us our way. ⁹Beforetime, in Israel, thus, said a man when he went to enquire of God, Come and let us go as far as the seer,—for, the prophet of to-day, used to be called, beforetime, the seer. ¹⁰And Saul said unto his young man, Good, is thy word, come! let us go! So they went unto the city, where the man of God was. ¹¹They were going up the ascent of the city, when they found young women, coming out to draw water,—so they said unto these, Is, the seer, in this place? ¹²And the young women answered them and said: He is, lo! before you now, even as, to-day, hath he entered the city, for the people have a sacrifice, to-day, in the high place. ¹³As ye enter the city, so, shall ye surely find him, ere yet he shall go up to the high place to eat, for the people will not eat until he hath come, for, he, doth bless the sacrifice, after that, will they eat who have been bidden. Now, therefore, go up, for, about this very time, shall ye surely find him. ¹⁴So they went up into the city. As they were entering into the midst of the city, lo! Samuel, coming out over against them, to ascend the high place. ¹⁵Now, Yahweh, had unveiled the ear of Samuel,—one day before Saul came, saying: ¹⁶About this time to-morrow, will I send unto thee, a man out of the land of Benjamin, whom thou shalt anoint, to be leader over my people Israel, and he shall save my people, out of the hand of the Philistines,—for I have looked upon the oppression, because their outcry hath come in unto me. ¹⁷And, when, Samuel, beheld Saul, Yahweh, answered him, Lo! the man, of whom I said unto thee, Here, is one shall control my people. ¹⁸And Saul drew near unto Samuel, in the midst of the gate,—and said—I pray thee, do tell me, where is the house of the seer? ¹⁹And Samuel answered Saul, and said—I, am, the seer! Go up before me, to the high place, so shall ye eat with me, to-day,—and I will let thee go in the morning, and, all that is in thy heart, will I tell thee. ²⁰And, as for the asses that went astray from thee three days ago, do not regard them, for they are found,—but to whom belongeth all that is desirable in Israel? is it not to thee, and to all the house of thy father? ²¹Then answered Saul, and said—Am not I, a man of Benjamin, of the smallest of the tribes of Israel, and is not, my family, the poorest of all the families of the tribe of Benjamin? Wherefore, then, hast thou spoken unto me of such a thing as this? ²²And Samuel took Saul and his young man, and brought them into the guest-chamber,—and gave them a place at the head of them who were bidden, they being about thirty persons. ²³And Samuel said to the cook, Set on the portion that I gave thee,—of which I said unto thee, Put it by thee. ²⁴And the cook took up the shoulder, and that which was upon it, and placed it before Saul, and said—Lo! the part reserved! Set it before thee and eat, for, unto the time appointed, hath it been kept for thee, since the time that I said, The people, have I bidden. So Saul did eat with Samuel, on that day. ²⁵And, when they had come down from the high place into the city, he spread a couch for Saul upon the house-top, and he lay down. ²⁶And it came to pass, at the uprisings of the dawn, that Samuel called unto Saul on the house-top, saying, Arise! that I may send thee away. So Saul arose, and they two, he and Samuel, went forth abroad. ²⁷As they were going down the end of the city, Samuel, said unto Saul—Bid the young man, that he pass on before us, (and he passed on) but, thou, stand still where thou art, that I may let time hear the word of God.

10Then took Samuel a flask of oil, and poured out upon his head, and kissed him,—and said—Is it not, that Yahweh hath anointed thee over his inheritance, as leader? ²When thou departest, to-day, from me, then shalt thou find two men by the grave of Rachel, within the boundary of Benjamin, in Zelzah,—and they will say unto thee, The asses are found, which thou wentest to seek, and lo! thy father hath abandoned caring for the asses, and is concerned for you, saying, What shall I do for my son? ³Then shalt thou pass on quickly from thence onwards, and come as far as the oak of Tabor, and there shalt find thee there, three men going up unto God, at Bethel,—one, carrying three kids, and, another, carrying three cakes of bread, and, another, carrying a skin of wine; ⁴then will they ask thee, of thy welfare,—and give thee two cakes of bread, which thou shalt receive at their hand. ⁵After that, shalt thou come unto the hill of God, where is the garrison of the Philistines,—and it shall be, as thou comest in thither into the city, thou shalt light upon a band of prophets, coming down from the high place, and, before them, a harp, and a timbrel, and a flute, and a lyre, they having been moved to prophesy. ⁶Then will come suddenly upon thee, the Spirit of Yahweh, and thou shalt be moved to prophesy with them,—and shalt be changed into another man. ⁷And it shall be, when these signs shall come unto thee, then act thou for thyself, as thou shalt find occasion, for, God, is with thee. ⁸And thou shalt go down before me to Gilgal, for lo! I am coming down unto thee, to offer up ascending-offerings, to sacrifice peace-offerings,—seven days, shalt thou tarry, until I come unto thee, then will I let thee know what thou shalt do. ⁹And so it was, that, when he turned away to depart from Samuel, God gave him another heart,—and all these signs came to pass that day. ¹⁰And, when they came thither to the hill, lo! a band of prophets coming to meet him,—then came suddenly upon him, the Spirit of God, and he was moved to prophesy in their midst. ¹¹And it came to pass, that, all who knew him aforetime, looked, and lo! with the prophets, he did prophesy. So the people said, one to another—What, now, hath befallen the son of Kish? Is, even Saul, among the prophets? ¹²Then responded one of that place, and said, But who is, their father? For this cause, it became a proverb, Is, even Saul, among the prophets? ¹³And, when he had made an end of prophesying, he came to the high place. ¹⁴Then said Saul's uncle unto him, and unto his young man—Whither have ye been? And he said, To seek the asses, and, when they were nowhere, to be seen, we came unto Samuel. ¹⁵And Saul's uncle said,—Do tell me, I pray thee, what Samuel said to you. ¹⁶And Saul said unto his uncle, He, told, us that the asses were found,—but, as to the matter of the kingdom, he told him not what Samuel had said. ¹⁷Then Samuel called out the people, unto Yahweh, at Mizpah, ¹⁸and said unto the sons of Israel—Thus, saith Yahweh, God of Israel: I myself, brought up Israel, out of Egypt,—and rescued you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of all the kingdoms that distressed you. ¹⁹Yet, ye, to-day, have rejected your God, who, himself, hath been giving you salvation from all your calamities and your distresses, and ye have said to him: A king, shalt thou set over us,—Now, therefore, present yourselves before Yahweh, by your tribes, and by your thousands. ²⁰And, when Samuel had brought near all the tribes of Israel, then was taken the tribe of Benjamin. ²¹And, when he had brought near the tribe of Benjamin, by their families, then was taken the family of Matri,—and, when he had brought near the family of Matri, man by man, then was taken Saul the son of Kish; so they sought him, but he was not to be found. ²²Then asked they again of Yahweh, Hath there yet to come in hither a man? And Yahweh said, Lo! he, hath hid himself among the stores. ²³So they ran, and fetched him thence, and, when he presented himself in the midst of the people, then was he seen to be taller than any of the people, from his shoulders and upwards. ²⁴And Samuel said unto all the people—Have ye seen him whom Yahweh hath chosen, that there is none like him, among all the people? And all the people shouted, and said—Let the king live! ²⁵Then Samuel declared unto the people the manner of the kingdom, and wrote it in a scroll, and laid it up before Yahweh. And Samuel sent away all the people, every man to his own house. ²⁶Yea, even Saul, went to his own house, at Gibeah,—and the valiant men whose heart God had moved went with him. ²⁷But, abandoned men, said—How can this one save us? So they treated him with contempt, and brought him no present,—but he was as one that was deaf.

11Then came up Nahash the Ammonite, and encamped against Jabesh-gilead,—and all the man of Jabesh said unto Nahash, Solemnise with us a covenant, that we may serve thee. ²And Nahash the Ammonite said unto them, Hereby, will I solemnise a covenant with you by digging out for you, every one's right eye,—and laying it for a reproach, upon all Israel. ³And the elders of Jabesh said unto him—Give us a respite of seven days, that we may send messengers throughout all the bounds of Israel,—and then, if there is none to save us, we will come out unto thee. ⁴And, when the messengers came to Gibeah of Saul, and spake the words in the ears of the people, all the people lifted up their voice, and wept. ⁵But lo! Saul, came in, following the oxen, out of the field, and Saul said, What aileth the people, that they should weep? Then were recounted to him the words of the men of Jabesh. ⁶And the Spirit of God came suddenly upon Saul, when he heard these words,—and his anger raged furiously. ⁷So he took a yoke of oxen, and cut them in pieces, and sent throughout all the bounds of Israel by the hand of messengers—saying, Whosoever cometh not forth after Saul, and after Samuel, so, shall it be done unto his oxen. Then felt the dread of Yahweh, upon the people, and they came forth, as one man. ⁸And, when he numbered them in Bezek, the sons of Israel were found to be—three hundred thousand, and the men of Judah thirty thousand. ⁹So they said unto the messengers who had come—Thus, shall ye surely say to the men of Jabesh-gilead, To-morrow, shall ye have deliverance, about the time the sun is hot. And, when the messengers came and told the men of Jabesh, they rejoiced. ¹⁰So the men of Jabesh said, To-morrow, will we come out unto you,—Then shall ye do with us, according to all that is good in your eyes. ¹¹And it came to pass on the morrow, that Saul set the people in three companies, and they entered into the midst of the host, during the morning watch, and smote Ammon until the day was hot. And it came to pass that, they who were left, were scattered, so that there were not left among them, two together. ¹²Then said the people unto Samuel, Who is he that was saying, Shall, Saul, reign over us? Give up the men, that we may put them to death. ¹³But Saul said, There shall not be put to death a man, this day,—for, to-day, hath Yahweh wrought deliverance in Israel. ¹⁴Then said Samuel unto the people, Come and let us go to Gilgal,—and let us there renew the kingdom. ¹⁵So all the people went to Gilgal, and made Saul king there, before Yahweh, in Gilgal, and offered there sacrifices of peace-offerings before Yahweh,—and Saul and all the men of Israel rejoiced there, exceedingly.

12And Samuel said unto all Israel, Lo! I have hearkened unto your voice, in all that ye said to me,—and have set over you a king. ²Now, therefore, lo! the king going to and fro before you, But, I, am old and grey-headed, and, my sons, lo! they are with you,—But, I, have gone to and fro before you from my youth until this day. ³Behold me! testify against me, before Yahweh, and before his Anointed—Whose, ox, have I taken? or whose, ass, have I taken? or whom have I oppressed? Whom have I crushed? or at whose, hands, have I taken a bribe, to cover up mine eyes therewith? and I will restore it unto you. ⁴And they said, Thou hast not oppressed us, neither hast thou crushed us,—neither hast thou taken, at the hand of any man, any thing. ⁵And he said unto them—Witness, is Yahweh against you, and, witness, is his Anointed, this day, that ye have not found in my hand, any thing! And they said: Witness! ⁶And Samuel said unto the people: Witness, is Yahweh, who wrought with Moses and with Aaron, and who brought up your fathers out of the land of Egypt. ⁷Now, therefore, take your stand and let me plead with you, before Yahweh,—and tell you all the righteous acts of Yahweh, which he wrought with you, and with your fathers: ⁸How that, when Jacob had come into Egypt,—and your fathers had made outcry unto Yahweh, then Yahweh sent Moses and Aaron, and they brought forth your fathers out of Egypt, and he caused them to dwell in this place; ⁹And, when they forgot Yahweh their God, he sold them into the hand of Sisera, prince of the host of Jabin, king of Hazor, and into the hand of the Philistines, and into the hand of the king of Moab, and they fought against them; ¹⁰But, when they made outcry unto Yahweh and said—We have sinned, in that we have forsaken Yahweh, and have served the Baals and the Ashtoreths,—now, therefore, deliver us out of the hand of our enemies, that we may serve thee, ¹¹then Yahweh sent Jerubbaal and Bedan, and Jephthah, and Samuel,—and delivered you out of the hand of your enemies, on every side, and ye dwelt in safety. ¹²But, when ye saw that, Nahash king of the sons of Ammon, came upon you, then said ye unto me, Nay! but, a king, shall reign over us, when, Yahweh your God, was your king! ¹³Now, therefore, lo! the king whom ye have chosen, for whom ye have asked,—lo! therefore, Yahweh hath set over you a king. ¹⁴If ye will revere Yahweh, and serve him, and hearken unto his voice, and not rebel against the bidding of Yahweh, then shall, both ye and your king that reigneth over you, continue to follow after Yahweh your God. ¹⁵But, if ye hearken not unto the voice of Yahweh, but rebel against the bidding of Yahweh, then will the hand of Yahweh continue to be against you, and against your fathers. ¹⁶Even now, stand still and see this great thing,—which Yahweh is about to do before your eyes: ¹⁷Is it not wheat harvest, to-day? I will cry unto Yahweh, that he may give forth thunderings and rain,—know ye then and see, that, your wrong, is great which ye have done in the sight of Yahweh, in asking for yourselves, a king. ¹⁸So Samuel cried unto Yahweh, and Yahweh gave forth thunderings and rain, on that day,—and all the people greatly feared Yahweh, and Samuel. ¹⁹And all the people said unto Samuel—Pray for thy servants, unto Yahweh thy God, and let it not be that we die,—For we have added, to all our sins, a wrong, in asking for ourselves a king. ²⁰Then said Samuel unto the people—Do not fear, ye, have done all this wrong,—nevertheless, do not turn aside from following Yahweh, but serve Yahweh, with all your heart; ²¹and turn not aside after vanities, that can neither profit nor deliver, because, vanities, they are. ²²For Yahweh will not give up his people, because of his great name, for Yahweh was minded to make you his people. ²³As for me also, far be it from me, that I should sin against Yahweh, by ceasing to pray for you,—but I will direct you, in the good and right way. ²⁴Only, revere Yahweh, and serve him in truth, with all your heart,—for see, what great things he hath done with you. ²⁵But, if ye, will do wrong, both ye and your king shall be swept away.

13Saul was thirty years old when he began to reign; and, when he had reigned two years over Israel, ²Saul chose him three thousand men out of Israel, of whom there were with Saul, two thousand in Michmash and in the hill-country of Bethel, and, a thousand, were with Jonathan, in Gibeah of Benjamin,—but, the rest of the people, he let go, every man to his own home. ³Then did Jonathan smite the garrison of Philistines that was in Geba, and the Philistines heard of it,—and, Saul, blew with a horn throughout all the land saying, Let the Hebrews hear! ⁴And, all Israel, heard say—Saul hath smitten the garrison of the Philistines, Moreover, also, Israel have made themselves odious among the Philistines,—so the people were called together to follow Saul, to Gilgal. ⁵And, the Philistines, gathered themselves together to fight with Israel, thirty thousand chariots, and six thousand horsemen, a people also like the sand that is on the sea-shore for multitude,—and they came up, and encamped in Michmash, east of Beth-aven. ⁶So, the men of Israel, saw they were in a strait, for the people had been harassed,—and the people had hidden themselves in caves, and in thickets, and among cliffs, and in holes, and in pits. ⁷And, Hebrews, had passed over the Jordan, to the land of Gad, and Gilead,—but, Saul, was yet in Gilgal, and all the people, trembled after him. ⁸And he waited seven days, by the set time that Samuel had named, but Samuel came not to Gilgal,—and the people were scattered from him. ⁹Then said Saul, Bring near unto me, the ascending-sacrifice and the peace-offerings. And he offered up the ascending-sacrifice. ¹⁰And it came to pass, as he had made an end of offering up the ascending-sacrifice, lo! Samuel, had come,—and Saul went out to meet him, that he might bless him. ¹¹Then said Samuel—What hast thou done? And Saul said—Because I saw that the people had been scattered from me, and, thou, hadst not come within the appointed days, and, the Philistines, had gathered themselves together to Michmash, ¹²therefore I said—Now, will the Philistines come down against me, at Gilgal, but, the face of Yahweh, have I not appeased: So I forced myself, and offered up the ascending-sacrifice. ¹³And Samuel said unto Saul—Thou hast shewn thyself foolish,—thou hast not kept the commandment of Yahweh thy God, which he commanded thee, for, now, would Yahweh have established thy kingdom unto Israel until times age-abiding; ¹⁴Whereas, now, shall thy kingdom not be established,—Yahweh hath sought out for him a man after his own heart, and Yahweh hath commanded him to be leader over his people, because thou hast not kept that which Yahweh commanded thee. ¹⁵And Samuel arose, and ascended from Gilgal unto Gibeah of Benjamin. And Saul numbered the people who were found with him, about six hundred men. ¹⁶Now, Saul, and Jonathan his son, and the people that were found with him, were abiding in Geba of Benjamin,—but, the Philistines, had encamped in Michmash. ¹⁷And the spoilers came forth out of the camp of the Philistines, in three companies, the first company, turned unto the way of Ophrah, unto the land of Shual; ¹⁸and, the second company, turned unto the way of Beth-horon,—and, the third company, turned unto the way of the boundary that overlooketh the valley of Zeboim, towards the wilderness. ¹⁹Now, a smith, could not be found, throughout all the land of Israel—for the Philistines had said, Lest the Hebrews make sword or spear. ²⁰So all Israel went down to the Philistines,—to sharpen every man his share, and his mattock, and his axe, and his sickle. ²¹Howbeit they had a file for the sickles, and the mattocks, and the three-pronged forks, and the axes,—and for setting the goads. ²²Thus would it come to pass, in the day of battle, that there was found—neither sword nor spear, in the hand of any of the people, that were with Saul and Jonathan, but such were found belonging to Saul and to Jonathan his son. ²³Now the garrison of the Philistines had come out to the pass of Michmash.

¹⁴And it came about, on a certain day, that Jonathan son of Saul said unto the young man bearing his armour: Come! and let us pass over unto the garrison of the Philistines, that is on the other side, yonder! but, to his father, he told it not. ²Now, Saul, was tarrying in the uttermost part of Gibeah, under the pomegranate tree that is in Migron,—and, the people that were with him, were about six hundred men; ³and, Ahijah, son of Ahitub, brother of Ichabod, son of Phinehas, son of Eli, was priest of Yahweh in Shiloh, wearing an ephod,—and, the people, knew not that Jonathan had departed. ⁴And, between the passes by which Jonathan sought to cross over up to the garrison of the Philistines, there was a crag of rock on the one side, and a crag of rock on the other side; and, the name of the one, was Bozez, and the name of the other, Seneh. ⁵The one crag, was a pillar on the north, over against Michmash,—and, the other, on the south, over against Geba. ⁶So Jonathan said unto the young man bearing his armour—Come! and let us cross over unto the garrison of these uncircumcised, peradventure, Yahweh may work by us,—for there is no restraint with Yahweh, to save by many, or by few. ⁷And his armour-bearer said to him, Do all that is in thy heart,—decide for thyself (lo! I am with thee!), according to thine own heart. ⁸Then said Jonathan, Lo! we, are crossing over unto the men,—and will discover ourselves unto them. ⁹If, thus, they say unto us, Keep quiet until we get to you, then will we stand still where we are, and will not go up unto them; ¹⁰but, if thus, they say, Come up unto us, then will we go up; for Yahweh hath delivered them into our hand,—This, then, is our sign. ¹¹So they two discovered themselves unto the garrison of the Philistines,—and the Philistines said—Lo! Hebrews, coming forth out of the holes, wherein they had hidden themselves. ¹²And the men of the garrison responded to Jonathan and his armour-bearer, and said—Come up unto us, and we will let you know a thing. Then said Jonathan unto his armour-bearer—Come up after me, for Yahweh hath delivered them into the hand of Israel. ¹³So Jonathan went up on his hands and on his feet, and, his armour-bearer, followed him,—and they fell before Jonathan, and, his armour-bearer, was slaying after him. ¹⁴And the first smiting wherewith Jonathan and his armour-bearer smote, was about twenty men,—within, as it were, half a furrow's length of a yoke of land. ¹⁵And there came to be a trembling in the camp, in the field, and among all the people, the outposts and the spoilers, they too, trembled,—and the earth quaked, so it became a preternatural trembling. ¹⁶And the scouts of Saul in Gibeah of Benjamin looked, and lo! the camp, melted away, hither and thither. ¹⁷Then said Saul unto the people who were with him: Number, I pray you, and see who hath departed from us. So they numbered; and lo! Jonathan and his armour-bearer were missing. ¹⁸Then said Saul unto Ahijah, Bring near the ark of God; for the ark of God was, on that day, in the midst of the sons of Israel. ¹⁹And it came to pass, as soon as Saul had spoken unto the priest, that, the tumultuous noise that was in the camp of the Philistines, went on and on, increasing. Then said Saul unto the priest,—Withdraw thy hand. ²⁰And Saul and all the people that were with him gathered themselves together, and came as far as the host,—and lo! the sword of every man was against his fellow, an exceeding great confusion. ²¹And, the Hebrews who had aforetime belonged to the Philistines, who had come up with them in the host, even they, turned round so as to be with Israel who were with Saul and Jonathan. ²²And, all the men of Israel who had hidden themselves throughout the hill country of Ephraim, heard that the Philistines had fled, and, they also, followed hard after them in the battle. ²³Thus did Yahweh, on that day, save Israel,—and, the battle, passed over by Beth-aven. ²⁴Now, the men of Israel, were tired out on that day,—yet had Saul bound the people by an oath, saying—Cursed, be the man that eateth food until the evening, and I be avenged upon mine enemies. So none of the people had tasted food. ²⁵And, all the land, had entered into the forest,—and there was honey upon the face of the ground. ²⁶So the people came into the forest, and lo! there were streams of honey,—but no man reached his hand to his mouth, because the people revered the oath. ²⁷But, Jonathan, heard not his father putting the people on oath, so he reached forth the end of the staff that was in his hand, and dipped it in the honey-copse,—and brought back his hand to his mouth, and his eyes were brightened. ²⁸Then responded one from among the people, and said—With an oath, did thy father charge the people, saying—Cursed, be the man that eateth food to-day! And so the people were faint. ²⁹Then said Jonathan: My father hath afflicted the land,—See, I pray you, how my own eyes have been brightened, because I tasted a little of this honey. ³⁰How much more if haply the people had, eaten freely, to-day of the spoil of their enemies, which they found? for, now, would not the smiting of the Philistines have been, mighty? ³¹Howbeit they smote

the Philistines on that day from Michmash to Aijalon,—but the people became exceeding faint. ³²And the people darted greedily upon the spoil, and took sheep, and oxen, and calves, and felled them to the ground,—and the people did eat, with the blood. ³³And they told Saul, saying, Lo! the people, are sinning against Yahweh, by eating with the blood. And he said—Ye have dealt treacherously, roll unto me, here, a great stone. ³⁴And Saul said—Disperse yourselves among the people, and say unto them—Bring near unto me every man his ox,, and every man his lamb, and slay them here, and then eat, so shall ye not sin against Yahweh, by eating with the blood. And all the people brought near—every man that which was in his hand, that night, and they slew them there. ³⁵And Saul built an altar unto Yahweh,—the same, was the first altar that he built unto Yahweh. ³⁶Then said Saul—Let us go down after the Philistines by night, and make of them a prey until the morning light, and let us not leave of them, a man. And they said, All that is good in thine eyes, do! Then said the priest, Let us draw near hither unto God. ³⁷So Saul asked of God, Shall I go down after the Philistines? wilt thou deliver them into the hand of Israel? But he answered him not, that day. ³⁸Then said Saul, Come near hither, all ye chiefs of the people,—and get to know and see, wherein, hath been this sin, to-day. ³⁹For, by the life of Yahweh, who saveth Israel, though it be in Jonathan my son, yet shall he, die. But there was none ready to answer him, of all the people. ⁴⁰Then said he unto all Israel—Ye, shall be on one side, and, I and Jonathan my son, will be on the other side. And the people said unto Saul, What is good in thine eyes, do! ⁴¹And Saul said unto Yahweh—O God of Israel! now set forth the truth. Then were, Jonathan and Saul, taken, and, the people, escaped. ⁴²And Saul said, Cast lots between me, and Jonathan my son. Then was, Jonathan, taken. ⁴³And Saul said unto Jonathan, Come tell me, what thou hast done. So Jonathan told him, and said, I, just tasted, with the end of the staff that was in my hand, a little honey, here I am—I must die! ⁴⁴Then said Saul: So, may God do, and, so, may he add, surely thou must, die, Jonathan! ⁴⁵But the people said unto Saul—Shall, Jonathan, die, who hath wrought this great salvation in Israel? Far be it! By the life of Yahweh, there shall not fall a hair of his head to the ground, for, with God, hath he wrought this day. So the people delivered Jonathan, that he died not. ⁴⁶Then Saul went up from following the Philistines,—and, the Philistines, departed unto their own place. ⁴⁷And, Saul, took possession of the kingdom over Israel,—and made war round about against all his enemies—against Moab, and against the sons of Ammon, and against Edom, and against the kings of Zobah, and against the Philistines, and, whomsoever he turned against, he was victorious. ⁴⁸Then made he ready a force, and smote the Amalekites,—and delivered Israel out of the hand of such as plundered them. ⁴⁹And the sons of Saul were Jonathan, and Ishvi, and Malchishua,—and, the names of his two daughters, were, the name of the firstborn, Merab, and, the name of the younger, Michal,—⁵⁰and, the name of Saul's wife, was Ahinoam, daughter of Ahimaaz,—and the name of the prince of his host, Abner, son of Ner, Saul's uncle. ⁵¹And, Kish, was Saul's father, and, Ner, Abner's father, was son of Abiel. ⁵²And the war was severe against the Philistines all the days of Saul,—and, whensoever Saul saw any mighty man, or any son of valour, he drew him unto himself.

15And Samuel said unto Saul, It was, me, Yahweh sent to anoint thee to be king over his people, over Israel,—now, therefore, hearken thou to the voice of Yahweh's words. ²Thus, saith Yahweh of hosts, I have well considered what Amalek did unto Israel—how he lay in wait for him in the way, when he came up out of Egypt. ³Now, go and smite Amalek, and devote ye to destruction all that he hath, and spare him not,—but thou shalt slay both man and woman, both child and suckling, both ox and sheep, both camel and ass. ⁴So then Saul called together the people, and numbered them in Telaim, two hundred thousand footmen,—and ten thousand men of Judah. ⁵And Saul came as far as the city of Amalek,—and stirred up strife in the ravine. ⁶Then said Saul unto the Kenites—Go, depart, get you down out of the midst of the Amalekites, lest I destroy you with them, yet, ye, dealt in lovingkindness, with all the sons of Israel, when they came up out of Egypt. So the Kenites departed out of the midst of the Amalekites. ⁷And Saul smote Amalek,—from Havilah, till thou enterest Shur, which is over against Egypt. ⁸And he took Agag, king of Amalek, alive,—but, all the people, devoted he to destruction at the edge of the sword. ⁹But Saul and the people spared Agag, and the best of the sheep and the oxen and the lambs, also the fatlings, and all that was good, and would not devote them to destruction,—but, all the cattle that was contemptible and diseased, that, devoted they to destruction. ¹⁰Then came the word of Yahweh unto Samuel, saying—¹¹I am grieved that I made Saul to be king, for he hath turned back from following me, and, my words, hath he not established. And it was vexing to Samuel, so that he made outcry unto Yahweh, all the night. ¹²And Samuel rose early to meet Saul, in the morning, and it was told Samuel, saying—Saul having come to Carmel, and lo! having set him up a sign, hath gone round, and passed over, and descended to Gilgal. ¹³And Samuel came unto Saul,—and Saul said unto him—Blessed, be thou by Yahweh: I have established the word of Yahweh. ¹⁴And Samuel said, What then is this bleating of sheep, in mine ears,—and the lowing of oxen, which I can hear? ¹⁵Then said Saul—From the Amalekites, have they brought them in; in that the people spared the best of the sheep, and of the oxen, to sacrifice unto Yahweh thy God,—but, the rest, have we devoted to destruction. ¹⁶Then said Samuel unto

Saul, Stay, and let me tell thee, that which Yahweh hath spoken unto me, this night. And he said to him—Speak. ¹⁷And Samuel said, Was it not, when, little, thou wast in thine own eyes, that thou wast made, head of the tribes of Israel,—and that Yahweh anointed thee to be king over Israel? ¹⁸So then Yahweh sent thee on a journey,—and said—Go, and devastate to destruction, the sinners—the Amalekites, and make war against them, until they have consumed them. ¹⁹Wherefore, then, didst thou not hearken unto the voice of Yahweh,—but didst rush upon the spoil, and do that which was wrong in the sight of Yahweh? ²⁰And Saul said unto Samuel—As indeed I have hearkened unto the voice of Yahweh, and have been on the journey on which Yahweh sent me,—and have brought in Agag, king of Amalek, and, the Amalekites, have I devoted to destruction. ²¹And the people took, of the spoil, sheep and oxen, the chief of the things so devoted,—to sacrifice unto Yahweh thy God, in Gilgal. ²²Then said Samuel—Doth that which is pleasing unto Yahweh consist in ascending-offerings and sacrifices, So much as in hearkening unto the voice of Yahweh? Lo! to hearken, is, better, than, sacrifice. And, to give heed, than, the fat of rams; ²³For, as the sin of divination, is, rebelliousness,—and, as transgression with household gods, is, stubbornness,—Because thou hast rejected the word of Yahweh, therefore hath he rejected thee from being king. ²⁴Then said Saul unto Samuel—I have sinned; for I have transgressed the bidding of Yahweh, and thy words,—for I feared the people, and hearkened unto their voice. ²⁵Now, therefore, I pray thee, pardon my sin,—and turn again with me, that I may bow down unto Yahweh. ²⁶And Samuel said unto Saul, I will not turn again with thee,—Because thou hast rejected the word of Yahweh, therefore hath Yahweh rejected thee from being king over Israel. ²⁷And, when Samuel turned about to go away, then laid he hold of the skirt of his robe, and it was rent. ²⁸And Samuel said unto him, Yahweh hath rent the kingdom of Israel from off thee, to-day,—and will give it unto a neighbour of thine, who is better than thou. ²⁹Moreover also, the Eminence of Israel, will not lie, neither will he repent,—For no, iron of earth, is, he, to repent! ³⁰Then he said: I have sinned, Now, honour me, I pray thee, before the elders of my people, and before Israel,—and turn again with me, then will I bow down unto Yahweh thy God. ³¹So then Samuel turned again, after Saul—and Saul bowed down unto Yahweh. ³²Then said Samuel—Bring ye near unto me—Agag, king of Amalek, And Agag came unto him, in fetters. Then said Agag, Surely, terrible, is the bitterness of death! ³³And Samuel said, As women have been made childless by thy sword, So, childless among women, shall be, thine own mother. And Samuel cut Agag asunder before Yahweh, in Gilgal. ³⁴Then Samuel departed unto Ramah,—but, Saul, went up unto his own house, at Gibeah of Saul. ³⁵And Samuel did no more see Saul, until the day of his death, for Samuel pined for Saul,—but, Yahweh, was grieved that he had made Saul king over Israel.

16And Yahweh said unto Samuel—How long, art thou going to pine for Saul, seeing that, I, have rejected him from being king over Israel? Fill thy horn with oil, and come! let me send thee unto Jesse the Bethlehemite, for I have provided me, among his sons, a king. ²And Samuel said, How can I go? As soon as Saul heareth, he will slay me. Then said Yahweh, A heifer, take thou with thee, and say, To sacrifice unto Yahweh, am I come. ³Then shall thou bid Jesse to the sacrifice,—when, I, will let thee know what thou must do, so shalt thou anoint for me him whom I shall name unto thee. ⁴And Samuel did that which Yahweh had spoken, and went to Bethlehem. And the elders of the city came trembling to meet him, and one said—Peaceably, comest thou? ⁵And he said—Peaceably: to sacrifice unto Yahweh, am I come. Hallow yourselves, and come with me to the sacrifice. And he hallowed Jesse and his sons, and bade them to the sacrifice. ⁶And it came to pass, when they entered, that he looked upon Eliab,—and said to himself, Surely, before Yahweh, is his Anointed. ⁷But Yahweh said unto Samuel—Do not regard his countenance, or the height of his stature, for I have rejected him,—for it is not what man looketh to but what God looketh to. For, man, looketh to the outward appearance, but, Yahweh, looketh to the heart. ⁸Then Jesse called Abinadab, and made him pass before Samuel,—and he said, Neither of this one, hath Yahweh made choice. ⁹Then Jesse made Shammah pass by,—and he said—Nor of this one, hath Yahweh made choice. ¹⁰So Jesse made seven of his sons pass before Samuel,—and Samuel said unto Jesse, Yahweh hath not made choice of these. ¹¹Then said Samuel unto Jesse—Are these all the young men? And he said—There yet remaineth, the youngest, but lo! he is tending the sheep. Then said Samuel unto Jesse—Do, send, and summon him, for we cannot sit round, until he cometh in hither. ¹²So he sent, and brought him in. Now, he, was ruddy, a stripling with handsome eyes, and noble mien. Then said Yahweh—Rise—anooint him, for, this, is, he. ¹³And Samuel took the horn of oil, and anointed him in the midst of his brethren. And the Spirit of Yahweh came mightily upon David, from that day forward. Then arose Samuel, and went his way unto Ramah. ¹⁴But, the spirit of Yahweh, departed from Saul,—and there terrified him a sad spirit, from Yahweh. ¹⁵Then said the servants of Saul unto him,—Lo! we pray thee, a sad superhuman spirit, doth terrify thee: ¹⁶Pray let our lord bid thy servants before thee, seek out a man, skilled in playing on the lyre,—so shall it be, when a sad superhuman spirit cometh on thee, then shall he play with his hand, and thou shalt be joyful. ¹⁷And Saul said unto his servants,—I pray you, look out for me a man that excelleth in playing, and bring him in unto me. ¹⁸Then responded one of the young men and said—Lo! I have seen—a son of Jesse, the Bethlehemite, skilled in playing, and a mighty man of valour, and a man of war, and of intelligent speech, and a handsome man, and, Yahweh, is with him. ¹⁹So Saul sent messengers unto Jesse,—and said, Send, unto me—David thy son, who is with the sheep. ²⁰Then took Jesse an ass laden with bread, and a skin of wine, and one kid,—and sent by the hand of David his son, unto Saul. ²¹And David came in unto Saul,—and stood before him,—and he loved him greatly, and he became his armour-bearer. ²²And Saul sent unto Jesse, saying,—I pray thee, let David stand before me, for he hath found favour in mine eyes. ²³And so it used to be, when a superhuman spirit came unto Saul, then would David take the lyre, and play with his hand,—and Saul would be refreshed, and be joyful, and, the sad spirit, would depart from him.

17And the Philistines gathered together their hosts, unto battle, and they were gathered together unto Socoh, which belongeth unto Judah,—and they encamped between Socoh and Azekah in Ephes-dammim; ²and, Saul and the men of Israel, gathered themselves together, and encamped in the vale of Elah, and set the army in array against the Philistines. ³And, the Philistines, were standing near the hill on one side, and, the Israelites, were standing near the hill on the other side,—while, the valley, was between them. ⁴And there came forth a champion out of the camp of the Philistines, Goliath, his name, from Gath,—his height, six cubits and a span; ⁵with a helmet of bronze on his head, and, with a scaly coat of mail, was he clad,—the weight of the coat, being five thousand shekels of bronze; ⁶and, greaves of bronze, on his feet,—and, a javelin of bronze, between his shoulders; ⁷and, the shaft of his spear, was like a weaver's beam, and, the flashing head of his spear, was six hundred shekels of iron,—and, his shield-bearer, was coming on before him. ⁸And he took his stand, and cried unto the ranks of Israel, and said unto them, Wherefore should ye come out, to set in array for battle? Am not, I, a Philistine, while, ye, are servants unto Saul? Choose you a man, and let him come down unto me: ⁹If he prevail in fighting with me, and smite me, then will we become your servants,—but, if, I, prevail over him, and smite him, then shall ye become our servants, and serve, us. ¹⁰And the Philistine said—I, reproach the ranks of Israel, this day,—give me a man, that we may fight together. ¹¹When Saul and all Israel heard these words of the Philistine, they were dismayed, and feared exceedingly. ¹²Now, David, was the son of that Ephrathite of Bethlehem-judah, whose, name, was Jesse, and, who, had eight sons,—and, the man, in the days of Saul was old, advanced in years. ¹³And the three eldest sons of Jesse had followed Saul to the battle,—and, the names of his three sons who went into the battle, were Eliab the firstborn, and, the next to him, Abinadab, and, the third, Shammah. ¹⁴But, as for David, he, was the youngest,—and, the three eldest, followed Saul; ¹⁵whereas, David, kept going and returning from Saul,—to tend his father's sheep at Bethlehem. ¹⁶And the Philistine drew near morning and evening,—and presented himself forty days. ¹⁷And Jesse said unto David his son, Take, I pray thee, unto thy brethren—this ephah of parched corn, and these ten loaves,—and run to the camp unto thy brethren; ¹⁸also these ten slices of soft cheese, shalt thou take to the captain of their thousand,—and, as for thy brethren, give good heed to their welfare, their pledge, also shalt thou receive. ¹⁹Now, Saul, and they, and all the men of Israel, were in the vale of Elah, ready to fight with the Philistines. ²⁰So then David rose up early in the morning, and entrusted the sheep to a keeper, and took up the provisions and went his way, as Jesse had commanded him,—and came into the circular rampart, as the force, was going forth into the ranks, and shouted for the fight. ²¹So Israel and the Philistines set in array for battle, army against army. ²²Then David entrusted the provisions that were upon him to the care of the keeper of the stores, and ran unto the ranks,—and came and asked for the welfare of his brethren. ²³Now, as he was speaking with them, lo! the champion coming up, Goliath the Philistine, by name, of Gath, coming up out of the ranks of the Philistines, and he spake according to these words,—and David heard them. ²⁴Now, all the men of Israel, when they saw the man, fled from before him, and feared exceedingly. ²⁵And the men of Israel said—Have ye seen this man that is coming up? For, to reproach Israel, is he coming. So then it shall be, that, the man that shall smite him, the same, will the king enrich with great riches, and, his own daughter, will give him, and, his father's house, will he make free in Israel. ²⁶Then spake David unto the men that were standing by him, saying, What shall be done to the man that shall smite yonder Philistine, and so shall take away reproach from off Israel? For who is this uncircumcised Philistine that he hath reproached the ranks of a Living God? ²⁷And the people answered him, according to this word saying,—So, shall it be done to the man that shall smite him. ²⁸Now Eliab his eldest brother heard when he spake unto the men,—then was kindled the anger of Eliab against David, and he said—Wherefore is it that thou hast come down? and to whom hast thou entrusted those few sheep in the wilderness? I, know thy pride, and the foolishness of thy heart, for, to see the battle, hast thou come down. ²⁹And David said, What have I done, now? Was there not, a cause? ³⁰Then turned he from him unto another, and said—according to this word,—and the people returned him an answer, like the first. ³¹And the words which David spake were overheard,—and, when they told them before Saul, he summoned him. ³²And David said unto Saul, Let not the heart of my lord fail, because of him,—thy servant, will go, and fight with this Philistine. ³³And Saul said unto David—Thou art not able to go against this Philistine, to fight with him,—for, a youth, art, thou, but, he, a man of war, from his youth. ³⁴Then said David unto Saul, Thy servant used to tend his father's sheep,—and there would come a lion, or a bear, and carry off a lamb out of the flock; ³⁵and I would go out after him, and smite him, and rescue it out of his mouth,—and, if he rose against me, I would catch him by his beard, and smite him, and slay him. ³⁶Thy servant could slay, either a lion or a bear,—and, this uncircumcised Philistine, shall become, as one of them, for he hath reproached the ranks of a Living God. ³⁷And David said, Yahweh, who hath rescued me out of the power of the lion, and out of the power of the bear, he, will rescue us out of the hand of this Philistine. Then said Saul unto David—Go! and, Yahweh, will be with thee. ³⁸And Saul clad David with his own military coat, and set a helmet of bronze upon his head,—and clad him with a coat of mail. ³⁹And David girded his sword above his military coat, but was reluctant to go, for he had not proved them,—so David said unto Saul—I cannot go in these, for I have not proved them. And David put them off him. ⁴⁰Then took he his stick in his hand, and chose him five smooth stones out of the torrent-bed, and put them in the shepherd's-pouch which he had—even in the wallet, and had his sling in his hand,—and so drew near unto the Philistine. ⁴¹And the Philistine came on and on, and drew near unto David,—and the man carrying the shield was before him. ⁴²And, when the Philistine looked about, and saw David, he disdained him,—for he was a youth, and ruddy, a stripling of fair countenance. ⁴³Then said the Philistine unto David, A dog, am, I, that thou art coming unto me, with sticks? And the Philistine cursed David, by his god. ⁴⁴And the Philistine said unto David,—Come, unto me, that I may give thy flesh to the birds of heaven, and to the beasts of the field. ⁴⁵Then said David unto the Philistine—Thou, art coming unto me with sword, and with spear, and with javelin,—but, I, am coming unto thee in the name of Yahweh of hosts, God of the ranks of Israel which thou hast reproached. ⁴⁶This day, will Yahweh deliver thee into my hand, and I will smite thee, and take thy head from off thee, and will give thy dead body and the dead bodies of the host of Philistines, this day, unto the birds of heaven, and unto the wild beasts of the earth,—that all the earth may know that Israel hath a God; ⁴⁷and that all this gathered host may know that, not with sword and with spear, doth Yahweh save,—for, unto Yahweh, belongeth the battle, and he will deliver you into our hand. ⁴⁸And it came to pass, when the Philistine arose, and came and drew near to meet David, that David hasted, and ran toward the ranks to meet the Philistine. ⁴⁹And David thrust his hand into his pouch, and took from thence a stone, and slang it, and smote the Philistine, in his forehead,—that the stone sank into his forehead, and he fell upon his face, to the earth. ⁵⁰Thus David prevailed over the Philistine, with the sling and with the stone, and smote the Philistine, and slew him,—but, sword, was there none in the hand of David. ⁵¹So David ran, and stood by the Philistine, and took his sword and drew it out of the sheath thereof, and slew him, and cut off, therewith, his head,—and, when the Philistines saw that their hero was slain, they fled. ⁵²Then arose the men of Israel and Judah, and shouted, and pursued the Philistines, as far as the entrance into Gath, and as far as the gates of Ekron,—and the slain of the Philistines fell in the way to the two gates, even as far as Gath and as far as Ekron. ⁵³And the sons of Israel returned from hotly pursuing the Philistines,—and plundered their camps. ⁵⁴And David took the head of the Philistine, and brought it into Jerusalem,—but, his armour, put he into his tent. ⁵⁵And, when Saul saw David going forth to meet the Philistine, he said unto Abner, prince of the host, Whose son is the young man, Abner? And Abner said, By the life of thy soul, O king! I know not. ⁵⁶Then said the king,—Ask, thou, whose son the stripling is? ⁵⁷And, when David returned from smiting the Philistine, Abner took him, and brought him before Saul,—with the head of the Philistine in his hand. ⁵⁸And Saul said unto him, Whose son art, thou, O young man? And David said, Son of thy servant Jesse, the Bethlehemite.

18And it came to pass, when he had made an end of speaking unto Saul, that, the soul of Jonathan, was knit with, the soul of David, so that Jonathan loved him, as his own soul. ²And Saul took him, that day,—and suffered him not to return unto the house of his father. ³And Jonathan and David solemnised a covenant,—because he loved him as his own soul. ⁴And Jonathan stripped himself of the robe which was upon him, and gave it to David,—and his equipments, even to his sword, and to his bow, and to his girdle. ⁵And David went forth—whithersoever Saul sent him, he behaved himself prudently, so Saul set him over the men of war,—and he became a favourite in the eyes of all the people, yea even in the eyes of the servants of Saul. ⁶But so it was, when they came in on the return of David from the smiting of the Philistine, that the women went forth out of all the cities of Israel, singing and dancing, to meet Saul the king,—with timbrels, with rejoicing, and with instruments of three strings. ⁷And the women that made merry responded to each other in song, and said,—Saul, hath smitten, his thousands, but, David, his, tens of thousands. ⁸Then was Saul exceeding angry, and this saying was offensive in his eyes, and he said,—They have ascribed, to David, ten thousands, but, to me, have they ascribed thousands,—What, more, then, can he have but, the kingdom? ⁹And Saul was eyeing David from that day forward. ¹⁰And, when it came to pass, on the morrow, that a superhuman spirit of sadness came suddenly upon Saul, and he was moved to raving in the midst of the house,—and, David, began playing with his hand, as he had done day by day, that a spear being in Saul's hand, ¹¹Saul hurled the spear, and said to himself—I will smite

David, even to the wall! But David moved round from before him, twice. ¹²And Saul feared because of David,—for Yahweh was with him, whereas, from Saul, he had departed. ¹³So Saul removed him from him, and appointed him to be for him the captain of a thousand,—and he went out and came in before the people. ¹⁴And it came to pass that David, in all his ways, acted prudently,—and, Yahweh, was with him. ¹⁵And, when Saul saw that, he, was acting very prudently, he was afraid of him. ¹⁶But, all Israel and Judah, were in love with David,—for he was going out and coming in before them. ¹⁷So then Saul said unto David—Lo! my elder daughter Merab, her, will I give thee to wife, only, approve thyself unto me as a son of valour and fight the battles of Yahweh. Saul, however, had said to himself—Let not, my own hand, be upon him, but let, the hand of the Philistines, be upon him. ¹⁸And David said unto Saul—Who am, I, or who are my kinsfolk, the family of my father, in Israel,—that I should become son-in-law, to the king? ¹⁹But it came to pass, within the time for giving Merab daughter of Saul to David, that, she, was given to Adriel the Meholathite, to wife. ²⁰Then did Michal, Saul's daughter, love David,—and it was told Saul, and the thing was right in his eyes. ²¹And Saul said to himself—I will give her unto him, that she may prove to him a snare, and that, the hand of the Philistines, may be upon him. So then Saul said unto David, A second time, mayest thou become my son-in-law to-day. ²²And Saul commanded his servants—Speak ye unto David quietly saying, Lo! the king delighteth in thee, and, all his servants, love thee,—now, therefore, become thou son-in-law to the king. ²³And the servants of Saul spake, in the ears of David, these words. And David said—Seemeth it a light thing, in your eyes, to become son-in-law to the king, seeing that, I, am a poor man and lightly esteemed? ²⁴So the servants of Saul told him, saying,—According to these words, spake David, ²⁵Then said Saul—Thus, shall ye say unto David—The king hath no delight in purchase-price, but rather in a hundred foreskins of Philistines, by avenging himself on the enemies of the king. But, Saul, thought to let David fall by the hand of the Philistines. ²⁶So, when his servants told David these words, the thing was right in the eyes of David, to become son-in-law unto the king,—and the days had not expired. ²⁷Wherefore David arose, and went—he and his men, and smote among the Philistines two hundred men, and David brought in their foreskins, and gave them in full tale unto the king, that he might become son-in-law unto the king, and Saul gave him Michal his daughter, to wife. ²⁸And Saul saw and knew that, Yahweh, was with David, and that, all Israel, loved him. ²⁹So then Saul went on to fear because of David, yet more,—and it came to pass that Saul was hostile to David, all the days. ³⁰And, when the princes of the Philistines came forth, so it was, that, as often as they came forth, David was more circumspect than any of the servants of Saul, so that his name was, precious exceedingly.

19Then spake Saul unto Jonathan his son, and unto all his servants, that they should put David to death; ²but, Jonathan, Saul's son, delighted in David, exceedingly,—so Jonathan told David, saying, Saul, my father, is seeking to put thee to death,—now, therefore, take heed to thyself I pray thee, in the morning, and abide thou in concealment, and hide thyself; ³and, I, will come out and stand beside my father, in the field where, thou, art, and, I, will speak of thee unto my father,—and, if I see aught, I will tell thee. ⁴So then Jonathan spake of David things that were good, unto Saul his father,—and said unto him—May the king not sin against his servant—against David; for he hath not sinned against, thee, nay, indeed, his doings have been good to thee exceedingly. ⁵And, when he put his life in his hand, and smote the Philistine, and Yahweh wrought a great victory for all Israel, thou sawest, and didst rejoice. Wherefore, then, shouldst thou sin against innocent blood by putting David to death, without cause? ⁶And Saul hearkened unto the voice of Jonathan,—and Saul swore, By the life of Yahweh, he shall not be put to death! ⁷And Jonathan called for David, and Jonathan told him all these things,—and Jonathan brought in David unto Saul, and so he was in his presence, as aforetime. ⁸But, when the war again brake out,—and David went forth and fought with the Philistines, and smote them with a great smiting, and they fled before him, ⁹then came there a sad spirit of Yahweh unto Saul, he being in his house, seated, with his spear in his hand,—while, David, played with his hand, ¹⁰Saul sought to smite David with the spear, even to the wall, but he slipped away from before Saul, who smote the spear into the wall,—whereas, David, fled and escaped, that night. ¹¹And Saul sent messengers unto David's house, to watch him, and to put him to death, in the morning! And Michal his wife told David, saying, If thou do not deliver thyself to-night, to-morrow, art thou to be put to death. ¹²So Michal let down David, through the window, and he departed and fled, and escaped. ¹³And Michal took the household god, and put it in the bed, and, a fly-net of goats-hair, put she at its head,—and covered it with the clothes. ¹⁴And, when Saul sent messengers to take David, she said—He is, sick. ¹⁵So Saul sent messengers to see David, saying,—Bring him up in the bed unto me, that I may put him to death. ¹⁶And, when the messengers entered, lo! the household god in the bed,—with a fly-net of goats-hair at its head. ¹⁷And Saul said unto Michal—Wherefore, in this way, hast thou deceived me, and let go mine enemy, that he hath escaped? Then said Michal unto Saul, He, himself, said unto me—Let me go, wherefore should I put thee to death? ¹⁸So, David, fled, and escaped, and came in unto Samuel in Ramah, and told him all that Saul had done to him,—and he and Samuel departed, and dwelt in Naioth. ¹⁹And it was told Saul, saying,—Lo! David, is in Naioth, in Ramah. ²⁰So Saul sent messengers to take David, but, when they saw the assembly of prophets prophesying, and Samuel standing as head over them, then came the Spirit of God upon the messengers of Saul, and, they also, were, moved to prophesy. ²¹And, when they told Saul, and he sent other messengers, then were, they also, moved to prophesy. And, when Saul again sent messengers a third time, then were, they also, moved to prophesy. ²²Then went, he also himself, to Ramah, and came in as far as the well of the threshing-floor which is in Sephi, and asked and said, Where are Samuel and David? And one said—Lo! in Naioth, in Ramah. ²³And, when he departed from thence towards Naioth in Ramah, then came upon, him also, the Spirit of God, and he went on and on, and was moved to prophesy, until he entered Naioth in Ramah. ²⁴And, even he, stripped off his upper garments, and, even he, was moved to prophesy before Samuel, and lay prostrate, disrobed, all that day, and all the night. For this cause, do they say, Is, even Saul, among the prophets?

20And David fled from Naioth, in Ramah,—and came in, and said before Jonathan—What have I done? What is my transgression, and what my sin, before thy father, that he seeketh my life? ²And he said unto him—Far be it! thou shalt not die. Lo! my father doeth nothing, great or small, without unveiling mine ear,—wherefore, then, should my father hide from me, this thing? There is, nothing, in this. ³But David swore yet further, and said—Thy father, doth know, that I have found favour in thine eyes, therefore saith he,—Do not let Jonathan know this, lest he grieve; but, indeed, by the life of Yahweh, and by the life of thine own soul, surely there is but as it were a step betwixt me and death! ⁴And Jonathan said unto David,—Whatsoever thy soul shall desire, I will do for thee. ⁵And David said unto Jonathan—Lo! the new moon, is to-morrow, and, I, must not sit with the king, to eat,—let me go then, and hide myself in the field, until the evening. ⁶If thy father, enquire, for me, then shalt thou say—David, did ask leave, of me, to run to Bethlehem, his own city, for, a yearly sacrifice, is to be held there for all the family. ⁷If, thus, he say—It is well,—thy servant shall have, peace,—but, if it, anger, him, know that harm hath been determined by him. ⁸Thus shalt thou do a lovingkindness for thy servant, for, into a covenant of Yahweh, hast thou brought thy servant, with thee,—But, if there is in me transgression, put me to death, thyself, for, unto thy father, wherefore shouldst thou bring me in? ⁹And Jonathan said—Far be it from thee! but, if I, get to know, that harm is determined by my father, to bring it upon thee, is not, that, the thing that I will tell thee? ¹⁰Then said David unto Jonathan, Who shall tell me,—if thy father answer thee aught that is, harsh? ¹¹And Jonathan said unto David, Come! and let us go out into the field. And they two went out into the field. ¹²Then said Jonathan unto David—Witness be Yahweh God of Israel, that I will sound my father about this time to-morrow or the third day, and lo! if there he good towards David, will I not, then, send unto thee, and unveil thine ear? ¹³So, let Yahweh do unto Jonathan, and, so, let him add—when harm against thee seemeth good unto my father, then will I unveil thine ear, and let thee go, and thou shalt depart in peace,—then Yahweh be with thee, as he hath been with my father. ¹⁴And, not only while I yet live, shalt thou deal with me in the lovingkindness of Yahweh, that I die not: ¹⁵but thou shalt not cut off thy lovingkindness from my house, unto times age-abiding,—no! not when Yahweh hath cut off the enemies of David, every one from off the face of the ground. ¹⁶Thus Jonathan solemnised a covenant with the house of David saying,—So let Yahweh require it, at the hand of the enemies of David. ¹⁷And again Jonathan sware unto David, by his love to him,—for, as he loved his own soul, so loved he him. ¹⁸Then said Jonathan unto him—To-morrow, is the new moon, and thou wilt be missed, for thy seat will be empty; ¹⁹and, when thou hast tarried three days, thou shalt come down quickly and enter the place, where thou didst hide thyself on the day of the deed, and shall remain by the side of this mound. ²⁰And, as for me—three arrows to the side, will I shoot,—as though I shot at a mark. ²¹And lo! I will send the boy saying, Go, find the arrow! If I, say, to the boy—Lo! the arrows, are on this side of thee—take them, then come, for there is peace for thee, and no cause for fear, by the life of Yahweh. ²²But, if, thus, I say to the youth, Lo! the arrows are beyond thee, depart, for Yahweh hath sent thee away. ²³But, as touching the matter whereof we spake—I and thou, lo! Yahweh, be betwixt me and thee, unto times age-abiding. ²⁴So David hid himself in the field—and, when the new moon had come, the king sat down to eat, food, ²⁵yea the king sat down on his seat, as at other times, by the seat against the wall, and, when Jonathan arose, Abner seated himself by the side of Saul,—but David's place was empty. ²⁶Saul, however, spake nothing that day,—for he said to himself—It is, an accident, he is, not clean, because he hath not been cleansed. ²⁷And it came to pass, on the morrow, the second of the month, that David's place was empty,—and Saul said unto Jonathan his son, Wherefore hath not the son of Jesse come in, either yesterday or to-day, to meat? ²⁸And Jonathan answered Saul,—David, asked leave, of me, to go as far as Bethlehem; ²⁹and said—Let me go, I pray thee, for, a family sacrifice, have we in the city, and my brethren have commanded me, now, therefore, if I have found favour in thine eyes, let me slip away, I pray thee, that I may see my brethren. For this cause, hath he not come in unto the table of the king. ³⁰Then was Saul's anger kindled against Jonathan, and he said unto him, Thou son of rebellious perversity! do I not know that thou art, confederate, with the son of Jesse to thine own confusion, and to the confusion of the shame of thy mother? ³¹For, as long as, the son of Jesse, liveth on the ground, thou wilt not be established, thou nor thy kingdom, Now, therefore, send and fetch him unto me, for, doomed to death, is he! ³²And Jonathan responded to Saul his father,—and said unto him—Wherefore must he be put to death, What hath he done? ³³And Saul hurled his spear at him, to smite him. So Jonathan knew that it was, determined, of his father, to put David to death. ³⁴Jonathan therefore rose up from the table, in a glow of anger,—and did eat no food on the second day of the month, for he was grieved for David, because his father had reviled him. ³⁵And it came to pass in the morning, that Jonathan went forth into the field, to the place appointed with David,—a little lad, being with him. ³⁶And he said to his lad—Run, find, I pray thee, the arrows which I am about to shoot. The boy, ran, but, he, shot the arrow beyond him. ³⁷And, when the lad came as far as the place of the arrow which Jonathan had shot, Jonathan cried after the lad, and said, Is not the arrow, beyond, thee? ³⁸And Jonathan cried after the lad, Haste thee—be quick, do not stay! so Jonathan's lad picked up the arrows and brought them unto his master. ³⁹But, the lad, knew, nothing, only Jonathan and David, knew the matter. ⁴⁰So Jonathan gave his weapons unto his lad, and said to him, Go carry them into the city. ⁴¹As soon as, the lad, was gone, David, arose from beside the South, and fell on his face to the earth, and bowed himself down three times,—and they kissed each other, and wept over each other, until, David, exceeded. ⁴²Then said Jonathan unto David—Go in peace,—remembering that, we, have both sworn in the name of Yahweh, saying, Yahweh shall be between me and thee, and between my seed and thy seed, unto times age-abiding. And he arose, and departed,—and, Jonathan, entered the city.

21 Then came David to Nob, unto Ahimelech, the priest,—and Ahimelech trembled when he met David, and said unto him—Why art thou, alone, and, no man, with thee? ²And David said unto Ahimelech the priest—The king, hath charged me with a matter, and hath said unto me—Let, no man, know aught of the business on which I am sending thee, and with which I have charged thee,—But, unto the young men, have I appointed, such and such a place. ³Now, therefore, what is there under thy hand? Five loaves, give thou into my hand,—or, whatever can be found. ⁴And the priest answered David, and said, There is no common bread under my hand,—but, hallowed bread, there is, if the young men have kept themselves, at least from women. ⁵And David answered the priest and said to him—Of a truth, women, have been withheld from us, of late, through my coming out, and the wallets of the young men have become hallowed,—while the bread, itself, is in a manner common, and the more so since, to-day, there are other loaves to be hallowed, in the vessel. ⁶So the priest gave him hallowed bread,—because there was there no bread, save the Presence-Bread, which had to be removed from before Yahweh, to put hot bread, on the day when it should be taken away. ⁷Now, in that very place, was a man of the servants of Saul, on that day, detained before Yahweh, whose name, was Doeg the Edomite,—chief of the shepherds that belonged unto Saul. ⁸Then said David to Ahimelech, See whether there is here, under thy hand, a spear or a sword? for, neither my sword, nor my other weapons, did I take in my hand, for, the king's business, was, urgent. ⁹And the priest said: The sword of Goliath the Philistine, whom thou didst smite in the vale of Elah, lo! that, is wrapped up in a cloth, behind the ephod, if, that, thou wilt take to thee, take it, for there is no other, save that, here. And David said—There is none, like it, give it me. ¹⁰Then arose David, and fled, that day, from the face of Saul,—and came in unto Achish, king of Gath. ¹¹And the servants of Achish said unto him, Is not, this, David, king of the land? Was it not, of this man, that they kept responding in the dances, saying, Saul, hath smitten his, thousands, but, David, his, tens of thousands? ¹²And David laid up these words in his heart,—and feared greatly, because of Achish king of Gath. ¹³So he feigned himself mad, in their sight, and raged in their hand,—and struck against the doors of the gate, and let his spittle run down upon his beard. ¹⁴Then said Achish unto his servants,—Lo! ye can see, a madman playing his pranks, wherefore should ye bring him in, unto me? ¹⁵Lacking of madmen, am I that ye should bring in this one to play his mad pranks, unto me? Shall, this, one enter my household?

22David therefore departed thence, and escaped, into the cave of Adullam,—and, when his brethren and all the household of his father heard it, they went down unto him, thither. ²And there gathered themselves unto him—every one that was in distress, and every one that had a creditor, and every one embittered in soul, and he came to be over them as a prince,—and there were with him, about four hundred men. ³And David departed thence, to Mizpah of Moab,—and said unto the king of Moab, I pray thee, let my father and my mother dwell with you, until that I know what God will do for me. ⁴So he set them before the king of Moab,—and they dwelt with him, all the days that David was in the fortress. ⁵Then said Gad the prophet unto David—Thou must not abide in the fortress, go and get thee into the land of Judah. So David departed, and entered the forest of Hereth. ⁶And, when Saul heard that David was discovered, and the men that were with him—Saul, being seated in Gibeah under the tamarisk-tree in Ramah, with his spear in his hand, and all his servants stationed by him,—⁷then said Saul unto his servants who were stationed by him—Hear, I pray you, ye Benjamites! What! even to all of you, will the son of Jesse give fields and vineyards? All of you, will he appoint to be princes of thousands, and princes of hundreds? ⁸That ye have con-

spired, all of you, against me, and there is none to uncover mine ear as to the covenanting of my son with the son of Jesse? And none from among you that taketh pity upon me, and that uncovereth mine ear to this,—that, mine own son, hath stirred up, my servants, against me, to lie in wait, as at this day? ⁹Then answered Doeg the Edomite—he, being stationed near the servants of Saul—and said,—I saw the son of Jesse coming into Nob, unto Ahimelech son of Ahitub; ¹⁰Then enquired he for him of Yahweh, Provisions also, gave he unto him,—and, the sword of Goliath the Philistine, gave he unto him. ¹¹Then the king sent to call Ahimelech, son of Ahitub, the priest, and all the house of his father—the priests, who were in Nob,—and they came, all of them, unto the king. ¹²And Saul said, Hear, I pray thee, thou son of Ahitub! And he said—Behold me! my lord. ¹³And Saul said unto him, Wherefore have ye conspired against me, thou, and the son of Jesse,—in that thou gavest him bread and a sword, and didst enquire for him of God, that he might rise up against me, that he might lie in wait, as at this day? ¹⁴Then Ahimelech answered the king, and said,—But who, among all thy servants, like David, is, faithful, being son-in-law to the king, and, cometh near to have audience with thee, and is, honoured in thy household? ¹⁵Did I, that day, begin to enquire for him of God? Far from me! Let not the king impute to his servant such a thing, nor to any of the household of my father, for thy servant knoweth nothing of all this, less or more. ¹⁶And the king said: Thou shalt, die, Ahimelech,—thou and all the household of thy father. ¹⁷And the king said unto the runners that were stationed by him—Turn ye round and put to death the priests of Yahweh, because, their hand also, is with David, and because they knew that he was, in flight, and unveiled not mine ear. But the servants of the king were not willing to thrust forth their hand, to fall upon the priests of Yahweh. ¹⁸Then said the king to Doeg, Turn, thou, and fall upon the priests. So Doeg the Edomite turned, and, himself, fell upon the priests, and put to death, that day, four score and five men bearing an ephod of linen; ¹⁹Nob also, the city of the priests, smote he with the edge of the sword, both men and women, children and sucklings,—and oxen and asses and sheep, with the edge of the sword. ²⁰But there escaped one son of Ahimelech, son of Ahitub, whose, name, was Abiathar,—and he fled after David. ²¹So Abiathar told David,—that Saul had slain the priests of Yahweh. ²²Then said David to Abiathar—I knew, that day, when Doeg the Edomite was, there, that he would, surely tell, Saul. I, am chargeable with all the lives of the house of thy father. ²³Abide with me! do not fear, for, whoso seeketh my life, seeketh thy life,—for, in safeguard, shall thou be, with me.

23Then told they David, saying,—Lo! the Philistines are fighting against Keilah, and they are plundering the threshing-floors. ²So David enquired of Yahweh, saying,

Shall I go and smite these Philistines? And Yahweh said unto David—Go, and smite the Philistines, and save Keilah. ³But the men of David said unto him, Lo! we, here, in Judah, are afraid,—how much more, then, if we go to Keilah, against the ranks of the Philistines? ⁴So David yet again enquired if Yahweh, and Yahweh answered him,—and said—Arise, go down to Keilah, for I am about to deliver the Philistines into thy hand. ⁵David therefore went, with his men, to Keilah, and fought with the Philistines, and drave forth their cattle, and smote them, with a great smiting, so David saved the inhabitants of Keilah. ⁶Now it came to pass, when Abiathar, son of Ahimelech, fled unto David to Keilah, that he came down with, an ephod, in his hand. ⁷And, when it was told Saul that David had entered Keilah, Saul said—God hath given him over into my hand, for he hath shut himself in by entering into a city with folding doors and bar. ⁸So Saul summoned all the people to war,—to go down to Keilah, to besiege David, and his men. ⁹And David ascertained that, against him, Saul was contriving mischief,—so he said unto Abiathar the priest, Bring hither the ephod. ¹⁰Then said David: O Yahweh, God of Israel, thy servant, hath heard, that Saul is seeking to come unto Keilah,—to destroy the city, for my sake: ¹¹Will the owners of Keilah surrender me into his hand? Will Saul come down, as thy servant hath heard? O Yahweh, God of Israel, I pray thee, tell thy servant. And Yahweh said—He will come down. ¹²Then said David, Will the owners of Keilah surrender me and my men, into the hand of Saul? And Yahweh said—They will surrender. ¹³Then arose David and his men, about six hundred, and went forth out of Keilah, and went to and fro, whithersoever they could,—and, unto Saul, it was told that David had escaped out of Keilah, so he forbore to go forth. ¹⁴Then David abode in the wilderness, in the fortresses, and he abode in the hill country, in the wilderness of Ziph. And Saul sought him continually, but God delivered him not into his hand. ¹⁵Then David saw that Saul had come out to seek his life, David, being in the wilderness of Ziph, in the thicket. ¹⁶So Jonathan, Saul's son, arose and went unto David in the thicket,—and strengthened his hand in God; ¹⁷and said unto him,—Do not fear, for the hand of Saul my father shall not find thee, but, thou, shalt become king over Israel, and, I, shall be, next, unto thee, yea and, Saul my father, knoweth this. ¹⁸And they two solemnised a covenant before Yahweh,—and David remained in the thicket, but, Jonathan, departed to his own house. ¹⁹Then came up the Ziphites unto Saul in Gibeah, saying,—Is not David hiding himself with us, in the strongholds in the thicket, in the hill of Hachilah, which is on the right of Jeshimon? ²⁰Now, therefore, according to all the desire of thy soul O king, to come down, come! and, ours, will it be to surrender him into the hand of the king. ²¹Then said Saul, Blessed, be ye, of Yahweh,—because ye have taken pity upon me. ²²Go, I pray you, make ready yet further, and get to know and see his place, where may be his track, who hath seen him there,—for it hath been said unto me, Cunning indeed, is, he! ²³See, then, and get to know—of all the hiding places, where he hideth himself, and return unto me, for certainty, then will I go with you,—and it shall be, if he is in the land, that I will search him out, through all the thousands of Judah. ²⁴So they arose and departed to Ziph, before Saul,—but, David and his men, were in the wilderness of Maon, in the Arabah, to the right of Jeshimon. ²⁵Then Saul and his men departed, to seek him; but it had been told David, and he had gone down the cliff, and taken up his abode in the wilderness of Maon,—and when Saul had, heard it, he pursued David in the wilderness of Maon. ²⁶And Saul went on this side of the mountain, and, David and his men, on that side of the mountain,—wherefore David became hurried, to get away from the presence of Saul, but, Saul and his men, were surrounding David and his men, to capture then: ²⁷when, a messenger, came unto Saul, saying,—Haste thee and come! for the Philistines have spread over the land. ²⁸Then returned Saul from pursuing David, and departed to meet the Philistines,—for which cause, they called that place Sela-hammahlekoth \ul1 "the Cliff of Separation" \ul0 . ²⁹And David went up from thence,—and abode in the strongholds of En-gedi.

²⁴And it came to pass, when Saul had returned from following the Philistines, that it was told him, saying: Lo! David is in the wilderness of En-gedi. ²Then Saul took three thousand chosen men, out of all Israel,—and went to seek David and his men, over the face of the rocks of the mountain-goats. ³And he came into the sheep-folds by the way, there, being a cave, which Saul entered, to cover his feet,—David and his men, in the hinder part of the cave, having taken up their abode. ⁴So David's men said unto him—Lo! the day of which Yahweh said unto thee—Lo! I am about to deliver up thine enemy, into thy hand: therefore shall thou do unto him, as shall be good in thine eyes. And David arose, and cut off the corner of the robe which belonged to Saul, by stealth. ⁵And it came to pass afterwards that David's heart smote him,—because he had cut off the corner of the robe which belonged to Saul. ⁶And he said unto his men—Far be it from me, of Yahweh, that I should do this thing unto my lord, unto the Anointed of Yahweh, to thrust forth my hand against him,—for, the Anointed of Yahweh, is he! ⁷So David did chide his men with the words, and did not suffer them to rise up against Saul. And, Saul, rose up out of the cave, and went on his way. ⁸Then David rose up, afterwards, and went forth out of the cave, and cried out after Saul, saying—My lord, O king! And, when Saul looked about behind him, David inclined his face to the earth, and bowed himself down. ⁹Then said David to Saul, Wherefore shouldst thou hearken unto the words of the sons of earth, saying,—Lo! David is seeking thy hurt? ¹⁰Lo! this day, have thine own eyes seen, how Yahweh had delivered thee up, to-day, into my hand in the cave, and, when one bade me slay thee, I looked with compassion upon thee,—and I said—I will not thrust forth my hand against my lord, for, the Anointed of Yahweh, is he! ¹¹But, my father, see, yea, see, the corner of thy robe in my hand,—for, in that I cut off the corner of thy robe, and yet did not slay thee, know thou, and see, that there is not in my hand either wrong or transgression, neither have I sinned against thee, yet art thou hunting my life, to take it. ¹²Let Yahweh do justice betwixt me and thee, and let Yahweh avenge me of thee,—but, mine own hand, shall not be upon thee. ¹³As saith the proverb of the ancients, From the lawless, proceedeth lawlessness,—mine own hand, therefore shall not be upon thee. ¹⁴After whom, hath the king of Israel come forth? After whom, art thou in pursuit? After a dead dog! after a single flea! ¹⁵Therefore shall, Yahweh, become, judge, and do justice betwixt me and thee,—that he may see, and plead my cause, and justly deliver me out of thy hand. ¹⁶And it came to pass, when David had made an end of speaking these words unto Saul, that Saul said, Thy voice, is this, my son David? And Saul lifted up his voice, and wept. ¹⁷And he said unto David, More righteous, art thou than I, for, thou, hast requited me, good, but, I, have requited thee, evil. ¹⁸Thou, then, hast told to-day, how thou hast dealt with me, for good,—how, when Yahweh had surrendered me into thy hand, thou didst not slay me. ¹⁹Yet, when a man findeth his enemy, will he let him get easily away? Yahweh, then, give thee, good, reward for what, this day, thou hast done unto me. ²⁰Now, therefore, lo! I know that thou, shalt indeed become king,—and that the kingdom of Israel, shall be established in thy hand. ²¹Now, therefore, swear unto me by Yahweh, that thou wilt not eat off my seed, after me,—and wilt not destroy my name out of the house my father. ²²So David sware unto Saul,—and Saul departed unto his own house, but, David and his men, went up on the stronghold.

25And Samuel died, and all Israel were gathered together, and made lamentation for him, and buried him within his own house, in Ramah,—and David arose and went down into the wilderness of Maon. ²Now there was, a man, in Maon, whose cattle were in Carmel, and, the man, was exceeding great, and, he, had three thousand sheep, and a thousand goats,—and so it was, that he was shearing his sheep in Carmel. ³Now, the name of the man, was Nabal, and, the name of his wife, Abigail,—and, the woman, was of good understanding, and of beautiful figure,—but, the man, was unfeeling and of evil practices, and he was a Calebite. ⁴So then David heard in the wilderness,—that Nabal was shearing his sheep. ⁵David, therefore, sent ten young men,—and David said unto the young men,—Go up to Carmel, and enter in unto Nabal, and ye shall ask him, in my name, of his welfare; ⁶and say thus—Long life to thee! Mayest, thou, prosper, And, thy household, prosper, And, all that thou hast, prosper! ⁷Now, therefore, have I heard that thou hast shearers,—Well, the shepherds that thou hast, have been with us, we reproached them not, neither missed they, anything, all the days they were in Carmel. ⁸Ask thy young men, that they may tell thee, that so my young men may find favour in thine eyes, for, on a good day, have we come! Give, I pray thee, what thy hand findeth, to thy servants, and to thy son, to David! ⁹So David's young men came, and spake unto Nabal, according to all these words, in the name of David,—and waited. ¹⁰Then Nabal answered the servants of David, and said, Who is David? And who is the son of Jesse? Nowadays, many are the servants that have broken away, every one from the presence of his lord: ¹¹Shall I, then, take my bread, and my wine, and my slain beasts, that I have slaughtered for my shearers,—and give unto men of whom I know not whence they are? ¹²So the young men of David turned away for their journey,—and came back, and drew near, and told him, according to all these words. ¹³Then said David unto his men—Gird on you every man his sword. And they girded on them, every man his sword, and, David also, girded on his sword,—and there went up after David—about four hundred men, and, two hundred, abode by the stores. ¹⁴But a certain one of her young men told, Abigail, Nabal's wife, saying,—Lo! David sent messengers out of the wilderness to bless our lord, and he treated them with contempt. ¹⁵But, the men, were exceeding good to us,—and we were not harmed, neither missed we, anything, all the days we went to and fro with them, while we were in the fields: ¹⁶A wall, became they unto us, both by night and by day, all the days we were with them, tending the flock. ¹⁷Now, therefore, know thou, and see, what thou canst do, for mischief is determined against our lord, and against all his household,—but, he, is such an abandoned man, that one cannot speak unto him. ¹⁸Then Abigail hastened—and took two hundred loaves, and two skins of wine, and five sheep made ready, and five measures of parched corn, and a hundred cakes of raisins, and two hundred cakes of figs,—and put them on the asses. ¹⁹And she said to her young men—Pass on before me, behold me coming after you; but, to her husband, Nabal, told she nothing. ²⁰And so it was, as she was riding on her ass, and descending within the covert of the hill, lo! David and his men, descending over against her,—so she met them. ²¹Now, David, had said—Surely, in vain, did I guard all that pertained to this man in the wilderness, so that there was, nothing, missed of all that he had,—seeing he hath returned to me evil for good. ²²So may God do to David and so may he add, if I leave remaining, of all that he hath, until the morning,—so much as a little boy. ²³And, when Abigail saw David, she hastened, and alighted from off her ass,—and fell down before David upon her face, and prostrated herself on the ground; ²⁴yea

she fell at his feet, and said—On me, even me, my lord, be the transgression,—But, I pray thee, let thy handmaid speak in thine ears, and hear thou the words of thy handmaid. ²⁵Let it not be, I pray thee, that my lord regard this abandoned man—Nabal; For, as his name is, so, is he. Nabal, is his name, and, baseness, is with him,—But, I, thy handmaid, saw not the young men of my lord, whom thou didst send. ²⁶Now, therefore, my lord—By the life of Yahweh, and by the life of thine own soul,—seeing Yahweh hath withholden thee from coming in with bloodshed, and from saving thyself, with thine own hand, now, therefore, like Nabal, be thine enemies, and they who are making search for my lord, wrongfully. ²⁷Now, therefore, this blessing which thy maid-servant hath brought to my lord, let it even be given unto the young men who are going to and fro at the feet of my lord. ²⁸Forgive, I pray thee, the trespass of thy handmaid,—for Yahweh, will certainly make, for my lord an assured house, for, the battles of Yahweh, is my lord fighting, and, wrong, shall not be found in thee, all thy days; ²⁹yea, though there hath arisen a sun of earth to pursue thee, and to seek thy life, yet shall the life of my lord be bound up in the bundle of the living, with Yahweh thy God, but, as for the life of thine enemies, he shall sling it out with the middle of the hollow of the sling. ³⁰And it shall be, when Yahweh shall do for my lord, according to all the good that he hath spoken concerning thee,—and shall put thee in charge as leader over Israel, ³¹then shall this not become to thee a staggering and stumbling of heart, unto my lord—that thou didst either shed blood without need, or that the hand of my lord saved himself. And, when Yahweh hath dealt well with my lord, then remember thou thy handmaid. ³²Then said David unto Abigail,—Blessed, be Yahweh, the God of Israel, who hath sent thee this day, to meet me; ³³and, blessed, be thy discreet judgment, and, blessed, be thou thyself,—who hast kept me, this day, from coming in with bloodshed, and from saving myself, with mine own hand. ³⁴Nevertheless, by the life of Yahweh, God of Israel, who hath restrained me from harming, thee, surely, except thou hadst hastened and come to meet me, there had not been left unto Nabal, by the light of the morning, so much as a little boy. ³⁵So David received at her hand, that which she had brought him,—and, unto herself, he said—Go up, in peace, unto thy house, see! I have hearkened unto thy voice, and accepted thy person. ³⁶And, when Abigail came unto Nabal, lo! he, had a banquet in his house, like the banquet of a king, and, the heart of Nabal, was glad accordingly, he having drunk deeply,—so she told him nothing—less or more, until the light of the morning. ³⁷And it came to pass, in the morning, when the wine had gone out of Nabal, and his wife told him these things, that his heart died within him, and he became like a stone. ³⁸And it came to pass, in about ten days, that Yahweh smote Nabal, that he died. ³⁹And, when David heard that Nabal was dead, he said—Blessed, be Yahweh, who hath maintained the plea of my reproach, at the hand of Nabal, and hath restrained, his servant, from wrong, yea, the wrong of Nabal, hath Yahweh turned back on his own head. Then sent David, and spake with Abigail, to take her to himself wife. ⁴⁰And the servants of David came unto Abigail the Carmelitess,—and spake unto her, saying, David, hath sent us unto thee, to take thee to himself to wife. ⁴¹And she arose, and bowed herself down with her face to the earth,—and said—Lo! thy handmaid, as serving-woman to bathe the feet of the servants of my lord. ⁴²And Abigail hastened, and mounted, and rode upon her ass, with her five damsels that used to journey at her feet,—and she went her way after the messengers of David, and became his wife. ⁴³David took, Ahinoam also, out of Jezreel,—and, they two, became his wives. ⁴⁴Saul, indeed, had given his daughter Michal, David's wife,—to Palti, son of Laish, who was of Gallim.

26And the Ziphites came unto Saul in Gibeah, saying,—Is not David hiding himself in the hill of Hachilah, overlooking Jeshimon? ²Then Saul arose, and went down into the wilderness of Ziph, and, with him, three thousand chosen men of Israel,—to seek David in the wilderness of Zip. ³And Saul encamped in the hill of Hachilah, which overlooketh Jeshimon, by the way,—but, David, was staying in the wilderness, so he saw that Saul was coming after him into the wilderness. ⁴David therefore sent runners,—and took knowledge that Saul had come, for a certainty. ⁵So then David arose, and came to the place where Saul had encamped, and David saw the place where Saul was lying, with Abner, son of Ner, prince of his host,—and, Saul, was lying within the circular trench, with, the people, encamped round about him. ⁶And David responded, and said unto Ahimelech the Hittite, and unto Abishai son of Zeruiah, brother of Joab, saying, Who will go down with me unto Saul, within the camp? And Abishai said, I, will go down with thee. ⁷So David came, with Abishai, unto the people by night, and lo! Saul lying asleep, within the trench, and his spear stuck in the ground, at his head,—and Abner and the people lying round about him. ⁸Then said Abishai unto David, God hath surrendered, to-day, thine enemy, into thy hand: Now, therefore, let me smite him, I pray thee, with the spear to the earth, at one stroke, I, will not do it twice. ⁹But David said unto Abishai, Do not destroy him,—for who that hath thrust forth his hand against the Anointed of Yahweh, shall be guiltless? ¹⁰And David said—By the life of Yahweh, surely, Yahweh himself, must smite him,—or, his day, must come that he die, or, into battle, must he go down, and be swept away. ¹¹Far be it from me, of Yahweh, that I should thrust forth my hand against the anointed of Yahweh! Now, therefore, take, I pray thee, the spear that is at his head, and the cruse of water, and let us go our way. ¹²So David took the spear, and the cruse of water, from near the head of Saul, and they went their way,—and no man saw, and no man knew, and no man awoke, for all of them were sleeping, for, a deep sleep from Yahweh, had fallen upon them. ¹³Then David crossed over to the other side, and took his stand on the top of the mountain, afar off,—a great space, being between them. ¹⁴And David cried aloud unto the people, and unto Abner son of Ner, saying, Wilt thou not answer, Abner? Then answered Abner, and said, Who art thou, that hast cried aloud unto the king? ¹⁵And David said unto Abner—Art not thou, a man? Who indeed is like thee, in Israel? Wherefore, then, hast thou not kept watch over thy lord, the king? For one of the people hath entered, to destroy the king—thy lord. ¹⁶Not good, is this thing which thou hast done, by the life of Yahweh, verily, worthy of death, ye are, in that ye have not kept watch over your lord, over, the Anointed of Yahweh. Now, therefore, see where the spear of the king is, and the cruse of water, that was at his head? ¹⁷And Saul knew the voice of David, and said—Thy voice, is this, my son David? And David said, My voice, my lord O king! ¹⁸And he said, Wherefore is it, that my lord is in pursuit of his servant? For what have I done? or what is in my hand that is wrong? ¹⁹Now, therefore, I pray thee, let my lord the king hear the words of his servant,—If, Yahweh, have goaded thee on against me, let him accept the sweet smell of a gift, but, if the sons of men, accursed, they are before Yahweh, for they have driven me out, to-day, from joining myself with the inheritance of Yahweh, saying—Go, serve other gods! ²⁰Now, therefore, let not my blood fall to the earth, away from the presence of Yahweh,—for the king of Israel hath come out to hunt for a single flea, as when one pursueth a partridge among the mountains. ²¹Then said Saul—I have sinned, Return, my son David, for I will harm thee no more, because my life was precious in thine eyes, this day,—lo! I have acted foolishly and, greatly, erred. ²²And David responded, and said, Lo! the spear of the king! Let, therefore, one of the young men come over, and fetch it. ²³And let, Yahweh, give back to each man, his righteousness, and his faithfulness,—in that Yahweh delivered thee, to-day, into my hand, but I would not thrust forth my hand against the Anointed of Yahweh. ²⁴Lo! then, as thy life was much set by this day in mine eyes, so, let my life be much set by in the eyes of Yahweh, and let him rescue me out of all tribulation. ²⁵Then said Saul unto David—Blessed, be thou, my son David, thou shalt both, do, and shalt, prevail. And David went on his way, but, Saul, returned unto his own place.

27 And David said, unto his own heart, Now, shall I be swept off, in a single day, by the hand of Saul,—there is nothing for me better than that I, escape, into the land of the Philistines, so shall Saul give up seeking for me any more, in any of the bounds of Israel, so shall I escape out of his hand. ²And David arose, and he and the six hundred men that were with him passed over, unto Achish son of Maoch, king of Gath. ³And David abode with Achish in Gath, he and his men, each man with his household,—David with his two wives, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail wife of Nabal, the Carmelite. ⁴And, when it was told Saul, that David had fled to Gath, he added no more, to seek him. ⁵Then said David unto Achish—If, I pray thee, I have found favour in thine eyes, let them give me a place in one of the cities in the country, that I may dwell there,—for why should thy servant dwell in the royal city, with thee? ⁶So Achish gave him, on that day, Ziklag,—wherefore Ziklag hath pertained unto the kings of Judah, unto this day. ⁷And the number of the days that David dwelt in the country of the Philistines became a year and four months. ⁸And David and his men went up, and made a raid against the Geshurites and the Gizrites and the Amalekites,—for, they, were the inhabitants of the land who had been from age-past times, as thou enterest Shur, even as far as the land of Egypt. ⁹Now, when David would smite a land, he used to save alive neither man nor woman,—but took sheep and oxen, and asses and camels, and apparel, and returned, and came in unto Achish. ¹⁰Then said Achish, Whither have ye made a raid, to-day? And David said—Against the South of Judah, or against the South of the Jerahmeelites, or as far as the South of the Kenites. ¹¹But, neither man nor woman, used David to save alive, to bring into Gath, for he said, Lest they tell of us, saying,—So, hath David done, and, such, his manner, all the days that he hath dwelt in the country of the Philistines. ¹²And Achish believed in David, saying,—He hath made himself, odious, unto his own people, unto Israel, therefore shall he be my servant all his life long.

28 And it came to pass, in those days, when the Philistines gathered together their hosts for war, to fight with Israel, that Achish said unto David, Thou must, know, that, with me, shalt thou go forth in the host, thou and thy men. ²And David said unto Achish, Therefore, now, shalt thou know what thy servant can do. And Achish said unto David, Therefore, keeper of my head, will I appoint thee, all the days. ³Now, Samuel, was dead, and all Israel had lamented him, and buried him in Ramah, even in his own city,—Saul, moreover had put away them who had familiar spirits and them who were oracles, out of the land. ⁴So then the Philistines gathered themselves together, and came in, and encamped in Shunem,—and Saul gathered together all Israel, and they encamped in Gilboa. ⁵And, when Saul saw the host of the Philistines, he was afraid, and his heart trembled exceedingly. ⁶Then Saul enquired of Yahweh, but Yahweh answered him not,—neither by Dreams, nor by the Lights, nor by prophets. ⁷Then said Saul unto his servants—Seek me out a woman that owneth

a familiar spirit, that I may even go unto her, and enquire of her. And his servants said unto him, Lo! there is a woman that owneth a familiar spirit in En-dor. ⁸Saul therefore disguised himself, and put on other raiment, and departed—he and two men with him, and they came to the woman by night,—and he said—Divine for me, I pray thee, by the familiar spirit, and bring up for me—whomsoever I shall name unto thee. ⁹And the woman said unto him—Lo! thou, knowest what Saul hath done, how he hath cut off them who have familiar spirits and him who is an oracle, out of the land,—wherefore, then, art thou striking at my life, to put me to death? ¹⁰So then Saul swore unto her by Yahweh, saying,—By the life of Yahweh, there shall no punishment befall thee for this thing. ¹¹Then said the woman, Whom shall I bring up for thee? And he said, Samuel, bring thou up for me. ¹²And, when the woman saw Samuel, she made outcry with a loud voice,—and the woman spake unto Saul, saying—Wherefore hast thou deceived me, thou thyself being Saul? ¹³And the king said unto her—Be not afraid, but what sawest thou? And the woman said unto Saul, A god, saw I, coming up out of the earth. ¹⁴And he said to her—What was his form? And she said—An old man, coming up, he being wrapped about with a robe. Then Saul knew, that it was, Samuel, so he inclined his face to the earth, and bowed himself down. ¹⁵And Samuel said unto Saul, Wherefore hast thou disquieted me, by bringing me up? And Saul said—I am in sore distress, for, the Philistines, are making war against me, and, God, hath turned away from me, and answereth me no more—either by means of the prophets, or by dreams, therefore have I even called for thee, to let me know, what I am to do. ¹⁶Then said Samuel, Wherefore, then, shouldst thou ask me,—when, Yahweh, hath turned away from thee, and hath come to be with thy neighbour? ¹⁷Therefore hath Yahweh done for him, as he spake by me,—yea Yahweh hath rent the kingdom out of thy hand, and given it to a neighbour of thine—to David. ¹⁸As thou didst not hearken unto the voice of Yahweh, neither didst execute the glow of his anger upon Amalek, therefore, this thing, hath Yahweh done unto thee this day; ¹⁹that Yahweh may deliver, Israel also, with thee, into the hand of the Philistines, and, to-morrow, thou and thy sons with thee are about to fall,—the host of Israel also, will Yahweh deliver, into the hand of the Philistines. ²⁰Then Saul hastened, and fell prostrate—the whole length of him—to the earth, and was sore afraid, at the words of Samuel, and indeed, no, strength, was left in him, for he had not eaten food all the day and all the night. ²¹And the woman came unto Saul, and, when she saw that he was greatly terrified, she said unto him—Lo! thy handmaid hearkened unto thy voice, and I put my life into my hand, and heard thy words which thou didst speak unto me. ²²Now, therefore, I pray thee, hearken, thou also, unto the voice of thy handmaid, and let me set before thee a morsel of food, and eat thou,—that there may be in thee strength, when thou goest on thy journey. ²³But he refused, and said—I will not eat. But, when his servants, and the woman also, strongly urged him, then hearkened he unto their voice,—and rose up from the earth, and sat on the bed. ²⁴Now, the woman, had a calf fattening, in the shed. So she hastened, and sacrificed it,—and took meal, and kneaded, and baked thereof, unleavened cakes; ²⁵and brought near before Saul and before his servants, and they did eat. Then rose they up and departed, the same night.

29Now the Philistines gathered together all their hosts, towards Aphek,—and, the Israelites, were encamping by the fountain, that is in Jezreel. ²And, the lords of the Philistines, were passing on by hundreds, and by thousands,—but, David and his men, were passing on in the rear, with Achish. ³Then said the princes of the Philistines, What are these Hebrews doing? And Achish said unto the princes of the Philistines—Is not this David, servant of Saul king of Israel, who hath been with me this year, or two, and I have found in him nothing, from the day of his coming over unto me unto this day? ⁴But the princes of the Philistines raged against him, and the princes of the Philistines said unto him—Let the man go back, that he may return unto the place which thou didst appoint him, and let him not go down with us, into battle, so shall he not become to us a traitor, in the battle,—for, wherewith, should this fellow gain favour with his lord? Would it not be with the heads of those men? ⁵Is not this David, of whom they made responses in the dances, saying,—Saul, hath smitten, his thousands, But, David, his, tens of thousands? ⁶So Achish called for David, and said unto him—By the life of Yahweh, surely, upright, thou art, and, pleasing in mine eyes, have been thy going out and thy coming in with me, in the host, for I have found in thee no wrong, from the day of thy coming in unto me, until this day,—but, in the eyes of the lords, displeasing, thou art. ⁷Now, therefore, return, and go in peace,—so shalt thou not do wrong in the eyes of the lords of the Philistines. ⁸Then said David unto Achish—But what have I done? and what hast thou found in thy servant, from the day that I came before thee, unto this day,—that I may not go in and fight, with the enemies of my lord the king. ⁹Then answered Achish, and said unto David, I acknowledge that, pleasing, thou art in mine eyes, as a messenger of God,—notwithstanding, the princes of the Philistines, have said, He shall not go up with us, into the battle. ¹⁰Now, therefore, rise up early in the morning, thou and the servants of thy lord who have come with thee,—yea, as soon as ye have risen early in the morning, and have light, then depart. ¹¹So David rose up early, he and his men, to depart in the morning, to return into the land of the Philistines,—but, the Philistines, went up to Jezreel.

30And it came to pass, when David and his men came to Ziklag on the third day, that, the Amalekites, had made a raid into the South, and into Ziklag, and had smitten Ziklag, and burned it with fire; ²and had taken captive the women and all who were therein, from small even unto great, they had not put one to death,—but had driven them forth, and gone their way. ³So, when David and his men came to the city, lo! it was burnt with fire,—and, their wives, and their sons, and their daughters, had been taken captive. ⁴Then David and the people that were with him lifted up their voice, and wept,—until they had no more strength to weep. ⁵And, the two wives of David, had been taken captive,—Ahinoam, the Jezreelitess, and Abigail, wife of Nabal the Carmelite. ⁶And David was in sore distress, for the people had spoken of stoning him, because the souls of all the people were embittered, every man for his own sons and for his own daughters,—but David emboldened himself in Yahweh his God. ⁷Then said David to Abiathar the priest, son of Ahimelech, Do bring near me, I pray thee, the ephod. So Abiathar brought near the ephod, unto David. ⁸And David enquired of Yahweh, saying, Shall I pursue this troop? shall I overtake it? And he said unto him: Pursue, for thou shalt, overtake, and thou shalt, rescue. ⁹So David went, he, and the six hundred men, who were with him, and they came in as far as the ravine of Besor,—where, they who had to be left behind, stayed. ¹⁰But David pursued, he. and four hundred men,—but the two hundred men stayed, because they were too wearied to cross over the ravine of Besor. ¹¹And they found an Egyptian in the field, and took him unto David,—and gave him food, and he did eat, and they gave him water to drink; ¹²and they gave him a piece of a cake of figs, and two cakes of raisins, and, when he had eaten, his spirit came back unto him,—for he had neither eaten food, nor drunk water, three days and three nights. ¹³Then David said to him—Whose art thou? and whence art thou? And he said, A young man of Egypt, am I, servant to an Amalekite, and my lord left me behind, because I fell sick, three days ago. ¹⁴As for us, we invaded the South of the Cherithites, and against that which pertaineth unto Judah, and against the South of Caleb,—and, Ziklag, burned we with fire. ¹⁵And David said unto him, Wilt thou bring me down unto this troop? And he said—Swear unto me by God, that thou wilt not put me to death, neither wilt thou surrender me into the hand of my lord, and I will bring thee down unto this troop. ¹⁶So he brought him down, and lo! they were left to themselves over the face of all the land,—eating, and drinking, and dancing around, for all the great spoil which they had taken out of the land of the Philistines, and out of the land of Judah. ¹⁷And David smote them, from the closing twilight even unto the evening of the next day,—and there escaped not of them a man, save four hundred young men who rode upon camels, and fled. ¹⁸And David rescued all whom the Amalekites had taken,—his two wives also, did David rescue; ¹⁹and there was nothing missing to them—whether small or great, whether spoil, or sons or daughters, or, any thing which they had taken unto themselves,—the whole, did David recover. ²⁰And David took all the flocks and the herds,—they drave them before those other cattle, and they said, This, is David's spoil. ²¹And David came unto the two hundred men, who had been too wearied to follow David, and whom they had suffered to remain at the ravine of Besor,—and they came forth to meet David, and to meet the people who were with him, and when David came near unto the people, they enquired of his success. ²²Then responded every man who was bad and abandoned, from among the men who had been with David, and said—Because they went not with me there shall not be given them of the spoil that we have rescued,—save, to every man, his wife and his children, let them put them forth, then, and go. ²³Then said David, Ye shall not do so, my brethren,—with that which Yahweh hath given to us, who hath preserved us, and delivered the troop that came against us into our hand. ²⁴Who indeed, could hearken unto you, in this mutter? Surely, like the share of him that went down into the battle, even, so, shall be the share of him that remained by the stores—alike, shall they share. ²⁵And so it came to pass, from that day forward, that he appointed it, for a statute and for a custom unto Israel, until this day. ²⁶And, when David came to Ziklag, he sent of the spoil, unto the elders of Judah, unto his friends, saying,—Lo! for you, a blessing, out of the spoil of the enemies of Yahweh: ²⁷to them who were in Bethel, and to them who were in Ramoth of the South, and to them who were in Jattir, ²⁸and to them who were in Aroer, and to them who were in Siphmoth, and to them who were in Eshtemoa, ²⁹and to them who were in Racal, and to them who were in the cities of the Jerameelites, and to them who were in the cities of the Kenites, ³⁰and to them who were in Hormah, and to them who were in Cor-ashan, and to them who were in Athach, ³¹and to them who were in Hebron,—and to all the places where David had been to and fro, he and his men.

31Now, as, the Philistines, were fighting against Israel, the men of Israel fled from before the Philistines, and fell slain, in Mount Gilboa. ²And the Philistines followed hard after Saul, and after his sons,—and the Philistines smote Jonathan and Abinadab and Malchishua, sons of Saul. ³And the battle went sore against Saul, and the archers discovered him,—and he was terrified at the archers. ⁴Then said Saul to his armour-bearer—Draw thy sword and pierce me through therewith, lest these uncircumcised come, and pierce me through, and abuse me. But his armour-bearer was not willing, for he was sore afraid. So Saul took his sword and fell thereon. ⁵And, when his armour-bearer saw that Saul was dead, he also, fell upon his sword, and died with him. ⁶Thus died Saul, and his three sons, and his armour-bearer, yea all his men, on that day, together. ⁷And, when the men of Israel who were across the vale, and who were across the Jordan, saw that the men of Israel had fled, and that Saul and his sons were dead, they forsook the cities, and fled, and the Philistines entered, and took up their abode therein. ⁸And it came to pass on the morrow, when the Philistines came to strip the slain, that they found Saul, and his three sons, lying prostrate in Mount Gilboa. ⁹So they cut off his head, and stripped off his armour,—and sent throughout the land of the Philistines round about, to publish it in the house of their idols, and unto the people. ¹⁰And they put his armour in a house of Ashtoreths,—and, his dead body, fastened they on the wall of Beth-shan. ¹¹And, when the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead heard concerning him, what the Philistines had done unto Saul, ¹²then arose all the men of valour, and journeyed all the night, and took the body of Saul, and the bodies of his sons, from the wall of Beth-shan,—and came to Jabesh, and burned them there; ¹³and took their bones, and buried them under the tamarisk-tree in Jabesh,—and fasted seven days.

II Samuel

¹And so it was, after the death of Saul, when David had returned from the smiting of the Amalekites, and David had abode in Ziklag two days, ²yea so it was, on the third day, that lo! a man came out of the camp, from Saul, with his clothes rent, and earth upon his head,—and so it was, when he came in unto David, that he fell to the earth, and did homage. ³And David said unto him, From whence comest thou? And he said unto him, Out of the camp of Israel, am I escaped. ⁴And David said unto him—How turned out the matter? tell me, I pray thee. And he said—The people have fled from the battle, yea moreover, many, of the people have fallen, and died, Yea moreover, Saul, and Jonathan his son, are dead. ⁵Then said David unto the young man who was telling him,—How knowest thou that Saul and Jonathan his son are dead? ⁶And the young man who was telling him said, It, so happened, that I was on Mount Gilboa, when lo! Saul, leaning upon his spear, and lo! the chariots and horsemen, hotly pursued him; ⁷so he turned behind him, and saw me,—and cried out unto me, and I said, Behold me! ⁸And he said unto me, Who art thou? And I said unto him, An Amalekite, am I. ⁹And he said unto me, I pray thee, take thy stand by me, and put me to death, for the cramp hath seized me,—even for as long as my life shall be in me. ¹⁰So I took my stand by him, and put him to death, for I perceived that he could not survive his fall,—so I took the crown that was on his head, and the bracelet that was on his arm, and have brought them in unto my lord, here. ¹¹Then David took hold of his clothes, and rent them,—yea moreover, so did all the men who were with him. ¹²And they lamented aloud, and wept, and fasted until the evening,—for Saul, and for Jonathan his son, and for the people of Yahweh, and for the house of Israel, because they had fallen by the sword. ¹³And David said unto the young man who was telling him, Whence art thou? And he said, Son of a sojourner—an Amalekite, am I. ¹⁴And David said unto him,—How wast thou not afraid to thrust forth thy hand, to destroy the Anointed of Yahweh? ¹⁵So David called one of the young men, and said,—Go near—fall upon him. And he smote him, that he died. ¹⁶And David said unto him, Thy blood, be upon thine own head,—for, thine own mouth, hath testified against thee, saying, I myself, put to death the Anointed of Yahweh. ¹⁷Then chanted David this dirge,—over Saul and over Jonathan his son; ¹⁸and he thought to teach the sons of Judah the song of the Bow,—lo! it is written in the Book of the Upright:—¹⁹The beauty of Israel! on thy high plumes—slain! How have fallen—the mighty! ²⁰Do not tell it in Gath, Do not publish it in the streets of Ashkelon,—lest the daughters of the Philistines rejoice, lest the daughters of the Uncircumcised triumph. ²¹Ye mountains in Gilboa! Be there neither dew nor rain upon you, nor fields of offerings,—for, there, were cast away, the shields of the mighty, The shield of Saul, unanointed with oil. ²²From the blood of the slain, from the fat of the mighty, the bow of Jonathan ne'er drew back,—and, the sword of Saul, ne'er returned, empty. ²³Saul and Jonathan, delightfully loving in their lives, even, in their death, were not divided,—Beyond eagles, were they swift, beyond lions, were they strong! ²⁴Ye daughters of Israel! For Saul, weep ye,—who clothed you in crimson, decked with lovely things, who hung ornaments of gold on your apparel! ²⁵How have fallen the mighty, in the midst of the battle! Jonathan, on thy high places, slain! ²⁶I am distressed for thee, my brother, Jonathan! Delightful to me, exceedingly,—Wonderful, was thy love to me, passing the love of women. ²⁷How have fallen the mighty, and perished the weapons of war!

²And it came to pass, after this, that David enquired of Yahweh, saying—Shall I go up into one of the cities of Judah? And Yahweh said unto him, Go up. And David said—Whither shall I go up? And he said—Unto Hebron. ²So David went up thither, and his two wives also,—Ahinoam, the Jezreelitess, and Abigail, wife of Nabal the Carmelite. ³His men also who were with him, did David bring up, every man with his household,—and they dwelt in the cities of Hebron. ⁴Then came the men of Judah, and anointed David there, to be king over the house of Judah. And they told David, saying, Men of Jabesh-gilead, were they who buried Saul. ⁵So David sent messengers unto the men of Jabesh-gilead,—and said unto them—Blessed, be ye of Yahweh, that ye did this lovingkindness unto your lord, unto Saul, and buried him. ⁶Now, therefore, Yahweh requite you with lovingkindness and truth,—moreover also, I, will requite you, for this noble deed, in that ye did this thing. ⁷Now, therefore, let your hands be made firm, and become ye sons of valour, for your lord Saul is dead,—and, me, moreover have the house of Judah anointed, to be king over them. ⁸But, Abner son of Ner, prince of the host that pertained unto Saul, took Ish-bosheth, son of Saul, and brought him over to Mahanaim; ⁹and made him king for Gilead, and for the Ashurites, and for Jezreel,—and over Ephraim, and over Benjamin, and over, all Israel. ¹⁰Forty years old, was Ish-bosheth son of Saul, when he began to reign over Israel, and, two years, reigned he,—but, the house of Judah, followed David. ¹¹And it came to pass, that, the number of the days that David was king in Hebron, over the house of Judah, was seven years and six months. ¹²And Abner son of Ner, and the servants of Ish-bosheth, son of Saul, came out from Mahanaim to Gibeon. ¹³And, Joab son of Zeruiah, and the servants of David, went out from Hebron and met, by the pool of Gibeon, together,—and they sat down, these, by the pool, on the one side, and, those, by the pool, on the other side. ¹⁴Then said Abner unto Joab, Let the young men arise, I pray thee, and make sport before us. And Joab said—Let them arise. ¹⁵Then there arose, and went over by number,—twelve of Benjamin, pertaining to Ish-bosheth, son of Saul, and twelve, of the servants of David. ¹⁶And they caught every one his fellow by the head, with his sword in his fellow's side, so they fell, together,—and that place was called Helkath-hazzadim, which is in Gideon. ¹⁷So the battle became exceeding obstinate, on that day,—and Abner and the men of Israel were defeated before the servants of David. ¹⁸Now there were there, three sons of Zeruiah, Joab, and Abishai, and Asahel,—and, Asahel, was light of foot as a wild gazelle. ¹⁹And Asahel pursued Abner,—and turned not, in going, to the right hand or to the left, from pursuing Abner. ²⁰Then Abner looked behind him, and said—Art thou Asahel? And he said—I am. ²¹Then Abner said to him—Turn thee aside, to thy right hand, or to thy left, and lay thee hold on one of the young men, and take thee his armour. But Asahel would not turn aside from pursuing him. ²²And Abner said, yet again, unto Asahel, Turn thee aside from pursuing me,—wherefore should I smite thee to the earth? how then should I lift up my face unto Joab, thy brother? ²³Howbeit he refused to turn aside, wherefore Abner smote him with the hinder end of the spear, in the belly, that the spear came out behind him, and he fell there, and died on the spot,—and so it was, that, as many as came up to the place where Asahel fell and died, stood still. ²⁴Then Joab and Abishai pursued Abner,—but, the sun, had gone in by the time, they, had come as far as the hill of Ammah, that overlooketh Giah, by way of the wilderness of Gibeon. ²⁵And, when the sons of Benjamin had gathered themselves together after Abner, and become one band,—and had taken their stand on the top of a certain hill, ²⁶then Abner cried aloud unto Joab, and said—To the uttermost, must the sword devour? Dost thou not well know that, bitter, shall it be, in the latter end? How long, then, wilt thou not bid the people turn back from pursuing their own brethren? ²⁷Then said Joab—As God liveth, surely, if thou hadst not spoken, then in the morning, the people would of themselves have gone up, every man from pursuing his brother. ²⁸So Joab blew with the horn, and all the people stood still, and they neither pursued Israel further,—nor fought any more. ²⁹And, Abner and his men, journeyed through the waste plain all that night,—and crossed the Jordan, and went through all the Bithron, and entered Mahanaim. ³⁰And, Joab, returned from pursuing Abner, and, when he had gathered together all the people, there were missing of the servants of David—nineteen men, and Asahel; ³¹but, the servants of David, had smitten of Benjamin, of the men of Abner, — so that three hundred and sixty men, had died. ³²And they carried Asahel, and buried him in the grave of his father, which was in Bethlehem,—and Joab and his men journeyed all the night, and had daylight in Hebron.

3And the war between the house of Saul and the house of David was prolonged,—and, David, waxed stronger and stronger, and, the house of Saul, became weaker and weaker. ²And there were born unto David, sons, in Hebron,—and it came to pass that—His firstborn was Amnon, by Ahinoam, the Jezreelitess; ³And his second Chileab, by Abigail, wife of Nabal the Carmelite, And the third Absalom, son of Maachah, daughter of Talmai, king of Geshur; ⁴And the fourth Adonijah, son of Higgith,—And the fifth Shephatiah, son of Abital; ⁵And the sixth Ithream, by Eglah wife of David. These, were born unto David, in Hebron. ⁶And it came to pass, while the war continued between the house of Saul and the house of David, that, Abner, shewed himself courageous for the house of Saul. ⁷Now, Saul, had a concubine, whose name, was Rizpah daughter of Aiah,—and Ish-bosheth said unto Abner, Why, wentest thou in, unto my father's concubine? ⁸And it provoked Abner greatly, on account of the words of Ish-bosheth, and he said—Am I, the head of the dogs, that pertain unto Judah? To-day, would I deal in lovingkindness with the house of Saul thy father, towards his brethren, and towards his friends, and have not delivered thee into the hand of David,—and yet thou hast charged upon me the transgression of the woman, today. ⁹So, may God do unto Abner, and, so, may he add to him,—if, as Yahweh hath sworn unto David, even so, I deal not with him; ¹⁰by turning over the kingdom from the house of Saul,—and establishing the throne of David, over Israel and over Judah, from Dan, even unto Beer-sheba. ¹¹And he could no further answer Abner, a word,—because he feared him. ¹²So Abner sent messengers unto David, on the spot, saying—Whose, is the land? Saying also —Solemnise thy covenant with me; and lo! my hand, shall be with thee, to bring round unto thee, all Israel. ¹³And he said—Good! I, will solemnise with thee a covenant,—but, one thing, must I ask of thee, saying—Thou shalt not see my face, except thou have brought in Michal, Saul's daughter, when thou comest to see my face. ¹⁴And David sent messengers unto Ish-bosheth son of Saul, saying,—Give up my wife, Michal, whom I espoused to myself, for a hundred foreskins of Philistines. ¹⁵So Ish-bosheth sent and took her from her husband,—from Paltiel, son of Laish. ¹⁶And her husband went along with her, weeping as he went behind her, as far as Behurim,—when Abner said unto him—Go, return. And he returned. ¹⁷Then had Abner, speech, with the elders of Israel, saying,—In times past, ye were seeking David, to be king over you. ¹⁸Now, therefore, act,—for Yahweh, spake unto David, saying, By the hand of David my servant, will I save my people Israel, out of the hand of the Philistines, and out of the hand of all their enemies. ¹⁹And Abner also spake in the ears of Benjamin, —and Abner also went to speak in the ears of David, in Hebron, all that was pleasing in the eyes of Israel, and in the eyes of all the house of Benjamin. ²⁰So, when Abner came in unto David, in Hebron, and, with him, twenty men, David made, for Abner, and for the men who were with him, a banquet. ²¹Then said Abner unto David—I will verily arise and go, and gather together unto my lord the king, all Israel—that they may solemnise with thee a covenant, so shalt thou reign over all that thy soul desireth. And David let Abner go, and he departed in peace. ²²And lo! the servants of David, and Joab, came in from a raid, and, great spoil, brought they in with them; but, Abner, was not with David in Hebron, for he had let him go, and he had departed in peace. ²³When, Joab, and all the host that was with him, had come in, then told they Joab, saying, Abner son of Ner hath been in unto the king, and he hath let him go, and he hath departed in peace. ²⁴Then Joab came in unto the king, and said—What hast thou done? Lo! Abner came in unto thee. Wherefore is it that thou didst let him go, so that he is clean departed? ²⁵Thou knowest Abner son of Ner, that, to deceive thee, he came,—and to take knowledge of thy going out, and thy coming in, and to take knowledge of all that thou art doing. ²⁶And, when Joab had come out from David, he sent messengers after Abner, and brought him back from the well of Sirah,—but, David, knew it not. ²⁷So Abner returned to Hebron, and Joab took him aside into the midst of the gate, to speak with him quietly,—and then smote him there, in the belly, that he died, for the blood of Asahel the brother of Joab. ²⁸And, when David heard of it, after that, he said—Guiltless, am I and my kingdom before Yahweh, unto times age-abiding,—of the blood of Abner son of Ner. ²⁹Let it be hurled upon the head of Joab, and against all his father's house,—and let there not fail from the house of Joab—one that hath an issue, or a leper, or one that leaneth on a crutch, or that falleth by the sword, or that lacketh bread. ³⁰Thus, Joab and Abishai his brother, slew Abner,—because he had caused the death of Asahel their brother, in Gibeon, in the battle. ³¹And David said unto Joab, and unto all the people who were with him,—Rend your clothes, and gird you with sackcloth, and lament aloud before Abner. And, King David himself, was following the bier. ³²And they buried Abner in Hebron,—and the king lifted up his voice and wept, at the grave of Abner, and all the people wept. ³³And the king addressed his dirge unto Abner, and said,—As a base man dieth, should Abner have died? ³⁴Thy hands, were not bound, And, thy feet, near to fetters, were not brought, As one falleth before assassins, so didst thou fall! And again all the people wept over him. ³⁵And, when all the people came near to get David to eat bread, while yet it was day, David sware, saying—So, let God do to me, and, so, let him add, if, before the sun go in, I taste bread, or anything else. ³⁶And, all the people, took note of it, and it was noble in their eyes,—as, all that the king did, was, in the eyes of all the people, noble. ³⁷So then all the people, and all Israel, took note, that day, that it was not of the king, to cause the death of Abner son of Ner. ³⁸And the king said unto his servants,—Will ye not take note that, a prince and a great man, hath fallen this day, in Israel? ³⁹And, I myself, this day, am weak, though anointed king, but, these men, the sons of Zeruiah, are more severe than I: Yahweh repay, the doer of wickedness, according to his wickedness.

⁴Now, when Ish-bosheth son of Saul heard that Abner had died in Hebron, his hands became feeble,—and, all Israel, were dismayed. ²And two men, captains of bands, pertained to Ish-bosheth son of Saul—the name of the one, was Baanah, and, the name of the other, Rechab—sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, of the sons of Benjamin,—for, even Beeroth, used to be reckoned unto Benjamin; ³and the Beerothites fled to Gittaim,—and have been sojourners there, until this day. ⁴And, Jonathan, son of Saul, had a son, lame of his feet,—five years old, was he, when tidings came in of Saul and Jonathan from Jezreel, so his nurse took him up, and fled, and it came to pass, when she started up to flee, that he fell and was lamed, and, his name, was, Mephibosheth. ⁵So then the sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, Rechab and Baanah, took their journey and came in, about the heat of the day, unto the house of Ish-bosheth,—when, he, was lying on his noonday couch; ⁶and, thither, entered they as far as the middle of the house, to fetch wheat, and they smote him in the belly,—and, Rechab and Baanah his brother, escaped. ⁷Thus they entered the house when, he, was lying on his bed, in his sleeping-chamber, and smote him, and slew him, and beheaded him,—and took his head, and journeyed by way of the waste plain all the night; ⁸and brought in the head of Ish-bosheth unto David, at Hebron, and said unto the king, Lo! the head of Ish-bosheth son of Saul, thine enemy, who sought thy life: so hath Yahweh given to my lord the king, avengement this day, on Saul and on his seed. ⁹Then David responded to Rechab and Baanah his brother, sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, and said unto them,—By the life of Yahweh, who hath redeemed my soul out of all distress, ¹⁰when he that brought tidings to me, saying, Lo! Saul is dead, though, he, was as one that bringeth good tidings, in his own eyes, yet I seized him, and slew him in Ziklag,—which was how I gave him reward for his tidings: ¹¹how much more, when, lawless men, have slain a righteous person, in his own house, upon his bed? ...Now, therefore, must I not require his blood at your hands, and so consume you, out of the earth? ¹²David therefore commanded the young men, and they slew them, and cut off their hands, and their feet, and hanged them up over the pool, in Hebron,—but, the head of Ish-bosheth, took they, and buried in the grave of Abner, in Hebron.

⁵Then came all the tribes of Israel unto David, in Hebron, and spake, saying—Behold us! thy bone and thy flesh, we are. ²Also, in time past, when Saul was king over us, thou, wast he that led out and brought in, Israel,—and Yahweh said to thee—Thou, shalt be shepherd unto my people, Israel, and, thou, shalt become leader over Israel. ³So all the elders of Israel came unto the king, in Hebron, and King David solemnised to them a covenant in Hebron, before Yahweh, —and they anointed David to be king over Israel. ⁴Thirty years old, was David when he began to reign,—forty years, he reigned: ⁵in Hebron, reigned he over Judah, seven years, and six months,—and, in Jerusalem, reigned he thirty and three years, over all Israel and Judah. ⁶Then went the king and his men, to Jerusalem, against the Jebusites, inhabiting the land,—and they spake to David, saying—Thou canst not come in hither, unless thou take away the blind and lame—Thinking, David will not come in hither. ⁷So then David captured the citadel of Zion,—the same, is the city of David. ⁸And David said, on that day—Whosoever is smiting the Jebusites, then let him reach as far as the aqueduct. But, as for the lame and the blind, they were the hated of David's soul,—for which cause, they kept on saying, Blind and lame! he will not enter the place. ⁹So then David dwelt in the citadel, and called it, The City of David,—and David built round about, from Millo and inwards. ¹⁰And David went on and on waxing great,—Yahweh, God of hosts, being with him. ¹¹Then Hiram, king of Tyre, sent messengers unto David, with cedar-wood, and carpenters, and masons, and they built a house for David. ¹²So David perceived that Yahweh had established him to be king over Israel,—and that he had exalted his kingdom, for the sake of his people Israel. ¹³And David took him yet more concubines and wives, out of Jerusalem, after he had come from Hebron, and there were, yet further, born unto David, sons and daughters. ¹⁴Now, these, are the names of the sons who were born unto him in Jerusalem,—Shammua and Shobab, and Nathan, and Solomon; ¹⁵and Ibhar and Elishua and Nepheg and Yaphia; ¹⁶and Elishama and Eliada, and Eliphalet. ¹⁷And, when the Philistine heard that they had anointed David to be king over Israel, then came up all the Philistines to seek to secure David, and David heard of it, and went down into the citadel. ¹⁸Now, the Philistines, had come,—and had spread themselves out in the vale of Rephaim. ¹⁹So then David enquired of Yahweh, saying,—Shall I go up against the Philistines? Wilt thou deliver them into my hand? And Yahweh said unto David—Go up; for I, will surely deliver, the Philistines into thy hand. ²⁰And David entered Baal-perazim, and David smote them there, and said—Yahweh hath broken forth upon mine enemies, before me, like a breaking forth of waters. For this cause, called he the name of that place, Baal-perazim. ²¹And they left their images there,—and David and his men took them away. ²²And, yet again, did the Philistines come up, —and they spread themselves out in the vale of Rephaim. ²³So David enquired of Yahweh, and he said—Thou shalt not go up,—Get round behind them, and come in upon them, over against the mulberry-trees. ²⁴And it shall be, when thou shalt hear a sound of marching in the tops of the mulberry-trees, then, shalt thou act with decision,—for, then, will Yahweh have gone forth before thee, to smite the host of the Philistines. ²⁵And David did so, as Yahweh had commanded him,—and smote the Philistines, from Gibeon until thou enterest Gezer.

⁶And David, once more, gathered together all the choice young men in Israel, thirty thousand. ²Then David, and all the people that were with him, arose and went beyond Baale Judah,—to bring up from thence, the ark of God, the name whereof is called by the name of Yahweh of hosts, who inhabiteth the cherubim thereupon. ³So they carried the ark of God in a new waggon, and brought it out of the house of Abinadab, who was in Gibeah,—and, Uzza and Ahio, sons of Abinadab, were driving the new waggon. ⁴So they brought it out of the house of Abinadab, which was in Gibeah, with the ark of God,—and, Ahio, was going before the ark. ⁵And, David and all the house of Israel, were dancing for joy before Yahweh, with all boldness and with songs,—and with lyres, and with harps, and with timbrels, and with sistrums, and with cymbals. ⁶And, when they came as far as the threshing-floor of Nachon, Uzzah thrust forth his hand unto the ark of God, and took hold of it, for the oxen were restive. ⁷Then was kindled the anger of Yahweh, against Uzzah, and God smote him there, for the error,—so that he died there, by the ark of God. ⁸And it was a sadness unto David, for that Yahweh had broken in with a breach against Uzzah,—therefore called he that place, Perez-uzzah as it is called until this day. ⁹And David was afraid of Yahweh, on that day,—and said, How can the ark of Yahweh come unto me? ¹⁰So David would not remove unto him the ark of Yahweh, unto the city of David,—but David took it aside to the house of Obed-edom, the Gittite. ¹¹And the ark of Yahweh abode in the house of Obed-edom the Gittite, three months,—and Yahweh blessed Obed-edom, and all his household. ¹²And it was told King David, saying, Yahweh hath blessed the household of Obed-edom, and all that he hath, because of the ark of God. David therefore went and brought up the ark of God, out of the house of Obed-edom, unto the city of David, with rejoicing. ¹³And so it was that, when they who bare the ark of Yahweh had stepped forward six paces, he sacrificed an ox and a heifer. ¹⁴And, David, was dancing with all boldness before Yahweh,—David, being girt with an ephod of linen. ¹⁵So, David and all the house of Israel, were bringing up the ark of Yahweh,—with triumphant shoutings, and with the sound of a horn. ¹⁶Now it so came about that, when the ark of Yahweh entered the city of David, Michal Saul's daughter, looked out through the window, and saw King David, leaping and dancing before Yahweh, and she despised him, in her heart. ¹⁷So they brought in the ark of Yahweh, and set it in its place, in the midst of the tent which David had stretched out for it,—and David caused to go up ascending-sacrifices before Yahweh, and peace-offerings. ¹⁸And, when David had finished offering up the ascending-sacrifice and the peace-offerings, he blessed the people in the name of Yahweh of hosts. ¹⁹And he apportioned to all the people, to all the multitude of Israel, both to men and to women—to every one, a loaf of bread, and a sweet drink, and a raisin-cake,—and all the people went their way, every one unto his own house; ²⁰and David returned, to bless his household. Then came forth Michal Saul's daughter to meet David, and said—How honoured, to-day, was the king of Israel in disrobing himself to-day, in the sight of the handmaids of his servants, as one of the low people, might disrobe himself? ²¹And David said unto Michal, Before Yahweh, I will dance,—blessed, be Yahweh, who made choice of me above thy father, and above all his house, putting me in charge as leader over the people of Yahweh, over Israel,—therefore will I dance before Yahweh; ²²and will make myself, yet more, lightly esteemed that this, and become lowly in mine own eyes,—nevertheless, with the handmaids of whom thou hast spoken, with them, shall I be honoured. ²³Therefore, Michal Saul's daughter, had no child,—unto the day of her death.

⁷And it came to pass, when the king had taken up his abode in his house,—and Yahweh had given him rest round about, from all his enemies, ²that the king said unto Nathan the prophet, See, I pray thee—I, have my abode in a house, of cedar, but, the ark of God, abideth in, the midst, of curtains. ³And Nathan said unto the king, All that is in thy heart, go—do,—for Yahweh is with thee. ⁴But so it was, in that night, that the word of Yahweh came unto Nathan, saying: ⁵Go and say unto my servant—

unto David: Thus, saith Yahweh,—Shalt, thou, build me a house, for me to dwell in; ⁶seeing that I have not dwelt in a house, since the day that I brought up the sons of Israel out of Egypt, even unto this day,—but have been wandering in a tent as my habitation? ⁷Wheresoever I have wandered with any of the sons of Israel, spake I ever, a word, with any one of the tribes of Israel, whom I charged to shepherd my people Israel, saying,—Wherefore have ye not built me a house, of cedar? ⁸Now, therefore, thus, shalt thou say unto my servant, unto David: Thus, saith Yahweh of hosts, I myself, took thee away from the pasture, from after the flock,—to become leader over my people, over Israel; ⁹and was with thee, whithersoever thou didst go, and have cut off all thine enemies, from before thee,—and will make thee a name, like the name of the great ones who are in the earth; ¹⁰and will appoint a place for my people, for Israel, and will plant them, and they shall inhabit their place, and be unsettled no more,—neither shall the sons of perversity again humiliate them, as at first; ¹¹even from the day when I put judges in charge over my people Israel, thus will I give thee rest from all thine enemies. And Yahweh must tell thee that, a house, will Yahweh make for thee. ¹²And it shall be that, when thy days shall be fulfilled, and thou shalt sleep with thy fathers, then will I raise up thy seed after thee, which proceedeth from thine own body,—and I will establish his kingdom. ¹³He, shall build a house for my name,—and I will establish his kingly throne unto times age-abiding: ¹⁴I, will become his father, And, he, shall become my son: If he commit iniquity, then will I correct him, with the rod of men, and with the stripes of the sons of men; ¹⁵But, my lovingkindness, shall not depart from him,—as I caused it to depart from Saul, whom I caused to depart from before thee. ¹⁶So shall thy house and thy kingdom be made steadfast unto times age-abiding, before thee,—thy throne, shall be established unto times age-abiding. ¹⁷According to all these words, and according to all this vision, so, spake Nathan unto David. ¹⁸Then entered King David, and tarried before Yahweh,—and said—Who am, I, My Lord, Yahweh, and what is my house, that thou hast brought me, hitherto; ¹⁹and hast yet further made this seem little in thine eyes, My Lord, Yahweh, in that thou hast spoken, even of the house, of thy servant, for a great while to come? This, then is the law of manhood, O My Lord, Yahweh! ²⁰What more, then, can David yet further speak unto thee,—seeing that, thou thyself knowest thy servant, O My Lord Yahweh? ²¹For the sake of thine own word, and according to thine own heart, hast thou done all this great thing,—making it known unto thy servant. ²²For this cause, hast thou magnified thyself, O Yahweh Elohim,—for there is none like unto, thee, yea there is no God besides thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears. ²³Who, then, is like thy people, like Israel, a nation alone in the earth? whom God went to redeem for himself as a people, so to make himself a name, and to do for you the great deed, fearful things also for thy land, to make way for thy people, whom thou hadst redeemed for thyself, out of Egypt, dealing with nations and their god's; ²⁴and hast established for thyself thy people Israel—for thyself as a people, unto times age-abiding,—thou thyself, also, O Yahweh, becoming their God. ²⁵Now, therefore, O Yahweh Elohim, the word which thou hast spoken concerning thy servant, and concerning his house, confirm thou, unto times age-abiding,—and do, as thou hast spoken: ²⁶that thy name may be age-abidingly magnified, saying, Yahweh of hosts, is God over Israel, and so, the house of thy servant David, be established before thee. ²⁷For, thou, O Yahweh of hosts, God of Israel, hast unveiled the ear of thy servant, saying—A house, will I build for thee. For this cause, hath thy servant found in his heart, to pray unto thee, this prayer. ²⁸Now, therefore, O My Lord, Yahweh, thou, art God, and, thy words, shall prove true,—therefore hast thou spoken unto thy servant this goodness. ²⁹Now, therefore, be pleased to bless the house of thy servant, that it may continue age-abidingly before thee,—for, thou, O My Lord, Yahweh, hast spoken, therefore, with thine own blessing, shall the house of thy servant be age-abidingly blessed.

⁸And it came to pass, after this, that David smote the Philistines, and subdued them,—and David took the bridle of the metropolis, out of the hand of the Philistines. ²And he smote Moab, and measured them with the line casting, them down to the ground, and he measured with two lines to put to death, and with one full line to keep alive,—so the Moabites became David's, as servants, bringing gifts. ³And David smote Hadadezer son of Rehob, king of Zobah,—when he went to lay his hand on the River Euphrates. ⁴And David captured from him, a thousand and seven hundred horsemen, and twenty thousand footmen,—and David destroyed all the chariots, but reserved of them, a hundred chariots. ⁵And, when the Syrians of Damascus came to help Hadadezer, king of Zobah, David smote of the Syrians, twenty-two thousand men. ⁶Then David put garrisons in Syria of Damascus, and the Syrians became David's, as servants bringing gifts,—and so Yahweh gave victory unto David, whithersoever he went. ⁷And David took the shields of gold which had come to the servants of Hadadezer,—and brought them to Jerusalem; ⁸also, from Betah and from Berothai, cities of Hadadezer, did King David take bronze, exceeding much. ⁹And, when Tou king of Hamath heard that David had smitten all the forces of Hadadezer, ¹⁰then Tou sent Hadoram his son unto King David, to ask after his welfare, and to bless him, because he had fought against Hadadezer and had smitten him, for Hadadezer had had wars with Tou,—and, in his hand, were vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and vessels of bronze. ¹¹Them also, did King David hallow unto Yahweh,—with the silver and the gold which he had hallowed from all the nations which he had subdued: ¹²from Syria, and from Moab, and from the sons of Ammon, and from the Philistines, and from Amalek,—and from the spoil of Hadadezer son of Rehob, king of Zobah. ¹³And David made a name, when he returned from his smiting of the Syrians in the valley of salt,—eighteen thousand. ¹⁴And he put, in Edom, garrisons, throughout all Edom, put be garrisons, and so it was that all Edom became servants unto David,—and Yahweh gave victory unto David, whithersoever he went. ¹⁵And David reigned over all Israel,—and so it was that David used to execute justice and righteousness for all his people; ¹⁶and, Joab, son of Zeruiah, was over the army,—and, Jehoshaphat, son of Ahilud, was remembrancer. ¹⁷And, Zadok, son of Ahitub, and Abimelech, son of Abiathar, were priests,—and, Seraiah, was scribe; ¹⁸and, Benaiah, son of Jehoiadah, was over the Cherethites and the Pelethites,—and, the sons of David, became, chief rulers.

⁹And David said, Is there yet one left unto the house of Saul,—that I may show him lovingkindness, for the sake of, Jonathan? ²Now, unto the house of Saul, belonged a servant, whose name, was Ziba, and, when they had called him unto David, the king said unto him—Art, thou, Ziba? And he said—Thy servant! ³Then said the king—Is there never a man remaining unto the house of Saul, that I may show him the lovingkindness of God? And Ziba said unto the king, There remaineth a son unto Jonathan, lame in his feet. ⁴And the king said to him, Where is he? And Ziba said unto the king, Lo! he, is in the house of Machir son of Ammiel, in Lo-debar. ⁵Then sent King David,—and fetched him out of the house of Machir son of Ammiel, from Lo-debar. ⁶Now, when Mephibosheth, son of Jonathan, son of Saul, came in unto David, he fell on his face and did homage. And David said, Mephibosheth? And he said, Lo! thy servant. ⁷And David said to him—Do not fear, for I will, indeed shew, thee lovingkindness, for the sake of Jonathan thy father, and will restore unto thee all the land of Saul thy father,—but, thou thyself, shall eat bread at my table, continually. ⁸And he did homage, and said—What is thy servant,—that thou hast turned towards such a dead dog as I? ⁹Then the king called for Ziba, Saul's servant, and said unto him,—All that pertained unto Saul and unto all his house, have I given unto the son of thy lord: ¹⁰therefore shalt thou till for him the ground, thou, and thy sons, and thy servants, and shalt bring in, so that thy lord's son may have bread to eat, but, Mephibosheth, thy lord's son, shall continually eat bread at my table. Now, Ziba, had fifteen sons, and twenty servants. ¹¹Then said Ziba unto the king, According to all that my lord the king shall command his servant, so, will thy servant do,—but, Mephibosheth, is to eat at the table of David, as one of the sons of the king. ¹²Now, Mephibosheth, had a little son, whose name, was Micha. And, all that dwelt in the house of Ziba, were servants unto Mephibosheth. ¹³So, Mephibosheth, dwelt in Jerusalem, for, at the table of the king, continually, had he to eat,—he being lame, in both his feet.

10And it came to pass, after this, that the king of the sons of Ammon died,—and that Hanun his son reigned in his stead. ²Then said David—I will shew lovingkindness unto Hanun son of Nahash, as his father shewed, unto me, lovingkindness. So David sent to comfort him, by the hand of his servants, as to his father,—and the servants of David came into the land of the sons of Ammon. ³Then said the rulers of the sons of Ammon unto Hanun their lord—Is David honouring thy father, in thine eyes, that he hath sent unto thee comforters? Is it not, for the sake of exploring the city, and spying it out, and overthrowing it, that David hath sent his servants unto thee? ⁴Wherefore Hanun took David's servants, and shaved off half their beards, and cut off their upper garments in the middle, as far as their buttocks,—and let them go. ⁵And, when they told David, he sent to meet them, because the men were greatly ashamed,—and the king said—Tarry at Jericho, until your beards be grown, then shall ye return. ⁶And, when the sons of Ammon saw that they had made themselves odious with David, the sons of Ammon sent and hired the Syrians of Beth-rehob, and the Syrians of Zoba—twenty thousand footmen, and of king Maacah—a thousand men, and men of Tob—twelve thousand men. ⁷And, when David heard of it, he sent Joab and all the army of heroes, ⁸And the sons of Ammon came out, and set in array for battle, at the entrance of the gate,—whereas, the Syrians of Zoba, and of Rehob, and the men of Tob and of Maacah, were by themselves, in the field. ⁹And, when Joab saw that the front of the battle was towards him, before and behind, he chose out of all the chosen men of Israel, and set them in array against the Syrians; ¹⁰while, the rest of the people, he delivered into the hand of Abishai his brother,—and set them in array against the sons of Ammon. ¹¹And he said—If the Syrians be too strong for me, then shalt thou become my deliverance,—but, if, the sons of Ammon, be too strong for thee, then will I come with deliverance to thee. ¹²Be strong, and let us put forth our strength, for the sake of our people, and for the sake of the cities of our God,—and, Yahweh, do what is good in his own eyes. ¹³And Joab drew nigh, and the people that were with him, to fight against the Syrians,—and they fled before him. ¹⁴And, when, the sons of Ammon, saw that the Syrians had fled, then fled they before Abishai, and entered the city,—so Joab returned from the sons of Ammon, and entered Jerusalem. ¹⁵And, when the Syrians saw that they were defeated before Israel, they gathered themselves together; ¹⁶and Hadadezer sent and brought out the Syrians that were beyond the River, and they entered Helam,—Shobach the prince of the host of Hadadezer being before them. ¹⁷And, when it was told David, he gathered together all Israel, and passed over the Jordan, and entered Helam,—and the Syrians set themselves in array to meet David, and fought with him. ¹⁸Then fled the Syrians before Israel, and David slew of the Syrians seven hundred chariots, and forty thousand horsemen,—Shobach also, prince of their host, smote he, that he died, there. ¹⁹And, when all the kings who were servants to Hadadezer saw that they were defeated before Israel, they made peace with Israel, and served them,—and the Syrians feared to give help any more unto the sons of Ammon.

11And it came to pass, at the return of the year, at the time of the going forth of kings, that David sent Joab, and his servants with him, and all Israel, and they destroyed the sons of Ammon, and laid siege to Rabbah,—but, David, was remaining in Jerusalem. ²And it came to pass that, at eventide, David arose from his couch, and walked to and fro on the roof of the king's house, when, from the roof, he saw a woman bathing herself,—the woman being exceeding beautiful to look upon. ³And David sent and enquired after the woman,—and one said—Is not, this, Bathsheba, daughter of Eliam, wife of Uriah the Hittite? ⁴And David sent messengers, and fetched her, and she came in unto him, and he lay with her, she having purified herself from her uncleanness,—and she returned unto her own house. ⁵And the woman, having conceived, sent and told David, and said, I am with child. ⁶Then sent David unto Joab, Send unto me Uriah the Hittite. So Joab sent Uriah unto David. ⁷And, when Uriah had come in unto him, David asked—how Joab prospered, and how the people prospered, and how the war prospered. ⁸Then said David unto Uriah, Go down unto thy house, and bathe thy feet. And, when Uriah went out of the house of the king, there followed him, a present from the king. ⁹But Uriah slept at the entrance of the king's house, with all the servants of his lord,—and went not down unto his own house. ¹⁰And it was told David, saying, Uriah went not down, unto his own house. So David said unto Uriah—Was it not, from a journey, thou didst come? why, then, hast thou not been down unto thine own house? ¹¹And Uriah said unto David—The ark, and Israel and Judah, are dwelling in huts and, my lord Joab, and the servants of my lord, on the face of the field, are encamped, Was, I, then, to enter my own house, to eat and to drink and to lie with my wife? By thy life, yea by the life of thy soul, I could not do this thing. ¹²Then said David unto Uriah—Abide here to-day also, and, to-morrow, will I let thee go. So Uriah abode in Jerusalem that day, and the morrow. ¹³And David called him, and he did eat before him, and drank, and he made him drunk,—and he went forth in the evening to lie down on his bed, with the servants of his lord, but, unto his own house, went he not down. ¹⁴And so it was, in the morning, that David wrote a letter unto Joab,—and sent it by the hand of Uriah; ¹⁵and he wrote in the letter, saying,—Set ye Uriah in the forefront of the hottest battle, and retire ye from him, that he be smitten and die. ¹⁶So it came to pass, when Joab was laying siege to the city, that he put Uriah in the place where he knew that the men of valour, were. ¹⁷And forth sallied the men of the city, and fought with Joab, and there fell some of the people, of the servants of David,—then died also, Uriah the Hittite. ¹⁸So Joab sent and told David all the news of the battle; ¹⁹and he charged the messenger saying,—When thou hast ended all the news of the battle, in speaking unto the king, ²⁰then shall it be, if the king's anger arise, and he say unto thee, Why came ye near unto the city, to fight? Knew ye not, that they would shoot from off the wall? ²¹Who smote Abimelech son of Jerubbaal? Did not, a woman, cast on him an upper millstone from off the wall, that he died, in Thebez? Wherefore came ye near unto the wall? Then shalt thou say—Moreover, thy servant, Uriah the Hittite, died. ²²And the messenger went his way,—and came in, and told David, all that Joab had sent him to tell. ²³And the messenger said unto David, The men were too strong for us, and sallied forth against us, in the field,—so we were drawn against them as far as the opening of the gate. ²⁴Then did the archers shoot upon thy servants, from off the wall, and there died some of the servants of the king,—moreover also, thy servant, Uriah the Hittite, died. ²⁵Then said David unto the messenger—Thus, shalt thou say unto Joab,—Let not this thing be grievous in thine eyes, for, now this one, and then that one, doth the sword devour,—make hot thy battle against the city, and overthrow it; Thus embolden thou him. ²⁶And, when Uriah's wife heard that Uriah her husband was dead, she made loud lamentation over her lord. ²⁷And, when the time of mourning had passed, David sent and received her into his house, and she became his wife, and bare him a son. But the thing which David had done was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh.

¹²So then Yahweh sent Nathan the prophet unto David,—who therefore came unto him and said to him—Two men, there were in a certain city, the one, rich, and, the other, poor. ²The, rich, man had flocks and herds exceeding many; ³whereas the, poor, man had, nothing,—save one little lamb, which he had made his own, and sustained, and it had grown up with him and with his children, all together,—of his own morsel, used it to eat, and, out of his own cup, used it to drink, and, in his own bosom, used it to lie, and it was to him, as a daughter. ⁴Now there came a traveller to the rich man, but he thought it a pity to take of his own flock, or his own herd, to make ready for the wayfarer who had come to him,—so he took the lamb of his poor neighbour, and made ready for the man who had come to him. ⁵Then was kindled the anger of David against the man, fiercely,—and he said unto Nathan, By the life of Yahweh, doomed to death, is the man that hath done this; ⁶and, the lamb, shall he pay back sevenfold,—because he did this thing, and, for that he had no pity. ⁷Then said Nathan unto David: Thou, art the man! Thus, saith Yahweh, God of Israel—I, anointed thee to be king over Israel, and, I, delivered thee out of the hand of Saul; ⁸and gave unto thee the household of thy lord, and the wives of thy lord, into thy bosom, and gave unto thee the house of Israel and Judah. And, if this had been too little, I could have further given thee more and more of such things. ⁹Wherefore, hast thou despised the word of Yahweh, by doing that which is wicked in mine eyes? Uriah the Hittite, hast thou smitten with the sword, and, his wife, hast thou taken to thyself to wife, yea, him, hast thou slain with the sword of the sons of Ammon! ¹⁰Now, therefore, the sword shall not depart from thy house, unto age-abiding times,—because thou hast despised me, and taken the wife of Uriah the Hittite to be thy wife. ¹¹Thus, saith Yahweh,—Behold me! raising up over thee calamity out of thine own household, and I will take thy wives, before thine eyes, and give unto thy neighbour, and he will lie with thy wives, in the eyes of this sun. ¹²For, thou, didst it, in secret,—but, I, will do this thing, before all Israel, and before the sun. ¹³And David said unto Nathan, I have sinned against Yahweh. Then said Nathan unto David,—Yahweh also, hath put away thy sin, thou shalt not die! ¹⁴Nevertheless, because thou hast greatly blasphemed Yahweh, by this thing, the very son that is born to thee, shall, die. ¹⁵And Nathan departed unto his own house,—and Yahweh struck the child that the wife of Uriah had borne unto David, and it fell sick. ¹⁶David therefore earnestly sought God in behalf of the boy,—and David kept a fast, and used to go in and pass the night, and lie upon the ground. ¹⁷And the elders of his house stood up over him, to raise him from the ground,—but he would not, neither would he eat food with them. ¹⁸And it came to pass, on the seventh day, that the child died,—but the servants of David feared to tell him that the child was dead, for said they—Lo! while the child was living, we spake unto him, and he hearkened not unto our voice, how then can we say unto him, The child is dead, and so he do himself harm? ¹⁹But, when David saw that his servants were whispering among themselves, then understood David that the child was dead,—and David said unto his servants—Is the child, dead? And they answered—Dead! ²⁰Then David arose from the ground, and bathed and anointed, and changed his apparel, and, entering into the house of Yahweh, bowed himself down,—then came he into his own house, and asked, and they set before him food, and he did eat. ²¹Then said his servants unto him, What is this thing that thou hast done? For the child's sake, while living, thou didst fast and weep, but, as soon as the child was dead, thou didst arise and eat food. ²²And he said,—While yet the child lived, I fasted, and wept,—for I said—

Who knoweth whether Yahweh may not grant me favour, and the child live? ²³But, now, that he is dead, wherefore should I go on fasting? can I bring him back again? I am going unto him, but, he, will not come back unto me. ²⁴And David consoled Bath-sheba his wife, and went in unto her, and lay with her,—and she bare a son, and called his name, Solomon, and Yahweh loved him. ²⁵And he sent by the hand of Nathan the prophet, and called his name Jedidiah, for Yahweh's sake. ²⁶And Joab fought against Rabbah, of the sons of Ammon,—and captured the royal city. ²⁷Then Joab sent messengers unto David,—and said—I have fought against Rabbah, I have also captured the city of the waters. ²⁸Now, therefore, gather thou together the rest of the people, and encamp against the city, and capture it,—lest, I, capture the city, and it be called by my name. ²⁹So David gathered together all the people, and went to Rabbah,—and fought against it, and captured it. ³⁰Then took he the crown of Milcom from off his head, the weight thereof, being a talent of gold, with the precious stones, and it remained on the head of David,—the spoil of the city also, brought he forth in great abundance; ³¹the people also that were therein, brought he forth, and put them to the saw, and to threshing sledges of iron, and to axes of iron, and made them pass through the brickkiln, and thus used he to do unto all the cities of the sons of Ammon. And David and all the people returned unto Jerusalem.

13And it came to pass, after this, that, Absolom, son of David, having a beautiful sister, whose name, was Tamar, Amnon son of David loved her. ²And it so troubled Amnon, that he made himself ill on account of Tamar his sister, for, a virgin, was she, and it was monstrous in Amnon's own eyes, to do, anything, unto her. ³But, Amnon, had a friend, whose name, was Jonadab, son of Shimeah, David's brother,—and, Jonadab, was a very cunning man. ⁴So he said to him,—Why art thou looking so wretched—a king's son too—morning by morning? Wilt thou not tell me? And Amnon said to him, With Tamar, my brother Absolom's sister, am I in love. ⁵And Jonadab said unto him: Take to thy bed, and feign thyself ill,—and, when thy father cometh in to see thee, then shalt thou say unto him—I pray thee, let Tamar my sister come, that she may give me food, and let her prepare, before mine eyes, some delicacy, to the end that I may see it made, and so eat at her hand. ⁶So Amnon took to his bed, and feigned himself ill,—and, when the king came in to see him, Amnon said unto the king—I pray thee, let Tamar my sister come, and make ready before mine eyes a couple of cakes, that I may eat at her hand. ⁷So David sent unto Tamar, in the house—saying,—Come, I pray thee, to the house of Amnon thy brother, and prepare him enticing food. ⁸And Tamar went to the house of Amnon her brother, he having taken to his bed,—and took dough and kneaded it, and folded it before his eyes, and baked the cakes. ⁹Then took she the pan and put them out before him, but he refused to eat. And Amnon said—Have forth every one from me. And they went out every one from him. ¹⁰Then said Amnon unto Tamar—Bring the food into the chamber, that I may eat out of thine own hand. So Tamar took the cakes which she had made, and brought them in to Amnon her brother, in the chamber. ¹¹And, when she brought them unto him to eat, he took hold of her, and said to her, Come lie with me, my sister! ¹²But she said to him—Nay! my brother, do not force me, for it should not be done so in Israel,—do not commit this vileness. ¹³And, I,—whither could I take my reproach? Thou, too, wouldest be as one of the vile fellows, in Israel. Now, therefore, speak, I pray thee, unto the king, for he would not withhold me from thee. ¹⁴But he would not hearken unto her voice,—and, being stronger than she, forced her, and lay with her. ¹⁵Then did Amnon hate her with a very great hatred, for, greater, was the hatred wherewith he hated her, than the love wherewith he had loved her,—so Amnon said to her—Rise—begone! ¹⁶But she said to him—No occasion for this greater wrong, after what thou hast done with me, to put me away! Nevertheless he would not hearken unto her; ¹⁷but called his young man who waited on him, and said—I pray you, put forth this woman from me, outside,—and bolt the door after her. ¹⁸Now she had upon her a long tunic, for, so, used king's daughters to apparel themselves, when they were virgins, in robes. And his attendant took her forth, outside, and bolted the door, after her. ¹⁹And Tamar put ashes upon her head, and, the long tunic that was upon her, she rent,—and put her hand upon her head, and went her way, crying out as she went. ²⁰And Absolom her brother said unto her—Hath, Amnon thy brother, been with thee? Now, therefore, my sister, hold thy peace—thy brother, he is, do not lay to thy heart, this thing. But Tamar remained, and was desolate in the house of Absolom her brother. ²¹And, King David, heard all these things,—and it angered him greatly. ²²And Absolom spake not with Amnon, either bad or good,—though Absolom hated Amnon, because he had forced Tamar his sister. ²³And it came to pass, after two years of days, that Absolom had, sheepshearers in Baal-hazor, which is beside Ephron,—and Absolom invited all the king's sons. ²⁴Absolom came also unto the king, and said, See, I pray thee, thy servant hath, sheepshearers,—I pray thee, let the king and his servants go with thy servant. ²⁵And the king said unto Absolom—Nay! my son, do not, I pray thee, let us all go, lest we be burdensome upon thee. And, though he urged him, he would not go, but blessed him. ²⁶Then said Absolom, If not, then, I pray thee, let Amnon my brother go with us. And the king said unto him, Wherefore should he go with thee? ²⁷And Absolom urged him,—so he let Amnon and all the king's sons go with him. ²⁸Now Absolom had commanded his young men, saying—Mark, I pray you, when the heart of Amnon is merry with wine, and I say unto you—Smite ye Amnon, then shall ye put him to death, do not fear,—have not, I myself, commanded you? Be bold, and show yourselves to be sons of valour. ²⁹So Absalom's young men did to Amnon as Absalom had commanded. Then arose all the king's sons, and rode away—each man on his mule, and fled. ³⁰And it came to pass, while, they, were yet on the road, that, the report, reached David, saying,—Absalom hath smitten all the king's sons, and there is not left of them, one. ³¹And the king arose, and rent his garments, and lay on the ground,—and all his servants who stood by rent their garments. ³²Then responded Jonadab son of Shimeah David's brother, and said—Let not my lord say that they have put, all the young men—the king's sons, to death; for, Amnon alone, is dead; for, by the bidding of Absalom, was it appointed, from the day that he forced Tamar his sister. ³³Now, therefore, let not my lord the king lay to his heart such a thing—to say, All the king's sons, are dead,—but, Amnon alone, is dead. ³⁴Now Absalom had fled. And the young man that was watching lifted up his eyes and looked, and lo! much people, coming on the road behind him, on the mountain-side. ³⁵So Jonadab said unto the king, Lo! the king's sons, are come,—according to the word of thy servant, so hath it come to pass. ³⁶And so it was, as he made an end of speaking, that lo! the king's sons, came, and lifted up their voice and wept,—the king also, and all his servants, wept with an exceeding great weeping. ³⁷But, Absalom, had fled, and had taken his journey unto Talmai son of Ammihud, king of Geshur. And David the king mourned for his son continually, ³⁸But, Absalom, had fled, and had taken his journey to Geshur,—and it came to pass that he was there three years. ³⁹And the spirit of the king pined to go forth unto Absalom,—for he had consoled himself over Amnon, in that he was dead.

¹⁴And Joab, son of Zeruiah, perceived that the heart of the king was towards Absalom. ²So Joab sent to Tekoa, and fetched from thence, a wise woman,—and said unto her—I pray thee, feign thyself a mourner, and put on, I pray thee, mourning apparel, and do not anoint thyself with oil, but be as a woman that hath, these many days, been mourning for the dead; ³so shalt thou come in unto the king, and speak unto him, after this manner. And Joab put the words in her mouth. ⁴And, when the woman of Tekoa came in unto the king, she fell on her face to the ground, and did homage,—and said—Save, O king! ⁵And the king said to her—What aileth thee? And she said—Of a truth, a widow woman, am I, for my husband is dead. ⁶Now, thy maidservant, had two sons, and they two strove together in the field, with none to tear them apart,—so the one smote the other, and slew him. ⁷Lo! therefore, all the family hath risen up against thy maidservant, and have said: Give up him that hath smitten his brother, that we may put him to death, for the life of his brother, whom he hath slain, that we may destroy, the heir also. So will they quench my ember that is left, and make my husband without name or remainder, on the face of the ground. ⁸And the king said unto the woman—Go to thy house, and, I, will give command concerning thee. ⁹Then said the woman of Tekoa unto the king, Upon me, my lord, O king, be the iniquity, and upon the house of my father, —but, the king and his throne, be guiltless. ¹⁰And the king said,—He that speaketh unto thee, bring him in unto me, and he shall, no more, annoy thee. ¹¹Then said she: Let the king, I pray thee, remember Yahweh thy God; so that the blood-redeemer may not make utter ruin, and that they destroy not my son. And he said—By the life of Yahweh, not one hair of thy son shall fall to the earth. ¹²Then said the woman, Pray let thy maidservant speak unto my lord the king, a word. And he said—Speak. ¹³And the woman said, Wherefore, then, hast thou devised the like of this, for the people of God; and yet the king, in speaking this word, is verily guilty, unless the king, bring back his fugitive? ¹⁴For, when we, die, we become as water poured on the ground, which cannot be gathered up again,—therefore doth God not take away the life, but deviseth plans so as not to thrust out from him, a fugitive. ¹⁵Now, therefore, is it that I have come to speak unto the king my lord this word, because the people kept putting me in fear,—so thy maidservant said—Do let me, I pray you, speak unto the king! peradventure the king will fulfil the request of his handmaid. ¹⁶For the king can hearken, to rescue his handmaid out of the power of the man who would seek to destroy both me and my son together, out of the inheritance of God. ¹⁷So thy maidservant said, Pray let the word of my lord the king be comforting,—for, as the messenger of God, so is my lord the king, in hearing the good and the bad, Yahweh thy God, then, be with thee. ¹⁸Then responded the king, and said unto the woman, Nay, now! do not hide from me, the thing which I am about to ask thee. And the woman said, Pray let my lord the king speak. ¹⁹Then said the king, Is, the hand of Joab, with thee, in all this? And the woman answered and said—By the life of thy soul, my lord, O king, there is no way to the right or to the left, of anything that my lord the king hath spoken, for, thy servant Joab himself, charged me, and, himself, put, in the mouth of thy maidservant, all these words: ²⁰for the purpose of turning round the face of the matter, hath thy servant Joab done this thing,—my lord being wise, as with the wisdom of a messenger of God, in knowing all that is done in the land. ²¹Then said the king unto Joab, See, I pray thee, I have done this thing,—go then—bring back the young man, Absalom. ²²So Joab fell with his face to the earth, and did homage, and blessed the king,—and Joab said—To-day, doth thy servant know, that I have found favour in thine eyes, my lord O king, in that the king hath fulfilled the request of thy servant. ²³And Joab arose, and went to Geshur,—and brought Absalom to Jerusalem. ²⁴And the king said—Let him go round to his own house, and, my face, let him not see. So Absalom went round, unto his own house, and, the face of the king, saw he not. ²⁵Now, like unto Absalom, was there no man handsome in all Israel, to be greatly praised,—from the sole of his foot, even unto the crown of his head, there was not, in him, a blemish. ²⁶And when he polled his head—and it was at every year's end that he used to poll it, because it was heavy upon him, therefore he used to poll it—he would weigh the hair of his head, two hundred shekels, by the royal standard. ²⁷And there were born to Absalom three sons, and one daughter, whose name, was Tamar,—she, was a woman beautiful to look upon. ²⁸So Absalom dwelt in Jerusalem two years of days,—and, the face of the king, had he not seen. ²⁹Then sent Absalom unto Joab, to send him unto the king, but he would not come to him,—so he sent yet a second time, but he would not come. ³⁰Then said he unto his servants—See, the allotted portion of Joab, adjoineth me, and, he, hath barley there, go, and set it on fire. So the servants of Absalom set the portion on fire. ³¹Then rose Joab, and went unto Absalom, in his house,—and said unto him, Wherefore, have thy servants set the portion that pertaineth to me, on fire? ³²And Absalom said unto Joab—Lo! I sent unto thee, saying—Come hither, that I may send thee unto the king, saying—Wherefore, am I come from Geshur? I, might as well have yet been there. Now, therefore, let me see the face of the king, and, if there is in me iniquity, then let him put me to death. ³³So Joab came unto the king, and told him, and the king called for Absalom, and he came in unto the king, and bowed himself down with his face to the ground, before the king,—and the king kissed Absalom.

15And it came to pass, after this, that Absalom prepared him chariots and horses,—and fifty men, to run before him. ²And Absalom used to rise up early, and take his stand beside the way of the gate,—and so it was—when any man who had a controversy would come unto the king for judgment, then Absalom called unto him, and said: Of what city, art, thou? And he said, Of one of the tribes of Israel, is thy servant. And Absalom said unto him, ³See! thy cause, is good and right,—but, to hear it, thou hast no one, from the king. ⁴And Absalom said, Oh would that I were appointed to judge in the land! that, unto me, might come every man having a complaint or a defence, then would I see him righted. ⁵Moreover, so it used to be, that, when any man came near to do him homage, he would put forth his hand, and lay hold of him, and kiss him. ⁶And Absalom did, after this manner, to all Israel who came for judgment, unto the king,—so Absalom stole away the heart of the men of Israel. ⁷And it came to pass, at the end of forty years, that Absalom said unto the king—Let me go, I pray thee, that I may pay my vow which I have vowed unto Yahweh, in Hebron; ⁸for thy servant vowed, a vow, while I abode in Geshur in Syria, saying,—If Yahweh, will but bring me back, unto Jerusalem, then will I serve Yahweh, ⁹And the king said unto him—Go and prosper! So he arose and went to Hebron. ¹⁰And Absalom sent spies throughout all the tribes of Israel, saying,—When ye hear the sound of the horn, then shall ye say, Absalom hath become king in Hebron! ¹¹And, with Absalom, went two hundred men, out of Jerusalem, who, having been bidden, were going in their simplicity,—neither knew they anything. ¹²And Absalom sent and called Ahithophel the Gilonite, David's counsellor, out of his city, out of Gilo, when he was offering sacrifices,—and so it was that the conspiracy was strong, and, the people, went on multiplying with Absalom. ¹³Then came one bearing tidings unto David, saying,—It hath come about, that the heart of the men of Israel goeth after Absalom. ¹⁴Then said David, to all his servants who were with him in Jerusalem—Arise and let us flee, or we shall have no way of escape from the face of Absalom,—make speed to depart, lest he make speed, and so overtake us, and bring down misfortune upon us, and smite the city with the edge of the sword. ¹⁵And the king's servants said unto the king,—According to all that my lord the king shall choose, here are thy servants. ¹⁶So the king went forth, with all his household attending him,—but the king left ten women who were concubines, to keep the house. ¹⁷Thus then the king went forth, with all the people attending him,—and they came to a stand at a place that was far off. ¹⁸And, all his servants, were passing on beside him, and all the Cherethites, and all the Pelethites, —and, all the Gittites—six hundred men, who had accompanied him from Gath,—were passing on before the king. ¹⁹Then said the king, unto Ittai the Gittite, Wherefore shouldest, thou also, go with us? return and abide with the king, for, a stranger, art thou, moreover also, an exile, art thou from thine own country. ²⁰Only yesterday, camest thou, and, today, shall I let thee wander with us, on our journey, seeing that, I, am going, whithersoever I may? Return and take back thy brethren with thee, and may Yahweh deal with thee in lovingkindness and faithfulness. ²¹But Ittai answered the king, and said,—By the life of Yahweh, and by the life of my lord the king, surely, in whatsoever place, my lord the king, may be, whether for death or for life, there will, thy servant, be. ²²Then said David unto Ittai—Go, and pass on. So Ittai the Gittite passed on, with all his men, and all the little ones that were with him. ²³And, fall the land, was weeping, with a loud voice, and, all the people, were passing on,—the king also, was passing on, through the torrent-bed of Kidron, and all the people were passing on over the face of the way leading to the wilderness. ²⁴And lo! Zadok also, and all the Levites with him, were bearing the ark of the covenant of God, and they set down the ark of God, and Abiathar went up, until all the people had made an end of passing over out of the city. ²⁵Then said the king unto Zadok, Take back the ark of God into the city,—if I find favour in the eyes of Yahweh, then will he bring me back, and let me see both him and his habitation, ²⁶but, if thus, he say, I have no delight in thee, here I am, let him do unto me as may be good in his eyes. ²⁷And the king said, unto Zadok the priest, Art thou not, a seer? return into the city, in peace,—and Ahimaaz thine own son, and Jonathan son of Abiathar—your two sons, with you. ²⁸See! I, am tarrying in the waste plains of the wilderness—until there come word from you, to tell me. ²⁹So Zadok and Abiathar took back the ark of God to Jerusalem,—and abode there. ³⁰Now, David, was going up by the ascent of Olivet, weeping as he went up, with his head covered, himself, passing on barefoot,—and all the people who were with him, covered every man his head, and went up, weeping as they went. ³¹And, unto David, it was told, saying, Ahithophel, is among the conspirators with Absalom. And David said, Turn to foolishness, I pray thee, the counsel of Ahithophel, O Yahweh. ³²And it came to pass, when David reached the summit, where he bowed himself down unto God, that lo! there met him, Hushai the Archite, his tunic rent, and earth upon his head. ³³And David said unto him,—If thou pass over with me, then shalt thou become unto me, a burden; ³⁴but, if, to the city, thou return, then canst thou say unto Absalom—Thy servant, I, O king, will be, as, the servant of thy father, I was formerly, so will I, now, be thy servant: thus shalt thou frustrate for me the counsel of Ahithophel. ³⁵And hast thou not, with thee, there Zadok and Abiathar the priests? so then it shall be, that, what thing soever thou shalt hear out of the house of the king, thou shalt tell to Zadok and to Abiathar, the priests. ³⁶Lo! they have there with them, their two sons, Ahimaaz for Zadok, and Jonathan for Abiathar,—so shall ye send, by their hand, unto me, everything which ye shall hear. ³⁷So Hushai, David's friend, went into the city,—when, Absalom, was about to enter Jerusalem.

16Now, David, had passed on but a little from the summit, when lo! Ziba, servant of Mephibosheth, met him,—with a couple of asses saddled, and, upon them, two hundred cakes of bread, and one hundred cakes of raisins, and one hundred summer fruits, and a skin of wine. ²And the king said unto Ziba, What meanest thou, by these? And Ziba said—The asses, are for the king's household, to ride on, and, the bread and the summer fruits, are for the young men to eat, and, the wine, is for drink to such as are faint in the wilderness. ³Then said the king, And where is thy lord's son? And Ziba said unto the king—Lo! abiding in Jerusalem, for he said, To-day, will the house of Israel, restore unto me, the kingdom of my father. ⁴Then said the king unto Ziba, Lo! thine, is all that pertained to Mephibosheth. And Ziba said—I have done homage, that I might find favour in thine eyes, my lord O king. ⁵And, when King David had come as far as Bahurim, lo! from thence a man coming out, of the family of the house of Saul, whose name, was Shimei son of Gera, coming out and cursing as he came. ⁶And he pelted, with stones, David and all the servants of King David,—all the people, and all the mighty men, being on his right hand and on his left. ⁷And, thus, said Shimei, when he cursed,—Out! Out! thou man of bloodshed, and man of the Abandoned One! ⁸Yahweh, hath brought back upon thee, all the shed-blood of the house of Saul, in whose stead thou hast reigned, and Yahweh hath delivered the kingdom into the hand of Absalom thy son,—and, here thou art, in thy ruin, for that, a man of bloodshed, thou art. ⁹Then said Abishai, son of Zeruiah, unto the king—Wherefore should this dead dog curse my lord the king? I pray thee, let me cross over and take off his head. ¹⁰But the king said, What have I in common with you, ye sons of Zeruiah? thus, he curseth, because, Yahweh, hath said unto him—Curse David. Who then can say, Why hast thou done thus? ¹¹Then said David unto Abishai, and unto all his servants, Lo! my own son who sprang from my body, is seeking my life,—then how much more, now, a Benjamite? Let him alone, and let him curse, for, Yahweh, hath permitted him. ¹²It may be, that Yahweh will behold with his eye,—and that Yahweh will return me good, for his cursing this day. ¹³And, when David and his men went along in the way, Shimei, was going along on the side of the hill over against him, cursing as he went, pelting him with stones, and throwing dust. ¹⁴And the king and all the people that were with him arrived, weary,—and they refreshed themselves there. ¹⁵And, Absalom and all the men of Israel, entered Jerusalem,—and Ahithophel with him. ¹⁶And it came to pass, when Hushai the Archite, the friend of David, came in unto Absalom, that Hushai said unto Absalom: Long live the king! Long live the king! ¹⁷Then said Absalom unto Hushai, Is, this, thy lovingkindness unto thy friend? Wherefore wentest thou not with thy friend? ¹⁸And Hushai said unto Absalom, Nay! but, whom Yahweh, and all this people, and the men of Israel have chosen, his, will I be, and, with him, will I dwell. ¹⁹And, again, whom, should, I serve? Should it not be in presence of his son? as I served in presence of thy father, so, will I continue thy presence. ²⁰Then said Absalom unto Ahithophel,—Give ye your counsel, what we shall do. ²¹And Ahithophel said unto Absalom, Go in unto thy father's concubines, whom he hath left to keep the house,—so shall all Israel hear that thou hast made thyself odious unto thy father, and the hands of all that are with thee, shall be strengthened. ²²And they stretched out for Absalom a tent, upon the house-top,—and Absalom went in unto his father's concubines, in the sight of all Israel. ²³Now, the counsel of Ahithophel which he counselled in those days, was as if a man had enquired at the oracle

of God,—so, was all the counsel of Ahithophel, both to David, and also to Absolom.

17Then said Ahithophel unto Absolom: I pray thee, let me choose for myself, twelve thousand men, and arise, and pursue David to-night; ²and let me come upon him, when, he, is weary, and weak-handed, so shall I strike him with terror, and all the people who are with him shall flee,—then will I smite the king alone: ³that I may bring back all the people unto thee,—when all return— save the man whom thou art seeking, all the people, will be at peace. ⁴And the saying was right in the eyes of Absolom, —and in the eyes of all the elders of Israel. ⁵Then said Absolom, I pray you, call ye Hushai the Archite also,—and let us hear what is in, his, mouth, also. ⁶And, when Hushai came in unto Absolom, Absolom spake unto him, saying—After this manner, hath Ahithophel spoken, shall we do what he saith? if not, thou, speak. ⁷Then said Hushai unto Absolom,—Not good, is the counsel that Ahithophel hath given—at this time. ⁸And Hushai said—Thou, knowest thy father and his men—that, men of might, they are, and, embittered in soul, they are, like a bear bereaved of her young, in the field,—thy father also, is a man of war, and will not lodge with the people. ⁹Lo! by this time, hath, he, hidden himself in some pit, or other place,—and it shall be, as soon as he falleth upon them at the first, that he that hearkeneth for tidings will hear of it , and will say—There is a defeat among the people that are following Absolom: ¹⁰then will, even the son of valour himself, whose heart is as the heart of a lion, utterly melt,—for all Israel do know that, a man of might, is thy father, and that, sons of valour, are they who are with him. ¹¹Therefore I counsel—that there be a general gathering together unto thee of all Israel, from Dan even unto Beer-sheba, as the sand that is by the sea for multitude,—and that, thine own presence, be going on in their midst. ¹²So shall we come upon him in some place where he hath been found, yea, we, shall be upon him, as when the dew falleth upon the ground,—and there shall not be left of him, or of the men that are with him, so much as one. ¹³But, if, into a city, he withdraw, then will all Israel bring up unto that city, ropes,—and we will drag it down unto the ravine, until there be not found in that place, so much as a small stone. ¹⁴Then said Absolom and all the men of Israel, Better, is the counsel of Hushai the Archite, than the counsel of Ahithophel. Yahweh, indeed, had given charge to frustrate the wise counsel of Ahithophel, to the intent that Yahweh might bring upon Absolom, ruin. ¹⁵So Hushai said unto Zadok and unto Abiathar the priests, Thus and thus, did Ahithophel counsel Absolom and the elders of Israel,—and, thus and thus, have, I, counselled. ¹⁶Now, therefore, send quickly, and tell David, saying,—Do not lodge to-night in the waste plains of the wilderness, thou must, even pass over, lest the king be swallowed up, and all the people who are with him.

¹⁷Now, Jonathan and Ahimaaz, were staying by En-rogel, and a maidservant was to go and tell them, and, they, were to go and tell King David,—for they might not be seen to enter the city. ¹⁸And, though a young man did see them, and told Absolom, yet they both departed quickly, and entered the house of a man in Bahurim, and, he, had a well in his court, into which they went down; ¹⁹and the woman took and spread the cover over the face of the well, and spread thereon her pounded corn,—so nothing was known. ²⁰Then came the servants of Absolom unto the woman in the house, and said—Where are Ahimaaz and Jonathan? And the woman said to them—They have passed over the stream of water. And, when they had searched and not found, they returned to Jerusalem. ²¹And it came to pass, after those had gone, that these came up out of the well, and went, and told King David,—and said unto David,—Arise ye and pass quickly over the water, for, thus and thus, hath Ahithophel counselled against you. ²²So David arose, and all the people who were with him, and passed over the Jordan, by the morning light, so much as one, was not lacking, who had not passed over the Jordan. ²³Now, when, Ahithophel, saw that his counsel was not followed, he saddled his ass, and arose and went unto his own house, unto his own city, and gave charge unto his household, and hanged himself, and died, and was buried in the grave of his father. ²⁴When, David, had come to Mahanaim, Absolom, had passed over the Jordan, he and all the men of Israel with him. ²⁵Now Absolom had appointed, Amasa, instead of Joab, over the army,—Amasa, being the son of a man whose name was Ithra the Ishmaelite, who went in unto Abigail, daughter of Nahash, sister of Zeruiah, mother of Joab. ²⁶And Israel and Absolom encamped in the land of Gilead. ²⁷And it came to pass, when David entered Mahanaim, that Shobi son of Nahash of Rabbah of the sons of Ammon and Machir son of Ammiel of Lodebar, and Barzillai the Gileadite, of Rogelim, ²⁸brought, sleeping rugs, and basins, and earthen vessels, and wheat and barley, and meal and roasted corn,—and beans and lentils, and parched pulse; ²⁹and honey and cream, and sheep, and cheese of kine, for David, and for the people that were with him, to eat,—for they said, The people, are hungry and weary and thirsty, in the wilderness.

18Then David mustered the people that were with him,—and set over them, captains of thousands, and captains of hundreds. ²And David sent forth the people—a third part, under the hand of Joab, and, a third part, under the hand of Abishai son of Zeruiah, brother of Joab, and, a third part, under the hand of Ittai the Gittite. Then said the king, unto the people, I myself, will, surely go forth, with you. ³But the people said—Thou must not go forth, for, if we, flee, they will not regard us, neither, if half of us die, will they regard us, for, thou, compared with us, art worth ten thousand,—now, therefore, it will be better that thou come to us out of the city, with succour. ⁴And the king said unto them, Whatever is best in your eyes, I will do. And the king stood beside the gate, while, all the people, came out by hundreds and by thousands. ⁵And the king charged Joab and Abishai and Ittai, saying, Deal gently, for my sake, with the young man, even Absalom. And, all the people, heard when the king charged all the captains, for the sake of Absalom. ⁶So the people went forth into the field against Israel,—and the battle took place in the forest of Ephraim. ⁷Then were the people of Israel defeated there, before he servants of David,—and the slaughter there was great, on that day—twenty thousand. ⁸And the battle there was spread out over the face of all the land,—and the forest devoured more of the people than the sword devoured on that day. ⁹Now, when Absalom met the servants of David, Absalom, was riding upon a mule, and the mule came under the thick branches of a large oak, and his head caught hold of the oak, and he was suspended between heaven and earth, the mule that was under him passing on. ¹⁰And a certain man saw it, and told Joab,—and said—Lo! I saw Absalom suspended in an oak. ¹¹Then said Joab to the man that was telling him, Lo! since thou sawest him, why didst thou not smite him there, to the ground? then should I have been bound to give thee ten pieces of silver, and a girdle. ¹²And the man said unto Joab, Though I were weighing upon my palm a thousand pieces of silver, yet would I not put forth my hand against the son of the king,—for, in our hearing, the king Charged thee and Abishai and Ittai, saying, Watch any man who would touch the young man Absalom. ¹³Otherwise, had I dealt with my life falsely (and nothing can be hid from the king), then, thou thyself, wouldst have stood aloof. ¹⁴And Joab said, Not thus, may I tarry before thee. And he took three darts in his hand, and thrust them into the heart of Absalom, while he was yet alive in the midst of the oak. ¹⁵Then came round ten young men who bare Joab's armour,—and smote Absalom, and slew him. ¹⁶Then Joab blew with a horn, and the people returned from pursuing Israel,—for Joab had restrained the people. ¹⁷And they took Absalom, and cast him, in the forest, into a large pit, and raised up over him a very great heap of stones,—and, all Israel, fled, every man to his home. ¹⁸But, Absalom, had taken, and raised up for himself, in his lifetime, the pillar that is in the king's vale, for he said, I have no son, to keep in remembrance my name, so he called the pillar after his own name, and it is called Absalom's monument unto this day. ¹⁹Then, Ahimaaz, son of Zadok, said, Let me run, I pray thee, and carry tidings unto the king,—how that Yahweh hath vindicated him, at the hand of his enemies. ²⁰And Joab said to him—Not a man to bear tidings, art thou this day, but thou shalt bear tidings another day,—but, this day, shalt thou not bear tidings, for this cause, that, the king's son, is dead. ²¹Then said Joab to a Cushite, Go tell the king, what thou hast seen. And the

Cushite bowed himself down to Joab, and ran. ²²Then, yet again, said Ahimaaz son of Zadok unto Joab. But, be what may, do, I pray thee, let, me also, run, after the Cushite. And Joab said—Wherefore is it that, thou, wouldst run, my son, when, thou, hast no tidings of, any profit? ²³But, be what may, I will run. So he said to him—Run. Then ran Ahimaaz by the way of the plain, and got beyond the Cushite. ²⁴Now, David, was sitting between the two gates,—and the watchman went on to the top of the gate-house, upon the wall, and lifted up his eyes, and looked, and lo! a man, running alone. ²⁵So the watchman called out, and told the king. And the king said, If he is alone, there are tidings in his mouth. And he came on nearer and nearer. ²⁶Then saw the watchman another man, running, so he called out unto the porter, Lo! a man, running alone. And the king said. This one also, beareth tidings. ²⁷Then said the watchman, It seemeth, to me, that, the running of the foremost, is like the running of Ahimaaz son of Zadok. And the king said, A good man, is he, and, with good tidings, he cometh. ²⁸Then called out Ahimaaz, and said unto the king, Peace! And he bowed himself down to the king, with his face to the earth,—and said—Blessed, be Yahweh thy God, who hath surrendered the men who were lifting up their hand, against my lord the king. ²⁹And the king said, Is it, well, with the young man—Absalom? Then said Ahimaaz—I saw a great crowd, when Joab sent the king's servant and me thy servant, but I knew not what it meant. ³⁰And the king said, Aside! stand, here. So he turned aside, and stood. ³¹Then lo! the Cushite, coming in,—and the Cushite said—Tidings, getteth my lord the king, how that Yahweh hath vindicated thee to-day, at the hand of all them who had risen up against thee. ³²And the king said unto the Cushite—Is it, well, with the young man—Absalom? Then said the Cushite—Be, like the young man, the enemies of my lord the king, and all who have risen up against thee, for harm. ³³Then was the king deeply moved, and went up to the chamber over the gate, and wept,—and, thus, he said as he went—O my son Absalom, my son—my son—Absalom! could, I, but have died in thy stead, O Absalom, my son—my son!

19And it was told Joab,—Lo! the king, is weeping and mourning over Absalom. ²So the victory, on that day, was turned into mourning, with all the people,—for the people heard, on that day, saying, The king is distressed for his son. ³And the people stole away, on that day, to go into the city,—as people steal away who are put to shame, when they flee in battle. ⁴But, the king, muffled his face, and the king made outcry, with a loud voice,—O my son Absalom, O Absalom, my son, my son! ⁵Then came Joab unto the king, in the house, —and said—Thou hast, to-day, covered with shame the faces of all thy servants, who have rescued thy life to-day, and the lives of thy sons and thy daughters, and the lives of thy wives, and the lives of thy concubines; ⁶by loving them who hated thee, and hating them who loved thee,—for thou hast declared, to-day, that, nothing to thee, are princes or servants, for I perceive, to-day, that, if, Absalom, had lived, and, all we, to-day had died, that, then, it had been right in thine eyes. ⁷Now, therefore, rise—go forth, and speak unto the heart of thy servants,—for, by Yahweh, have I sworn, that, if thou do not go forth, not a man shall tarry with thee to-night, and this will be to thee, a greater misfortune, than all the misfortune that hath come upon thee from thy youth until now. ⁸So the king arose, and took his seat in the gate,—and, to all the people, was it told, saying—Lo! the king, is sitting in the gate. Then came all the people before the king, but, Israel, had fled every man to his home. ⁹And it came to pass that all the people were reproaching one another, throughout all the tribes of Israel, saying,—the king, delivered us out of the hand of our enemies, and, he, rescued us out of the hand of the Philistines, but, now, he hath fled out of the land, away from Absalom; ¹⁰and, Absalom, whom we anointed over us, hath died in the battle. Now, therefore, why are, ye, silent as to bringing back the king? ¹¹And, King David, sent unto Zadok and unto Abiathar the priests, saying, Speak ye unto the elders of Judah, saying, Wherefore should ye be behindhand, in bringing back the king unto his home,—seeing that, the speech of all Israel, hath come unto the king, regarding his home? ¹²Mine own brethren, are ye, my bone and my flesh, are ye,—wherefore then should ye be behindhand in bringing back the king? ¹³And, unto Amasa, shall ye say, Art not, thou, my bone and my flesh? So, let God do to me, and, so, let him add, if thou become not, prince of the army, before me continually, instead of Joab. ¹⁴Thus bowed he the heart of all the men of Judah, as one man,—and they sent unto the king, Return, thou, and all thy servants. ¹⁵Then the king returned, and came as far as the Jordan,—and, Judah, came to Gilgal, to go and meet the king, to escort the king over the Jordan. ¹⁶Then hastened Shimei, son of Gera, the Benjamite, who was of Bahurim,—and came down, with the men of Judah, to meet King David. ¹⁷And, a thousand men, were with him, out of Benjamin, Ziba also, servant of the house of Saul, and his fifteen sons and twenty servants, with him,—and they went through the Jordan, before the king. ¹⁸But the ferry-boat kept crossing, to bring over the household of the king, and to do what was good in his eyes. And, Shimei, son of Gera, fell down before the king, when he had passed over the Jordan; ¹⁹and he said unto the king—Let not my lord impute to me iniquity, neither do thou remember the perverseness of thy servant, on the day that thou wentest out, my lord O king, from Jerusalem, that the king should lay it upon his heart. ²⁰For thy servant doth know, that, I, sinned, —lo! therefore, I have arrived to-day, as the first of all the house of Joseph, to come down to meet my lord the king. ²¹Then responded Abishai, son of Zeruiah, and said, For this, shall not Shimei be put to death, for that he cursed the Anointed of Yahweh? ²²But David said, What have I in common with you, ye sons of Zeruiah, for ye would become to me, to-day, a very traitor! Shall there, to-day, be put to death a man in Israel? for do I not know, that, to-day, I, am king over Israel? ²³Then said the king unto Shimei—Thou shalt not die. And the king sware to him. ²⁴And, Mephibosheth, son of Saul, came down to meet the king,—he had neither dressed his feet, nor trimmed his beard, nor, his clothes, had he washed, from the day the king departed, until the day that he entered in peace. ²⁵And it came to pass, when he entered Jerusalem to meet the king, that the king said unto him, Wherefore wentest thou not with me, Mephibosheth. ²⁶And he said, My lord, O king, my servant, betrayed me, —for thy servant said—I will even saddle me mine ass, that I may ride thereon, and go with the king, for, lame, is thy servant. ²⁷And he hath slandered thy servant, unto my lord the king,—but, my lord the king, is as a messenger of God, do therefore what is good in thine own eyes. ²⁸For, when all the house of my father were nothing better than dead men, unto my lord the king, then didst thou set thy servant among them that used to eat at thy table,—what then have I further, by way of right, or to cry out any further unto the king? ²⁹Then the king said unto him, Wherefore shouldst thou speak any further of thine affairs? I have said—Thou and Ziba, shall share the land. ³⁰And Mephibosheth said unto the king, Even the whole, let him take,—now that my lord the king hath entered, in peace, into his own house. ³¹And, Barzillai the Gileadite, came down from Rogelim,—and passed, with the king, over the Jordan, to escort him over the Jordan. ³²Now, Barzillai, was very aged, eighty years old,—and, he himself, had sustained the king, throughout his sojourn in Mahanaim, for he was, an exceeding great man. ³³So then the king said unto Barzillai,—Thou, come over with me, and I will sustain thee with me, in Jerusalem. ³⁴But Barzillai said unto the king,—Like unto what, are the days of the years of my life, that I should come up with the king, to Jerusalem. ³⁵Eighty years old, am I to-day—could I discern between good and bad? or could thy servant taste what I might eat, and what I might drink? or could I hearken any more to the voice of singing men and singing women? Wherefore, then, should thy servant yet be a burden unto my lord the king? ³⁶Just a little way, will thy servant pass over the Jordan with the king,—but wherefore should the king recompense me with this reward? ³⁷Let thy servant, I pray thee, turn back again, that I may die in mine own city, by the grave of my father, and my mother. But here is thy servant Chimham—let him pass over with my lord the king, and do unto him that which may be good in thine eyes. ³⁸Then said the king, With me, shall Chimham pass over, and, I, will do unto him that which shall be good in thine eyes,—and, whatsoever thou shalt choose to lay upon me, I will do for thee. ³⁹And, when all the people had passed over the Jordan, then, the king, passed over, —and the king kissed Barzillai, and blessed him, and he returned unto his own place. ⁴⁰And the king passed over to Gilgal, and, Chimham, passed over with him,—and, all the people of Judah, escorted the king, yea moreover, half the people of Israel. ⁴¹Then lo! all the men of Israel, were coming unto the king,—and they said unto the king—Why did our brethren the men of Judah steal thee away, and escort the king and his household over the Jordan, and all the men of David with him? ⁴²And all the men of Judah made answer unto the men of Israel—Because the king is, near of kin, unto us, wherefore, then, is it, that ye are angry over this matter? Have we, eaten, at the king's cost? or hath he, bestowed any gifts, on us? ⁴³And the men of Israel answered the men of Judah, and said—Ten parts, have we in the king, therefore, even in David, have we more right than ye. Why, then, made ye light of us, so that our word was not heard first as to bringing back our king? And, the words of the men of Judah, were fiercer than, the words of the men of Israel.

20Now, in that place, there happened to be an abandoned man, whose name, was Sheba son of Bichri, a man of Benjamin,—so he blew a horn, and said—We have no share in David, Nor inheritance have we in the son of Jesse, Every man to his home, O Israel! ²Then went up all the men of Israel from following David, to follow Sheba son of Bichri,—but, the men of Judah, clave unto their king, from the Jordan, even as far as Jerusalem. ³And David entered into his own house, in Jerusalem, and the king took the ten women, the concubines whom he had left to keep the house, and put them in ward, and sustained them, but, unto them, went he not in,—so they were shut up until the day of their death, in lifelong widowhood. ⁴Then said the king unto Amasa, Assemble me the men of Judah, within three days,—and, thou, here, take thy stand! ⁵So Amasa went, to assemble Judah,—but he tarried beyond the fixed time, which he had appointed him. ⁶Then said David unto Abishai, Now, shall Sheba son of Bichri, do us more harm than Absalom,—thou, take the servants of thy lord, and pursue him, lest he have got him into fortified cities, and so have escaped our eye. ⁷Then went out after him—the men of Joab, and the Cherethites and the Pelethites, and all the mighty men,—and they went out from Jerusalem, to pursue Sheba son of Bichri. ⁸When, they, were by the great stone which is in Gibeon, Amasa, had arrived before them. Now, Joab, was girded about with his war-coat as his upper garment, and, over it, a girdle with a sword, fastened upon his loins, in the sheath thereof, and, it, came out and fell. ⁹Then said Joab unto Amasa, Art thou, well, my brother? And Joab took Amasa by the beard with his right hand, to kiss him. ¹⁰Amasa not heeding the sword that was in the hand of Joab, he smote him therewith in the belly, and shed out his bowels to the ground, and struck him not again, and he died. So, Joab and Abishai his brother, pursued Sheba son of Bichri. ¹¹Now, a man, stood over him, of the young men of Joab,—and said—Whosoever is well pleased with Joab, and whosoever pertaineth to David, let him follow Joab. ¹²But, Amasa, was wallowing in blood, in the midst of the highway,—and, when the man saw that all the people stood still, he moved Amasa, out of the highway into the field, and cast over him a garment, as soon as he saw that every man that came up to him stood still. ¹³When he had removed him out of the highway, every man passed on, after Joab, to pursue Sheba son of Bichri. ¹⁴And he passed on throughout all the tribes of Israel, unto Abel and unto Beth-maachah, and all the Berites,—and they were called together, and came in, yea and followed him. ¹⁵So they came, and laid siege against him, in Abel, Beth-maachah, and they cast up a mound against the city, so that it stood within a rampart, —and, all the people who were with Joab, were battering the wall to throw it down. ¹⁶Then cried a wise woman out of the city,—Hear ye! hear ye! I pray you, say unto Joab, Come near hither, and let me speak unto thee. ¹⁷So he came near unto her, and the woman said,—Art thou Joab? And he said,—I am. And she said unto him,—Hear thou the words of thy handmaid. And he said, I do hear. ¹⁸Then spake she, saying,—They, used to speak, in former times, saying, Enquire, in Abel! And, so, they ended it. ¹⁹I, am of the peaceable among the faithful in Israel,—thou, art seeking to put to death a city, and a mother in Israel, wherefore wouldst thou swallow up the inheritance of Yahweh? ²⁰Then answered Joab and said,—Far be it! far be it from me! I will neither swallow up nor lay waste. ²¹Not so, is the matter! but, a man of the hill country of Ephraim, Sheba son of Bichri, his name, hath lifted up his hand against the king, even against David, give up him alone, and I will depart from the city. And the woman said unto Joab, Lo! his head, shall be cast unto thee, through the wall. ²²So the woman came unto all the people in her wisdom, and they cut off the head of Sheba son of Bichri, and cast it out unto Joab. And he blew with a horn, and they dispersed themselves from the city, every man to his home; but, Joab, returned to Jerusalem unto the king. ²³And, Joab, was restored unto all the army of Israel,—And, Benaiah, son of Jehoiada, was over the Cherethites and over the Pelethites, ²⁴And, Adoniram, was over the tribute,—And, Jehoshaphat, son of Ahilud, was the remembrancer; ²⁵And, Sheva, was scribe,—And, Zadok and Abiathar, were priests; ²⁶Moreover also, Ira the Jairite, was chief ruler unto David.

21And there came to be a famine, in the days of David, for three years, year after year, so then David sought the face of Yahweh,—and Yahweh said—It respecteth Saul and his house, as to bloodshed, in that he put to death the

Gibeonites. ²The king therefore called the Gibeonites, and said unto them (now, the Gibeonites, were, not of the sons of Israel, but of the remnant of the Amorites, with whom, the sons of Israel, had entered into an oath, and Saul had sought to smite them, in his jealousy for the sons of Israel and Judah)—³wherefore David said unto the Gibeonites—What shall I do for you, and wherewith shall I make propitiation, so that ye may bless the inheritance of Yahweh? ⁴And the Gibeonites said unto him—It is not a matter with us of silver or gold, with Saul or with his house, neither would we have a man put to death in Israel. And he said,—What do ye say I should do for you? ⁵Then said they unto the king, The man who consumed us, and who thought to have destroyed us from taking a place within any of the bounds of Israel, ⁶let there be delivered up to us—seven men of his sons, and we will crucify them unto Yahweh in Gibeah of Saul, the chosen of Yahweh. And the king said, I, will deliver them up. ⁷But the king had pity upon Mephibosheth, son of Jonathan, Saul's son,—because of the oath of Yahweh that was between them, between David and Jonathan, Saul's son. ⁸So the king took the two sons of Rizpah daughter of Aiah, whom she had borne to Saul, even Armoni and Mephibosheth,—and the five sons of Michal daughter of Saul, whom she had borne to Adriel son of Barzillai, the Meholathite; ⁹and delivered them up into the hand of the Gibeonites, and they crucified them in the mountain, before Yahweh, so they seven fell together,—they being put to death in the first days of harvest, in the beginning of the barley harvest. ¹⁰Then Rizpah daughter of Aiah, took sackcloth, and spread it out for herself, on the rock, from the beginning of harvest, until water poured out upon them from the heavens,—and suffered neither the birds of the heavens to rest on them by day, nor the wild beasts of the field, to devour them by night. ¹¹And it was told David,—what Rizpah daughter of Aiah, Saul's concubine, had done. ¹²So David went and fetched the bones of Saul, and the bones of Jonathan his son, from the owners of Jabesh-gilead,—who stole them from the Broadway of Beth-shan, where the Philistines had hanged them, on the day when the Philistines had smitten Saul in Gilboa; ¹³and he brought up from thence the bones of Saul, and the bones of Jonathan his son,—and they gathered together the bones of them who had been crucified; ¹⁴so they buried the bones of Saul and Jonathan his son in the land of Benjamin, in Zelah, in the grave of Kish his father, thus did they all that the king commanded,—and God suffered himself to be entreated for the land, after this. ¹⁵And the Philistines had yet again a war with Israel,—so David went down, and his servants with him, and fought the Philistines, and David became faint. ¹⁶So, Ishbi-benob, who was of the descendants of the giant, the weight of whose spear-head, was three hundred shekels of bronze, he also being newly armed, thought to smite David; ¹⁷but Abishai son of Zeruiah, came to his help, and smote the Philistine, and slew him. Then, swore the men of David unto him, saying—Thou must not go forth any more with us, to battle, that thou quench not the lamp of Israel. ¹⁸And it came to pass, after this, that there was yet again a battle in Gob, with the Philistines,—then, Sibbekai the Hushathite smote Saph, who was of the descendants of the giant. ¹⁹And there was yet again a battle in Gob with the Philistines,—when Elhanan son of Jaare-oregim of Bethlehem, smote Goliath the Gittite, the shaft of whose spear was like a weaver's beam. ²⁰And there was yet again a battle in Gath; when there was a man of stature, with six fingers on each hand, and six toes on each foot, twenty-four in number; he also, having been born to the giant; ²¹but, when he reproached Israel, Jonathan son of Shimeah David's brother, smote, him. ²²These four, had been born to the giant in Gath,—but they fell by the hand of David, and by the hand of his servants.

22And David spake unto Yahweh, the words of this song, in the day when Yahweh had rescued him, out of the hand of all his enemies, and out of the hand of Saul; ²and he said,—Yahweh, was my mountain crag and my stronghold, and my deliverer—mine; ³My God, was my rock, I sought refuge in him,—My shield, and my horn of salvation, my high tower, and my refuge, My Saviour! from violence, thou didst save me. ⁴As one worthy to be praised, called I on Yahweh,—And, from my foes, was I saved. ⁵When the breakers of death had encompassed me,—the torrents of perdition, made me afraid,—⁶the meshes of hades, had surrounded me,—the snares of death had confronted me, ⁷In my distress, called I on Yahweh, Yea, unto my God, did I call,—and he hearkened, out of his temple, unto my voice, and, my cry for help, was in his ears! ⁸Then did the earth shake and quake, the foundations of the heavens, were deeply moved,—yea they did shake, because he was angry, ⁹There went up a smoke in his nostrils, and, a fire out of his mouth, devoured,—live coals, were kindled from it: ¹⁰Then he stretched out the heavens, and came down,—and, thick gloom, was under his feet; ¹¹Then he rode on a cherub, and flew,—and was seen on the wings of the wind; ¹²And made of the darkness around him, pavilions,—gathering of waters, clouds of vapours. ¹³Out of the brightness before him, were kindled live coals of fire; ¹⁴Thunder from the heavens, did Yahweh give forth,—yea, the Highest, uttered his voice; ¹⁵And he sent forth arrows, and scattered them,—lightning, and confused them; ¹⁶Then appeared the channels of the sea, were uncovered the foundations of the world,—at the rebuke of Yahweh, the blast of the breath of his nostrils; ¹⁷He sent from on high, he took me,—he drew me out of many waters; ¹⁸He rescued me from my foe, in his might,—from them who hated me, because they were too strong for me: ¹⁹They confronted me, in the day of my necessity,—then became Yahweh my stay: ²⁰And brought out, into a large place, even me,—he delivered me, because he delighted in me: ²¹Yahweh rewarded me, according to my righteousness—according to the cleanness of my hands, he repaid me: ²²For I had kept the ways of Yahweh,—and not broken away from my God; ²³For, all his regulations, were before me,—and, as for his statutes, I turned not from them. ²⁴So became I blameless towards him,—and kept myself from mine iniquity: ²⁵Yahweh therefore repaid me, according to my righteousness,—according to my pureness before his eyes. ²⁶With the loving, thou didst show thyself loving,—with the blameless hero, thou didst show thyself blameless; ²⁷With the pure, thou didst show thyself pure,—but, with the perverse, thou didst shew thyself ready to contend: ²⁸And, a patient people, thou didst save,—but, thine eyes, were on the lofty—thou layedst them low; ²⁹For, thou, wast my lamp, O Yahweh,—and, Yahweh, enlightened my darkness; ³⁰For, by thee, I ran through a troop,—by my God, I leapt over a wall. ³¹As for God, blameless is his way,—the speech of Yahweh, hath been proved, a shield, he is to all who seek refuge in him. ³²For who is a GOD, save Yahweh? and who a Rock, save our God? ³³GOD, is my fortress of strength,—and shewed to the blameless his way; ³⁴Planting my feet like the hinds,—yea, on my high places, he caused me to stand; ³⁵Teaching my hands, to war,—so that a bow of bronze was bent by mine arms; ³⁶Thus didst thou grant me, as a shield, thy salvation,—and, thy condescension, made me great. ³⁷Thou didst widen my stepping-places, under me,—so that mine ankles faltered not: ³⁸I pursued my foes, and destroyed them,—and returned not, till they were consumed; ³⁹So I consumed them, and crushed them, and they rose not again,—thus fell they under my feet: ⁴⁰Thus didst thou gird me with strength, for the battle,—thou subduedst mine assailants under me: ⁴¹And, as for my foes, thou didst give me their neck,—yea, them who hated me, that I might destroy them: ⁴²They cried out, but there was none to save,—unto Yahweh, but he answered them not. ⁴³Then did I beat them in pieces, like the dust of the earth,—like the clay of the lanes, did I crush them, stamp them down. ⁴⁴Thus didst thou rescue me from the contentions of my people, didst keep me to be the head of nations:—a people whom I had not known, served me; ⁴⁵The sons of the foreigner, came cringing unto me,—at the hearing of the ear, they submitted to me,—⁴⁶The sons of the foreigner, were disheartened, and came quaking, out of their fortresses. ⁴⁷Yahweh liveth, and blessed be my rock,—and exalted be the God (of the rock) of my salvation:—⁴⁸The GOD who hath avenged me, and brought down peoples under me; ⁴⁹And brought me forth from among my foes,—yea, from mine assailants, hast thou set me on high, from the man of violence, hast thou delivered me. ⁵⁰For this cause, will I praise thee, O Yahweh, among the nations,—and, to thy name, will I touch the strings:—⁵¹Who hath made great the victories of his King,—and shown lovingkindness to his Anointed One, to David and to his Seed, unto times age-abiding.

23Now, these, are the last words of David,—The oracle of David, son of Jesse, Yea the oracle of The man raised up on high, The Anointed of the God of Jacob, the Delight of the Songs of Israel: ²The Spirit of Yahweh, spake in me,—And, his word, was on my tongue; ³Said the God of Israel, Unto me, spake the Rock of Israel:—One Ruling over Men, A Righteous One, ruling in the reverence of God, ⁴Is even as the light of the morning when ariseth the sun,—A morning, without clouds, As from brightness, and from rain, the fresh shoots out of the earth. ⁵When, not so, was my house with GOD, Then, a covenant age-abiding, he appointed me, Ordered in all things and guarded, Now that it is all my salvation and all my desire, Will he not make it shoot forth? ⁶But, as for the abandoned, like thorns to be tossed away are they all,—For, not with the hand, can they be taken; ⁷But, the man that would touch them, Must fence himself with iron, and the shaft of a spear,—Then, with fire, shall they be, consumed, on the spot! ⁸These, are the names of the mighty men, who belonged to David,—The president a Tachmonite head of the charioteers, the same, was Adino the Eznite, for eight hundred, slain at one time. ⁹And, after him, Eleazar son of Dodo, son of Ahohi,—in the hero-class of mighty men, with David, when they reproached the Philistines, they were gathered together there to battle, but the men of Israel had gone up; ¹⁰he, however, arose and smote among the Philistines until his hand was weary, and his hand clave unto his sword, so Yahweh wrought a great victory on that day,—the people, coming back after him, only to strip the slain. ¹¹And, after him, Shammah son of Agee, the Hararite,—and, when the Philistines were gathered together into a troop, there being at hand an allotment of field-land full of lentils, but, the people, having fled from the face of the Philistines, ¹²then took he his stand in the midst of the allotment, and defended it, and smote the Philistines,—and Yahweh wrought a great victory. ¹³And three of the thirty chiefs descended, and came in, towards harvest, unto David, unto the cave of Adullam,—although, a troop of Philistines, were encamped in the vale of Rephaim; ¹⁴and, David, then was in a stronghold,—and, a garrison of Philistines, was then in Bethlehem. ¹⁵And David longed, and said,—Who will give me to drink water out of the well of Bethlehem, that is within the gate? ¹⁶And the three mighty men brake through the camp of Philistines, and drew water out of the well of Bethlehem, that was within the gate, and bare it, and brought it in unto David,—yet would he not drink, but poured it out unto Yahweh, ¹⁷and said—Be it far from me, O Yahweh, that I should do this! is it not the blood of the men who went with their lives in their hands? So he would not drink it. These things, did the three mighty men. ¹⁸And. Abishai brother of Joab son of Zeruiah, he, was chief of three, in that he brandished his spear against three hundred whom he slew; and, he, had a name among three. ¹⁹Was he not most honourable, of the three, and so became their captain? Nevertheless, unto the three, he attained not. ²⁰Benaiah also, son of Jehoiadah, son of an active man, hero of many a deed, a man of Kabzeel, he, smote the two sons of Ariel of Moab, he, also went down and smote a lion in the midst of a pit, on a day of snow; ²¹he, also smote an Egyptian, who was of valiant bearing, and, in the hand of the Egyptian, was a spear, but he went down unto him with a staff,—and wrested the spear out of the hand of the Egyptian, and slew him with his own spear. ²²These things, did Benaiah son of Jehoiada, and, he, had a name among three mighty men. ²³He was the most honourable, of thirty, although, unto the three, he attained no,—so David added him to his council. ²⁴Asahel, brother of Joab, was among the thirty,—Elhanan, son of Dodo, of Bethlehem; ²⁵Shammah, the Harodite; Elikah, the Harodite; ²⁶Helez, the Paltite, Ira, son of Ikesh, the Tekoite; ²⁷Abiezer, the Anathothite, Mebunnai, the Hushathite; ²⁸Zalmon, the Ahohite, Maharai, the Netophathite; ²⁹Heleb, son of Baanah, the Netophathite,—Ittai, son of Ribai, of Gibeah, of the sons of Benjamin; ³⁰Benaiah, a Pirathonite, Hiddai, of the torrents of Gaash; ³¹Abi-albon, the Arbathite, Azmaveth, the Barhumite; ³²Eliabba, the Shaalbonite, (Of) the sons of Jashen, Jonathan; ³³Shammah, the Hararite, Ahiam, son of Sharar, the Ararite; ³⁴Eliphelet, son of Ahasbai, son of the Maacathite. Eliam, son of Ahithophel, the Gilonite. ³⁵Hezro, the Carmelite, Paarai, the Arbite; ³⁶Igal, son of Nathan, of Zobah, Bani, the Gadite; ³⁷Zekek, the Ammonite, Naharai, the Beerothite, armour bearers to Joab son of Zeruiah; ³⁸Ira, the Ithrite, Gareb, the Ithrite; ³⁹Uriah, the Hittite, In all, thirty and seven.

24And again was the anger of Yahweh kindled against Israel,—so that he suffered David to be moved against them, saying, Go, count Israel and Judah. ²The king, therefore, said unto Joab, captain of the force, who was with him—Go to and fro, I pray thee, throughout all the tribes of Israel, from Dan even unto Beer-sheba, and number ye the people,—so shall I know the sum of the people. ³Then said Joab unto the king—Yea, Yahweh thy God add unto the people, how many soever they be, a hundredfold, and suffer the eyes of my lord the king, to see it,—but, my lord the king, wherefore doth he find pleasure in this thing? ⁴Notwithstanding, the word of the king prevailed against Joab, and over the captains of the force,—so Joab went forth, with the captains of the force, before the king, to number the people—Israel. ⁵And they passed over the Jordan,—and encamped in Aroer, on the right side of the city, that is in the midst of the ravine of Gad, even towards Jazer. ⁶Thus came they to Gilead, and unto the land of Tahtim-hodshi,—and came to Dan-jaan, and round about

Zidon; ⁷and entered the fortress of Tyre, and all the cities of the Hivites, and of the Canaanites,—and they went out to the South of Judah, even to Beer-sheba. ⁸So, when they had gone to and fro throughout all the land, they came, at the end of nine months and twenty days, unto Jerusalem. ⁹And Joab delivered up the sum of the number of the people, unto the king,—and there were found to be, in Israel, eight hundred thousand men of valour, drawing the sword,—and, the men of Judah, five hundred thousand men. ¹⁰And the heart of David smote him, after he had reckoned up the people,—and David said unto Yahweh—I have sinned greatly, in what I have done, Now, therefore, O Yahweh, take away, I beseech thee, the iniquity of thy servant, for I have done very foolishly. ¹¹And, when David arose in the morning, the word of Yahweh, had come unto Gad the prophet, the seer of David, saying: ¹²Go and speak unto David—Thus, saith Yahweh, Three things, do I offer thee,—choose thee one of them, that I may do it unto thee. ¹³So Gad came in unto David, and told him,—and said to him: Shall there come unto thee seven years of famine in thy land? Or, for three months, wilt thou flee before thine enemies while, they, pursue thee? Or shall there be, for three days, pestilence in thy land? Now, consider and see, what, answer, I shall return to him that sent me. ¹⁴And David said unto Gad—I am in a great strait,—let us fall, I pray thee, into the hand of Yahweh, for, manifold, are, his compassions, but, into the hand of man, let me not fall. ¹⁵So Yahweh sent forth a pestilence throughout Israel, from the morning even unto the time appointed,—and there died of the people, from Dan even unto Beer-sheba, seventy thousand men. ¹⁶But, when the messenger stretched out his hand towards Jerusalem, to destroy it, then relented Yahweh as to the evil, and he said to the messenger who was destroying the people—Enough! now, stay thy hand. And, the messenger of Yahweh, was by the threshing-floor of Araunah the Jebusite. ¹⁷Then said David unto Yahweh, when he saw the messenger who was smiting the people, yea he said—Lo! I, have sinned, and, I, have done perversely, but what have, these sheep, done? Let thy hand, I pray thee, be against me, and against the house of my father! ¹⁸And Gad came unto David, on that day,—and said unto him—Go up, rear thou unto Yahweh an altar, in the threshing-floor of Araunah the Jebusite. ¹⁹So David went up, according to the word of Gad, as Yahweh had commanded. ²⁰And Araunah looked out, and saw the king, and his servants, passing over unto him—so Araunah went forth, and did homage unto the king, with his face to the ground. ²¹Then said Araunah, Wherefore, hath my lord the king come unto his servant? And David said—To buy of thee the threshing-floor, to build an altar unto Yahweh, that the plague may be stayed from off the people. ²²Then said Araunah unto David, Let my lord the king accept it and cause to ascend what is good in his own eyes,—see! the oxen for the ascending-sacrifice, and the threshing-sledges and ox-yokes for wood. ²³The whole, did Araunah give, as a king to a king. And Araunah said unto the king, Yahweh thy God, accept thee! ²⁴But the king said unto Araunah—Nay! but I will, buy, it of thee, for a price, and will not cause to ascend unto Yahweh my God, offerings that have cost me nothing. So David bought the threshing-floor, and the oxen, for fifty shekels of silver; ²⁵and David built there an altar unto Yahweh, and caused to go up ascending-sacrifices and peace-offerings,—then was Yahweh entreated for the land, and the plague was stayed from Israel.

I Kings

¹Now, King David, was old, advanced in days,—and they covered him with clothes, but he gat no heat. ²Wherefore his servants said unto him—Let there be sought for my lord the king, a young woman—a virgin, so shall she stand before the king, that she may become his companion,—and she shall lie in thy bosom, and my lord the king shall get, heat. ³So they sought a fair young woman, throughout all the bounds of Israel,—and found Abishag, the Shunammite, and brought her in, unto the king. ⁴Now, the young woman, was exceeding fair,—so she became unto the king a companion, and ministered unto him, but, the king, knew her not. ⁵And, Adonijah son of Haggith, exalted himself, saying—I, will be king. Therefore prepared he for himself chariots and horsemen, and fifty men to run before him. ⁶Now his father had not displeased him all his days, by saying—Why, thus, hast thou done? Moreover also, he, was of exceeding handsome appearance, and, him, did his mother bear, after Absalom. ⁷So then he had speech with Joab, son of Zeruiah, and with Abiathar the priest,—and they gave help, following Adonijah. ⁸But, Zadok the priest, and Benaiah son of Jehoiada, and Nathan the prophet, and Shimei, and Rei, and the mighty men who belonged to David, were not with Adonijah. ⁹And Adonijah sacrificed sheep and oxen and heifers, near the stone of Zoheth, which is beside En-rogel,—and invited all his brethren, sons of the king, and all the men of Judah, servants of the king; ¹⁰but, Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah, and the mighty men, and Solomon his brother, he invited not. ¹¹Then spake Nathan unto Bath-sheba mother of Solomon, saying—Hast thou not heard that Adonijah son of Haggith hath become king, and, our lord David, knoweth it not? ¹²Now, therefore, come; let me give thee counsel, I pray thee,—so shalt thou rescue thine own life, and the life of thy son, Solomon. ¹³Go, and get thee in unto King David, and thou shalt say unto him—Didst not, thou thyself, my lord O king, swear unto thy handmaid, saying—Solomon thy son, shall become king after me, yea, he, shall sit upon my throne? Why, then, hath, Adonijah, become king? ¹⁴Lo! while thou art yet speaking there with the king, I also, will come in after thee, and confirm thy words. ¹⁵So Bath-sheba went in unto the king, into the chamber, now, the king, was very old,—and Abishag the Shunammite, was ministering unto the king. ¹⁶And Bath-sheba bowed, and did homage unto the king,—and the king said—What aileth thee? ¹⁷And she said unto him—My lord, thou thyself, didst swear by Yahweh thy God, unto thy handmaid, Assuredly, Solomon thy son, shall become king after me,—yea, he, shall sit upon my throne. ¹⁸But, now, lo! Adonijah, hath become king; now, therefore, my lord, O king, thou knowest it not: ¹⁹and he hath sacrificed oxen and heifers and sheep, in abundance, and hath invited all the sons of the king, and Abiathar the priest, and Joab general of the army,—but, Solomon thy servant, hath he not invited. ²⁰Thou, therefore, my lord, O king, the eyes of all Israel, are upon thee,—to tell them, who shall sit upon the throne of my lord the king, after him. ²¹Otherwise it shall come to pass, when my lord the king shall sleep with his fathers, then shall I and my son Solomon be counted, offenders. ²²And lo! while yet she was speaking with the king, Nathan the prophet, came in. ²³So they told the king, saying, Lo! Nathan the prophet! And, when he had come in before the king, he bowed himself down to the king with his face to the ground. ²⁴Then said Nathan—My lord, O king, hast, thou, said, Adonijah, shall become king after me,—yea, he, shall sit upon my throne? ²⁵For he hath gone down to-day, and hath sacrificed oxen and heifers and sheep, in abundance, and hath invited all the sons of the king, and the generals of the army, and Abiathar the priest, and, there they are—eating and drinking before him,—and they have said—Long live King Adonijah! ²⁶But, me, even me thy servant, and Zadok the priest, and Benaiah son of Jehoiada, and Solomon thy servant, hath he not invited. ²⁷If, of my lord the king, this thing had been brought to pass, then wouldest thou not have made known unto thy servant, who should sit upon the throne of my lord the king, after him? ²⁸Then responded King David, and said, Call me Bath-sheba. So she came in before the king, and stood before the king. ²⁹And the king sware, and said,—By the life of Yahweh, who hath redeemed my life out of every strait, ³⁰even as I sware unto thee by Yahweh, God of Israel, saying, Assuredly, Solomon thy son, shall become king after me, yea, he, shall sit upon my throne, in my stead, even so, will I do this day. ³¹Then Bath-sheba bowed with her face to the ground, and did homage unto the king,—and said—Let my lord, King David, live to times age-abiding! ³²Then said King David—Call me Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah son of Jehoiada. And they came in before the king. ³³Then said the king unto them—Take ye with you the servants of your lord, and cause Solomon my son to ride upon the mule which pertaineth unto myself,—and bring him down unto Gihon; ³⁴then shall Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet anoint him there as king over Israel,—and ye shall blow with the horn, and say—Long live King Solomon! ³⁵Then shall ye come up after him, and he shall enter, and sit upon my throne, yea, he, shall become king in my stead; even, him, have I charged to become leader, over Israel, and over Judah. ³⁶Then did Benaiah son of Jehoiada make response unto the king, and say—Amen! so, say Yahweh, God of my lord the king. ³⁷As Yahweh hath been with my lord the king, so, let him be with Solomon,—and make his throne greater than the throne of my lord, King David. ³⁸So Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah son of Jehoiada, with the Cherethites and the Pelethites, went down, and caused Solomon to ride upon the mule of King David,—and they escorted him to Gihon. ³⁹Then took Zadok the priest, the horn of oil out of the Tent, and anointed Solomon,—and they blew with a ram's horn, and all the people said, Long live King Solomon! ⁴⁰And all the people came up after him, the people themselves also, playing with flutes, and rejoicing with great joy,—so that the earth rent with the sound of them. ⁴¹And Adonijah, and all the guests who were with him, heard it, just as, they, had made an end of eating,—and, when Joab heard the sound of a horn, he said—Wherefore the noise of the city, in tumult? ⁴²While yet he was speaking, lo! Jonathan son of Abiathar the priest, came in,—and Adonijah said—Come in, for, a worthy man, thou art, and, good tidings, dost thou bring. ⁴³But Jonathan responded and said to Adonijah,—Of a truth, our lord, King David, hath made, Solomon, king. ⁴⁴And the king hath sent with him—Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah son of Jehoiada, with the Cherethites, and the Pelethites,—and they have caused him to ride upon the mule of the king; ⁴⁵and Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet have anointed him king, in Gihon, and they went up from thence rejoicing, so that the city rang again,—That, is the noise ye have heard. ⁴⁶Moreover also, Solomon hath taken his seat upon the throne of the kingdom. ⁴⁷Moreover also, the servants of the king have been in, to bless our lord King David, saying—Thy God make the name of Solomon better than thy name, and make his throne greater than thy throne,—And the king bowed himself upon his bed. ⁴⁸Moreover also, thus and thus, hath said the king,—Blessed be Yahweh, God of Israel, who hath given, to-day, one to sit upon my throne, mine own eyes also beholding it. ⁴⁹Then trembled and rose up, all Adonijah's guests,—and departed, every man his own way. ⁵⁰Adonijah also, feared because of Solomon,—and rose and went, and caught hold of the horns of the altar. ⁵¹And it was told Solomon, saying, Lo! Adonijah, feareth King Solomon,—lo! therefore, he hath laid hold of the horns of the altar, saying, Let King Solomon swear unto me at once that he will not put his servant to death with the sword. ⁵²Then said Solomon, If he will be a man of worth, there shall not one hair of him fall to the earth,—but, if mischief be found in him, then shall he die. ⁵³So King Solomon sent, and brought him down from the altar, and he came in, and bowed himself down to King Solomon,—and Solomon said unto him—Go to thine own house.

2And, when the days of David drew near that he must die, he charged Solomon his son, saying:— ²I, am going the way of all the earth,—thou must be strong, therefore, and show thyself a man; ³and keep the observances of Yahweh thy God, by walking in his ways, by keeping his statutes, his commandments, and his regulations and his testimonies, as written in the law of Moses,—to the end thou mayest prosper in all that thou doest, and whithersoever thou turnest thyself; ⁴to the end that Yahweh may establish his word which he spake concerning me, saying, If thy sons will take heed to their way, by walking before me, in truth, with all their heart, and with all their soul, (then, said he) there shall not be cut off to thee a man, from off the throne of Israel. ⁵Moreover also, thou, knowest what Joab son of Zeruiah did to me, how he dealt with two generals of the armies of Israel—with Abner son of Ner, and with Amasa son of Jether—both of whom he slew, shedding the blood of war in peace,—and putting the blood of war upon his girdle that was on his loins, and upon his sandals, that were on his feet. ⁶Thou, therefore, must do according to thy wisdom,—but will not let his grey hair go down in peace, to hades. ⁷But, with the sons of Barzillai the Gileadite, thou wilt deal in lovingkindness, and they will be among them who eat at thy table,—for, so, drew they near unto me, when I fled from Absalom thy brother. ⁸Lo! also, there is with thee—Shimei son of Gera a Benjamite, of Behurim, well, he, it was who cursed me with a grievous curse; on the day I journeyed to Mahanaim,—but he, came down to meet me, at the Jordan, and so I swore to him by Yahweh, saying—I will not put thee to death, with the sword. ⁹Now, therefore do not hold him guiltless, for, a wise man, thou art, and wilt know how thou oughtest to deal with him, and wilt suffer his grey hairs to go down with blood, to hades. ¹⁰So then David slept with his fathers,—and was buried in the city of David. ¹¹Now, the days that David reigned over Israel, were forty years,—in Hebron, reigned he seven years, and, in Jerusalem, reigned he thirty and three years. ¹²But, when, Solomon, took his seat upon the throne of David his father, then was the kingdom firmly established. ¹³And Adonijah son of Haggith came in unto Bath-sheba, mother of Solomon: And she said—Peaceably, comest thou? And he said—Peaceably.

¹⁴Then said he—I have somewhat to say unto thee. And she said—Say on. ¹⁵And he said—Thou, knowest that, mine, was the kingdom, and, on me, had all Israel set their faces, that I should become king,—howbeit the kingdom, hath turned about, and become my brother's, for, from Yahweh, became it, his. ¹⁶Now, therefore, one request, have I to ask of thee, do not turn away my face. ¹⁷And she said unto him—Say on. And he said—Speak, I pray thee, unto Solomon the king, for he will not turn away thy face,—that he give me Abishag the Shunammite, to wife. ¹⁸And Bath-sheba said: Good! I myself, will speak for thee, unto the king. ¹⁹So Bath-sheba went in unto King Solomon, to speak to him for Adonijah,—and the king rose up to meet her, and bowed himself down to her, and sat down upon his throne, and caused a throne to be set for the mother of the king, and she sat on his right hand. ²⁰Then said she—One small request, am I asking of thee, do not turn away my face. And the king said to her—Ask on, my mother, for I will not turn away thy face. ²¹And she said, Let Abishag the Shunammite be given to Adonijah thy brother, to wife. ²²Then answered King Solomon, and said to his mother—Wherefore, then, art thou asking Abishag the Shunammite, for Adonijah? ask, then, for him the kingdom, because he is mine elder brother,—even for him, and for Abiathar the priest, and for Joab, son of Zeruiah. ²³Then swore King Solomon by Yahweh, saying,—So, let God do to me, and, so, let him add, if, at the cost of his life, Adonijah hath not spoken this word. ²⁴Now, therefore, by the life of Yahweh, who hath established me, and seated me upon the throne of David my father, and who hath made for me a household, as he had spoken, surely, to-day, shall Adonijah be put to death! ²⁵So King Solomon sent by the hand of Benaiah son of Jehoiada,—and he fell upon him, that he died. ²⁶Also, unto Abiathar the priest, said the king—To Anathoth, get thee unto thine own fields, for, death-doomed, thou art,—but, this day, will I not put thee to death, because thou didst bear the ark of My Lord, Yahweh, before David my father, and because thou wast afflicted in all wherein my father was afflicted. ²⁷So Solomon thrust out Abiathar from being priest unto Yahweh,—to fulfil the word of Yahweh which he spake concerning the household of Eli, in Shiloh. ²⁸And, the report, came unto Joab, for, Joab, had inclined after Adonijah, although, after Solomon, he had not inclined,—so then Joab fled into the Tent of Yahweh, and laid hold of the horns of the altar. ²⁹And it was told King Solomon—Joab hath fled into the Tent of Yahweh, and, there he is, beside the altar. So Solomon sent Benaiah son of Jehoiada, saying—Go fall upon him! ³⁰And Benaiah came into the Tent of Yahweh, and said unto him—Thus, saith the king, Come forth! And he said—Nay! but, here, will I die! So Benaiah brought the king word again, saying, Thus, spake Joab, and, thus, he answered me. ³¹And the king said to him—Do as he hath spoken, fall, then, upon him, and bury him,—and so put away the innocent blood, which Joab shed, from off me, and from off the house of my father; ³²thus will Yahweh bring back his blood upon his own head, in that he fell upon two men more righteous and better than he, and slew them with the sword, my father David not knowing it,—even Abner son of Ner, general of the army of Israel, and Amasa son of Jether, general of the army of Judah; ³³thus shall their blood come back upon the head of Joab, and upon the head of his seed unto times age-abiding,—but, David and his seed, and his house, and his throne, shall have peace, unto times age-abiding, from Yahweh. ³⁴So Benaiah son of Jehoiada went up, and fell upon him, and put him to death,—and he was buried in his own house, in the wilderness. ³⁵And the king put Benaiah son of Jehoiada, in his stead, over the army,—and, Zadok the priest, did the king put in the stead of Abiathar. ³⁶And the king sent, and called for Shimei, and said to him—Build thee a house, in Jerusalem, so shalt thou dwell there,—and shalt not go forth from thence, hither or thither; ³⁷but it shall be that, on the day thou goest forth, and passest over the Kidron ravine, know, that thou shalt, die,—thy blood, shall be, upon thine own head. ³⁸And Shimei said to the king—Good, is the word, as my lord the king hath spoken, so, will thy servant do. And Shimei dwelt in Jerusalem many days. ³⁹But it came to pass, at the end of three years, that two of the servants of Shimei fled unto Achish son of Maachah king of Gath,—and they told Shimei, saying—Lo! thy servants are in Gath. ⁴⁰So Shimei arose, and saddled his ass, and went to Gath, unto Achish, to seek his servants—and Shimei went and brought in his servants, from Gath. ⁴¹And it was told Solomon—Shimei hath been out of Jerusalem to Gath, and returned. ⁴²Then sent the king and called for Shimei, and said unto him—Did I not put thee on oath by Yahweh, and adjure thee, saying—On the day thou goest forth and takest thy journey hither or thither, know, that thou shalt, die. Then saidst thou unto me—Good, is the word I have heard. ⁴³Why then, hast thou not kept the oath of Yahweh,—and the charge which I laid upon thee? ⁴⁴Then said the king unto Shimei—Thou, knowest all the wickedness which thy heart is privy to, which thou didst unto David my father,—therefore shall Yahweh bring back thy wickedness, upon thine own head. ⁴⁵But, King Solomon, shall be blessed,—and, the throne of David, shall be established before Yahweh, unto times age-abiding. ⁴⁶So the king charged Benaiah son of Jehoiada, and he went out and fell upon him, that he died,—and, the kingdom, was established in the hand of Solomon.

3And Solomon contracted an alliance with Pharaoh king of Egypt,—and took the daughter of Pharaoh, and brought her into the city of David, until he had made an end of building his own house, and the house of Yahweh, and the wall of Jerusalem, round about. ²Save only, that the people were sacrificing in the high places,—because there had not been built a house unto the Name of Yahweh, until those days, ³Solomon loved Yahweh, by walking in the statutes of David his father,—save only, that, in the high places, he himself, was sacrificing and offering incense. ⁴So then the king went to Gibeon, to sacrifice there, for, that, was the great high place,—a thousand ascending-sacrifices, did Solomon offer up on that altar. ⁵In Gibeon, Yahweh appeared unto Solomon, in a dream by night,—and God said, Ask, what I shall give thee. ⁶Then said Solomon—Thou, didst deal, with thy servant David my father, in great lovingkindness, according as he walked before thee, in truth and in righteousness and in uprightness of heart, with thee,—and thou hast kept, for him, this great lovingkindness, that thou hast given unto him a son, to sit upon his throne, as it is this day. ⁷Now, therefore, O Yahweh my God, thou, hast made thy servant king, instead of David my father,—and, I, am but a little child, I know not how to go out and come in. ⁸And, thy servant, is in the midst of thy people, whom thou hast chosen,—a numerous people, that cannot be numbered or summed up, for multitude. ⁹Wilt thou, then, give unto thy servant, a heart that hearkeneth, to judge thy people, to discern between good and bad,—for who is able to judge this thine honoured people? ¹⁰And the thing was good in the eyes of the Lord,—that Solomon had asked this thing; ¹¹And God said unto him—Because thou hast asked this thing, and hast not asked for thyself many days, nor asked for thyself riches, nor asked the lives of thine enemies,—but hast asked for thyself discernment, in hearing a cause, ¹²lo! I have done according to thy word,—lo! I have given unto thee a wise and discerning heart, so that, like thee, hath been none, before thee, and, after thee, shall rise up none, like thee. ¹³Moreover also, what thou hast not asked, have I given unto thee, both riches and honour,—so that there hath been none, like thee, among the kings, all thy days. ¹⁴And, if thou wilt walk in my ways, by keeping my statutes, and my commandments, as, David thy father, walked, then will I lengthen out thy days. ¹⁵And Solomon awoke, and lo! it was a dream. So he entered into Jerusalem, and stood before the ark of the covenant of the Lord, and caused to go up ascending-sacrifices and offered peace-offerings, and made a banquet for all his servants. ¹⁶Then, came there in two unchaste women, unto the king,—and stood before him. ¹⁷And the one woman said—Pardon, my lord! I and this woman, dwell in one house,—and I gave birth to a child near her, in the house. ¹⁸And it came to pass, the third day after I bare, that, this woman also, gave birth to a child,—we two, being together, there was no stranger with us in the house, none but we two in the house. ¹⁹And this woman's son died in the night,—because she overlaid it. ²⁰Then arose she, in the middle of the night, and took my son from beside me, while thy handmaid was sleeping, and laid it in her own bosom,—but, her dead son, laid she in, my, bosom. ²¹And, when I arose in the morning, to give suck unto my child, lo! it was dead! but, when I looked at it narrowly in the morning, lo! it was not, my son that I had borne. ²²Then said the other woman—Nay! but, my son, is the, living, and, thy son, the, dead. But, this, one kept on saying—Nay, verily! but, thy son, is the, dead, and, my son, the, living. Thus spake they before the king. ²³Then said the king, The one woman, is saying, This, is, my son, the one that liveth, and, thy son, is, the one that is dead,—and, the other, is saying, Nay! but, thy son, is, the dead one, and, my son, the, living. ²⁴And the king said—Bring me a sword! So they brought a sword before the king. ²⁵Then said the king, Divide the living child, in twain,—and give half to the one, and half to the other. ²⁶Then spake the woman, whose was the living child, unto the king—for tender became her compassions over her son—so she said—Pardon, my lord! Give, her, the living child, and do not, kill, it. But the other kept on saying—Neither mine, nor thine, shall it be, divide it. ²⁷Then responded the king, and said—Give, her, the living child, ye shall not, kill, it,—she, is its mother. ²⁸And all Israel heard of the judgment which the king had delivered, and they stood in awe before the king,—for they saw, that, the wisdom of God, was in him, to execute justice.

⁴And so it came to pass, that, King Solomon, was king, over all Israel. ²Now, these, were his chief officers of state,—Azariah son of Zadok, the priest; ³Elihoreph and Ahijah, sons of Shisha, scribes,—Jehoshaphat son of Ahilud, the recorder; ⁴And Benaiah son of Jehoiada, over the army,—and Zadok and Abiathar priests; ⁵And Azariah son of Nathan, over the governors,—and Zabud son of Nathan, minister, king's friend; ⁶And Ahishar, over the household,—and Adoniram son of Abda, over the tribute. ⁷And, Solomon, had twelve governors over all Israel, who used to sustain the king and his household,—for a month in the year, was it appointed unto each one, to find sustenance. ⁸And, these, are their names, Ben-hur, in the hill country of Ephraim; ⁹Ben-deker, in Makaz and in Shaalbim and Beth-shemesh,—and Elon-beth-hanan; ¹⁰Ben-hesed, in Arubboth,—to him, pertaineth Socoh, and all the land of Hephher; ¹¹Ben-abinadab, all the height of Dor,—Taphath daughter of Solomon, had he to wife; ¹²Baana son of Ahilud, in Taanach, and Megiddo,—and all Beth-shean which is beside Zarethan, beneath Jezreel, from Beth-shean as far as Abel-meholah, as far as over against Jokmeam; ¹³Ben-geber, in Ramoth-gilead,—to him, belonged the towns of Jair, son of Manasseh, which are in Gilead, his, was the region of Argob which is in Bashan, sixty great cities, with walls and with bars of bronze; ¹⁴Ahinadab son of Iddo, towards Mahanaim; ¹⁵Ahimaaz, in Naphtali,—moreover, he, took Basemath daughter of Solomon, to wife; ¹⁶Banna son of Hushai, in Asher and in Aloth; ¹⁷Jehoshaphat son of Paruah, in Issachar; ¹⁸Shimei son of Ela, in Benjamin;

¹⁹Geber son of Uri, in the land of Gilead,—the land of Sihon king of the Amorites, and Og king of Bashan, being, the one governor, that was in the land. ²⁰Judah and Israel, were many, as the sand that is by the sea, for multitude,—eating and drinking, and rejoicing. ²¹And, Solomon, became ruler over all the kingdoms, from the River even unto the land of the Philistines, and as far as the boundary of Egypt,—and these were bringing presents, and serving Solomon, all the days of his life. ²²And it came to pass, that Solomon's provision for one day was,—thirty measures of fine flour, and sixty measures of meal; ²³ten fat oxen, and twenty oxen out of the pastures, and a hundred sheep,—besides harts, and gazelles, and roebucks, and fatted fowl. ²⁴For, he, had dominion over all on this side the River, from Tiphseh even as far as Gaza, over all the kings on this side the River,—and he had, peace, on all sides of him, round about. ²⁵And Judah and Israel dwelt securely, every man under his own vine, and under his own fig-tree, from Dan even unto Beer-sheba,—all the days of Solomon. ²⁶And it came to pass that, Solomon, had forty thousand stalls of horses, for his chariots,—and twelve thousand horsemen. ²⁷And these governors provided sustenance for King Solomon, and for all that drew near unto the table of King Solomon, every man in his month,—they let, nought, be lacking. ²⁸Barley also and crushed straw, for the horses and for the swift beasts, brought they in unto the place where it should be, every man according to his charge. ²⁹And God gave wisdom unto Solomon, and discernment, and very great largeness of heart,—like the sand that is on the shore of the sea: ³⁰so that, the wisdom of Solomon, excelled, the wisdom of all the sons of the East,—and all the wisdom of the Egyptians, ³¹so that he was wiser than any man—than Ethan the Ezrahite, and Heman and Calcol and Darda, sons of Mahol,—and it came to pass that, his name, was throughout all the nations round about. ³²And he spake three thousand proverbs,—and it came to pass that, his songs, were a thousand and five. ³³And he discoursed of trees—from the cedar that is in Lebanon, even unto the hyssop, that springeth out in the wall,—and he discoursed of beasts and of birds, and of creeping things, and of fishes. ³⁴And there came in, of all the peoples, to hear the wisdom of Solomon—of all the kings of the earth, who heard his wisdom.

5And Hiram King of Tyre sent his servants unto Solomon, for he had heard that, him, had they anointed king, in the room of his father,—for, Hiram, was, a lover, of, David continually. ²So Solomon sent unto Hiram, saying:— ³Thou, knewest David my father, how that he could not build a house unto the Name of Yahweh his God, because of the wars that were about him on every side,—until Yahweh should put them under the soles of his feet; ⁴but, now, Yahweh my God hath given me rest on every side,—there is neither adversary nor incident of evil. ⁵Behold me!

then, purposing to build a house for the Name of Yahweh my God—even as Yahweh spake unto David my father, saying—Thy son, whom I will set in thy stead, upon thy throne, he, shall build the house for my Name. ⁶Now, therefore, command thou that they fell me cedars, out of Lebanon, and, my servants, shall be, with thy servants, and, the hire of thy servants, will I give thee, according to all that thou shalt say,—for, thou, knowest, that, none amongst us, hath skill to fell timber, like the Zidonians. ⁷And it came to pass, when Hiram heard the words of Solomon, that he rejoiced greatly,—and said: Blessed, be Yahweh, to-day, who hath given unto David a wise son, over this great people! ⁸And Hiram sent unto Solomon, saying, I have heard that which thou hast sent unto me,—I, will do all thy desire, as to timber of cedar, and timber of fir. ⁹My servants, shall bring them down out of Lebanon unto the sea, and, I, will put them in rafts on the sea, unto the place of which thou shalt send me word, and will cause them to be discharged there, and, thou, shalt receive them, and, thou, shalt do my desire, by giving food for my household. ¹⁰So then Hiram began giving unto Solomon timber of cedar, and timber of fir, even all his desire, ¹¹and, Solomon, gave unto Hiram, twenty thousand measures of wheat, as food for his household, and twenty measures of beaten oil,—thus, used Solomon on to give unto Hiram, year by year. ¹²And, Yahweh, gave wisdom unto Solomon, as he promised him,—and it came to pass that there was peace between Hiram and Solomon, and, they two, solemnised a covenant. ¹³And King Solomon raised a labour-band, out of all Israel,—and it came to pass that, the labour-band, was thirty thousand men. ¹⁴And he sent them to Lebanon, ten thousand a month, by courses, a month, were they in Lebanon, two months, at home,—and, Adoniram, was over the levy. ¹⁵And it came to pass that, Solomon, had seventy thousand bearers of burdens,—and eighty thousand hewers in the mountain; ¹⁶besides the chiefs of Solomon's officers, who were over the work, three thousand and three hundred,—who ruled over the people that wrought in the work. ¹⁷And the king commanded, and they quarried great stones, costly stones, to found the house with hewn stones. ¹⁸And Solomon's builders and Hiram's builders with the Gebalites wrought them,—thus made they ready the timber and the stones, for building the house.

6And so it came to pass, in the four hundred and eightieth year, by the coming forth of the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt, in the fourth year (in the month of Zif, the same, being the second month) of the reign of Solomon over Israel, that he began to build the house unto Yahweh. ²Now, the house which King Solomon built unto Yahweh, was sixty cubits in length, and twenty in breadth,—and thirty cubits in height. ³And, the porch in front of the temple of the house, was twenty cubits in length, according to the breadth of the house,—ten cubits in breadth, in front of the house. ⁴And he made to the house windows, with closed bars. ⁵And he built—by the wall of the house—a gallery, round about, against the walls of the house, round about, both to the temple, and to the shrine,—and he made side chambers round about. ⁶The, lowest gallery, was five cubits broad, and, the middle, six cubits broad, and, the third, seven cubits broad,—for he put, ledges, against the house round about, on the outer side, so as not to make fastenings in the walls of the house. ⁷Now, the house, when it was in building, with whole quarry-stones, was built,—neither hammer, nor axe, nor any tools of iron, was heard in the house, when it was in building. ⁸The entrance of the lowest story, was on the right side of the house,—and, by winding stairs, went they up unto the middle story, and, out of the middle, into, the third. ⁹So he built the house, and finished it,—and ceiled the house with planks and beams of cedar; ¹⁰and built the gallery against all the house, five cubits in height,—and so fastened the house, with timber of cedar. ¹¹Then came the word of Yahweh unto Solomon, saying: ¹²Concerning this house, which thou art building, If thou wilt walk in my statutes, and, my regulations, wilt practise, and so observe all my commandments, by walking in them, Then will I establish my word with thee, which I spake unto David thy father; ¹³and will make my habitation in the midst of the sons of Israel,—and will not forsake my people Israel. ¹⁴Thus Solomon built the house, and finished it; ¹⁵and he built the walls of the house on the inside, with boards of cedar, from the floor of the house, unto the cross-beams of the ceiling, he overlaid it with wood, on the inside,—and he overlaid the floor of the house with boards of fir. ¹⁶And he built twenty cubits, at the hinder part of the house, with boards of cedar, from the floor as far as the cross-beams,—and he built it within, for a shrine, even for the holy of holies; ¹⁷but, forty cubits, was the house itself,—the same, was the temple, before the oracle. ¹⁸And, the cedar for the house within, was carved with colocynths, and with festoons of flowers,—the whole, was cedar, there was no stone to be seen. ¹⁹And, the shrine in the midst of the house within, made he ready,—for placing there, the ark of the covenant of Yahweh. ²⁰And, the interior of the shrine, was twenty cubits in length, and twenty cubits in breadth, and twenty cubits in height, and he overlaid it, with pure gold,—and overlaid the altar with cedar. ²¹Thus then did Solomon overlay the house within, with pure gold,—and he drew chains of gold across the front of the shrine, and overlaid it with gold; ²²yea, all the house, overlaid he with gold, until he had made all the house into one whole,—even all the altar that was by the shrine, overlaid he with gold. ²³And he made, within the shrine, two cherubim of wild olive wood,—ten cubits in height; ²⁴and, five cubits, was the one wing of the cherub, and, five cubits, the second wing of the cherub,—ten cu-

bits, from the one end of his wings unto the other end of his wings. ²⁵Ten cubits, also was the second cherub,—of one size and one shape, were the two cherubim. ²⁶The height of the one cherub, was ten cubits,—and, so, of the second cherub. ²⁷And he placed the cherubim in the midst of the inner house, and the cherubim stretched forth their wings,—so that the wing of the one touched the one wall, and the wing of the other cherub, was touching the other wall,—and, their wings in the midst of the house, were touching, wing to wing. ²⁸And he overlaid the cherubim with gold. ²⁹And, all the walls of the house round about, carved he with figures of cherubim, and palm-trees, and festoons of flowers,—within and without. ³⁰Even the floor of the house, overlaid he with gold,—within and without. ³¹And, the entrance of the shrine, made he with doors, of wild olive-wood, the pillars and posts being a fifth. ³²The two doors, also were of olive-wood, and he carved upon them carvings of cherubim, and palm-trees, and festoons of flowers, and overlaid them with gold,—yea he spread out, over the cherubim and over the palm-trees, the gold. ³³So, also, made he for the entrance of the temple, with posts of wild olive-wood,—a fourth part. ³⁴And, the two doors, were of fir wood,—the two leaves of the one door, were folding, and, the two leaves of the other door, were folding. ³⁵And he carved cherubim, and palm-trees, and festoons of flowers, and overlaid them with gold, smoothed out on the carved work. ³⁶And he built the inner court, with three rows of hewn stone,—and a row of beams of cedar. ³⁷In the fourth year, was laid the foundation of the house of Yahweh,—in the month Zif; ³⁸and, in the eleventh year, in the month Bul—the same, is the eighth month, was the house finished, as to all the particulars thereof, and as to all the appointments thereof,—so then he built it in seven years.

⁷But, his own house, was Solomon thirteen years in building,—so he finished all his house. ²Yea he built the house of the forest of Lebanon, a hundred cubits, the length thereof, and, fifty cubits, the breadth thereof, and, thirty cubits, the height thereof,—upon four rows of pillars of cedar, with beams of cedar, upon the pillars; ³and it was covered with cedar above upon the joists, that were on forty-five pillars,—fifteen in a row. ⁴And there were, window spaces, in three rows,—and light over against light, three times. ⁵And, all the openings and the posts, were square in their frame,—and light was over against light, three times. ⁶And, a porch of pillars, made he, fifty cubits, in length, and, thirty cubits, in breadth,—and, a porch, was on the one front of them, and pillars and threshold, were on the other front of them. ⁷And, a porch for the throne, where he should judge, even the porch of judgment, made he, and it was wainscotted with cedar, from floor to ceiling. ⁸And, his own house where he should dwell, in the other court within the porch, was, of like

workmanship unto this,—a house also, made he, for the daughter of Pharaoh, whom Solomon had taken to wife, in a similar porch. ⁹All these, were of costly stones, after the dimensions of hewn stones, sawn with saws, within and without,—even from the foundation, unto the coping, and without as far as the great court. ¹⁰And, the foundation, was of costly stones, large stones, stones of ten cubits, and stones of eight cubits. ¹¹And, above, were costly stones, after the dimensions of hewn stone, and cedar. ¹²And, the great court round about, was of three rows of hewn stone, and a row of beams of cedar,—both to the inner court of the house of Yahweh, and to the porch of the house. ¹³And King Solomon sent and fetched Hiram, out of Tyre: ¹⁴son of a widow woman, was he of the tribe of Naphtali, but, his father, was a man of Tyre, a worker in bronze, and he was filled with wisdom, and discernment, and knowledge, for executing all manner of work in bronze,—so he came unto King Solomon, and executed all his work. ¹⁵And he cast two pillars of bronze,—eighteen cubits, the height of each pillar, and, a line of twelve cubits, would surround the second pillar. ¹⁶And, two capitals, made he, to set upon the tops of the pillars, of molten bronze,—five cubits, was the height of the one capital, and, five cubits, the height of the other capital; ¹⁷with a frame of checker work, wreaths of chain work, for the capitals which were upon the top of the pillars,—seven for the one capital, and seven for the other capital. ¹⁸So he made the pillars,—and, two rows round about, upon the one frame of checker work, covering the capitals which were upon the top with pomegranates, thus also, did he for the other capital. ¹⁹And, the capitals which were upon the top of the pillars, were of lily work, in span, four cubits. ²⁰And there were capitals upon the two pillars, above also, close by the belly, which was beside the checker work,—and there were two hundred pomegranates, in rows round about, upon either capital. ²¹So he reared the pillars for the porch of the temple,—yea he reared the right pillar, and called the name thereof Jachin, and reared the left pillar, and called the name thereof, Boaz. ²²And, upon the top of the pillars, was lily work,—which gave finish to the work of the pillars. ²³And he made a molten sea,—ten cubits from the one brim to the other, it was round all about, and, five cubits, was the height thereof, and, a line of thirty cubits, would encompass it round about. ²⁴And, colocyntns, were under the brim thereof round about, encompassing it, ten in a cubit, encircling the sea, round about,—two rows of colocyntns, made in the casting thereof: ²⁵standing upon twelve oxen, three looking northward, and three looking westward, and three looking southward, and three looking eastward, the sea, being upon them above,—all their hinder parts, being, inward. ²⁶And, the thickness thereof, was a hand breadth, and, the brim thereof, was like the brim-work of a cup, of lily-blossoms,—two thousand baths, did it contain. ²⁷And he made ten stands of bronze,—four cu-

bits, the length of each stand, and, four cubits, the breadth thereof, and, three cubits, the height thereof. ²⁸And, this, was the work of the stand, there were, side walls, to them,—and, the side-walls, were between joining ledges; ²⁹and, upon the side-walls which were between the ledges, were lions, oxen, and cherubim, and, upon the ledges, was a pedestal above, and, beneath the lions and oxen, a wreath of hanging work. ³⁰And, four wheels of bronze, had each stand, with axles of bronze, and, the four steps thereof, had shoulder pieces,—under the laver, were the molten shoulder-pieces, over against each wreath. ³¹And, the mouth thereof, within the capital and upwards, was a cubit, and, the mouth thereof, was round, of pedestal work, a cubit and a half,—moreover also, upon the mouth thereof, were gravings, with their side-walls four-square, not round. ³²And, four wheels, were beneath the side-walls, the axletrees of the wheels, being in the stands,—and, the height of each wheel, was a cubit and a half: ³³and, the work of the wheels, was like the work of a chariot-wheel; and, their axletrees, and their felloes, and their spokes, and their naves, the whole, were molten. ³⁴And there were, four shoulder-pieces, at the four corners of each stand, of the stand itself, were the shoulder-pieces thereof. ³⁵And, in the top of the stand, half a cubit in height, was a circular piece round about,—and, on the top of the stand, the tenons thereof, and, the side-walls thereof, were of the same. ³⁶Then carved he, upon the plates of the tenons thereof, and upon the side-walls thereof, cherubim, lions, and palm-trees,—according to the open space of each with a wreath round about. ³⁷Thus, made he the ten stands,—one mould, one measure, one shape, had they, all. ³⁸Then made he ten lavers of bronze,—forty baths, would each laver contain, four cubits, was each laver, one laver, was on each of, the ten stands. ³⁹And he set the stands, five on the right side of the house, and five on the left side of the house,—but, the sea, he set on the right side of the house eastward, over against the south. ⁴⁰And Hiram made lavers, and shovels, and bowls,—and Hiram ended the doing of all the work which he wrought for King Solomon, for the house of Yahweh: ⁴¹two pillars,—and the bowls of the capitals which were upon the top of the two pillars,—and the two frames of checker-work, covering the two bowls of the capitals, which were upon the top of the pillars; ⁴²and the four hundred pomegranates, for the two frames of checker-work,—two rows of pomegranates to each frame, for covering the two bowls of the capitals, which were on the face of the pillars; ⁴³and the ten stands,—with the ten lavers upon the stands; ⁴⁴and the one sea,—with the twelve oxen under the sea; ⁴⁵and the pans, and the shovels, and the tossing bowls, and, all these vessels which Hiram made King Solomon, for the house of Yahweh, were of burnished bronze. ⁴⁶In the circuit of the Jordan, did the king cast them, in the clay ground,—between Succoth and Zarethan. ⁴⁷And Solomon let all the vessels be, because of their exceeding great multitude,—the weight of the bronze was not found out. ⁴⁸And Solomon made all the vessels that were in the house of Yahweh,—the altar of gold, and the table of gold, whereon was the presence-bread; ⁴⁹and the lamp-holders—five on the right and five on the left, before the shrine, of pure gold,—with the blossoms, and the lamps, and the tongs, of gold; ⁵⁰and the bowls, and the snuffers, and the tossing bowls, and the spoons, and the censers, of pure gold,—and the hinge-holes, for the doors of the inner house, the holy of holies, and for the doors of the house itself, the temple, of, gold. ⁵¹So was completed all the work which King Solomon made for the house of Yahweh, and Solomon brought in the hallowed things of David his father—the silver, and the gold, and the vessels, did he put in the treasuries of the house of Yahweh.

⁸Then, did Solomon call together the elders of Israel, and all the heads of the tribes, chiefs of the fathers of the sons of Israel, unto King Solomon in Jerusalem,—that they might bring up the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, out of the city of David, the same is Zion. ²So all the men of Israel came together unto King Solomon, in the month of steady flowings, at the festival,—the same is the seventh month. ³And all the elders of Israel came in,—and the priests took up the ark; ⁴and they brought up the ark of Yahweh, and the Tent of Meeting, and all the hallowed vessels that were in the tent,—yea, the priests and the Levites, did bring them up. ⁵And, King Solomon, and all the assembly of Israel who had assembled themselves unto him, were with him, before the ark,—sacrificing sheep and oxen, which could neither be recorded nor counted, for multitude. ⁶So the priests brought in the ark of the covenant of Yahweh into its place, into the shrine of the house, into the holy of holies,—under the wings of the cherubim. ⁷For, the cherubim, were spreading forth their two wings, over the place of the ark,—and the cherubim made a covering over the ark and over the staves thereof, above. ⁸And they drew out the staves, and the heads of the staves were seen from the holy place, in front of the shrine, although they were not seen on the outside,—and they have remained there until this day. ⁹There was nothing in the ark, save the two tables of stone, which Moses deposited there in Horeb,—the tables of the covenant which Yahweh solemnised with the sons of Israel, when they came forth out of the land of Egypt. ¹⁰And so it was, when the priests came forth out of the holy place, that, a cloud, filled the house of Yahweh; ¹¹so that the priests could not stand to minister, because of the cloud,—for, the glory of Yahweh, filled, the house of Yahweh. ¹²Then, said Solomon,—Yahweh, said, that he would make his habitation in thick gloom: ¹³I have, built, a house as a high abode for thee,—A settled place for thee to abide in, for ages. ¹⁴And the king turned about his face, and blessed all the convocation of Israel,—while all the convocation of Israel was standing; ¹⁵and he said—

Blessed, be Yahweh, God of Israel, who spake with his mouth, unto David my father,—that which with his hand he hath fulfilled, saying:—¹⁶Since the day that I brought forth my people Israel, out of Egypt, I had chosen no city, out of all the tribes of Israel, for building a house, where my Name might be,—but I have chosen Jerusalem, that my Name should be there, and I have chosen David, to be over my people Israel: ¹⁷And so it came to pass, that it was near the heart of David my father,—to build a house for the Name of Yahweh, God of Israel. ¹⁸Then said Yahweh unto David my father, Because it was near thy heart to build a house for my Name, thou didst well that it was near thy heart; ¹⁹Only, thou thyself, must not build the house,—but, thine own son who hath proceeded out of thy loins, he, shall build the house, for my Name. ²⁰So then Yahweh hath established his word which he spake,—and I have been raised up in the room of David my father, and have taken my seat upon the throne of Israel, as spake Yahweh, and have built the house for the Name of Yahweh, God of Israel; ²¹and have appointed there a place for the ark, wherein is the covenant of Yahweh,—which he solemnised with our fathers, when he brought them forth out of the land of Egypt. ²²And Solomon stood before the altar of Yahweh, in the presence of all the convocation of Israel,—and spread forth his hands towards the heavens; ²³and said—O Yahweh, God of Israel! Not like thee, is there a God, in the heavens above, or upon the earth beneath,—keeping Covenant and Lovingkindness for thy servants who are walking before thee, with all their heart; ²⁴who hast kept for thy servant David my father, that which thou didst promise him,—in that thou didst promise with thy mouth, and, with thy hand, hast fulfilled, as it is this day. ²⁵Now, therefore, O Yahweh, God of Israel, keep thou for thy servant David my father, that which thou didst promise him, saying, There shall not be cut off to thee a man from before me, to sit upon the throne of Israel,—if only, thy sons take heed to their way, by walking before me, as thou hast walked before me. ²⁶Now, therefore, O God of Israel,—verified be thy word, I pray thee, which thou didst speak to thy servant, David my father. ²⁷But, in very deed, will God dwell, upon the earth? Lo! the heaven, yea the heaven of heavens, cannot contain thee, how much less this house which I have built? ²⁸Yet wilt thou turn unto the prayer of thy servant, and unto his supplication, O Yahweh my God,—to hearken unto the cry, and unto the prayer, wherewith thy servant doth pray before thee to-day; ²⁹that thine eye may be opened toward this house, night and day, toward the place of which thou hast said, My Name shall be, there; hearkening unto the prayer which thy servant shall offer toward this place. ³⁰Wilt, thou, therefore, hearken unto the supplication of thy servant, and of thy people Israel, whensoever they shall pray toward this place,—yea wilt, thou thyself, hear, in thine own dwelling-place, in the heavens, and, when thou hearest, then wilt thou forgive? ³¹When a man shall sin against his neighbour, and there shall be taken up against him an oath, to put him on oath,—and he shall come in and swear before thine altar, in this house, ³²then wilt, thou thyself, hear in the heavens, and act, and judge thy servants, condemning the lawless, by setting his way upon his own head,—and justifying the righteous, by giving to him, according to his righteousness? ³³When thy people Israel are smitten before an enemy, because they have been sinning against thee,—and they turn again unto thee, and confess thy Name, and pray and make supplication unto thee, in this house, ³⁴then wilt, thou thyself, hear in the heavens, and forgive the sin of thy people Israel, and bring them back unto the soil, which thou gavest unto their fathers? ³⁵When the heavens are shut up, and there is no rain, because they have been sinning against thee,—and they shall pray toward this place, and confess thy Name, and, from their sin, shall return, because thou hast been afflicting them, ³⁶then wilt, thou thyself, hear in the heavens and forgive the sin of thy servants, and of thy people Israel, that thou mayest teach them the good way, wherein they should walk,—and give rain upon thy land, which thou hast given unto thy people, for an inheritance? ³⁷When there shall be, famine, in the land, when there shall be, pestilence, when there shall be, blasting, mildew locust, caterpillar, when their enemy shall besiege them in one of their own gates,—whatsoever plague, whatsoever sickness; ³⁸any prayer, any supplication which, any son of earth, may have, of all thy people Israel,—who will certainly know every man the plague of his own heart, and so he shall spread abroad his hands towards this house, ³⁹then wilt, thou thyself, hear in the heavens, in the settled place of thine abode, and forgive and act, and give unto every man according to all his ways, whose heart thou wilt know,—for, thou thyself alone, knowest the heart of all the sons of men; ⁴⁰to the end they may revere thee, all the days which they do live, upon the face of the soil,—which thou gavest unto our fathers? ⁴¹Moreover also, unto the stranger, who is, not of thy people Israel,—but hath come in out of a far country, for the sake of thy Name,—⁴²(for they will certainly hear of thy great Name, and of thy strong hand, and of thy stretched-out arm,—and so will come in and pray towards this house), ⁴³wilt, thou thyself, hear in the heavens, the settled place of thine abode, and act, according to all for which, the stranger, shall cry unto thee,—to the end that all the peoples of the earth may truly know thy Name, so as to revere thee, like thy people Israel, and to know that, thine own Name, hath been given unto this house, which I have built? ⁴⁴When thy people go forth to war against their enemy, whithersoever thou mayest send them,—and shall pray unto Yahweh, in the direction of the city which thou hast chosen, and the house which I have built for thy Name, ⁴⁵then wilt thou hear, in the heavens, their prayer and their supplication,— and maintain their cause? ⁴⁶When they sin against thee—for there is, no son of earth, that sinneth not, and thou shalt be angry with them, and deliver them up before an enemy,—who shall carry them away as their captives, into the land of the enemy, far or near; ⁴⁷and they come back to their right mind, in the land whither they have been taken captive,—and so turn and make supplication unto thee, in the land of their captors, saying, We have sinned and done perversely, we have been lawless; ⁴⁸and so they turn unto thee with all their heart, and with all their soul, in the land of their enemies, who have carried them away captive,—and pray unto thee in the direction of their own land, which thou gavest unto their fathers, the city which thou hast chosen, and the house which I have built for thy Name, ⁴⁹then wilt thou hearken in the heavens, the settled place of thine abode, unto their prayer, and unto their supplication,—and maintain their cause; ⁵⁰and grant forgiveness to thy people, who have sinned against thee, even as to all their transgressions wherein they have transgressed against thee,—and grant them compassion before their captors, so that they may have compassion upon them; ⁵¹because, thy people and thine inheritance, they are,—whom thou didst bring forth out of Egypt, out of the midst of the smelting-pot of iron; ⁵²that thine eyes may be open unto the supplication of thy servant, and unto the supplication of thy people Israel,—to hearken unto them, in all their crying unto thee; ⁵³because, thou thyself, didst separate them unto thee, for an inheritance, out of all the peoples of the earth,—as thou spakest by the hand of Moses thy servant, when thou broughtest forth our fathers out of Egypt, O Lord Yahweh. ⁵⁴And it came to pass, when Solomon had made an end of praying unto Yahweh all this prayer and supplication, that he arose from before the altar of Yahweh, from kneeling on his knees, with his hands outspread to the heavens; ⁵⁵and stood and blessed all the convocation of Israel,—with a loud voice, saying: ⁵⁶Blessed, be Yahweh, who hath given rest unto his people Israel, according to all that he promised,—there hath not failed one word of all his good promise, which he promised by the hand of Moses his servant. ⁵⁷Yahweh our God be with us, as he was with our fathers,—let him not leave us, nor forsake us; ⁵⁸but bow our heart unto himself,—to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments, and his statutes, and his regulations, which he commanded our fathers. ⁵⁹And let these my words, wherewith I have made supplication before Yahweh, be near unto Yahweh our God, day and night,—that he may maintain the cause of his servant, and the cause of his people Israel, as any need ariseth: ⁶⁰To the end that all the peoples of the earth may know, that, Yahweh, is God,—there is none else. ⁶¹So shall your heart be sound with Yahweh our God,—to walk in his statutes, and to keep his commandments, as at this day. ⁶²And, the king, and all Israel with him, were offering sacrifice before Yahweh.

⁶³So Solomon offered as a sacrifice of peace-offerings, which he offered unto Yahweh—Oxen, two and twenty thousand, and Sheep, a hundred and twenty thousand,—Thus did, the king and all the sons of Israel, dedicate the house of Yahweh. ⁶⁴On that day, did the king hallow the middle of the court, that was before the house of Yahweh,—for he offered there the ascending-sacrifice, and the meal-offering, and the fat portions of the peace-offerings, because, the altar of bronze that was before Yahweh, was too small to receive the ascending-sacrifice and the meal-offering, and the fat portions of the peace-offerings. ⁶⁵And Solomon made, at that time, a festival—and all Israel with him—a great convocation, from the entering in of Hamath unto the ravine of Egypt, before Yahweh our God, seven days, and seven days,—fourteen days. ⁶⁶And on the eighth day, he sent the people away, and they blessed the king,—and departed to their homes, rejoicing and glad of heart, over all the goodness which Yahweh had done for David his servant, and for Israel his people.

9And it came to pass, when Solomon had made an end of building the house of Yahweh, and the house of the king, and everything that Solomon desired, which he was pleased to make, ²then appeared Yahweh unto Solomon, a second time,—as he appeared unto him, in Gibeon. ³And Yahweh said unto him—I have heard thy prayer and thy supplication, wherewith thou hast made supplication before me, I have hallowed this house, which thou hast built, to put my Name there unto times age-abiding,—and mine eyes and my heart shall be there, continually: ⁴As for thee, therefore, if thou wilt walk before me, as David thy father walked, with a whole heart and with uprightness, to do according to all that I have commanded thee,—and, my statutes and my regulations, wilt keep, ⁵then will I establish the throne of thy kingdom over Israel, unto times age-abiding,—as I promised unto David thy father, saying, There shall not be cut off to thee a man, from off the throne of Israel. ⁶If ye, turn back, ye or your sons, from following me, and keep not my commandments, my statutes, which I have set before you,—but depart and serve other gods, and bow yourselves down to them, ⁷then will I cut off Israel, from the face of the soil, which I have given unto them, and, the house which I have hallowed for my Name, will I suffer to be carried away from before me,—and Israel shall become a byword and a mockery, among all the peoples; ⁸and, this house which had been renowned, shall be desolate, every one that passeth by it, shall be astonished and shall whistle,—and men shall say—For what cause, hath Yahweh done, thus, unto this land, and unto this house? ⁹And men will answer—Because they forsook Yahweh their God, who brought forth their fathers out of the land of Egypt, and laid hold of other gods, and bowed themselves down to them, and served them, for this cause, hath Yahweh brought in upon them all this ruin. ¹⁰And it came to pass, at the end of twenty years, when Solomon had built the two houses,—the house of Yahweh, and the house of the king; ¹¹Hiram king of Tyre having supplied Solomon with timber of cedar, and with timber of fir, and with gold, according to all his desire, that, then, King Solomon gave unto Hiram twenty cities, in the land of Galilee. ¹²And Hiram came out from Tyre to view the cities which, Solomon, had given him,—and they were not pleasing in his eyes. ¹³So he said—What cities are these which thou hast given me, my brother? And he called them, Unfruitful Land, as they are called unto this day. ¹⁴Now Hiram had sent to the king,—a hundred and twenty talents of gold. ¹⁵Now, the following, is an account of the tax which King Solomon raised, for building the house of Yahweh and his own house, and Millo, and the wall of Jerusalem,—and Hazor and Megiddo, and Gezer. ¹⁶Pharaoh king of Egypt, had gone up and captured Gezer, and burned it with fire, the Canaanites also who were dwelling in the city, had he slain,—and had given it as a dowry, to his daughter, wife of Solomon. ¹⁷So then Solomon built Gezer, and Beth-horon, the nether, ¹⁸and Baalath and Tadmor in the wilderness, in the land; ¹⁹also all the store cities, which Solomon had, and the cities for chariots, and the cities for horsemen,—and the desire of Solomon that he was pleased to build in Jerusalem, and in Lebanon, and in all the land that he ruled over. ²⁰All the people that were left, of the Amorites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Hivites and the Jebusites, who were, not of the sons of Israel; ²¹their sons, who were left after them in the land, whom the sons of Israel were not able to devote to destruction, Solomon levied them for a toiling labour-band which remaineth unto this day. ²²But, of the sons of Israel, Solomon devoted none to bond-service,—but, they, were men of war, and his servants, and his generals, and his heroes, and captains of his chariots, and his horsemen. ²³These, were the chiefs of the officers, who were over the work, for Solomon, five hundred and fifty,—who ruled over the people that wrought in the work. ²⁴Scarcely had Pharaoh's daughter come up out of the city of David, into her own house, which he had built for her, when he built Millo. ²⁵And Solomon used to offer, three times a year, ascending-sacrifices and peace-offerings, upon the altar which he had built unto Yahweh, and to offer incense at the altar which was before Yahweh,—thus Solomon gave completeness unto the house. ²⁶A fleet also, did King Solomon build in Ezion-geber, which is beside Eloth on the shore of the Red Sea, in the land of Edom. ²⁷And Hiram sent in the fleet his servants, seamen, having knowledge of the sea,—with the servants of Solomon; ²⁸and they came to Ophir, and fetched from thence, gold, four hundred and twenty talents,—and brought it to King Solomon.

10And, when, the queen of Sheba, heard the report of Solomon, as pertaining to the Name of Yahweh, she came to prove him, with abstruse questions. ²Yea she came to Jerusalem with a very heavily-laden train, of camels bearing spices, and gold in great abundance, and precious stones,—and, when she was come to Solomon, she spake unto him all that was near her heart; ³and Solomon answered her all her questions,—there was nothing hidden from the king, which he told her not. ⁴And, when the queen of Sheba had seen all the wisdom of Solomon,—and the house which he had built; ⁵and the food of his table, and the seated assembly of his servants, and the attendance of his ministers with their apparel, and his cupbearers, and his ascent by which he ascended unto the house of Yahweh, there was in her no more spirit. ⁶And she said unto the king, True, was the word which I heard in mine own land,—concerning thine affairs, and concerning thy wisdom. ⁷Howbeit I believed not the words, until that I had come and mine own eyes had seen, and lo! there had not been told me, the half,—thou dost exceed, in wisdom and prosperity, even the report which I heard! ⁸How happy, are thy wives, how happy, are these thy servants,—who do stand before thee continually, who hear thy wisdom! ⁹Yahweh thy God be blessed, who delighted in thee, to set thee upon the throne of Israel,—because Yahweh loveth Israel unto times age-abiding, therefore hath he appointed thee to be king, to execute justice and righteousness. ¹⁰And she gave unto the king a hundred and twenty talents of gold, and spices in great abundance, and precious stones,—there came in no more, such spice for abundance, as that which the queen of Sheba gave unto King Solomon. ¹¹Moreover also, the fleet of Hiram, which brought gold from Ophir, brought in, from Ophir sandalwood in great abundance, and precious stones. ¹²So the king made of the sandal-wood a footpath to the house of Yahweh, and to the house of the king, lyres also and harps, for the singers,—there hath neither come in such sandalwood, nor been seen, unto this day. ¹³And, when, King Solomon, had given unto the queen of Sheba, all her desire, which she asked, besides that which he gave her as the bounty of King Solomon, she turned, and went to her own land, she and her servants. ¹⁴And it came to pass that, the weight of the gold which came in unto Solomon in one year, was six hundred and sixty-six talents of gold; ¹⁵besides the tribute of the subjugated, and of the travelling merchants,—and of all the kings of Arabia, and the pashas of the land. ¹⁶And King Solomon made two hundred shields, of beaten gold, six hundred shekels of gold, laid he upon one shield; ¹⁷and three hundred bucklers, of beaten gold, one hundred and fifty shekels of gold, laid he upon one buckler,—and the king put them in the house of the forest of Lebanon. ¹⁸And the king made a great throne of ivory,—and overlaid it with gold from Uphaz. ¹⁹There were, six steps, to the throne, and there was, a circular top, to the throne, behind it, and there were supports on this side and on that, unto the place of the seat,—with two lions standing beside the supports; ²⁰and, twelve lions, were standing there, upon the six steps, on this side and on that,—there had never been made the like, for any of the kingdoms. ²¹And, all the drinking vessels of King Solomon, were of gold, and, all the vessels of the house of the forest of Lebanon, were of pure gold,—none was of silver, it was accounted in the days of Solomon, as nothing. ²²For, a fleet of Tarshish, had the king, at sea, with the fleet of Hiram,—once in three years, came in the fleet of Tarshish, bringing gold and silver, ivory and apes, and peacocks. ²³So King Solomon became greater than any of the kings of the earth,—for riches and for wisdom. ²⁴And, all the earth, did seek the face of Solomon,—to hear his wisdom, which God had put in his heart. ²⁵And, they, did bring every man his present—vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and garments, and armour, and spices, horses and mules,—a rate of a year in a year. ²⁶And Solomon gathered together chariots and horsemen, and so it was that he had a thousand and four hundred chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen,—for whom he found place in the chariot cities, and near the king, in Jerusalem. ²⁷And the king caused silver in Jerusalem to be as stones,—cedars also, caused he to be as the sycamores that are in the lowlands, for abundance. ²⁸And the horses that Solomon had were, an export, out of Egypt,—and, a company of the merchants of the king, used to fetch, a drove, at a price, ²⁹And a chariot came up and forth out of Egypt, for six hundred shekels of silver and a horse for a hundred and fifty,—and, so, for all the kings of the Hittites, and for the kings of Syria, by their means, came they forth.

11But, King Solomon, loved many foreign women, together with the daughter of Pharaoh,—women of the Moabites, Ammonites, Edomites, Zidonians, Hittites: ²out of the nations concerning whom Yahweh had said unto the sons of Israel—Ye shall not go in unto them, and, they, shall not come in unto you, surely they will turn aside your heart after their gods. Unto these, did Solomon cleave in love. ³So it came to pass that he had seven hundred wives who were princesses, and three hundred concubines,—and, his wives, turned aside, his heart. ⁴Yea it came to pass, in the old age of Solomon, that, his wives, turned aside his heart after other gods,—his heart therefore was not sound with Yahweh his God, as was the heart of David his father. ⁵And Solomon went after Ashtoreth, goddess of the Zidonians, and after Milcom, the abomination of the Ammonites. ⁶Thus Solomon did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—and went not fully after Yahweh, as did David his father. ⁷Then, did Solomon build a high place for Chemosh, the abomination of Moab, in the hill that is before Jerusalem,—and for Molech, the abomination of the sons of Ammon; ⁸and, thus, did he for all his foreign wives,—who burned incense and offered sacrifices unto their gods. ⁹Therefore did Yahweh shew himself angry with Solomon,—because his heart had turned aside from Yahweh God of Israel, who had appeared unto him twice; ¹⁰and had been giving command to him concerning this thing, that he should not go away after other gods,—but he had not taken heed unto that which Yahweh had commanded. ¹¹Wherefore Yahweh said unto Solomon—Forasmuch as this hath come to pass with thee, and thou hast not heeded my covenant and my statutes, which I charged upon thee, I will, rend, the kingdom away from thee, and will give it unto a servant of thine. ¹²Notwithstanding in thine own days, will I not do it, for the sake of David thy father,—out of the hand of thy son, will I rend it. ¹³Howbeit, all the kingdom, will I not rend away, one tribe, will I give unto thy son,—for the sake of David my servant, and for the sake of Jerusalem, which I have chosen. ¹⁴And Yahweh raised up an adversary against Solomon, Hadad the Edomite,—of the seed of the king, was he, in Edom. ¹⁵And it came to pass, when David was dealing with Edom, and Joab general of the army went up to bury the slain,—and had smitten every male in Edom,—¹⁶for, six months, did Joab remain there, with all Israel,—until he had cut off every male in Edom, ¹⁷that Hadad fled, he and certain men of Edom of the servants of his father, with him, to go into Egypt,—Hadad being a little boy. ¹⁸So they arose out of Midian, and came into Paran,—and took certain men with them out of Paran, and came into Egypt, unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, who gave him a house, and, food, appointed him, and, land, did give unto him. ¹⁹And Hadad found great favour in the eyes of Pharaoh,—so that he gave him to wife, the sister of his own wife, the sister of Tahpenes the queen. ²⁰And the sister of Tahpenes bare to him Genubath his son, and Tahpenes weaned him, in the house of Pharaoh,—and so it came about, that Genubath was of the household of Pharaoh, among the sons of Pharaoh. ²¹And, when, Hadad, heard in Egypt, that David slept with his fathers, and that Joab general of the army was dead, Hadad said unto Pharaoh, Let me go, that I may take my journey unto mine own land. ²²Then said Pharaoh unto him—But what hast thou been lacking with me, that lo! thou art seeking to take thy journey unto thine own land? And he said—Nothing, howbeit, let me go. ²³And God raised up against him an adversary, Rezon son of Eliada,—who had fled from Hadadezer king of Zobah, his lord; ²⁴and he gathered unto him men, and became captain of a band when David slew them of Zobah,—then went they to Damascus, and dwelt therein, and reigned in Damascus. ²⁵Thus became he an adversary unto Israel, all the days of Solomon, this, is the mischief which Hadad did,—so then, he abhorred Israel, when he reigned over Syria. ²⁶Jeroboam also, son of Nebat, an Ephrathite from Zeredah, whose, mother's name, was Zeruah, a widow woman, he being servant to Solomon, lifted up a hand against the king. ²⁷And, this, was the cause that he lifted up a hand against the king,—Solomon, built Millo, he closed up of the of David

his father. the breach city ²⁸Now, the man Jeroboam, being an able Solomon observed his servant, that he man, was, one to execute a work, so he gave him oversight of all the charge of the house of Joseph. ²⁹And it came to pass, at that time, when, Jeroboam, went forth out of Jerusalem, that there met him Ahijah the Shilonite, the prophet, in the way, he having wrapped himself about with a new mantle; and, they two, were by themselves, in the field. ³⁰Then Ahijah laid hold of the new mantle, that was upon him,—and rent it into twelve pieces; ³¹and said to Jeroboam, Take thee ten places,—for Thus, saith Yahweh, God of Israel—Behold me! about to rend the kingdom, out of the hand of Solomon, and I will give unto thee ten tribes: ³²Howbeit, one tribe, shall he retain,—for the sake of my servant David, and for the sake of Jerusalem, the city that I have chosen, out of all the tribes of Israel: ³³Because they have forsaken me, and bowed themselves down to Ashtoreth, goddess of the Zidonians, to Chemosh, god of the Moabites, and to Milcom, god of the sons of Ammon,—and have not walked in my ways, by doing what is right in mine eyes, even my statutes and my regulations, like David his father. ³⁴Yet will I not take all the kingdom out of his hand,—but will suffer him to be, leader, all the days of his life, for the sake of David my servant, whom I chose,—who kept my commandments and my statutes. ³⁵But I will take the kingdom out of the hand of his son, and will give it to thee, even the ten tribes. ³⁶Nevertheless, go his son, will I give one tribe,—to the end there may remain a lamp unto David my servant always before me, in Jerusalem, the city that I have chosen for myself, to put my Name there. ³⁷But, thee, will I take, and thou shalt reign over all that thy soul could desire,—and thou shalt be king over Israel. ³⁸So shall it be, if thou wilt hearken unto all that I shall command thee, and wilt walk in my ways, and do that which is right in mine eyes, by keeping my statutes and my commandments, as did David my servant, then will I be with thee, and will build thee an assured house, as I have built for David, and will give unto thee, Israel. ³⁹Thus will I humiliate the seed of David, because of this; yet not for ever. ⁴⁰When therefore Solomon sought to put, Jeroboam, to death, Jeroboam arose and fled into Egypt, unto Shishak king of Egypt,—and remained in Egypt, until the death of Solomon. ⁴¹Now, the rest of the story of Solomon, and all that he did, and his wisdom, are, they, not written in the book of the records of Solomon? ⁴²Now, the days which Solomon reigned in Jerusalem, over all Israel, were forty years. ⁴³So then Solomon slept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David his father,—and Rehoboam his son reigned in his stead.

¹²And Rehoboam went to Shechem,—for, to Shechem, had all Israel come to make him king. ²And it came to pass, when Jeroboam son of Nebat heard of it—he being yet in Egypt, whither he had fled from the face of Solomon the king, that Jeroboam returned from Egypt; ³yes they sent, and called him, and Jeroboam and all the convocation of Israel came,—and spake unto Rehoboam, saying: ⁴Thy father, made our yoke, grievous,—now, therefore do, thou, lighten the grievous service of thy father, and his heavy yoke which he put upon us, that we may serve thee. ⁵And he said unto them—Depart ye for yet three days, and then come again unto me. And the people departed. ⁶Then King Rehoboam consulted the elders who used to stand before Solomon his father, while he yet lived, saying,—How do, ye, advise, that I answer this people? ⁷And they spake unto him, saying—If, to-day, thou wilt be servant unto this people, and wilt serve them,—and answer them kindly, and speak unto them good words, then will they be, thy, servants, always. ⁸But he declined the counsel of the elders which they gave him, and consulted with the young men, who had grown up with him, who were standing before himself; ⁹and said unto them—What counsel do, ye, give as to how we shall answer this people who have spoken unto me, saying—Make a lightening of the yoke which thy father put upon us? ¹⁰Then spake unto him the young men who had grown up with him, saying, Thus, shalt thou say to this people that have spoken unto thee, saying—Thy father, made our yoke heavy, thou, therefore lighten it upon us, Thus, shalt thou speak unto them, My little finger, is thicker than my father's loins; ¹¹Now, therefore, whereas, my father, laid upon you a heavy yoke, I, will add to your yoke,—My father, did chastise you with whips, but, I, will chastise you with scorpions. ¹²So Jeroboam and all the people came in unto Rehoboam, on the third day,—as the king had bidden, saying—Come again unto me, on the third day. ¹³And the king answered the people, harshly,—and declined the counsel of the elders wherewith they had counselled him; ¹⁴and spake unto them after the counsel of the young men, saying, My father, made your yoke heavy, but, I, will add unto your yoke,—My father, chastised you, with whips, but, I, will chastise you, with scorpions. ¹⁵Thus the king hearkened not unto the people,—for there had come about a turn from Yahweh, that he might establish his word, which Yahweh had spoken by Ahijah the Shilonite, unto Jeroboam, son of Nebat. ¹⁶So when all Israel saw that the king hearkened not unto them, the people answered the king, saying—What portion have, we, in, David. Or inheritance in the son of Jesse? To your homes O Israel! Now, see to thine own house, O David! And Israel departed to their homes. ¹⁷But, as for the sons of Israel who were dwelling in the cities of Judah, Rehoboam reigned over them. ¹⁸Then King Rehoboam sent Adoniram who was over the tribute, but all Israel stoned him with stones, that he died,—King Rehoboam, therefore, hastily mounted his chariot, to flee unto Jerusalem. ¹⁹So Israel rebelled against the house of David,—unto this day. ²⁰And it came to pass, when all Israel heard that Jeroboam had returned, that they sent and called him into the assembly, and made him king over all Israel,—there were none that followed the house of David, saving the tribe of Judah only. ²¹And, when Rehoboam entered Jerusalem, he called together all the house of Judah and the tribe of Benjamin—a hundred and eighty thousand chosen men, able to make war,—to fight against the house of Israel, to bring back the kingdom to Rehoboam, son of Solomon. ²²Then came the word of God unto Shemaiah, the man of God, saying: ²³Speak unto Rehoboam, son of Solomon, king of Judah, and unto all the house of Judah, and Benjamin,—and the remnant of the people, saying: ²⁴Thus, saith Yahweh—Ye shall not go up, neither shall ye fight with your brethren the sons of Israel,—return ye every man to his own house, for, from me, hath this thing been brought about. So they hearkened unto the word of Yahweh, and turned back to depart, according to the word of Yahweh. ²⁵Then Jeroboam built Shechem, in the hill country of Ephraim, and dwelt therein,—and went forth from thence, and built Peniel. ²⁶And Jeroboam said in his heart,—Now, shall the kingdom return to the house of David: ²⁷If this people go up to offer sacrifices in the house of Yahweh, in Jerusalem, then will the heart of this people return unto their lord, unto Rehoboam, king of Judah,—and they will slay me, and return unto Rehoboam, king of Judah. ²⁸Whereupon the king took counsel, and made two calves of gold,—and said unto them—It is, too much for you, to go up to Jerusalem, Lo! thy gods, O Israel, that brought thee up out of the land of Egypt; ²⁹And he set the one in Bethel,—and, the other, put he in Dan. ³⁰And this thing became a sin,—and the people went before the one, as far as Dan. ³¹And he made a house of high-places,—and made priests from the whole compass of the people, who were not of the sons of Levi. ³²And Jeroboam made a festival in the eight month, on the fifteenth day of the month, like the festival which was held in Judah, and offered up on the altar, likewise, did he in Bethel, sacrificing to the calves which he had made,—and he kept in attendance in Bethel, the priests of the high-places which he had made. ³³And he offered up on the altar which he had made in Bethel, on the fifteenth day in the eighth month, in the month which he had devised out of his own heart,—thus made he a festival for the sons of Israel, and offered up on the altar, to make a perfume.

13And lo! a man of God, came in out of Judah, by the word of Yahweh, unto Bethel,—as Jeroboam was standing by the altar, to make a perfume. ²And he made proclamation against the altar, by the word of Yahweh, and said, O altar! altar! Thus, saith Yahweh,—Lo! a son to be born unto the house of David, Josiah his name, who shall sacrifice upon thee the priests of the high-places, who are making a perfume upon thee, and, human bones, shall be burned upon thee; ³and he shall give, on that day, a sign, saying, This, is the sign of which Yahweh hath spoken,—

Lo! the altar, is to be rent, and the ashes that are upon thee shall be, poured out! ⁴And it came to pass, when the king heard the word of the man of God which he proclaimed against the altar in Bethel, Jeroboam thrust forth his hand, from off the altar, saying—Lay hold of him! and his hand which he had thrust forth against him was dried up, that he could not draw it back to him. ⁵Moreover, the altar, was rent, and the ashes poured out from the altar,—according to the sign which the man of God had given, by the word of Yahweh. ⁶Then responded the king and said unto the man of God—Appease, I pray thee, the face of Yahweh thy God, and pray for me, that my hand may be restored unto me. So the man of God appeased the face of Yahweh, and the hand of the king was restored unto him, and became as aforetime. ⁷Then spake the king unto the man of God, Come home with me, and refresh thyself,—and let me give thee a present. ⁸But the man of God said unto the king—If thou wouldst give me the half of thy house, I would not go in with thee,—neither would I eat bread or drink water, in this place; ⁹for, so, he charged me, by the word of Yahweh, saying, Thou shalt not eat bread, nor shalt thou drink water,—neither shalt thou come back by the way thou wentest. ¹⁰So he departed another way,—and went not back by the way by which he came unto Bethel. ¹¹But, a certain aged prophet, was dwelling in Bethel,—whose sons came in and related to him all the deeds which the man of God had done that day in Bethel—and the words which he had spoken unto the king, and they related them to their father. ¹²And their father said unto them, Which way then went he? Now his sons had seen the way which the man of God went who had come in out of Judah. ¹³So he said unto his sons, Saddle for me, the ass. And they saddled for him the ass, and he rode thereon; ¹⁴and went after the man of God, and found him, sitting under an oak. And he said unto him—Art, thou, the man of God who came in out of Judah? And he said—I am. ¹⁵Then said he unto him, Come home with me,—and eat bread. ¹⁶And he said—I may not return with thee, nor go in with thee,—neither will I eat bread or drink water with thee, in this place; ¹⁷for there came a message unto me by the word of Yahweh, Thou shalt neither eat bread, nor drink water there,—thou shalt not turn back to come by the way by which thou wentest. ¹⁸And he said to him—I also, am a prophet, like unto thee, and, a messenger, hath spoken unto me, by the word of Yahweh, saying—Bring him back with thee, into thy house, that he may eat bread, and drink water. He deceived him. ¹⁹So he went back with him, and did eat bread in his house, and drank water. ²⁰And so it was, as, they, were sitting at the table, yea, so it was, that the word of Yahweh came unto the prophet who had brought him back; ²¹and he cried out unto the man of God who had come in out of Judah, saying, Thus, saith Yahweh,—Forasmuch as thou hast rebelled against the bidding of Yahweh, and hast not kept the commandment which Yahweh thy God commanded thee; ²²but hast returned, and eaten bread and drunk water, in the place of which he said unto thee, Thou mayest neither eat bread nor drink water: thy dead body shall not enter the burying-place of thy fathers. ²³And it came to pass, after he had eaten bread, and after he had drunk, that he saddled for him the ass, for the prophet whom he had brought back. ²⁴And, when he had gone, there met him a lion by the way, and slew him,—and his dead body was cast out in the way, and, the ass, was standing near it, and, the lion, was standing near the dead body. ²⁵And lo! certain men, passing by, saw the dead body, cast out in the way, and the lion standing near the dead body,—so they came in, and spake of it in the city, wherein, the aged prophet, dwelt. ²⁶And, when the prophet who had brought him back from the way heard of it, he said—The man of God, it is, who rebelled against the bidding of Yahweh,—therefore did Yahweh deliver him unto the lion, and it hath torn him and slain him, according to the word of Yahweh which he spake unto him. ²⁷And he spake unto his sons, saying, Saddle for me the ass. And they saddled it. ²⁸So he went and found his dead body, cast out in the way, with, the ass and the lion, standing near the dead body,—the lion had neither eaten the dead body, nor had it torn the ass. ²⁹And the prophet took up the dead body of the man of God, and laid it upon the ass, and brought it back,—and the aged prophet came into the city, to make lamentation, and to bury him. ³⁰And he laid his dead body in his own grave,—and they lamented over him, saying —Alas, my brother! ³¹And it came to pass, after he had buried him, that he spake unto his sons, saying, When I die, then shall ye bury me in the grave wherein the man of God is buried; beside his bones, lay my bones; ³²For the message which he proclaimed, by the ward of Yahweh, against the altar which is in Bethel,—and against all the houses of the high places which are in the cities of Samaria, shall surely come to pass. ³³After this thing, Jeroboam turned not from his wicked way,—but again made, from the whole compass of the people, priests of high places, whomsoever he would, he installed, and he became priest of high places. ³⁴And so this thing became the sin of the house of Jeroboam,—that it should be both taken away and destroyed, from off the face of the ground.

¹⁴At that time, fell sick, Abijah son of Jeroboam. ²Then said Jeroboam to his wife—Arise, I pray thee, and feign thyself another, that it be not known, that, thou, art the wife of Jeroboam,—and thou shalt go thy way to Shiloh, lo! there, is Ahijah the prophet, who promised I should be king over this people; ³and thou shalt take with thee ten loaves, and cracknels, and a bottle of honey, and shalt go unto him,—he, will tell thee what shall befall the young man. ⁴And the wife of Jeroboam, did so, and arose, and went to Shiloh, and entered the house of Ahijah,—now,

Ahijah, could not see, for his eyes were fixed, by reason of his old age. ⁵But, Yahweh, had said unto Ahijah—Lo! the wife of Jeroboam, coming to enquire something of thee, concerning her son, for he is sick, thus and so, shalt thou speak unto her,—though, when she cometh in, she feign to be a stranger-woman. ⁶So it came to pass, when Ahijah heard the sound of her feet, as she entered the doorway, that he said—Come in, thou wife of Jeroboam,—wherefore, is it that thou art feigning to be a stranger-woman, seeing that, I, am sent unto thee, with something hard to bear? ⁷Go, say to Jeroboam—Thus, saith Yahweh, God of Israel, Forasmuch as I exalted thee out of the midst of the people,—and gave thee to be leader over my people Israel; ⁸and rent the kingdom away from the house of David, and gave it to thee,—and yet thou hast not been like my servant David, who kept my commandments, and who followed me, with all his heart, to do only that which was right in mine eyes; ⁹but hast made wicked thy doings beyond any who were before thee,—and hast gone and made thee ether gods, even molten images, to provoke me to anger, and hast cast, me, behind thy back, ¹⁰therefore, behold me! bringing misfortune against the house of Jeroboam, and I will cut off the meanest pertaining to Jeroboam, whether shut up or left at large, in Israel,—and will consume after the house of Jeroboam, as one consumeth dung, till it be all gone: ¹¹Him that dieth of Jeroboam in the city, shall, the dogs, eat, and, him that dieth in the field, shall, the birds of heaven, eat,—For, Yahweh, hath spoken. ¹²Thou, therefore, arise, go to thine own house,—as thy feet are entering the city, the young man shall die. ¹³Then shall all Israel lament for him, and bury him, for, this one, pertaining to Jeroboam, shall reach a burying-place,—because there hath been found in him something good toward Yahweh, God of Israel, in the house of Jeroboam. ¹⁴Therefore will Yahweh raise up for himself a king over Israel, who will cut off the house of Jeroboam, this day, but why, even now? ¹⁵Therefore will Yahweh smite Israel, as a reed shaketh in water, and will root out Israel, from off this goodly soil, which he gave unto their fathers, and will scatter them beyond the River (Euphrates),—because they have made their Sacred Stems, provoking Yahweh to anger: ¹⁶That he may deliver up Israel,—on account of the sin of Jeroboam, which he committed, and which he caused, Israel, to commit. ¹⁷Then arose the wife of Jeroboam, and went her way and entered Tirzah,—as, she, was coming into the entrance hall, the young man died. ¹⁸And, when they buried him, all Israel lamented him,—according to the word of Yahweh, which he spake through his servant Ahijah the prophet. ¹⁹Now, the rest of the story of Jeroboam, how he warred, and how he reigned, behold them! written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. ²⁰And, the days which Jeroboam reigned, were twenty-two years,—and he slept with his fathers, and, Nadab his son, reigned, in his stead. ²¹And, Rehoboam, son of Solomon, reigned in

Judah,—forty-one years old, was Rehoboam when he began to reign, and seventeen years, reigned he in Jerusalem, the city which Yahweh had chosen to put his Name there, out of all the tribes of Israel, and, his mother's name, was Naamah, the Ammonitess. ²²And Judah did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—and provoked him to jealousy, above all that their fathers had done, with their sins which they committed. ²³And, they also, built for themselves high places and pillars, and Sacred Stems,—upon every high hill, and under every green tree. ²⁴Moreover also, there were, male devotees, in the land,—they did according to all the abominable practices of the nations, which Yahweh dispossessed from before the sons of Israel. ²⁵And it came to pass, in the fifth year of King Rehoboam, that Shishak king of Egypt, came up against Jerusalem; ²⁶and took away the treasures of the house of Yahweh, and the treasures of the house of the king, yea, the whole, took he away,—and took away all the bucklers of gold, which, Solomon, had made. ²⁷So King Rehoboam made, in their stead, bucklers of bronze,—and committed them unto the hand of the captains of the runners, who kept guard at the entrance of the house of the king. ²⁸And so it was, whensoever the king went into the house of Yahweh, the runners bare them, and then brought them back into the chamber of the runners. ²⁹Now, the rest of the story of Rehoboam, and all that he did, are, they, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? ³⁰And there was, war, between Rehoboam and Jeroboam, continually. ³¹So then Rehoboam slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David, and, the name of his mother, was Naamah the Ammonitess,—and, Abijah his son, reigned, in his stead.

15Now, in the eighteenth year of King Jeroboam son of Nebat, began Abijah to reign over Judah. ²Three years, reigned he in Jerusalem,—and, the name of his mother, was Maachah, daughter of Abishalom. ³And he walked in all the sins of his father which he had done before him,—and his heart was not blameless with Yahweh his God, like the heart of David his father. ⁴But, for the sake of David, did Yahweh his God give him a lamp, in Jerusalem,—by raising up a son of his after him, and by suffering Jerusalem to stand; ⁵because David did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh,—and turned not aside from anything that he commanded him, all the days of his life, save only in the matter of Uriah the Hittite. ⁶And there was, war, between Rehoboam and Jeroboam, all the days of his life. ⁷Now, the rest of the story of Abijah and all that he did, are, they, not written in the book of Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? And there was, war, between Abijah and Jeroboam. ⁸So then Abijah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David,—and, Asa his son, reigned, in his stead. ⁹Now, in the twentieth year of Jeroboam king of Israel, began Asa to reign as king of Judah; ¹⁰and, forty-one years, reigned he in Jerusalem,—and, the name of his mother, was Maachah, daughter of Abishalom. ¹¹And Asa did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh,—like David his father; ¹²and he put away the male devotees out of the land,—and removed all the idols that his fathers had made. ¹³Moreover also, even Maachah his mother, he removed from being queen, because she had made a monstrous thing to the Sacred Stem,—and Asa cut down her monstrous thing and burned it in the Kidron ravine. ¹⁴But, the high places, removed he not,—nevertheless, the heart of Asa, was blameless with Yahweh, all his days. ¹⁵And he brought in the hallowed things of his father, and his own hallowed things, into the house of Yahweh,—silver and gold, and vessels. ¹⁶And there was, war, between Asa and Baasha king of Israel, all their days. ¹⁷And Baasha king of Israel came up against Judah, and built Ramah,—so as not to suffer any one to come out or go in unto Asa king of Judah. ¹⁸So Asa took all the silver and the gold, that were left in the treasuries of the house of Yahweh, and the treasures of the house of the king, and delivered them into the hand of his servants,—and King Asa sent them unto Ben-hadad, son of Tabrimmon, son of Hezion, king of Syria, who dwelt in Damascus, saying: ¹⁹Let there be a covenant between me and thee, as between my father and thy father: Lo! I have sent thee a gift, silver and gold, Come break thy covenant with Baasha, king of Israel, that he may go up from against me. ²⁰So Ben-hadad hearkened unto King Asa, and sent the generals of the forces which he had, against the cities of Israel, and smote Iyyohn \ul1 Ijon\ul0, and Dan, and Abel-beth-maacah,—and all Chinneroth, against all the land of Naphtali. ²¹And it came to pass, when Baasha heard thereof, he left off building Ramah,—and returned to Tirzah. ²²And, King Asa, published it unto all Judah, none was exempted, so they carried away the stones of Ramah, and the beams thereof, wherewith Baasha had built,—and King Asa built therewith Geba of Benjamin, and Mizpah. ²³Now, the rest of all the story of Asa, and all his might, and all that he did and the cities which he built, are, they, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? Howbeit, in the time of his old age, he was diseased in his feet. ²⁴So then Asa slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers, in the city of David his father,—and, Jehoshaphat his son, reigned, in his stead. ²⁵Now, Nadab son of Jeroboam, began to reign over Israel, in the second year of Asa king of Judah,—and he reigned over Israel, two years. ²⁶And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—and walked in the way of his father, and in his sin, wherewith he caused, Israel, to sin. ²⁷And Baasha son of Ahijah, of the house of Issachar, conspired against him, and Baasha smote him in Gibbethon, which belonged to the Philistines,—Nadab and all Israel being in siege against Gibbethon. ²⁸And Baasha slew him, in the third year of Asa king of Judah,—and reigned in his stead. ²⁹And it came to pass, when he became king, that he smote all the house of Jeroboam, he left not remaining any breathing thing pertaining to Jeroboam, until he had destroyed him,—according to the word of Yahweh, which he spake by the hand of his servant Ahijah the Shilonite: ³⁰for the sins of Jeroboam which he committed, and which he caused, Israel, to commit,—by his provocation wherewith he provoked to anger Yahweh God of Israel. ³¹Now, the rest of the story of Nadab, and all that he did, are, they, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel? ³²And there was, war, between Asa and Baasha king of Israel, all their days. ³³In the third year of Asa king of Judah, began Baasha, son of Ahijah, to reign over all Israel, in Tirzah, and he reigned twenty-four years. ³⁴And he did that which was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—and walked in the way of Jeroboam, and in his sin wherewith he caused, Israel, to sin.

¹⁶Then came the word of Yahweh unto Jehu ²son of Hanani, against Baasha, saying: Forasmuch as I exalted thee out of the dust, and gave thee to be leader over my people Israel,—and yet thou hast walked in the way of Jeroboam, and caused, my people Israel, to sin, provoking me to anger with their sins, ³Behold me! consuming after Baasha, and after his house,—and I will deliver up thy house, like the house of Jeroboam son of Nebat: ⁴Him that dieth of Baasha in the city, shall, the dogs, eat, and, him that dieth of his in the field, shall, the birds of heaven, eat. ⁵Now, the rest of the story of Baasha, and what he did, and his might, are, they, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? ⁶So Baasha slept with his fathers, and was buried in Tirzah,—and, Elah his son, reigned, in his stead. ⁷Moreover also, through Jehu son of Hanani the prophet, the word of Yahweh, came against Baasha and against his house, even because of all the wickedness that he had done in the eyes of Yahweh, provoking him to anger with the work of his hands, becoming like the house of Jeroboam,—notwithstanding that he smote him. ⁸In the twenty-sixth year of Asa king of Judah, began Elah son of Baasha to reign over Israel, in Tirzah, and he reigned two years. ⁹Then conspired against him his servant Zimri, captain of half the chariots,—as he was in Tirzah drinking himself drunk, in the house of Arza, who was over the household in Tirzah. ¹⁰And Zimri went in, and smote him and slew him, in the twenty-seventh year of Asa king of Judah,—and reigned in his stead. ¹¹And it came to pass, when he began to reign, as soon as he sat on his throne, that he smote all the house of Baasha, he left him not even the meanest,—neither of his kinsfolks, nor of his friends. ¹²Thus did Zimri destroy all the house of Baasha,—according to the word of Yahweh which he spake unto Baasha, through Jehu the prophet; ¹³as to all the sins of Baasha, and the sins of Elah his son,—wherewith they sinned, and wherewith they caused, Israel, to sin, provoking to anger Yahweh God of Israel, with their vanities. ¹⁴Now, the rest of the story of Elah, and all that he did, are, they, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? ¹⁵In the twenty-seventh year of Asa king of Judah, did Zimri reign, seven days in Tirzah,—but, the people, were encamped against Gibbethon, which belonged to the Philistine. ¹⁶When therefore the people who were encamped, heard say, Zimri hath conspired, moreover also, he hath smitten the king, all Israel made Omri, general of the army, king over Israel, on that day, in the camp. ¹⁷So Omri, and all Israel with him, went up from Gibbethon,—and laid siege against Tirzah. ¹⁸And it came to pass, when Zimri saw that the city was captured, that he entered into the citadel of the house of the king,—and burned over him the house of the king, with fire, and died: ¹⁹because of his sins which he committed by doing the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—by walking in the way of Jeroboam, and in his sin which he committed, by causing, Israel, to sin. ²⁰Now, the rest of the story of Zimri, and his conspiracy wherein he conspired, are, they, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? ²¹Then, were the people of Israel divided,—half the people, were following Tibni son of Ginath, to make him king, and, half, following Omri. ²²But, the people that followed Omri, prevailed against, the people that followed Tibni son of Ginath; so that, Tibni, died, and, Omri, reigned. ²³In the thirty-first year of Asa king of Judah, began Omri to reign over Israel and he reigned twelve years: in Tirzah, reigned he six years. ²⁴And he bought the hill Samaria, of Shemer, for two talents of silver,—and built on the hill, and called the name of the city which he built, after the name of Shemer lord of the hill—Samaria. ²⁵And Omri did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—and did more wickedly than all who were before him; ²⁶yea he walked in all the way of Jeroboam son of Nebat, and in his sin wherewith he caused, Israel, to sin,—provoking to anger Yahweh, God of Israel, with their vanities. ²⁷Now, the rest of the story of Omri, what he did, and his might that he shewed, are, they, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? ²⁸So Omri slept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria,—and, Ahab his son, reigned, in his stead. ²⁹Now, Ahab son of Omri, began to reign over Israel, in the thirty-eighth year of Asa king of Judah,—and Ahab son of Omri reigned over Israel, in Samaria, twenty-two years. ³⁰And Ahab son of Omri did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—and did more wickedly than all that were before him. ³¹And it come to pass, as though it had been too light a thing that he should walk in the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, that he took to wife Jezebel, daughter of Ethbaal, king of the Zidonians, and went and served Baal, and bowed down to him. ³²And he reared an altar unto Baal,—in the house of Baal, which he built in Samaria. ³³And Ahab made the Sacred Stem,—and Ahab did yet more to provoke to anger

Yahweh God of Israel than all the kings of Israel who were before him. ³⁴In his days, did Hiel the Bethelite build Jericho,—At the price of Abiram his firstborn, he laid its foundation, and, at the price of Segub his youngest, he set up its doors, according to the word of Yahweh which he spake through Joshua son of Nun.

17Then said Elijah the Tishbite, of Tishbe in Gilead, unto Ahab, By the life of Yahweh, God of Israel, before whom I stand, there shall not, these two years, be either dew or rain,—save at the bidding of my word. ²Then came the word of Yahweh unto him, saying: ³Get thee hence, and turn thee eastward,—and hide thyself in the ravine of Cherith, which faceth the Jordan; ⁴and it shall be that, of the torrent, shalt thou drink,—and, the ravens, have I commanded to sustain thee, there. ⁵So he went and did, according to the word of Yahweh,—yea he went and dwelt in the ravine of Cherith, which faceth the Jordan. ⁶And, the ravens, used to bring him bread and flesh, in the morning, and bread and flesh, in the evening,—and, of the torrent, used he to drink. ⁷But it came to pass, at the end of certain days, that the torrent dried up,—because there had been no rain in the land. ⁸Then came the word of Yahweh unto him, saying— ⁹Arise, get thee to Zarephath, which belongeth to Zidon, and dwell there,—Lo! I have commanded, there, a widow woman, to sustain thee. ¹⁰So he arose and went to Zarephath, and, when he came to the entrance of the city, lo! there, a widow woman gathering sticks,—and he called to her, and said, Fetch me, I pray thee, a little water in a vessel, that I may drink. ¹¹And, as she went to fetch it, he called to her and said, Bring me, I pray thee, a morsel of bread, in thy hand. ¹²And she said—By the life of Yahweh, thy God, verily I have not a cake, only a handful of meal in the jar, and a little oil in the cruse,—and lo! I have been gathering a couple of sticks, so I shall go in and make it ready for me and for my son, that we may eat it—and die! ¹³And Elijah said unto her—Do not fear, go in—make ready according to thy word,—howbeit, make me thereof a little cake, first, and bring it out to me, and, for thyself and thy son, make ready, afterwards. ¹⁴For, thus, saith Yahweh, God of Israel, The jar of meal, shall not waste, and, the cruse of oil, shall not fail,—until the day that Yahweh giveth rain upon the face of the ground. ¹⁵So she went and made ready, according to the word of Elijah,—and did eat, she, and he, and her house, certain days: ¹⁶The jar of meal, did not waste,—and, the cruse of oil, did not fail,—according to the word of Yahweh, which he spake through Elijah. ¹⁷And it came to pass, after these things, that the son of the woman, owner of the house, fell sick,—yea it came to pass that his sickness was very severe, until no, breath, was left in him. ¹⁸Then said she unto Elijah, What have I in common with thee, O man of God? Hast thou come unto me, to call to remembrance mine iniquity, and to cause the death of my son? ¹⁹And he said unto her—Give me thy son. And he took him out of her bosom, and carried him unto the upper room, where, he, was staying, and laid him upon his own bed. ²⁰Then cried he unto Yahweh, and said,—O Yahweh, my God! Even upon the widow with whom I am sojourning, hast thou brought misfortune by causing the death of her son? ²¹And he stretched himself out upon the boy, three times, and cried unto Yahweh, and said,—O Yahweh, my God! Let the life of this boy, I pray thee, come again within him. ²²And Yahweh hearkened unto the voice of Elijah,—and the life of the boy came again within him, and he lived. ²³Then Elijah took the boy, and carried him down out of the upper room, into the house, and gave him to his mother,—and Elijah said, See! thy son liveth. ²⁴And the woman said unto Elijah, Now, then I know, that, a man of God, thou art,—and that, the word of Yahweh, is in thy mouth, of a truth.

18And it came to pass, after many days, that, the word of Yahweh, came unto Elijah, in the third year, saying,—Go, shew thyself unto Ahab, that I may send rain upon the face of the ground. ²And Elijah went, to show himself unto Ahab. Now, the famine, was severe in Samaria. ³And Ahab had called for Obadiah, who was over his house. Now, Obadiah, was one who revered Yahweh, exceedingly. ⁴And so it came to pass, when Jezebel was cutting off the prophets of Yahweh, that Obadiah took a hundred prophets, and hid them by fifties in caves, and sustained them, with bread and water. ⁵So then Ahab said unto Obadiah, Go, and let us pass throughout the land, unto all the fountains of water, and unto all the ravines, peradventure we may find grass, and save alive horse and mule, and not have more of the beasts cut off. ⁶So they divided to them the land, to pass through it,—Ahab, went one way, by himself, and, Obadiah, went another way, by himself. ⁷And so it was, as Obadiah was on the road, that lo! Elijah, met him,—and he recognised him, and fell upon his face, and said—Now art, thou, my lord Elijah? ⁸And he said to him—I, am! Go, say to thy lord: Here, is, Elijah! ⁹And he said—How have I sinned,—that, thou, art delivering thy servant into the hand of Ahab, to put me to death? ¹⁰By the life of Yahweh thy God, there is no nation or kingdom, whither my lord hath not sent to seek thee, and, when they have said—Nay! he hath taken an oath of the kingdom or the nation, that no one could find thee; ¹¹and, now, thou, art saying,—Go say to thy lord, Here, is, Elijah; ¹²so shall it come to pass, as soon as, I, go from thee, that, the spirit of Yahweh, shall carry thee away—whither I know not, and so, when I go in to tell Ahab, and he cannot find thee, then will he slay me,—and yet, thy servant, hath revered Yahweh, from my youth. ¹³Was it not told my lord, what I did when Jezebel was slaying the prophets of Yahweh,—how I hid, of the prophets of Yahweh, a hundred men—by fifties—in caves, and sustained them with bread and water?

¹⁴and yet, now, thou, art saying, Go, tell thy lord—Here, is, Elijah; and so he will slay me! ¹⁵Then said Elijah—By the life of Yahweh of hosts, before whom I stand, to-day, will I show myself unto him. ¹⁶So Obadiah went to meet Ahab, and told him,—and, Ahab, went to meet, Elijah. ¹⁷And it came to pass, when Ahab saw Elijah, that Ahab said unto him, Now, art, thou, troubling Israel? ¹⁸And he said—I have not troubled Israel, but, thou and the house of thy father,—in that ye have forsaken the commandments of Yahweh, and followed Baal. ¹⁹Now, therefore, send, gather unto me all Israel, unto Mount Carmel,—and the prophets of Baal, four hundred and fifty, and the prophets of the Sacred Stem, four hundred, who do eat at the table of Jezebel. ²⁰So Ahab sent among all the sons of Israel,—and gathered the prophets unto Mount Carmel. ²¹And Elijah drew near unto all the people, and said—How long are ye limping on the two divided opinions? If, Yahweh, be GOD, follow, him, but, if, Baal, follow, him. But the people answered him, not a word. ²²Then said Elijah unto the people—I, am left, Yahweh's, only, prophet,—but, the prophets of Baal, are four hundred and fifty men. ²³Let there be given us, therefore, two bullocks, and let them choose for themselves one bullock, and cut it in pieces, and lay it upon the wood, but, fire, shall they not put,—then, I, will make ready the other bullock, and place upon the wood, but, fire, will I not put. ²⁴Then shall ye call on the name of your god, and, I, will call on the name of Yahweh, and it shall be, the God that respondeth by fire, he, is GOD. And all the people responded—Well spoken! ²⁵Then said Elijah to the prophets of Baal—Choose for yourselves one bullock, and make ye ready, first, for, ye, are many,—and call ye on the name of your god, but, fire, shall ye not put. ²⁶So they took the bullock which was given them, and made ready, and called on the name of Baal—from the morning even until the noon, saying—O Baal! answer us. But there was no voice, nor any that answered. And they leaped about by the altar which had been made. ²⁷And it came to pass, at noon, that Elijah mocked them, and said—Cry with a loud voice, for, a god, he is, either he hath, a meditation, or an occasion to retire, or he hath, a journey,—peradventure, he, sleepeth, and must be awaked. ²⁸And they cried, with a loud voice, and cut themselves, after their custom, with swords, and with lances,—until the blood gushed out upon them. ²⁹And so it was, when noon was passed, that although they prophesied until the offering up of the evening gift, yet was there no voice nor any that answered, nor any that hearkened. ³⁰Then said Elijah unto all the people: Draw near unto, me. And all the people drew near unto, him. Then repaired he the broken-down altar of Yahweh; yea Elijah took twelve stones, according to the number of the tribes of the sons of Jacob,—³¹unto whom the word of Yahweh came, saying—Israel, shall be thy name; ³²and built, with the stones, an altar, in the name of Yahweh,—

and he made a trench, as large as would contain two measures of seed, round about the altar; ³³and he put in order the wood,—and cut in pieces the bullock, and laid upon the wood. Then said he—Fill four pitchers with water, and pour out upon the ascending-sacrifice, and upon the wood. And they did so. ³⁴And he said—Do it the second time. And they did it the second time. And he said—Do it the third time. And they did it the third time. ³⁵And the water ran round about the altar,—moreover also, the trench, filled he with water. ³⁶And it came to pass, at the time of the offering of the gift, that Elijah the prophet drew near, and said, O Yahweh, God of Abraham, Isaac and Israel! To-day, let it be known—That, thou, art God in Israel, and that, I, am thy servant,—and that, by thy word, have I done all these things. ³⁷Answer me, O Yahweh! answer me, That this people may know, that, thou—Yahweh, art GOD,—so shalt, thou thyself, have turned their heart back again. ³⁸Then fell fire from Yahweh, and consumed the ascending-sacrifice, and the wood, and the stones, and the dust,—even the water that was in the trench, it licked up. ³⁹And, when all the people saw it, they fell upon their faces,—and said, Yahweh, he, is GOD, Yahweh, he, is GOD. ⁴⁰And Elijah said unto them—Seize ye the prophets of Baal—let not, a man, of them escape. So they seized them. And Elijah took them down unto the ravine of Kishon, and slaughtered them there. ⁴¹Then said Elijah unto Ahab, Go up, eat and drink,—for there is a sound of a downpour of rain. ⁴²So Ahab went up, to eat and to drink,—but, Elijah, went up to the top of Carmel, and bowed himself to the earth, and put his face between his knees. ⁴³Then said he unto his young man—Go up, I pray thee, and look about in the direction of the sea. So he went up, and looked about, and said—There is, nothing whatever. Then said he—Go again, seven times. ⁴⁴And it came to pass, at the seventh time, that he said, Lo! a little cloud, like a man's hand coming up from the sea. Then he said—Go up, say unto Ahab—Harness, and get thee down, lest the rain shut thee in. ⁴⁵And it came to pass, meanwhile, that, the heavens, had enshrouded themselves with clouds and wind, and there came a great rain, and Ahab rode, and went to Jezreel; ⁴⁶but, the hand of Yahweh, came upon Elijah, so he girded his loins,—and ran before Ahab, until thou enterest Jezreel.

19And Ahab told Jezebel, all that Elijah had done,—and withal, how he had slain all the prophets with the sword. ²Then sent Jezebel a messenger unto Elijah, saying,—So, let the gods do, and, so, let them add, if, by this time to-morrow, I make not thy life as the life of one of them. ³And, when he saw that, he arose, and went for his life, and came to Beer-sheba, which belongeth to Judah,—and left his servant there. ⁴But, he himself, went into the wilderness a day's journey, and came and sat down under a certain shrub,—and asked for his life, that he might die, and said—Enough, now, O Yahweh! take away my life, for, no better, am, I, than, my fathers. ⁵And, as he lay, and slept, under a certain shrub, lo! a messenger, touching him, who said to him—Rise, eat. ⁶So he looked about, and lo! at his head, a cake baked on hot stones, and a cruse of water,—and he did eat and drink, and then went back and lay down. ⁷And the messenger of Yahweh came again a second time, and touched him, and said—Rise, eat,—because, too much for thee, is the journey. ⁸So he arose, and did eat and drink,—and journeyed, in the strength of that eating, forty days and forty nights, as far as the mountain of God—Horeb. ⁹And he entered, there, into a cave, and lodged there,—and lo! the word of Yahweh came unto him, and said to him, What doest thou here, Elijah? ¹⁰And he said—Very jealous, have I been, for Yahweh, God of hosts, because the sons of Israel have forsaken thy covenant, thine altars, have they thrown down, thy prophets, also have they slain with the sword,—and, I alone, am left, and they have sought my life, to take it. ¹¹And he said—Go forth to-morrow, and stand in the mountain, before Yahweh. And lo! Yahweh, passing by, and a great and strong wind—rending the mountains, and breaking in pieces the crags, before Yahweh, Not, in the wind, was, Yahweh,—And, after the wind, an, earthquake, Not, in the earthquake, was, Yahweh; ¹²And, after the earthquake, a, fire, Not, in the fire, was, Yahweh,—And, after the fire, the voice of a gentle whisper. ¹³And it came to pass, when Elijah heard it, he wrapped his face in his mantle, and went forth, and stood at the entrance of the cave,—and lo! unto him, a voice; and it said—What doest thou here, Elijah? ¹⁴And he said—Very jealous, have I been, for Yahweh, God of hosts, because the sons of Israel have forsaken thy covenant, thine altars, have they thrown down, thy prophets also, have they slain with the sword,—and, I alone, am left, and they rove sought my life, to take it. ¹⁵And Yahweh said unto him, Go, return to thy way, towards the wilderness of Damascus,—and, when thou enterest, then shalt thou anoint Hazael to be king over Syria; ¹⁶And, Jehu son of Minshi, shalt thou anoint to be king over Israel,—and, Elisha son of Shaphat of Abel-meholah, shalt thou anoint to be prophet in thy stead: ¹⁷Then shall it come to pass, that—him that escapeth the sword of Hazael, shall, Jehu, slay,—and, him that escapeth the sword of Jehu, shall, Elisha, slay; ¹⁸Yet will I leave remaining in Israel, seven thousand,—all knees which have not bowed to Baal, and all mouths which have not kissed to him. ¹⁹So he departed from thence, and found Elisha son of Shaphat, as he was plowing, with twelve yoke of oxen before him, he being with the twelfth,—so Elijah crossed over unto him, and cast his mantle towards him; ²⁰and he left the oxen, and ran after Elijah, and said—Let me, I pray thee, kiss my father and my mother, that I may follow thee. And he said unto him,—Go, turn back, for what have I done to thee? ²¹So he turned back from following him, and took the yoke of oxen, and sacrificed them, and, with the implements of the oxen, boiled their flesh, and gave unto the people, and they did eat,—then he arose, and followed Elijah, and ministered unto him.

20Now, Ben-hadad, king of Syria, had gathered together all his forces, and, thirty-two kings, were with him, and horses and chariots,—then came he up, and laid siege to Samaria, and made war against it. ²And he sent messengers unto Ahab king of Israel, into the city, and said to him,—Thus, saith Ben-hadad, ³Thy silver and thy gold, are, mine, and, thy wives and thy sons, the goodliest, are, mine. ⁴Then responded the king of Israel, and said, According to thy word, my lord O king! thine, am I, and all that I have. ⁵And the messengers came back again, and said, Thus, speaketh Ben-hadad, saying,—Because I sent unto thee, saying, Thy silver and thy gold and thy wives and thy sons, to me, shalt thou give, ⁶Therefore, about this time to-morrow, will I send my servants unto thee, and they shall search thy house, and the houses of thy servants,—and it shall be, that, all the delight of thine eyes, shall they put in their hand, and take away. ⁷Then called the king of Israel, for all the elders of the land, and said—Mark, I pray you, and see, how this man is seeking, mischief,—for he had sent unto me, for my wives, and for my sons, and for my silver, and for my gold, and I refused him not. ⁸And all the elders and all the people said unto him,—Do not thou hearken, neither do thou consent. ⁹So he said unto the messengers of Ben-hadad—Say ye to my lord the king,—All that thou didst send for, to thy servant at the first, will I do, but, this thing, I cannot do. And the messengers departed, and took him back word. ¹⁰Then Ben-hadad sent unto him and said,—So, let the gods do to me, and, so, let them add,—if the dust of Samaria suffice by handfuls, for all the people who are at my feet. ¹¹And the king of Israel responded and said: Tell him,—Let not, him that girdeth, boast himself like him, that looseneth. ¹²And it came to pass, when he heard this message, as, he, was drinking, he and the kings in the pavilions, that he said unto his servants—Make ready! So they made ready, against the city. ¹³And lo! a certain prophet, drew near unto Ahab king of Israel, and said,—Thus, saith Yahweh, Hast thou seen all this great multitude? Behold me! delivering it into thy hand, to-day, so shalt thou know that, I, am, Yahweh. ¹⁴And Ahab said—By whom? And he said—Thus, saith Yahweh, By the young men of the princes of the provinces. Then said he—Who shall begin the war? And he said—Thou! ¹⁵Then numbered he the young men of the princes of the provinces, and they were found to be, two hundred and thirty-two,—and, after them, he numbered all the people all the sons of Israel, seven thousand. ¹⁶And they went forth at noon. Now, Ben-hadad, was drinking himself drunk, in the pavilions, he and the thirty-two kings helping him. ¹⁷Then went forth the young men of the princes of the provinces, first,—and, when Ben-hadad sent, they told him, saying—Men, have come forth, out of Samaria. ¹⁸And he said—If, peaceably, they have come, take them alive,—or, if, fighting, they have come, alive, take ye them. ¹⁹Now, when, these, had come forth out of the city, even the young men of the princes of the provinces,—with the force which was following them, ²⁰then smote they every one his man, and the Syrians fled, and Israel pursued them,—but Ben-hadad king of Syria escaped on horse, with horsemen. ²¹And the king of Israel went forth, and took the horses and the chariots,—and he went on smiting the Syrians, with a great smiting. ²²Then drew near the prophet, unto the king of Israel, and said unto him—Go strengthen thyself, and mark and see, what thou wilt do,—for, at the return of the year, is, the king of Syria, coming up against thee. ²³And, the servants of the king of Syria, said unto him,—Gods of the mountains, are their gods, for this cause, prevailed they against us,—but, only let us fight with them in the plain, and verily we shall prevail against them. ²⁴But, this thing, do,—set aside the kings, every man out of his place, and put governors in their stead; ²⁵and, thou, must number thee a force, like the force which thou hast lost, both horse for horse and chariot for chariot, and, if we fight with them in the plain, verily we shall prevail against them. And he hearkened unto their voice, and did so. ²⁶And so it came to pass at the return of the year, that Ben-hadad numbered the Syrians,—and came up to Aphek, to fight with Israel; ²⁷and, the sons of Israel, were numbered, and provisioned, and went to meet them,—and the sons of Israel encamped before them like two little flocks of goats, whereas, the Syrians, filled the land. ²⁸Then approached the man of God, and spake unto the king of Israel, and said—Thus, saith Yahweh—Because the Syrians have said—A god of the mountains, is Yahweh, but, not a god of the vales, is he, therefore will I deliver all this great multitude, into thy hand, so shalt thou know, that, I, am Yahweh. ²⁹So they encamped, these, over against, those, seven days,—and it came to pass, on the seventh day, that the battle was joined, and the sons of Israel smote the Syrians, a hundred thousand footmen, in one day. ³⁰And they who were left fled to Aphek, into the city, and the wall fell upon twenty-seven thousand men who were left,—and, Ben-hadad, fled, and came into the city, into a chamber within a chamber. ³¹And his servants said unto him, Lo! we pray thee, we have heard, of the kings of the house of Israel, that, kings known for lovingkindness, they are. Let us, we pray thee, put sackcloth upon our loins, and ropes about our head, and let us go forth unto the king of Israel, peradventure he will save alive thy soul. ³²So they girded sackcloth upon their loins, and put ropes about their heads, and came in unto the king of Israel, and said, Thy servant, Ben-hadad, saith,—Let my soul live, I pray thee. And he said,—Is he yet alive? My brother, he is. ³³Now, the men, could divine, so they hastened to let him confirm the word of his own accord, and they said,—Thy brother, is Ben-hadad! He said therefore,—Go fetch him. So Ben-hadad came forth unto him, and he made him come up unto him on his chariot. ³⁴And he said unto him—The cities which my father took from thy father, will I restore, and, bazaars, shalt thou make thee in Damascus, as my father made in Samaria. So then, I, with this covenant, will let thee go. So he solemnised with him a covenant, and let him go. ³⁵And, a certain man of the sons of the prophets, said unto his neighbour, by the word of Yahweh—Smite me, I pray thee. But the man refused to smite him. ³⁶So he said to him—Because thou hast not hearkened unto the voice of Yahweh, lo! when thou art departing from me, there shall smite thee a lion. And when he departed from beside him, a lion found him, and smote him. ³⁷Then found he another man, and said,—Smite me, I pray thee. So the man smote him—kept on smiting and wounding. ³⁸Then the prophet departed, and waited for the king, by the way,—and disguised himself with his turban over his eyes. ³⁹And so it was, when, the king, was passing, he, cried out unto the king,—and said—Thy servant, went out in the midst of the battle, and lo! a man, turned aside and brought unto me a man, and said—Keep this man, if he be, missing, then shall, thy life, go for, his life, or, a talent of silver, shalt thou weigh out. ⁴⁰And so it was, as thy servant was busy here and there, that, he, was gone. And the king of Israel said unto him—Such, is thy judgment, thou thyself, hast decided it. ⁴¹Then hastened he, and removed the turban from over his eyes,—and the king of Israel knew him, that, of the prophets, was, he. ⁴²And he said unto him—Thus, saith Yahweh, Because thou hast let go the man whom I had devoted, out of thy hand, therefore shall, thy life, be instead of, his life, and, thy people, instead of, his people. ⁴³And the king of Israel departed unto his house, sullen and disturbed,—and entered Samaria.

21And it came to pass, after these things, that Naboth the Jezreelite had, a vineyard, which was in Jezreel,—hard by the palace of Ahab, king of Samaria. ²Ahab, therefore, spake unto Naboth, saying—Come! give me thy vineyard, that I may have it for a garden of herbs, for, the same, is near by my house, and let me give thee, instead thereof, a vineyard better than it,—if it be good in thine eyes, I will give thee silver to the value of this. ³And Naboth said unto Ahab,—Far be it from me, of Yahweh! that I should give up the inheritance of my fathers, unto thee! ⁴So Ahab came into his house, sullen and disturbed, because of the word which Naboth the Jezreelite had spoken unto him, that he should have said, I will not give thee the inheritance of my fathers. So he laid him down upon his bed, and turned away his face, and did eat no food. ⁵Then came unto him Jezebel his wife,—and said unto him—Why is it, that thy spirit is sullen, that thou art, not eating food? ⁶And he said unto her—Because I spake unto Naboth, the Jezreelite, and said unto him—Come! give me thy vineyard for silver, or, if thou wouldst prefer, I will give thee a vineyard, in its stead; and he said—I will not give thee my vineyard. ⁷Then Jezebel his wife said unto him: Art, thou, still, going to carry on the kingdom over Israel? Rise! eat food, and let thy heart be merry, I, will give thee the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite! ⁸So she wrote letters, in the name of Ahab, and sealed them with his signet-ring,—and sent the letters unto the elders, and unto the nobles who were in his city, dwelling with Naboth. ⁹Now she wrote in the letters, saying,—Proclaim ye a fast, and cause Naboth to sit at the head of the people; ¹⁰then let two reckless men take their seats before him, that they may bear witness against him, saying, Thou hast reviled God and king! then shall ye carry him forth and stone him, that he die. ¹¹So the men of his city, the elders and the nobles who dwelt in his city, did just as Jezebel had sent unto them,—as it was written in the letters which she had sent unto them: ¹²they proclaimed a fast,—and caused Naboth to sit at the head of the people. ¹³Then came in the two reckless men, and sat before him, and the men bare witness against him, even against Naboth, before the people, saying, Naboth hath reviled God and king! So they carried him forth, outside the city, and stoned him with stones, that he died. ¹⁴Then sent they unto Jezebel, saying,—Naboth is stoned and is dead. ¹⁵And it came to pass, when Jezebel heard that Naboth was stoned and was dead, that Jezebel said unto Ahab—Rise! take possession of the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, which he refused to give thee for silver, for Naboth is not alive, but dead! ¹⁶And it came to pass, when Ahab heard that Naboth was dead, that Ahab arose, to go down unto the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, to take possession thereof. ¹⁷Then came the word of Yahweh unto Elijah the Tishbite, saying: ¹⁸Arise! go down to meet Ahab king of Israel, who is in Samaria,—lo! he is in the vineyard of Naboth, whither he hath gone down, to take possession thereof. ¹⁹Then shalt thou speak unto him, saying—Thus, saith Yahweh, Hast thou committed murder, and also taken possession? Then shalt thou speak unto him, saying: Thus, saith Yahweh, In the place where the dogs have lapped up the blood of Naboth, shall the dogs lap up thy blood, even thine. ²⁰Then said Ahab unto Elijah, Hast thou found me, O mine enemy? And he said: I have found thee ! Because thou hast sold thyself to do the thing that is wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, ²¹Behold me! saith he bringing in upon thee, calamity, and I will consume after thee,—and cut off of Ahab, even the meanest, whether shut up or left at large in Israel; ²²and will deliver up thy house—Like the house of Jeroboam son of Nebat, and like the house of Baasha son of Ahijah,—for the provocation wherewith thou hast provoked, and caused, Israel, to sin. ²³Moreover also, concerning Jezebel, hath Yahweh spoken, saying,—The dogs, shall eat Jezebel, in the town-land of Jezreel: ²⁴Him that dieth, of Ahab, in the city, shall, the dogs, eat,—and, him that dieth in the field, shall, the birds of heaven, eat. ²⁵But indeed, there was none like Ahab, who sold himself to do the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—whom Jezebel his wife goaded on; ²⁶so that he did very abominably, in going after the manufactured gods,—according to all which the Amorites had done, whom Yahweh dispossessed from before the sons of Israel. ²⁷And it came to pass, when Ahab heard these words, that he rent his clothes, and put sackcloth upon his flesh, and fasted,—and lay in sackcloth, and went softly. ²⁸Then came the word of Yahweh unto Elijah the Tishbite, saying: ²⁹Hast thou seen that Allah hath humbled himself, before me? Because he hath humbled himself before me, I will not bring in the calamity in his days, In the days of his son, will I bring in the calamity upon his house.

22And there continued three years without war between Syria and Israel. ²But it came to pass, in the third year, that Jehoshaphat king of Judah went down unto the king of Israel. ³And the king of Israel said unto his servants, Know ye that, ours, is Ramoth-gilead,—yet, we, are too idle to take it out of the hand of the king of Syria? ⁴And he said unto Jehoshaphat, Wilt thou go with me to make war upon Ramoth-gilead? ⁵And Jehoshaphat said unto the king of Israel, I am as thou art, my people are us thy people, my horses as thy horses. ⁶Then said Jehoshaphat unto the king of Israel,—Seek, I pray thee, at once, the word of Yahweh. So the king of Israel gathered together the prophets, about four hundred men, and said unto them—Shall I go against Ramoth-gilead, to battle, or shall I forbear? And they said—Go up, that the Lord may deliver it into the hand of the king. ⁷Then said Jehoshaphat, Is there not here a prophet of Yahweh, besides,—that we may seek, from him? ⁸And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, Besides, is a certain man, by whom we might seek Yahweh, but, I, hate him, for he is never moved to prophesy concerning me anything good, only evil, Micaiah, son of Imlah. And Jehoshaphat said, Let not the king say so. ⁹Then the king of Israel called a certain courtier,—and said, Hasten Micaiah son of Imlah. ¹⁰Now, the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat king of Judah, were sitting—each man upon his throne, having put on robes, in a level place, at the entrance of the gate of Samaria,—and, all the prophets, were being moved to prophesy before them; ¹¹when Zedekiah son of Chenaanah made himself horns of iron,—and said—Thus, saith Yahweh,—With these, shalt thou push down the Syrians, until thou hast consumed them. ¹²And, all the prophets, were being moved to prophesy, in like manner, saying,—Go up to Ramoth-gilead, and thou shalt prosper, and Yahweh will deliver it, into the hand of the king. ¹³Now, the messenger who went to call Micaiah, spake unto him, saying, Behold, I pray thee, the words of the prophets, with one mouth, are good, as touching the king, let thy word, I pray thee, be as the word of one of them, so wilt thou speak that which is good. ¹⁴And Micaiah said,—By the life of Yahweh, what Yahweh saith unto me, that, will I, speak. ¹⁵So he came unto the king, and the king said unto him, Micaiah, shall we go against Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall we forbear? And he said unto him—Go up and prosper, and Yahweh will deliver it into the hand of the king. ¹⁶And the king said unto him, How many times must, I, adjure thee,—that thou speak unto me nothing but truth, in the name of Yahweh? ¹⁷And he said—I saw all Israel, scattered among the mountains, like sheep that have no shepherd,—so Yahweh said, These have, no masters, let them return every man unto his own house, in peace. ¹⁸Then said the king of Israel, unto Jehoshaphat,—Did I not say unto thee, He will not be moved to prophesy concerning me anything good, only calamity. ¹⁹Then he said, Therefore, hear thou the word of Yahweh,—I saw Yahweh, sitting upon his throne, and all the host of the heavens, standing by him, on his right hand, and on his left. ²⁰And Yahweh said, Who will persuade Ahab, that he may go up and fall, at Ramoth-gilead? And, one, said in this manner, and, another, said in that manner. ²¹Then came forth a spirit, and stood before Yahweh, and said—I, will persuade him. ²²And Yahweh said unto him—Wherewith? And he said—I will go forth, and become a spirit of falsehood in the mouth of all his prophets,—So he said,—Thou mayest persuade, yea and prevail, go forth, and do so. ²³Now, therefore, lo! Yahweh hath suffered a spirit of falsehood to be put into the mouth of all these thy prophets. But, Yahweh himself, hath spoken concerning thee, calamity. ²⁴Then drew near Zedekiah, son of Chenaanah, and smote Micaiah on the cheek,—and said—Where then passed the Spirit of Yahweh, from me, to speak unto thee? ²⁵Then said Micaiah, Lo! thou art about to see, on that day,—when thou enterest a chamber within a chamber, to hide thyself. ²⁶And the king of Israel said, Take Micaiah, and carry him back unto Amon captain of the city,—and unto Joash son of the king; ²⁷and thou shalt say—Thus, saith the king, Put this man into the prison,—and let him eat the bread of oppression, with the water of oppression, until I enter in peace. ²⁸Then said Micaiah, If thou, return, in peace, Yahweh hath not spoken by me. And he said, Hear, ye peoples, all of you! ²⁹So the king of Israel went up, with Jehoshaphat king of Judah, unto Ramoth-gilead. ³⁰And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat—I am about to disguise myself, and enter into the battle, thou, therefore, put on thy robes. So the king of Israel disguised himself, and entered into the battle. ³¹Now, the king of Syria, had commanded the captains of chariots which he had, thirty and two, saying, Ye shall not fight with small or great,—save with the king of Israel alone. ³²And it came to pass, when the chariot-captains saw Jehoshaphat, that, they, said: Surely it is, the king of Israel! But, when they turned aside against him to fight, Jehoshaphat cried out. ³³And it came to pass, when the chariot-captains saw that it was, not the king of Israel, that they turned back, from pursuing him. ³⁴But, a certain man, drawing a bow in his innocence, smote the king of Israel, between the shoulder-joints and the coat of mail,—wherefore he said to his charioteer—Turn thy hand, and convey me out of the host, for I am sore wounded. ³⁵But the battle increased that day, and, the king, was propped up in the chariot, before the Syrians,—and died in the evening, and so the blood of the wound ran out into the hollow of the chariot. ³⁶And a loud cry went through the host, at the going in of the sun, saying—Every man to his own city! and every man to his own land! ³⁷So the king died, and was brought into Samaria,—and they buried the king, in Samaria. ³⁸And, when the chariot was washed out at the pool of Samaria, the dogs lapped up his blood, also, the harlots, bathed there,—according to the word of Yahweh which he had spoken. ³⁹Now, the rest of the story of Ahab, and all that he did, and the house of ivory that he built, and all the cities that he built, are, they, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel? ⁴⁰So Ahab slept with his fathers,—and, Ahaziah his son, reigned, in his stead. ⁴¹Now, Jehoshaphat son of Asa, began to reign over Judah,—in the fourth year of Ahab, king of Israel. ⁴²Jehoshaphat, was thirty-five years old when he began to reign, and, twenty-five years, reigned he in Jerusalem,—and, the name of his mother, was Azubah, daughter of Shilhi. ⁴³And he walked in all the way of Asa his father, he turned not aside therefrom,—doing that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh: nevertheless, the high places, were not taken away,—still were the people offering sacrifices and burning incense in the high places. ⁴⁴And Jehoshaphat made peace with the king of Israel. ⁴⁵Now, the rest of the story of Jehoshaphat, and his might that he shewed, and how he warred, are, they, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah? ⁴⁶Moreover, the rest of the male devotees who remained in the days of Asa his father, he consumed out of the land. ⁴⁷And, king, was there none in Edom, a prefect, was king. ⁴⁸Jehoshaphat, made ships of Tarshish, to go to Ophir, for gold; but they went not,—for ships had been broken to pieces in Ezion-geber. ⁴⁹Then, said Ahaziah son of Ahab, unto Jehoshaphat, Let, my servants, go with, thy servants, in the ships,—but Jehoshaphat did not consent. ⁵⁰So Jehoshaphat slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers, in the city of David his father,—and, Jehoram his son, reigned, in his stead. ⁵¹Ahaziah son of Ahab, began to reign over Israel, in Samaria, in the seventeenth year of Jehoshaphat king of Judah,—and reigned over Israel, two years. ⁵²And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—and went in the way of his father, and in the way of his mother, and in the way of Jeroboam son of Nebat, who caused, Israel, to sin. ⁵³Yea he served Baal, and bowed down to him,—and provoked to anger Yahweh, God of Israel, according to all that his father had done.

II Kings

¹Then Moab revolted against Israel, after the death of Ahab. ²And Ahaziah fell through the lattice in his upper chamber, which was in Samaria, and became sick,—so he sent messengers, and said unto them—Go enquire of Baalzebub, god of Ekron, whether I shall recover from this sickness. ³But, the messenger of Yahweh, spake unto Elijah the Tishbite, Rise, go up to meet the messengers of the king of Samaria,—and say unto them—Is it, because there is no God in Israel, that, ye, are going to enquire of Baalzebub, god of Ekron? ⁴Wherefore, Thus, saith Yahweh, From the bed whereunto thou hast gone up, shalt thou not come down, for thou shalt, surely die. And Elijah departed. ⁵And, when the messengers returned unto him, he said unto them—How is it that ye have returned? ⁶And they said unto him—A man, came up to meet us, and said unto us—Go, return unto the king who sent you, and ye shall say unto him, Thus, saith Yahweh—Is it, because there is no God in Israel, that, thou, art sending to enquire of Baalzebub, god of Ekron? Therefore, from the bed whereunto thou hast gone up, shalt thou not come down, for thou shalt, surely die. ⁷And he said unto them, What was the manner of the man who came up to meet you,—and spake unto you these words? ⁸And they said unto him—A hairy man, with a leathern girdle girt about his loins. And he said—Elijah the Tishbite, it was. ⁹Then sent he unto him a captain of fifty, with his fifty, and he went up unto him, and lo! he abode on the top of the mountain, and he said unto him, O man of God! the king, hath said, Come down! ¹⁰And Elijah responded and said unto the captain of fifty, If, then, a man of God, I am, let fire come down out of the heavens, and devour thee and thy fifty. So there came down fire out of the heavens, and devoured him and his fifty. ¹¹Then he again sent unto him another captain of fifty, with his fifty. And he also spake and said unto him, O man of God! thus, saith the king, Haste thee, come down! ¹²And Elijah responded and said unto them—If, a man of God, I am, let fire come down out of the heavens, and devour thee and thy fifty. And there came down a fire of God, out of the heavens, and devoured him and his fifty. ¹³Then he again sent a third captain of fifty, with his fifty,—and the third captain of fifty ascended and came near, and bowed down upon his knees before Elijah, and made supplication unto him, and said unto him, O man of God! let my life, I pray thee, and the lives of these thy fifty servants, be precious in thine eyes. ¹⁴Lo! there hath come down fire out of the heavens, and devoured the captains of the former fifties, with their fifties,—now, therefore, let my life be precious in thine eyes. ¹⁵And the messenger of Yahweh said unto Elijah, Go down with him, do not fear because of him, So he arose, and went down with him, unto the king; ¹⁶and said unto him—Thus, saith Yahweh—For that thou didst send messengers to enquire of Baalzebub, god of Ekron, was it because there was no God in Israel, for whose word thou couldst enquire? Therefore, from the bed whereunto thou hast gone up, shalt thou not come down, for thou shalt, surely die. ¹⁷And he died, according to the word of Yahweh which, Elijah, had spoken, and Jehoram reigned in his stead, in the second year of Jehoram son of Jehoshaphat king of Judah,—because he had no son. ¹⁸Now, the rest of the story of Ahaziah, the things that he did, are, they, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel?

²And it came to pass, when Yahweh was about to take up Elijah in a storm into the heavens, that Elijah departed, with Elisha, from Gilgal. ²Then said Elijah unto Elisha—Tarry here, I pray thee, for, Yahweh, hath sent me as far as Bethel. And Elisha said, By the life of Yahweh and by the life of thine own soul, I will not leave thee. So they went down to Bethel. ³And the sons of the prophets who were in Bethel came forth unto Elisha, and said unto him, Knowest thou that, to-day, Yahweh is taking away thy lord, from thy head? And he said—I also, know, be silent. ⁴Then Elijah said to him—Elisha, I pray thee, tarry here, for, Yahweh, hath sent me to Jericho. And he said—By the life of Yahweh and by the life of thine own soul, I will not leave thee. So they came to Jericho. ⁵Then drew near the sons of the prophets who were in Jericho, unto Elisha, and said unto him, Knowest thou that, to-day, Yahweh is taking away thy lord from thy head? And he said—I also, know; be silent. ⁶And Elijah said to him—Tarry here, I pray thee, for, Yahweh, hath sent me to the Jordan. And he said—By the life of Yahweh and by the life of thine own soul, I will not leave thee. So they two, went on. ⁷But, fifty men of the sons of the prophets, came, and stood over against them, afar off,—and, they two, stood by the Jordan. ⁸Then Elijah took his mantle, and wrapped it together, and smote the waters, and they were divided, hither and thither,—so that they two, passed over, on dry ground. ⁹And it came to pass, as they went over, that, Elijah, said unto Elisha—Ask, what I shall do for thee, ere yet I be taken from thee. And Elisha said, Let there be, I pray thee, a double portion of thy spirit upon me. ¹⁰And he said—Thou hast asked a hard thing,—if thou see me when taken from thee, thou shall have it, so, but, if not, thou shalt not have it. ¹¹And it came to pass, as they were going on and on and talking, that lo! there was a chariot of fire, with horses of fire, which parted, those two, asunder,—and Elijah went up in a storm, into the heavens. ¹²And, as soon as Elisha saw it, he, began crying out—My father! my father! The chariots of Israel, and the horsemen thereof! But, when he could see him no longer, he took hold of his clothes, and rent them in two pieces. ¹³Then took he up the mantle of Elijah, which had fallen from him,—and returned and stood, on the brink of the Jordan; ¹⁴and took the mantle of Elijah which had fallen from him, and smote the waters, and said, Where is Yahweh, the God of Elijah? And, when, he also, smote the waters, they were divided, hither and thither, and Elisha, passed over. ¹⁵And, when the sons of the prophets who were in Jericho, over against him, saw him, they said, The spirit of Elijah, resteth, on Elisha. So they came to meet him, and bowed themselves down to him, to the ground. ¹⁶Then said they unto him—Lo! we pray thee, there are with thy servants fifty men, sons of valour—let them go, we pray thee, and seek thy lord, lest the Spirit of Yahweh have borne him away, and cast him on one of the mountains, or into one of the valleys. And he said—Ye shall not send. ¹⁷But, when they urged him until he was ashamed, he said—Send. So they sent fifty men, and made search three days, but found him not. ¹⁸And, when they came back unto him, he, having tarried at Jericho, he said unto them, Did I not say unto you, Do not go? ¹⁹And the men of the city said unto Elisha, Lo! we pray thee, the situation of the city, is good, as, my lord, seeth,—but, the waters, are bad, and, the land, apt to miscarry. ²⁰And he said—Bring me a new bowl, and put therein, salt. So they brought it unto him; ²¹and he went forth unto the spring of the waters, and cast therein, saith,—and said—Thus, saith Yahweh, I have healed these waters; there shall come from thence, no longer, death or aptness to miscarry. ²²So the waters were healed, as they remain unto this day,—according to the word of Elisha which he spake. ²³And he went up from thence, to Bethel,—and, as he was going up on the way, some lads, came forth, out of the city, and made mockery of him, and said to him, Go up, bald head! Go up, bald head! ²⁴And, when he turned round and saw them, he cursed them, in the name of Yahweh,—and there came forth two she-bears out of the wood, and tare, of them, forty-two youths. ²⁵And he went from thence, unto Mount Carmel,—and, from thence, he returned, to Samaria.

3Now, Jehoram son of Ahab, began to reign over Israel, in Samaria, in the eighteenth year of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah,—and he reigned twelve years. ²And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, only, not like his father, nor like his mother,—but he put away the pillars of Baal which, his father, had made; ³nevertheless, unto the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat which he caused Israel to commit, he did cleave,—he turned not away therefrom. ⁴Now, Mesha king of Moab, was a sheep-master,—and used to render to the king of Israel, the wool of hundred thousand fat sheep, and of a hundred thousand rams. ⁵And it came to pass, when Ahab died, that the king of Moab revolted against the king of Israel. ⁶So King Jehoram went forth, on that day, out of Samaria, and numbered all Israel. ⁷And he departed, and sent unto Jehoshaphat king of Judah, saying—The king of Moab, hath revolted against me, wilt thou go with me against Moab to battle? And he said—I will go up, I am as thou art, my people are as thy people, my horses as thy horses. ⁸And he said—Which way, then, shall we go up? And he said—The way of the wilderness of Edom. ⁹Then departed the king of Israel, and the king of Judah, and the king of Edom, and went round, a journey of seven days,—and there was no water for the host, nor for the cattle that went with them. ¹⁰Then said the king of Israel—Alas! for Yahweh hath called these three kings, to deliver them into the hand of Moab. ¹¹So Jehoshaphat said—Is there not, here, a prophet of Yahweh, that we may enquire of Yahweh, from him? Then answered one of the servants of the king of Israel, and said, Here, is Elisha son of Shaphat, who poured water on the hands of Elijah. ¹²Then said Jehoshaphat, The word of Yahweh, is with him. So the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat, and the king of Edom, went down unto him. ¹³And Elisha said unto the king of Israel—What have I and thou in common? get thee unto the prophets of thy father, and unto the prophets of thy mother. But the king of Israel said to him—Nay! for Yahweh hath called together these three kings, to deliver them into the hand of Moab. ¹⁴Then said Elisha—By the life of Yahweh of hosts, before whom I stand, were it not that, the countenance of Jehoshaphat king of Judah, I would lift up, I would neither look at thee, nor see thee. ¹⁵But, now, bring me one that can touch the strings. For it used to be, when the player touched the strings, then would, the hand of Yahweh, be upon him. ¹⁶Then said he, Thus, saith Yahweh, Make, in this torrent-bed, pits, pits! ¹⁷For, thus, saith Yahweh—Ye shall not see wind, and ye shall not see rain, yet, that torrent-bed, shall be filled with water,—And ye shall drink, ye, and your cattle, and your beasts; ¹⁸And, this being a small thing in the eyes of Yahweh, he will deliver Moab into your hand; ¹⁹And ye shall smite every strong city, and every choice city, and, every goodly tree, shall ye fell, and, all fountains water, shall ye close up,—and, every goodly heritage, shall ye mar with stones. ²⁰And it came to pass, in the morning, when the offering ascended, that lo! waters, were coming in from the way of Edom,—and the land was filled with the water. ²¹Now, all Moab, had heard that the kings had come up to fight against them,—so they came together, from all who could gird on a girdle and upwards, and took their stand at the border. ²²And, when they rose early in the morning, the sun, shone forth upon the waters,—and so the Moabites beheld over against them, the waters, red as blood. ²³They said therefore—Blood,—this! Destroyed! The kings have destroyed each other! Yea they have smitten every man his neighbour,—Now, then, to the spoil, O Moab! ²⁴And, when they came into the camp of Israel, Israel arose and smote Moab, and they fled from before them,—so they entered therinto, yea still farther entered Moab; ²⁵And, the cities, they pulled down, and, on every goodly heritage, they cast every man his stone, and filled it, and, all fountains of waters, they closed up, and, every goodly tree, they felled, and, though they left the stones thereof in Kir-haraseth, yet the slingers surrounded and smote it. ²⁶And, when the king of Moab saw that, the battle, prevailed against him, he took with him seven hundred men that drew swords, to break through against the king of Edom, but they could not. ²⁷So he took his first-born son who was to have reigned in his stead, and offered him up as an ascending-sacrifice upon the wall. And so it came to pass that there was great indignation against Israel. And they brake up from against him, and returned to their own land.

⁴Now, a certain woman of the wives of the sons of the prophets, made outcry unto Elisha, saying—Thy servant, my husband, is dead, and, thou, knowest that, thy servant, was one who revered Yahweh,—now, the creditor, hath come to take my two boys to himself as bondmen. ²And Elisha said unto her—What shall I do for thee? tell me what thou, hast, in the house. And she said—Thy maid-servant hath, nothing at all, in the house, save a flask of oil. ³And he said—Go, ask thee vessels, from without, of all thy neighbours,—empty vessels, let them not be few. ⁴And, when thou hast come in, then shalt thou shut the door behind thee and behind thy sons, and shalt pour out into all these vessels,—and, that which is full, shalt thou set aside. ⁵So she went out from his presence, and shut the door behind her, and behind her sons,—they bringing near to her, and she pouring out. ⁶And it came to pass, when the vessels were full, that she said unto her son—Bring me a vessel more. And he said unto her—There is not a vessel more. And the oil stayed. ⁷Then came she in, and told the man of God, and he said—Go, sell the oil, and pay thy creditor,—and, thou and thy sons, shall live of the rest. ⁸And so it was, on a day, that Elisha passed over unto Shunem, where was a woman of position, and she constrained him to eat bread,—and so it came about, whensoever he passed that way, that he turned aside thither, to eat bread. ⁹Then said she unto her husband, Lo! I pray thee—I perceive that, a holy man of God, he is,—passing our way continually. ¹⁰I pray thee, let us make a little upper chamber on the wall and set for him there—a bed, and a table, and a seat, and a lampstand,—so shall it be, when he cometh to us, that he can turn in thither. ¹¹And it came to pass, on a day, that he came thither,—so he turned aside into the upper chamber, and slept there. ¹²Then said he unto Gehazi, his young man, Call this Shunammitess. And he called her, and she stood before him. ¹³And he said to him—I pray thee, say unto her—Lo! thou hast cared for us with all this anxious care, what can be done for thee? Is it, that we should speak for thee, unto the king, or unto the general of the army? But she said, In the midst of mine own people, do, I, dwell. ¹⁴So he said, What then can be done for thee? And Gehazi said, Verily, she hath no, son, and, her husband, is, old. ¹⁵And he said—Call her. So he called her, and she stood in the doorway. ¹⁶Then said he—At this season, about the time of spring, thou, shalt be embracing a son. And she said—Nay! my lord, thou man of God, do not delude thy maid-servant. ¹⁷And the woman conceived, and bare a son, at this season, about the time of spring, when Elisha, had spoken unto her. ¹⁸And, when the child was grown, it came to pass, on a certain day, that he went out unto his father, unto the reapers; ¹⁹and he said unto his father—My head! my head! So he said unto the young man, Carry him to his mother. ²⁰And, when he had carried him, and brought him in unto his mother, he sat on her knees until noon, and then died. ²¹And she went up and laid him on the bed of the man of God,—and shut him in, and then went out. ²²And she called unto her husband, and said—Send me, I pray thee, one of the young men, and one of the asses,—that I may run unto the man of God, and return! ²³And he said—Wherefore art thou going unto him, to-day, neither new moon nor sabbath? And she said—Peace! ²⁴Then saddled she the ass, and said unto her young man—Lead on, and go forward,—do not slacken, for my sake, the riding, except I have bidden thee. ²⁵So she went her way, and came unto the man of God, unto Mount Carmel. And it came to pass, when the man of God saw her, opposite, that he said unto Gehazi young man, Lo! this Shunammitess! ²⁶Now, run, I pray thee, to meet her, and say to her—Is it well with thee? is it well with thy husband? is it well with the child? And she said, Well! ²⁷But, when she came unto the man of God, on the mount, she caught hold of his feet,—and Gehazi drew near to thrust her away, when the man of God said—Let her alone! for, her life, is embittered to her, howbeit, Yahweh, hath hidden it from me, and hath not told me. ²⁸Then said she, Did I ask a son, of my lord? Said I not, Thou must not mislead me? ²⁹And he said to Gehazi—Gird thy loins, and take my staff in thy hand, and go thy way, if thou meet with any man, thou must not bless him, and, if any man bless thee, thou must not respond to him,—then shalt thou lay my staff upon the face of the boy. ³⁰But the mother of the boy said, By the life of Yahweh and by the life of thine own soul, I will not leave thee. So he arose and followed her. ³¹Now, Gehazi, had passed on before them, and laid the staff on the face of the boy, but there was neither voice, nor attention,—so he returned to meet him, and told him, saying—The boy hath not awaked. ³²And, when Elisha had come into the house, lo! the boy, was dead, laid upon his bed. ³³So he went in, and shut the door upon them two,—and prayed unto Yahweh. ³⁴Then gat he up, and lay upon the child, and put his own mouth upon his mouth, and his own eyes upon his eyes, and his own hands upon his hands, and bowed himself upon him,—and the flesh of the child, waxed warm. ³⁵Then retraced he, and walked in the house—once to and fro, and then went up and bowed himself upon him,—and the boy sneezed as many as seven times, and the boy opened his eyes. ³⁶Then called he Gehazi, and said—Call this Shunammiteess. So he called her, and, when she was come in unto him, he said—Take up thy son. ³⁷So she came in, and fell at his feet, and bowed herself to the ground,—and took up her son, and went forth. ³⁸Now, Elisha, returned to Gilgal, and there was, a famine, in the land, and, the sons of the prophets, being seated before him, he said to his young man—Put on the large pot, and boil a mess of food, for the sons of the prophets. ³⁹And one went out into the field, to gather herbs, and found a vine in the field, and gathered thereof wild gourds, his lap full, and came in, and sliced them into the pot; for they knew them not. ⁴⁰So they poured out for the men to eat,—and it came so pass, as they were eating of the mess, that, they, made outcry and said—Death in the pot, O man of God! And they could not eat. ⁴¹And he said—Then fetch meal. And he cast it into the pot,—and then said—Pour out for the people, that they may eat. And there was no harm in the pot. ⁴²And, a man, came in from Baal-Shalisha, and brought for the man of God firstfruit bread, twenty barley loaves, and garden grain in the husk thereof. And he said—Give to the people, that they may eat. ⁴³But his attendant said—How can I set this before a hundred men? And he said—Give to the people, that they may eat, for, Thus, saith Yahweh, They are about to eat and to leave remaining. ⁴⁴So he set before them, and they did eat and left remaining, according to the word of Yahweh.

⁵Now, Naaman, general of the army of the king of Syria, was a great man in presence of his lord, and held in honour, because, by him, had Yahweh given deliverance to Syria,— and, the man, was a hero of valour— but , a leper. ²Now, the Syrians, had gone out in companies, and had brought back out of the land of Israel, a little maiden,—who became an attendant on the wife of Naaman. ³And she said unto her mistress, Ah! would that my lord were before the prophet, who is in Samaria! then, would he set him free from his leprosy. ⁴And he went in and told his lord, saying,—Thus and thus, hath spoken the maiden who is of the land of Israel! ⁵And the king of Syria said—Go, get in, that I may send a letter unto the king of Israel. So he went, and took in his hand ten talents of silver, and six thousand pieces of gold, and ten changes of raiment. ⁶And he brought in the letter unto the king of Israel, saying, Now, therefore, when this letter cometh in unto thee, lo! I have sent unto thee, Naaman my servant, and thou shalt set him free from his leprosy. ⁷And it came to pass, when the king of Israel had read the letter, that he rent his clothes, and said, Am, I, God, to kill and to make alive, that, this, man is sending unto me, to set one free from his leprosy,—but, of a truth, just mark, I pray you, and see, that he, is seeking an occasion, against me. ⁸And it was so, when Elisha the man of God heard that the king of Israel had rent his clothes, that he sent unto the king, saying—Wherefore hast thou rent thy clothes? let him come, I pray thee, unto me, that he may get to know that there is a prophet in Israel. ⁹So Naaman came, with his horses and with his chariot, and stood at the entrance of the house of Elisha; ¹⁰and Elisha sent a messenger unto him, saying,—Go and bathe seven times in the Jordan, so shall thy flesh come back to thee, and be thou clean. ¹¹But Naaman was wroth, and went away,—and said—Lo! I thought, Unto me, will he, come right out, and take his stand, and call on the name of Yahweh his God, and wave his hand towards the spot, and so set free the leper. ¹²Are not, Abanah and Pharpar, rivers of Damascus, better than all the waters of Israel? may I not bathe, in them, and be clean? So he turned, and went away in a rage. ¹³Then drew near his servants, and spake unto him, and said—My father! if, some great thing, the prophet had commanded thee, wouldst thou not have done it? then, how much rather, when he hath said unto thee, Bathe and be clean? ¹⁴Then went he down, and dipped himself in the Jordan, seven times, according to the word of the man of God: and his flesh came back, as the flesh of a little child, and he was clean. ¹⁵And he returned unto the man of God, he and all his company; and came, and took his stand before him, and said—Lo! I pray thee—I know that there is no God in all the earth, save in Israel,—now, therefore, I pray thee, accept a blessing from thy servant. ¹⁶But he said—By the life of Yahweh, before whom I stand, I will not accept one. And, though he urged him to accept it, yet did he refuse. ¹⁷Then said Naaman, Shall there not, then, I pray thee, be given to thy servant, two mules' burden of earth? For thy servant will henceforth offer neither ascending-offering nor sacrifice to other gods, save only to Yahweh. ¹⁸In this thing, Yahweh grant forgiveness to thy servant,—When my lord entereth the house of Rimmon, to bow down therein, he leaning upon my hand, and so I bow down in the house of Rimmon, when he boweth down in the house of Rimmon, Yahweh, I pray, grant forgiveness to thy servant, in this thing. ¹⁹And he said unto him—Go and prosper! But, when he had gone from him some distance, ²⁰Gehazi, the servant of Elisha the man of God, said—Lo! my lord, hath restrained, this Naaman the Syrian, by not taking at his hand that which he brought! By the life of Yahweh, verily, I will run after him, and accept of him, something. ²¹So Gehazi hastened after Naaman. And, when Naaman saw one running after him, he alighted from his chariot to meet him, and said,—Is all well? ²²And he said, All is well. My lord, hath sent me to say, Lo! just now, have come unto me, two young men out of the hill country of Ephraim, of the sons of the prophets,—give for them, I pray thee, a talent, of silver, and two changes of raiment. ²³And Naaman said, Be content, accept two talents. So he urged him, and bound up two talents of silver in two bags, and two changes of raiment, and laid them upon two of his young men, and they bare them before him. ²⁴And, when he came to the hill-tower, he took them from their hand, and put them in charge within,—and let the men go, and they departed. ²⁵Now, when, he, came in and stood before his lord, Elisha said unto him, Whence comest thou, Gehazi? And he said,—Thy servant hath been neither hither nor thither. ²⁶Then he said unto him—My heart, had not gone with thee, when someone turned again from off his chariot, to meet thee! Is it a time to accept silver, or to accept raiment, or oliveyards, or vineyards, or flocks or herds, or men-servants, or maid-servants? ²⁷The leprosy of Naaman, therefore, shall cleave unto thee, and unto thy seed, to times age-abiding. And he went forth from before him—a leper—like snow.

6And the sons of the prophets said unto Elisha,—See, we pray thee, the place wherein we sit before thee, is too strait for us. ²Let us go, we pray thee, as far as the Jordan, and fetch from thence every man a single beam, and let us make us a place wherein we may sit. And he said—Go ye. ³Then said one—Be content, we pray thee, and go with thy servants. And he said—I myself, will go. ⁴So he went with them,—and, when they came to the Jordan, they cut down wood. ⁵And it came to pass, as one was felling a branch, that, the axe-head, fell into the water, so he made outcry and said—Alas! my lord, for, it, was borrowed! ⁶And the man of God said—Where fell it? And he shewed him the place. And he cut down a piece of wood and cast it in thither, and the iron did swim. ⁷And he said—Take it up to thee. So he put forth his hand, and took it. ⁸Now, the king of Syria, was making war against Israel,—so he took counsel with his servants, saying—In such and such a place, shall be my encampment. ⁹The man of God, therefore, sent unto the king of Israel, saying—Beware of passing by this place,—for, thither, are the Syrians coming down. ¹⁰So the king of Israel sent unto the place whereof the man of God had spoken to him and warned him, and was on his guard there,—not once nor twice ¹¹Then was the heart of the king of Syria disquieted concerning this thing,—and he called his servants, and said unto them, Will ye not tell me, who of our men are for the king of Israel? ¹²Then said one of his servants, None, my lord O king,—but, Elisha, the prophet, who is in Israel, telleth the king of Israel the words which thou speakest in thy bed-chamber. ¹³And he said—Go, and see where he is, that I may send and take him. And it was told him, saying—Lo! in Dothan. ¹⁴Therefore sent he thither—horses and chariots, and a strong force,—and they came in by night, and encompassed the city. ¹⁵And, when the attendant of the man of God arose early and went forth, lo! a force surrounding the city, with horses and chariots. Then said his young man unto him—Alas! my lord, what shall we do? ¹⁶And he said—Do not fear,—for, more, are, they who are with us, than, they who are with them. ¹⁷Then prayed Elisha, and said, O Yahweh! open, I beseech thee, his eyes, that he may see. And Yahweh opened the eyes of the young man, and he saw, and lo! the mountain was full of horses and chariots of fire, round about Elisha. ¹⁸And, when they came down to him, Elisha prayed unto Yahweh, and said—Smite, I beseech thee, this people, with sudden blindness. And he smote them with sudden blindness, according to the word of Elisha. ¹⁹Then Elisha said unto them—This, is not the way, neither is, this, the city, follow me, that I may lead you unto the man, whom ye would secure! So he led them to Samaria. ²⁰And it came to pass, when they had entered Samaria, that Elisha said, O Yahweh! open the eyes of these men, that they may see! And Yahweh opened their eyes, and they saw, and lo! they were in the midst of Samaria! ²¹Then said the king of Israel unto Elisha, when he saw them,—Shall I smite—shall I smite, my father? ²²And he said—Thou shalt not smite. Them whom thou hadst taken captive with thy sword and with thy bow, wouldst, thou, have been smiting? Set bread and water before them, that they may eat and drink, and go their way unto their lord. ²³And he made for them a great feast, and, when they had eaten and drunk, he let them go, and they went their way unto their lord. So then, troops of Syrians came again, no more, into the land of Israel. ²⁴But it came to pass, after this, that Ben-hadad king of Syria gathered together all his host,—and came up and laid siege against Samaria. ²⁵And there came to be, a great famine, in Samaria, and lo! they continued the siege against it,—until an ass's head was sold for eighty pieces of silver, and one pint of dove's dung for five pieces of silver. ²⁶And so it was that, as the king of Israel was passing by on the wall, a woman, made outcry unto him, saying—Save, my lord, O king! ²⁷And he said—If Yahweh do not save thee, whence should I save thee? out of the threshing-floor or out of the wine-press? ²⁸And the king said to her—What aileth thee? And she said—This woman, said unto me—Give thy son, that we may eat him, to-day, and, my son, will we eat to-morrow. ²⁹So we cooked my son, and did eat him,—and I said unto her, on the next day, Give thy son, that we may eat him; But she had hid her son. ³⁰And it came to pass, when the king heard the words of the woman, that he rent his clothes, while yet he was passing by upon the wall,—so the people looked, and lo! sackcloth upon his flesh, within. ³¹And he said—So, let God do to me, and, so, let him add,—if the head of Elisha son of Shaphat remain on him, to-day! ³²Now, Elisha, being seated in his house, and, the elders, seated with him,—when he had sent a man from before him, ere yet the messenger could come in unto him, he himself, said unto the elders—Do ye see how this son of a murderer hath sent to take away my head? See! when the messenger is coming in, close ye the door, and press him back with the door, is not the sound of his lord's feet behind him? ³³While yet he was speaking with them, lo! the messenger, coming down unto him,—and he said,—Lo! this, is a calamity from Yahweh, why should I wait for Yahweh, any longer?

⁷Then said Elisha—Hear ye the word of Yahweh,—Thus, saith Yahweh—About this time to-morrow, a measure of fine meal for a shekel, and two measures of barley for a shekel, in the gate of Samaria. ²Then the officer on whose hand the king leaned responded to the man of God, and said, Even if Yahweh were making windows in the heavens, could this thing, come to pass? And he said—Lo! thou, art about to see it with thine own eyes, but, thereof, shalt thou not eat! ³Now there were, four men, lepers, at the entrance of the gate,—and they said one to another—Why are, we, sitting here until we are dead? ⁴If we say—Let us enter into the city, Then, the famine, is in the city, and we shall die there, and, if we remain here, then shall we die. Now, therefore, let us fall away unto the camp of the Syrians, if they save us alive, we shall live, and, if they put us to death, we shall die. ⁵So they rose up in the twilight, to enter into the camp of the Syrians,—and, when they entered the outskirts of the camp of the Syrians, lo! there was not there, a man. ⁶Now, the Lord, had caused the camp of the Syrians to hear a noise of chariots, noise of horses, a noise of a great host,—and they said one to another—Lo! the king of Israel hath hired against us—the kings of the Hittites, and the kings of the Egyptians, to come against us. ⁷So they arose, and fled in the twilight, and left their tents, and their horses, and their asses,—the camp, just as it was,—and fled for their lives. ⁸When, therefore, these lepers came in as far as the outskirts of the camp, they entered into one tent, and did eat and drink, and carried from thence silver, and gold, and raiment, and went away and hid them,—and came again, and entered into another tent, and carried from thence—and went and hid them. ⁹Then said they one to another—Not a right thing, are, we, doing. This day, is, a day of good tidings, and, we, are holding our peace, if we tarry until the light of the morning, there will come upon us, some misfortune,—Now, therefore, come and let us go in, and tell the household of the king. ¹⁰So they came in and called unto the gate of the city, and told them, saying, We entered into the camp of the Syrians, and lo! there was not there, a man, nor sound of human being,—only horses tied, and asses tied, and their tents, just as they were! ¹¹And the watchers of the gate called and told it to the household of the king, within. ¹²Then arose the king by night, and said unto his servants, Let me tell you, I pray you, what the Syrians have done to us,—they knew that we were, famished, so they have gone forth out of the camp, to hide in the field, saying, When they come forth out of the city, then shall we take them alive, and, into the city, will we enter. ¹³Then responded one of his servants, and said—Let there be taken, I pray thee, five of the horses that remain, which have been left therein, there they are, according to all the multitude of Israel who have been left therein, there they are, according to all the multitude of Israel, who have been consumed,—and let us send and see! ¹⁴So they took two chariots and horses,—and the king sent after the host of the Syrians, saying, Go and see! ¹⁵And they followed them as far as the Jordan, and lo! all the way, was full of garments, and utensils, which the Syrians had cast away in their fright,—and the messengers returned, and told the king. ¹⁶Then went the people forth and spoiled the camp of the Syrians,—and so there came to be—a measure of fine meal for a shekel, and two measures of barley for a shekel, according to the word of Yahweh. ¹⁷Now, the king, had set the officer on whose hand he leaned, in charge over the gate, and the people trode upon him in the gate, that he died,—as spake the man of God, who said it when the messenger came down to him. ¹⁸Yea it came to pass, as the man of God had spoken unto the messenger, saying,—Two measures of barley for a shekel, and a measure of fine meal for a shekel, shall there be about this time to-morrow, in the gate of Samaria: ¹⁹And when the officer responded to the man of God, and said, Lo! then, if Yahweh were making windows in the heavens, could it be according to this word? And he said,—Lo! thou art about to see it with thine own eyes, but, thereof, shalt thou not eat. ²⁰Yea it fell out to him, thus,—and the people trode upon him in the gate, that he died.

⁸Now, Elisha, had spoken unto the woman whose son he had restored to life, saying—Arise, and take thy journey, thou and thy household, and sojourn wheresoever thou canst sojourn, for Yahweh hath called for a famine, moreover also, it is coming upon the land seven years. ²So the woman arose, and did according to the word of the man of God,—and took her journey, she and her household, and she sojourned in the land of the Philistines, seven years. ³And it came to pass, at the end of seven years, that the woman returned out of the land of the Philistines,—and she went forth to make outcry unto the king, concerning her house and concerning her field. ⁴Now, the king, was speaking unto Gehazi, servant of the man of God, saying, Do recount unto me, I pray thee, all the great things that Elisha hath done. ⁵And so it was, just as he was recounting to the king how he had restored the dead to life, lo! the woman whose son he had restored to life, began making outcry unto the king, for her house and for her field. Then said Gehazi, My lord, O king! this, is the woman, and, this, her son, whom, Elisha, restored to life. ⁶So the king asked the woman, and she recounted it to him,—the king, therefore, appointed her a certain officer, saying—Restore all that was hers, and all the increase of the field, from the day she left the land, even until now. ⁷And Elisha came into Damascus, when Ben-hadad king of Syria, was sick,—and it was told him, saying, The man of God hath come as far as this place. ⁸So the king said unto Hazael—Take in thy hand a present, and go to meet the man of God,—so shalt thou enquire of Yahweh, from him, saying, Shall I recover from this sickness? ⁹So Hazael went to meet him, and took a present in his hand, even every good thing of Damascus, forty camels' burden,—and came, and stood before him, and said—Thy son, Ben-hadad king of Syria, hath sent me unto thee, saying, Shall I recover from this sickness? ¹⁰And Elisha said unto him, Go, say to him, Thou shalt, recover; And yet Yahweh hath shown me, that he will, die. ¹¹And he settled his countenance, and fixed it until he turned pale,—and the man of God, wept. ¹²Then said Hazael, Why, is my lord, weeping? And he said—Because I know what thou wilt do to the sons of Israel, by way of harm—Their fortresses, thou wilt set on fire, and, their choice young men, with the sword, thou wilt slay, and, their children, thou wilt dash in pieces, and, their women with child, thou wilt rip up. ¹³And Hazael said, But what is thy servant—the dog—that he should do this great thing? And Elisha said, Yahweh hath shown thee unto me, as king over Syria. ¹⁴So he departed from Elisha, and came in unto his lord, who said to him, What said, Elisha, unto thee? And he said. He told me thou wouldst, recover. ¹⁵But it came to pass on the morrow, that he took the coverlet, and dipped it in water, and spread it over his face, that he died,—and, Hazael, reigned, in his stead. ¹⁶Now, in the fifth year of Joram son of Ahab, king of Israel, Jehoshaphat, having been king of Judah, Jehoram, son of Jehoshaphat king of Judah, began to reign. ¹⁷Thirty-two years old, was he when he began to reign, and, eight years, reigned, he in Jerusalem. ¹⁸And he walked in the way of the kings of Israel, just as did the house of Ahab, for, a daughter of Ahab, became his wife,—and he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh. ¹⁹Yet was not Yahweh willing to destroy Judah, for the sake of David his servant,—even as he promised him to give him a lamp for his sons all the days. ²⁰In his days, did Edom revolt from under the hand of Judah,—and they set over them a king. ²¹So Joram passed over to Zair, and all the chariots with him,—and it came to pass that, he, arising by night, smote the Edomites that were round about unto him, and the captains of the chariots, and the people fled to their homes, ²²Yet did Edom revolt from under the hand of Judah, unto this day,—then, revolted Libnah, at the same time. ²³Now, the rest of the story of Joram, and all that he did, are, they, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? ²⁴And Joram slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers, in the city of David,—and, Ahaziah his son, reigned, in his stead. ²⁵In the twelfth year of Joram son of Ahab king of Israel, did Ahaziah son of Jehoram king of Judah, begin to reign. ²⁶Two and twenty years old, was Ahaziah when he began to reign,—and, one year, reigned he in Jerusalem,—and, his mother's name, was Athaliah, daughter of Omri, king of Israel; ²⁷And he walked in the way of the house of Ahab, and did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, like the house of Ahab,—for, son-in-law of the house of Ahab, was, he. ²⁸And he went with Joram son of Ahab, to make war against Hazael king of Syria, in Ramoth-gilead,—and the Syrians wounded Joram. ²⁹So Joram the king returned to get healed in Jezreel, from the wounds wherewith the Syrians had wounded him in Ramah, when he fought with Hazael king of Syria,—and, Ahaziah son of Jehoram king of Judah, went down to see Joram son of Ahab in Jezreel, because he, was sick.

⁹Now, Elisha the prophet, called one of the sons of the prophets,—and said to him—Gird up thy loins, and take this flask of oil in thy hand, and go to Ramoth-gilead; ²and, when thou art come in thither, then look thee out, there, Jehu son of Jehoshaphat, son of Nimshi; and thou shalt enter and get him to rise up out of the midst of his brethren, and take him into an inner chamber; ³then shalt thou take the flask of oil, and pour out upon his head, and say—Thus, saith Yahweh, I have anointed thee to be king unto Israel! Then shalt thou open the door and flee, and not tarry. ⁴So the young man went his way—the young man the prophet—unto Ramoth-gilead. ⁵And, when he came up, lo! the captains of the force, sitting, and he said—A word, have I, for thee, O captain! And Jehu said—For which, of us all? And he said,—For thee, O captain! ⁶Then rose he up and went inside, and poured out the oil upon his head, and said unto him—Thus, saith Yahweh, God of Israel, I have anointed thee to be king unto the people of Yahweh, unto Israel; ⁷and thou shalt smite the house of Ahab thy lord,—so will I avenge the blood of my servants the prophets, and the blood of all the servants of Yahweh, at the hand of Jezebel; ⁸so shall perish all the house of Ahab,—and I will cut off to Ahab the meanest, both him that is shut up and him that is left at large, in Israel. ⁹Yea I will deliver up the house of Ahab, like the house of Jeroboam son of Nebat,—and like the house of Baasha son of Ahijah: ¹⁰And, as for Jezebel, the dogs shall eat her, in the town-land of Jezreel, there being none to bury her. And he opened the door, and fled. ¹¹Then, Jehu, came forth unto the servants of his lord, and one said to him—Is all well? why came this madman unto thee? And he said unto them, Ye, know, the man and his message. ¹²And they said—False! pray tell, us. And he said,—Thus and thus, spake he unto me, saying, Thus, saith Yahweh, I have anointed thee to be king unto Israel. ¹³Then hastened they, and took, every man his garment, and put it under him, upon the very steps,—and blew with a horn, and said, Jehu, is king! ¹⁴Thus did Jehu son of Jehoshaphat son of Nimshi conspire against Joram,—when, Joram, was watching Ramoth-gilead, he and all Israel, because of Hazael king of Syria. ¹⁵But Jehoram the king had returned to get himself healed in Jezreel, of the wounds wherewith the Syrians had wounded him, when he fought with Hazael king of Syria. Then said Jehu—If such is your mind, let no fugitive get forth out of the city, to go and tell it in Jezreel. ¹⁶So Jehu rode in a chariot, and went towards Jezreel, for, Joram, was lying there,—and, Ahaziah king of Judah, had come down to see Joram. ¹⁷Now, the watchman, was standing upon the tower, in Jezreel, so he saw the great company of Jehu, when he came, and said—A great company, can I see! Then said Jehoram—Take a horseman and send to meet them, that he may say—Is it peace? ¹⁸So the horseman went to meet him, and said—Thus, saith the king, Is it peace? And Jehu said—What hast thou to do with peace? turn thee behind me. And the watchman told, saying, The messenger came up to them, but hath not turned back. ¹⁹Then sent he a second horseman, and he came up to them and said, Thus, saith the king, Is it peace? And Jehu said—What hast thou to do with peace? turn thee behind me. ²⁰And the watchman told, saying, He came up to them, but hath not turned back,—and, the driving, is like the driving of Jehu son of Nimshi; for, with mad haste, doth he drive. ²¹Then said Jehoram, Harness! So one harnessed his chariot,—and Jehoram king of Israel and Ahaziah king of Judah went forth, each man in his chariot, yea they went forth to meet Jehu, and came upon him in the heritage of Naboth the Jezreelite. ²²And it came to pass, when Jehoram saw Jehu, that he said—Is it peace, Jehu? And he said—What can be the peace, while thy mother Jezebel's harlotries and her incantations do so abound? ²³Then Jehoram turned his hands, and fled,—and said unto Ahaziah—Treachery! O Ahaziah! ²⁴And, Jehu, bent his bow, and smote Jehoram, between his arms,—and the arrow came out at his heart,—and he sank down in his chariot. ²⁵Then said he unto Bidkar his

officer, Take him up, and cast him forth, into the field-portion of Naboth the Jezreelite,—for remember, when I and thou were riding as a couple together after Ahab his father, that, Yahweh, laid upon him this doom: ²⁶Surely, the blood of Naboth and the blood of his sons, have I lately seen, declareth Yahweh, therefore will I requite thee in this portion, declareth Yahweh. Now, therefore, take him up, and cast him forth into the portion, according to the word of Yahweh. ²⁷And, Ahaziah king of Judah, saw it, and fled by the way of the garden house,—and Jehu pursued him, and said—Him also! smite him in the chariot! It was in the ascent of Gur, which is by Ibleam. And he fled to Mepidgo, and died there. ²⁸And his servants conveyed him in a chariot and brought him into Jerusalem,—and buried him in his sepulchre, with his fathers, in the city of David. ²⁹Now it was, in the eleventh year of Joram son of Ahab, that Ahaziah began to reign over Judah. ³⁰Now, when Jehu entered Jezreel and, Jezebel, heard of it, she set her eyes in stibium, and ornamented her head, and looked forth through the lattice. ³¹So, when, Jehu, had entered in at the gate, she said, Was it peace, when Zimri slew his lord? ³²And he lifted up his face unto the lattice, and said—Who, is with me? Who? And there looked out unto him, two or three eunuchs. ³³And he said—Hurl her down. And they hurled her down,—and there was sprinkled of her blood—upon the wall, and upon the horses, and they trode upon her. ³⁴And, when he had entered and eaten and drunk, he said—Look, I pray you, after this accursed woman, and bury her, for the daughter of a king, she is. ³⁵So they went to bury her,—but found not of her—save the skull, and the feet, and the palms of the hands. ³⁶Then came they back, and told him, and he said—The word of Yahweh, it is, which he spake by the hand of his servant, Elijah the Tishbite, saying—In the town-land of Jezreel, shall dogs eat the flesh of Jezebel! ³⁷So shall the carcass of Jezebel become like heaps of dung on the face of the field, in the town-land of Jezreel: So that they cannot say, This, is Jezebel!

¹⁰Now, Ahab, had seventy sons in Samaria,—so Jehu wrote letters, and sent to Samaria, unto the rulers of Jezreel—the elders, and unto them who had been foster-parents for Ahab, saying: ²Now, therefore, when this letter cometh in unto you, there being, with you, the sons of your lord,—and, with you, the chariots and the homes, and a fortified city, and the armour, ³ye shall look out the goodliest and fittest of the sons of your lord, and set on the throne of his father, and ye shall do battle for the house of your lord. ⁴Then feared they very greatly, and said, Lo! two kings, stood not before him; how then, should, we, stand? ⁵So he that was over the house, and he that was over the city, and the elders, and the foster-parents sent unto Jehu, saying—Thy servants, we are! and, all that thou shalt say unto us, will we do,—we will make no man king, whatsoever is good in thine own eyes, do! ⁶Then wrote he unto them a second letter, saying—If, mine, ye are, and, unto my voice, ye intend to hearken, take ye the heads of the men who are sons of your lord, and come in unto me about this time to-morrow, in Jezreel. Now, the sons of the king, seventy persons, were with the great men of the city, who had been bringing them up. ⁷And it came to pass, when the letter reached them, that they took the sons of the king, and slew them, seventy persons,—and put their heads in baskets, and sent unto him to Jezreel. ⁸And there came in a messenger and told him, saying, They have brought in the heads of the sons of the king. And he said—Lay ye them in two heaps, at the entrance of the gate, until the morning. ⁹And it came to pass, in the morning, that he went out and took his stand, and said unto all the people, Righteous, are, ye! Lo! I, conspired against my lord, and slew him, but, who, smote, all these? ¹⁰Know ye, then, that there shall fall nought of the word of Yahweh, to the ground, which Yahweh spake concerning the house of Ahab,—but, Yahweh, hath done that which he spake through his servant Elijah. ¹¹Then Jehu smote all that were left remaining unto the house of Ahab, in Jezreel, and all his great men, and his acquaintances and his priests,—until there was not left remaining to him, a survivor. ¹²Then arose he, and came in, and departed for Samaria,—the sheep-shearing house itself being on the road; ¹³so, Jehu, lighted upon the brethren of Ahaziah king of Judah, and said, Who are, ye? And they said—Brethren of Ahaziah, are, we; so we came down to salute the sons of the king, and the sons of the queen. ¹⁴Then said he,—Take them alive. So they took them alive, and slew them casting them into the pit of the shearing house,—forty-two men, neither left he remaining a man of them. ¹⁵Then departed he from thence, and lighted on Jehonadab son of Rechab coming to meet him, and he blessed him, and said unto him—Is thy heart, right, as my heart is with thy heart? And Jehonadab said—It is. Then, if it is, give me thy hand. So he gave him his hand. And he took him up to him, into the chariot; ¹⁶and said—Do come with me, and see my jealousy for Yahweh. So he made him ride in his chariot. ¹⁷And, when he came into Samaria, he smote all that were left remaining unto Ahab, in Samaria, until he had destroyed him,—according to the word of Yahweh, which he had spoken unto Elijah. ¹⁸Then Jehu gathered together all the people, and said unto them,—Ahab, served Baal, a little,—Jehu, will serve him, much. ¹⁹Now, therefore, all the prophets of Baal, all his servants and all his priests, call ye for me; do not let, a man, be missing; for, a great sacrifice, have I, to Baal, no one that is missing, shall live. But, Jehu, acted, craftily, to the end he might destroy the servants of Baal. ²⁰And Jehu said—Hallow ye a solemn festival unto Baal. And they made proclamation. ²¹And Jehu sent throughout all Israel, and all the servants of Baal came in, so that there was not left remaining a man, who had not come in,—and they entered the house of Baal, and the house of Baal was filled, from door to door. ²²Then said he to him who was over the wardrobe chamber, Bring forth vestments for all the servants of Baal. And he brought forth for them the vestments. ²³Then entered Jehu, with Jehonadab son of Rechab, into the house of Baal,—and he said unto the servants of Baal—Search ye and see, that there be not here, with you, any of the servants of Yahweh, none but the servants of Baal, alone. ²⁴And, when they entered to offer sacrifices and ascending-offerings, Jehu, set him, outside, eighty men, and said—The man who shall escape, of the men whom I am bringing into your power, his own life, shall be for, his life. ²⁵And it came to pass, as soon as he had made an end of offering the ascending-sacrifice, that Jehu said to the runners and to the officers—Enter, smite them, let not, a man, get out. So they smote them, with the edge of the sword,—and the runners and the officers cast them out, and then went as far as the city of the house of Baal, ²⁶and brought forth the idolatrous pillars that were in the house of Baal, and then burned it; ²⁷and they brake down the pillars of Baal,—and brake down the house of Baal, and appointed it for a sewer-house—until this day. ²⁸Thus Jehu destroyed Baal out of Israel. ²⁹Nevertheless, as for the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, which he caused, Israel, to commit, Jehu turned not away from following them,—the calves of gold, one being in Bethel, and the other in Dan. ³⁰And Yahweh said unto Jehu: Because thou hast done well, by doing that which was right in mine eyes—according to all that was in my heart, hast done to the house of Ahab, sons, of thine, unto the fourth generation, shall sit upon the throne of Israel. ³¹But, Jehu, took not heed to walk in the law of Yahweh God of Israel, with all his heart,—he turned not away from the sins of Jeroboam, which he caused, Israel, to commit. ³²In those days, began Yahweh to make inroads in Israel,—and Hazael smote them in all the boundaries of Israel; ³³from the Jordan, towards sunrise, all the land of Gilead, the Gadites, and the Reubenites, and the Manassites,—from Aroer, which is by the torrent of Arnon, both Gilead and Bashan. ³⁴Now, the rest of the story of Jehu, and all that he did, and all his might, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? ³⁵And Jehu slept with his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria,—and, Jehoahaz his son, reigned, in his stead. ³⁶Now, the days that Jehu reigned over Israel, were twenty-eight years, in Samaria.

11Now, when, Athaliah, mother of Ahaziah, saw that her son was dead, she arose and destroyed all the seed royal. ²But Jehosheba daughter of King Joram, sister of Ahaziah, took Joash son of Ahaziah, and stole him from among the king's sons that were being slain—him and his nurse, into the bedchamber,—so she hid him from the face of Athaliah, that he was not slain. ³And he was with her, in the house of Yahweh, hiding himself, six years,—while, Athaliah, was reigning over the land. ⁴But, in the seventh year, Jehoiada sent and took the captains over hundreds, of the Carian body-guard, and of the runners, and brought them unto him, in the house of Yahweh,—and, when he had solemnised a Covenant with them, and put them on oath, in the house of Yahweh, then shewed he them the king's son; ⁵and commanded them, saying—This, is the thing which ye must do,—A third part of you, will be coming in on the sabbath, and keeping the watch of the house of the king; ⁶and, a third, in the side-gate; and, a third, in the gate behind the runners,—so shall ye keep the watch of the house, by turns. ⁷And, two parts of you, are all that are going out on the sabbath,—so shall ye keep the watch of the house of Yahweh, as touching the king. ⁸Thus shall ye encompass the king round about, every man with his weapons in his hand, and, he that cometh within the ranks, let him be slain,—so be ye with the king, when he cometh out and when he goeth in. ⁹And the captains of hundreds did according to all that Jehoiada the priest commanded, and they took every man his men who were coming in on the sabbath, with them who were going out on the sabbath,—and came unto Jehoiada the priest. ¹⁰And the priest gave unto the captains of hundreds the spears and the shields which belonged to King David,—which were in the house of Yahweh. ¹¹And the runners stood, every man with his weapons in his hand, from the right corner of the house, as far as the left corner of the house, by the altar and the house,—near the king, round about. ¹²Then brought he forth the king's son, and set upon him the crown, and the testimony, and they made him king, and anointed him,—and clapped their hands, and said—May the king live! ¹³And, when Athaliah heard the noise of the runners, the people, then came she in unto the people, in the house of Yahweh, ¹⁴and looked, and lo! the king, standing by the pillar, as the custom was, and the captains and the trumpeters, by the king, and, all the people of the land, rejoicing, and blowing with trumpets,—so Athaliah rent her garments, and cried out—Conspiracy! conspiracy! ¹⁵And Jehoiada the priest commanded the captains of hundreds—officers of the force, and said unto them—Take her forth into the inside of the ranks, and, he that cometh in after her, ye are to slay with the sword. For the priest said, Let her not be slain, in the house of Yahweh. ¹⁶So they made way for her, and she entered the road by which the horses approached the house of the king, and was slain there. ¹⁷And Jehoiada solemnised a covenant between Yahweh, and the king, and the people, that they should become a people unto Yahweh,—also between the king and the people. ¹⁸And all the people of the land entered the house of Baal, and brake it down, his altars and his images, brake they in pieces, utterly, and, Mattan the priest of Baal, they slew before the altars,—and the priest appointed officers over the house of Yahweh. ¹⁹And he took the captains of hundreds and the Carian bodyguard, and the runners, and all the people of the land, and they brought down the king out of the house of Yahweh, and they came, by way of the gate of the runners, into the house of the king,—and he took his seat on the throne of the kings; ²⁰and all the people of the land rejoiced, and, the city, had rest,—when they had put, Athaliah, to death with the sword, in the house of the king. ²¹Seven years old, was Jehoash, when he began to reign.

12In the seventh year of Jehu, began Jehoash to reign, and, forty years, reigned he in Jerusalem,—and, the name of his mother, was Zibiah of Beer-sheba. ²And Jehoash did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh all his days,—whereunto, Jehoiada the priest, instructed him: ³save only, that, the high places, took they not away,—still were the people sacrificing and burning incense in the high places. ⁴And Jehoash said unto the priests,—All the silver of the hallowed things, that is brought into the house of Yahweh—the silver of one who transgresseth, the silver of their persons by the estimate of, each one,—all the silver which it cometh into any man's heart to bring into the house of Yahweh, ⁵let the priests take to them, every one from his acquaintance,—and let, them, repair the breaches of the house, wheresoever there may be found a breach. ⁶But it came to pass, that, in the twenty-third year of King Jehoash, the priests had not repaired the breaches of the house. ⁷So King Jehoash called for Jehoiada the priest, and for the other priests, and said unto them—Why are ye not repairing the breaches of the house? Now, therefore, do not take silver from your acquaintances, for, to repair the breaches of the house, ought ye to have given it? ⁸The priests therefore consented, not to take silver from the people, and not to repair the breaches of the house. ⁹Then took Jehoiada a certain chest, and bored a hole in the door thereof,—and set it beside the altar, on the right as one entereth into the house of Yahweh, and the priests that kept the entrance-hall, used to put therein—all the silver that was brought into the house of Yahweh. ¹⁰And it came to pass, when they saw that there was much silver in the chest, that the king's scribe and the high priest came up, and brought together and counted the silver that was found in the house of Yahweh; ¹¹then used they to give the silver that had been weighed out, into the hands of the doers of the work, who had oversight of the house of Yahweh,—and they brought it forth, to the carpenters, and to the builders, who were working upon the house of Yahweh; ¹²and to the masons, and to the hewers of stone, and to buy timber, and hewn stone, for repairing the breaches of the house of Yahweh,—and to every one that went out upon the house, to repair it. ¹³Howbeit there were not made for the house of Yahweh, bowls of silver, snuffers, dashing basins, trumpets, any vessel of gold, or any vessel of silver,—out of the silver that was brought into the house of Yahweh; ¹⁴for, to the doers of the work, used they to give it; and so they repaired, therewith, the house of Yahweh. ¹⁵And they used not to reckon with the men into whose hands they gave the silver, to give it to the doers of the work, because, with faithfulness, were, they, dealing. ¹⁶Silver for guilt-offerings and silver for sin-offerings, was not brought into the house of Yahweh,—to the priests, they belonged. ¹⁷Then, came up Hazael, king of Syria, and fought against Gath, and captured it,—so Hazael set his face to go up against Jerusalem. ¹⁸Therefore did Jehoash, king of Judah, take all the hallowed things which Jehoshaphat and Jehoram and Ahaziah, his fathers, kings of Judah, had hallowed, and his own hallowed things, and all the gold that was found in the treasuries of the house of Yahweh and the house of the king,—and sent to Hazael king of Syria, so he went up from against Jerusalem. ¹⁹Now, the rest of the story of Joash, and all that he did, are, they, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? ²⁰And his servants arose and made a conspiracy, and smote Joash, in the house of Millo which teeth down to Silla. ²¹Yea, Jozabar son of Shimeath and Jehozabad son of Shomer, his servants, smote him, that he died, and he was buried with his fathers, in the city of David,—and, Amaziah his son, reigned in his stead.

13In the twenty-third year of Joash son of Ahaziah king of Judah, began Jehoahaz, son of Jehu, to reign over Israel, in Samaria, and he reigned seventeen years. ²And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—and went after the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat which he caused, Israel, to commit, he departed not therefrom. ³Then was kindled the anger of Yahweh against Israel—and he delivered them into the hand of Hazael king of Syria, and into the hand of Ben-hadad son of Hazael, continually. ⁴And Jehoahaz appeased the face of Yahweh,—and Yahweh hearkened unto him, because he had seen the oppression of Israel, for that, the king of Syria, oppressed them. ⁵So Yahweh gave unto Israel a saviour, and they went forth from under the hand of Syria,—and the sons of Israel dwelt in their own homes, as aforetime. ⁶Howbeit they departed not from the sins of the house of Jeroboam which he caused, Israel, to commit, therein, they walked,—moreover also, the Sacred Stem, still stood in Samaria. ⁷For he had not left remaining unto Jehoahaz a people, save only fifty horsemen, and ten chariots, and ten thousand footmen,—for the king of Syria had destroyed them, and had made them like dust in threshing. ⁸Now, the rest of the story of Jehoahaz, and all that he did, and his might, are, they, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? ⁹So then Jehoahaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria,—and, Joash his son, reigned, in his stead. ¹⁰In the thirty-seventh year of Joash king of Judah, began Jehoash son of Jehoahaz to reign over Israel, in Samaria, and he reigned sixteen years. ¹¹And he did that which was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—he turned not away from all the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, which he caused, Israel, to commit, therein, he walked. ¹²Now, the rest of the story of Joash, and all that he did, and his might, wherewith he fought against Amaziah king of Judah, are, they, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? ¹³So then Joash slept with his fathers, and, Jeroboam, took his seat on his throne,—and Joash was buried in Samaria, with the kings of Israel. ¹⁴Now, Elisha, had fallen sick of his sickness whereof he was about to die,—so then Joash king of Israel came down unto him, and wept upon his face, and said, My father! my father! The chariots of Israel and the horsemen thereof! ¹⁵And Elisha said unto him, Take bow and arrows. So he took unto him bow and arrows. ¹⁶Then said he unto the king of Israel, Let thy hand rest upon the bow. So he let his hand rest thereon. Then Elisha put his own hands upon the hands of the king; ¹⁷and said—Open the lattice eastward. And he opened it. Then said Elisha—Shoot! And he shot. Then he said,—The arrow of victory by Yahweh, yea the arrow of victory over Syria, therefore shalt thou smite Syria in Aphek, till it be consumed. ¹⁸And he said—Take the arrows. So he took them. Then said he unto the king of Israel—Smite unto the ground. So he smote three times, and then stayed. ¹⁹Then was the man of God wroth against him, and said—Thou shouldest have smitten five or six times, then, hadst thou smitten Syria, until it had been consumed; But, now, three times, shalt thou smite Syria. ²⁰And Elisha died, and they buried him,—now, troops of Moabites, used to enter the land, at the coming in of the year; ²¹and it came to pass, as, they, were burying a man, that, lo! they saw a troop, so they cast the man into the sepulchre of Elisha,—and, as soon as the man touched the bones of Elisha, he came to life again, and rose up on his feet. ²²And, Hazael king of Syria, had oppressed Israel all the days of Jehoahaz. ²³Then was Yahweh gracious unto them, and had compassion upon them, and turned unto them, for the sake of his covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob,—and was not willing to destroy them, nor to cast them off from his presence, as yet. ²⁴So then Hazael king of Syria died; and, Ben-hadad his son, reigned, in his stead. ²⁵And Jehoash son of Jehoahaz again took the cities out of the hand of Ben-hadad son of Hazael, which he had taken out of the hand of Jehoahaz his father, in war,—three times, did Joash smite him, and recover the cities of Israel.

14In the second year of Joash son of Jehoahaz king of Israel, began Amaziah son of Joash king of Judah to reign. ²Twenty-five years old, was he when he began to reign, and twenty-nine years, reigned he in Jerusalem,—and, his mother's name, was Jehoaddan of Jerusalem. ³And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh, only, not like David his father: according to all that Joash his father did, so he did; ⁴only, the high places, took they not away,—still were the people sacrificing and burning incense in the high places. ⁵And it came to pass that, as soon as the kingdom was confirmed in his hand, he smote his servants who smote the king his father; ⁶but, the sons of them that smote him, slew he not,—as it is written in the book of the law of Moses, which Yahweh commanded, saying—Fathers, shall not be put to death, for sons, nor shall, sons, be put to death, for fathers, but every man, for his own sin, shall be put to death. ⁷He, smote Edom, in the valley of salt, ten thousand, and seized Sela, in the war,—and called the name thereof Joktheel, as it is until this day. ⁸Then, sent Amaziah messengers unto Jehoash son of Jehoahaz son of Jehu, king of Israel, saying,—Come now, let us look one another in the face. ⁹And Jehoash king of Israel sent unto Amaziah king of Judah, saying, A thistle that was in Lebanon, sent unto a cedar that was in Lebanon, saying—Give thy daughter to my son to wife,—and there passed by a beast of the field that was in Lebanon, and trampled down the thistle: ¹⁰Thou hast, smitten, Edom, and, thy heart, would lift thee up,—Glory, and stay at home! Wherefore, then, shouldest thou contend with misfortune, and fall, thou, and Judah with thee? ¹¹But Amaziah hearkened not. So then Jehoash king of Israel came up, and they looked one another in the face, he and Amaziah king of Judah,—in Beth-shemesh, which belongeth unto Judah. ¹²Then was Judah defeated before Israel,—and they fled, every man to his own home; ¹³and, upon Amaziah, king of Judah, son of Jehoash son of Ahaziah, did Jehoash king of Israel, seize, in Beth-shemesh,—and entered Jerusalem, and brake down the wall of Jerusalem, at the gate of Ephraim, as far as the corner gate, four hundred cubits; ¹⁴and took all the gold and the silver and all the vessels that were found in the house of Yahweh, and in the treasuries of the house of the king, and hostages,—and returned to Samaria. ¹⁵Now, the rest of the story of Jehoash, what he did, and his might and how he fought with Amaziah king of Judah, are, they, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? ¹⁶And Jehoash slept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria, with the kings of Israel,—and, Jeroboam his son, reigned, in his stead. ¹⁷And Amaziah son of Joash king of Judah, lived, after the death of Jehoash son of Jehoahaz king of Israel, fifteen years. ¹⁸Now, the rest of the story of Amaziah, is, it, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? ¹⁹And, when they made against him a conspiracy in Jerusalem, he fled to Lachish,—but they sent after him to Lachish, and slew him, there. ²⁰And they bare him on horses,—and he was buried in Jerusalem, with his fathers, in the city of David. ²¹And all the people of Judah took Azariah, he, being sixteen yearn old,—and made, him, king instead of his father Amaziah. ²²He, built Elath, and restored it to Judah,—after the king slept with his fathers. ²³In the fifteenth year of Amaziah, son of Joash, king of Judah, began Jeroboam, son of Joash, king of a Israel, to reign in Samaria, and he reigned forty-one years. ²⁴And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—he turned not away from any of the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, which he caused, Israel, to commit. ²⁵He, restored the boundary of Israel, from the entering in of Hamath, unto the sea of the waste plain,—according to the word of Yahweh, God of Israel, which he spake by the hand of his servant Jonah, son of Amittai, the prophet, who was of Gath-hepher. ²⁶For Yahweh saw the humiliation of Israel, that it was bitter, indeed,—and that there was no one shut up, nor any one left at large, no one indeed to help Israel. ²⁷Neither had Yahweh spoken, to wipe out the name of Israel from under the heavens,—so he saved them, by the hand of Jeroboam son of Joash. ²⁸Now, the rest of the story of Jeroboam, and all that he did, and his might when he warred, and how he restored Damascus and Hamath to Judah in Israel, are, they, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? ²⁹And Jeroboam slept with his fathers, with the kings of Israel,—and, Zechariah his son, reigned, in his stead.

15In the twenty-seventh year of Jeroboam king of Israel, began Azariah son of Amaziah king of Judah to reign. ²Sixteen years old, was he when he began to reign, and, fifty-two years, reigned he in Jerusalem,—and, the name of his mother, was Jecholiah, of Jerusalem. ³And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to all that, Amaziah his father, had done. ⁴Only, the high places, took they not away,—still were the people sacrificing and burning incense in the high places. ⁵And Yahweh smote the king, so that he became a leper, until the day of his death, and dwelt in a lazar-house,—and, Jotham, son of the king, was over the house, judging the people of the land. ⁶Now, the rest of the story of Azariah, and all that he did, are, they, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. ⁷And Azariah slept with his fathers, and they buried him with his fathers, in the city of David,—and, Jotham his son, reigned, in his stead. ⁸In the thirty-eighth year of Azariah king of Judah, began Zechariah son of Jeroboam to reign over Israel, in Samaria, and he reigned six months. ⁹And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, as did his fathers,—he turned not away from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, which he caused, Israel, to commit. ¹⁰Then conspired against him, Shallum son of Jabesh, and smote him before the people, and slew him,—and reigned in his stead. ¹¹Now, the rest of the story of Zechariah, behold it! written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. ¹²That, was the word of Yahweh, which he spake unto Jehu, saying, Thy sons, to four generations, shall sit on the throne of Israel. And it was so! ¹³Shallum the son of Jabesh, began to reign, in the thirty-ninth year of Uzziah, king of Judah,—for the space of a month in Samaria. ¹⁴Then came up Menahem son of Gadi, from Tirzah, and entered Samaria, and smote Shallum son of Jabesh in Samaria,—and slew him, and reigned in his stead. ¹⁵Now, the rest of the story of Shallum, and his conspiracy which he made, behold them! written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel! ¹⁶Then, Menahem smote Tiphseh, and all that were therein, and the boundaries thereof, from Tirzah, because they opened not, therefore he smote them,—all the women therein that were with child, he ripped up. ¹⁷In the thirty-ninth year of Azariah king of Judah, began Menahem son of Gadi to reign over Israel, ten years reigned he, in Samaria. ¹⁸And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—he turned not away from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, which he caused, Israel, to commit, all his days. ¹⁹Pul the king of Assyria came against the land, so Menahem gave unto Pul, a thousand talents of silver,—that his hands might be with him, to confirm the kingdom, in his hand. ²⁰And Menahem exacted the silver of Israel, of all the mighty men of wealth, to give to the king of Assyria, fifty shekels of silver, of each man,—so the king of Assyria turned back, and stayed not there, in the land. ²¹Now, the rest of the story of Menahem, and all that he did, are, they, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? ²²And Menahem slept with his fathers,—and, Pekahiah his son, reigned in his stead. ²³In the fiftieth year of Azariah king of Judah, began Pekahiah son of Menahem to reign over Israel, in Samaria, and he reigned two years. ²⁴And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—he turned not away from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, which he caused, Israel, to commit. ²⁵And there conspired against him—Pekah son of Remaliah, a hero of his, and smote him in Samaria, in the citadel of the house of a king, with Argob and with Arieih, and, with him, fifty men of the sons of the Gileadites,—and he slew him, and reigned in his stead. ²⁶Now, the rest of the story of Pekahiah, and all that he did, behold them! written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel! ²⁷In the fifty-second year of Azariah king of Judah, began Pekah son of Remaliah to reign over Israel, in Samaria, and he reigned twenty years. ²⁸And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—he turned not away from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, which he caused, Israel, to commit. ²⁹In the days of Pekah king of Israel, came Tiglath-pileser, king of Assyria, and took Ijon, and Abel-beth-maachah, and Janoah, and Kedesh, and Hazor, and Gilead, and Galilee, all the land of Naphtali—and carried them away captive to Assyria. ³⁰And Hoshea son of Elah made a conspiracy against Pekah, son of Remaliah, and smote him, and slew him, and reigned in his stead,—in the twentieth year of Jotham, son of Uzziah. ³¹Now, the rest of the story of Pekah, and all that he did, behold them! written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel! ³²In the second year of Pekah son of Remaliah

king of Israel, began Jotham son of Uzziah king of Judah to reign. ³³Twenty-five years old, was he, when he began to reign, and, sixteen years, reigned he, in Jerusalem,—and, the name of his mother, was Jerusha, daughter of Zadok. ³⁴And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to all that Uzziah his father had done. ³⁵Only, the high places, took they not away, still were the people offering sacrifice and burning incense in the high places,—he, built the upper gate of the house of Yahweh. ³⁶Now, the rest of the story of Jotham, what he did, is, it, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? ³⁷In those days, began Yahweh to send against Judah, Rezin, king of Syria,—and Pekah son of Remaliah. ³⁸And Jotham slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers, in the city of David his father,—and, Ahaz his son, reigned, in his stead.

16In the seventeenth year of Pekah son of Remaliah, began Ahaz son of Jotham king of Judah to reign. ²Twenty years old, was Ahaz when he began to reign, and, sixteen years, reigned he in Jerusalem. And he did not that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh his God, like David his father; ³but walked in the way of the kings of Israel,—moreover also, he made, his son, pass through the fire, according to the abominable practices of the nations, whom Yahweh dispossessed from before the sons of Israel; ⁴and he offered sacrifice and burned incense in the high places, and on the hills,—and under every green tree. ⁵then, came up Rezin king of Syria, and Pekah son of Remaliah king of Israel, unto Jerusalem, to make war,—and they laid siege against Ahaz, but could not overcome him. ⁶At that time, Rezin king of Syria recovered Elath, to Syria, and wholly cleared out the Jews from Elath,—and, the Syrians, entered Elath, and have dwelt there, unto this day. ⁷So Ahaz sent messengers unto Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria, saying, Thy servant and thy son, I am,—Come up and save me, out of the hand of the king of Syria, and out of the hand of the king of Israel, who are rising up against me. ⁸And Ahaz took the silver and the gold that was found in the house of Yahweh, and in the treasuries of the house of the king,—and sent them to the king of Assyria, as a bribe. ⁹So the king of Assyria hearkened unto him, and the king of Assyria came up unto Damascus, and seized it, and carried away the people thereof captive to Kir,—and put Rezin, to death. ¹⁰So then King Ahaz went to meet Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria, in Damascus, and saw the altar which was in Damascus,—and King Ahaz, sent unto Urijah the priest, a likeness of the altar, and a model thereof, according to all the workmanship thereof; ¹¹and Urijah the priest built an altar,—according to all that King Ahaz sent from Damascus, so, did Urijah the priest make it, by the time King Ahaz came from Damascus. ¹²And, when the king came from Damascus, then the king saw the altar,—so the king drew near unto the altar, and caused offerings to ascend thereupon. ¹³And he made perfume with his ascending-sacrifice, and with his meal-offering, and poured out his drink-offering,—and dashed the blood of the peace-offerings which he had, upon the altar. ¹⁴And, the altar of bronze which was before Yahweh, he brought away from the forefront of the house, from between the altar, and the house of Yahweh,—and put it at the side of the altar northward. ¹⁵And King Ahaz commanded Urijah the priest, saying—Upon the great altar, make thou perfume with the ascending-sacrifice of the morning, and with the meal-offering of the evening, and with the ascending-sacrifice of the king and with his meal-offering, and with the ascending-sacrifice of all the people of the land, and their meal-offering and their drink-offering, and, all the blood of the ascending-offering, and all the blood of the peace offering, thereupon, shalt thou dash,—but, the altar of bronze, shall be for me to inquire into. ¹⁶So Urijah the priest did according to all that King Ahaz commanded. ¹⁷And King Ahaz cut off the side walls of the stands, and took away from off them the laver, and, the sea, took he down from off the oxen of bronze, which were under it,—and set it on a pavement of stones. ¹⁸Also, the covered walk for the Sabbath, which they had built in the house, and the outer entrance for the king, he changed in the house of Yahweh,—because of the king of Assyria. ¹⁹Now, the rest of the story of Ahaz, what he did, is, it, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? ²⁰And Ahaz slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers, in the city of David,—and, Hezekiah his son, reigned, in his stead.

17In the twelfth year of Ahaz king of Judah, began Hosea son of Elah to reign in Samaria, over Israel, and he reigned nine years. ²And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—only, not like the kings of Israel who were before him. ³Against him, came up Shalmaneser king of Assyria,—and Hoshea became his servant, and rendered him a present. ⁴Then found the king of Assyria, in Hosea, a conspiracy, in that he had sent messengers unto So king of Egypt, and had not brought up a present to the king of Assyria, as he had done year by year,—therefore the king of Assyria shut him up, and bound him in prison. ⁵And the king of Assyria came up throughout all the land,—yea he came up to Samaria, and besieged it three years. ⁶In the ninth year of Hoshea, did the king of Assyria capture Samaria, and carried Israel away captive to Assyria,—and settled them in Halah, and in Habor by the river of Gozan, and the mountains of Media. ⁷And thus it came to pass that Israel sinned against Yahweh their God, who brought them up out of the land of Egypt, from under the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt,—yea they did reverence to other gods; ⁸and walked in the statutes of the nations, whom Yahweh had disposed from before the sons of Israel,—and in the statutes of the kings of Israel, which they had made. ⁹And the sons of Israel did, secretly, things which were not right, against Yahweh their God,—and built for themselves high places in all their cities, from the watchmen's tower, to the fortified city. ¹⁰And they set up for themselves pillars and Sacred Stems, upon every high hill, and under every green tree; ¹¹and burned incense there, in all the high places, like the nations whom Yahweh drove out from before them,—and did things that were wicked, so as to provoke Yahweh to anger; ¹²and they served the manufactured gods, as to which Yahweh had said to them, Ye shall not do this thing. ¹³And Yahweh testified against Israel and against Judah, through all his prophets—every one who had a vision, saying—Turn ye from your wicked ways, and keep my commandments, my statutes, according to all the law which I commanded your fathers; and which I sent unto you through my servants the prophets. ¹⁴Howbeit they hearkened not,—but stiffened their neck, like the neck of their fathers, who trusted not in Yahweh their God; ¹⁵but rejected his statutes, and his covenant, which he solemnised with their fathers, and his testimonies wherewith he testified against them,—and followed vanity, and became vain, and followed the nations that were round about them, as to whom Yahweh charged them, so that they should not do like them. ¹⁶But they forsook all the commandments of Yahweh their God, and made for themselves something molten—two calves, and made a Sacred Stem, and bowed themselves down to all the army of the heavens, and served Baal; ¹⁷and made their sons and their daughters pass through the fire, and used divinations and enchantments, and sold themselves to do the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, provoking him to wrath. ¹⁸So Yahweh shewed himself exceeding angry with Israel, and removed them from his presence,—there was none left, save the tribe of Judah, alone. ¹⁹Even Judah, kept not the commandments of Yahweh their God,—but walked in the statutes of Israel, which they had made. ²⁰So Yahweh rejected all the seed of Israel, and humiliated them, and delivered them into the hand of spoilers,—until he had cast them out from his presence; ²¹for he rent Israel away from the house of David, and they made Jeroboam son of Nebat, king,—and Jeroboam thrust away Israel from following Yahweh, and caused them to commit a great sin. ²²And the sons of Israel walked in all the sins of Jeroboam which he had committed,—they turned not away therefrom; ²³until that Yahweh removed Israel from his presence, according as he spake through all his servants the prophets,—and so Israel was driven away from off their own soil, to Assyria, until this day. ²⁴And the king of Assyria brought men from Babylon, and from Cuthah, and from Avvah, and from Hamath, and from Sepharvaim, and caused them to dwell in the cities of Samaria, instead of the sons of Israel,—so they took possession of Samaria, and dwelt in the cities thereof. ²⁵And so it was, that, when they first dwelt there, they revered not Yahweh,—therefore Yahweh sent among them, lions, which were slaying them. ²⁶Therefore spake they unto the king of Assyria, saying, The nations whom thou hast removed and settled in the cities of Samaria, know not the custom of the God of the land,—and he hath sent among them lions, and lo! they are slaying them, because they know not the custom of the God of the land. ²⁷So the king of Assyria commanded, saying—Carry thither, one of the priests, whom ye brought away captive from thence, that they may go, and dwell there,—and teach them the custom of the God of the land. ²⁸Then came one of the priests whom they had carried away captive from Samaria, and dwelt in Bethel,—and he began teaching them how they should do reverence unto Yahweh. ²⁹Howbeit the nations severally were making their own gods,—and did put them in the houses of the high places, which, the Samaritans, had made, each several nation, in their cities wherein, they, were dwelling. ³⁰So then, the men of Babylon, made Succoth-benoth, and, the men of Cuth, made Nergal, and, the men of Hamath, made Ashima: ³¹and, the Avvites, made Nibhaz and Tartak, and, the Sepharvites, did consume their sons in the fire, to Adrammelech and Anammelech gods of Sepharvaim. ³²Thus became they reverers of Yahweh,—and yet made for themselves, from the whole compass of them, priests of high places, who became offerers for them in the house of the high places. ³³Yahweh, were they revering,—and yet, their own gods, were they serving, according to the custom of the nations from whence they had brought them away captive. ³⁴Unto this day, are they offering according to the former customs,—they are not revering Yahweh, neither are they offering after their own statutes, or their own custom, nor yet after the law and the commandment which Yahweh commanded the sons of Jacob, whose name he made to be Israel: ³⁵With, whom, Yahweh solemnised a covenant, and commanded them saying—Ye shall not revere other gods,—nor bow down to them, nor serve them, nor sacrifice to them; ³⁶But, Yahweh—who brought you up out of the land of Egypt, with great might, and with arm outstretched, him, shall ye revere,—and to him, shall ye bow down, and to him, shall ye sacrifice; ³⁷And, the statutes and the regulations, and the law and the commandment, which he wrote for you, shall ye surely observe to do, continually,—So shall ye not revere other gods; ³⁸But, the covenant which I have solemnised with you, shall ye not forget,—So shall ye not revere other gods; ³⁹But, Yahweh your God, shall ye revere,—then will, he, deliver you out of the hand of all your enemies. ⁴⁰Howbeit they hearkened not,—but, according to their own former custom, were they offering. ⁴¹Thus were these nations doing reverence unto Yahweh, and yet, unto their own carved images, were they rendering service,—yea, their sons and their son's sons, as the fathers offered, so are, they, offering until this day.

¹⁸And it came to pass, in the third year of Hoshea son of Elah king of Israel, that Hezekiah son of Ahaz king of Judah began to reign. ²Twenty-five years old, was he when he began to reign, and, twenty-nine years, reigned he in Jerusalem,—and, his mother's name, was Abi, daughter of Zachariah. ³And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to all that, David his father, did. ⁴He, removed the high places, and brake in pieces the pillars, and cut down the Sacred Stem,—and beat in pieces the serpent of bronze that, Moses, had made, because, until those days, had the sons of Israel been burning incense thereunto, so he called it Nehushtan. ⁵In Yahweh, God of Israel, did he trust,—so that, after him, was none like him, among all the kings of Judah, nor that were before him; ⁶and he did cleave unto Yahweh, he turned not away from following him,—but kept his commandments, which, Yahweh, commanded, Moses. ⁷So Yahweh was with him, whithersoever he went forth, he prospered,—and he rebelled against the king of Assyria, and served him not. ⁸He, smote the Philistines, as far as Gazah, and her boundaries,—from the watchmen's tower even to the fortified city. ⁹And it came to pass, in the fourth year of King Hezekiah—the same, was the seventh year of Hosea son of Elah king of Israel, that Shalmaneser king of Assyria came up against Samaria, and laid siege against it; ¹⁰and he captured it at the end of three years, in the sixth year of Hezekiah,—the same, is the ninth year of Hoshea king of Israel, was Samaria captured. ¹¹So the king of Assyria drave away Israel to Assyria,—and settled them in Halah, and in Habor, by the river of Gozan, and the mountains of Media: ¹²because they hearkened not unto the voice of Yahweh their God, but transgressed his covenant, all that Moses the servant of Yahweh commanded,—they neither hearkened nor performed. ¹³And, in the fourteenth year of King Hezekiah, came up Sennacherib king of Assyria, against all the fortified cities of Judah, and took them. ¹⁴Then sent Hezekiah king of Judah unto the king of Assyria, to Lachish, saying—I have sinned, Return from me, What thou shalt lay upon me, I will bear. So the king of Assyria appointed unto Hezekiah king of Judah, three hundred talents of silver, and thirty talents of gold. ¹⁵And Hezekiah delivered up all the silver that was found in the house of Yahweh, and in the treasuries of the house of the king. ¹⁶At that time, Hezekiah cut off the doors of the temple of Yahweh, and the columns, which Hezekiah king of Judah had overlaid,—and gave them unto the king of Assyria. ¹⁷And the king of Assyria sent Tartan and Rab-saris and Rab-shakeh, from Lachish unto King Hezekiah, with a heavy force to Jerusalem,—so they came up and drew near to Jerusalem, and took their stand by the upper channel of the pool, which is in the highway of the fuller's field. ¹⁸Then called they for the king, and there went out unto them Eliakim son of Hilkiah, who was over the household,—and Shebna, the scribe, and Joah son of

Asaph, the recorder. ¹⁹And Rab-shakeh said unto them—Pray you, say unto Hezekiah,—Thus, saith the great king, the king of Assyria, What trust is this wherewith thou dost trust? ²⁰Thou hast said—they are only words of the lips!—Counsel and might have I for the war. Now, in whom dost thou trust, that thou hast rebelled against me? ²¹Now, lo! thou dost trust thyself on the support of this bruised cane, on Egypt, whereon, if a man lean, it will enter his hand and lay it open,—so, is Pharaoh king of Egypt, to all who trust upon him. ²²But, if ye should say unto me, In Yahweh our God, do we trust, Then is that not he whose high places and whose altars Hezekiah hath removed, and said unto Judah, and unto Jerusalem—Before this altar, shall ye bow down, in Jerusalem? ²³Now, therefore, pledge thyself, I pray thee, with my lord, the king of Assyria,—that I supply thee with two thousand horses, if thou, on thy part, be able to set riders upon them. ²⁴How then wilt thou turn back the face of one pasha of the least of my lord's servants? Or hast thou, on thy part, trusted to Egypt for chariots and for horsemen? ²⁵Now, is it, without Yahweh, that I have come up against this place, to destroy it? Yahweh himself, said unto me, Go thou up against this land, and destroy it. ²⁶Then said Eliakim son of Hilkiah, and Shebna, and Joah, unto Rab-shakeh: Speak, we pray thee, unto thy servants in the, Syrian, language, for, we, can, understand, it,—and do not speak with us in, the Jews', language, in the ears of the people who are upon the wall. ²⁷But Rab-shakeh said unto them—Is it, concerning thy lord, and concerning thee, that my lord hath sent me to speak these things? Is it not concerning the men who are tarrying upon the wall, that they may eat their own dung and drink their own water with you? ²⁸So then Rab-shakeh took his stand, and cried out with a loud voice, in, the Jews', language,—and spake, and said, Hear ye the message of the great king, the king of Assyria:—²⁹Thus, saith the king: Let not Hezekiah deceive you, for he shall not be able to deliver you out of his hand; ³⁰Neither let Hezekiah cause you to trust in Yahweh, saying, Yahweh, will, certainly deliver, us,—this city, therefore, shall not be given over into the hand of the king of Assyria. ³¹Do not hearken unto Hezekiah,—for, thus, saith the king of Assyria, Deal with me thankfully, and come out unto me, then shall ye eat—every one of his own vine, and every one of his own fig-tree, and drink every one the waters of his own cistern; ³²Until I come and take you, into a land like your own land—A land of corn and new wine, a land of bread and vineyards, a land of oil olive and honey, so shall ye live, and not die,—But do not hearken unto Hezekiah, for he would persuade you, saying, Yahweh, will deliver us! ³³Have, the gods of the nations, at all delivered, any one of them, his country, out of the hand of the king of Assyria? ³⁴Where are the gods of Hamath, and Arpad? Where are the gods of Sepharvaim, Hena and Ivvah? Yea, did they deliver Samaria out of my hand? ³⁵Who are they, among all the gods of the countries, that have delivered their country, out of my hand,—that, Yahweh, should deliver, Jerusalem, out of my hand? ³⁶But the people held their peace, and answered him not a word,—for, the command of the king, it was, saying—Ye must not answer him. ³⁷Then came in Eliakim son of Hilkiah who was over the household, and Shebna the scribe, and Joah son of Asaph the recorder, unto Hezekiah, with rent clothes,—and they told him the words of Rab-shakeh.

¹⁹And it came to pass, when King Hezekiah heard, that he rent his clothes,—and covered himself with sackcloth, and entered the house of Yahweh; ²and sent Eliakim who was over the household, and Shebna the scribe, and the elders of the priests, covered with sackcloth,—unto Isaiah the prophet, son of Amoz; ³and they said unto him—Thus, saith Hezekiah, A day of trouble, and rebuke, and reviling, is this day,—for children are come to the birth, and, strength, is there none to bring forth! ⁴It may be that Yahweh thy God will hear all the words of Rab-shakeh, whom the king of Assyria his lord hath sent, to reproach a Living God, and will rebuke the words, which Yahweh thy God hath heard,—Wherefore lift thou up a prayer, for the remnant that remaineth. ⁵So the servants of King Hezekiah came unto Isaiah. ⁶And Isaiah said unto them, Thus, shall ye, say, unto your lord,—Thus, saith Yahweh—Be not thou afraid, because of the words which thou hast heard, where-with the servants of the king of Assyria have reviled, me: ⁷Behold me! about to let go against him, a blast, and, when he heareth the report, then will he return to his own country,—and I will cause him to fall by the sword, in his own land. ⁸So Rab-shakeh returned, and found the king of Assyria warring against Libnah,—for he had heard that he had broken up from Lachish. ⁹And when he heard say of Tirhakah, king of Ethiopia, saying, Lo! he hath come forth to fight with thee,—then he again sent messengers unto Hezekiah, saying—¹⁰Thus, shall ye, speak, unto Hezekiah king of Judah, saying—Let not thy God in whom thou art trusting beguile thee, saying,—Jerusalem shall not be given over, into the hand of the king of Assyria. ¹¹Lo! thou thyself, hast heard, what the kings of Assyria have done to all the lands, in devoting them to destruction,—and shalt, thou, be delivered? ¹²Did the gods of the nations, deliver them, whom my fathers destroyed, Gozan, and Haran,—and Rezeph, and the sons of Eden, who were in Telassar? ¹³Where are the king of Hamath, and the king of Arpad, and the king of the city of Sepharvaim,—of Hena, and Ivvah? ¹⁴And, when Hezekiah had received the letter at the hand of the messengers, and had read it, then went he up to the house of Yahweh, and Hezekiah spread it out before Yahweh. ¹⁵And Hezekiah prayed before Yahweh, and said, O Yahweh, God of Israel, inhabiting the cherubim, thou thyself, art GOD, alone, for all the kingdoms of the earth,—thou, didst make the heavens and the earth.

¹⁶Bow down, O Yahweh, thine ear, and hear, Open, O Yahweh, thine eyes, and see,—yea hear thou the words of Sennacherib, who hath sent—To reproach a Living God! ¹⁷Of a truth, O Yahweh,—the kings of Assyria have devoted to destruction the nations and their lands; ¹⁸and have put their gods in the fire,—for, no-gods, were, they, but the work of the hands of men—wood and stone, and so they destroyed them. ¹⁹Now, therefore, O Yahweh our God, save us we pray thee, out of his hand, that all the kingdoms of the earth may know, that, thou, Yahweh, art God, alone! ²⁰Then Isaiah son of Amoz sent unto Hezekiah, saying,—Thus, saith Yahweh, God of Israel, What thou hast prayed unto me concerning Sennacherib king of Assyria, I have heard. ²¹This, is the word that Yahweh hath spoken concerning him,—The virgin daughter of Zion, laugheth thee to scorn, mocketh thee, The daughter of Jerusalem, after thee, doth wag her head. ²²Whom, hast thou reproached, and insulted? and, against whom, hast thou lifted high thy voice? yea thou hast proudly raised thine eyes, against the Holy One of Israel. ²³Through thy messengers, thou hast reproached My Lord, and hast said—With my multitude of chariots, have I ascended the height of the mountains, the recesses of Lebanon,—and have cut down its tallest cedars, its choicest firs, and have entered the shelter of its summit, its thick garden forests. ²⁴I, have digged, and have drunk foreign waters,—and have dried up, with the soles of my feet, all the streams of besieged places. ²⁵Hast thou not heard—that, long ago, that, is what I appointed, and, from days of old, devised it? Now, have I brought it to pass, that thou mightest serve to lay waste, in desolate ruins, fortified cities; ²⁶And, their inhabitants, being powerless, were overthrown and put to shame,—they became grass of the field, and young herbage, grass on housetops, and seed withered before it came up. ²⁷Howbeit, thine abode, and thy coming out and thy going in, I know,—and thy raging against me. ²⁸Because, thy raging against me, and thy contempt, have come up into mine ears, therefore will I put my ring in thy nose, and my bit in thy lips, and will turn thee back by the way by which thou camest. ²⁹And, this unto thee, is the sign—Eating, this year, the growth of scattered seeds, and, in the second year, that which groweth after,—then, in the third year, sow ye and reap, plant ye vineyards, and eat the fruit thereof; ³⁰Then shall the escaped of the house of Judah that remain, again—take root downward, and bear fruit upward; ³¹For, out of Jerusalem, shall go forth a remnant, and that which hath escaped—out of Mount Zion,—the jealousy of Yahweh of hosts, will perform this. ³²Therefore—Thus, saith Yahweh, concerning the king of Assyria, He shall not enter this city, nor shoot there, an arrow,—nor attack it with shield, nor cast up against it, a mound; ³³By the way that he cometh in, by the same, shall he return,—and, into this city, shall he not enter, declareth Yahweh! ³⁴Thus will I throw a covering over this city, to save it,—for mine own sake, and for the sake of David my servant. ³⁵And it came to pass, during that night, that the messenger of Yahweh went forth, and smote, in the camp of the Assyrians, a hundred and eighty-five thousand. And, when men arose early in the morning, lo! they were all, dead bodies! ³⁶So Sennacherib king of Assyria brake up, and went his way, and returned,—and remained in Nineveh. ³⁷And it came to pass, as he was bowing down in the house of Nisroch his god, that, Adrammelech and Sharezer his sons, smote him with the sword, howbeit, they, escaped into the land of Ararat,—and Esarhaddon his son, reigned, in his stead.

20In those days, was Hezekiah sick, unto death,—and Isaiah son of Amoz, the prophet, came unto him, and said unto him—Thus, saith Yahweh Set in order thy house, for, about to die, thou, art, and shalt not recover. ²Then he turned his face unto the wall,—and prayed unto Yahweh, saying: ³I beseech thee, O Yahweh, remember, I pray thee, how I have walked before thee, in truth, and with a whole heart, and, that which is good in thine eyes, have I done! And Hezekiah wept aloud. ⁴And it came to pass that Isaiah, had not gone out into the middle court, when the word of Yahweh came unto him, saying: ⁵Return, and thou shalt say unto Hezekiah the leader of my people—Thus, saith Yahweh, God of David thy father, I have heard thy prayer, I have seen thy tears,—Behold me! about to heal thee, On the third day, shalt thou go up unto the house of Yahweh; ⁶And I will add unto thy days, fifteen years, and, out of the hand of the king of Assyria, will I deliver thee, and this city,—and will throw a covering over this city, for my own sake, and for the sake of David my servant. ⁷And Isaiah said—Take ye a cake of figs. So they took and laid it upon the boil, and he recovered, ⁸Now Hezekiah had said unto Isaiah, What sign is there, that Yahweh will heal me,—and that I shall go up on the third day, to the house of Yahweh? ⁹And Isaiah said,—This unto thee, is the sign from Yahweh, that Yahweh will do the thing which he hath spoken, The shadow hath gone forward ten steps, shall it return ten steps? ¹⁰And Hezekiah said—It is, a light thing, for the shadow, to decline ten steps,—Nay, but let the shadow go back ten steps. ¹¹And Isaiah the prophet cried unto Yahweh, and he caused the shadow on the steps by which it had gone down on the steps of Ahaz to go back, ten steps. ¹²At that time, Berodach-baladan son of Baladan, king of Babylon, sent letters and a present, unto Hezekiah,—for he had heard that Hezekiah had been sick. ¹³And Hezekiah hearkened unto them, and shewed them all his house of precious things—the silver, and the gold, and the spices, and the precious ointment, and his armoury, and all that was found among his treasures,—there was, nothing, that Hezekiah shewed them not, in his house or in all his dominion. ¹⁴Then came Isaiah the prophet unto King Hezekiah,—and said unto him—What said these men, and from whence came they unto thee? And Hezekiah said,

From a land far off, came they—from Babylon. ¹⁵And he said—What have they seen in thy house? Then said Hezekiah—All that is in my house, have they seen, there was, nothing, that I shewed them not, among my treasures. ¹⁶Then said Isaiah unto Hezekiah,—Hear thou the word of Yahweh: ¹⁷Lo! days are coming, when all that is in thine house, and that thy fathers have treasured up, unto this day, shall be carried into Babylon,—nothing shall be left, saith Yahweh; ¹⁸and, of thy sons who shall issue from thee, whom thou shalt beget, shall they take away,—and they shall become eunuchs, in the palace of the king of Babylon. ¹⁹And Hezekiah said unto Isaiah—Good, is the word of Yahweh, which thou hast spoken. And he said—Is it not, that, peace and stability, there shall be in my days? ²⁰Now, the rest of the story of Hezekiah, and all his might, and how he made a pool and an aqueduct, and brought water into the city, are, they, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? ²¹So Hezekiah slept with his fathers, and, Manasseh his son, reigned, in his stead.

21 Twelve years old, was Manasseh when he began to reign, and, fifty-five years, reigned he in Jerusalem,—and the name of his mother was Hephzibah. ²And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—after the abominable practices of the nations, whom Yahweh had dispossessed from before the sons of Israel. ³He again built the high places, which Hezekiah his father had destroyed,—and reared altars to Baal, and made a Sacred Stem, as did Ahab, king of Israel, and bowed down to all the army of the heavens, and served them. ⁴And he used to build altars in the house of Yahweh,—concerning which Yahweh had said,—In Jerusalem, will I put my Name. ⁵And he built altars to all the army of the heavens,—in the two courts of the house of Yahweh; ⁶and caused his son to pass through the fire, and practiced hidden arts and used divination, and dealt with a familiar spirit and wizards,—he exceeded in doing the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, provoking him to anger; ⁷and he set the image of the Sacred Stem which he had made,—in the house, of which Yahweh had said unto David, and unto Solomon his son, In this house, and in Jerusalem which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, will I put my Name, unto times age-abiding; ⁸and I will not again let the foot of Israel wander away from the soil which I gave unto their fathers. Only if they take heed to do according to all that I have commanded them, even to the extent of all the law which, my servant Moses, commanded them. ⁹But they hearkened not,—and Manasseh led them astray to do the thing that was wicked, more than the nations which Yahweh destroyed from before the sons of Israel. ¹⁰Yahweh therefore spake through his servants the prophets saying—¹¹Because Manasseh king of Judah hath made these abominations—hath done that which is wicked, more than all which the Amorites did who were before him, and hath caused, even Judah, to sin with his manufactured gods, ¹²therefore—Thus, saith Yahweh, God of Israel, Behold me! bringing in calamity upon Jerusalem and Judah,—that, whosoever heareth thereof, both his ears, will tingle; ¹³And I will stretch over Jerusalem, the line of Samaria, and the plummet of the house of Ahab,—and will wipe out Jerusalem, as one wipeth out a dish, wiping it and turning it upside down; ¹⁴And will abandon the remnant of mine inheritance, and deliver them into the hand of their enemies,—and they shall become a prey and a plunder, to all their enemies: ¹⁵Because they have done the thing that is wicked in mine eyes, and have become such as to provoke me to anger,—from the day when their fathers came forth out of Egypt, even until this day. ¹⁶Moreover also, innocent blood, did Manasseh shed in great abundance, till he had filled Jerusalem, from one end to the other, besides his committing the sins which he caused, Judah, to commit, in doing the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh. ¹⁷Now, the rest of the story of Manasseh, and all that he did, and his sin that he committed, are, they, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? ¹⁸And Manasseh slept with his fathers, and was buried in the garden of his own house, in the garden of Uzza,—and, Amon his son, reigned, in his stead. ¹⁹Twenty-two years old, was Amon when he began to reign, and, two years, reigned he in Jerusalem,—and, his mother's name, was Meshullemeth daughter of Haruz, of Jotbah. ²⁰And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—as did Manasseh his father; ²¹yea he walked in all the way wherein, his father, had walked,—and served the manufactured gods that, his father, had served, and bowed down to them; ²²and forsook Yahweh the God of his fathers,—and walked not in the way of Yahweh. ²³And the servants of Amon, conspired against him,—and slew the king in his own house. ²⁴Then the people of the land smote all who had conspired against King Amon,—and the people of the land made, Josiah his son, king, in his stead. ²⁵Now, the rest of the story of Amon, what he did, is, it, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? ²⁶And he was buried in his grave, in the garden of Uzza,—and, Josiah his son, reigned, in his stead.

22 Eight years old, was Josiah when he began to reign, and, thirty-one years, reigned he in Jerusalem,—and, this mother's name, was Jedidah daughter of Adaiah, of Bozkath. ²And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh,—and walked in all the way of David his father, and turned not aside, to the right hand or to the left. ³And it came to pass, in the eighteenth year of King Josiah, that the king sent Shaphan son of Azaliah son of Meshullam, the scribe, to the house of Yahweh, saying—⁴Go up unto Hilkiah, the high priest, that he pour out the silver that hath been brought into the house of Yahweh,—which the keepers of the entrance-hall have gathered from the people, ⁵that they may give it into the hand of the doers of the work, who have oversight of the house of Yahweh, that they may give it to the doers of the work, who are in the house of Yahweh, to repair the breaches of the house; ⁶to the carpenters, and to the builders, and to the masons,—and to buy timber, and hewn stones, for repairing the house. ⁷Howbeit there used to be no reckoning made with them, as to the silver that was given into their hand,—because, with faithfulness, were they dealing. ⁸Then said Hilkiah the high priest, unto Shaphan the scribe—The book of the law, have I found, in the house of Yahweh. So Hilkiah delivered the book unto Shaphan, and he read it. ⁹Then came Shaphan the scribe unto the king, and brought the king word again,—and said—Thy servants have poured out the silver that was found in the house, and have delivered it unto the hand of the doers of the work, who have oversight of the house of Yahweh. ¹⁰Then Shaphan the scribe told the king, saying—A book, hath Hilkiah the priest delivered unto me. And Shaphan read it before the king. ¹¹And it came to pass, when the king heard the words of the book of the law, that he rent his clothes. ¹²And the king commanded Hilkiah the priest, and Ahikam son of Shaphan, and Achbor son of Micaiah, and Shaphan the scribe, and Asaiah the king's servant, saying: ¹³Go ye—enquire of Yahweh, for me and for the people, and for all Judah, concerning the words of this book which hath been found,—for, great, is the wrath of Yahweh, in that it hath fired up against us, because our fathers have not hearkened unto the words of this book, to do according to all which is written concerning us. ¹⁴So Hilkiah the priest, and Ahikam, and Achbor, and Shaphan, and Asaiah, went unto Huldah the prophetess, wife of Shallum son of Tikvah, son of Harhas keeper of the vestments, she having her dwelling in Jerusalem, in the new city,—and they spake unto her. ¹⁵And she said unto them, Thus, saith Yahweh, God of Israel, Say ye unto the man who hath sent you unto me: ¹⁶Thus, saith Yahweh, Behold me! about to bring calamity upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof,—all the words of the book, which, the king of Judah, hath read: ¹⁷Because they have forsaken me, and burned incense unto other gods, that they might provoke me to anger, with all the workmanship of their hands; and so my wrath shall fire up against this place, and shall not be quenched: ¹⁸But, unto the king of Judah, who hath sent you to enquire of Yahweh, thus, shall ye say unto him,—Thus, saith Yahweh, God of Israel, As touching the words which thou hast heard: ¹⁹Because, tender, was thy heart, and thou didst humble thyself before Yahweh when thou heardest what I had spoken against this place and against the inhabitants thereof—that they should become a desolation and a curse, and didst rend thy clothes, and weep before me, therefore also, I, have hearkened—declareth Yahweh. ²⁰For this cause, behold me! about to gather thee unto thy fathers, and thou shalt be gathered unto thy graves, in peace, and so thine eyes shall not look upon all the misfortune which I am about to bring upon this place. And they brought the king word again.

23Then the king sent,—and there were gathered unto him, all the elders of Judah, and Jerusalem; ²and the king went up to the house of Yahweh, and all the men of Judah and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem with him, and the priests, and the prophets, and all the people, both small and great,—and he read in their ears, all the words of the book of the covenant, which had been found in the house of Yahweh. ³And the king took his stand by the pillar, and solemnised a covenant before Yahweh—to follow Yahweh, and to keep his commandments and his testimonies and his statutes, with all their heart and with all their soul, to confirm the words of this covenant, written in this book. And all the people took their stand in the covenant. ⁴Then the king commanded Hilkiah the high priest, and the priests of the second order, and the keepers of the entrance-hall, to bring forth, out of the temple of Yahweh, all the vessels that had been made for Baal and for the Sacred Stem, and for all the army of the heavens,—and he burned them up outside Jerusalem, in the fields of Kidron, and carried the ashes of them to Bethel; ⁵and he put down the idol-priests, whom the kings of Judah had appointed, so that incense might be burned in the high places, in the cities of Judah, and round about Jerusalem,—them also that burned incense to Baal, to the sun, and to the moon, and to the constellations, and to all the army of the heavens; ⁶and he brought forth the Sacred Stem out of the house of Yahweh, outside Jerusalem, into the Kidron ravine, and burned it in the Kidron ravine, and crushed it to powder,—and cast the powder upon the graves of the sons of the people; ⁷and he brake down the houses of the male devotees, which were in the house of Yahweh,—where the women did weave houses to the Sacred Stem; ⁸and he brought in all the priests out of the cities of Judah, and defiled the high places where, the priests, had burned incense, from Geba unto Beer-sheba,—and brake down the high places of the gates, that were at the entrance of the gate of Joshua, the governor of the city, which were on one's left hand, in the gate of the city; ⁹howbeit, the priests of the high places came not up unto the altar of Yahweh, in Jerusalem, save only that they did eat unleavened bread in the midst of their brethren; ¹⁰and he defiled Topheth, which was in the valley of the son of Hinnom,—so that no man might cause his son or his daughter to pass through the fire unto Molech; ¹¹and he did away with the horses, which the kings of Judah had devoted to the sun, at the entrance of the house of Yahweh, near the chamber of Nathan-melech the courtier, which was in the suburbs, also, the chariots of the sun, burned he with fire; ¹²and, the altars which were on the roof of the upper chamber of Ahaz, which the kings of Judah had made, also the altars which Manasseh had made, in the two courts of the house of Yahweh, did the king break down,—and hurried away from thence, and cast out the powder of them into the Kidron ravine; ¹³and, the high places that were before Jerusalem, which were on the right hand of the mount of destruction, which Solomon king of Israel had built unto Ashtoreth—the abomination of the Zidonians, and unto Chemosh—the abomination of the Moabites, and unto Milcom—the disgusting thing of the sons of Ammon, did the king defile; ¹⁴and he brake in pieces the pillars, and cut down the Sacred Stems,—and filled their place with human bones: ¹⁵moreover also, the altar that was in Bethel, the high place which Jeroboam son of Nebat made, wherewith he caused, Israel, to sin,—even that altar, and the high place, brake he down,—and burned the high place, crushing it to powder, and burned a Sacred Stem. ¹⁶And, when Josiah turned, and saw the graves which were there, in the mount, he sent and took the bones out of the graves, and burned upon the altar, and defiled it,—according to the word of Yahweh, which the man of God proclaimed, who proclaimed these things. ¹⁷Then said he—What is yonder erection, which I do see? And the men of the city said unto him—The grave of the man of God, who came in out of Judah, and proclaimed these things, which thou hast done, concerning the altar of Bethel. ¹⁸And he said—Let him rest, let, no man, disturb his bones. So they let his bones rest, with the bones of the prophet who came in out of Samaria. ¹⁹Moreover also, all the houses of the high places which were in the cities of Samaria, which the kings of Israel had made, so as to provoke Yahweh to anger, did Josiah remove,—and he did to them according to all the doings which he had done in Bethel; ²⁰and he sacrificed all the priests of the high places, who were there, by the altars, and burned human bones thereupon,—and returned to Jerusalem. ²¹Then did the king command all the people, saying, Keep ye a passover unto Yahweh, your God,—such as is written in this book of the covenant. ²²Surely there had not been held such a passover as this, from the days of the Judges who judged Israel,—nor all the days of the kings of Israel, and the kings of Judah; ²³save only, in the eighteenth year of King Josiah, when this passover was held unto Yahweh, in Jerusalem. ²⁴Moreover also, them who had familiar spirits, and the wizards, and the household gods, and the manufactured gods, and the abominations which were to be seen in the land of Judah, and in Jerusalem, did Josiah consume,—that he might confirm the words of the law which were written in the book that Hilkiah the priest had found in the house of Yahweh. ²⁵And, like him, was no king, before him, who turned unto Yahweh with all his heart, and with all his soul, and with all his might, according to all the law of Moses,—neither, after him, arose one, like him. ²⁶Howbeit, Yahweh turned not away from the glow of his great anger, wherewith his anger glowed against Judah—because of all the provocations wherewith, Manasseh, had provoked him. ²⁷So Yahweh said: Even Judah, will I remove from my presence, as I have removed Israel,—and will reject this city, which I had chosen, even Jerusalem, and the house as to which I had said, My Name, shall be, there. ²⁸Now, the rest of the story of Josiah, and all that he did, are, they, not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? ²⁹In his days, came up Pharaoh-necoh king of Egypt, against the king of Assyria, unto the river Euphrates,—and, when King Josiah went against him, he slew him at Megiddo, as soon as he saw him. ³⁰And his servants conveyed him in a chariot, dead, from Megiddo, and brought him to Jerusalem, and buried him in his own sepulchre,—and the people of the land took Jehoahaz, son of Josiah, and anointed him, and made, him, king, in his father's stead. ³¹Twenty-three years old, was Jehoahaz when he began to reign, and, three months, reigned he in Jerusalem,—and, his mother's name, was Hamutal daughter of Jeremiah, of Libnah. ³²And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, according to all that his, fathers, had done. ³³And Pharaoh-necoh put him in bonds at Riblah, in the hind of Hamath, that he might not reign in Jerusalem,—and he laid a fine upon the land, a hundred talents of silver, and a talent of gold. ³⁴And Pharaoh-necoh made Eliakim son of Josiah king, instead of Josiah his father, and turned his name to Jehoiakim,—and, Jehoahaz, took he away, so he entered Egypt, and died there. ³⁵And, the silver and the gold, did Jehoiakim give unto Pharaoh, howbeit he assessed the land, that he might give the silver at the bidding of Pharaoh,—every man, according to his assessment, exacted the silver and the gold of the people of the land, that he might give it to Pharaoh-necoh. ³⁶Twenty-five years old, was Jehoiakim when he began to reign, and, eleven years, reigned he in Jerusalem,—and, his mother's name, was Zebudah daughter of Pedaiah, of Rumah. ³⁷And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to all that, his fathers, had done.

²⁴In his days, came up Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon,—and Jehoiakim became his servant three years, then turned he and rebelled against him. ²And Yahweh sent against him troops of Chaldeans, and troops of Syrians, and troops of Moabites, and troops of the sons of Ammon, yea he sent them against Judah, to destroy him,—according to the word of Yahweh, which he spake through his servants the prophets. ³Surely, it was, because of the anger of Yahweh, that this came upon Judah, to remove them from his presence,—for the sins of Manasseh, according to all that he had done: ⁴moreover also, for the innocent blood that he had shed, so that he had filled Jerusalem with innocent blood,—which Yahweh was not willing to pardon. ⁵Now, the rest of the story of Jehoiakim, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? ⁶So Jehoiakim slept with his fathers,—and, Jehoiachin his son, reigned, in his stead. ⁷And the king of Egypt came no more again out of his land,—for the king of Babylon had taken—from the ravine of Egypt, unto the river Euphrates, all that had belonged to the king of Egypt. ⁸Eighteen years old, was Jehoiachin when he began to reign, and, three months, reigned he in Jerusalem,—and, his mother's name, was Nehushta daughter of Elnathan, of Jerusalem. ⁹And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to all that, his father, had done. ¹⁰At that time, came up the servants of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, unto Jerusalem,—and the city came into the siege. ¹¹And Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came against the city, and his servants were about to besiege it. ¹²Then came out Jehoiachin king of Judah, unto the king of Babylon, he and his mother, and his servants, and his generals, and his courtiers,—and the king of Babylon took him, in the eighth year of his reign. ¹³And he carried forth from thence, all the treasures of the house of Yahweh, and the treasures of the house of the king,—and he cut off all the fittings of gold, which Solomon king of Israel had made in the temple of Yahweh, according to all that, Yahweh, had spoken. ¹⁴And he carried away all Jerusalem, and all the generals, and all the mighty men of valour, ten thousand becoming captives, and all the artificers and the smiths,—none remained save the poorest of the people of the land. ¹⁵And he carried away captive Jehoiachin, to Babylon,—and, the king's mother, and the king's wives, and his courtiers, and the nobles of the land, took he away captive, from Jerusalem to Babylon. ¹⁶And, all the men of might—seven thousand, and artificers and smiths—a thousand, all who were valiant and ready to make war, the king of Babylon brought them captive to Babylon. ¹⁷And the king of Babylon made Mattaniah, his relative, king in his stead,—and changed his name to Zedekiah. ¹⁸Twenty-one years old, was Zedekiah when he began to reign, and, eleven years, reigned he in Jerusalem,—and, his mother's name, was Hamutal, daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah. ¹⁹And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to all that, Jehoiakim, had done. ²⁰For, it was because the anger of Yahweh had come against Jerusalem, and against Judah, until he had cast them out from his presence, that Zedekiah rebelled, against the king of Babylon.

25And it came to pass, in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month, that Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came—he and all his force, against Jerusalem, and encamped against it,—and they built against it a siege wall, round about. ²And the city came into the siege,—until the eleventh year of King Zedekiah. ³On the ninth of the month, when the famine had become severe in the city,—and there had come to be no bread for the people of the land, ⁴then was the city broken up, and all the men of war fled by night by way of the gate between the two walls, which is by the garden of the king, the Chaldeans being near the city round about,—and he went the way of the Waste Plain; ⁵and the force of the Chaldeans, pursued, the king, and overtook him in the Waste Plains of Jericho,—and, all his force, was scattered from him. ⁶So they seized the king, and brought him up unto the king of Babylon, at Riblah,—and they pronounced upon him sentence of judgment. ⁷And, the sons of Zedekiah, they slew before his eyes,—and, the eyes of Zedekiah, put they out, and then bound him with fetters of bronze, and brought him into Babylon. ⁸And, in the fifth month, on the seventh of the month, the same, was the nineteenth year of King Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, came Nebuzaradan, chief of the royal executioners, servant of the king of Babylon, to Jerusalem; ⁹and burned the house of Yahweh, and the house of the king,—yea, all the houses of Jerusalem, even every great man's house, burned he with fire. ¹⁰And, the walls of Jerusalem round about, did all the force of the Chaldeans who were with the chief of the royal executioners, break down. ¹¹And, the residue of the people who were left in the city, and the disheartened who fell away unto the king of Babylon, and the residue of the multitude, did Nebuzaradan, chief of the royal executioners, carry away captive. ¹²But, of the poorest of the land, did the chief of the royal executioners, leave, for vine-dressers and for husbandmen. ¹³And, the pillars of bronze that were in the house of Yahweh, and the stands, and the sea of bronze which was in the house of Yahweh, the Chaldeans brake in pieces, and they carried away the bronze of them to Babylon; ¹⁴and, the caldrons, and the shovels, and the snuffers, and the spoons, even all the utensils of bronze wherewith ministration used to be made, did they take away; ¹⁵and, the sprinkling pans and the dashing bowls which were of gold, in gold, and which were of silver, in silver, did, the chief of the royal executions, take away. ¹⁶As for the two pillars the one sea and the stands which Solomon made for the house of Yahweh, without weight, was the bronze of all these things. ¹⁷Eighteen cubits, was the height of each pillar, and, the capital thereupon was of bronze, and, the height of the capital, was three cubits, and, the lattice-work and pomegranates upon the capital round about, the whole, was of bronze; and, like these, had the second pillar, upon the lattice-work. ¹⁸And the chief of the royal executioners took Seraiah the head priest, and Zephaniah the second priest,—and the three keepers of the entrance hall; ¹⁹and, out of the city, took he one courtier who himself was set over the men of war, and five men of them who were wont to see the face of the king, who were found in the city, and the scribe—general of the army, who used to muster the people of the land,—and sixty men of the people of the land, who were found in the city; ²⁰and Nebuzaradan, chief of the royal executioners, took them,— and brought them unto the king of Babylon, at Riblah;²¹ and the king of Babylon smote them and slew them in Riblah, in the land of Hamath,—and thus Judah disappeared from off their own soil. ²²But, as for the people who were left in the land of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon left remaining, he set over them Gedaliah, son of Ahikam son of Shaphan. ²³And, when all the generals of the forces, they and the men, heard that the king of Babylon had given oversight unto Gedaliah, then came they in unto Gedaliah, at Mizpah,—even Ishmael son of Nethaniah, and Johanan son of Kareah, and Seraiah son of Tanhumeth the Netophathite, and Jaazaniah son of a Maacathite, they and their men. ²⁴And Gedaliah sware unto them, and to their men, and said to them, Do not fear because of the servants of the Chaldeans,—dwell in the land, and serve the king of Babylon, and it shall be well with you. ²⁵And it came to pass, in the seventh month, that Ishmael son of Nethaniah a son of Elishama, of the seed royal, came, and ten men with him, and smote Gedaliah, that he died,—and the Jews and the Chaldeans who were with him at Mizpah. ²⁶Then arose all the people, both small and great, and the generals of the forces, and came into Egypt,—for they were afraid of the Chaldeans. ²⁷And it came to pass, in the thirty-seventh year of the captivity of Jehoiachin king of Judah, in the twelfth month, on the twenty-seventh day of the month,—that Evil-merodach king of Babylon, in the year that he began to reign, did lift up the head of Jehoiachin king of Judah, out of prison; ²⁸and he spake with him kind words,—and set his throne above the throne of the kings who were with him in Babylon; ²⁹and changed his prison garments,—and he did eat bread continually before him, all the days of his life. ³⁰And, as his allowance, a continual portion, was given him, from the king, the provision of a day upon its own day,—all the days of his life.

I Chronicles

¹Adam, Seth, Enosh: ²Kenan, Mahalalel, Jared: ³Enoch, Methuselah, Lamech: ⁴Noah, Shem, Ham, and Japheth. ⁵The sons of Japheth, Gomer, and Magog, and Madai, and Javan, and Tubal, and Meshech and Tiras. ⁶And, the sons of Gomer, Ashkenaz, and Diphath, and Togarmah. ⁷And, the sons of Javan, Elishah, and Tarshish,—Kittim, and Rodanim. ⁸The sons of Ham, Cush, and Mizraim, Put, and Canaan. ⁹And, the sons of Cush, Seba, and Havilah, and Sabta, and Raama, and Sabteca. And, the sons of Raamah, Sheba, and Dedan. ¹⁰And, Cush, begat Nimrod,—he, began to be a mighty one in the earth. ¹¹And, Mizraim, begat Ludim, and Anamim, and Lehabim, and Naphtuhim, ¹²and Pathrusim, and Casluhim—whence went forth the Philistines, and Caphtorim. ¹³And, Canaan, begat Zidon his firstborn, and Heth; ¹⁴and the Jebusite, and the Amorite, and the Girgashite; ¹⁵and the Hivite, and the Arkite, and the Sinite; ¹⁶and the Arvadite, and the Zemarite, and the Hamathite. ¹⁷The sons of Shem, Elam, and Asshur, and Arpachshad, and Lud, and Aram,—and Uz, and Hul, and Gethur, and Meshech. ¹⁸And, Arpachshad, begat Shelah,—and, Shelah, begat Eber. ¹⁹And, unto Eber, were born two sons,—the name of the one, was Peleg, for, in his days, was the earth divided, and, the name of his brother, was Joktan. ²⁰And, Joktan, begat Almodad, and Sheleph,—and Hazarmaveth, and Jerah; ²¹and Hadoram, and Uzal, and Diklah; ²²and Ebal, and Abimael, and Sheba; ²³and Ophir, and Havilah, and Jobab. All these, were the sons of Joktan. ²⁴Shem, Arpachshad, Shelah; ²⁵Eber, Peleg, Reu; ²⁶Serug, Nahor, Terah; ²⁷Abram—the same, is Abraham. ²⁸The sons of Abraham, Isaac and Ishmael. ²⁹These, are their generations,—the firstborn of Ishmael, Nebaioth, then Kedar, and Adbeel, and Mibsam; ³⁰Mishma, and Dumah, Massa, Hadad, and Tema; ³¹Jetur, Naphish, and Kedemah. These, are the sons of Ishmael. ³²And, the sons of Keturah, the concubine of Abraham, she bare Zimran, and Jokshan, and Medan, and Midian, and Ishbak, and Shuah,—and, the sons of Jokshan, Sheba, and Dedan; ³³and, the sons of Midian, Ephah, and Ephraim, and Hanoth, and Abida, and Eldaah. The same, are the Kenites who came in from Hammath, father of the house of Rechab.

3Now, these, were the sons of David, who were born to him in Hebron,—the firstborn, Amnon, by Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, the second, Daniel, by Abigail the Carmelitess; ²the third, Absalom, son of Maacah, daughter of Talmai, king of Geshur,—the fourth, Adonijah, son of Haggith; ³the fifth, Shephatiah, by Abital,—the sixth, Ithream, by Eglah his wife: ⁴six born to him in Hebron, and he reigned there, seven years and six months. And, thirty and three years, reigned he, in Jerusalem. ⁵And, these, were born to him in Jerusalem, Shimea, and Shobab, and Nathan, and Solomon—four, by Bathshua, daughter of Ammiel; ⁶and Ibhar, and Elishama, and Eliphelet, ⁷and Nogah, and Nepheg, and Japhia, ⁸and Elishama, and Eliada, and Eliphelet—nine. ⁹All, sons of David,—besides sons of concubines, and, Tamar, their sister. ¹⁰And, the son of Solomon, was Rehoboam,—Abijah his son, Asa his son, Jehoshaphat his son; ¹¹Joram his son, Ahaziah his son, Joash his son; ¹²Amaziah his son, Azariah his son, Jotham his son; ¹³Ahaz his son, Hezekiah his son, Manasseh his son; ¹⁴Amon his son, Josiah his son. ¹⁵And, the sons of Josiah, the firstborn, Johanan, the second, Jehoiakim,—the third, Zedekiah, the fourth, Shallum. ¹⁶And, the sons of Jehoiakim,—Jeconiah his son, Zedekiah his son. ¹⁷And, the sons of Jeconiah the captive, Shealtiel his son; ¹⁸and Malchiram, and Pedaiiah, and Shenazzar,—Jekamiah, Hoshama, and Nedabiah. ¹⁹And, the sons of Pedaiiah, Zerubbabel, and Shimei,—and, the sons of Zerubbabel, Meshullam, and Hananiah, and, Shelomith, was their sister; ²⁰and Hashubah, and Ohel, and Berechiah, and Hasadiah, Jushab-hesed—five. ²¹And, the sons of Hananiah, Pelatiah, and Jeshaiiah,—the sons of Rephaiah, the sons of Arnan, the sons of Obadiah, the sons of Shecaniah; ²²and, the sons of Shecaniah, Shemaiah,—and, the sons of Shemaiah, Hattush, and Igal, and Bariah, and Neariah, and Shaphat—six; ²³and, the son of Neariah, Elioenai, and Hizkiah, and Azrikam—three; ²⁴and, the sons of Elioenai, Hodaviah, and Eliashib, and Pelaiah, and Akkub, and Johanan, and Delaiah, and Anani—seven.

⁴the sons of Judah, Perez, Hezron, and Carmi, and Hur, and Shobal. ²And, Reaiah son of Shobal, begat Jahath, and, Jahath, begat Ahumai, and Lahad. These, are the families of the Zorathites. ³And, these, were the sons of Etam, Jezreel and Ishma, and Idbash,—and, the name of their sister, was Hazzeleponi; ⁴and Penuel the father of Gedor, and Ezer, the father of Hushah. These, are the sons of Hur, the firstborn of Ephrathah, the father of Bethlehem. ⁵And, Ashhur the father of Tekoa, had two wives,—Helah, and Naarah. ⁶And Naarah bare him Ahuz-zam and Hephher, and Temeni, and Haahashtari. These, were the sons of Naarah. ⁷And, the sons of Helah, were Zereth, Izhar, and Ethnan. ⁸And, Koz, begat Anub, and Zobebah,—and the families of Aharhel, the son of Harum. ⁹Now it came to pass that Jabez was more honourable than his brethren,—but, his mother, had called his name Jabez, saying, Because I bare him with pain. ¹⁰So then Jabez called on the God of Israel, saying, Oh that thou wouldst, indeed bless, me, and enlarge my boundary, and that thy hand might be with me,—and that thou wouldst work to deliver me from evil, that it be not my pain. And God brought about that which he asked. ¹¹And, Chelub the brother of Shuhah, begat Mehir, the same, was the father of Eshton. ¹²And, Eshton, begat Beth-rapha, and Paseah, and Tehinnah, the father of Ir-nahash. These, are the men of Recah. ¹³And, the sons of Kenaz, were Othniel, and Seraiah,—and, the sons of Othniel, Hathath. ¹⁴And, Meonothai, begat Ophrah,—and, Seraiah, begat Joab, the father of Ge-harashim, for they were, craftsmen. ¹⁵And, the sons of Caleb son of Jephunneh, were Iru, Elah, and Naam,—and the sons of Elah and Kenaz. ¹⁶And, the sons of Jehallelel, Ziph and Ziphah, Tiria, and Asarel. ¹⁷And, the sons of Ezrah, Jether and Mered, and Ephher and Jalon. And, these, are the sons of Bithia, daughter of Pharaoh, whom Mered took,—and she conceived and bare Miriam and Shammai, and Ishbah, the father of Eshtemoa. ¹⁸And, his wife, the Jewess, bare Jered the father of Gedor, and Heber the father of Soco, and Jekuthiel, the father of Zanoah. ¹⁹And, the sons of the wife of Hodiah, the sister of Naham, were the father of Keilah, the Garmite,—and Eshtemoa, the Maacathite. ²⁰And, the sons of Shimon, Amnon, and Rinnah, Ben-hanan and Tilon. And, the sons of

Ishi, Zoheth, and Ben-zoheth. ²¹the sons of Shelah, the son of Judah, Er, the father of Lecah, and Laadah, the father of Mareshah,—and the families of the house of them that wrought fine linen, of the house of Ashbea; ²²and Jokim, and the men of Cozeba, and Joash, and Saraph who ruled for Moab, and Jashubi-lehem,—but, the records, are ancient. ²³They, were the potters and the inhabitants of Netaim, and Gederah,—with the king in his work, dwelt they there. ²⁴The sons of Simeon, Nemuel, and Jamin, Jarib, Zerah, Shaul: ²⁵Shallum his son, Mibsam his son, Mishma his son. ²⁶And, the sons of Mishma, Hammuel his son, Zaccur his son, Shimei his son. ²⁷And, Shimei, had sixteen sons, and six daughters, but, his brethren, had not many children,—nor did, any of their family, multiply so much as the sons of Judah. ²⁸And they dwelt in Beer-sheba, and Moladah, and Hazar-shual; ²⁹and in Bilhah, and in Ezem, and in Tolad; ³⁰and in Bethuel, and in Hormah, and in Ziklag; ³¹and in Beth-marcaboth, and in Hazar-susim, and in Beth-biri, and in Shaaraim. These, were their cities unto the reign of David. ³²And, their villages, were Etam, and Ain, Rimmon, and Tochen, and Ashan,—five cities; ³³and all their villages that were round about these cities, as far as Baal. These, were their habitations, and they had their own genealogical register. ³⁴And Meshobab, and Jamlech, and Joshah, the son of Amaziah; ³⁵and Joel,—and Jehu, the son of Joshibiah, the son of Seraiah, the son of Asiel: ³⁶and Elioenai, and Jaakobah, and Jeshohaiah, and Asaiah, and Adiel, and Jesimiel, and Benaiah: ³⁷and Ziza, son of Shiphi, son of Allon, son of Jedaiah, son of Shimri, son of Shemaiah. ³⁸These, introduced by their names, were leading men in their families. And, their ancestral house, brake forth exceedingly; ³⁹so they went to the entering in of Gerar, unto the east of the valley,—to seek pasture for their flocks; ⁴⁰and they found pasture, fat and good, and, the land, was broad on both hands, and quiet, and secure,—for, of Ham, were the dwellers there aforetime. ⁴¹But these written by name came in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah, and smote their tents, and the Meunim who were found there, and devoted them, until this day, and dwelt in their stead,—for there was pasture for their flocks, there. ⁴²And, some of them, of the sons of Simeon, went to Mount Seir, five hundred men,—with Pelatiah, and Neariah, and Rephaiah, and Uzziel, sons of Ishi, at their head; ⁴³and they smote the remainder that had escaped, of the Amalekites,—and dwelt there— as they have unto this day.

⁵And the sons of Reuben the firstborn of Israel, for, he, was the firstborn, but because he defiled the couch of his father, his birthright was given to the sons of Joseph son of Israel,—and he is not to be enrolled in the place of firstborn, ²for, Judah, prevailed over his brethren, so that, even the prince, is from him,—although, the birthright, pertaineth to Joseph; ³the sons of Reuben the firstborn of

Israel, Hanoch and Pallu, Hezron and Carmi. ⁴The sons of Joel, Shemaiah his son, Gog his son, Shimei his son; ⁵Micah his son, Reaiah his son, Baal his son; ⁶Beerah his son, whom Tilgath-pilneser king of Assyria carried away captive,—he, was a leader to the Reubenites; ⁷and his brethren, by his families, in the genealogical registering, by their generations,—the chief Jeiel, and Zechariah; ⁸and Bela, the son of Azaz, the son of Shema, the son of Joel,—he, dwelt in Aroer, even as far as Nebo, and Baal-meon; ⁹and, eastward, dwelt he as far as the entering in of the desert, from the river Euphrates,—because, their cattle, were multiplied in the land of Gilead; ¹⁰and, in the days of Saul, they made war with the Hagrites, who fell by their hand,—so they dwelt in their tents, over all the face of the land east of Gilead. ¹¹And, the sons of Gad, over against them, dwelt, in the land of Bashan, as far as Salecah: ¹²Joel the chief, and Shapham, the second,—and Janai and Shaphat, in Bashan; ¹³and their brethren of their ancestral house, Michael and Meshullam and Sheba and Jorai and Jacan and Zia and Eber, seven. ¹⁴These, were the sons of Abihail, son of Huri, son of Jaroah, son of Gilead, son of Michael, son of Jehishai, son of Jahdo, son of Buz, ¹⁵Ahi son of Abdiel, son of Guni, chief of their ancestral house; ¹⁶and they dwelt in Gilead—in Bashan, and in her villages,—and in all the pasture-lands of Sharon, up to their outgoings. ¹⁷All of them, were genealogically registered in the days of Jotham king of Judah,—and in the days of Jeroboam king of Israel. ¹⁸the sons of Reuben and Gad, and half tribe of Manasseh, of the sons of valour, men bearing shield and sword and bending the bow, and instructed in war, were forty-four thousand and seven hundred and sixty, ready to go forth in the host. ¹⁹So they made war with the Hagrites,—and Jetur and Naphish, and Nodab; ²⁰and were helped against them, and the Hagrites and all that were with them were delivered into their hand,—for, unto God, made they outcry, in the war, and he suffered himself to be entreated by them, because they put their trust in him; ²¹and they captured their cattle—their camels, fifty thousand, and, flocks, two hundred and fifty thousand, and, asses, two thousand,—and, persons of men, a hundred thousand; ²²for, many slain, fell, for, of God, was the war,—and they dwelt in their stead, until the captivity. ²³And, the sons of the half tribe of Manasseh, dwelt in the land,—from Bashan, as far as to Baal-hermon and Senir and Mount Hermon, they, were multiplied. ²⁴And, these, were the heads of their ancestral house,—Epher and Ishi and Eliel and Azriel and Jeremiah and Hodaviah and Jahdiel, men who were heroes of valour, men of renown, chiefs to their ancestral house. ²⁵But they dealt unfaithfully with the God of their fathers,—and went unchastely after the gods of the peoples of the land, whom God destroyed from before them; ²⁶so the God of Israel stirred up the spirit of Pul king of Assyria, and the spirit of Tilgath-pilneser king of Assyria, and he took them away captive, even the Reubenites and the Gadites and the half tribe of Manasseh,—and brought them in unto Halah, and Habor, and Hara, and to the river of Gozan, unto this day.

6The sons of Levi, Gershon, Kohath, and Merari. ²And, the sons of Kohath, Amram, Izhar, and Hebron, and Uzziel. ³And, the children of Amram, Aaron, and Moses, and Miriam,—and, the sons of Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. ⁴Eleazar, begat Phinehas, Phinehas, begat Abishua; ⁵and, Abishua, begat Bukki, and, Bukki, begat Uzzi; ⁶and, Uzzi, begat Zerariah, and, Zerariah, begat Meraioth; ⁷Meraioth, begat Amariah, and, Amariah, begat Ahitub; ⁸and, Ahitub, begat Zadok, and, Zadok, begat Ahimaaz; ⁹and, Ahimaaz, begat Azariah, and, Azariah, begat Johanan, ¹⁰and, Johanan, begat Azariah,—he, it was who ministered as priest, in the house which Solomon built in Jerusalem; ¹¹and Azariah begat Amariah,—and, Amariah, begat Ahitub; ¹²and, Ahitub, begat Zadok, and, Zadok, begat Shallum; ¹³and, Shallum, begat Hilkiah, and Hilkiah, begat Azariah; ¹⁴and, Azariah, begat Seraiah, and, Seraiah, begat Jehozadak; ¹⁵and, Jehozadak, departed, when Yahweh carried away Judah and Jerusalem into captivity,—by the hand of Nebuchadnezzar. ¹⁶The sons of Levi, Gershon, Kohath, and Merari. ¹⁷And, these, are the names of the sons of Gershon, Libni and Shimei. ¹⁸And, the sons of Kohath, were Amram, and Izhar, and Hebron, and Uzziel. ¹⁹The sons of Merari, Mahli and Mushi. And, these, are the families of Levi by their fathers: ²⁰To Gershon, pertained Libni his son, Jahath his son, Zimmah his son, ²¹Joah his son, Iddo his son, Zerah his son, Jeatherai his son. ²²The sons of Kohath, Amminadab his son, Korah his son, Assir his son; ²³Elkanah his son, and Ebiasaph his son, and Assir his son; ²⁴Tahath his son, Uriel his son, Uziah his son, and Shaul his son. ²⁵And, the sons of Elkanah, Amasai, and Ahimoth. ²⁶As for Elkanah, the sons of Elkanah, Zophai his son, and Nahath his son; ²⁷Eliab his son, Jeroham his son, Elkanah his son. ²⁸And, the sons of Samuel, the firstborn, Joel, and, the second, Abiah. ²⁹the sons of Merari, Mahli,—Libni his son, Shimei his son, Uzah his son; ³⁰Shimea his son, Haggiah his son, Asaiah his son. ³¹And, these, are they whom David caused to stand, as the servants of song, in the house of Yahweh, when he had given rest unto the ark; ³²so they became attendants before the habitation of the tent of meeting, with song, until Solomon built the house of Yahweh, in Jerusalem,—and they took their stand according to their prescribed manner over their work. ³³Yea, these, are they who stood, with their sons. Of the sons of the Kohathites, Heman the singer, son of Joel, son of Samuel, ³⁴son of Elkanah, son of Jeroham, son of Eliel, son of Toah,—³⁵son of Zuph, son of Elkanah, son of Mahath, son of Amasai:—³⁶son of Elkanah, son of Joel, son of Azariah, son of Zephaniah,—³⁷son of Tahath, son of Assir, son of Ebiasaph, son of Korah;—³⁸son of Izhar, son of Kohath, son of Levi, son of Israel.

³⁹And, his brother Asaph who stood on his right hand, Asaph son of Berechiah, son of Shimea,—⁴⁰son of Michael, son of Baaseiah, son of Malchijah,—⁴¹son of Ethni, son of Zerah, son of Adaiah;—⁴²son of Ethan, son of Zimmah, son of Shimei,—⁴³son of Jahath, son of Gershom, son of Levi. ⁴⁴And, the sons of Merari, their brethren, on the left hand, Ethan son of Kishi, son of Abdi, son of Malluch;—⁴⁵son of Hashabiah, son of Amaziah, son of Hilkiah,—⁴⁶son of Amzi, son of Bani, son o Shemer;—⁴⁷son of Mahli, son of Mushi, son of Merari, son of Levi. ⁴⁸Howbeit, their brethren, the Levites, were given, for all the work of the habitation, of the house of God. ⁴⁹But, Aaron and his sons, were to make perfume upon the altar of ascending-sacrifice, and upon the altar of incense, according to all the service of the holy of holies,—even for putting a propitiatory-covering over Israel, according go all that, Moses, the servant of God, commanded. ⁵⁰And, these, are the sons of Aaron,—Eleazar his son, Phinehas his son, Abishua his son,—⁵¹Bukki his son, Uzzi his son, Zerahiah his son,—⁵²Meraioth his son, Amariah his son, Ahitub his son,—⁵³Zadok his son, Ahimaaz his son. ⁵⁴And, these, are their dwelling-places, according to their encampments, in their boundary,—pertaining to the sons of Aaron, of the families of the Kohathites, for, theirs, was the lot: ⁵⁵so they gave them Hebron, in the land of Judah, and the pasture lands thereof, round about it; ⁵⁶but, the field-land of the city, and the villages thereof, gave they to Caleb son of Jephunneh. ⁵⁷And, to the sons of Aaron, gave they, the cities of refuge—Hebron, and Libnah, with her pasture lands,—and Jattir and Eshtemoa, with her pasture lands; ⁵⁸and Hilen with her pasture lands, Debir, with her pasture lands; ⁵⁹and Ashan, with her pasture lands, and Bethshemesh, with her pasture lands; ⁶⁰and, out of the tribe of Benjamin, Geba, with her pasture lands, and Allemeth, with her pasture lands,—and Anathoth, with her pasture lands;—all their cities, were thirteen cities, throughout their families. ⁶¹And, unto the rest of the sons of Kohath—of the families of the tribe of Ephraim and of the tribe of Dan, and of the half-tribe of Manasseh, by lot ten cities. ⁶²And, to the sons of Gershom, by their families—out of the tribe of Issachar, and out of the tribe of Asher, and of the tribe of Naphtali, and out of the tribe of Manasseh in Bashan, thirteen cities. ⁶³And, unto seas of Merari, by their families—out of the tribe of Reuben, and out of the tribe of Gad, and out of the tribe of Zebulun, by lot twelve cities. ⁶⁴So then the sons of Israel gave, to the Levites,—the cities and the pasture lands thereof; ⁶⁵yea they gave, by lot, out of the tribe of the sons of Judah, and out of the tribe of the sons of Simeon, and out of the tribe of the sons of Benjamin, these cities which are mentioned by name. ⁶⁶But, as for some of the families of the sons of Kohath, they had the cities of their lot, out of the tribe of Ephraim; ⁶⁷and they gave unto them the cities of refuge—Shechem and her pasture lands, in the hill country of Ephraim,—and Gezer, with her pasture lands; ⁶⁸and Jokmeam, with her pasture lands, and Beth-heron, with her pasture lands; ⁶⁹and Aijalon, with her pasture lands, and Gath-rimmon, with her pasture lands; ⁷⁰and, out of the half-tribe of Manasseh, Aner, with her pasture lands, and Bileam, with her pasture lands,—for the rest of the family of the sons of Kohath. ⁷¹Unto the sons of Gershom—out of the family of the half tribe of Manasseh, Golan in Bashan, with her pasture lands,—and Ashtaroth, with her pasture lands. ⁷²And, out of the tribe of Issachar, Kedesh, with her pasture lands,—Daberath, with her pasture lands; ⁷³and Ramoth, with her pasture lands, and Anem, with her pasture lands. ⁷⁴And, out of the tribe of Asher, Mashal, with her pasture lands,—and Abdon, with her pasture lands; ⁷⁵and Hukok, with her pasture lands,—and Rehob, with her pasture lands. ⁷⁶And, out of the tribe of Naphtali, Kedesh in Galilee, with her pasture lands, and Hammon, with her pasture lands,—and Kiryathaim, with her pasture lands. ⁷⁷Unto the rest of the sons of Merari—out of the tribe of Zebulun, Rimmono, with her pasture lands,—Tabor, with her pasture lands. ⁷⁸And, beyond the Jordan at Jericho, on the east of the Jordan—out of the tribe of Reuben, Bezer in the wilderness, with her pasture lands,—and Jahzah, with her pasture lands; ⁷⁹and Kedemoth, with her pasture lands, and Mephaath, with her pasture lands. ⁸⁰And, out of the tribe of Gad, Ramoth in Gilead, with her pasture lands,—and Mahanaim, with her pasture lands; ⁸¹and Heshbon, with her pasture lands, and Jazer, with her pasture lands.

⁷And, to the sons of Issachar, belonged, Tola and Push, Jashib and Shimron, four. ²And, the sons of Tola, were Uzzi and Rephaiah and Jeriel and Jahmai and Ibsam and Shemuel, chiefs of their ancestral house, pertaining to Tola, heroes of valour, in their generations,—their number, in the days of David, twenty-two thousand and six hundred. ³And, the sons of Uzzi, Izrahiah,—and, the sons of Izrahiah, Michael and Obadiah and Joel, Isshiah—five, chiefs, all of them; ⁴and, with them by their generations, pertaining to their ancestral house, were bands of a host for war, thirty-six thousand,—for they had many wives and sons; ⁵and, their brethren, of all the families of Issachar, heroes of great valour, were eighty-seven thousand, when they had, all, registered themselves. ⁶Benjamin, Bela and Becher and Jediel, three. ⁷And, the sons of Bela, Ezbon and Uzzi and Uzziel and Jerimoth and Iri, five, chiefs of the ancestral house, heroes of great valour,—who, when they had registered themselves, were twenty-two thousand and thirty-four, ⁸And, the sons of Becher, Zemirah and Joash and Eliezer and Elieonai and Omri, and Jeremoth and Abijah, and Anathoth, and Alemeth. All these, were sons of Becher. ⁹And, when they had registered themselves by their generations, the chiefs of their ancestral house, the heroes of valour, were twenty thousand and two hundred.

¹⁰And, the sons of Jediah, Bilhan,—and, the sons of Bilhan, Jeish and Benjamin and Ehud and Chenaanah, and Zethan, and Tarshish, and Ahishahah. ¹¹All these—sons of Jediah, by ancestral chiefs, heroes of great valour, were seventeen thousand and two hundred, ready to go forth as a host to war:— ¹²Shuppin also and Huppin, sons of Ir, Hushim sons of Aher. ¹³the sons of Naphtali, Jahziel and Guni, and Jezer and Shallum, sons of Bilhah. ¹⁴The sons of Manasseh, Asriel, whom, his wife bare,—his concubine, the Syrian, bare Machir the father of Gilead; ¹⁵and, Machir, took a wife pertaining to Huppin and Shuppin, and, the name of his sister, was Maacah, and, the name of the second, Zelophehad,—and, Zelophehad, had, daughters. ¹⁶So then Maacah, wife of Machir, bare a son, and called his name Peresh, and, the name of his brother, was Sheresh,—and, his sons, were Ulam and Rakem; ¹⁷and, the sons of Ulam, Bedan. These, were the sons of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh. ¹⁸And, his sister, Hammolecheth, bare Ishhod, and Abiezer, and Mahlah. ¹⁹And, the sons of Shemida, were Ahian and Shechem, and Likhi, and Aniam. ²⁰And, the sons of Ephraim, Shuthelah,—and Bered his son, and Tahath his son, and Eleadah his son, and Tahath his son; ²¹and Zabad his son and Shuthelah his son, and Ezer and Elead,—but the men of Gath who had been born in the land slew them, because they had come down to take away their cattle. ²²And Ephraim their father mourned many days,—and his brethren came to comfort him. ²³And he went in unto his wife, and she conceived, and bare a son,—and he called his name, Beriah, because, in misfortune, was she in his house. ²⁴And, his daughter, was Sheerah, who built Beth-horon the nether and the upper,—and Uzzen-sheerah. ²⁵And Rephah his son, and Resheph, and Telah his son, and Tahan his son,— ²⁶Ladan his son, Ammihud his son, Elishama his son,— ²⁷Non his son, Joshua his son. ²⁸And, their possessions, and their dwellings, were Bethel, and the villages thereof; and, eastward, Naaran, and, westward, Gezer, and the villages thereof, and Shechem, and the villages thereof,—as far as Aiyah, and the villages thereof;— ²⁹and, on the sides of the sons of Manasseh, Beth-shean and the villages thereof, Taanach and the villages thereof, Megiddo and the villages thereof, Dor and the villages thereof. In these, dwelt the sons of Joseph, son of Israel. ³⁰The sons of Asher, Imnah, and Ishvah, and Ishvi and Beriah,—and Serah their sister. ³¹And, the sons of Beriah, Heber, and Malchiel,—the same, was the father of Birzaith. ³²And, Heber, begat Japhlet, and Shomer, and Hotham,—and, Shua, their sister. ³³And, the sons of Japhlet, Pasach, and Bimhal, and Ashvath. These, were the sons of Japhlet. ³⁴And, the sons of Shemer, Ahi, and Rohgah, Jahbah, and Aram. ³⁵And, the sons of Helem, his brother, Zophah, and Imna, and Shelesh and Amal. ³⁶The sons of Zophah, Suah and Harnepher, and Shual and Beri, and Imrah,— ³⁷Bezer and Hod, and Shamma and Shilshah, and Ithran and Beera.

³⁸And, the sons of Jether, Jephunneh, and Pispah, and Ara. ³⁹And, the sons of Ulla, Arah, and Hanniel, and Riziah. ⁴⁰All these, were sons of Asher, chiefs of the ancestral house, choice men, heroes of great valour, chiefs of the leaders,—and, when they registered themselves, in host, for war, the number of the men, was twenty-six thousand.

8And, Benjamin, begat Bela his firstborn,—Ashbel, the second, and Aharah, the third,— ²Nohah, the fourth, and Rapha, the fifth. ³And Bela had sons—Addar, and Gera, and Abihud,— ⁴and Abishua, and Naaman, and Ahoah,— ⁵and Gera, and Shephuphan, and Hiram. ⁶And, these, are the sons of Ehud,—these, are the ancestral chiefs to the inhabitants of Geba, but they were carried away captive, unto Manahath; ⁷and, as for Naaman and Ahijah and Gera, the same, carried them captive,—and he begat Uzza and Ahihud. ⁸And, Shazaraim, begat children in the field of Moab, after he had sent away Hushim and Baara his wives. ⁹Then begat he, of Hodesh his wife,—Jobab, and Zibia, and Mesha, and Malcam; ¹⁰and Jeuz, and Sachia, and Mirmah,—these, were his sons, ancestral chiefs. ¹¹And, of Hushim, he begat Abitub, and Elpaal. ¹²And, the sons of Elpaal, Eber, and Misham, and Shemed,—he, built Ono, and Lod, and the villages thereof. ¹³And, as for Beriah and Shema, they, were ancestral chiefs to the inhabitants of Aijalon,—they, put to flight the inhabitants of Gath; ¹⁴and Ahio, Shashak, and Jeremoth,— ¹⁵and Zebadiah, and Arad, and Eder,— ¹⁶and Michael, and Ishpah, and Joha, sons of Beriah,— ¹⁷and Zebadiah, and Meshullam, and Hizki, and Heber,— ¹⁸and Ishmerai, and Izliah, and Jobab, sons of Elpaal,— ¹⁹and Jakim, and Zichri, and Zabdi— ²⁰and Elienai, and Zillethai, and Eliel,— ²¹and Adaiah, and Beraiah, and Shimrath, sons of Shimei,— ²²and Ishpan, and Eber, and Eliel,— ²³and Abdon, and Zichri, and Hanan,— ²⁴and Hananiah, and Elam, and Anthothijah,— ²⁵and Iphdeiah, and Penuel, sons of Shashak,— ²⁶and Shamsherai, and Shehariah, and Athaliah,— ²⁷and Jaareshiah, and Elijah, and Zichri, sons of Jeroham: ²⁸these, were ancestral chiefs to their generations, chief men,—these, dwelt in Jerusalem; ²⁹And, in Gibeon, dwelt the father of Gibeon Jeiel, the name of whose wife, was Maacah,— ³⁰and his firstborn son, Abdon, and Zur and Kish, and Baal and Ner and Nadab,— ³¹and Gedor, and Ahio, and Zecher. ³²And, Mikloth, begat Shimeah,—moreover also, they, over against their brethren, did dwell in Jerusalem, with their own brethren. ³³So then, Ner, begat Kish, and, Kish, begat Saul,—and, Saul, begat Jonathan, and Malchishua, and Abinadab, and Eshbaal. ³⁴And, the son of Jonathan, was Merib-baal,—and, Merib-baal, begat Micah. ³⁵And, the sons of Micah, were Pithon, and Melech, and Tarea, and Ahaz. ³⁶And, Ahaz, begat Jehoaddah, and, Jehoaddah, begat Alemeth, and Azmaveth, and Zimri,—and, Zimri, begat Moza; ³⁷and, Moza, begat Binea,—Raphah was his son, Eleasah his son, Azel his son.

³⁸And, Azel, had six sons, and, these, were their names—Azrikam, Bocheru, and Ishmael, and Sheariah, and Obediah, and Hanan and Asah,—all these, were sons of Azel. ³⁹And, the sons of Eshek his brother, were Ulam his firstborn, Jeush the second, and Eliphelet the third. ⁴⁰And the sons of Ulam became men that were heroes of valour, archers, with many sons, and sons' sons, a hundred and fifty. All these, were of the sons of Benjamin.

9And, all Israel, registered themselves, and lo! they are written, in the Book of the Kings of Israel, and, Judah, was carried away captive to Babylon, for their faithlessness. ²Now, the first inhabitants, who were in their possessions, in their cities, were Israel, the priests, the Levites, and the Nethinim. ³And, in Jerusalem, there dwelt, of the sons of Judah, and of the sons of Benjamin,—and of the sons of Ephraim, and Manasseh: ⁴Uthai son of Ammihud, son of Omri, son of Imri, son of Bani, of the sons of Perez, son of Judah. ⁵And, of the Shilonites, Asaiah the firstborn, and his sons. ⁶And, of the sons of Zerah, Jeuel,—and their brethren, six hundred and ninety. ⁷And, of the sons of Benjamin, Sallu, son of Meshullam, son of Hodaviah, son of Hassenuah; ⁸and Ibneiah, son of Jeroham, and Elah, son of Uzzi, son of Michri,—and Meshullam, son of Shephatiah, son of Reuel, son of Ibnijah; ⁹and their brethren, by their generations, nine hundred and fifty-six,—all these men, were ancestral chiefs, to their ancestral house. ¹⁰And, of the priests, Jedaiah, and Jehoiarib, and Jachin,—¹¹and Azariah son of Hilkiah, son of Meshullam, son of Zadok, son of Meraioth, son of Ahitub, chief ruler of the house of God; ¹²and Adaiah, son of Jeroham, son of Pashhur, son of Malchijah,—and Maasai son of Adiel, son of Jahzerah, son of Meshullam, son of Meshillemith, son of Immer; ¹³and their brethren, chief men of their ancestral house, a thousand and seven hundred and sixty,—able men, for the business of the service of the house of God. ¹⁴And, of the Levites, Shemaiah, son of Hasshub, son of Azrikam, son of Hashabiah, of the sons of Merari; ¹⁵and Bakbakkar, Heresh, and Galal,—and Mattaniah, son of Mica, son of Zichri, son of Asaph; ¹⁶and Obadiah, son of Shemaiah, son of Galal, son of Jeduthun,—and Berechiah son of Asa, son of Elkanah, who dwelt in the villages of the Netophathites. ¹⁷And, the keepers of the gates, were Shallum, and Akkub, and Talmon, and Ahiman,—and their brethren—Shallum the chief; ¹⁸and, hitherto, they were in the gate of the king, eastward,—the same, were the keepers of the gate, for the camps of the sons of Levi. ¹⁹And, Shallum, son of Kore, son of Ebiasaph, son of Korah and his brethren of his ancestral house—the Korahites, were over the business of the service, watchers at the vestibule of the tent,—and, their fathers, had been over the camp of Yahweh, watchers at the entrance. ²⁰And, Phinehas son of Eleazar, was, chief ruler, over them aforetime, Yahweh, being with him. ²¹Zechariah son of Meshelemiah, was door-keeper at the entrance of the tent of meeting. ²²All those who were chosen for door-keepers in the vestibule, were two hundred and twelve,—the same, in their villages, had registered themselves, the same, did David and Samuel the seer establish in their trust. ²³So, they and their sons, were over the gates of the house of Yahweh, of the house of the tent, by watches. ²⁴Towards the four winds, were the keepers of the gates,—eastward, westward, northward, and southward. ²⁵And, their brethren in their villages, had to come in, every seven days, from time to time, along with these. ²⁶For, in trust, were four mighty men of the keepers of the gates, the same, were Levites,—and they were over the chambers, and over the treasuries of the house of God. ²⁷And, round about the house of God, used they to lodge,—for, upon them, was the charge, and they were over the setting open, morning by morning. ²⁸And, some from among them, were over the utensils of the service,—for, by number, used they to bring them in, and, by number, used they to take them forth. ²⁹And, some from among them, were appointed over the utensils, yea over all the vessels of the holy place,—and over the fine meal, and the wine, and the oil, and the frankincense, and the spices. ³⁰And, some from among the sons of the priests, were compounders of perfumes, with the spices. ³¹And, Mattithiah, from among the Levites,—the same, was the firstborn of Shallum the Korahite—was in trust over the making of the flat cakes. ³²And, some from among the Kohathites, of their brethren, were over the Bread that was set in Array,—to place it sabbath by sabbath. ³³These, also were the singers, ancestral chiefs of the Levites, in the chambers, free,—for, by day and by night, was there a charge upon them, in the business. ³⁴These, were the ancestral chiefs, of the Levites, by their generations, chief men,—these, dwelt in Jerusalem. ³⁵And, in Gibeon, dwelt the father of Gibeon, Jeiel,—the name of whose wife, was Maacah: ³⁶and, his firstborn son, Abdon,—and Zur, and Kish, and Baal and Ner, and Nadab; ³⁷and Gedor, and Ahio, and Zechariah, and Mikloh. ³⁸And, Mikloth, begat Shimeam—and, they also, over against their brethren, did dwell in Jerusalem, along with their brethren. ³⁹And, Ner, begat Kith, and, Kish, begat Saul,—and, Saul, begat Jonathan, and Malchishua, and Abinadab, and Eshbaal; ⁴⁰and, the son of Jonathan, was Merib-baal,—and, Merib-baal, begat Micah; ⁴¹and, the sons of Micah, were Pithon, and Melech, and Tahrea and Ahaz; ⁴²and, Ahaz, begat Jarah, and, Jarah begat Alemeth, and Azmaveth, and Zimri,—and Zimri, begat Moza; ⁴³and, Moza, begat Binea,—and Raphaiah his son, Eleasah his son, Azel his son; ⁴⁴and, Azel, had six sons, and these are their names—Azrikam, his firstborn, and Ishmael, and Sheariah and Obadiah, and Hanan, and Asah. These, were the sons of Azel.

10Now, the Philistines, fought against Israel,—and the men of Israel fled from before the Philistines, and the wounded fell in Mount Gilboa. ²And the Philistines followed hard after Saul, and after his sons,—and the Philistines smote Jonathan, and Abinadab, and Malchishua, sons of Saul. ³And the battle, went sore, against Saul, and the archers discovered him with the bow,—and he was terrified because of the archers. ⁴Therefore said Saul unto his armour-bearer, Draw out thy sword and thrust me through therewith, lest these uncircumcised come and abuse me. But his armour-bearer would not, for he feared greatly,—so then Saul took the sword, and fell upon it. ⁵And, when his armour-bearer saw that Saul was dead, then, he also, fell upon the sword, and died. ⁶So Saul died, and his three sons, and, all his house, together, died. ⁷And, when all the men of Israel that were in the vale saw, that they had fled, and that Saul and his sons were dead, then forsook they their cities, and fled, and the Philistines came and dwelt in them. ⁸And it came to pass, on the morrow, when the Philistines came to strip the slain,—that they found Saul, and his sons, lying prostrate in Mount Gilboa. ⁹So they stript him, and took his head, and his armour,—and sent throughout the land of the Philistines round about, to publish it to their idols, and to the people. ¹⁰And they put his armour, in the house of their gods,—but, his skull, fastened they up, in the house of Dagon. ¹¹And, when all Jabesh-Gilead heard all that the Philistines had done to Saul, ¹²then rose up all the men of valour, and took away the corpse of Saul, and the corpses of his sons, and brought them to Jabesh,—and buried their bodies under the terebinth, in Jabesh, and fasted seven days. ¹³Thus died Saul, for his unfaithfulness wherewith he dealt unfaithfully against Yahweh, over the word of Yahweh, which he kept not,—and, also, in asking by necromancy when he desired to enquire; ¹⁴and enquired not of Yahweh, wherefore he slew him,—and turned round the kingdom unto David, son of Jesse.

11 Then did all Israel gather themselves together to David, unto Hebron, saying,—Lo! thy bone and thy flesh, are we. ²Moreover also, in time past even when Saul was king, thou, wast he that led out and brought in Israel,—and Yahweh thy God said unto thee, Thou, shalt shepherd my people Israel, Yea, thou, shalt be chief ruler, over my people Israel. ³Thus came all the elders of Israel unto the king, to Hebron, and David solemnised to them a covenant in Hebron, before Yahweh,—and they anointed David to be king over Israel, according to the word of Yahweh, through Samuel. ⁴Then went David and all Israel to Jerusalem, the same, was Jebus,—where were the Jebusites, the inhabitants of the land. ⁵And the inhabitants of Jebus said unto David, Thou shalt not come in hither,—But David captured the citadel of Zion, the same, is the city of David. ⁶And David said, Whosoever smiteth the Jebusites, first, shall become a chief, and a ruler,—

So then Joab son of Zeruiah, went up first, and became a chief. ⁷And David dwelt in the citadel,—for this cause, did they call it, The City of David. ⁸And he built the city round about, from Millo even as far as the circuit,—but, Joab, suffered the remainder of the city to live. ⁹Thus did David wax greater and yet greater,—and, Yahweh of Hosts, was with him. ¹⁰Now, these, are the chiefs of the heroes, that pertained to David, who held strongly with him in his kingdom, with all Israel, to make him king,—according to the word of Yahweh, concerning Israel. ¹¹And, this, is the number of the heroes who pertained to David,—Jashobeam son of a Hachmonite, chief of the thirty, the same, brandished his spear over three hundred—slain at one time. ¹²And, after him, was Eleazar son of Doudai, the Ahohite,—he, was among the three heroes; ¹³he, was with David in Pas-dammim, where, the Philistines, were gathered together to battle, and there was a field-plot full of barley,—and, the people, fled, from before the Philistines; ¹⁴so they took their stand in the midst of the plot and rescued it, and smote the Philistines,—and Yahweh wrought a great victory. ¹⁵And three of the thirty chiefs went down upon the rock, unto David, into the cave of Adullam,—a host of Philistines, being encamped in the vale of Rephaim. ¹⁶Now, David, then was in the stronghold,—and, a garrison of Philistines, then was in Bethlehem. ¹⁷And David longed, and said—Who will give me to drink of the water, out of the well of Bethlehem, that is within the gate? ¹⁸And the three brake through the host of the Philistines, and drew water out of the well of Bethlehem, that was within the gate, and bare it, and brought it in unto David,—yet would not David drink it, but poured it out unto Yahweh; ¹⁹and said—Far be it from me, of my God, that I should do this! The blood of these men, shall I drink, with their lives? For, with their lives, have they brought it! So he would not drink it. These things, did the three heroes. ²⁰And, Abishai brother of Joab—he, was the chief of three, he, having brandished his spear against three hundred—who were slain,—and so, he, had a name among three. ²¹Of the three in the second rank, was he honourable, therefore became he their captain,—though, unto the first three, did he not attain. ²²Benaiah, son of Jehoiada, son of a man of valour, hero of many a deed, from Kabziel—he, smote the two sons of Ariel of Moab, he, also went down and smote a lion in the midst of a pit, in time of snow; ²³he, also smote an Egyptian, a man of great stature, five cubits, and, in the hand of the Egyptian, was a spear like a weaver's beam, so he went down unto him with a staff,—and wrested the spear out of the hand of the Egyptian, and slew him with his spear. ²⁴These things, did Benaiah son of Jehoiada, so, he, had a name among three heroes. ²⁵Among the thirty, lo! honourable, was he, but, unto the first three, did he not attain,—howbeit David set him over his council. ²⁶Now, the heroes of the forces, were,—Asahel, brother of Joab, Elhanan, son of Dodo, of Bethlehem; ²⁷Shammoth, the Harorite, Helez the Paltite; ²⁸Ira, son of Ikkes, the Tekoite, Abiezer, the Anathothite; ²⁹Sibbecai, the Hushathite, Ilai, the Ahohite; ³⁰Maharai, the Netophathite, Heled, son of Baanah, the Netophathite; ³¹Ithai, son of Ribai, of Gibeah, of the sons of Benjamin,—Benaiah, the Pirathonite; ³²Hurai, of the torrents of Gaash, Abiel the Arbathite; ³³Azmaveth, the Baharumite, Eliahba, the Shaalbonite; ³⁴the sons of Hashem, the Gizonite, Jonathan, son of Shageh, the Hararite; ³⁵Ahiam, son of Sacar, the Hararite, Eliphai, son of Uri; ³⁶Hepher, the Mecherathite, Ahijah the Pelonite; ³⁷Hezro, the Carmelite, Naarai, son of Ezbai; ³⁸Joel, brother of Nathan, Mibhar son of Hagri; ³⁹Zelek, the Ammonite,—Naharai, the Berothite, the armour-bearer of Joab son of Zeruiah; ⁴⁰Ira, the Ithrite, Gareb, the Ithrite; ⁴¹Uriah, the Hittite, Zabab son of Ahlai; ⁴²Adina, son of Shiza, the Reubenite, a chief of the Reubenites and over the thirty; ⁴³Hanan, son of Maacah, and Joshaphat, the Mithnite; ⁴⁴Uzzia, the Ashterathite,—Shama, and Jeiel, sons of Hotham, the Aroerite; ⁴⁵Jediael, son of Shimri, and Joha, his brother, the Tizite; ⁴⁶Eliel, the Mahavite, and Jeribai and Joshaviah, sons of Elnaam,—and Ithmah the Moabite; ⁴⁷Eliel, and Obed, and Jaasiel, of Zobah.

12Now these, are they who came unto David, to Ziklag, he yet being shut up, because of Saul son of Kish,—and, they, were among the heroes, helpers in the war; ²armed with the bow, using right hand or left with stones, and with arrows in the bow,—of the brethren of Saul, out of Benjamin: ³the chief, Ahiezer, and Joash, sons of Shemaah the Gibeathite, and Jeziel and Pelet, sons of Azmaveth,—and Beracah, and Jehu the Anathothite; ⁴and Ishmaiah, the Gibeonite, a hero among the thirty, and over the thirty,—and Jeremiah and Jahaziel, and Johanan, and Jozabad, the Gederathite; ⁵Eluzai and Jerimoth and Bealiam and Shemariah, and Shephatiah, the Haruphite; ⁶Elkanah and Isshiah, and Azarel, and Joezer and Jashobeam, the Korahites; ⁷and Joelah and Zebadiah, sons of Jeroham, of Gedor. ⁸And, of the Gadites, there separated themselves unto David, to the stronghold towards the desert, heroes of valour, men of war, for battle, men that could handle shield and spear,—and, faces of lions, were their faces, and, like gazelles upon the mountains, were they, for swiftness: ⁹Ezer, the chief, Obadiah, the second,—Eliab, the third; ¹⁰Mashmannah, the fourth, Jeremiah, the fifth; ¹¹Attai, the sixth, Eliel the seventh; ¹²Johanan, the eighth, Elzabad, the ninth; ¹³Jeremiah, the tenth, Machbannai, the eleventh. ¹⁴These, were of the sons of Gad, chiefs of the host,—one to a hundred, the least, and, the greatest, to a thousand. ¹⁵These, are they who passed over the Jordan, in the first month, when, it, was full, over all its banks,—and they put to flight all them of the vales, to the east and to the west. ¹⁶And there came, of the sons of Benjamin, and Judah, as far as the stronghold, unto

David. ¹⁷And David went forth to meet them, and responded, and said to them, If, peaceably, ye are come unto me, to help me, I shall have towards you, a heart for unity,—but, if to betray me to mine adversaries, there being no violence in my hands, may the God of our fathers see and rebuke! ¹⁸Then, the spirit, clothed Amasai, chief of the thirty, Thine, O David, Yea, with, thee, O son of Jesse! Prosperity, prosperity to thee, And prosperity to thy helpers, For thy God, hath helped thee: So David accepted them, and set them among the chiefs of the band. ¹⁹And, of Manasseh, there fell away unto David, when he came with the Philistines against Saul to battle, but they helped them not,—for the lords of the Philistines advisedly sent him away, saying, At the price of our heads, he might fall away to his master, Saul. ²⁰When he went into Ziklag, there fell away unto him, of Manasseh, Adnah and Jozabad, and Jediael and Michael and Jozabad, and Elihu and Zillethai,—chiefs of the thousands that pertained to Manasseh; ²¹and, they, helped with David, against the marauding band, for, heroes of valour, were they all,—and they became captains in the host; ²²for, from day to day, there came unto David, to help him,—until it was a great camp, like a camp of God. ²³And, these, are the numbers of the chiefs armed for war, they came unto David, to Hebron,—to turn round the kingdom of Saul unto him, according to the bidding of Yahweh: ²⁴Sons of Judah, bearers of shield and spear, six thousand and eight hundred, armed for war. ²⁵Of sons of Simeon, heroes of valour for the war, seven thousand, and one hundred. ²⁶Of the sons of Levi, four thousand, and six hundred. ²⁷And Jehoiada, was chief ruler for Aaron,—and, with him, three thousand and seven hundred; ²⁸and Zadok, a young man, a hero of valour,—and the house of his father, captains twenty and two. ²⁹And, of the sons of Benjamin, brethren of Saul, three thousand,—and, hitherto, the greater part of them, had been keeping the charge of the house of Saul. ³⁰And, of the sons of Ephraim, twenty thousand, and eight hundred,—heroes of valour, men of renown, to their ancestral house. ³¹And, of the half tribe of Manasseh, eighteen thousand, who were distinguished by name, coming in to make David king. ³²And, of the sons of Issachar, such as were of good understanding of the times, to know what Israel, should do, their chiefs, were two hundred, and, all their brethren, were at their bidding. ³³Of Zebulun—such as were ready to go forth in host, expert for battle with all weapons of war, fifty thousand,—and for setting in array, not of two minds! ³⁴And, of Naphtali, a thousand captains,—and, with them, with shield and spear, thirty-seven thousand. ³⁵And, of the Danite, expert for war, twenty-eight thousand, and six hundred. ³⁶And, of Asher, such as were ready to go forth in host to set in array for battle, forty thousand. ³⁷And, from over the Jordan, of the Reubenites and Gadites and half tribe of Manasseh, with all manner of weapons of war for battle, a hundred and twenty thousand. ³⁸All these, being men of war, expert in setting in battle-array, with a perfect heart, came to Hebron, to make David king over all Israel,—moreover also, all the rest of Israel, were of one heart to make David king. ³⁹So they were there, with David, three days, eating and drinking,—for their brethren had made preparation for them. ⁴⁰Moreover also, they who were near of kin unto them, as far as Issachar and Zebulun and Naphtali, were bringing bread, on asses and on camels and on mules and on oxen, meal-food, cakes of figs and cakes of raisins, and wine, and oil, and oxen, and sheep—in abundance,—for there was joy Israel.

13And David consulted with the rulers of thousands and hundreds, even with every chief ruler. ²And David said to all the convocation of Israel, If, unto you, it seemeth to be good, and from Yahweh our God, we will urgently send unto our brethren who remain in all the lands of Israel, and, with them, the priests and the Levites in their pasture-land cities,—that they may gather together unto us; ³and let us bring round the ark of our God, unto us,—For they sought it not, in the days of Saul. ⁴Than said all the convocation, that it should be done thus,—for right was the thing, in the eyes of all the people. ⁵So David convoked all Israel, from Shihor of Egypt, even unto the entering in of Hamath,—to bring the ark of God from Kiriath-jearim. ⁶And David went up and all Israel to Baalah, unto Kiriath-jearim, which pertaineth to Judah,—to bring up from thence, the ark of God—Yahweh who inhabiteth the cherubim, on which is called the Name. ⁷And they carried the ark of God, upon a new wagon, out of the house of Aminadab,—and, Uzza and Ahio, were driving the wagon. ⁸And, David and all Israel, were dancing for joy before God, with all boldness, and with songs and with lyres, and with harps and with timbrels, and with cymbals, and with trumpets. ⁹And, when they came as far as the threshing-floor of Chidon, Uzza thrust forth his hand, to seize the ark, for the oxen were restive. ¹⁰Then was kindled the anger of Yahweh against Uzza, and he smote him, because he thrust forth his hand unto the ark,—and he died there, before God. ¹¹And it was a sadness unto David, that Yahweh had broken in with a breach against Uzza,—and he called that place Perez-uzza, as it is called unto this day. ¹²And David was afraid of God, on that day, saying,—How can I bring unto me, the ark of God? ¹³So David removed not the ark unto him, into the city of David,—but took it aside into the house of Obed-edom, the Gittite. ¹⁴And the ark of God remained with the household of Obed-edom, in his house, three months,—and Yahweh blessed the household of Obed-edom, and all that he had.

14And Hiram king of Tyre sent messengers unto David, and timber of cedars, with masons and artificers, to build for him a house. ²So David perceived, that Yahweh, had confirmed him, as king over Israel,—that his kingship was exalted, for the sake of his people Israel. ³And David took more wives, in Jerusalem,—and David begat more sons and daughters. ⁴Now, these, are the names of them who were born, whom he had in Jerusalem,—Shammua and Shobab, Nathan, and Solomon; ⁵and Ibhar and Elishua, and Elpelet; ⁶and Nogah and Nepheg, and Japhia; ⁷and Elishama and Beeliada, and Eliphelet. ⁸And, when the Philistines heard that David had been anointed king over all Israel, all the Philistines came up to seek to secure David,—and David, hearing, went out against them. ⁹Now, the Philistines, had come and spread themselves out, in the vale of Rephaim. ¹⁰Then David asked of God, saying, Shall I go up against the Philistines? and wilt thou deliver them into my hand? And Yahweh said to him, Go up, and I will deliver them into thy hand. ¹¹So they came up in Baal-perazim, and David smote them there, and David said, God hath broken forth against mine enemies by my hand, like the breaking forth of waters,—For this cause, called they the name of that place, Baal-perazim. ¹²And they left their gods there,—and David gave the word, and they were burned up in fire. ¹³And the Philistines yet again spread themselves out in the vale. ¹⁴So David, asked again, of God, and God said to him, Thou shalt not go up after them,—get thee round, away from them, so shalt thou come in upon them, over against the mulberry-trees; ¹⁵and it shall be, when thou hearest a sound of marching in the tops of the mulberry-trees, then, shalt thou go forth into the battle,—for God will have gone forth before thee, to smite the host of the Philistines. ¹⁶So David did as God commanded him,—and they smote the host of the Philistines, from Gibeon even unto Gezer. ¹⁷And the name of David went forth, throughout all the lands,—and, Yahweh, put the dread of him upon all the nations.

15And he made him houses, in the city of David,—and prepared a place for the ark of God, and pitched for it a tent. ²Then, said David, None must carry the ark of God, save the Levites,—for, of them, did Yahweh make choice, to bear the ark of Yahweh, and to attend it, unto times age-abiding. ³So David convoked all Israel, unto Jerusalem,—to bring up the ark of Yahweh, unto the place thereof, which he had prepared for it. ⁴And David gathered together the sons of Aaron, and the Levites: ⁵Of the sons of Kohath, Uriel the chief, and his brethren, one hundred and twenty; ⁶of the sons of Merari, Asaiah the chief, and his brethren, two hundred and twenty; ⁷of the sons of Gershon, Joel the chief, and his brethren, one hundred and thirty; ⁸of the sons of Elizaphan, Shemaiah the chief, and his brethren, two hundred; ⁹of the sons of Hebron, Eliel the chief, and his brethren, eighty; ¹⁰of the son of Uzziel, Amminadab the chief, and his brethren, a hundred and twelve. ¹¹Then called David, for Zadok and for Abiathar, the priests,—and for the Levites, for Uriel, Asaiah and Joel, Shemaiah and Eliel, and Amminadab; ¹²and said unto them, Ye, are the chiefs of the fathers of the Levites,—Hallow yourselves, ye and your brethren, so shall ye bring up the ark of Yahweh—God of Israel, into the place I have prepared for it. ¹³Because, at the first, ye, did not bring it, Yahweh our God brake forth against us, because we sought him not in the appointed way. ¹⁴So the priests and the Levites hallowed themselves,—to bring up the ark of Yahweh, God of Israel. ¹⁵And the sons of the Levites bare the ark of God, just as Moses commanded, according to the word of Yahweh,—on their shoulder, with the staves upon them. ¹⁶And David spake to the chiefs of the Levites, to station their brethren the singers, with instruments of song, harps and lyres, and cymbals,—sounding aloud at the lifting up of the voice, for joy. ¹⁷So the Levites caused to stand, Heman son of Joel, and, of his brethren, Asaph, son of Berechiah,—and, of the sons of Merari their brethren, Ethan, son of Kushaiah; ¹⁸and, with them, their brethren of the second degree,—Zechariah, Ben, and Jaaziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel and Unni, Eliab, and Benaiah, and Maaseiah, and Mattithiah, and Eliphelehu, and Mickneiah, and Obed-edom and Jeiel, the door-keepers. ¹⁹And, the singers, Heman, Asaph and Ethan, with cymbals of bronze, were to sound aloud; ²⁰and Zechariah, and Aziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, and Eliab, and Maaseiah and Benaiah,—with harps, over the trebles; ²¹and Mattithiah, Eliphelehu, and Mikneiah, and Obed-edom, and Jeiel and Azaziah,—with lyres over the bass, to take the lead. ²²And, Chenaniah the leader of the Levites, in the service, used to give instructions in the service, because skilful was he. ²³And, Berechiah and Elkanah, were door-keepers to the ark. ²⁴And, Shebaniah, and Joshaphat, and Nethanel, and Amasai, and Zechariah, and Benaiah, and Eliezer, the priests, were blowing with the trumpets, before the ark of God,—and, Obed-edom and Jehiah, were door-keepers, to the ark. ²⁵Thus, it was, David and the elders of Israel, and the rulers of thousands, who were going, to bring up the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, out of the house of Obed-edom, with joy. ²⁶And so it was that, when God helped the Levites, who were bearing the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, they sacrificed seven bullocks and seven rams. ²⁷Now, David, was wrapped about with a robe of byssus, with all the Levites who were bearing the ark, and the singers, and Chenaniah the leader of the service rendered by the singers,—but, upon David, was an ephod of white linen. ²⁸So, all Israel, were bringing up the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, with shouting, and with sound of the horn, and with trumpets, and with cymbals,—sounding aloud, with harps, and lyres. ²⁹And so it was that, when the ark of the covenant of Yahweh came in as far as the city of David,—and Michal daughter of Saul looked forth through the window, and saw King

David, dancing and playing, that she despised him in her heart.

¹⁶So they brought in the ark of God, and placed it in the midst of the tent, which David had pitched for it,—and they brought near ascending-sacrifices and peace-offerings, before God. ²And, when David had made an end of offering the ascending-sacrifices, and the peace-offerings, he blessed the people, in the name of Yahweh. ³And he apportioned, to every one of Israel, both man and woman,—to every one, a loaf of bread, and a sweet drink, and a raisin cake. ⁴And he placed before the ark of Yahweh certain of the Levites, as attendants,—and to celebrate, and to give thanks and render praise, unto Yahweh, God of Israel; ⁵Asaph the chief, and, second to him, Zechariah,—Jeiel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Mattithiah, and Eliab, and Benaiah, and Obed-edom, and Jeiel, with instruments of harps, and with lyres, and Asaph with cymbals, sounding aloud: ⁶and Benaiah and Jahaziel, the priests,—with trumpets continually, before the ark of the covenant of God. ⁷On that day, then, David gave these songs in chief, to give thanks unto Yahweh,—through Asaph, and his brethren:—⁸Give ye thanks to Yahweh, Call upon his name, Make known among the peoples, his doings; ⁹Sing ye to him, Make music unto him, Speak ye of all his wonders. ¹⁰Boast yourselves in his holy name, Joyful be the heart of them who are seeking Yahweh. ¹¹Search out Yahweh, and his power, Seek diligently his face, at all times. ¹²Remember his wonders which he hath done, His splendid deeds, and the just decisions of his mouth. ¹³O ye seed of Israel his servant, sons of Jacob his chosen ones: ¹⁴Yahweh himself, is our God, through all the land, are his just decisions. ¹⁵Remember yea to times age-abiding, his covenant, the word he hath commanded, to a thousand generations; ¹⁶Which he solemnised with Abraham, and his oath, to Isaac; ¹⁷And confirmed it, unto Jacob, for a statute, unto Israel, as a covenant age-abiding: ¹⁸Saying, To thee, will I give the land of Canaan, as your inherited portion: ¹⁹While, as yet, ye were men who could be counted, a very few, and sojourners therein: ²⁰And they wandered from nation to nation, and from one kingdom, to another people: ²¹He suffered no man to oppress them, And reprov'd—for their sakes—kings! ²²Ye may not touch mine Anointed ones, And, to my Prophets, may ye do no wrong. ²³Sing to Yahweh, all the earth, Tell the tidings, from day to day, of his salvation: ²⁴Recount, among the nations, his glory, among all the peoples, his wonders. ²⁵For great is Yahweh, and worthy to be mightily praised, and to be revered is he above all gods; ²⁶For, all the gods of the peoples, are things of nought, but, Yahweh, made, the heavens. ²⁷Praise and majesty, are before him, Strength and joy, are in his dwelling-place. ²⁸Give to Yahweh, ye families of the peoples, Give to Yahweh, glory and strength: ²⁹Give to Yahweh, the glory of his name,—Bring

ye a present, and enter before him, Bow down to Yahweh, in the adornment of holiness: ³⁰Tremble at his presence, all the earth, But the world, shall be established, it shall not be shaken. ³¹Let the heavens rejoice, and the earth exult, Let them say among the nations, Yahweh, hath become king! ³²Let the sea roar, and the fulness thereof, Let the field leap for joy, and all that is therein: ³³Then, shall shout in triumph, the trees of the forest, before Yahweh, for he is coming, to judge the earth. ³⁴Give ye thanks unto Yahweh, For he is good, For, age-abiding, is his lovingkindness. ³⁵And say ye, Save us, O God of our salvation, and gather us and deliver us, from among the nations,—that we may give thanks unto thy holy name, that we may triumph aloud in thy praise. ³⁶Blessed be Yahweh, God of Israel, from one age even to another age. Then said all the people, Amen, And gave praise to Yahweh. ³⁷So he left there, before the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, Asaph and his brethren,—to be in attendance before the ark continually, for the duty of a day on its day; ³⁸and Obededom with his brethren, sixty-eight,—and Obededom son of Jedithun and Hosah to be doorkeepers; ³⁹and Zadok the priest, and his brethren the priests, before the habitation of Yahweh,—in the high place that was in Gibeon: ⁴⁰to offer ascending-sacrifices unto Yahweh, upon the altar of ascending-sacrifice,—continually, morning and evening,—even according to all that is written in the law of Yahweh, which he commanded concerning Israel; ⁴¹and, with them, Heman and Jeduthun, and the rest of the chosen ones, who were distinguished by name,—to give thanks unto Yahweh, For, age-abiding, is his lovingkindness! ⁴²And, with them, Heman and Jeduthun, with the trumpets, and the cymbals, for sounding aloud, and the instruments for the songs of God,—and the sons of Jeduthun, for the gate. ⁴³And all the people departed, every man to his house,—and David went round, to bless his own household.

¹⁷And it came to pass, when David had taken up his abode in his house, that David said unto Nathan the prophet, Lo! I, am dwelling in a house of cedars, but, the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, is under curtains. ²Then said Nathan unto David, All that is in thy heart, do,—for, God, is with thee. ³But so it was that, in that night, the word of God came unto Nathan, saying: ⁴Go and say unto David my servant, Thus, saith Yahweh,—Thou, shalt not build me a house, to dwell in; ⁵seeing that I have not dwelt in a house, since the day that I brought up Israel, until this day,—but have been from tent to tent, and without a habitation. ⁶Wheresoever I have wandered with all Israel, spake I ever, a word, with one of the judges of Israel, whom I charged to shepherd my people, saying,—Wherefore have ye not built me a house of cedars? ⁷Now, therefore, thus, shalt thou say unto my servant David, Thus, saith Yahweh of hosts, I myself, took thee from the pasture, from after the flock,—to become leader over my people Israel; ⁸and was with thee whithersoever thou didst go, and have out off all thine enemies, from before thee,—and will make thee a name, like the name of the great ones, who are in the earth; ⁹and will appoint a place for my people Israel, and will plant them, and they shall inhabit their place, and be unsettled no more,—neither shall the sons of perversity again wear them out, as at the first; ¹⁰even from the days when I put judges in charge over my people Israel, and have subdued all thine enemies,—that I might make thee great, yea, a house, will Yahweh build for thee. ¹¹And it shall be that, when thy days are fulfilled, to sleep with thy fathers, then will I raise up thy seed after thee, who shall be of thy sons,—and I will establish his kingdom. ¹²He, shall build me a house,—and I will establish his throne unto times age-abiding. ¹³I, will become his father, and, he, shall become my son,—and, my lovingkindness, will I not cause to depart from him,—as I caused it to depart from him who was before thee; ¹⁴but I will cause him to remain over my house and over my kingdom, unto times age-abiding,—and, his throne, shall be established, unto times age-abiding. ¹⁵According to all these words, and according to all this vision, so, spake Nathan unto David. ¹⁶Then entered King David, and tarried before Yahweh,—and said, Who am, I, O Yahweh God, and what is my house, that thou hast brought me hitherto; ¹⁷and hast made this seem little in thine eyes, O God, in that thou hast spoken concerning the house of thy servant, for a great while to come? Thus wilt thou provide for me, according to the rank of manhood, and hast exalted me, O Yahweh God! ¹⁸What, yet further, can David say unto thee, thus to honour thy servant,—seeing that, thou thyself, knowest, thine own servant? ¹⁹O Yahweh, for the sake of thy servant, and according to thine own heart, hast thou done all this great thing,—making known all the great things. ²⁰O Yahweh, there is none like unto thee, yea there is no God besides thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears. ²¹Who then is like thy people Israel, a nation alone in the earth,—whom God went to redeem, to be his own people, to make for thyself a name for great and fearful things, to drive out, nations, from before thy people, whom thou didst redeem out of Egypt; ²²and didst appoint thy people Israel for thyself as a people, unto times age-abiding,—thou thyself, also, O Yahweh, becoming their God? ²³Now, therefore, O Yahweh, the word which thou hast spoken concerning thy servant, and concerning his house, be it steadfast unto times age-abiding,—and do as thou hast spoken: ²⁴yea let it be steadfast, and so let thy Name be magnified unto times age-abiding, saying, Yahweh of hosts, the God of Israel, is a God to Israel! seeing that, the house of David thy servant, is established before thee. ²⁵For, thou, O my God, hast unveiled the ear of thy servant, that thou wilt build for him a house,—for this cause, hath thy servant found it in his heart to pray before thee. ²⁶Now, therefore, O Yahweh, thou, art God,—therefore hast thou spoken concerning thy servant this goodness. ²⁷Now, therefore, let it please thee to bless the house of thy servant, that it may be unto times age-abiding before thee,—for, thou O Yahweh, hast blessed, and it is to be blessed unto times age-abiding.

18And it came to pass, after this, that David smote the Philistines, and subdued them,—and took Gath and her villages, out of the hand of the Philistines. ²And he smote Moab,—and the Moabites became servants to David, bearers of a present. ³And David smote Hadarezer king of Zobah, towards Hamath,—as he went to establish his hold of the river Euphrates. ⁴And David captured from him a thousand chariots, and seven thousand horsemen, and twenty thousand footmen,—and David destroyed all the chariots, saving that he reserved from them a hundred chariots. ⁵And, when the Syrians of Damascus came to help Hadarezer king of Zobah, David smote of the Syrians, twenty-two thousand men. ⁶And David put garrisons in Syria of Damascus, and so it was that the Syrians became, David's, servants, bearers of a present,—so Yahweh gave victory to David, whithersoever he went. ⁷And David took the shields of gold, that were upon the servants of Hadarezer,—and brought them to Jerusalem; ⁸also, from Tibhath and from Cun, cities of Hadarezer, David took very much bronze,—therewith, did Solomon make the sea of bronze, and the pillars, and the vessels of bronze. ⁹And, when Tou, king of Hamath, heard that David had smitten all the force of Hadarezer king of Zobah, ¹⁰he sent Hadoram his son unto King David, to ask after his welfare, and to bless him, because he had made war against Hadarezer and had smitten him, for, a man making wars against Tou, had been Hadarezer,—and he had with him all manner of vessels of gold and silver and bronze; ¹¹them also, did King David hallow unto Yahweh, with the silver and the gold, that he bare away from all the nations,—from Edom, and from Moab, and from the sons of Ammon, and from the Philistines, and from Amalek. ¹²Moreover, Abishai, son of Zeruiah, smote Edom, in the Valley of Salt,—eighteen thousand; ¹³and set, in Edom, garrisons, and all Edom became servants unto David,—and Yahweh gave David the victory, whithersoever he went. ¹⁴So David reigned over all Israel,—and he was executing justice and righteousness for all his people; ¹⁵and, Joab, son of Zeruiah, was over the army,—and, Jehoshaphat, son of Elihud, was recorder; ¹⁶and, Zadok, son of Ahitub, and Abimelech son of Abiathar, were priests,—and, Shavsha, was scribe; ¹⁷and, Benaiah, son of Jehoiada, was over the Cherethites, and the Pelethites,—and, the sons of David, were first, in attendance on the king.

19And it came to pass, after this, that Nahash king of the sons of Ammon died,—and Hanun his son reigned in his stead. ²Then said David—I will show lovingkind-

ness unto Hanun, son of Nahash,—for his father shewed unto me lovingkindness. So David sent messengers to console him concerning his father,—and the servants of David came into the land of the sons of Ammon unto Hanun, to console him. ³Then said the rulers of the sons of Ammon unto Hanun, Doth David honour thy father in thine eyes, that he hath sent to thee comforters? Is it not, for the sake of exploring and overthrowing, and spying out the land, that his servants have come to thee? ⁴So Hanun took the servants of David, and shaved them, and cut off their upper garments in the middle, as far as their parts of shame,—and let them go. ⁵And people went and told David, concerning the men, so he sent to meet them, because the men were greatly ashamed,—and the king said—Tarry at Jericho, until your beards be grown, and then return. ⁶And, when the sons of Ammon saw, that they had made themselves odious with David, Hanun and the sons of Ammon sent a thousand talents of silver, to hire for themselves—out of Mesopotamia, and out of Aram-maacah, and out of Zobah,—chariots, and horsemen. ⁷So they hired for themselves thirty-two thousand chariots, and the king of Maacah, and his people, who came and pitched before Medeba,—and the sons of Ammon gathered themselves together out of their cities, and entered into the war. ⁸Now, when David heard, he sent Joab and all the army of heroes. ⁹And the sons of Ammon came out, and set in array for the battle, at the opening of the city,—whereas, the kings who had come, were by themselves, in the field. ¹⁰So, when Joab saw that the battle confronted him, before and behind,—he chose out of all the choice in Israel, and set in array to meet the Syrians; ¹¹and, the rest of the people, delivered he into the hand of Abishai his brother,—and they set in array, to meet the sons of Ammon. ¹²And he said—If, too strong for me, be the Syrians, then shalt thou come to my help,—but, if, the sons of Ammon, be too strong for thee, then will I help thee. ¹³Be strong, and let us put forth our strength, for the sake of our people, and for the sake of the cities of our God,—and let, Yahweh, do, what is good in his own eyes. ¹⁴Then did Joab, and all the people who were with him, draw near before the Syrians unto the battle,—and they fled from before him. ¹⁵And, when, the sons of Ammon, saw that the Syrians had fled, then fled, they also, from before Abishai his brother, and entered the city,—and Joab came to Jerusalem. ¹⁶And when the Syrians saw that they had been defeated before Israel, then sent they messengers, and brought out the Syrians who were Beyond the River,—with Shophach captain of the army of Hadarezer, before them. ¹⁷And it was told David, and he gathered together all Israel, and crossed the Jordan, and came unto them, and set in array against them,—and, when David had set in array against the Syrians for battle, they fought with him. ¹⁸And the Syrians fled from before Israel, and David slew of the Syrians the men of seven thousand chariots, and forty thousand footmen,—and, Shophach captain of the army, he put to death. ¹⁹And, when the servants of Hadarezer saw that they were defeated before Israel, they made peace with David and served him,—neither would the Syrians help the sons of Ammon any more.

20And it came to pass, at the time of the turn of the year, at the time of the going forth of kings, that Joab led forth the force of the army, and laid waste the land of the sons of Ammon, and came and besieged Rabbah, but, David, was tarrying in Jerusalem,—and Joab smote Rabbah, and overthrew it. ²And David took the crown of their king from off his head, and found it weighed a talent of gold, and, therein, were precious stones, and it was set on the head of David,—and, the spoil of the city, brought he forth, in great abundance; ³and, the people that were therein, brought he forth, and cut with the saw and with threshing sledges of iron and with axes, thus also, used David to do unto all the cities of the son of Ammon,—and David and all the people returned to Jerusalem. ⁴And it came to pass, after this, that there was yet again a battle in Gezer, with the Philistines,—then, Sibbecai the Hushathite smote Sippai of the children of the giants, and they were subdued. ⁵And there again came to be a battle with the Philistines,—and Elhanan son of Jair smote Lahmi, brother of Goliath the Gittite, the staff of whose spear, was like a weaver's beam. ⁶And there again came to be war with Gath,—where was a man of great stature, whose fingers and toes, six on each hand and foot, were four and twenty, and, he also, had been born unto the giant. ⁷But, when he reproached Israel, Jonathan, son of Shimea brother of David, smote him. ⁸These, were born unto the giant in Gath,—but they fell by the hand of David, and by the hand of his servants.

21Then the accuser stood up, against Israel,—and moved David, to number Israel. ²And David said unto Joab and unto the rulers of the people, Go, number Israel, from Beersheba even unto Dan,—and bring the report unto me, that I may know the number of them. ³Then said Joab, May Yahweh add unto his people, as many as they are, a hundred times, but are they not, my lord O king, all of them my lord's, as servants? wherefore should my lord seek this? wherefore should it become guilt to Israel? ⁴But, the word of the king, prevailed against Joab,—and Joab departed, and went to and fro throughout all Israel, and came to Jerusalem. ⁵And Joab delivered the sum of the number of the people, unto David,—and all Israel was found to be a thousand thousand and a hundred thousand men, who drew sword, and Judah, four hundred and seventy thousand men, who drew sword. ⁶But, Levi and Benjamin, counted he not among them,—for detestable was the word of the king unto Joab. ⁷And it was displeasing in the eyes of God, concerning this thing,—therefore smote he Israel.

⁸And David said unto God, I have sinned greatly, in that I have done this thing,—but, now, I beseech thee, take away the iniquity of thy servant, for I have shown myself very foolish. ⁹Then spake Yahweh unto Gad, the seer of David saying: ¹⁰Go—and thou shalt speak unto David, saying, Thus, saith Yahweh, Three things, do I offer thee,—choose thee one from among them, that I may do it unto thee. ¹¹So Gad came unto David,—and said to him, Thus, saith Yahweh, ¹²Choose thee:—Whether, for three years, there be famine, Or, for three months, that thou flee before thine adversaries, while the sword of thine enemies overtaketh thee, Or, for three days, the sword of Yahweh, and pestilence be in the land, with, the messenger of Yahweh, laying waste throughout all the boundary of Israel,—Now, therefore, see, what, answer, I shall return unto him that sent me. ¹³And David said unto Gad, I am in a great strait,—Oh let me fall, I pray thee, into the hand of Yahweh, for abounding are his compassions, exceedingly, but, into the hand of man, let me not fall. ¹⁴So Yahweh laid pestilence, upon Israel,—and there fell, of Israel, seventy thousand men. ¹⁵And God sent a messenger to Jerusalem, to lay it waste, but, as he was laying it waste, Yahweh looked, and relented concerning the calamity, and said unto the messenger who was laying waste, Enough! now, stay thy hand. And, the messenger of Yahweh, was standing by the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite. ¹⁶And, when David lifted up his eyes, and saw the messenger of Yahweh, standing, between the earth and the heavens, and his sword drawn, in his hand, stretched out over Jerusalem, then fell David and the elders, clothed in sackcloth, upon their faces. ¹⁷And David said unto God, Was it not, I, who gave word to number the people? Yea, I, it was who sinned and did the great wrong, what then had, these sheep, done? O Yahweh, my God, let thy hand, I beseech thee, be against me, and against the house of my father, but not against, thy people, that they should be plagued! ¹⁸And, the messenger of Yahweh, commanded Gad, to say unto David,—that David should go up, to rear an altar unto Yahweh, in the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite. ¹⁹So David went up, according to the word of Gad, which he spake in the name of Yahweh. ²⁰And Ornan turned, and saw the messenger, but, his four sons with him, were hiding themselves,—now, Ornan, had been threshing wheat. ²¹Then came David unto Ornan,—and Ornan looked, and saw David, and went forth out of the threshing-floor, and bowed himself unto David, with his face to the ground. ²²And David said unto Ornan, Grant me the place of the threshing-floor, that I may build thereon an altar, unto Yahweh,—for silver in full, shalt thou grant it me, that the plague may be stayed from off the people. ²³And Ornan said unto David, Take it to thee, and let my lord the king do what is good in his own eyes,—see! I have given the oxen for ascending-sacrifices, and, the threshing implements for wood, and the wheat for a meal-offering,—the whole, have I given.

²⁴Then said King David to Ornan, Nay! but I will, surely buy, it for silver in full,—for I will not take that which is thine for Yahweh, nor offer an ascending-sacrifice that hath cost me nothing. ²⁵So David gave to Ornan, for the place,—shekels of gold, by weight, six hundred. ²⁶And David built there an altar unto Yahweh, and caused to go up ascending-sacrifices, and peace-offerings,—and called unto Yahweh, and he responded to him, by fire, out of the heavens, upon the altar of ascending-sacrifice. ²⁷And Yahweh gave word to tile messenger, and he put back his sword into its sheath. ²⁸At that time, when David saw that Yahweh had answered him in the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite, then he sacrificed there. ²⁹But, the habitation of Yahweh, which Moses made in the desert, and the altar of ascending-sacrifice, were, at that time, in the high place at Gibeon; ³⁰and David could not go before it, to seek God,—for he had been terrified, because of the sword of the messenger of Yahweh.

22Then said David, This, is the house of Yahweh God,—and, this, is the altar of ascending-sacrifice, for Israel. ²And David gave word, to gather together the sojourners, who were in the land of Israel,—and he set hewers to hew squared stones, for building the house of God; ³and, iron in abundance, for nails for the doors of the gates, and for hooks, did David prepare,—and bronze in abundance, without weight; ⁴and cedar-trees, even without number,—for the Zidonians and the Tyreans brought cedar-trees in abundance, unto David. ⁵And David said, Solomon my son, is young and tender, and, the house to be built, must be great and lofty and famous and beautiful, for all lands,—oh let me then prepare for it. So David prepared abundantly, before his death. ⁶Then he called for Solomon his son,—and charged him, to build a house, for Yahweh, God of Israel. ⁷And David said to Solomon his son,—As for me, it was, near my heart, to build a house for the Name of Yahweh my God; ⁸but the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying, Blood in abundance, hast thou shed, and, great wars, hast thou made,—thou shalt not build a house for my Name, because, much blood, hast thou shed upon the earth, before me. ⁹Lo! a son, born to thee, He, shall be a man of rest, and I will give him rest from all his enemies, round about,—for, Solomon, shall be his Name, and, peace and quietness, will I bestow upon Israel, in his days; ¹⁰He, shall build a house for my Name, and, he, shall be my son, and, I, will be his father,—therefore will I establish the throne of his kingdom over Israel, unto times age-abiding: ¹¹Now, my son, Yahweh be with thee,—so shalt thou be prosperous, and shalt build the house of Yahweh thy God, according as he hath spoken concerning thee. ¹²Only Yahweh give thee discretion and understanding, and give thee charge over Israel,—so that thou take heed unto the law of Yahweh thy God. ¹³Then, shalt thou prosper, if thou take heed to do the statutes and the regulations, which Yahweh commanded Moses, concerning Israel,—be strong and bold, thou mayst not be in fear, nor be dismayed. ¹⁴Lo! then, in my humiliation, have I prepared for the house of Yahweh, of gold a hundred thousand talents, and of silver a thousand thousand talents, and, as for bronze and iron, without weight, for, an abundance, hath it become,—timber also and stone, have I prepared, and, thereunto, thou canst add. ¹⁵And, with thee, in abundance, are workmen, hewers and carvers of stone and wood,—and every sort of wise man, in all manner of work: ¹⁶for gold and for silver and for bronze and for iron, without number. Arise and do, and Yahweh be with thee! ¹⁷And David charged all the rulers of Israel, to help Solomon his son:—¹⁸Is not, Yahweh your God, with you? and hath he not given you rest on every side? for he hath given into my hand, the inhabitants of the land, and subdued is the land before Yahweh, and before his people. ¹⁹Now, apply your heart and your soul, to seek unto Yahweh your God,—and then arise ye and build the sanctuary of Yahweh Elohim, that ye may bring the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, and the holy vessels of God, into the house which hath been built for the Name of Yahweh.

23Now, David, was old, and satisfied with days,—so he made Solomon his son king, over Israel; ²and gathered together all the rulers of Israel, with the priests, and the Levites. ³Now the Levites were numbered, from thirty years old and upwards,—and their number by their polls, of mature men, was thirty-eight thousand. ⁴Of these—to preside over the work of the house of Yahweh, were twenty-four thousand,—and officers and judges, six thousand; ⁵and four thousand, were doorkeepers,—and, four thousand, were offerers of praise unto Yahweh, with instruments, which said David I made for offering praise. ⁶And David divided them into courses,—pertaining to the sons of Levi, to Gershon, Kohath and Merari. ⁷Of the Gershonites, Ladan and Shimei. ⁸The sons of Ladan, the chief Jehiel, and Zetham and Joel, three. ⁹The sons of Shimei, Shelomoth and Haziel and Haran, three,—these, were the ancestral chiefs of Ladan. ¹⁰And, the sons of Shimei, Jahath, Zina, and Jeush, and Beriah,—these, were the sons of Shimei, four. ¹¹And Jahath was chief, and Zizah the second,—but, Jeush and Beriah, had not many sons, so they became an ancestral house, by one reckoning. ¹²The sons of Kohath, Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel, four. ¹³The sons of Amram, Aaron and Moses,—and Aaron was separated, to hallow the holy of holies, he and his sons, unto times age-abiding, to make a perfume before Yahweh, to be in attendance upon him, and to bless in his name, unto times age-abiding; ¹⁴and, as for Moses, the man of God, his sons, were called unto the tribe of Levi. ¹⁵The sons of Moses, were Gershom, and Eliezer. ¹⁶the sons of Gershom, were Shebuel the chief; ¹⁷and the sons of Eliezer were Rehabiah the chief,—and Eliezer had no other sons, but, the sons of Rehabiah, were very many. ¹⁸The sons of Izhar, Shelomith the chief. ¹⁹The sons of Hebron, Jeriah the chief, Amariah the second, Jehaziel the third, and Jekameam the fourth. ²⁰The sons of Uzziel, Micah the chief, and Isshiah the second. ²¹The sons of Merari, were Mahli and Mushi. The sons of Mahli, were Eleazar and Kish. ²²But Eleazar died, and had no sons, but daughters only,—and so the sons of Kish their brethren took them. ²³The sons of Mushi, were Mahli and Eder and Jeremoth, three. ²⁴These, were the sons of Levi by their ancestral house, the ancestral chiefs of them who were counted in the number of their names, by their polls, doing the work, for the service of the house of Yahweh,—from twenty years old, and upwards. ²⁵For, said David, Yahweh the God of Israel hath given rest unto his people,—and hath taken up his habitation in Jerusalem, unto times age-abiding; ²⁶moreover also, as for the Levites, they have no need to bear the habitation, nor any of its vessels in the laborious work thereof. ²⁷For, by the last words of David, the same, were the number of the sons of Levi,—from twenty years old, and upwards. ²⁸For, their duty, was—to be in attendance upon the sons of Aaron, in the laborious work of the house of Yahweh, over the courts, and over the chambers, and over the purifying of everything holy,—and doing the laborious work, of the house of God; ²⁹and for the bread set in array, and for the fine meal for the meal-offering, and for the unleavened cakes, even for that which is baked in a pan, for the moistened food,—even of every measure, and size; ³⁰and to stand, morning by morning, to give thanks and offer praise unto Yahweh,—and, likewise, at even; ³¹and for all the offering of ascending-sacrifices unto Yahweh, on the sabbaths, and on the new moons, and on the set feasts,—by number, according to the manner prescribed for them continually, before Yahweh;—³²and they shall keep the charge of the tent of meeting, and the charge of the holy place, and the charge of the sons of Aaron, their brethren,—in the laborious work of the house of Yahweh.

24Now, the sons of Aaron, had their courses,—the sons of Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar; ²but Nadab and Abihu, died, before their father, and sons, had they none,—but Eleazar and Ithamar became priests; ³and David apportioned to them courses, both to Zadok of the sons of Eleazar, and to Ahimelech of the sons of Ithamar,—by their appointed place in their service. ⁴But the sons of Eleazar were found to be more numerous, by the chiefs of their able men, than were the sons of Ithamar, so they divided them,—the sons of Eleazar, had chiefs, of the ancestral house, sixteen, whereas, the sons of Ithamar, had of their ancestral house, eight. ⁵They divided them, therefore, by casting lots, these with those,—for there were princes of the sanctuary, and princes of God, from among the sons of Eleazar, and among the sons of Ithamar. ⁶And Shemaiah son of Nethanel the scribe from among the Levites, wrote them down, before the king and the rulers and Zadok the priest, and Ahimelech son of Abiathar, and the ancestral chiefs, pertaining to the priests and to the Levites,—one ancestral house, was taken for Eleazar, and, was equally taken, for Ithamar. ⁷So then the first lot came forth for Jehoiarib, for Jedaiah, the second; ⁸for Harim, the third, for Seorim, the fourth; ⁹for Malchijah, the fifth, for Mijamin, the sixth; ¹⁰for Hakkoz, the seventh, for Abijah, the eighth; ¹¹for Jeshua, the ninth, for Shecaniah, the tenth; ¹²for Eliashib, the eleventh, for Jakim, the twelfth; ¹³for Huppah, the thirteenth, for Jeshebeab, the fourteenth; ¹⁴for Bilgah, the fifteenth, for Immer, the sixteenth; ¹⁵for Hezir, the seventeenth, for Happizzetz, the eighteenth; ¹⁶for Pethahiah, the nineteenth, for Jehezkel, the twentieth; ¹⁷for Jachin, the twenty-first, for Gamul, the twenty-second; ¹⁸for Delaiah, the twenty-third, for Maaziah, the twenty-fourth. ¹⁹These, were their appointed places for their service, for entering the house of Yahweh, according to the regulation of them, by the hand of Aaron their father,—just as Yahweh God of Israel, commanded him. ²⁰Now, as for the sons of Levi who remained, of the sons of Amram, Shubael, of the sons of Shubael, Jehdeiah. ²¹Of Rehabiah, of the sons of Rehabiah, the chief Isshiah; ²²of the Izharites, Shelomoth,—of the sons of Shelomoth, Jahath; ²³and, the sons of Hebron, Jeriah,—Amariah, the second, Jehaziel, the third, Jekameam, the fourth; ²⁴the sons of Uzziel, Micah, of the sons of Micah, Shamir; ²⁵the brother of Micah, Isshiah, of the sons of Isshiah, Zechariah. ²⁶The sons of Merari, Mahli and Mushi,—the sons of Jaaziah, Beno; ²⁷the sons of Merari, of Jaaziah, Beno, and Shoham and Zaccur and Ibri: ²⁸of Mahli, Eleazar, who had no sons; ²⁹of Kish—the sons of Kish, Jerameel; ³⁰and, the sons of Mushi, Mahli and Eder and Jerimoth. These, were the sons of the Levites, belonging to their ancestral house. ³¹Moreover, they also, cast lots along with their brethren the sons of Aaron, before David the king and Zadok and Ahimelech, and the ancestral chiefs, pertaining to the priests and to the Levites, the ancestral chief along with his younger brethren.

25And David and the captains of the host set apart for service, unto the sons of Asaph and Heman and Jeduthun, such as should prophesy, with lyres, with harps, and with cymbals,—and, the number of the workers, for their service, was: ²Of the sons of Asaph, Zaccur and Joseph and Nethaniah and Asarelah, the sons of Asaph,—under the direction of Asaph, who prophesied under the direction of the king. ³Of Jeduthun, the sons of Jeduthun,—Gedaliah, and Zeri, and Jeshaiah, Hashabiah, and Mattithiah—six, under the direction of their father Jeduthun, with the lyre, as he prophesied, in giving thanks and offering praise unto Yahweh. ⁴Of Heman, the sons of Heman—Bukkiah, Mattaniah, Uzziel, Shebuel, and Jeremoth, Hananiah, Hanani, Eliathah, Giddalti, and Romamti-ezer, Joshbekashah, Mal-

lothi, Hothir, Mahazioth. ⁵All these, were sons of Heman, the seer of the king in the things of God, at the lifting of the horn. And God gave to Heman, fourteen sons and three daughters, ⁶All these, were under the direction of their father, in the singing of the house of Yahweh, with cymbals, harps and lyres, for the service of the house of God,—Asaph and Jeduthun and Heman, under the direction of the king. ⁷And, the number of them—with their brethren, who were instructed in singing unto Yahweh,—even all the skilful, was two hundred and eighty-eight. ⁸So they cast lots for their charges, all alike, as the small so the great, the teacher with the learner. ⁹And the first lot came forth for Asaph, to Joseph,—Gedaliah, the second, he and his brethren and his sons, twelve. ¹⁰The third, Zaccur, his sons and his brethren, twelve. ¹¹The fourth, to Izri, his sons and his brethren, twelve. ¹²The fifth, Nethaniah, his sons and his brethren, twelve. ¹³The sixth, Bukkiah, his sons and his brethren, twelve. ¹⁴The seventh, Jesharelah, his sons and his brethren, twelve. ¹⁵The eighth, Jeshaiiah, his sons and his brethren, twelve. ¹⁶The ninth, Mattaniah, his sons and his brethren, twelve. ¹⁷The tenth, Shimei, his sons and his brethren, twelve. ¹⁸The eleventh, Azarel, his sons and his brethren, twelve. ¹⁹The twelfth, to Hashabiah, his sons and his brethren, twelve. ²⁰As the thirteenth, Shubael, his sons and his brethren, twelve. ²¹As the fourteenth, Mattithiah, his sons and his brethren, twelve. ²²As the fifteenth, to Jeremoth, his sons and his brethren, twelve. ²³As the sixteenth, to Haniah, his sons and his brethren, twelve. ²⁴As the seventeenth, to Joshbekashah, his sons and his brethren, twelve. ²⁵As the eighteenth, to Hanani, his sons and his brethren, twelve. ²⁶As the nineteenth, to Mallothi, his sons and his brethren, twelve. ²⁷As the twentieth, to Eliathah, his sons and his brethren, twelve. ²⁸As the twenty-first, to Hothir, his sons and his brethren, twelve. ²⁹As the twenty-second, to Giddalti, his sons and his brethren, twelve. ³⁰As the twenty-third, to Mahazioth, his sons and his brethren, twelve. ³¹As the twenty-fourth, to Romamti-ezer, his sons and his brethren, twelve.

26To the courses of the door-keepers, pertained,—of the Korahites, Meshelemiah son of Kore, of the sons of Asaph; ²and, Meshelemiah, had sons,—Zechariah the first-born, Jediah the second, Zebadiah the third, Jathniel the fourth; ³Elam the fifth, Jehohanan the sixth, Eliehoenai the seventh. ⁴And, Obed-edom, had sons,—Shemaiah the first-born, Jehozabad the second, Josh the third, and Sacar the fourth, and Nethanel the fifth; ⁵Ammiel the sixth, Issachar the seventh, Peullethai, the eighth,—for God had blessed him. ⁶And, to Shemaiah his son, were born sons, who bare rule to their ancestral house,—for, heroes of valour, were they. ⁷the sons of Shemaiah, were Othni and Rephael, and Obed, Elzabad, whose brethren were sons of valour,—Elihu, and Semachiah. ⁸All these, were of the sons of Obed-edom, they and their sons and their brethren, able men in strength for the service,—sixty-two, pertaining to Obed-edom. ⁹And, Meshelemiah, had sons, and brethren, sons of valour, eighteen. ¹⁰And, Hosah of the sons of Merari, had sons,—Shimri the chief, for though he was not the firstborn, yet his father, made him, chief. ¹¹Hilkiah the second, Tebaliah the third, Zechariah the fourth,—all the sons and brethren of Hosah, were thirteen. ¹²To these, belonged the courses of door-keepers, to the chiefs of the strong men, belonged charges, equally with their brethren,—to be in attendance in the house of Yahweh. ¹³Yea they east lots, as the small so the great, by their ancestral house, for every several gate. ¹⁴And the lot eastward fell to Shelemiah. And, for Zechariah his son, a discreet counselor, they cast lots, and his lot came out, northward. ¹⁵To Obed-edom, southward,—and, to his sons, the storehouse. ¹⁶To Shuppim and to Hosah, westward, near the refuse-gate, in the causeway that goeth up,—one ward as well as another. ¹⁷Eastward—daily, were six,—northward—daily, four, southward—daily, four, and, for the stores, two and two. ¹⁸For the precinct—westward, four, at the causeway, two—by the precinct. ¹⁹These, were the courses of the door-keepers, of the sons of the Korahites, and of the sons of Merari. ²⁰And, the Levites, their brethren, were over the treasuries of the house of God, even to the treasuries of hallowed things. ²¹The sons of Ladan—the sons of the Gershonites belonging to Ladan—the ancestral chiefs belonging to Ladan the Gershonite, were Jehieli; ²²the sons of Jehieli, Zetham and Joel his brother who were over the treasuries of the house of Yahweh. ²³Then came certain of the Amramites, of the Izharites, of the Hebronites, of the Uzzielites. ²⁴And, Shebuel, son of Gershom, son of Moses, was chief ruler over the treasuries. ²⁵And, his brethren pertaining to Eliezer, were Rehabiah his son, and Jeshaiiah his son, and Joram his son, and Zichri his son, and Shelomoth his son. ²⁶The same Shelomoth and his brethren, were over all the treasuries of the hallowed things, which David the king and the ancestral chiefs, with the captains of thousands and hundreds and the captains of the army, had hallowed: ²⁷out of the battles and out of the spoil, had they hallowed them,—to strengthen the provision for the house of Yahweh. ²⁸And, all that Samuel the seer, and Saul son of Kish, and Abner son of Ner, and Joab son of Zeruiah, had hallowed, whosoever had hallowed anything, it was under the direction of Shelomoth, and his brethren. ²⁹Of the Izharites, Chenaniah and his sons, were for the outward business over Israel,—as officers, and as judges. ³⁰Of the Hebronites, Hashabiah and his brethren, sons of valour, one thousand seven hundred, had the oversight of Israel, across the Jordan westward,—for all the business of Yahweh, and for the service of the king. ³¹Of the Hebronites, Jerijah, was chief, he was of the Hebronites by his generations, by his fathers,—in the fortieth year of the reign of David, were they sought out, and there were found among them heroes of valour, in Jazer of Gilead; ³²and, his brethren that were heroes of valour, were two thousand and seven hundred, ancestral chiefs,—so David the king gave them oversight, over the Reubenites and the Gadites and the half tribe of Manassites, in all the affairs of God, and the affairs of the king.

27Now, the sons of Israel—as to the number of them, the ancestral chiefs—and rulers of thousands and hundreds, and their officers who waited upon the king as to any matter of the courses, who came in and went out month by month, for all the months of the year, in each course, were twenty-four thousand. ²Over the first course, for the first month, was Jashobeam, son of Zabdiel,—and, in his course, were twenty-four thousand. ³Of the sons of Perez, was the chief for all the rulers of the hosts, for the first month. ⁴And, over the course for the second month, was Dodai an Ahohite, and, of his course, was Mikloth also a chief ruler,—and, in his course, were twenty-four thousand. ⁵The ruler of the third host, for the third month, was Benaiah, son of Jehoiada the priest—a chief,—and, in his course, were twenty-four thousand. ⁶The same Benaiah, was a hero of thirty, and over the thirty,—and, over his course, was Ammizabad his son. ⁷The fourth, for the fourth month, was Asahel, brother of Joab, and Zebadiah his son, after him,—and, in his course, were twenty-four thousand. ⁸Of the fifth, for the fifth month, the ruler, was Shamhuth the Izrahite,—and, in his course, were twenty-four thousand. ⁹The sixth, for the sixth month, was Ira son of Ikkes, the Tekoite,—and, in his course, were twenty-four thousand. ¹⁰The seventh, for the seventh month, was Helez the Pelonite, of the sons of Ephraim,—and, in his course, were twenty-four thousand. ¹¹The eighth, for the eighth month, was Sibbecai the Hushathite, of the Zerahites,—and, in his course, were twenty-four thousand. ¹²The ninth, for the ninth month, was Abiezer the Anathothite, of the Benjamites,—and, in his course, were twenty-four thousand. ¹³The tenth, for the tenth month, was Maharai the Netophathite, of the Zerahites,—and, in his course, were twenty-four thousand. ¹⁴The eleventh, for the eleventh month, was Benaiah the Pirathonite, of the sons of Ephraim,—and, in his course, were twenty-four thousand. ¹⁵The twelfth, for the twelfth month, was Heldai the Netophathite, of Othniel,—and, in his course, were twenty-four thousand. ¹⁶Furthermore, over the tribes of Israel, the chief ruler of the Reubenites, was Eliezer, son of Zichri. Of the Simeonites, Shephatiah, son of Maacah. ¹⁷Of Levi, Hashabiah, son of Kemuel. Of Aaron, Zadok. ¹⁸Of Judah, Elihu, one of the brethren of David. Of Issachar, Omri, son of Michael. ¹⁹Of Zebulun, Ishmaiah, son of Obadiah. Of Naphtali, Jeremoth, son of Azriel. ²⁰Of the sons of Ephraim, Hoshea son of Azaziah. Of the half tribe of Manasseh, Joel, son of Pedaias. ²¹Of the half of Manasseh, in Gilead, Iddo, son of Zechariah. Of Benjamin, Jaasiel, son of Abner. ²²Of Dan, Azarel, son of Jeroham. These, were the rulers of the tribes of Israel. ²³But David took not the number of them, from twenty years old, and under,—because Yahweh had said, he would multiply Israel like the stars of the heavens. ²⁴Joab son of Zeruiah, began to number, but finished not, when there arose, on this account, indignation against Israel,—neither did the number come up into the account of the chronicles of King David. ²⁵And, over the treasuries of the king, was Azmaveth, son of Adiel. And, over the treasuries in the fields, in the cities, in the villages and in the castles, was Jonathan, son of Uzziah; ²⁶And, over the workers of the field, for the tillage of the ground, was Ezri, son of Chelub. ²⁷And, over the vineyards, was Shimei, the Ramathite. And, over that which was in the vineyards, for the treasuries of wine, was Zabdi, the Shiphmite. ²⁸And, over the olive-trees and the sycamore-trees that were in the lowland, was Baal-hanan the Gederite. And, over the treasuries of oil, was Joash. ²⁹And, over the herds that pastured in Sharon, was Shitrai, the Sharonite. And, over the herds in the vales, Shaphat, son of Adlai. ³⁰And, over the camels, was Obil, the Ishmaelite. And, over the asses, was Jehdeyahu the Meronothite. ³¹And, over the flocks, was Jaziz, the Hagrite. All these, were rulers over the possessions that belonged to King David. ³²And, Jonathan the relative of David, was a counsellor, a man of understanding and a scribe, was he. And, Jehiel son of Hachmoni, was with the sons of the king. ³³And, Ahitophel, was counsellor to the king. And, Hushai the Archite, was the companion of the king. ³⁴And, after Ahitophel, was Jehoiada son of Benaiah—and Abiathar. And, the captain of the king's army, was Joab.

28And David called together all the rulers of Israel, the rulers of tribes and the rulers of the courses who waited upon the king,—and the rulers of thousands and the rulers of hundreds, and the rulers over all the possessions and substance that belonged to the king and to his sons, with the courtiers and the heroes, even every hero of valour, unto Jerusalem. ²Then David the king rose up on his feet, and said, Hear me, my brethren and my people,—As for me, it was near my heart, to build a house of rest for the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, and for the footstool of our God, and I made ready to build. ³But, God, said to me, Thou shalt not build a house for my Name,—for, a man of war, thou art, and, blood, hast thou shed. ⁴Howbeit Yahweh, God of Israel, made choice of me, out of all of the house of my father, to become king over Israel unto times age-abiding, for, of Judah, had he made choice to be chief ruler, and, in the house of Judah, the house of my father,—and, among the sons of my father, with me, was he well-pleased, to make me king over all Israel; ⁵and, from among all my sons,—for, many sons, hath Yahweh

given me,—he hath made choice of Solomon my son, to sit upon the throne of the kingdom of Yahweh, over Israel. ⁶And he said unto am, Solomon thy son—he, shall build my house, and my courts,—for I have made choice of him that he may be my son, and that, I, may be his father. ⁷So will I establish his kingdom, unto times age-abiding,—if he be strong, to do my commandments and my regulations, as at this day. ⁸Now, therefore, in the eyes of all Israel—the convocation of Yahweh, and in the ears of our God, Observe and seek all the commandments of Yahweh your God,—to the end that ye may possess the good land,—and suffer your sons after you to inherit it, unto times age-abiding. ⁹Thou, therefore, Solomon my son, Know thou the God of thy father, and serve him with a perfect heart and with a willing soul, for, all hearts, doth Yahweh search, and, every devised purpose, doth he understand,—If thou seek him, He will be found of thee, but, if thou forsake him, He will cast thee off for ever. ¹⁰See! now, that, Yahweh, hath made choice of thee, to build a house for a sanctuary—be strong and do! ¹¹Then gave David unto Solomon his son, the plan of the porch, and the recesses thereof, and the treasures thereof, and the upper rooms thereof, and the inner chambers thereof, and the recess for the propitiatory; ¹²and the plan of all which had come by the spirit to be with him, for the courts of the house of Yahweh, and for all the rooms round about,—for the treasures of the house of God, and for the treasures of hallowed things; ¹³and for the courses of the priests and the Levites, and for all the work of the service of the house of Yahweh,—and for all the utensils of the service of the house of Yahweh: ¹⁴of gold, by weight, for the gold, for all manner of utensils for each several service,—for all manner of utensils of silver, by weight, for all manner of utensils for each several service; ¹⁵and a weight, for the lampstands of gold, and their lamps of gold, by the weight of each several lampstand, and the lamps thereof,—and for the lampstands of silver by weight, for each lampstand and the lamps thereof, according to the service of each several lampstand. ¹⁶And the gold gave he by weight for the tables for setting in array, for each several table,—and silver, for the tables of silver; ¹⁷and the fleshhooks and the bowls and the cups, pure gold,—and for the goblets of gold, by weight for each several goblet, and for the goblets of silver, by weight for each several goblet; ¹⁸and, for the altar of incense, refined gold, by weight,—and, for the pattern of the chariot of the cherubim, gold, for them that were spreading out, and covering the ark of the covenant of Yahweh:— ¹⁹the whole in writing, From the hand of Yahweh upon me, to give understanding,—all the works of the pattern. ²⁰Then said David, unto Solomon his son, Be strong and bold, and act, thou mayest not fear nor be dismayed,—for, Yahweh, God, my God, will be with thee, he will not let thee go, neither will he forsake thee, until thou hast finished all the work of the service of the house of Yahweh. ²¹And there are the courses of the priests and the Levites, for all the service of the house of God,—and, with thee, in all manner of work, is every willing, skilful man for any service, also the rulers and all the people, for all thine affairs.

29Then said David the king unto all the convocation, Solomon my son, the one, of whom God hath made choice, is young and tender,—and, the work, is great, seeing that, not for man, is the palace, but for Yahweh Elohim. ²And, with all my might, have I made preparation for the house of my God, the gold for the gold, and the silver for the silver, and the bronze for the bronze, the iron for the iron, and the wood for the wood,—and beryl stones and settings, stones coloured and particoloured, and all manner of precious stones and stones of white marble, in abundance. ³And yet further, because of my delighting in the house of my God, having a treasure of mine own in gold and silver, I have given for the house of my God, above and beyond all that I have prepared for the holy house: ⁴three thousand talents of gold, of the gold of Ophir,—and seven thousand talents of refined silver, for overlaying the walls of the recesses. ⁵Of gold for the gold, and of silver for the silver, and for all manner of work in the hand of artificers,—Who then is ready to offer willingly, by filling his hand to-day, unto Yahweh? ⁶Then offered they willingly—the ancestral rulers and the rulers of the tribes of Israel, and the rulers of thousands and hundreds, even to the rulers of the work of the king; ⁷and gave for the service of the house of God, of gold, five thousand talents and ten thousand drams, and, of silver, ten thousand talents, and, of bronze, eighteen thousand talents,—and, of iron, one hundred thousand talents. ⁸And, every one with whom were found precious stones, gave to the treasure of the house of Yahweh,—unto the hand of Jehiel the Gershonite. ⁹So the people rejoiced because they willingly offered, for, with a perfect heart, offered they willingly unto Yahweh,—moreover also, David the king, rejoiced with great joy. ¹⁰Therefore did David bless Yahweh in the eyes of all the convocation,—and David said, Blessed art thou, O Yahweh, the God of Israel our father, from age even unto age. ¹¹Thine, O Yahweh, are Greatness, and Might, and Beauty, and Victory, and Majesty, nay! all in the heavens and in the earth,—thine, O Yahweh, is the kingdom, who art exalted above all,—as chief; ¹²and, riches and honour, are from before thee, and, thou, art ruling over all, and, in thy hand, are power and might,—and, in thy hand, it is, to give greatness and strength unto any. ¹³Now, therefore, O our God, we are giving thanks unto thee,—and offering praise, unto thy beautiful Name. ¹⁴And yet, who am, I, and who are my people, that we should be able to offer willingly like this? for, from thee, is the whole, and, out of thine own hand, have we given unto thee; ¹⁵for, sojourners, are we before thee, and strangers, like all our fathers,—like a shadow, are our days upon the earth, and there is no hope. ¹⁶O Yahweh our God, all this abundance which we have prepared, to build thee a house for thy holy Name, out of thine own hand, it is, and, thine, is the whole. ¹⁷But I know, O my God, that, thou, art proving the heart, and, with uprightness, wilt thou be pleased,—I, in the uprightness of my heart, have willingly offered all these things, now, therefore, thy people who are found here, have I seen with joy, offering willingly unto thee. ¹⁸O Yahweh, God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, our fathers, oh guard this age-abidingly, as the devised purpose of the heart of thy people,—and establish thou their heart, unto thyself. ¹⁹Also, unto Solomon my son, give thou an undivided heart, to keep thy commandments, thy testimonies, and thy statutes,—to do the whole, and to build the palace for which I have prepared. ²⁰Then said David, unto all the convocation, Bless, I beseech you, Yahweh your God. So all the convocation blessed Yahweh, the God of their fathers, and did bend their heads and bow themselves down unto Yahweh, and unto the king; ²¹and sacrificed unto Yahweh sacrifices, and caused to go up ascending-offerings unto Yahweh, on the morrow of that day, a thousand bullocks, a thousand rams, a thousand young sheep, and the drink-offerings thereof,—and sacrifices in abundance, for all Israel. ²²And so they did eat and drink before Yahweh on that day, with great joy,—and they, the second time, made Solomon son of David king, and anointed him unto Yahweh to be chief ruler, and Zadok to be priest. ²³So Solomon took his seat upon the throne of Yahweh, as king, instead of David his father, and prospered,—and all Israel, hearkened unto him. ²⁴And, all the rulers, and the heroes, yea moreover all the sons of King David, gave a hand, under Solomon the king. ²⁵And Yahweh magnified Solomon, exceedingly, before the eyes of all Israel,—and gave unto him a royal majesty, that had not been on any king before him, over Israel. ²⁶Thus, David son of Jesse, reigned over all Israel; ²⁷and, the days that he reigned over Israel, were forty years,—in Hebron reigned he seven years, and in Jerusalem, reigned he, thirty-three. ²⁸And he died in a good old age, satisfied with days, riches and honour,—and Solomon his son reigned in his stead. ²⁹Now, the acts of David the king, first and last, behold them! written in the records of Samuel the seer, and in the records of Nathan the prophet, and in the records of Gad the seer: ³⁰with all his reign, and his might,—and the times which passed over him, and over Israel, and over all the kingdoms of the lands.

II Chronicles

¹And Solomon, son of David, strengthened himself over his kingdom,—and, Yahweh, his God, was with him, and made him surpassingly great. ²And Solomon gave word to all Israel—to the rulers of thousands, and hundreds, and to the judges, and to all the leaders of all Israel, ancestral chiefs; ³and Solomon, and all the convocation with him, went to the high place that was in Gibeon,—for, there, was the tent of meeting of God, which Moses the servant of Yahweh made in the desert. ⁴Howbeit, the ark of God, had David brought up from Kiriath-jearim, into the place that David had prepared for it,—for he had pitched for it a tent, in Jerusalem. ⁵Also, the altar of bronze that Bezalel son of Uri son of Hur had made, was there before the habitation of Yahweh,—so Solomon and the convocation sought it. ⁶And Solomon went up thither, unto the altar of bronze before Yahweh, which belonged to the tent of meeting,—and caused to go up thereon a thousand ascending-sacrifices. ⁷During that night, God appeared unto Solomon,—and said unto him, Ask what I shall give thee. ⁸And Solomon said unto God, Thou thyself, didst deal with David my father in great lovingkindness,—and hast made me king in his stead. ⁹Now, O Yahweh Elohim, let thy word with David my father be brought to pass,—for, thou, hast made me king over a people, for multitude like the dust of the earth. ¹⁰Now, wisdom and knowledge, give thou unto me, that I may go out before this people, and may come in,—for who can judge this thy people, that is so great? ¹¹And God said unto Solomon, Because this was near thy heart, and thou hast not asked riches, wealth, or honour, or the life of them that hate thee, nor even, many days, hast thou asked,—but hast asked for thyself, wisdom and knowledge, that thou mayest judge my people, over whom I have made thee king, ¹²wisdom and knowledge, are granted unto thee,—moreover, riches and wealth and honour, will I give thee, such as the kings who were before thee did not possess, neither shall they who come after thee possess the like. ¹³And Solomon came from the high place that was in Gibeon unto Jerusalem, from before the tent of meeting,—and reigned over Israel. ¹⁴And Solomon gathered chariots and horsemen, and came to have a thousand and four hundred chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen,—and he settled them in chariot cities, and with the king, in Jerusalem. ¹⁵And the king made silver and gold in Jerusalem, like stones, and, cedars, made he like the sycomores that are in the lowland, for abundance. ¹⁶And the horses which Solomon had were, an export, out of Egypt,—and a, company of royal merchants, used to fetch a drove, at a price; ¹⁷and they built and brought forth out of Egypt a chariot, for six hundred shekels of silver, and a horse, for a hundred and fifty,—and, so, for all the kings of the Hittites and the kings of Syria, by their means, brought they them forth.

²Then Solomon gave word to build a house for the Name of Yahweh, and a house for his kingdom. ²And Solomon numbered seventy thousand men to bear burdens, and eighty thousand men to hew in the mountain,—and, to oversee them, three thousand six hundred. ³And Solomon sent unto Hiram king of Tyre, saying,—As thou didst deal with David my father, and didst send him cedars to build him a house to dwell in, ⁴lo! I, am about to build a house for the Name of Yahweh my God, to hallow unto him—to burn before him sweet incense, and for a continual setting in array, and to offer ascending-sacrifices morning and evening, on the sabbaths, and on the new moons, and on the appointed feasts of Yahweh our God,—age-abiding, is this law for Israel. ⁵And, the house which I am about to build, must be great,—for great is our God, above all gods. ⁶But who is able to build unto him a house? for, the heavens, even the heaven of heavens, cannot contain him,—who then am, I, that I should build unto him a house, though only to burn incense before him? ⁷Now, therefore, send me a wise man, to work in gold and in silver and in bronze and in iron, and in purple and crimson and blue, and skilful to execute gravings,—with the wise men who are with me, in Judah and in Jerusalem, whom my father David did provide. ⁸And send me—timbers of cedar, cypress and sandal-wood, out of the Lebanon, for, I, know that, thy servants, are skilful, to cut the timbers of Lebanon,—and lo! my servants shall be with thy servants: ⁹yea to prepare me timbers in abundance,—for, the house which I am about to build, must be great and most wonderful. ¹⁰And lo! for the hewers that cut the timbers, have I given wheat as food for thy servants, twenty thousand measures, and barley, twenty thousand measures, and wine, twenty thousand baths, and oil, twenty thousand baths. ¹¹Then answered Hiram king of Tyre, in writing, which he sent unto Solomon,—Because Yahweh hath loved his people, hath he set thee over them as king. ¹²And Hiram said, Blessed be Yahweh, God of Israel, who made the heavens and the earth,—who hath given, unto David the king, a wise son, skilled in prudence and understanding, who will build a house for Yahweh, and a house for his kingdom. ¹³Now, therefore, have I sent a wise man, skilled in understanding, pertaining to Hiram my father: ¹⁴son of a woman of the daughters of Dan, whose father was a man of Tyre, skilled to work in gold and in silver, in bronze, in iron, in stones and in timber, in purple, in blue and in fine white linen, and in crimson, and to grave any manner of graving, and to devise any manner of device that may be given to him, with thy wise men, and the wise men of my lord David thy father. ¹⁵Now, therefore, the wheat and the barley, the oil and the wine, whereof my lord hath spoken, let him send unto his servants; ¹⁶and, we, will cut down timbers out of the Lebanon, according to all thy need, and will bring them unto thee in floats, upon the sea to Joppa,—and, thou, shalt fetch them up to Jerusalem. ¹⁷So Solomon numbered all the men that were sojourners, who were in the land of Israel, after the numbering, where-with David his father had numbered them,—and they were found to be—a hundred and fifty-three thousand and six hundred. ¹⁸And he made up from among them—seventy thousand, to bear burdens, and eighty thousand to hew in the mountain,—and three thousand and six hundred, as overseers, to keep the people at work.

³Then began Solomon, to build the house of Yahweh, in Jerusalem, in Mount Moriah, where he had appeared unto David his father,—in the place which David had prepared, in the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite. ²And he began to build, in the second month, on the second, in the fourth year of his reign. ³And, these, are the things wherein Solomon was grounded for the building of the house of God,—The length, by cubits, in the first measure, was sixty cubits, and, the breadth, twenty cubits. ⁴And, the porch which was in front of the length, in front of the breadth of the house, was twenty cubits, and, the height thereof, was a hundred and twenty,—and he overlaid it, within, with pure gold. ⁵And, the greater house, covered he with cypress wood, and overlaid it with fine gold,—and raised thereon palms, and wreathed garlands. ⁶And he covered the house with precious stones, for beauty,—and, the gold, was gold of Parvaim. ⁷And he covered the house, the beams, the entrance-hall, and the walls thereof and the doors thereof, with gold,—and he carved cherubim upon the walls. ⁸And he made the most holy house, the length whereof, was, according to the breadth of the house, twenty cubits, and, the breadth thereof, twenty cubits,—and he covered it with fine gold, to the number of six hundred talents; ⁹and, the weight of the nails, amounted to fifty shekels of gold,—and, the upper chambers, covered he with gold. ¹⁰And he made, in the most holy house, two cherubim, of carved work,—and covered them with gold. ¹¹And, as for the wings of the cherubim, the length of them, was twenty cubits,—the one wing, by the cubit was five, reaching to the wall of the house, and, the other wing, five cubits, reaching to the wing of the other cherub; ¹²and, the wing of the other cherub, was five cubits, reaching to the wall of the house,—and, the other wing, was five cubits, cleaving to the wing of the other cherub: ¹³the wings of these cherubim, outspread, were twenty cubits,—and, they themselves, were standing upon their feet, and, their faces, were inward. ¹⁴And he made a vail, of blue and purple, and crimson and byssus cloth,—and raised thereon cherubim. ¹⁵And he made, for the front of the house, two pillars, thirty five cubits in length,—and, the capital which was upon the top of each, was five cubits. ¹⁶And he made wreathen chains in the shrine, and put them upon the top of the pillars,—and he made one hundred pomegranates, and put them in the chains, ¹⁷And he reared up the pillars in front of the temple, one, on the right, and, one, on the left,—and called the name of that on the right hand, Jachin, and the name of that on the left, Boaz.

⁴And he made an altar of bronze, twenty cubits, the length thereof, and, twenty cubits, the breadth thereof,—and, ten cubits, the height thereof. ²And he made a molten sea,—ten—by the cubit, from the one brim thereof into the other brim thereof, it was round all about, and, five—by the cubit, was the height thereof, and, a line—of thirty by the cubit, did compass it round about. ³And, the likeness of oxen, was under it round about on every side, encircling it, ten in a cubit, going round the sea, on every side,—two rows of oxen, made in the casting. ⁴It was standing on twelve oxen, three, looking toward the north, and, three, looking toward the west, and, three, looking toward the south, and, three, looking toward the east, the sea, being upon them above,—and, all their hinder parts, inward. ⁵And, the thickness thereof, was a hand-breadth, and, the brim thereof, was like the brim-work of a cup, with blossoms of lilies,—it could hold many baths, three thousand, would it contain. ⁶And he made ten lavers, and set five on the right hand—and five on the left, to bathe therein, what is offered as an ascending-sacrifice, do they rinse therein,—but, the sea, was, that the priests should bathe therein. ⁷And he made ten lampstands of gold according to the regulation thereof,—and set in the temple, five, on the right hand, and, five, on the left. ⁸And he made ten tables, and placed in the temple, five, on the right hand, and, five, on the left,—and he made a hundred tossing bowls of gold. ⁹And he made the court of the priests, and the large enclosure,—and doors to the enclosure, and, the doors thereof, overlaid he with bronze. ¹⁰And, the sea, he set on the right side of the house, eastward over against the south. ¹¹And Hiram made—the pans, and the shovels, and the tossing bowls,—and Hiram finished doing the work, which he did for King Solomon, in the house of God:—¹²two pillars, and the bowls and the capitals on the top of the two pillars, and the two frames of checker work, to cover the two bowls of the capitals, which were on the top of the pillars; ¹³and four hundred pomegranates, for the two frames,—two rows of pomegranates, for each frame, for covering the two bowls of the capitals, which were on the face of the pillars; ¹⁴and, the stands, made he,—and, the lavers, made he upon the stands; ¹⁵the one sea,—and the twelve oxen under it; ¹⁶and, the pans and the shovels and the flesh-hooks, and all the vessels, made Hiram his father for King Solomon, for the house of Yahweh,—of burnished bronze, ¹⁷In the circuit of the Jordan, did the king cast them, in the clay ground between Succoth and Zeredah. ¹⁸So Solomon made all these utensils, in great abundance,—for the weight of the bronze could not be searched out. ¹⁹Yea Solomon made all the utensils which were for the house of God,—and the altar of gold, and the rubles, whereon was the Presence-bread; ²⁰and the lamp-holders and their lamps, that they should burn according to the regulation before the shrine, of purified gold; ²¹and the blossom-work, and the lamps, and the tongs, of gold,—the same, was the purest gold; ²²and the snuffers and the bowls and the spoons and the censers, of purified gold,—and the entrance of the house, the inner doors thereof for the holy of holies, and the doors of the house of the temple, were of gold.

⁵Thus was perfected, all the work, which Solomon made, for the house of Yahweh,—and Solomon brought in the hallowed things of David his father, the silver, and the gold, and all the utensils, placed he, in the treasures of the house of God. ²Then, Solomon called together the elders of Israel, and all the chiefs of the tribes, the ancestral leaders of the sons of Israel, unto Jerusalem,—to bring up the ark of the covenant of Yahweh out of the city of David, the same, is Zion. ³And all the men of Israel came together unto the king, in the festival,—the same, was the seventh month. ⁴And all the elders of Israel came in,—and the Levites bare the ark; ⁵and they brought up the ark, and the tent of meeting, and all the holy utensils, that were in the tent,—the priests the Levites did bring them up. ⁶And, King Solomon, and all the assembly of Israel who assembled themselves unto him, before the ark, were sacrificing sheep and oxen, which could not be told nor could they be counted, for multitude. ⁷And the priests brought in the ark of the covenant of Yahweh into the place thereof, into the shrine of the house, into the holy of holies,—into the place beneath the wings of the cherubim;—⁸for the cherubim were spreading forth two wings, over the place of the ark,—so that the cherubim formed a covering over the ark and over the staves thereof, from above. ⁹And they drew out the staves, and the heads of the staves could be seen out of the ark, in front of the shrine, although they could not be seen on the outside,—and it came to pass that they have remained there—unto this day. ¹⁰There was, nothing in the ark, save only the two tables, which Moses placed therein in Horeb,—when Yahweh made a covenant with the sons of Israel, when they came forth out of Egypt. ¹¹And it came to pass, when the priests, came forth, out of the holy place,—for, all the priests who were present, had hallowed themselves, they had no need to observe the courses; ¹²and, the Levites who were the singers, even all of them pertaining to Asaph, to Heman, to Jeduthun, and to their sons and to their brethren, arrayed in white linen, with cymbals and with harps and lyres, stood eastward of the altar,—and, with them, priests to the number of a hundred-and-twenty, blowing with trumpets, ¹³then came it to pass, when the trumpeters and the singers were, as one, to make one sound to be heard in offering praise and giving thanks unto Yahweh—yea when they did lift on high the voice, with the trumpets and with the cymbals and with the instruments of song, yea in offering praise unto Yahweh—For he is good, For, age-abiding, is his lovingkindness, that, the house, was filled with the cloud of the glory of Yahweh; ¹⁴and the priests could not stand to minister, by reason of the cloud,—for, the glory of Yahweh, filled, the house of God.

⁶Then, said Solomon,—Yahweh, said, that he would make his habitation in thick gloom; ²But, I, have built a house as a home for thee,—A settled place for thee to abide in, for ages. ³And the king turned about his face, and blessed all the convocation of Israel,—while, all the convocation of Israel, was standing; ⁴and he said, Blessed be Yahweh, God of Israel, who spake with his mouth, unto David my father,—and, with his hand, hath fulfilled, saying: ⁵From the day I brought forth my people out of the land of Egypt, I made choice of no city, out of all the tribes of Israel, for building a house, where my Name might be,—neither made I choice of any man, to be chief ruler over my people Israel: ⁶nevertheless I have made choice of Jerusalem, that my Name might be there,—and I have made choice of David, that he might be over my people Israel. ⁷And so it came to pass, that it was near the heart of David my father,—to build a house, to the Name of Yahweh, God of Israel. ⁸Then said Yahweh unto David my father, Because it was near thy heart to build a house for my Name, thou didst well that it was near thy heart: ⁹Only, thou thyself, must not build the house,—but, thine own son, that proceedeth out of thy loins—he, shall build the house for my Name. ¹⁰So then Yahweh hath established his word, which he spake,—and I have been raised up instead of David my father, and have taken my seat upon the throne of Israel, as spake Yahweh, and have built the house to the Name of Yahweh, God of Israel; ¹¹and have put there, the ark,—wherein is the covenant of Yahweh,—which he solemnised with the sons of Israel. ¹²Then stood he before the altar of Yahweh, in the presence of all the convocation of Israel,—and spread forth his hands; ¹³for Solomon had made a platform of bronze, and had set it in the midst of the enclosure, five cubits, the length thereof, and, five cubits, the breadth thereof, and, three cubits, the height thereof,—and he stood thereon, and knelt upon his knees, in the presence of all the convocation of Israel, and spread forth his hands, heavenward; ¹⁴and said, O Yahweh! God of Israel, Not like unto thee, is there a god, in the heavens, or throughout the earth,—who keepest Covenant and Lovingkindness for thy servants who are walking before thee with all their heart: ¹⁵who hast kept, for thy servant David my father, that which thou didst promise him,—in that thou didst promise with thy mouth, and, with thy hand, hast fulfilled, as it is this day. ¹⁶Now, therefore, O Yahweh—God of Israel, keep thou, for thy servant David my father, that which thou didst promise him, saying, There shall not be cut off to thee a man, from before me, to sit upon the throne of Israel, if only, thy sons take heed to their way, to walk in my law, as thou hast walked before me. ¹⁷Now, therefore, O Yahweh, God of Israel,—verified be thy promise, which thou didst make unto thy servant David. ¹⁸But, in very deed, will God dwell with man on the earth? Lo! the heavens, even the heaven of heavens, cannot contain thee, how much less this house which I have built! ¹⁹Wilt thou then turn unto the prayer of thy servant and unto his supplication, O Yahweh my God,—to hearken unto the cry and unto the prayer, wherewith thy servant is praying before thee: ²⁰that thine eyes may be open toward this house, day and night, toward the place of which thou hast said thou wouldst set thy Name there,—to hearken unto the prayer which thy servant may pray towards this place: ²¹wilt thou therefore hearken unto the supplications of thy servant, and thy people Israel, when they shall pray toward this place,—yea wilt, thou thyself, hear, out of thine own dwelling-place, out of the heavens, and, when thou hearest, then wilt thou forgive? ²²If a man shall sin against his neighbour, and there shall be laid upon him an oath, to put him on oath,—and an oath shall come before thine altar in this house, ²³then wilt, thou thyself, hear out of the heavens, and act, and judge thy servants, bringing back unto the lawless, to set his way upon his own head,—and justifying the righteous, by giving to him, according to his righteousness? ²⁴Or, if thy people Israel be smitten before an enemy, because they have been sinning against thee,—and they turn, and confess thy Name, and pray and make supplication before thee, in this house, ²⁵then wilt, thou thyself, hear out of the heavens, and forgive the sin of thy people Israel,—and bring them back unto the soil, which thou didst give to them and to their fathers? ²⁶When the heavens are shut up and there is no rain, because they have been sinning against thee,—and they shall pray towards this place, and shall confess thy Name, from their sin, shall return, because thou hast been afflicting them, ²⁷then wilt, thou thyself, hear out of the heavens and forgive the sin of thy servants, and thy people Israel, that thou mayest direct them into the good way, wherein they should walk,—and give rain, upon thy land, which thou hast given unto thy people, for an inheritance? ²⁸When there shall be, a famine, in the land, when there shall be, a pestilence,—when there shall be, blasting or mildew, locust or caterpillar,—when their enemy shall besiege them in the land at their own gates—whatsoever plague or whatsoever sickness;—²⁹whatsoever prayer, whatsoever supplication, which any son of earth may have, or any of thy people Israel,—when any man shall come to know his plague, or his pain, and so he shall spread abroad his hands towards this house—³⁰then wilt, thou thyself, hear out of the heavens, the settled place of thine abode, and forgive, and grant to every man according to his ways, whose heart thou wilt know,—for, thou thyself alone, knowest the heart of the sons of men: ³¹to the end they may revere thee, to walk in thy ways, all the days which they shall be living upon the face of the soil,—which thou gavest unto their fathers? ³²Moreover also, unto the stranger who is not, of thy people Israel, but he shall come in out of a far country—for the sake of thy great Name, and of thy strong hand, and of thine outstretched arm,—and so they shall come in and pray towards this house, ³³then wilt, thou thyself, hear out of the heavens, out of the settled place of thine abode, and do according to all for which the stranger shall cry unto thee,—to the end that all the peoples of the earth may know thy Name, so as to revere thee like thy people Israel, and know that, thy Name, hath been given unto this house, which I have built? ³⁴When thy people shall go forth to war against their enemies, whithersoever thou mayest send them,—and shall pray unto thee in the direction of this city which thou hast chosen, and the house which I have built for thy Name, ³⁵then wilt thou hear, out of the heavens, their prayer and their supplication,—and maintain their right. ³⁶When they sin against thee—for there is no son of earth who sinneth not—and thou shalt be angry with them, and deliver them up before an enemy,—who shall carry them away as their captives into a land—far away or near; ³⁷and they come back to their right mind, in the land whither they have been taken captive,—and so turn and make supplication unto thee in the land of their captivity, saying, We have sinned, we have done perversely, and been lawless;—³⁸and so turn unto thee with all their heart, and with all their soul, in the land of their captivity, whither they have carried them captive,—and shall pray in the direction of their own land, which thou gavest unto their fathers, and the city which thou hast chosen, and unto the house which I have built for thy Name, ³⁹then wilt thou hear out of the heavens—out of the settled place of thine abode—their prayer and their supplications, and maintain their cause,—and forgive thy people, that wherein they sinned against thee? ⁴⁰Now, O my God, let—I beseech thee—thine eyes be open, and thine ears attent,—unto the prayer of this place. ⁴¹Now, therefore, arise! O Yahweh God, unto thy rest, thou, and the ark of thy strength: Thy priests, O Yahweh God, let them be clothed with salvation, and, thy men of lovingkindness, let them rejoice in prosperity. ⁴²O Yahweh God! do not turn away thy face from thine Anointed One,—oh remember lovingkindness unto David thy servant.

⁷Now, when Solomon had made an end of praying, Fire, came down out of the heavens, and consumed the ascending-offering and the sacrifices,—and, the glory of Yahweh, filled the house; ²so that the priests could not enter into the house of Yahweh,—because the glory of Yahweh filled the house of Yahweh; ³and, all the sons of Israel, seeing the descending of the fire and the glory of Yahweh upon the house, then knelt they down with their faces toward the ground, upon the pavement, and bowed themselves in prostration, and gave thanks unto Yahweh, For he is good, For, age-abiding, is his lovingkindness. ⁴And, the king and all the people, were offering sacrifice before Yahweh. ⁵And King Solomon offered a sacrifice—of oxen, twenty-two thousand, and of sheep, a hundred and twenty thousand, and so the king and all the people, dedicated the house of God; ⁶while, the priests, over their charges, were standing, the Levites also, with the instruments for the songs of Yahweh, which David the king had made, for giving thanks unto Yahweh, For, age-abiding, is his lovingkindness, when David offered praise by their means,—and, the priests, kept on blowing trumpets over against them, while, all Israel, were standing. ⁷And Solomon hallowed the middle of the court that was before the house of Yahweh, for he offered there the ascending-sacrifices, and the fat portions of the peace-offerings,—because, the altar of bronze which Solomon had made, was not able to receive the ascending-sacrifice and the meal-offering and the fat portions. ⁸And Solomon made a festival—at that time—for seven days, and all Israel with him, an exceeding great convocation,—from the entering in of Hamath, unto the ravine of Egypt. ⁹And they made, on the eighth day, a closing feast,—because, the dedication of the altar, they had kept seven days and a festival seven days. ¹⁰And, on the twenty-third of the seventh month, he sent the people away to their own homes,—rejoicing and glad in heart, over the goodness which Yahweh had performed unto David and unto Solomon, and unto Israel his people. ¹¹Thus Solomon finished the house of Yahweh, and the house of the king,—and, all that had come in upon the heart of Solomon, to do in the house of Yahweh and in his own house, he prosperously executed. ¹²Then appeared

Yahweh unto Solomon by night,—and said to him, I have heard thy prayer, and have made choice of this place for myself, as a house of sacrifice:—¹³If I shut up the heavens that there be no rain, or if I lay command on the locust, to devour the land,—or if I send pestilence, amongst my people: ¹⁴if my people upon whom my Name is called shall humble themselves, and pray and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways, then will, I myself, hear out of the heavens, and forgive their sin, and heal their land. ¹⁵Now, mine eyes, shall be open, and, mine ears, attent,—to the prayer of this place. ¹⁶Now, therefore, have I chosen and hallowed this house, that my Name may be there, unto times age-abiding,—and mine eyes and my heart shall be there, all the days. ¹⁷Thou, therefore, if thou wilt walk before me, as David thy father walked, even to do according to all that I have commanded thee,—and, my statutes and regulations, thou wilt observe, ¹⁸then will I establish the throne of thy kingdom,—according as I covenanted to David thy father, saying—There shall not fail thee a man, to rule over Israel. ¹⁹But, if, ye yourselves, shall turn away, and forsake my statutes and my commandments, which I have set before you,—and shall go and serve other gods, and bow down to them, ²⁰then will I root you out from off the soil, which I have given to you, and, this house, which I have hallowed for my Name, will I cast off from before my face,—and will appoint it for a by-word and a mockery, among all the peoples; ²¹and, this house which hath been renowned, all that pass by near it, shall be astonished,—and say, Wherefore hath Yahweh done, thus and thus, to this land, and to this house? ²²And men shall say, Because they forsook Yahweh the God of their fathers, who brought them up out of the land of Egypt, and laid hold of other gods, and bowed down to them, and served them, for this cause, hath he brought upon them, all this calamity.

⁸And it came to pass, at the end of twenty years, wherein Solomon had built the house of Yahweh, and his own house, ²that, the cities which Hiram had given to Solomon, Solomon built them,—and caused, the sons of Israel, to dwell there. ³And Solomon went to Hamath-zobah,—and prevailed against it; ⁴and he built Tadmor, in the wilderness,—and all the store cities, which he built in Hamath; ⁵and he built Beth-horon, the upper, and Beth-horon, the nether,—fortified cities, with walls, and doors and bars; ⁶and Baalath, and all the store cities which pertained to Solomon, and all the chariot cities, and the cities of the horsemen,—and every delight of Solomon which he delighted to build in Jerusalem, and in the Lebanon, and in all the land of his dominion. ⁷As for all the people that were left, of the Hittites and the Amorites and the Perizzites and the Hivites and the Jebusites, who were not, of Israel;—⁸of their sons who were left after them in the land, whom the sons of Israel had not utterly destroyed, Solomon enrolled them as tributary—unto this day. ⁹But, of the sons of Israel, were there none whom he delivered up as bondmen unto his work,—for, they, were men of war, and his captains and his heroes, and captains over his chariots, and his horsemen. ¹⁰These, moreover, were the chiefs of his officers whom King Solomon had, two hundred and fifty,—who wielded dominion over the people. ¹¹And, the daughter of Pharaoh, Solomon brought up, out of the city of David, unto the house which he had built for her,—for he said, A wife of mine must not dwell in the house of David king of Israel, for holy are those places whereinto the ark of Yahweh hath come. ¹²Then, Solomon offered up ascending-sacrifices, unto Yahweh,—upon the altar of Yahweh, which he had built before the porch: ¹³even according to the duty of each a day upon its own day, offering up according to the commandment of Moses, for the sabbaths, and for the new moons, and for the appointed feasts, three times in the year,—in the festival of unleavened cakes and in the festival of weeks, and in the festival of booths; ¹⁴and he caused to stand, according to the regulation of David his father, the courses of the priests over their service and of the Levites over their charges, to offer praise and to minister before the priests, for the duty of each day upon its own day, and the gate-keepers in their courses, at every several gate,—for, such, was the commandment of David the man of God; ¹⁵neither departed they from the commandment of the king, concerning the priests and the Levites as to any duty, or as to the treasures. ¹⁶So all the work of Solomon was prepared, from the day of founding the house of Yahweh, even as far as the finishing thereof,—complete was the house of Yahweh. ¹⁷Then, went Solomon to Ezion-geber, and unto Eloth on the seashore in the land of Edom. ¹⁸And Hiram sent him—by the hand of his servants—ships, and servants skilled in the sea, and they came, with the servants of Solomon, towards Ophir, and took from thence, four hundred and fifty talents of gold,—and brought unto King Solomon.

⁹And, the queen of Sheba, heard the report of Solomon, so she came to prove Solomon with abstruse questions, in Jerusalem, with a very great train, and camels bearing spices, and gold in abundance, and precious stones,—and, when she was come to Solomon, she spake with him, as to all that was near her heart. ²And Solomon answered her all her questions,—and there was nothing hidden from Solomon, which he told her not. ³And, when the queen of Sheba had seen the wisdom of Solomon, and the house which he had built; ⁴and the food of his table, and the seats of his servants, and the standing of his attendants, with their apparel, and his cupbearers, and their apparel, and his ascent whereby he used to ascend the house of Yahweh, then was there in her no more spirit. ⁵And she said unto the king, True was the word, which I heard in my own land,—concerning thine affairs, and concerning thy wisdom. ⁶Howbeit I believed not their words, until I had come and mine own eyes had seen, when lo! there had not been told me, the half of the fulness of thy wisdom,—thou dost exceed the report which I heard. ⁷How happy! are thy men, and how happy! are these thy servants,—who are standing before thee continually, and hearing thy wisdom. ⁸Yahweh thy God be blessed, who hath delighted in thee, to set thee upon his throne as king unto Yahweh thy God. Because of the love of thy God unto Israel, to establish them unto times age-abiding, therefore hath he set thee over them, as king, to execute justice and righteousness. ⁹And she gave unto the king, a hundred and twenty talents of gold, and spices in great abundance and precious stones,—and there was none like that spice, which the queen of Sheba gave unto King Solomon. ¹⁰Moreover also, the servants of Hiram, and the servants of Solomon, who brought gold from Ophir, brought sandal-wood and precious stones. ¹¹And the king made of the sandal-wood, stairs unto the house of Yahweh, and unto the house of the king, also lyres and harps, for the singers,—and there were none seen like them before, in the land of Judah. ¹²And, King Solomon, gave to the queen of Sheba all her desire, whatsoever she asked, besides a return for that which she had brought unto the king,—so she turned, and went away to her own land, she, and her servants. ¹³Now, the weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year, was six hundred and sixty-six talents of gold; ¹⁴besides what came in from the subjugated, and what the travelling merchants were bringing in,—and, all the kings of Arabia and the pashas of the land, were bringing gold and silver, unto Solomon. ¹⁵And King Solomon made two hundred shields of beaten gold,—six hundred shekels of beaten gold, overlay one shield; ¹⁶also three hundred bucklers of beaten gold, three hundred shekels of gold, overlay one buckler,—and the king placed them in the house of the forest of Lebanon. ¹⁷And the king made a great throne of ivory,—and overlaid it with pure gold; ¹⁸and there were six steps to the throne, and a footstool in gold, unto the throne, made fast, and supports, on this side and on that, unto the seat,—and, two lions, standing by the supports; ¹⁹and, twelve lions, standing there upon the six steps, on this side and on that,—there was never made the like, for any kingdom. ²⁰And, all the drinking vessels of King Solomon, were of gold, and, all the vessels of the house of the forest of Lebanon, were of purified gold,—there was no silver, it was esteemed, in the days of Solomon, as nothing. ²¹For, the ships of the king, used to go to Tarshish, with the servants of Hiram,—once in three years, came in the ships of Tarshish, bearing gold and silver, ivory and apes, and peacocks. ²²And so King Solomon became greater than all the kings of the earth,—as to riches, and wisdom. ²³And, all the kings of the earth, were seeking the face of Solomon,—to hear his wisdom, which God had put in his heart; ²⁴and, they, were bringing in every man his present—utensils of silver, and utensils of gold, and mantles, armour, and spices, horses and mules,—the need of a year in a year. ²⁵And Solomon had four thousand stalls of horses, and chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen,—and he settled them in the chariot cities, and with the king in Jerusalem. ²⁶And he ruled over all the kings,—from the river Euphrates, even up to the land of the Philistines, yea up to the bounds of Egypt. ²⁷And the king made the silver in Jerusalem like the stones,—and, the cedar trees, made he like the sycomores which are in the lowland, for abundance. ²⁸And they used to bring horses out of Egypt unto Solomon, and out of all lands. ²⁹Now, the rest of the acts of Solomon, first and last, are they not written in the records of Nathan the prophet, and in the prophecy of Ahijah the Shilonite, and in the visions of Iddo the seer, concerning Jeroboam son of Nebat? ³⁰And Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel, forty years. ³¹And Solomon slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David his father,—and Rehoboam his son reigned in his stead.

10And Rehoboam went to Shechem,—for, to Shechem, had all Israel come, to make him king. ²And it came to pass, when Jeroboam son of Nebat, who was in Egypt—whither he had fled from the face of Solomon the king—heard of it, then returned Jeroboam out of Egypt. ³And they sent, and called him, so Jeroboam and all Israel came,—and spake unto Rehoboam, saying: ⁴Thy father, made our yoke oppressive,—now, therefore, lighten thou somewhat the oppressive servitude of thy father and his heavy yoke which he put upon us, and we will serve thee. ⁵And he said unto them, Yet three days, and then return unto me,—and the people departed. ⁶Then King Rehoboam took counsel with the old men who had been standing before Solomon his father, while he yet lived, saying,—How do, ye, counsel to return answer unto this people? ⁷And they spake unto him saying, If thou wilt be kind to this people, and please them, and speak unto them kind words, then will they be thy servants, all the days. ⁸But he declined the counsel of the old men, which they gave him,—and took counsel with the young men who had grown up with him, who were standing before him. ⁹And he said unto them, What do, ye, counsel that we should return as answer, unto this people,—who have spoken unto me saying, Lighten thou somewhat the yoke, which thy father put upon us? ¹⁰Then spake with him the young men who had grown up with him, saying, Thus, shalt thou speak unto the people who have spoken unto thee saying, Thy father, made our yoke heavy, Thou, therefore, lighten somewhat our yoke,—Thus, shalt thou say unto them, My little finger, is thicker than my father's loins; ¹¹Now, therefore, my father, laid upon you a heavy yoke, but, I, will add to your yoke,—My father, chastised you with whips, but, I, with scorpions, ¹²So Jeroboam and all the people came unto Rehoboam, on the third day,—as the king spake, saying, Return unto me on the third day. ¹³And the king answered them harshly,—and King Rehoboam declined the counsel of the old men; ¹⁴and spake unto them according to the counsel of the young men, saying, My father, made your yoke heavy, but, I, will add thereunto,—My father, chastised you with whips, But, I, with scorpions. ¹⁵So the king hearkened not unto the people,—for there had come to be a turn from God, to the end Yahweh might establish his word which he had spoken by means of Ahijah the Shilonite, unto Jeroboam, son of Nebat. ¹⁶And, when, all Israel, saw that the king hearkened not unto them, the people answered the king, saying—What portion have, we, in David, or inheritance in the son of Jesse? Every man, to your homes, O Israel! Now, see to thine own house, O David! And all Israel departed to their homes. ¹⁷But, as for the sons of Israel who were dwelling in the cities of Judah, Rehoboam reigned over them. ¹⁸Then King Rehoboam sent Hadoram, who was over the tribute, and the sons of Israel stoned him with stones, that he died. So, King Rehoboam, hastened to mount his chariot, to flee to Jerusalem. ¹⁹Thus Israel rebelled against the house of David—unto this day.

11And when Rehoboam had entered Jerusalem, he called together the house of Judah and Benjamin, a hundred and eighty thousand chosen men, warriors,—to fight against Israel, to bring back the kingdom to Rehoboam. ²Then came the word of Yahweh, unto Shemaiah the man of God, saying: ³Speak unto Rehoboam son of Solomon, king of Judah,—and unto all Israel in Judah and in Benjamin, saying: ⁴Thus, saith Yahweh, Ye shall not go up neither shall ye fight against your brethren, return every man to his own house, for, from me, hath this thing been brought about. So they hearkened unto the words of Yahweh, and turned back from going against Jeroboam. ⁵And Rehoboam dwelt in Jerusalem,—and built cities for defence, in Judah; ⁶yea he built Bethlehem and Etam, and Tekoa; ⁷and Beth-zur and Soco, and Adullam; ⁸and Gath and Mareshah, and Ziph; ⁹and Adoraim and Lachish, and Azekah; ¹⁰and Zorah, and Aijalon and Hebron, which are in Judah and Benjamin,—as fortified cities. ¹¹And he strengthened the fortified places,—and put therein captains, and stores of food, and oil and wine; ¹²and, in every several city, shields and spears, and made them exceedingly strong,—thus Judah and Benjamin remained his. ¹³And, the priests and Levites that were in all Israel, took their stand with him, out of all their boundaries. ¹⁴For the Levites left their pasture lands, and their possessions, and came to Judah, and to Jerusalem,—for Jeroboam and his sons cast them off, from ministering as priests unto Yahweh; ¹⁵and appointed for himself priests for the high places, and for the demons—and for the calves which he had made. ¹⁶And, after them—out of all the tribes of Israel, such as were setting their heart to seek Yahweh God of Israel, came to Jerusalem, to sacrifice unto Yahweh, God of their fathers. ¹⁷So they strengthened the kingdom of Judah, and emboldened Rehoboam son of Solomon, for three years,—for they walked in the way of David and Solomon, for three years. ¹⁸And Rehoboam took him to wife, Mahalath, daughter of Jerimoth, son of David,—and Abihail, daughter of Eliab, son of Jesse; ¹⁹and she bare him sons,—Jeush and Shamariah and Zaham. ²⁰And, after her, he took Maacah, daughter of Absalom,—and she bare him Abijah, and Attai, and Ziza, and Shelomith. ²¹And Rehoboam loved Maacah daughter of Absalom, above all his wives and his concubines, for, eighteen wives, took he, and sixty concubines,—and begat twenty-eight sons, and sixty daughters. ²²So then Rehoboam appointed Abijah son of Maacah as head, to be chief ruler among his brethren,—yea that he might make him king. ²³So he took heed, and dispersed all his sons throughout all the lands of Judah and Benjamin, unto all the fortified cities, and gave them food in abundance,—and asked a multitude of wives.

12And it came to pass, when Rehoboam had established the kingdom, and had strengthened himself, he forsook the law of Yahweh,—and all Israel with him. ²And so it came to pass, in the fifth year of King Rehoboam, that Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem,—because they had dealt treacherously against Yahweh;—³with twelve hundred chariots, and with sixty thousand horsemen,—and, without number, the people who came with him out of Egypt—Lybians, Sukkiim, and Ethiopians. ⁴And he captured the cities of defence which belonged to Judah,—and came, as far as Jerusalem. ⁵And, Shemaiah the prophet, came unto Rehoboam, and the rulers of Judah, who had gathered themselves together unto Jerusalem because of Shishak,—and said unto them, Thus, saith Yahweh, Ye, have left, me, Therefore, I also, have left, you, in the hands of Shishak. ⁶Then the rulers of Israel and the king humbled themselves,—and said, Righteous, is Yahweh! ⁷And, when Yahweh saw that they humbled themselves, the word of Yahweh came unto Shemaiah, saying—They have humbled themselves, I will not destroy them,—but will grant them, in a little while, to escape, and my wrath shall not be poured out upon Jerusalem, by the hand of Shishak. ⁸Nevertheless they shall become his servants, that they may know my service, and the service of the kingdoms of the countries. ⁹So Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem, and took the treasures of the house of Yahweh, and the treasures of the house of the king, the whole, he took,—and he took the bucklers of gold, which Solomon had made. ¹⁰And King Rehoboam made, instead of them, bucklers of bronze,—and committed them unto the hand of the captains of the runners, who kept guard at the entrance of the house of the king. ¹¹And so it was, whensoever the king came into the house of Yahweh, the runners came and bare them, and then returned them into the chamber of the runners. ¹²But, when he humbled himself, then turned from him the anger of Yahweh, that he would not destroy, to make an end,—moreover also, in Judah, there were some good things. ¹³So King Rehoboam strengthened himself in Jerusalem, and reigned,—because, forty-one years old, was Rehoboam when he began to reign, and, seventeen years, reigned he in Jerusalem, the city which Yahweh had chosen, to set his Name there—from among all the tribes of Israel, and, the name of his mother, was Naamah, the Ammonitess. ¹⁴But he did evil,—in that he did not fix his heart to seek Yahweh. ¹⁵Now, the story of Rehoboam, first and last, is it not written in the story of Shemaiah the prophet and Iddo the seer, for enrolling,—also the wars of Rehoboam and Jeroboam, all the days? ¹⁶And Rehoboam slept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David,—and Abijah his son reigned in his stead.

13In the eighteenth year of King Jeroboam, began Abijah to reign over Judah: ²three years, reigned he in Jerusalem, and, the name of his mother, was Maacah, daughter of Uriel of Gibeah,—and there was, war, between Abijah and Jeroboam. ³And Abijah began the war with a force of heroes of war, four hundred thousand chosen men,—and, Jeroboam, set in array against him to battle, with eight hundred thousand chosen men, heroes of valour. ⁴And Abijah stood up upon Mount Zemaraim, which is in the hill country of Ephraim,—and said, Hear me, O Jeroboam and all Israel! ⁵Is it not yours to know, that, Yahweh God of Israel gave the kingdom to David, over Israel, unto times age-abiding,—to him and to his sons, by a covenant of salt? ⁶Yet hath Jeroboam son of Nebat, servant of Solomon son of David, risen up,—and rebelled against his lord. ⁷And there are gathered unto him vain men, sons of the Abandoned One, who emboldened themselves against Rehoboam son of Solomon,—when, Rehoboam, was young and tender of heart, and had not strengthened himself to meet them. ⁸Now, therefore, ye, are thinking to strengthen yourselves against the kingdom of Yahweh, in the hand of the sons of David,—and, ye, are a great multitude, and, with you, are calves of gold, which Jeroboam hath made you for gods. ⁹Have ye not driven out the priests of Yahweh, the sons of Aaron, and the Levites,—and made for yourselves priests like the peoples of the countries? Whosoever cometh to install himself with a young bullock, and seven rams, then becometh he a priest unto the, no-gods. ¹⁰But, as for us, Yahweh, is our God, and we have not forsaken him,—and, the priests who are waiting upon Yahweh, are sons of Aaron, with Levites in the work; ¹¹and they are making a perfume unto Yahweh, with ascending-sacrifices morning by morning, and evening by evening and an incense of sweet spices, and are putting in order bread upon the pure table, and the lampstand of gold with the lamps thereof, for lighting up evening by evening, for, observant, are we of the charge of Yahweh our God,—whereas, ye, have forsaken him. ¹²And lo! with us as Head, is God himself, and his priests, and the trumpets of alarm, to sound an alarm against you,—O sons of Israel! do not fight against Yahweh God of your fathers, for ye shall not prosper. ¹³But, Jeroboam, sent round an ambush, to come up from behind them,—so they were before Judah and, the ambush, did come up from behind them. ¹⁴And, when Judah turned and lo! as for them, the battle was before and behind, then made they outcry unto Yahweh,—and, the priests, kept on blowing with the trumpets. ¹⁵Then the men of Judah gave a shout,—and it came to pass, when the men of Judah shouted, then, God himself, smote Jeroboam and all Israel, before Abijah and Judah. ¹⁶And the sons of Israel fled from before Judah,—and God delivered them into their hand. ¹⁷And Abijah and his people smote among them with a great smiting,—and there fell down slain, of Israel, five hundred thousand chosen men. ¹⁸Thus were the sons of Israel subdued at that time,—and the sons of Judah prevailed, because they leaned upon Yahweh the God of their fathers. ¹⁹And Abijah pursued after Jeroboam, and captured from him, cities, even Bethel, with the villages thereof, and Jeshanah, with the villages thereof,—and Ephron, with the villages thereof; ²⁰neither was Jeroboam strong any more, in the days of Abijah,—and Yahweh smote him that he died. ²¹And Abijah strengthened himself, and took him, fourteen wives,—and begat twenty-two sons, and sixteen daughters. ²²And, the rest of the story of Abijah, both his ways and his words,—are written, in the commentary of the prophet Iddo.

¹⁴So Abijah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David, and Asa his son reigned in his stead,—in his days, the land rested ten years. ²And Asa did that which was good and that which was right, in the eyes of Yahweh his God; ³and took away the foreign altars, and the high places,—and brake in pieces the pillars, and cut in twain the Sacred Stems; ⁴and bade Judah seek Yahweh, God of their fathers,—and execute the law, and the commandment; ⁵and removed from all the cities of Judah, the high places, and the sun-images,—and the kingdom became quiet before him. ⁶And he built cities of defence, in Judah,—for the land had quiet, nor was there near him any war, in these years, because Yahweh had given him rest. ⁷Therefore said he to Judah, Let us build these cities, and let us surround them with walls and towers, doors and bars, while the land is yet before us, for we have sought Yahweh our God, we have sought him, and he hath given us rest on every side. So they built, and prospered. ⁸And it came to pass that, Asa, had a force bearing shield and spear, out of Judah, three hundred thousand, and, out of Benjamin, such as bare a buckler and trode a bow, two hundred and eighty thousand,—all these, were heroes of valour. ⁹Then came out against them Zerah the Ethiopian, with a force of a thousand thousand, and three hundred chariots,—and he came as far as Mareshah. ¹⁰And Asa went out to meet him,—and they set in array for battle, in the valley of Zaphonah, at Mareshah. ¹¹Then Asa cried out unto Yahweh his God, and said, O Yahweh, it is, nothing with thee, to help whether with many or with such as have no strength. Help us, O Yahweh our God, for, on thee, do we lean, and, in thy name, have we come against this multitude,—O Yahweh! our God, thou art, let not, weak man, have power against thee. ¹²So Yahweh smote the Ethiopians, before Asa, and before Judah,—and the Ethiopians fled. ¹³And Asa and the people that were with him pursued as far as to Gerar, and the Ethiopians fell, so that there was no way for them to recover, for they were routed before Yahweh, and before him host,—and they carried away exceeding much spoil. ¹⁴And they smote all the cities round about Gerar, for the dread of Yahweh was upon them,—and they plundered all the cities, for, great plunder, was there in them. ¹⁵Moreover also, the tents of the cattle, they smote,—and carried off sheep in abundance, and camels, and returned to Jerusalem.

¹⁵Now, as for Azariah son of Oded, there came upon him, the spirit of God. ²So he went forth to meet Asa, and said unto him, Hear me, O Asa, and all Judah and Benjamin,—Yahweh, is with you, so long as ye are with him, and, if ye seek him, he will be found of you, but, if ye forsake him, he will forsake you. ³Now, many days, had Israel been,—without the faithful God, and without a teaching priest, and without the law; ⁴But they turned, in their distress, unto Yahweh God of Israel,—and sought him, and he was found of them. ⁵And, in those times, there had been no prosperity, to him that went out nor to him that came in,—for, great consternations, were upon all the inhabitants of the lands; ⁶and they were beaten in pieces—nation against nation, and city against city,—for, God, discomfited them with all manner of distress. ⁷Ye, therefore, be strong, and let not your hands be slack,—for there is a reward for your work! ⁸And, when Asa heard these words and the prophecy of Oded the prophet, he strengthened himself, and put away the abominations out of all the land of Judah and Benjamin, and out of the cities which he had captured out of the hill country of Ephraim,—and renewed the altar of Yahweh, that was before the porch of Yahweh. ⁹And he gathered together all Judah and Benjamin, and the sojourners with them, out of Ephraim and out of Manasseh, and out of Simeon,—for they fell unto him out of Israel, in great numbers, because they saw that, Yahweh his God, was with him. ¹⁰So they gathered themselves together unto Jerusalem, in the third month of the fifteenth year of the reign of Asa. ¹¹And they sacrificed unto Yahweh, on that day, out of the spoil they had brought in,—oxen, seven hundred, and sheep, seven thousand. ¹²And they entered into a covenant, to seek Yahweh, God of their fathers,—with all their heart, and with all their soul; ¹³and, whosoever would not seek unto Yahweh God of Israel, should be put to death,—whether small or great, whether man or woman. ¹⁴So they bound themselves by oath unto Yahweh, with a loud voice, and with shouting,—and with trumpets and with horns. ¹⁵And all Judah rejoiced over the oath, for, with all their heart, had they sworn, and, with all their good will, had they sought him, and he was found of them,—and Yahweh gave them rest round about. ¹⁶Moreover also, as touching Maacah mother of Asa the king, he removed her from being queen, because she had made, unto the Sacred Stem, a monstrous thing,—so Asa cut down her monstrous thing, and reduced it to dust, and burnt it up, in the Kidron ravine. ¹⁷But, the high places, were not taken away out of Israel,—only, the heart of Asa, was perfect, all his days. ¹⁸And he brought the hallowed things of his father and his own hallowed things, into the house of God,—silver and gold, and utensils. ¹⁹And, war, was there none,—until the thirty-fifth year of the reign of Asa.

¹⁶In the thirty-sixth year of the reign of Asa, Baasha king of Israel came up against Judah, and built Ramah,—that he might let none come out or go in, unto Asa king of Judah. ²So Asa brought forth silver and gold, out of the treasures of the house of Yahweh, and the house of the king,—and sent unto Ben-hadad, king of Syria, who dwelt in Damascus, saying: ³Let there be a covenant, between me and thee, as between my father and thy father.—Lo! I have sent thee silver and gold, go break thy covenant with Baasha king of Israel, that he may go up from me. ⁴And Ben-hadad hearkened unto King Asa, and sent the chieftains of the forces which he had, against the cities of Israel, and smote Ijon and Dan, and Abel-maim,—and all the storehouses of the cities of Naphtali. ⁵And it came to pass, when Baasha heard it, he left off building Ramah,—and let his work cease. ⁶And, Asa the king, took all Judah, and they carried away the stones of Ramah, and the timbers thereof, which Baasha had used in building,—and he built therewith, Geba and Mizpah. ⁷And, at that time, came Hanani the seer, unto Asa the king of Judah,—and said unto him, Because thou hast leaned upon the king of Syria, and hast not leaned upon Yahweh thy God, for this cause, hath the force of the king of Syria escaped out of thy hand. ⁸Were not, the Ethiopians and the Lybians, a huge host, with chariots and horsemen exceeding many? yet, because thou didst lean upon Yahweh, he delivered them into thy hand. ⁹For, as touching Yahweh, seeing that, his eyes, are ever running to and fro throughout all the earth, to shew himself strong with them who are perfect toward himself, thou hast made thyself foolish over this,—for, from henceforth, there shall be with thee—wars. ¹⁰Then was Asa angry with the seer, and put him in the house of the stocks, for he was in a rage with him, over this,—and Asa oppressed some of the people, at that time.

¹¹But lo! the story of Asa, first and last, there it is, written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel. ¹²And Asa became diseased—in the thirty-ninth year of his reign—in his feet, exceedingly severe, was his disease,—yet, even in his disease, he sought not Yahweh, but unto physicians. ¹³And Asa slept with his fathers,—yea he died in the forty-first year of his reign; ¹⁴and they buried him in his own stately sepulchre, which he had hewn for himself in the city of David, and laid him on a couch which was full of sweet spices—yea of various kinds, made by the perfumer's art,—and they burned for him with an exceeding great burning.

¹⁷And Jehoshaphat his son reigned in his stead,—and strengthened himself against Israel; ²and put forces in all the fortified cities of Judah,—and set garrisons in the land of Judah, and in the cities of Ephraim, which Asa his father had captured. ³And it came to pass, that, Yahweh, was with Jehoshaphat,—because he walked in the first ways of David his father, and sought not unto the Baalim; ⁴for, unto the God of his father, he sought, and, in his commandments, he walked,—and not according to the doing of Israel. ⁵Therefore did Yahweh establish the kingdom in his hand, and all Judah gave a present unto Jehoshaphat,—and he came to have riches and honour, in abundance. ⁶And his heart was encouraged, in the ways of Yahweh,—and he, yet further, took away the high places and the Sacred Stems, out of Judah. ⁷And, in the third year of his reign, he sent to his rulers, even to Ben-hail and to Obadiah and to Zechariah, and to Nethanel, and to Micaiah,—that they were to teach throughout the cities of Judah; ⁸and, with them, Levites, Shemaiah and Nethaniah and Zedariah and Asahel and Shemiramoth and Jehonathan, and Adonijah and Tobijah and Tob-adonijah, Levites,—and, with them, Elishama and Jehoram, priests; ⁹and they taught throughout Judah, and, with them, was the book of the law of Yahweh,—so they went round throughout all the cities of Judah, and taught the people. ¹⁰And it came to pass, that, the dread of Yahweh, was upon all the kingdoms of the countries, that were round about Judah,—and they warred not against Jehoshaphat. ¹¹And, from among the Philistines, were they bringing in unto Jehoshaphat a present, and silver as tribute,—even the Arabians, were bringing in unto him flocks, seven thousand seven hundred rams, and seven thousand seven hundred he-goats. ¹²And so it came to pass that, Jehoshaphat, went on waxing surpassingly great,—and he built, throughout Judah, fortresses and cities for store; ¹³and, much business, had he, throughout the cities of Judah,—but, the men of war, the heroes of valour, were in Jerusalem. ¹⁴And, these, are the numbers of them, by their ancestral house,—To Judah, pertained rulers of thousands, Adnah the chief, and, with him, mighty men of valour, three hundred thousand; ¹⁵and, under his direction, was Jehohanan the chief,—and, with him, two hundred and eighty thousand; ¹⁶and, under his direction, Amasiah son of Zichri, who willingly offered himself unto Yahweh,—and, with him, two hundred thousand heroes of valour. ¹⁷And, out of Benjamin, a hero of valour, Eliada,—and, with him, armed with bow and buckler, two hundred thousand; ¹⁸and, under his direction, Jehozabad,—and, with him, a hundred and eighty thousand, equipped for war. ¹⁹These, were they who were waiting upon the king,—besides those whom the king placed in the fortified cities, throughout all Judah.

18And it came to pass, when Jehoshaphat had riches and honour, in abundance, that he contracted, by marriage, affinity with Ahab. ²So he went down, at the end of some years, unto Ahab, to Samaria, Ahab therefore sacrificed for him, sheep and oxen, in abundance, also for the people whom he had with him,—and then persuaded him to go up against Ramoth-gilead. ³For Ahab king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat king of Judah, Wilt thou go up with me to Ramoth-gilead? And he said unto him—So am I, even as thou, and, like thy people, are my people, and, with thee, in the war. ⁴Then said Jehoshaphat, unto the king of Israel,—Seek, I pray thee, some time to-day, the word of Yahweh. ⁵So the king of Israel gathered together the prophets, four hundred men, and said unto them, Shall we go up against Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall I forbear? And they said—Go up, and may God deliver it into the hand of the king! ⁶Then said Jehoshaphat, Is there not here a prophet of Yahweh, besides,—that we may seek, from him? ⁷Then said the king of Israel unto Jehoshaphat—There is yet one man, by whom to seek Yahweh, but, I, hate him, for he is never prophesying, concerning me, anything good—but—all his days—evil, the same, is Micaiah, son of Imla. Then said Jehoshaphat, Let not the king say, so! ⁸And the king of Israel called for a certain officer,—and said, Haste, Micaiah son of Imla! ⁹Now, the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat king of Judah, were sitting, each upon his throne, clothed in robes, and they were sitting in an open space, at the entrance of the gate of Samaria,—and, all the prophets, were prophesying before them. ¹⁰Then did Zedekiah son of Chenaanah make him horns of iron,—and said—Thus, saith Yahweh, With these, shalt thou push Syria, until they are consumed. ¹¹And, all the prophets, were prophesying, so, saying,—Go up to Ramoth-gilead, and prosper, and Yahweh will deliver it into the hand of the king. ¹²And, the messenger who went to call Micaiah, spake unto him, saying, Lo! the words of the prophets, with one mouth, are good for the king,—be thy word then, I pray thee, like one of theirs, so wilt thou speak good. ¹³Then said Micaiah,—By the life of Yahweh, whatsoever my God shall say, that, must I speak. ¹⁴Now, when he came unto the king, the king said unto him, Micah, shall we go against Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall I forbear? And he said, Go ye up and prosper, and may they be delivered into your hand. ¹⁵Then the king said unto him,

How many times, must, I, be putting thee on oath,—that thou speak unto me nothing but the truth in the name of Yahweh? ¹⁶So he said, I saw all Israel, scattered upon the mountains, like sheep that have no shepherd,—and Yahweh said, No masters, have these! let them return every man unto his own house, in peace. ¹⁷Then said the king of Israel, unto Jehoshaphat,—Said I not unto thee, He wilt not prophesy concerning me anything good, but evil? ¹⁸Then said he, Therefore, hear ye the word of Yahweh,—I saw Yahweh, sitting upon his throne, and, all the host of the heavens, standing, on his right hand and his left. ¹⁹Then said Yahweh, Who will persuade Ahab king of Israel, that he may go up and fall in Ramoth-gilead? And one spake, saying after this manner, and another, saying after that manner. ²⁰Then came there forth a spirit and stood before Yahweh, and said, I, will persuade him. And Yahweh said unto him, Wherewith? ²¹And he said, I will go forth and become a spirit of falsehood, in the mouth of all his prophets. And he said—Thou mayest persuade, moreover also, thou shalt prevail, go forth, and do, so. ²²Now, therefore, lo! Yahweh hath suffered a spirit of falsehood to be put into the mouth of these thy prophets,—but, Yahweh, hath spoken concerning thee—evil. ²³Then drew near Zedekiah son of Chenaanah, and smote Micaiah upon the cheek,—and said, Which then is the way the spirit of Yahweh passed from me, to speak with thee? ²⁴Then said Micaiah, Lo! thou shalt see, on that day when thou shalt enter into a chamber within a chamber, to hide thyself. ²⁵Then said the king of Israel, Take ye Micaiah, and carry him back unto Amon ruler of the city, and unto Joash son of the king; ²⁶and ye shall say, Thus, saith the king, Put ye this one into the prison,—and feed him with the bread of oppression, and with the water of oppression, until I return in peace. ²⁷Then said Micaiah, If thou do, at all return, in peace, Yahweh hath not spoken by me. And he said, Hear! ye peoples, all! ²⁸Then went up the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat king of Judah, against Ramoth-gilead. ²⁹And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, I am about to disguise myself, and enter into the battle, but, thou, put on thy robes. So the king of Israel disguised himself, and entered into the battle. ³⁰Now, the king of Syria, had commanded the captains of chariots which he had, saying, Ye shall not fight, with small or with great,—save with the king of Israel, alone. ³¹So it came to pass, when the chariot-captains saw Jehoshaphat, that, they, said, The king of Israel, it is. And they compassed him about, to fight,—but Jehoshaphat made outcry, and, Yahweh, helped him, yea God allured them away from him. ³²And so it came to pass, when the chariot-captains saw that it was not the king of Israel, that they turned hack from pursuing him; ³³but, a certain man, drawing a bow in his innocence, smote the king of Israel between the shoulder-joints and the coat of mail,—wherefore he said to the charioteer, Turn thy hand, and convey me out of the host, for I am sore wounded. ³⁴But the battle increased on that day, and, the king of Israel, was propping himself up in the chariot before the Syrians, until evening,—and died at the time of the going in of the sun.

19And Jehoshaphat the king of Judah returned unto his own house in peace, to Jerusalem. ²And there came out to meet him, Jehu son of Hanani, the seer, who said unto King Jehoshaphat, Unto the lawless, was it right to give help? and, on them who hate Yahweh, to bestow thy love? For this cause, therefore, is there wrath against thee, from before Yahweh; ³howbeit, good things, are found with thee,—for that thou hast consumed the Sacred Stems out of the land, and hast fixed thy heart to seek God. ⁴So Jehoshaphat dwelt in Jerusalem,—and he again went forth among the people, from Beersheba as far as the hill country of Ephraim, and brought them back unto Yahweh, the God of their fathers. ⁵And he stationed judges in the land, throughout all the fortified cities of Judah, city by city; ⁶and said unto the judges, See what, ye, are doing, inasmuch as, not for man, must ye judge, but for Yahweh,—who will be with you, in the word of justice. ⁷Now, therefore, let the dread of Yahweh be upon you,—observe and do, for there is, with Yahweh our God, neither perversity nor respect of persons nor the taking of bribes. ⁸And, even in Jerusalem, did Jehoshaphat station some of the Levites and the priests, and of the ancestral chiefs of Israel, to pronounce the just sentence of Yahweh, and to settle disputes,—when they returned to Jerusalem. ⁹And he laid charge upon them, saying,—Thus, shall ye act, in the fear of Yahweh, faithfully and with an undivided heart. ¹⁰Any dispute that shall come in unto you from among your brethren who are dwelling in their cities, between blood and blood, between law and commandment and statutes and regulations, then shall ye warn them, that they may not become guilty against Yahweh, and so wrath come upon you and upon your brethren,—Thus, shall ye act, and not incur guilt. ¹¹And lo! Amariah the chief priest, is over you as to every matter of Yahweh, and Zebadiah son of Ishmael the chief ruler for the house of Judah, as to every matter of the king, and, as officers, the Levites are before you,—Be strong and act, and Yahweh be with the good!

20And it came to pass, after this, that the sons of Moab and the sons of Ammon, and, with them, some of the Meunim, came against Jehoshaphat, to battle. ²And there came some and told Jehoshaphat, saying, There is coming against thee, a great multitude from beyond the sea, from Syria,—and lo! they are in Hazazon-tamar, the same, is Engedi. ³And Jehoshaphat was afraid, and set his face to seek unto Yahweh,—and proclaimed a fast for all Judah. ⁴And Judah gathered themselves together, to enquire of Yahweh,—even, out of all the cities of Judah, came they

in, to seek Yahweh. ⁵And Jehoshaphat stood, in the convocation of Judah and Jerusalem in the house of Yahweh,—before the new court; ⁶and said, O Yahweh, God of our fathers, art not, thou, God in the heavens? and art, thou, not ruling throughout all the kingdoms of the nations? and, in thy hand, are there not strength and might? and is there any who, against thee, can stand? ⁷Art not, thou, our God, who didst dispossess the inhabitants of this land, from before thy people Israel,—and didst give it unto the seed of Abraham who loved thee, unto times age-abiding? ⁸and they have dwelt therein,—and have built for thee therein, a sanctuary for thy Name, saying: ⁹If there come upon us calamity, the sword of judgment or pestilence or famine, we will stand before this house and before thee, for, thy Name, is in this house,—that we may make outcry unto thee out of our distress, that thou mayest hear and save. ¹⁰Now, therefore, lo! the sons of Ammon and Moab and Mount Seir, whom thou didst not suffer Israel to invade, when they came out of the land of Egypt,—but they turned away from them and destroyed them not, ¹¹yea lo! they, are requiting us,—by coming to drive us out, from thy possession, which thou didst cause us to possess. ¹²O our God, wilt thou not bring judgment upon them, seeing that there is, in us, no strength, before this great multitude, that is coming against us,—we, therefore, know not what we shall do, but, unto thee, are our eyes. ¹³And, all Judah, were standing before Yahweh,—also their little ones, their wives and their children. ¹⁴Now, as for Jahaziel son of Zechariah son of Benaiah son of Jeiel son of Mattaniah a Levite, of the sons of Asaph, there came upon him the spirit of Yahweh, in the midst of the convocation: ¹⁵and he said, Give ye heed, all Judah and ye inhabitants of Jerusalem, and King Jehoshaphat! Thus, saith Yahweh unto you. As for you, do not fear nor be dismayed, by reason of this great multitude, for, not yours, is the battle, but, God's. ¹⁶To-morrow, go ye down against them, for lo! there they are coming up by the ascent of Ziz,—and ye shall find them at the end of the ravine, facing the wilderness of Jeruel. ¹⁷It is not, for you, to fight in this matter,—take your station, stand still, and see the salvation of Yahweh with you, O Judah and Jerusalem, do not fear, nor be dismayed, to-morrow, go ye out to meet them, and, Yahweh, will be with you. ¹⁸And Jehoshaphat bowed his head, with his face to the ground,—and, all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, fell down before Yahweh, prostrating themselves unto Yahweh. ¹⁹And Levites—of the sons of the Kohathites and of the sons of the Korahites, stood up to offer praise unto Yahweh, God of Israel, with an exceedingly loud voice. ²⁰So they rose early in the morning, and went out to the wilderness of Tekoa,—and, as they went out, Jehoshaphat stood and said, Hear me, O Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jerusalem, Trust ye in Yahweh your God, and ye shall be trusted, Trust ye in his prophets, and ye shall prosper. ²¹And, when he had given counsel unto the people, he appointed such as should sing unto Yahweh, and offer praise with holy adorning,—as they should be going forth before the armed men, that they should be saying, O give thanks unto Yahweh, For, age-abiding, is his lovingkindness. ²²And, when they began to sing and to praise, Yahweh had set liers-in-wait against the sons of Ammon, Moab and Mount Seir, who were coming against Judah, and they were smitten. ²³Then rose up the sons of Ammon and Moab against the inhabitants of Mount Seir, to devote and to destroy,—and when they had made an end of the inhabitants of Seir, they helped to cut off, every man his neighbour. ²⁴So when, Judah, came near the watch-tower of the wilderness,—they turned towards the multitude, and lo! there they were, dead bodies fallen to the earth, with none to escape. ²⁵And, when Jehoshaphat and his people came near to plunder the spoil of them, they found among them, in abundance, both riches and dead bodies and precious jewels, and they stripped off for themselves, beyond what they could carry away,—and they were three days plundering the spoil, for great it was. ²⁶And, on the fourth day, they assembled themselves in the vale of Beracah, for there they blessed Yahweh,—on this account, was the name of that place called The Vale of Beracah—unto this day. ²⁷Then turned every man of Judah and Jerusalem, with, Jehoshaphat, at their head, to go again to Jerusalem with joy,—for Yahweh had caused them to rejoice over their enemies. ²⁸So they came to Jerusalem, with harps and with lyres, and with trumpets,—unto the house of Yahweh. ²⁹And it came to pass that, the dread of God, was upon all the kingdoms of the countries,—when they heard, that Yahweh had fought against the enemies of Israel. ³⁰So the kingdom of Jehoshaphat was quiet,—for his God, gave him rest, round about. ³¹Thus Jehoshaphat reigned over Judah,—thirty-five years old, was he when he began to reign, and, twenty-five years, reigned he in Jerusalem, and the, name of his mother, was Azubah, daughter of Shilhi. ³²And he walked in the way of his father Asa, and turned not from it,—doing that which was right, in the eyes of Yahweh. ³³Howbeit, the high places, were not taken away,—for as yet, the people, had not fixed their heart unto the God of their fathers. ³⁴But, the rest of the story of Jehoshaphat, first and last, lo! there it is written in the story of Jehu son of Hanani, which hath been added to the book of the Kings of Israel. ³⁵Yet, after this, did Jehoshaphat king of Judah join himself with Ahaziah king of Israel,—he, was lawless in his doings; ³⁶and he joined with him, to make ships to go unto Tarshish,—and they made ships in Ezion-geber, ³⁷Then prophesied, Eliezer son of Dodavahu of Mareshah, against Jehoshaphat, saying,—Because thou hast joined thyself with Ahaziah, Yahweh hath broken in pieces thy works. So the ships were wrecked, and were not able to go unto Tarshish.

²¹And Jehoshaphat slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers, in the city of David,—and Jehoram his son reigned in his stead. ²Now, he, had brethren, sons of Jehoshaphat—Azariah and Jehiel and Zechariah and Azariah, and Michael and Shephatiah,—all these, were sons of Jehoshaphat king of Israel, ³and their father gave them large presents—of silver and of gold and of precious things, with cities of defence, in Judah,—but, the kingdom, gave he unto Jehoram, for, he, was the firstborn. ⁴But, when Jehoram had arisen over the kingdom of his father, he strengthened himself, and slew all his brethren, with the sword,—moreover also some of the rulers of Israel. ⁵Thirty-two years old, was Jehoram when he began to reign,—and, eight years, reigned he in Jerusalem. ⁶And he walked in the way of the kings of Israel, like as did the house of Ahab, for, the daughter of Ahab, had he, to wife,—so he wrought wickedness, in the eyes of Yahweh. ⁷Howbeit Yahweh was not willing to destroy the house of David, because of the covenant which he had solemnised, unto David,—and as he had promised to give unto him a lamp, and unto his sons, all the days. ⁸In his days, revolted the Edomites, from under the hand of Judah,—and set over themselves a king. ⁹So Jehoram passed over, with his captains, and all his chariot, with him,—and it came to pass that he rose up by night, and smote the Edomites that were round about unto him, and the chariot-captains. ¹⁰So Edom revolted from under the hand of Judah—unto this day. Then, must Libnah needs revolt at the same time, from under his hand,—because he had forsaken Yahweh, the God of his fathers. ¹¹He too, made high places among the mountains of Judah,—and caused the inhabitants of Jerusalem to be unchaste, and seduced Judah. ¹²Then came there unto him, a writing, from Elijah the prophet, saying,—Thus, saith Yahweh, God of David thy father, Because thou hast not walked in the ways of Jehoshaphat thy father, nor in the ways of Asa, king of Judah; ¹³but hast walked in the way of the kings of Israel, and hast caused Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem to be unchaste, after the unchastities of the house of Ahab,—moreover also, thine own brethren of the house of thy father who were better than thou, hast thou slain, ¹⁴lo! Yahweh, is about to plague, with a great plague, thy people,—and thy children and thy wives, and all thy possessions; ¹⁵also, thyself, with sore diseases, with disease of thy bowels,—until thy bowels shall fall out, by reason of the disease, in a year added to a year. ¹⁶And Yahweh stirred up against Jehoram the spirit of the Philistines, and the Arabians, who were under the direction of the Ethiopians; ¹⁷and they came up against Judah, and forced their way into it, and carried off all the possessions that were found belonging to the house of the king, moreover also his sons and his wives,—so that there was left him never a son, save only Jehoahaz the youngest of his sons. ¹⁸And, after all this, Yahweh plagued him in his bowels with an incurable disease. ¹⁹And it came to pass, in a year beyond a year, even when the end of the days of two years had passed, that his bowels fell out by reason of his disease, so that he died, of malignant disease,—and his people made him no burning, like the burning of his fathers. ²⁰Thirty-two years old, was he when he began to reign, and, eight years, reigned he in Jerusalem,—and went his way—unregretted, and, though they buried him in the city of David, yet, not in the sepulchres of the kings.

22And the inhabitants of Jerusalem made Ahaziah his youngest son king, in his stead, for, all the elder sons, had the band of men slain who came in with the Arabians into the camp,—so Ahaziah son of Jehoram king of Judah reigned. ²Forty-two years old, was Ahaziah when he began to reign, and, one year, reigned he in Jerusalem,—and, the name of his mother, was Athaliah, daughter of Omri. ³He too, walked in the ways of the house of Ahab,—for, his mother, became his counselor, to work lawlessness. ⁴Wherefore he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, like the house of Ahab,—for, they, became his counselors, after the death of his father, to his destruction. ⁵Even in their counsel, he walked, and went with Jehoram son of Ahab king of Israel, to war against Hazael king of Syria, in Ramoth-gilead,—and the Syrians smote Joram. ⁶And he returned to be healed in Jezreel, because of the wounds wherewith they smote him in Ramah, when he fought with Hazael, king of Syria,—and, Azariah son of Jehoram king of Judah, went down to see Jehoram son of Ahab in Jezreel, because, sick, was he! ⁷But, from God, came the downfall of Azariah, through his coming to Joram,—and because, through his coming, he went out with Jehoram against Jehu son of Nimshi, whom Yahweh had anointed to cut off the house of Ahab. ⁸And so it came to pass, when Jehu was executing judgment upon the house of Ahab,—and found the rulers of Judah and the sons of the brethren of Ahaziah ministering to Ahaziah, that he slew them. ⁹And he sought Ahaziah, and they captured him, he, having hid himself in Samaria, and they brought him unto Jehu, and he put him to death, and they buried him, because, said they, he is, the son of Jehoshaphat, who sought Yahweh with all his heart,—and, no one of the house of Ahaziah, had ability for the kingdom. ¹⁰But, when, Athaliah mother of Ahaziah, saw that her son was dead, she rose up and destroyed all the seed royal of the house of Judah. ¹¹But Jehoshabeath, daughter of the king, took Joash son of Ahaziah, and stole him from among the sons of the king who were being slain, and put him and his nurse in a bedchamber,—so Jehoshabeath daughter of King Jehoram—wife of Jehoiada the priest, for, she, was the sister of Ahaziah—hid him from the face of Athaliah so that she slew him not. ¹²And it came to pass that he was with them, in the house of God, hidden six years,—while, Athaliah, was reigning over the land.

23And, in the seventh year, Jehoiada strengthened himself, and took the rulers of hundreds—even Azariah son of Jeroham, and Ishmael son of Jehohanan, and Azariah son of Obed, and Maaseiah son of Adaiah and Elishaphat son of Zichri—unto himself, in covenant. ²And they went round throughout Judah, and gathered together the Levites out of all the cities of Judah, and the ancestral chiefs of Israel,—and they came into Jerusalem. ³And all the convocation solemnised a covenant in the house of God, with the king,—and he said to them, Lo! the king's son must reign, as spake Yahweh concerning the sons of David. ⁴This, is the thing that ye shall do,—A third of you entering on the sabbath, both of the priests and of the Levites, as door-keepers of the porch; ⁵and a third, being in the house of the king, and a third, at the foundation gate,—and all the people, being in the courts of the house of Yahweh, ⁶then let no one enter the house of Yahweh, save only the priests, and they who are in attendance of the Levites, they, may enter, for, holy, they are,—but, all the people, shall keep the watch of Yahweh. ⁷So shall the Levites encompass the king round about, every man with his weapons in his hand, and, he that entereth into the house, shall be put to death. Thus be ye with the king, when he cometh in and when he goeth out. ⁸So the Levites and all Judah did according to all that Jehoiada the priest commanded, and they took every man his men, who were coming in on the sabbath, with them who were going out on the sabbath,—for Jehoiada the priest dismissed not the courses. ⁹And Jehoiada the priest gave unto the captains of hundreds, the spears and the bucklers and the shields, which belonged to King David,—which were in the house of God. ¹⁰And he caused all the people to stand, even every man with his weapon in his hand, from the right corner of the house as far as the left corner of the house, by the altar and the house,—near the king round about. ¹¹Then brought they forth the king's son, and set upon him the crown and the testimony, and made him king,—and Jehoiada and his sons anointed him, and said, May the king live! ¹²Now, when Athaliah heard the noise of the people who were running, and those who were praising the king,—then came she unto the people in the house of Yahweh; ¹³and looked, and lo! the king, standing by his pillar at the entrance, and the captains and the trumpets by the king, and all the people of the land rejoicing, and blowing with trumpets, and the singers, with instruments of song, and such as led the offering of praise, then Athaliah rent her garments, and said, Conspiracy! conspiracy! ¹⁴Then Jehoiada the priest commanded the captains of hundreds, officers of the force, and said unto them, Take her forth within the ranks, and he that cometh in after her let him be slain with the sword,—for, said the priest, Ye must not slay her in the house of Yahweh! ¹⁵So they made way for her, and she came into the entrance of the horse-gate of the house of the king,—and they slew her there. ¹⁶And Jehoiada solemnised a covenant, between himself and all the people, and the king,—that they should become a people unto Yahweh. ¹⁷Then all the people entered into the house of Baal and brake it down, and, his altars and his images, brake they in pieces,—and, Mattan the priest of Baal, they slew, before the altars. ¹⁸And Jehoiada put the oversight of the house of Yahweh into the hand of the priests and the Levites, whom David set by courses over the house of Yahweh, that they might offer up the ascending-sacrifices of Yahweh, as it is written in the law of Moses, with rejoicing and with song,—under the direction of David. ¹⁹And he caused gatekeepers to stand, at the gates of the house of Yahweh,—that no one who was unclean should, on any account, enter. ²⁰Then took he the captains of hundreds—and the nobles—and the rulers over the people—and all the people of the land, and brought down the king out of the house of Yahweh, and they entered, through the midst of the upper gate, into the house of the king,—and they seated the king, upon the throne of the kingdom. ²¹And all the people of the land rejoiced, and, the city, was quiet,—when, Athaliah, they had slain with the sword.

24Seven years old, was Joash when he began to reign, and, forty years, reigned he, in Jerusalem,—and, the name of his mother, was Zibiah, of Beersheba. ²And Joash did that which was right, in the eyes of Yahweh,—all the days of Jehoiada the priest. ³And Jehoiada took for him two wives,—and he begat sons and daughters. ⁴And it came to pass, after this, that it was near the heart of Joash to renew the house of Yahweh. ⁵So he gathered together the priests and the Levites, and said unto them—Go ye out unto the cities of Judah, and gather out of all Israel silver to repair the house of your God, year by year, and, ye, shall hasten the matter,—but the Levites hastened it not. ⁶Then the king called for Jehoiada the chief, and said unto him, Wherefore hast thou not required of the Levites, to bring in out of Judah and out of Jerusalem the tribute of Moses the servant of Yahweh, and of the convocation of Israel,—for the tent of testimony? ⁷For, as for Athaliah the Lawless, her sons, brake up the House of God,—moreover, all the hallowed things of the house of Yahweh, offered they unto the Baalim. ⁸So the king bade them, and they made a certain chest,—and set it in the gate of the house of Yahweh, outside. ⁹And they made a proclamation, throughout Judah and Jerusalem, to bring in unto Yahweh the tribute of Moses the servant of God, laid upon Israel in the desert. ¹⁰And all the rulers and all the people rejoiced,—and brought in and cast into the chest, until they had finished. ¹¹And it came to pass, what time the chest was brought into the office of the king by the hand of the Levites, and when they had seen that abundant was the silver, that the scribe of the king came in, and the officer of the chief priest, and they emptied the chest, and bare it, and put it back in its place,—thus, they did, day by day, and collected silver, in abundance; ¹²and the king and Jehoiada gave it unto such as were doing the work of labouring upon the house of Yahweh, and they were hiring masons and carpenters, to renew the house of Yahweh,—moreover also, such as were fashioners of iron and bronze, to repair the house of Yahweh. ¹³So the doers of the work wrought, and the work of restoration went forward, in their hand,—and they caused the house of God to stand forth according to its due proportions, and made it strong. ¹⁴And, when they had finished, they brought in before the king and Jehoiada the rest of the silver, and he made it into utensils for the house of Yahweh, utensils of attendance, and bowls and spoons, even utensils of gold and silver. Then were they offering ascending-sacrifices in the house of Yahweh, continually, all the days of Jehoiada. ¹⁵But Jehoiada waxed old and became satisfied with days, and died,—a hundred and thirty years old, when he died. ¹⁶And they buried him in the city of David, with the kings,—because he had done good in Israel, both toward God and his house. ¹⁷Now, after the death of Jehoiada, came the rulers of Judah, and bowed themselves down unto the king,—then, hearkened the king unto them. ¹⁸And they forsook the house of Yahweh, God of their fathers, and served the Sacred Stems, and the images,—so there was wrath against Judah and Jerusalem, for this their guilt. ¹⁹And he sent among them prophets, to bring them back unto Yahweh,—and they testified against them, but they would not give ear. ²⁰And, the spirit of God, clothed Zechariah son of Jehoiada the priest, and he took his stand above the people,—and said unto them, Thus, saith God, Wherefore are, ye, transgressing the commandments of Yahweh, so that ye cannot prosper, because ye have forsaken Yahweh, therefore hath he forsaken you. ²¹So they conspired against him, and stoned him with stones, by the commandment of the king,—in the court of the house of Yahweh. ²²Thus Joash the king, remembered not, the lovingkindness which Jehoiada his father had done for him, but slew his son,—and, as he died, he said, Yahweh see and require! ²³And it came to pass, when the year had gone round, that the force of Syria came up against him, and they entered Judah, and Jerusalem, and destroyed all the rulers of the people, from among the people,—and, all the spoil of them, sent they unto the king of Damascus. ²⁴Although, with a comparatively few men, came the force of Syria, yet, Yahweh, delivered into their hand an exceeding large force,—because they had forsaken Yahweh, the God of their fathers,—and, upon Joash, executed they judgments. ²⁵And, when they had departed from him, for they left him with sore diseases, his own servants conspired against him, for the blood of the son of Jehoiada the priest, and slew him upon his bed, and he died,—and, though they buried him in the city of David, yet did they not bury him in the sepulchres of the kings. ²⁶Now, these, are they that conspired against him,—Zabad son of Shimeath the Ammonitess, and Jehozabad son of Shimrith the Moabitess. ²⁷But, as for his sons, and the greatness of the oracle on him, and the foundation of the house of God, lo! there they are written, in the commentary of the Book of Kings,—and Amaziah his son reigned in his stead.

25Twenty-five years old, was Amaziah, when he began to reign, and, twenty-nine years, reigned he in Jerusalem,—and, the name of his mother, was Jehoaddan, of Jerusalem. ²And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh,—only not with a whole heart. ³And it came to pass, when the kingdom was confirmed unto him, that he slew his servants who had smitten the king his father; ⁴but, their sons, he put not to death,—but as it is written in the law—in the book of Moses—how that Yahweh commanded, saying—Fathers, shall not die for, sons, and Sons, shall not die, for, fathers, but Each man, for his own sin, shall die. ⁵And Amaziah gathered Judah together, and appointed them by their ancestral houses, as rulers of thousands and as rulers of hundreds, for all Judah and Benjamin,—and he numbered them, from twenty years old and upwards, and found them three hundred thousand choice men, able to go forth to war, who could grasp spear and shield. ⁶And he hired out of Israel, a hundred thousand heroes of valour, for a hundred talents of silver. ⁷But, a man of God, came unto him, saying, O king! let not the host of Israel come with thee,—for Yahweh is not with Israel, with any of the sons of Ephraim. ⁸But, if thou art going, do, be strong for the battle,—God will cause thee to fall before the enemy, for there is strength in God, to help or to cause to fall. ⁹And Amaziah said unto the man of God, What then shall be done as to the hundred talents, which I have given to the company of Israel? Then said the man of God, Yahweh is able to give thee much more than this. ¹⁰So Amaziah separated them, appointing unto the company which had come unto him out of Ephraim, to depart unto their own place,—wherefore their anger was greatly kindled against Judah, so they returned to their own place, in a heat of anger. ¹¹And, Amaziah, took courage, and led forth his people, and went to the valley of salt,—and smote of the sons of Seir, ten thousand; ¹²and the sons of Judah took captive, ten thousand alive, and brought to the top of the crag,—and cast them down from the top of the crag, and, all of them, were torn asunder. ¹³But, as for the sons of the company which Amaziah sent back from going with him to the war, they spread themselves out against the cities of Judah, from Samaria, even unto Beth-horon,—and smote of them three thousand, and took great plunder. ¹⁴And so it was, after Amaziah came in from smiting the Edomites, that he brought in the gods of the sons of Seir, and set them up for himself, as gods,—and, before them, used he to bow himself down, and, unto them, used he to burn a perfume. ¹⁵Then was kindled the anger of Yahweh, against Amaziah,—and he sent unto him a prophet, and said unto him, Wherefore hast thou sought the gods of the people, which delivered not their own people out of thy hand? ¹⁶And it came to pass, as he spake unto him, that he said to him, To be, counselor to the king, have we appointed thee? forbear thou, wherefore should they smite thee? So the prophet forbore, and said—I know that God hath determined to destroy thee, because thou hast done this, and hast not hearkened unto my counsel. ¹⁷Then Amaziah king of Judah took counsel, and sent unto Joash, son of Jehoahaz son of Jehu king of Israel, saying,—Come, let us look one another in the face! ¹⁸And Joash king of Israel sent unto Amaziah king of Judah, saying, A thistle that was in Lebanon, sent unto a cedar that was in Lebanon, saying, Come! give thy daughter unto my son to wife,—but there passed by a beast of the field that was in Lebanon, and trampled down the thistle. ¹⁹Thou hast said—Lo! thou hast smitten the Edomites, and thy heart hath lifted thee up to display honour,—Now, abide in thine own house, wherefore shouldst thou engage in strife with Misfortune, and fall, thou and Judah with thee? ²⁰But Amaziah hearkened not, because, from God, it was, to the end he might deliver them up into their enemies' hand,—because they had sought the gods of Edom. ²¹So Joash king of Israel came up, and they looked one another in the face, he, and Amaziah king of Judah,—in Beth-shemesh, which belongeth unto Judah. ²²Then was Judah defeated, before Israel,—and they fled every man to his own home; ²³and, Amaziah king of Judah, son of Joash son of Jehoahaz, was taken by Joash king of Israel, in Beth-shemesh,—and he brought him to Jerusalem, and brake down the wall of Jerusalem, from the gate of Ephraim as far as the corner-gate, four hundred cubits; ²⁴and, all the gold and the silver and all the utensils that were found in the house of God with Obed-edom, and the treasures of the house of the king, and hostages, he took,—and returned to Samaria. ²⁵And Amaziah son of Joash king of Judah lived, after the death of Joash son of Jehoahaz king of Israel,—fifteen years. ²⁶Now, the rest of the story of Amaziah, first and last, lo! it is written in the book of the Kings of Judah and Israel. ²⁷And, after the time that Amaziah turned away from following Yahweh, they made against him a conspiracy in Jerusalem, and he fled to Lachish,—but they sent after him to Lachish, and slew him there. ²⁸And they brought him on horses,—and buried him with his fathers, in the city of Judah.

26Then all the people of Judah took Uzziah, when, he, was sixteen years old,—and made him king, instead of his father Amaziah. ²He, built Eloth, and restored it to Judah,—after that the king slept with his fathers. ³Sixteen years old, was Uzziah, when he began to reign, and, fifty-two years, reigned he in Jerusalem,—and, the name of his mother, was Jechiliah, of Jerusalem. ⁴And

he did that which was right, in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to all that Amaziah his father had done. ⁵And it came to pass that he set himself to seek God, in the days of Zechariah, who gave understanding in the seeing of God,—and, throughout the days of his seeking Yahweh, God, prospered him. ⁶So he went forth and made war against the Philistines, and brake down the wall of Gath, and the wall of Jabneh, and the wall of Ashdod,—and built cities in Ashdod, and among the Philistines. ⁷And God helped him against the Philistines and against the Arabians who dwelt in Gur-baal, and the Meunim. ⁸And the Ammonites gave a present to Uzziah,—and his name went forth as far as the entering in of Egypt, for he shewed exceeding great strength. ⁹And Uzziah built towers, in Jerusalem, over the corner-gate, and over the valley-gate, and over the angle,—and he made them strong. ¹⁰And he built towers in the desert, and digged many wells, for, much cattle, had he, both in the lowland, and in the plain,—husbandmen and vinedressers, in the mountains and in the fruitful field, for, a lover of the soil, was he. ¹¹And it came to pass that Uzziah had a force ready to make war, to go forth as a host in company, by the number of their reckoning, under the direction of Jeiel the scribe, and Maaseiah the officer,—under the direction of Hananiah, from among the captains of the king. ¹²The whole number of the ancestral chiefs pertaining to the heroes of valour, was two thousand and six hundred; ¹³and, under their direction, was the force of a host, three hundred and seven thousand five hundred, ready to make war, with the strength of a force,—for helping the king against an enemy. ¹⁴And Uzziah prepared for them, for all the host, bucklers and spears and helmets, and coats of mail, and bows,—and yea even sling-stones. ¹⁵And he made in Jerusalem, inventions invented of the inventor, to be upon the towers and upon the turrets, for throwing with arrows, and with great stones,—so that his name went forth afar, for he was marvellously helped, until that he was strong. ¹⁶But, when he became strong, uplifted was his heart, unto ruin, for he acted unfaithfully against Yahweh his God,—and entered into the temple of Yahweh, to burn incense upon the altar of incense. ¹⁷Then entered after him, Azariah the priest,—and with him eighty priests of Yahweh, sons of valour; ¹⁸and they took their stand against Uzziah the king, and said unto him—It is not, for thee, O Uzziah, to burn incense unto Yahweh, but, for the priests, the sons of Aaron, who are hallowed, to burn incense. Go forth out of the sanctuary, for thou hast acted unfaithfully, and, not to thee, for an honour, shall it be from Yahweh Elohim. ¹⁹Then was Uzziah wroth, and, in his hand, was a censer, to burn incense,—and, when he was wroth with the priests, a leprosy, shot forth in his forehead, before the priests, in the house of Yahweh, from off the altar of incense. ²⁰When Azariah the chief priest and all the priests turned towards him, lo! he, was leprous, in his forehead, so they hastened him from thence,—yea, even he himself, hurried to go out, because Yahweh had smitten him. ²¹And it came to pass that, Uzziah the king, was a leper until the day of his death, and dwelt in a house apart—a leper, for he was cut off from the house of Yahweh,—and, Jotham his son, was over the house of the king, judging the people of the land. ²²Now, the rest of the story of Uzziah, first and last, hath Isaiah son of Amoz, the prophet, written. ²³And Uzziah slept with his fathers, and they buried him with his fathers in the field of burial that pertained unto the kings, for they said, A leper, he is. And Jotham his son reigned in his stead.

27 twenty-five years old, was Jotham when he began to reign, and, sixteen years, reigned he in Jerusalem,—and, the name of his mother, was Jerushah, daughter of Zadok. ²And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh, according to all that Uzziah his father had done, only he entered not into the temple of Yahweh,—though still were the people acting corruptly. ³He, built the upper gate of the house of Yahweh,—and, on the wall of Ophel, built he extensively. ⁴Cities also, built he, in the hill country of Judah,—and, in the thick woods, built he fortresses and towers. ⁵He, also made war against the king of the sons of Ammon, and prevailed against them, and the sons of Ammon gave him, during that year, a hundred talents of silver, and ten thousand measures of wheat, and, of barley, ten thousand,—this, did the sons of Ammon render him, both in the second year, and the third. ⁶So Jotham strengthened himself,—for he fixed his ways before Yahweh his God. ⁷But, the rest of the story of Jotham, and all his wars, and his ways, lo! there they are written in the book of the Kings of Israel and Judah. ⁸Twenty-five years old, was he when he began to reign,—and, sixteen years, reigned he in Jerusalem. ⁹And Jotham slept with his fathers, and they buried him, in the city of David,—and Ahaz his son reigned in his stead.

28 Twenty years old, was Ahaz when he began to reign, and, sixteen years, reigned he in Jerusalem,—but he did not that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh, like David his father; ²but walked in the ways of the kings of Israel,—yea, even molten images, made he to the Baalim; ³and, he, burned incense, in the valley of the son of Hinnom,—and burnt his sons, in the fire, according to the abominable ways of the nations, whom Yahweh dispossessed from before the sons of Israel. ⁴And he sacrificed and burnt incense in the high places, and upon the hills,—and under every green tree. ⁵Wherefore Yahweh his God delivered him into the hand of the king of Syria, who smote him, and carried away captive from him a large body of captives, and brought them into Damascus,—yea, even into the hand of the king of Israel, was he delivered, who smote him with a great smiting. ⁶And Pekah son of Remaliah slew, in Judah, a hundred and twenty thousand in one day, all, sons of valour,—because they had forsaken Yahweh, God of their fathers. ⁷And Zichri a hero of Ephraim, slew Maaseiah son of the king, and Azrikam, chief ruler of the house,—and Elkanah, that was next unto the king. ⁸And the sons of Israel, carried away captive, from among their brethren two hundred thousand, wives, sons and daughters, moreover also, of much spoil, did they plunder them,—and brought the spoil to Samaria. ⁹But, in that place, was a prophet unto Yahweh, Oded his name, so he went out to meet the host that was coming unto Samaria, and said unto them, Lo! in the wrath of Yahweh, God of your fathers, against Judah, hath he delivered them into your hand,—and ye have slain them in a rage, until, to the heavens, it hath reached. ¹⁰Now, therefore, ye, are thinking to tread down, the children of Judah and Jerusalem, as servants and as handmaids for yourselves. But is it not so—that, ye yourselves, are altogether guilty against Yahweh your God? ¹¹Now, therefore, hearken unto me, and restore the captives whom ye have taken captive from among your brethren,—for, the glow of the anger of Yahweh, is over you. ¹²Then rose up certain of the chiefs of the sons of Ephraim—Azariah son of Jehohanan, Berechiah son of Meshillemoth, and Jehizkiah son of Shallum, and Amasa son of Hadlai,—against them who were coming in from the army; ¹³and said unto them, Ye shall not bring in the captives hither, for, with guilt against Yahweh already upon us, ye, are thinking to add unto our sins, and unto our guilt,—for great is the guilt we have, and fierce is the anger over Israel. ¹⁴So the armed men left the captives, and the plunder, before the rulers, and all the convocation. ¹⁵Then rose up the men who have been expressed by name—and took the captives, and, all who were naked among them, clothed they out of the spoil, and arrayed them and sandalled them, and gave them to eat and to drink, and anointed them, and conducted them with asses for every one that was exhausted, and brought them to Jericho the city of palm-trees, near unto their brethren,—and then returned to Samaria. ¹⁶At that time, sent King Ahaz unto the kings of Assyria to help him. ¹⁷For again had, the Edomites, come and smitten Judah, and carried away captives; ¹⁸and, the Philistines, had spread themselves out against the cities of the lowland and of the south, pertaining to Judah, and had captured Bethshemesh and Aijalon and Gederoth, and Soco with its villages, and Timnah with its villages, and Gimzo, with its villages,—and dwelt there. ¹⁹For Yahweh had brought Judah low, because of Ahaz king of Israel,—for he had given the rein in Judah, and, been grievously unfaithful, with Yahweh. ²⁰And Tilgath-pilneser king of Assyria, came against him,—and distressed him, but strengthened him not. ²¹For Ahaz took away a portion out of the house of Yahweh, and out of the house of the king, and the rulers,—and gave unto the king of Assyria, but he helped him not. ²²And, in the time of his distress, he yet further acted unfaithfully with Yahweh,—he, King Ahaz! ²³For he sacrificed unto the gods of Damascus who had smitten him, and said, Because the gods of the kings of Syria are helping them, unto them, will I sacrifice, that they may help me. But, they, served to seduce him and all Israel. ²⁴And Ahaz gathered together the utensils of the house of God, and brake away the fittings of the house of God, and shut up the doors of the house of Yahweh,—and made for himself altars at every corner in Jerusalem; ²⁵and, in every several city of Judah, made he high places, for burning incense unto other gods,—and provoked Yahweh, God of his fathers. ²⁶But, the rest of his story, and all his ways, first and last, there they are, written the book of the Kings of Judah and Israel. ²⁷And Ahaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city, in Jerusalem, but they brought him not into the sepulchres of the kings of Israel,—and Hezekiah his son reigned in his stead.

29And, Hezekiah, began to reign when he was twenty-five years old, and, twenty-nine years, reigned he in Jerusalem,—and, the name of his mother, was Abijah, daughter of Zechariah. ²And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to all that, David his father, had done. ³He, in the first year of his reign, in the first month, opened the doors of the house of Yahweh, and repaired them. ⁴And he brought in the priests, and the Levites,—and gathered them together in the broadway on the east; ⁵and said unto them, Hear me, O Levites! Now, hallow yourselves, and hallow the house of Yahweh, God of your fathers, and take forth the impure thing out of the holy place. ⁶For our fathers have acted unfaithfully and done the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh our God, and have forsaken him,—and have turned round their faces from the habitation of Yahweh, and have offered their backs. ⁷Moreover they have shut up the doors of the porch, and have quenched the lamps, and, incense, have they not burned,—and, ascending-sacrifice, have they not caused to go up in the holy place, unto the God of Israel. ⁸Thus hath it come to pass, that, the wrath of Yahweh, hath been upon Judah and Jerusalem,—and he hath delivered them up as a terror and as an astonishment and as hissing, even as, ye, can see with your own eyes. ⁹And lo! our fathers have fallen by the sword, and, our sons and our daughters and our wives, are in captivity for this. ¹⁰Now, is it near my heart, to solemnise a covenant unto Yahweh, God of Israel,—that he may turn from him the glow of his anger. ¹¹My sons! now, do not be faulty,—for, of you, hath Yahweh made choice, to stand before him, and to wait upon him, and to be his attendants and burners of incense. ¹²Then arose the Levites—Mahath son of Amasai, and Joel son of Azariah, of the sons of the Kohathites, and, of the sons of Merari, Kish son of Abdi, and Azariah son of Jehallelel,—and, of the Gershonites, Joah son of Zimmah, and Eden son of Joah; ¹³and, of the sons of Elizaphan, Shimri and Jeiel,—and, of the sons of Asaph, Zechariah, and Mattaniah; ¹⁴and, of the sons of Heman, Jehiel and Shimei,—and, of the sons of Jeduthun, Shemaiah, and Uzziel; ¹⁵and they gathered together their brethren, who hallowed themselves, and came in according to the command of the king, in the things of Yahweh,—to purify the house of Yahweh. ¹⁶So the priests entered into the inner part of the house of Yahweh, to make purification, and they brought out every unclean thing which they found in the temple of Yahweh, into the court of the house of Yahweh,—where the Levites received it, to carry it forth to the Kidron ravine outside. ¹⁷And they began, on the first of the first month, to hallow,—and, on the eighth day of the month, they came to the porch of Yahweh, so they hallowed the house of Yahweh in eight days,—and, on the sixteenth day of the first month, they finished. ¹⁸Then came they in unto Hezekiah the king, and said, We have purified all the house of Yahweh,—the altar of ascending-sacrifice, and all the utensils thereof, and the table for setting in array, and all the utensils thereof. ¹⁹And, all the utensils which King Ahaz in his reign rejected when he acted unfaithfully, have we made ready and hallowed,—and, there they are, before the altar of Yahweh. ²⁰So Hezekiah the king rose up early, and gathered together the rulers of the city,—and went up to the house of Yahweh. ²¹And they brought in seven bullocks, and seven rams, and seven young sheep, and seven he-goats for bearing sin, for the kingdom and for the sanctuary and for Judah,—and he bade the sons of Aaron, the priests, cause them to ascend upon the altar of Yahweh. ²²So they slaughtered the bullocks, and the priests received the blood, and dashed it against the altar,—and they slaughtered the rams, and dashed the blood against the altar, and slaughtered the young sheep, and dashed the blood against the altar. ²³And they brought near the he-goats for bearing sin, before the king, and the convocation,—and they leaned their hands upon them; ²⁴and the priests slaughtered them, and sin-cleansed, with their blood, the altar, to put a propitiatory-covering over all Israel,—because, for all Israel, did the king appoint the ascending-sacrifice and the offering for bearing sin. ²⁵And he caused the Levites to stand in the house of Yahweh, with cymbals and with harps and with lyres, by the commandment of David, and of Gad the seer of the king, and of Nathan the prophet,—for, by the hand of Yahweh, came the commandment by the hand of his prophets. ²⁶So the Levites took their stand, with the instruments of David, and the priests, with the trumpets. ²⁷And Hezekiah gave word, to cause the ascending-sacrifice to go up on the altar,—and, when the ascending-sacrifice began, the singing unto Yahweh began, and the trumpets, even under the direction of the instruments of David, king of Israel. ²⁸And, all the convocation, were bowing themselves in prostration, and, the song, was resounding and the trumpets were blowing,—the whole, until the completing of the ascending-sacrifice. ²⁹And, when the offering was complete, the king knelt down and all who were present with him, and bowed themselves in prostration. ³⁰And Hezekiah the king and the rulers gave word to the Levites, to offer praise unto Yahweh, in the words of David, and of Asaph the seer,—so they offered praise right joyfully, and bent their heads and bowed themselves in prostration. ³¹Then responded Hezekiah and said—Now, have ye consecrated yourselves unto Yahweh. Draw near, and bring in sacrifices and thank-offerings unto the house of Yahweh,—So the convocation brought sacrifices and thank-offerings, and, everyone of a willing heart, brought ascending-sacrifices. ³²And it came to pass that, the number of ascending-sacrifices which the convocation brought, was—seventy bullocks, and a hundred rams, and two hundred young sheep,—as an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh, all these. ³³But, the hallowed beasts, were six hundred bullocks, and three thousand sheep. ³⁴Only, the priests, were too few, and were unable to flay all the ascending-sacrifices,—so their brethren the Levites strengthened them, until the work was complete and until the priests had hallowed themselves, for, the Levites, were more upright in heart to hallow themselves, than the priests. ³⁵Moreover also, the ascending-sacrifices, were in abundance, with the fat portions of the peace-offerings, and with the drink-offerings to every ascending-sacrifice,—thus was established the service of the house of Yahweh. ³⁶And Hezekiah rejoiced, and all the people, because God had established it for the people,—for, suddenly, had the thing come about.

30Then sent Hezekiah unto all Israel and Judah, moreover also, letters, wrote he unto Ephraim and Manasseh, that they should come unto the house of Yahweh, in Jerusalem,—to keep a passover unto Yahweh, God of Israel. ²Yea, the king and his rulers and all the convocation in Jerusalem, had taken counsel,—to keep the passover in the second month. ³For they were unable to keep it at that time,—because, the priests, had not hallowed themselves in sufficient numbers, and, the people, had not gathered themselves unto Jerusalem. ⁴And the thing was right, in the eyes of the king,—and in the eyes of all the convocation. ⁵So they established a decree, to make proclamation throughout all Israel, from Beer-sheba even unto Dan, that they should come in to keep a passover unto Yahweh the God of Israel, in Jerusalem,—for, not for a long time, had they kept it as written. ⁶The runners, therefore, went with letters from the hand of the king and his rulers, throughout all Israel and Judah, and according to the commandment of the king, saying,—Ye sons of Israel, return ye unto Yahweh, God of Abraham, Isaac and Israel, and he will return unto the remnant, that which is left to you, out of the hand of the kings of Assyria. ⁷And be not ye like your fathers, or like your brethren, who acted unfaithfully with Yahweh, God of your fathers,—who therefore delivered them up for an astonishment, as, ye yourselves, can see. ⁸Now, do not stiffen your neck, like your fathers,—stretch forth the hand unto Yahweh, and enter into his sanctuary which he hath hallowed unto times age-abiding, and serve Yahweh your God, that he may turn from you the glow of his anger. ⁹For, by your returning unto Yahweh, your brethren and your children, shall find compassion before their captors, so as to return unto this land. For, gracious and compassionate, is Yahweh your God, and will not turn away his face from you, if ye will return unto him. ¹⁰So the runners were passing from city to city throughout the land of Ephraim and Manasseh, even unto Zebulun,—but they were laughing them to scorn, and mocking them. ¹¹Howbeit, some, out of Asher and Manasseh and out of Zebulun, humbled themselves, and came to Jerusalem. ¹²Also, upon Judah, came the hand of God, to give them one heart,—to keep the commandment of the king and the rulers, as the word of Yahweh. ¹³And there gathered themselves unto Jerusalem much people, to keep the festival of unleavened cakes, in the second month,—an exceeding large convocation. ¹⁴Then rose they up, and removed the altars, which were in Jerusalem,—and, all the censers, removed they, and cast them into the Kidron ravine. ¹⁵Then slaughtered they the passover, on the fourteenth of the second month,—and, the priests and the Levites, were put to shame, and hallowed themselves, and brought in the ascending-sacrifices of the house of Yahweh. ¹⁶And they stood in their place, according to their regulation, according to the law of Moses the man of God,—the priests, dashing the blood, which they received at the hand of the Levites. ¹⁷For there were many in the convocation, who had not hallowed themselves,—but, the Levites, were over the slaughtering of the passover-lambs, for every one who was, not pure, to hallow him unto Yahweh. ¹⁸For, the multitude of the people, many out of Ephraim and Manasseh, Issachar and Zebulun, had not purified themselves, for they did eat the passover, otherwise than as was written,—for Hezekiah prayed for them, saying, May Yahweh the Good, put a propitiatory-covering about ¹⁹every one who hath prepared, his heart, to seek God, even Yahweh, God of his fathers,—though not according to the purification of the sanctuary! ²⁰And Yahweh hearkened unto Hezekiah, and healed the people. ²¹And so the sons of Israel who were found in Jerusalem kept the festival of unleavened cakes seven days, with great rejoicing,—and the Levites and the priests, were offering praise unto Yahweh day by day, with loud instruments, unto Yahweh. ²²And Hezekiah spake unto the heart of all the Levites who were giving good instruction respecting Yahweh,—and they did eat the appointed feast seven days, sacrificing the peace-offerings, and offering praise unto Yahweh, God of their fathers. ²³Then all the convocation took counsel, to keep seven days more,—and they kept seven days, with rejoicing. ²⁴For, Hezekiah king of Judah, presented to the convocation, a thousand bullocks and seven thousand sheep, and, the rulers, presented to the convocation, a thousand bullocks and ten thousand sheep,—and, priests in great numbers, hallowed themselves. ²⁵So all the convocation of Judah, and the priests and the Levites, and all the convocation that came in out of Israel, rejoiced,—also the sojourners who were coming in out of the land of Israel, and the dwellers in Judah. ²⁶Thus was there great rejoicing, in Jerusalem,—for, since the days of Solomon son of David king of Israel, there had not been the like of this, in Jerusalem. ²⁷Then rose up the priests the Levites, and blessed the people, and there was a hearkening unto their voice,—and their prayer entered into his holy dwelling-place, even into the heavens.

31Now, when all this was finished, all Israel who were present went forth unto the cities of Judah, and brake in pieces the pillars—and cut down the Sacred Stems—and threw down the high places and the altars, out of all Judah and Benjamin—and throughout Ephraim and Manasseh, until they had made an end,—then all the sons of Israel returned every man to his own possession, unto their own cities. ²And Hezekiah appointed the courses of the priests, and the Levites, over their courses, every man according to the requirements of his service, both priests and Levites, for ascending-sacrifice and for peace-offerings,—to be in attendance and to give thanks and to offer praise, in the gates of the camps of Yahweh; ³also the portion of the king out of his own substance, for the ascending-sacrifices,—even for the ascending-sacrifices of the morning and of the evening, and the ascending-sacrifices for the sabbaths, and for the new moons and for the appointed feasts,—as written in the law of Yahweh. ⁴And he bade the people who were dwelling in Jerusalem give the portion of the priests and the Levites,—to the end they might persevere in the law of Yahweh. ⁵And, as soon as the thing spread abroad, the sons of Israel caused to abound the firstfruit of corn, new wine, and oil, and honey, and all the increase of the field,—yea, the tithe of all—in abundance, brought they in. ⁶And, as for the sons of Israel and Judah who were dwelling in the cities of Judah, even they, a tithe of oxen, and sheep, and a tithe of hallowed things, which had been hallowed unto Yahweh their God, did bring in and pile up—heaps, heaps. ⁷In the third month, began they the heaps, at the foundation,—and, in the seventh, they finished. ⁸And Hezekiah and the rulers came, and saw the heaps,—and blessed Yahweh, and his people Israel. ⁹Then applied Hezekiah unto the priests and the Levites, concerning the heaps. ¹⁰And Azariah, the chief priest of the house of Zadok, spake unto him,—and said—From the time of beginning to bring in, the heave-offering, into the house of Yahweh—to eat and to be full, there hath still been left, even to this abundance. For, Yahweh, hath blessed his people, and, that which is left, is this great plenty. ¹¹Then Hezekiah gave word to prepare chambers, in the house of Yahweh, and they prepared them; ¹²and brought in the heave-offering and the tithe and the hallowed things, faithfully,—and, over them, as chief ruler, was Cononiah the Levite, and Shimei his brother, next; ¹³and Jehiel and Azariah and Nahath and Asahel and Jerimoth and Jozabad, and Eliel and Ismachiah, and Mahath, and Benaiah,—overseers under the direction of Cononiah and Shemei his brother, by the appointment of Hezekiah the king, and Azariah the chief ruler of the house of God. ¹⁴And, Kore, son of Imnah the Levite, the door-keeper on the east, was over the freewill offerings of God,—to give the heave-offering of Yahweh, and the most holy things. ¹⁵And, under his direction, were Eden and Miniamin and Jeshua and Shemaiah, Amariah and Shecaniah, in the cities of the priests, in trust to give unto their brethren by courses, as the great so the small; ¹⁶besides registering them by males, from three years old and upward, unto every one that entered into the house of Yahweh, in the need of a day upon its day,—by their service, in their watches, according to their courses: ¹⁷both the registering of the priests, by their ancestral houses, and the Levites, from twenty years old and upward,—in their watches, in their courses; ¹⁸even to the registering of all their little ones, their wives and their sons and their daughters, unto all the convocation,—for, in their trust, they hallowed themselves in holiness; ¹⁹also unto the sons of Aaron the priests in the fields of the pasture land of their cities, in every several city, men who were expressed by name,—to give portions to every male among the priests, and to all registered among the Levites. ²⁰And Hezekiah did thus, throughout all Judah,—and he did that which was good and right and faithful, before Yahweh his God. ²¹And, in all the work which he began in the service of the house of God—and in the law—and in the commandment, to seek unto his God, with all his heart, he wrought, and prospered.

32After these things done in faithfulness, came Sennacherib king of Assyria,—and entered into Judah, and encamped against the fortified cities, and thought to break into them for himself. ²And, when Hezekiah saw that Sennacherib had come,—and that, his face, was—to war, against Jerusalem, ³he took counsel with his captains and his heroes, to stop the waters of the fountains, which were outside the city,—and they helped him. ⁴And there were gathered together much people, so they stopped all the fountains, and the torrent that flowed through the midst of the land, saying,—Wherefore should the kings of Assyria come, and find many waters? ⁵And he took courage, and built all the wall that was broken down and carried up thereon towers, and, on the outside, another wall, and strengthened Millo, the city of David,—and made weapons in abundance, and bucklers, ⁶and set captains of war over the people,—and gathered them together unto him in the Broadway of the gate of the city, and spake unto their heart, saying,—⁷Be strong and bold, do not fear neither be dismayed, because of the king of Assyria, nor because of all the multitude that is with him,—for, with us, is One greater than with him: ⁸with him, is an arm of flesh, but, with us, is Yahweh our God, to help us, and to fight our battles. And the people leaned upon the words of Hezekiah king of Judah. ⁹After this, Sennacherib king of Assyria sent his servants towards Jerusalem, himself, being near Lachish, and all his imperial might with him,—unto Hezekiah king of Judah, and unto all Judah that was in Jerusalem, saying: ¹⁰Thus, saith Sennacherib, king of Assyria,—Upon what, are ye, trusting, that ye are awaiting the siege in Jerusalem? ¹¹Is not, Hezekiah, persuading you, so as to deliver you up to die with hunger and with thirst, saying,—Yahweh our God, will deliver us out of the hand of the king of Assyria? ¹²Is it not, the same Hezekiah, who hath removed his high places, and his altars,—and hath given word to Judah and Jerusalem, saying, Before one altar, shall ye bow yourselves down, and, thereupon, shall ye burn incense? ¹³Will ye not take note, what I have done, I and my fathers, to all the peoples of the countries? Have the gods of the nations of the countries been, at all able, to deliver their country, out of my hand? ¹⁴Who, among all the gods of these nations whom my fathers devoted to destruction, hath ever been able to deliver his people out of my hand,—that your god should be able to deliver you out of my hand? ¹⁵Now, therefore, do not let Hezekiah beguile you nor persuade you thus, neither do ye believe him. For no, god, of any nation or kingdom hath ever been able to deliver his people out of my hand, or out of the hand of my fathers,—how much less shall, your gods, deliver you, out of my hand? ¹⁶And, yet more, spake his servants, against Yahweh, God,—and against Hezekiah his servant. ¹⁷Letters, also wrote he, to scoff at Yahweh God of Israel, and to speak against him, saying, Like the gods of the nations of the countries, who delivered not their people out of my hand, so, shall the god of Hezekiah not deliver his people out of my hand. ¹⁸Then cried they out, with a loud voice, in the Jews' language, unto the people of Jerusalem who were upon the wall, to affright them, and to terrify them,—to the end they might capture the city. ¹⁹And they spake against the God of Jerusalem,—as against the gods of the peoples of the earth, the work of the hands of men. ²⁰And Hezekiah the king and Isaiah son of Amoz, the prophet, prayed concerning this,—and made outcry unto the heavens, ²¹So Yahweh sent a messenger, who cut off every hero of valour, and chief ruler and captain, in the camp of the king of Assyria,—and he returned with shame of face to his own land, and, when he entered the house of his god, then, the issue of his own body—there, caused him to fall by the sword. ²²Thus did Yahweh save Hezekiah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem out of the hand of Sennacherib king of Assyria, and out of the hand of every one,—and gave them rest on every side. ²³And, many, were bringing in a present unto Yahweh, to Jerusalem, and precious things, unto Hezekiah king of Judah,—so that he was exalted in the eyes of all the nations, from thenceforth. ²⁴In those days, was Hezekiah sick unto death,—and, when he prayed unto Yahweh, he was entreated of him and, a wonderful token, he gave him. ²⁵But, not according to the benefit done unto him, did Hezekiah make return, for uplifted was his heart,—and so there came upon him, wrath, and upon Judah and Jerusalem. ²⁶Then Hezekiah humbled himself, for the uplifting of his heart, he and the inhabitants of Jerusalem,—so that the wrath of Yahweh came not upon them, in the days of Hezekiah. ²⁷And it came to pass that, Hezekiah, had riches and honour in great abundance,—and, treasuries, made he for himself—for silver and for gold and for costly stones, and for spices and for precious things, and for all utensils to be coveted; ²⁸storehouses also, for the increase of corn, and new wine and oil,—and cribs for every kind of beast, and cribs for the flocks; ²⁹and, cities, made he for himself, and possessions of flocks and herds, in abundance,—for God had given him exceeding great wealth. ³⁰And, the same Hezekiah, stopped up the upper spring of the waters of Gihon, and brought them straight down the west side of the city of David,—and Hezekiah prospered in all his work. ³¹Yet verily, with regard to the ambassadors of the rulers of Babylon, who sent unto him to enquire concerning the wonderful token which came to pass in the land, God left him,—to prove him, to take note of all that was in his heart. ³²But, the rest of the story of Hezekiah, and his lovingkindnesses, there they are, written in the visions of Isaiah son of Amoz, the prophet, in the book of the Kings of Judah and Israel. ³³And Hezekiah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the ascent of the sepulchres of the sons of David, and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem did him, honour, in his death,—and Manasseh his son reigned in his stead.

33Twelve years old, was Manasseh when he began to reign,—and, fifty-five years, reigned he in Jerusalem. ²And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to the abominable ways of the nations, whom Yahweh dispossessed from before the sons of Israel. ³And he again built the high places, which Hezekiah his father had thrown down,—and set up altars to the Baalim, and made Sacred Stems, and bowed in prostration unto all the army of the heavens, and served them; ⁴and built altars in the house of Yahweh,—as to which Yahweh had said, In Jerusalem, shall be my Name, unto times age-abiding. ⁵Yea he built altars unto all the army of the heavens,—in the two courts of the house of Yahweh. ⁶And, he, caused his sons to pass through the fire, in the valley of the son of Hinnom, and practised hidden arts and used divination, and practised sorcery, and appointed a necromancer, and a wizard,—he exceeded in doing the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, to provoke him to anger; ⁷and he set a resemblance-image which he had made,—in the house of God, as to which God had said unto David, and unto Solomon his son, In this house and in Jerusalem which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, will I put my Name, unto times age-abiding. ⁸So will I not again remove the foot of Israel away from the soil which I appointed for their fathers. Only they must observe to do all that I have commanded them, even all the law and the statutes and the regulations, by the hand of Moses. ⁹And so Manasseh led astray Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem,—to commit wickedness beyond the nations which Yahweh had destroyed from before the sons of Israel. ¹⁰And Yahweh spake unto Manasseh and unto his people, but they did not give ear. ¹¹So Yahweh brought in upon them, the captains of the army that belonged to the king of Assyria, and they captured Manasseh with hooks,—and bound him captive with a pair of bronze fetters, and took him away to Babylon. ¹²But, in his distress, he appeased the face of Yahweh his God,—and humbled himself greatly, before the God of his fathers; ¹³and, when he prayed unto him, then was he entreated of him, and hearkened unto his supplication, and brought him back to Jerusalem, unto his own kingdom, and so Manasseh came to know, that, Yahweh, is God. ¹⁴And, after this, he built an outer wall to the city of David on the west of the Gihon in the ravine, even to the entering in through the fish-gate, and went round to Ophel, and carried it up very high,—and put captains of valour in all the fortified cities, throughout Judah. ¹⁵And he removed the gods of the foreigner and the image, out of the house of Yahweh, and all the altars that he had built in the mountain of the house of Yahweh, and in Jerusalem,—and he cast them forth outside the city. ¹⁶And he built the altar of Yahweh, and sacrificed thereon peace-offerings, and thanksgiving sacrifices,—and gave word to Judah to serve Yahweh, God of Israel. ¹⁷Howbeit, still were, the people, sacrificing in the high places,—only unto Yahweh their God. ¹⁸But, the rest of the story of Manasseh, and his prayer unto his God, and the story of the seers who spake unto him in the name of Yahweh God of Israel, there they are, in the story of the kings of Israel: ¹⁹both his prayer and how God was entreated of him—and all his sin and his treacherous act, and the sites whereon he built high places, and set up the Sacred Stems and the images, before he humbled himself, there they are, written in the story of the seers. ²⁰And Manasseh slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the garden off his own house,—and Amon his son reigned in his stead. ²¹Twenty-two years old, was Amon when he began to reign,—and, two years, reigned he in Jerusalem. ²²And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, as Manasseh his father had done,—and, unto all the images which Manasseh his father had made, Amon offered sacrifice, and did serve them. ²³But he did not humble himself before Yahweh as Manasseh his father humbled himself,—for, he, Amon, made guilt abound. ²⁴And his servants conspired against him, and put him to death, in his own house. ²⁵But the people of the land smote all the conspirators against King Amon,—and the people of the land made Josiah his son king in his stead.

34Eight years old, was Josiah when he begun to reign,—and, thirty-one years, reigned he in Jerusalem. ²And he did that which was right, in the eyes of Yahweh,—and walked in the ways of David his father, and turned not aside, to the right hand or to the left. ³And, in the eighth year of his reign, he, being yet a boy, he began to seek unto the God of David his father,—and, in the twelfth year, he began to purify Judah and Jerusalem, from the high places and the Sacred Stems, and the carved images and the molten images. ⁴And they threw down before him, the altars of the Baalim, and, the sun-pillars which were on high above them, he hewed down,—and, the Sacred Stems and the carved images and the molten images, brake he in pieces and ground to dust, and tossed over the face of the graves, of them who had been sacrificing unto them. ⁵And, the bones of the priests, burned he upon their altars,—and so purified Judah and Jerusalem: ⁶also throughout the cities of Manasseh and Ephraim and Simeon, even as far as Naphtali,—searched he their houses, round about. ⁷And, when he had thrown down the altars and the Sacred Stems, and, the images, he had beaten to powder, and, the sun-pillars, he had hewn down throughout all the land of Israel, then returned he to Jerusalem. ⁸And, in the eighteenth year of his reign, when he had purified the land and the house, he sent Shaphan son of Azaliah and Maaseiah the ruler of the city and Joah son of Joahaz the recorder, to repair the house of Yahweh his God. ⁹So they went in unto Hilkiah the high priest, and delivered the silver that had been brought into the house of God, which the Levites who kept the entrance-hall had collected from the hand of Manasseh, and Ephraim, and from all the remnant of Israel, and from all Judah and Benjamin,—and returned to Jerusalem. ¹⁰And the overseers in the house of Yahweh, delivered it into the hand of the doer of the work,—yea they delivered it to the doers of the work, because they were working in the house of Yahweh, in searching and repairing the house: ¹¹yea they delivered it to the artificers and to the builders, to buy carved stones and timbers for the joinings,—and to build up the houses which the kings of Judah had destroyed. ¹²Now, the men, were working faithfully in the work, and over them as overseers, were—Jahath and Obadiah, Levites, of the sons of Merari, and Zechariah and Meshullam, of the sons of the Kohathites, to preside,—and Levites, all who had understanding in instruments of song; ¹³also over the burden-bearers, and such as took the lead, for everyone who was working in any manner of service,—and, of the Levites, were scribes and officers and doorkeepers. ¹⁴Now, as they were taking out the silver which had been brought into the house of Yahweh, Hilkiah the priest found the Book of the Law of Yahweh, by the hand of Moses. ¹⁵Then spake up Hilkiah, and said unto Shaphan the scribe, The Book of the Law, have I found, in the house of Yahweh,—and Hilkiah gave the book unto Shaphan. ¹⁶Then Shaphan took in the book unto the king, and returned yet further unto the king a message, saying,—All that was delivered into the hand of thy servants, they are doing; ¹⁷and they have poured out the silver, that was found in the house of Yahweh, and have delivered it into the hand of the overseers, and into the hand of the doers of the work. ¹⁸Then Shaphan the scribe told the king, saying, A book, hath Hilkiah the priest given to me. And Shaphan, read therein, before the king. ¹⁹And it came to pass, when the king heard the words of the law, that he rent his clothes. ²⁰Then did the king command Hilkiah—and Ahikam son of Shaphan—and Abdon son of Micah—and Shaphan the scribe—and Asaiah servant of the king, saying: ²¹Go, enquire of Yahweh for me, and for the remnant in Israel and in Judah, concerning the words of the book which hath been found,—for great is the wrath of Yahweh, which hath been poured out upon us, because our fathers, kept not, the word of Yahweh, to do according to all that is written in this book. ²²So Hilkiah and they whom the king had named went into Huldah the prophetess, wife of Shallum son of Tokhath son of Hasrah keeper of the wardrobe, she, having her dwelling in Jerusalem, in the new city,—and they spake unto her accordingly. ²³And she said unto them, Thus, saith Yahweh God of Israel,—Say ye unto the man who hath sent you unto me: ²⁴Thus, saith Yahweh, Behold me bringing in calamity upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof,—even all the curses that are written in the book which they have read before the king of Judah: ²⁵Because they have forsaken me, and burned incense unto other gods, so as to provoke me to anger, with all the works of their hands, therefore hath my wrath been poured out upon this place, and shall not be quenched. ²⁶But, unto the king of Judah, who hath sent you to enquire of Yahweh, thus, shall ye say unto him,—Thus, saith Yahweh God of Israel, As touching the words which thou hast heard: ²⁷Because tender was thy heart, and thou didst humble thyself before God when thou heardest his words against this place and against the inhabitants thereof, and didst humble thyself before me, and didst rend thy clothes and weep before me, therefore, I also, have heard, is the declaration of Yahweh. ²⁸Behold me! gathering thee unto thy fathers, and thou shalt be gathered unto thy sepulchres in peace, and thine eyes shall not look upon all the calamity which, I, am bringing in upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof. And they returned, unto the king, the message. ²⁹Then

the king sent,—and gathered together all the elders of Judah and Jerusalem. ³⁰And the king went up to the house of Yahweh—and all the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem—and the priests and the Levites, and all the people, from the great even unto the small,—and he read in their ears, all the words of the book of the covenant, which had been found in the house of Yahweh. ³¹And the king stood in his place, and solemnised the covenant before Yahweh, to walk after Yahweh, and to keep his commandments and his testimonies and his statutes, with all his heart and with all his soul,—to perform the words of the covenant that are written in this book. ³²And he caused to take a stand, all that were present in Jerusalem, and Benjamin,—and the inhabitants of Jerusalem did according to the covenant of God, the God of their fathers. ³³And Josiah removed all the abominations, out of all the lands which belonged to the sons of Israel, and caused all that were present in Jerusalem to serve, yea to serve, Yahweh their God,—all his days, turned they not aside from following Yahweh, God of their fathers.

35And Josiah kept, in Jerusalem, a passover unto Yahweh, and they slaughtered the passover, on the fourteenth of the first month. ²And he set the priests over their charges,—and encouraged them unto the service of the house of Yahweh; ³and said to the Levites who gave instruction to all Israel as to the things which were hallowed unto Yahweh, Put the holy ark in the house which Solomon son of David king of Israel did build, it is not yours as a burden on the shoulder,—Now, serve ye Yahweh your God, and his people Israel; ⁴and prepare yourselves by your ancestral houses, according to your courses,—by the writing of David king of Israel, and by what hath been written by Solomon his son; ⁵and stand ye in the holy place, by the divisions of the ancestral house, for your brethren, the sons of the people, and the partitioning of an ancestral house, for the Levites. ⁶So slaughter ye the passover,—and hallow yourselves, and prepare for your brethren, that they may do according to the word of Yahweh, by the hand of Moses. ⁷And Josiah presented to the sons of the people—of flocks, young sheep and the young of the goats, the whole for the passover offerings, for all present, to the number of thirty thousand, and, of bullocks, three thousand,—these, out of the substance of the king. ⁸And, his rulers, willingly, to the people and to the priests and to the Levites, presented,—Hilkiah and Zechariah and Jehiel, chief rulers of the house of God, unto the priests, did give, for passover offerings, two thousand and six hundred, and, of bullocks, three hundred; ⁹and, Conaniah, and Shemaiah and Nethanel his brethren, and Hashabiah and Jeiel and Jozabad, rulers of the Levites, presented to the Levites, for passover offerings, five thousand, and, of bullocks, five hundred. ¹⁰Thus was the service prepared,—and the priests stood in their place, and the Levites in their courses, according to the commandment of the king. ¹¹So they slaughtered the passover, and the priests dashed the blood received at their hand, and the Levites were flaying the offerings. ¹²Then they removed the ascending-sacrifice, that they might give them—by the divisions of each ancestral house—unto the sons of the people, to offer unto Yahweh, as it is written in the Book of Moses,—and, in like manner, with the bullocks. ¹³And they cooked the passover with fire, according to the regulation,—but, the hallowed things, cooked they in cauldrons and in pots and in bowls, and then took quickly, unto all the sons of the people. ¹⁴And, afterwards, prepared they for themselves and for the priests, because, the priests, the sons of Aaron, had been engaged in offering up the ascending-sacrifice and the fat pieces, until night,—the Levites, therefore prepared for themselves, and for the priests, the sons of Aaron. ¹⁵the singers also, the sons of Asaph, were in their place, according to the commandment of David, and Asaph, and Heman, and Jeduthun the seer of the king, and, the door-keepers, were at the several doors,—there was no need for them to remove from their service, for, their brethren the Levites, prepared for them. ¹⁶Thus was all the service of Yahweh prepared on that day; to keep the passover, and to offer up the ascending-sacrifice, upon the altar of Yahweh,—according to the commandment of King Josiah. ¹⁷So the sons of Israel who were present kept the passover at that time,—and the festival of unleavened cakes, seven days. ¹⁸And there had not been kept, a passover like it, in Israel, since the days of Samuel the prophet,—yea, none of the kings of Israel, had kept such a passover as was kept by Josiah and the priests and the Levites and all Judah and Israel that were present, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. ¹⁹In the eighteenth year of the reign of Josiah, was kept this passover. ²⁰After all this—when Josiah had prepared the house, Neco king of Egypt came up,—to fight against Carchemish, by Euphrates, and Josiah went forth against him. ²¹But he sent unto him messengers, saying—What have I to do with thee, O king of Judah? not against thee, have I come this day, but against the house wherewith I have war, and, God, hath given word to speed me,—cease thou from provoking God who is with me, lest he destroy thee. ²²Howbeit Josiah turned not his face from him, for, to fight against him, he had disguised himself, and he hearkened not unto the words of Neco, from the mouth of God,—so he came to fight in the valley of Megiddo. ²³And the archers shot at King Josiah,—and the king said unto his servants, Take me away, for I am sore wounded. ²⁴So his servants took him away out of the war-chariot, and conveyed him in a second chariot which he had, and carried him to Jerusalem, and he died, and was buried in the sepulchres of his fathers,—and, all Judah and Jerusalem, were mourning over Josiah. ²⁵And Jeremiah chanted a dirge over Josiah, and all the singing men and singing women in their dirges have spoken concerning Josiah, until this day, and they appointed them by statute for Israel,—and, there they are, written among the dirges. ²⁶But, the rest of the story of Josiah, and his lovingkindness,—according to that which is written in the law of Yahweh: ²⁷even his story, first and last, there it is, written in the book of the Kings of Israel and Judah.

36And the people of the land took Jehoahaz, son of Josiah,—and made him king instead of his father, in Jerusalem. ²Twenty-three years old, was Joahaz when he began to reign,—and, three months, reigned he in Jerusalem. ³And the king of Egypt deposed him in Jerusalem,—and condemned the land, in a hundred talents of silver, and a talent of gold. ⁴And the king of Egypt made Eliakim his brother king over Judah and Jerusalem, and changed his name to Jehoiakim,—but Neco took, Joahaz his brother, and carried him to Egypt. ⁵Twenty-five years old, was Jehoiakim when he began to reign, and, eleven years, reigned he in Jerusalem,—and he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh his God. ⁶Against him, came up Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon,—and bound him in fetters of bronze, to carry him to Babylon. ⁷And, some of the utensils of the house of Yahweh, did Nebuchadnezzar carry to Babylon,—and put them in his own temple in Babylon. ⁸But, the rest of the story of Jehoiakim, and his abominations which he made, and that which was found upon him, there they are, written in the book of the Kings of Israel and Judah,—and Jehoiachin his son reigned in his stead. ⁹Eight years old, was Jehoiachin when he began to reign, and, three months and ten days, reigned he in Jerusalem, and he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh; ¹⁰and, when the year came round, King Nebuchadnezzar sent, and carried him to Babylon, with the precious utensils of the house of Yahweh,—and made Zedekiah his brother king over Judah and Jerusalem. ¹¹Twenty-one years old, was Zedekiah when he began to reign,—and, eleven years, reigned he in Jerusalem. ¹²And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh his God,—he humbled not himself before Jeremiah the prophet, from the mouth of Yahweh. ¹³Moreover also—against King Nebuchadnezzar, he rebelled, who had made him swear by God,—and he stiffened his neck, and emboldened his heart, from turning unto Yahweh, God of Israel. ¹⁴Also, all the rulers of the priests and of the people, abounded in committing treachery, according to all the abominable ways of the nations,—and polluted the house of Yahweh, which he had hallowed in Jerusalem. ¹⁵And, though Yahweh God of their fathers sent unto them through his messengers, zealously sending them,—because he had compassion upon his people and upon his habitation, ¹⁶yet became they mockers of the messengers of God, and despisers of his words, and mimics of his prophets,—until the mounting up of the wrath of Yahweh against his people, until there was no healing. ¹⁷So he brought up against them the king of the Chaldeans, who slew their young men with the sword, in the house of their sanctuary, and had no compassion upon young man or virgin, elder or ancient,—all, delivered he into his hand. ¹⁸And, all the utensils of the house of God, both great and small, and the treasures of the house of Yahweh, and the treasures of the king and of his rulers, the whole, carried he to Babylon; ¹⁹and they burned the house of God, and threw down the wall of Jerusalem,—and, all the palaces thereof, burned they with fire, and, all the precious vessels thereof, he destroyed; ²⁰and he exiled the remnant left from the sword, into Babylon,—where they became his and his sons, as servants, until the reign of the kingdom of Persia: ²¹to fulfil the word of God, by the mouth of Jeremiah, until the land had paid off her sabbaths,—all the days of her lying desolate, she kept sabbath, to fulfil seventy years. ²²But, in the first year of Cyrus king of Persia, to accomplish the word of God by the mouth of Jeremiah, Yahweh aroused the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia, so that he made proclamation throughout all his kingdom, moreover also in writing, saying: ²³Thus, saith Cyrus king of Persia, All the kingdoms of the earth, hath Yahweh God of the heavens, given unto me, and, he himself, hath laid charge upon me, to build to him a house, in Jerusalem, which is in Judah. Who is there among you of all his people with whom is Yahweh his God? Then let him go up.

Ezra

¹In the first year of Cyrus, king of Persia, to fulfil the word of Yahweh from the mouth of Jeremiah, Yahweh aroused the spirit of Cyrus, king of Persia, and he made a proclamation throughout all his kingdom, moreover also in writing, saying: ²Thus, saith Cyrus, king of Persia, All the kingdoms of the earth, hath Yahweh God of the heavens, given to me,—and, he himself, hath laid charge upon me, to build for him a house, in Jerusalem, which is in Judah. ³Who is there among you of all his people? His God be with him, and let him go up to Jerusalem, which is in Judah,—and build the house of Yahweh God of Israel, (he, is God!) which is in Jerusalem; ⁴And, whosoever is left, of all the places where he doth sojourn, let the men of his place uphold him, with silver and with gold, and with goods and with beasts,—along with a voluntary offering for the house of God, which is in Jerusalem. ⁵Then arose the ancestral chiefs of Judah and Benjamin, and the priests, and the Levites,—even every one whose spirit God had aroused, to go up to build the house of Yahweh, which was in Jerusalem; ⁶and, all they who were round about them, strengthened their hands, with utensils of silver, with gold with goods and with beasts, and with precious things,—besides any thing he had volunteered. ⁷And, King Cyrus, brought forth the utensils of the house of Yahweh,—which Nebuchadnezzar had brought forth from Jerusalem, and put in the house of his gods:— ⁸yea Cyrus king of Persia brought them forth, by the hand of Mithredath the treasurer,—and numbered them unto Sheshbazzar, a leader of Judah. ⁹And, these, were the numbers of them,—basins of gold, thirty, basins of silver, a thousand, knives, twenty-nine; ¹⁰bowls of gold, thirty, bowls of silver, of a secondary sort, four hundred and ten,—other utensils, a thousand. ¹¹All the utensils, in gold and silver, were five thousand and four hundred,—the whole, did Sheshbazzar bring up with the upbringing of the exile, out of Babylon unto Jerusalem.

²Now, these, are the sons of the province, who came up from among the captives of the exile, whom Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon exiled to Babylon,—who came back unto Jerusalem and Judah, every one unto his own city; ²who came in with Zerubbabel, Jeshua, Nehemiah, Seraiah, Reelaiah, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispar, Bigvai Re-

hum, Baanah,—the number of the men of the people of Israel:— ³The sons of Parosh, two thousand one hundred and seventy-two; ⁴The sons of Shephatiah, three hundred and seventy-two; ⁵The sons of Arah, seven hundred and seventy-five; ⁶The sons of Pahath-moab, belonging to the sons of Jeshua, Joab, two thousand eight hundred and twelve; ⁷The sons of Elam, a thousand two hundred and fifty-four; ⁸The sons of Zattu, nine hundred and forty-five; ⁹The sons of Zaccai, seven hundred and sixty; ¹⁰The sons of Bani, six hundred and forty-two; ¹¹The sons of Bebai, six hundred and twenty-three; ¹²The sons of Azgad, a thousand two hundred and twenty-two; ¹³The sons of Adonikam, six hundred and sixty-six; ¹⁴The sons of Bigvai, two thousand and fifty-six; ¹⁵The sons of Adin, four hundred and fifty-four; ¹⁶The sons of Ater pertaining to Hezekiah, ninety-eight; ¹⁷The sons of Bezai, three hundred and twenty-three; ¹⁸The sons of Jorah, a hundred and twelve; ¹⁹The sons of Hashum, two hundred and twenty-three; ²⁰The sons of Gibbar, ninety-five; ²¹The sons of Bethlehem, a hundred and twenty-three; ²²The men of Netophah, fifty-six; ²³The men of Anathoth, a hundred and twenty-eight; ²⁴The sons of Azmaveth, forty-two; ²⁵The sons of Kiriath-arim, Chephirah and Beeroth, seven hundred and forty-three; ²⁶The sons of Ramah and Geba, six hundred and twenty-one; ²⁷The men of Michmas, a hundred and twenty-two; ²⁸The men of Bethel and Ai, two hundred and twenty-three; ²⁹The sons of Nebo, fifty-two; ³⁰The sons of Magbish, a hundred and fifty-six; ³¹The sons of the other Elam, a thousand two hundred and fifty-four; ³²The sons of Harim, three hundred and twenty; ³³The sons of Lod, Hadid and Ono, seven hundred and twenty-five; ³⁴The sons of Jericho, three hundred and forty-five; ³⁵The sons of Senaah, three thousand and six hundred and thirty! ³⁶The priests, The sons of Jedaiah of the house of Jeshua, nine hundred and seventy-three; ³⁷The sons of Immer, a thousand and fifty-two; ³⁸The sons of Pashhur, a thousand two hundred and forty-seven; ³⁹The sons of Harim, a thousand and seventeen, ⁴⁰The Levites, The sons of Jeshua, and Kadmiel of the sons of Hodaviah, seventy-four. ⁴¹The singers, The sons of Asaph, a hundred and twenty-eight. ⁴²The sons of the door-keepers, The sons of Shallum, the sons of Ater, the sons of Talmon, the sons of Akkub, the sons of Hatita, the sons of Shobai,—

in all, a hundred and thirty-nine. ⁴³The Nethinim, The sons of Ziha, the sons of Hasupha, the sons of Tabbaoth; ⁴⁴the sons of Keros, the sons of Siaha, the sons of Padon; ⁴⁵the sons of Lebanah, the sons of Hagabah, the sons of Akkub; ⁴⁶the sons of Hagab, the sons of Shamlai, the sons of Hanan; ⁴⁷the sons of Giddel, the sons of Gahar, the sons of Reaiah; ⁴⁸the sons of Rezin, the sons of Nekoda, the sons of Gazzam; ⁴⁹the sons of Uzza, the sons of Paseah, the sons of Besai; ⁵⁰the sons of Asnah, the sons of Meunim, the sons of Nephisim; ⁵¹the sons of Bakbuk, the sons of Hakupha, the sons of Harhur; ⁵²the sons of Bazluth, the sons of Mehida, the sons of Harsha; ⁵³the sons of Barkos, the sons of Sisera, the sons of Temah; ⁵⁴the sons of Nezhiah, the sons of Hatipha. ⁵⁵The Sons of the Servants of Solomon. The sons of Sotai, the sons of Hassophereth, the sons of Peruda; ⁵⁶the sons of Jaalah, the sons of Darkon, the sons of Giddel; ⁵⁷the sons of Shephatiah, the sons of Hattil, the sons of Pochereth-hazzebaim, the sons of Ami. ⁵⁸All the Nethinim, and the Sons of the Servants of Solomon, were three hundred and ninety-two. ⁵⁹And, these, were they who came up from Tel-melah, Tel-harsha, Cherub, Addan, Immer; but they could not tell their ancestral house, nor their seed, whether, of Israel, they were: ⁶⁰the sons of Delaiah, the sons of Tobiah, the sons of Nekoda,—six hundred and fifty-two. ⁶¹And, of the sons of the priests, the sons of Habaiah, the sons of Hakkoz,—the sons of Barzillai, who took of the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite to wife, and was called after their name. ⁶²These, sought their writing wherein they were registered, but they were not found,—so they were desecrated out of the priesthood; ⁶³and the governor told them, that they must not eat of the most holy things,—until there should stand up a priest, with Lights and Perfections. ⁶⁴All the gathered host together, was forty-two thousand three hundred and sixty; ⁶⁵besides, their men-servants and their maid-servants who were these, seven thousand three hundred and thirty-seven,—and there pertained to them, singing men and singing women, two hundred: ⁶⁶their horses, were seven hundred and thirty-six,—their mules, two hundred and forty-five; ⁶⁷their camels, four hundred and thirty-five,—asses, six thousand seven hundred and twenty. ⁶⁸And, a portion of the ancestral chiefs, when they came to the house of Yahweh which was in Jerusalem, offered voluntarily for the house of God, to set it up on its basis. ⁶⁹According to their ability, gave they unto the treasury of the work, of gold, sixty-one thousand drams, and, of silver, five thousand manehs,—and, tunics for priests, one hundred. ⁷⁰So the priests and the Levites, and some of the people, and the singers and the doorkeepers and the Nethinim, took up their abode, in their cities,—and, all Israel, in their cities.

³But, when the seventh month was come, and the sons of Israel were in cities, then did the people gather themselves together as one man, unto Jerusalem. ²Then arose—Jeshua son of Jozadak and his brethren the priests, and Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and his brethren, and built the altar of the God of Israel,—to offer thereon ascending-sacrifices, as it was written in the law of Moses, the man of God. ³So they settled the altar upon its stands, for, dread, was upon them, because of the peoples of the countries,—therefore caused they to go up thereon, ascending-sacrifices unto Yahweh, ascending-sacrifices for the morning and for the evening. ⁴And they kept the festival of booths, as it was written,—and the ascending-offering of each day upon its own day, by number, according to regulation, the matter of a day upon its day; ⁵and, afterwards, the continual ascending-sacrifice, and, on the new moons, and on all the appointed seasons of Yahweh, the hallowed things,—also for every one that volunteered a voluntary offering unto Yahweh. ⁶From the first day of the seventh month, began they to offer up ascending-sacrifices unto Yahweh,—but, the temple of Yahweh, had not had its foundation laid. ⁷And they gave silver, unto the masons and carpenters,—and food and drink and oil, unto them of Zidon and unto them of Tyre, to bring in cedar-trees out of the Lebanon, unto the sea of Joppa, according to the grant of Cyrus king of Persia unto them. ⁸Now, in the second year of their coming in unto the house of God, to Jerusalem, in the second month, began Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and Jeshua son of Jozadak and the rest of their brethren—the priests and the Levites, and all that were come out of the captivity to Jerusalem, and stationed the Levites, of twenty years old and upwards, to preside over the work of the house of Yahweh. ⁹So they took their station—even Jeshua, his sons and his brethren, Kadmiel and his sons, sons of Judah, as one man to preside over the doer of the work in the house of God, the sons of Henadad, their sons and their brethren, the Levites. ¹⁰And, when the builders laid the foundation of the temple of Yahweh, then the priests, enrobed, took their stand with trumpets, and the Levites the sons of Asaph with cymbals, to offer praise unto Yahweh, after the instructions of David king of Israel. ¹¹And, when they made responses in offering praise and in giving thanks unto Yahweh—For he is good, for, age-abiding, is his lovingkindness, upon Israel, then, all the people, shouted with a great shout, in offering praise unto Yahweh, over the laying of the foundation of the house of Yahweh. ¹²But, many of the priests and the Levites and the ancestral chiefs, who were old men, that had seen the first house, when the foundation of this house was laid before their eyes, were weeping with a loud voice,—many, however, shouting and rejoicing, with voice raised on high; ¹³so that the people could not distinguish the noise of the shout of joy, from the noise of the weeping of the people,—for, the people, did shout with a great shout, and, the noise, was heard afar off.

⁴Now, when the adversaries of Judah and Benjamin heard—that, the Sons of the Exile, were building the temple, unto Yahweh, God of Israel, ²then drew they near unto Zerubbabel, and unto the ancestral chiefs, and said unto them, Let us build with you, for, like you, we seek your God, and, unto him, have, we, been sacrificing since the days of Esar-haddon, king of Assyria, who brought us up hither. ³But Zerubbabel and Joshua and the rest of the ancestral chiefs of Israel, said unto them, It pertaineth not to you and to us in common, to build a house unto our God,—but, we ourselves together, will build unto Yahweh, God of Israel, even as King Cyrus, king of Persia, hath commanded us. ⁴Then came it to pass, that, the people of the land, were weakening the hands of the people of Judah,—and troubling them in building; ⁵and hiring against them counselors, to overturn their purpose,—all the days of Cyrus, king of Persia, even until the reign of Darius, king of Persia. ⁶And, in the reign of Ahasuerus, in the beginning of his reign, wrote they an accusation, against the inhabitants of Judah and Jerusalem. ⁷And, in the days of Artaxerxes, wrote Bishlam, Mithredath, Tabeel, and the rest of his associates, unto Artaxerxes, king of Persia,—and, the writing of the letter, was written in Aramean, and was to be interpreted as Aramean. ⁸Rehum holder of judicial authority, and Shimshai the scribe, wrote a certain letter against Jerusalem,—to Artaxerxes the king, thus: ⁹Then Rehum holder of judicial authority, and Shimshai the scribe, and the rest of their associates,—the Dinaites and the Apharsathchites, the Tarpelites, the Apharsites, the Archevites, the Babylonians, the Shushan-chites, the Dehaites, the Elamites; ¹⁰and the rest of the peoples, whom the great and noble Osnappar hath exiled, and set in the city of Samaria,—and the rest Beyond the River, and so forth: ¹¹This, is a copy of the letter which they sent unto him—unto Artaxerxes the king,—Thy servants, the men Beyond the River and so forth: ¹²Be it known unto the king,—that, the Jews who came up from thee unto us, are come to Jerusalem,—the rebellious and wicked city, are they building, and, the walls, have they finished, and, the foundations, will they repair. ¹³Now be it known to the king, that, if this city, be built, and, the walls thereof, be finished, neither, tribute, excise, nor toll, will they render, and so, the revenue of the kings, shalt thou damage. ¹⁴Now, because the salt of the palace we have eaten, the impoverishment of the king, it is not meet for us to see,—therefore have we sent, and certified the king; ¹⁵so that search may be made in the book of the records of thy fathers, so shalt thou find out in the book of records—and shalt ascertain, that, this city, is a rebellious city, and one that causeth damage unto kings and provinces, and that, rebellion, have they been wont to cause in the midst thereof since the days of age-past time,—for this cause, was this city laid waste. ¹⁶We do certify the king that, if, this city, be built, and, the walls thereof, finished, for that very reason, portion Beyond the River, shalt thou have none. ¹⁷The king sent, a message, unto Rehum holder of judicial authority, and Shimshai the scribe, and the rest of their associates, who were dwelling in Samaria, and the rest Beyond the River, Peace and so forth. ¹⁸The letter which ye sent unto us, was distinctly read before me; ¹⁹And, from me, went forth an edict, and they have made search and found, that, this city, since the days of age-past time, against kings, hath lifted herself up,—and, sedition and rebellion, have been made therein; ²⁰and, mighty kings, have there been over Jerusalem, and bearing rule everywhere Beyond the River,—and, tribute, excise, and toll, have been given to them. ²¹Now, issue ye an edict, to forbid these men,—that, this city, be not built, until, from me, the edict be issued. ²²Beware, then, of failure to do thus,—wherefore should the damage increase, to inflict loss on the kings? ²³Then, when, the copy of the letter of Artaxerxes the king, had been read before Rehum, and Shimshai the scribe, and their associates, they journeyed in haste to Jerusalem, unto the Jews, and forbade them, with arm and force. ²⁴Then ceased the work of the house of God, which was in Jerusalem,—yea it did cease, until the second year of the reign of Darius king of Persia.

⁵Then were moved to prophesy, Haggai the prophet, and Zechariah son of Iddo, the prophets, unto the Jews who were in Judaea and in Jerusalem,—in the name of the God of Israel, unto them. ²Then arose—Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, and Jeshua son of Jozadak, and began to build the house of God, which was in Jerusalem,—and, with them, were the prophets of God, strengthening them. ³At that time, came unto them Tattenai pasha Beyond the River, and Shethar-bozenai, and their associates,—and, thus, spake they unto them, Who hath issued unto you an edict, this house, to build, and, this wall, to complete? ⁴Then, after this manner, spake we unto them,—What are the names of these men, who, this building, do rear? ⁵Nevertheless, the eye of their God, was upon the elders of Judah, and they did not forbid them, until the matter, unto Darius, should come,—and, then, answer be returned by letter, concerning this. ⁶A copy of the letter which Tattenai pasha Beyond the River, and Shethar-bozenai, and his associates, the Apharsachites, who were Beyond the River, sent unto Darius the king: ⁷a message, sent they unto him,—and, thus, was it written therein, Unto Darius the king, all prosperity! ⁸Be it known unto the king, that we journeyed into the province of Judah, unto the house of the Great God, and, the same, is being built with large stones, and, timber, is being laid in the walls,—and, this work, with speed, is being done, and is prospering in their hands. ⁹Then asked we of these elders, thus, we said to them,—Who hath issued to you an edict, this house, to build, and, this wall, to complete? ¹⁰Yea, their names also, asked we of them, to certify thee,—that we might write the name, of the men who are at their head. ¹¹And, thus, returned they, answer, to us saying,—We, are servants of the God of the heavens and the earth, and are building the house which was built these many years ago, which, a great king of Israel, built and completed. ¹²But, after that our fathers had provoked the God of the heavens to wrath, he delivered them into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, the Chaldean,—and, this house, he destroyed, and, the people, he exiled to Babylon. ¹³Howbeit, in the first year of Cyrus king of Babylon, Cyrus the king, issued an edict, this house of God, to build. ¹⁴Moreover also, the utensils of the house of God, of gold and silver, which, Nebuchadnezzar, had brought forth out of the temple which was in Jerusalem, and had brought into the temple of Babylon, Cyrus the king, brought them forth, out of the temple of Babylon,—and they were delivered to one Sheshbazzar by name, whom he made, pasha; ¹⁵and said to him—These utensils, take, go carry them into the temple that is in Jerusalem,—and let, the house of God, be built in its place. ¹⁶Then, this Sheshbazzar, came, he laid the foundations of the house of God, which was in Jerusalem,—and, since then, even until now, it hath been in building, and is not finished. ¹⁷Now, therefore, if, unto the king, it seem good, let search be made in the treasure-house of the king which is there, in Babylon, whether it be so, that, from Cyrus the king, issued an edict, to build this house of God, in Jerusalem,—and, the pleasure of the king concerning this, let him send unto us.

⁶Then, Darius the king, issued an edict,—and they made search in the house of the books, where the treasures were laid up in Babylon. ²And there was found in Achmetha, in the fortress which is in the province of Media, a roll,—and, thus, was it written therein, as a record:—³In the first year of Cyrus the king, Cyrus the king, issued an edict, as to the house of God in Jerusalem, Let the house be built, the place where they used to offer sacrifices, and let the foundations thereof be reared,—the height thereof, sixty cubits, the breadth thereof, sixty cubits; ⁴layers of large stones, three, and one layer of new timber,—and, as for the expenses, out of the house of the king, let them be given. ⁵Moreover also, the utensils of the house of God, of gold and silver, which, Nebuchadnezzar, took forth out of the temple that was in Jerusalem, and brought unto Babylon, let them again be taken to the temple which is in Jerusalem every one to its place, and lay them up in the house of God. ⁶Now, therefore, Tattenai pasha Beyond the River, Shethar-bozenai, and their associates, the Apharsachites, who are Beyond the River,—be ye far from thence: ⁷let alone the work of this house of God,—the pasha of Judah, and the elders of Judah, this house of God, shall build upon its place; ⁸And, from me, is issued an edict, as to that which ye shall do, with these elders of Judah, for the building of this house of God,—That, of the resources of the king, even the tribute Beyond the River, forthwith, the expenses be given unto these men, for they must not be hindered. ⁹And, whatever may be the need—whether young bullocks or rams or lambs for ascending-sacrifices unto the God of the heavens, wheat, salt, wine or oil, according to the command of the priests who are in Jerusalem,—that it he given to them day by day, without fail; ¹⁰that they may be offering sweet-smelling sacrifices unto the God of the heavens,—and be praying for the life of the king, and his sons. ¹¹And, from me, is issued an edict, that, any man who shall alter this message, let timber be torn out of his house, and being lifted up let him be fastened thereunto,—and his house, a dunghill, be made for this; ¹²and, the God who hath caused his Name to dwell there, destroy any king or people, who shall put forth their hand to alter to destroy this house of God, which is in Jerusalem. I, Darius, have issued an edict, forthwith, let it be done. ¹³Then, Tattenai the pasha Beyond the River, Shethar-bozenai, and their associates,—according as Darius the king had sent, so, forthwith, they did. ¹⁴And, the elders of the Jews, went on building and prospering, through the prophesying of Haggai the prophet, and Zechariah son of Iddo,—they both built and finished, owing to the edict of the God of Israel, and owing to the edict of Cyrus and Darius, and Artaxerxes king of Persia. ¹⁵And this house was finished, by the third day of the month Adar,—the which was the sixth year of the reign of Darius the king. ¹⁶Then did the sons of Israel, the priests and the Levites, and the rest of the Sons of the Exile, keep the dedication of this house of God, with joy; ¹⁷and offered, for the dedication of this house of God, bullocks, one hundred, rams, two hundred, lambs, four hundred,—and, he-goats, as a sin-offering for all Israel, twelve, according to the number of the tribes of Israel. ¹⁸And they set up the priests in their divisions, and the Levites in their courses, over the service of God, which was in Jerusalem,—as it is written, in the Book of Moses. ¹⁹And the Sons of the Exile kept the passover,—on the fourteenth of the first month; ²⁰for the priests and the Levites, had purified themselves, as one man, all of them, were pure,—so they slaughtered the passover for all the Sons of the Exile, and for their brethren the priests, and for themselves. ²¹Therefore the sons of Israel who had returned from the Exile and all who had separated themselves from the impurity of the nations of the land unto them, did eat,—to seek Yahweh, God of Israel; ²²and kept the festival of unleavened cakes seven days, with joy,—for Yahweh had made them joyful, and had turned the heart of the king of Assyria towards them, to strengthen their hands, in the work of the house of God, the God of Israel.

⁷Now, after these things, in the reign of Artaxerxes king of Persia, Ezra,—son of Seraiah, son of Azariah, son of Hilkiah; ²son of Shallum, son of Zadok, son of Ahitub; ³son of Amariah, son of Azariah, son of Meraioth; ⁴son of Zerariah, son of Uzzi, son of Bukki; ⁵son of Abishua, son of Phinehas, son of Eliazar, son of Aaron the first priest;—⁶this Ezra, came up out of Babylon, he, being a ready scribe in the law of Moses, which Yahweh God of Israel had given,—and the king gave him, according to the hand of Yahweh his God upon him, all his request. ⁷So then there came up some of the sons of Israel, and some of the priests and the Levites and the singers and the doorkeepers and the Nethinim, unto Jerusalem,—in the seventh year of Artaxerxes the king. ⁸And he entered Jerusalem, in the fifth month,—the same, was the seventh year of the king. ⁹For, on the first of the first month, was a beginning made of coming up from Babylon,—and, on the first of the fifth month, entered he into Jerusalem, according to the good hand of his God upon him. ¹⁰For, Ezra, had settled his heart, to study the law of Yahweh, and to do it,—and to teach in Israel, statute and regulation. ¹¹Now, this, is a copy of the letter which King Artaxerxes gave, to Ezra the priest the scribe,—the scribe of the words of the commandments of Yahweh, and of his statutes, for Israel:—¹²Artaxerxes, king of kings, Unto Ezra the priest, scribe of the law of the God of the heavens—To despatch and so forth. ¹³From me, is issued an edict, that, every one in my kingdom, of the people of Israel, and of their priests and the Levites, who is minded of his own freewill to go to Jerusalem, with thee, let him go. ¹⁴Forasmuch as, from before the king and his seven counselors, thou art sent, to enquire concerning Judah and as to Jerusalem,—by the law of thy God which is in thy hand; ¹⁵and to carry the silver and gold which the king and his counselors have freely offered unto the God of Israel, who, in Jerusalem, hath his habitation; ¹⁶and all the silver and the gold, which thou shalt find, in all the province of Babylon,—with the freewill offering of the people and of the priests offered willingly for the house of their God which is in Jerusalem, ¹⁷therefore, with all diligence, shalt thou buy—with this silver—bullocks, rams, lambs, with their meal-offerings, and their drink-offerings,—and shalt offer them upon the altar of the house of your God which is in Jerusalem; ¹⁸and, whatsoever, unto thee and unto thy brethren, shall seem good, with the rest of the silver and the gold, to do, according to the pleasure of your God, shall ye do. ¹⁹And, the utensils which are freely given to thee for the service of the house of thy God, put thou back, before the God of Jerusalem. ²⁰And, the rest of the need of the house of thy God, which it shall fall to thee to give, thou shalt give, out of the treasure-house of the king. ²¹And, from me myself, Artaxerxes the king, issueth an edict, to all the treasurers who are Beyond the River,—that, whatsoever Ezra the priest the scribe of the law of the God of the heavens shall ask of you, with diligence, shall it be done: ²²unto a hundred talents of silver, and unto a hundred measures of wheat, and unto a hundred baths of wine, and unto a hundred baths of oil,—and salt without limit. ²³Whatsoever is due to an edict of the God of the heavens, let it be done diligently, for the house of the God of the heavens,—for wherefore should there be wrath against the realm of the king and his sons? ²⁴And, you, we do certify, that, as touching any of the priests or the Levites, the singers, the doorkeepers, the Nethinim, or the servitors of this house of God, tribute, excise or toll, shall it not be competent to impose upon them. ²⁵And, thou, Ezra, according to the wisdom of thy God that is in thy hand, appoint thou judges and magistrates, who shall administer justice to all the people that are Beyond the River, to all who know the law of thy God,—and, whoso knoweth not, ye shall teach. ²⁶But, whosoever shall not do the law of thy God and the law of the king, speedily, let, penalty, be exacted from him,—whether to death, or to banishment, or to confiscation of goods, or to imprisonment. ²⁷Blessed be Yahweh, God of our fathers,—who hath put the like of this into the heart of the king, to beautify the house of Yahweh, which is in Jerusalem; ²⁸and, unto me, hath extended lovingkindness, before the king and his counselors, yea all the valiant captains of the king,—I, therefore have emboldened myself, according to the hand of Yahweh my God upon me, and gathered out of Israel, chief men, to go up with me.

⁸Now, these, are their ancestral heads, and their genealogical register,—even of those who came up with me, in the reign of Artaxerxes the king, out of Babylon:—²Of the sons of Phinehas, Gershom, of the sons of Ithamar, Daniel,—of the sons of David, Hattush; ³Of the sons of Shecaniah, of the sons of Parosh, Zechariah,—and, with him—by genealogical registry of males, a hundred and fifty: ⁴Of the sons of Pahath-moab, Eliehoenai, son of Zerariah,—and, with him, two hundred males; ⁵Of the sons of Zattu, Shecaniah, the son of Jehaziel,—and, with him, three hundred males; ⁶And, of the sons of Adin, Ebed, son of Jonathan,—and, with him, fifty males; ⁷And, of the sons of Elam, Jeshaiiah, son of Athaliah,—and, with him, seventy males; ⁸And, of the sons of Shephatiah, Zebadiah, son of Michael,—and, with him, eighty males; ⁹Of the sons of Joab, Obadiah, son of Jehiel, and, with him, two hundred and eighteen males; ¹⁰And, of the sons of Bani, Shelomith, son of Josiphiah,—and, with him, a hundred and sixty males; ¹¹And, of the sons of Bebai, Zechariah, son of Bebai, and, with him, twenty-eight males; ¹²And, of the sons of Azgad, Johanan, son of Hakkatan,—and, with him, a hundred and ten males; ¹³And, of the later sons of Adonikam, these being their names, Eliphelet, Jeuel, and Shemaiah,—and, with them, sixty males; ¹⁴And, of the sons of Bigvai, Uthai and Zabbud,—and, with him, seventy males. ¹⁵And I gathered them together, unto the river that cometh into Ahava, and we encamped there three days,—and I informed myself among the people and the priests, and, of the sons of Levi, found I none there. ¹⁶So I sent for Eliezer, for Ariel, for Shemaiah, and for El-

nathan, and for Jarib, and for Elnathan, and for Nathan, and for Zechariah, and for Meshullam, chief men,—also for Joiarib and for Elnathan, teachers. ¹⁷And I sent them forth unto Iddo the chief, at the place Casiphia,—and I put into their mouth words, to speak unto Iddo and his brethren the Nethinim, at the place Casiphia, to bring unto us attendants for the house of our God. ¹⁸So they brought unto us, according to the good hand of our God upon us, a man of discretion, of the sons of Mahli, son of Levi, son of Israel,—and Sherebiah, and his sons and his brethren, eighteen; ¹⁹and Hashabiah, and, with him, Jeshaiiah, of the sons of Merari,—his brethren and their sons, twenty; ²⁰and, of the Nethinim whom David and the rulers had given for the service of the Levites, Nethinim, two hundred and twenty,—all of them, expressed by name. ²¹Then proclaimed I there a fast, by the river Ahava, that we might humble ourselves before our God,—to seek of him a smooth way, for us and for our little ones, and for all our substance. ²²For I was ashamed to ask of the king, a band of soldiers and horsemen, to help us against the enemy in the way, because we had spoken unto the king, saying, The hand of our God, is upon all who seek him, for good, But, his power and his anger, are against all who forsake him. ²³So we fasted and sought of our God, concerning this,—and he suffered himself to be entreated by us. ²⁴Then I separated, from among the rulers of the priests, twelve,—even Sherebiah, Hashabiah, and, with them, from among their brethren, ten; ²⁵and weighed unto them, the silver and the gold, and the utensils,—the heave-offering for the house of our God, which the king and his counselors and his rulers and all Israel who were present, had offered: ²⁶I even weighed unto their hand, of silver, six hundred and fifty talents, and, of utensils of silver, a hundred talents,—of gold, a hundred talents; ²⁷and, bowls of gold, twenty, of a thousand drams,—and, utensils of fine bright bronze, two, precious as gold. ²⁸Then said I unto them, Ye, are hallowed unto Yahweh, and, the utensils, are hallowed,—and, the silver and the gold, are a freewill offering, unto Yahweh, God of your fathers: ²⁹Watch and guard, until ye weigh them before the rulers of the priests and the Levites and the ancestral rulers of Israel, in Jerusalem,—in the chambers of the house of Yahweh. ³⁰So the priests and the Levites accepted the weight of the silver and the gold, and the utensils,—to bring to Jerusalem, unto the house of our God. ³¹Then brake we up from the river of Ahava, on the twelfth of the first month, to journey unto Jerusalem,—and, the hand of our God, was upon us, and he delivered us from the grasp of the enemy and of the liar in wait, by the way. ³²So we came to Jerusalem,—and we rested there, three days. ³³And, on the fourth day, was weighed—the silver and the gold and the utensils, in the house of our God, unto the hand of Meremoth son of Uriah, the priest, and, with him, was Eleazar son of Phinehas,—and, with them, were Jozabad son of Jeshua

and Noadiah son of Binnui, Levites: ³⁴by the number and by the weight of the whole,—and all the weight, was written down, at that time. ³⁵They who came in out of the captivity, Sons of the Exile, offered as ascending-sacrifices unto the God of Israel—bullocks twelve for all Israel, rams ninety-six, young sheep seventy-seven, he-goats for bearing sin, twelve,—the whole, as an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh. ³⁶Then delivered they the decrees of the king, unto the satraps of the king, and the pashas Beyond the River,—and they upheld the people and the house of God.

⁹Now, when these things were ended, the rulers drew near unto me, saying, The people of Israel and the priests and the Levites have not kept themselves separate from the peoples of the lands,—in view of their abominations—even of the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Jebusites, the Ammonites, the Moabites, the Egyptians, and the Amorites; ²for they have taken of their daughters, for themselves and for their sons, so that the holy seed have intermingled themselves among the peoples of the lands,—and, the hand of the rulers and the deputies, hath, in this unfaithfulness, been, foremost. ³When I heard this thing, I rent my garment, and my robe,—and tore out of the hair of my head and my beard, and sat stunned. ⁴Then, unto me, were gathered, all who trembled at the words of the God of Israel, concerning the unfaithfulness of them who had been exiled,—but, I, sat stunned, until the evening gift. ⁵And, at the evening gift, I arose from mine affliction, which had been accompanied by the rending of my garment and my robe,—and I bowed upon my knees, and spread forth my hands unto Yahweh my God; ⁶and said, O my God, I turn pale and am ashamed, to lift up, O my God, my face unto thee,—for, our iniquities, have multiplied above the head, and our guilt hath magnified itself unto the heavens. ⁷Since the days of our fathers, we, have been in great guilt, until this day,—and, for our iniquities, have we been given up—we, our kings, our priests,—into the hand of the kings of the lands, by sword and by captivity and by spoiling and by a turning pale of face, as at this day. ⁸And, now, for a very little moment, hath come favour from Yahweh our God, in leaving to us a remnant to escape, and in giving to us a nail in his holy place,—that our God may enlighten our eyes, and give us a little reviving in our bondage. ⁹For, bondmen, we are, but, in our bondage, hath our God not forsaken us,—but extended unto us lovingkindness before the kings of Persia, to give us a reviving, to set up on high the house of our God, to raise up the desolations thereof, and to give us a wall in Judah and in Jerusalem. ¹⁰But, now, what can we say, O our God, after this? for we have forsaken thy commandments, ¹¹which thou didst command by the hand of thy servants the prophets, saying, As for the land which, ye, are entering to possess, an impure land, it is, with the impurity of the peoples of the lands,—with their abominations, which have filled it from one end to the other, with their uncleanness. ¹²Now, therefore, your daughters, do not ye give to their sons, and, their daughters, do not ye take for your sons, neither shall ye seek their prosperity nor their pleasure unto times age-abiding,—to the end ye may become strong, and may eat the good of the land, and may suffer your children to possess I, unto times age-abiding. ¹³And, after all that hath come upon us, for our wicked doings, and for our great guilt—For, thou, O our God, hast spared us, punishing us less than our iniquities deserved, and hast given us a deliverance such as this, ¹⁴should we again break thy commandments and join ourselves by affinity of marriage with the peoples of these abominations,—wouldst thou not be angry with us, unto a full end, that there should be neither remainder nor deliverance? ¹⁵O Yahweh, God of Israel, righteous thou art, for we have had left us a deliverance as at this day,—here we are, before thee, in our guilty deeds, for there is no standing before thee, because of this thing!

10Now, when Ezra had prayed and when he had made confession, weeping and casting himself down, before the house of God, there gathered unto him out of Israel, an exceeding large convocation—men and women and children, for the people wept with a very bitter weeping. ²Then responded Shecaniah son of Jehiel of the sons of Elam, and said unto Ezra, We, have been faithful with our God, and have married foreign women from among the peoples of the land,—yet, now, there is hope for Israel concerning this thing. ³Now, therefore, let us solemnize a covenant unto our God—to put away all the women and such as have been born of them, in the counsel of my lord, and them who tremble at the commandment of our God,—and, according to the law, let it be done. ⁴Arise, for, upon thee, resteth the thing, but, we, are with thee,—be strong, and act. ⁵Then arose Ezra and made the rulers of the priests, the Levites, and all Israel, swear to do according to this word—and they swear. ⁶Then arose Ezra from before the house of God, and went into the chamber of Jehohanan son of Eliashib,—and, when he came thither, bread, did he not eat, and, water, did he not drink, for he was mourning over the unfaithfulness of them of the Exile. ⁷Then made they a proclamation throughout Judah and Jerusalem, unto all the Sons of the Exile, to gather themselves together unto Jerusalem; ⁸and, whosoever should not come within three days, according to the counsel of the rulers and the elders, all his goods should be devoted,—and, himself, be separated from the convocation of them of the Exile. ⁹Then were gathered together all the men of Judah and Benjamin unto Jerusalem, within three days, the same, was the ninth month, on the twentieth of the month,—and all the people remained in the Broadway of the house of God, trembling concerning the thing, and because of the heavy rains. ¹⁰Then arose Ezra the priest, and said unto them, Ye, have acted unfaithfully, and have married foreign women,—to add unto the guilt of Israel. ¹¹Now, therefore, make confession unto Yahweh God of your fathers, and do his pleasure,—and separate yourselves from the peoples of the land, and from the foreign women. ¹²Then responded all the convocation and said, with a loud voice,—Thus, according to thy word concerning us, must it be done. ¹³Nevertheless, the people, are many, and, the season, is that of the heavy rains, and we are not able to stand outside,—and, the business, is not one for a single day, nor yet for two, for we have abundantly transgressed, in this thing. ¹⁴Let, we beseech thee, our rulers take up their station for all the convocation, and, all who, throughout our cities, have married foreign women, let them come in at times appointed, and, with them, the elders of every city, and the judges thereof, until the glow of the anger of our God be turned from us, concerning this matter. ¹⁵Only Jonathan son of Asahel and Jahzeiah son of Tikvah, made a stand against this,—and, Meshullam and Shabbethai the Levite, helped them. ¹⁶But the Sons of the Exile, did thus, and Ezra the priest separated to himself certain men—ancestral heads by their ancestral houses, and all of them by name,—and they took their seats on the first day of the tenth month to search into the matter; ¹⁷and they made an end with all the men who had married foreign women,—by the first day of the first month. ¹⁸Now there were found, of the sons of the priests, who had married foreign women,—of the sons of Jeshua son of Jozadak, and his brethren, Maaseiah, and Eliezer, and Jarib, and Gedaliah; ¹⁹and they gave their hand, that they would put away their wives,—and, being guilty, they offered a ram of the flock for their guilt. ²⁰And, of the sons of Immer, Hanani, and Zebadiah. ²¹And, of the sons of Harim, Maaseiah and Elijah and Shemaiah, and Jehiel, and Uziah. ²²And, of the sons of Passhur, Elioenai, Maaseiah, Ishmael, Nethanel, Jozabad, and Elasar. ²³And, of the Levites, Jozabad and Shimei, and Kelaiah, the same, is Kelita, Pethahiah, Judah, and Eliezer. ²⁴And, of the singers, Eliashib. And, of the doorkeepers, Shallum and Telem and Uri. ²⁵And, of Israel, of the sons of Parosh, Ramiah and Izziah and Malchijah and Mijamin and Eleazar, and Malchijah, and Benaiah. ²⁶And, of the sons of Elam, Mattaniah, Zechariah, and Jehiel and Abdi, and Jeremoth, and Elijah. ²⁷And, of the sons of Zattu, Elioenai, Eliashib, Mattaniah and Jeremoth, and Zabad, and Aziza. ²⁸And, of the sons of Bebai, Jehohanan, Hananiah, Zabbai, Athlai. ²⁹And, of the sons of Bani, Meshullam, Malluch, and Adaiah, Jashub, and Sheal, Jeremoth. ³⁰And, of the sons of Pahath-moab, Adna and Chelal,—Benaiah, Maaseiah, Mattaniah, Bezalel, and Binnui, and Manasseh. ³¹And, of the sons of Harim, Eliezer, Isshijah, Malchijah, Shemaiah, Shimeon; ³²Benjamin, Malluch, Shemariah. ³³Of the sons of Hashum, Mattenai, Mattattah, Zabad, Eliphelet,—Jeremai, Manasseh, Shimei. ³⁴Of the sons of Bani, Maadai, Amram, and Uel; ³⁵Benaiah, Bedeiah, Cheluhu; ³⁶Vaniah, Meremoth, Eliashib; ³⁷Mettaniah, Mattenai, and Jaasu; ³⁸and Bani, and Binnui, Shimei; ³⁹and Shelemiah, and Nathan, and Adaiah; ⁴⁰Machnadebai, Shashai, Sharai; ⁴¹Azarel, and Shelemiah, Shemariah; ⁴²Shallum, Amariah, Joseph. ⁴³Of the sons of Nebo, Jeiel, Mattithiah, Zabad, Zebina,—Iddo, and Joel, Benaiah. ⁴⁴All these, had taken foreign women,—and had begotten of them children.

Nehemiah

¹The story of Nehemiah, son of Hacaliah,—and it came to pass, in the month Chislev, in the twentieth year, when, I, was in Shusan the fortress, ²that Hanani one of my brethren came, he and certain men out of Judah,—so I asked them concerning the Jews who had escaped, who were left of the captivity, and concerning Jerusalem. ³And they said unto me, The remnant who are left of the captivity, there in the province, are in great misfortune and reproach, the wall of Jerusalem, is broken down, and, the gates thereof, are burned with fire. ⁴And it came to pass, when I heard these words, that I sat down and wept, and I mourned certain days,—and continued fasting and praying, before the God of the heavens; ⁵and said, I beseech thee, O Yahweh God of the heavens, the great and fearful GOD,—keeping the covenant and lovingkindness for them who love him and keep his commandments: ⁶Let, I pray thee, thine ears be attentive and thine eyes open—to hearken unto the prayer of thy servant—which, I, am praying before thee now, day and night, for the sons of Israel, thy servants,—and making confession concerning the sins of the sons of Israel, which we have committed against thee, both I and the house of my father, have sinned. ⁷We have dealt, very corruptly, against thee,—and have not kept the commandments, nor the statutes nor the regulations, which thou didst command Moses thy servant. ⁸Remember, I pray thee, the word, which thou didst command Moses thy servant, saying,—If, ye, are unfaithful, I, will scatter you among the peoples: ⁹When ye return unto me and keep my commandments and do them, though it should be that ye have been driven out unto the uttermost part of the heavens, from thence, will I gather them, and bring them into the place that I have chosen to make a habitation for my Name there. ¹⁰They, therefore, are thy servants, and thy people,—whom thou hast redeemed by thy great power, and by thy firm hand. ¹¹I beseech thee O My Lord, let—I pray thee—thine ear be attentive unto the prayer of thy servant, and unto the prayer of thy servants who delight to revere thy Name, and oh prosper, I pray thee, thy servant to-day, and grant him compassion before this man. Now, I, was cup-bearer unto the king.

²And it came to pass, in the month Nisan, in the twentieth year of Artaxerxes the king, that, wine, was before him,—so I took up the wine, and gave unto the king, and I had never been sad before him. ²Then said the king unto me, Wherefore is thy countenance sad, seeing that, thou, art not sick? this is nothing else, but sadness of heart. Then feared I exceedingly, ³and said unto the king—Let the, king, unto times age-abiding, live! Wherefore should my countenance, not be sad, when, the city—the place of the sepulchres of my fathers, lieth waste, and the gates thereof are consumed with fire? ⁴Then the king said to me, Concerning what, is it, thou, wouldst make request? So I prayed unto the God of the heavens, ⁵and then said unto the king, If, unto the king, it seemeth good, and if thy servant might find favour before thee, That thou wouldst send me unto Judah, unto the city of the sepulchres of my fathers, that I might build it. ⁶And the king said unto me, the queen, also sitting beside him, For how long would be thy journey? and when wouldst thou return? So it seemed good before the king to send me, and I set him a time. ⁷Then said I unto the king, If, unto the king, it seemeth good, may, letters, be given me, unto the pashas Beyond the River,—that they may convey me over, until I come into Judah; ⁸also a letter unto Asaph, keeper of the park that belongeth unto the king, that he may give me timber to build up the gates of the fortress which pertaineth to the house, and for the wall of the city, and for the house whereinto I shall enter. And the king gave me, according to the good hand of my God upon me. ⁹Then came I unto the pashas Beyond the River, and gave them the letters of the king,—now the king, had sent with me, captains of the army, and horsemen. ¹⁰And, when Sanballat the Horonite, and Tobiah the servant the Ammonite, heard of it, it vexed them, with a great vexation,—that there had come a man, to seek welfare, for the sons of Israel. ¹¹So I entered Jerusalem,—and was there three days. ¹²Then rose I by night, I, and a few men with me, I having told no man, what, my God, had been putting in my heart, to do for Jerusalem,—and, beast, was there none with me, save the beast on which, I myself, was riding. ¹³So I went forth through the valley-gate by night, even unto the front of the snake-fountain, and into the dung-gate,—and I viewed the walls of Jerusalem, how, they, were broken down, and, the gates thereof, consumed with fire. ¹⁴Then passed I over unto the fountain-gate, and unto the pool of the king,—but there was no place for the beast that was under me to pass. ¹⁵Then went I up in the torrent-bed, by night, and viewed the wall,—and turned back, and entered by the valley-gate, and so returned. ¹⁶Now, the deputies, knew not whither I had gone, nor what I was doing,—not even to the Jews, nor to the priests, nor to the nobles, nor to the deputies, nor to the rest who were doing the work, had I as yet told it. ¹⁷So I said unto them, Ye, can see the misfortune that, we, are in, how that, Jerusalem, lieth waste, and, the gates thereof, are burned with fire: Come, and let us build the wall of Jerusalem, that we may remain, no longer, a reproach. ¹⁸Then told I them, of the hand of my God, that, it, had been good upon me, as also of the words of the king, which he had spoken unto me,—so they said, We will arise and build! and they strengthened their hands right well. ¹⁹But, when Sanballat the Horonite, and Tobiah the servant the Ammonite, and Geshem the Arabian, heard it, they laughed at us, and poured contempt upon us,—and said, What is this thing which ye would do? against the king, would ye rebel? ²⁰Then answered I them, and said to them—The God of the heavens—he, will prosper us, therefore, we his servants, will arise and build,—But, to you, pertaineth no portion, nor right, nor memorial, in Jerusalem.

³Then arose Eliashib the high priest and his brethren the priests, and built the sheep-gate, they, hallowed it, and set up the doors thereof,—even unto the tower of Hammeah, hallowed they it, unto the tower of Hananel; ²and, at his hand, built, the men of Jericho,—and at his other hand built Zaccur, son of Imri. ³And, the fish-gate, did the sons of Hassenaah build,—they, laid the beams thereof, and set up the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof; ⁴and, at their hand, repaired, Meremoth son of Uriah son of Hakkoz, and, at their hand, repaired, Meshullum son of Berechiah son of Meshezabel,—and, at their hand, repaired, Zadok son of Baana; ⁵and, at their hand, repaired, the Tekoites,—but, their chiefs, put not their neck into the service of their lords. ⁶And, the old gate, did Joiada son of Paseah, and Meshullam, son of Besodeiah, repair,—they, laid the beams thereof, and set up the doors thereof, and the locks thereof, and the bars thereof; ⁷and, at their hand, repaired, Melatiah the Gibeonite and Jadon the Meronothite, men of Gibeon and of Mizpah,—who pertained to the throne of the pasha Beyond the River; ⁸at his hand, repaired, Uzziel son of Harhaiah, goldsmiths, and, at his hand, repaired Hananiah son of the perfumers,—and they fortified Jerusalem, as far as the broad wall; ⁹and, at their hand, repaired, Rephaiah son of Hur, ruler of a half-circuit of Jerusalem; ¹⁰and, at their hand, repaired, Jediah son of Harumaph, even over against his own house,—and, at his hand, repaired, Hattush, son of Hashabneiah; ¹¹a second length, did Malchijah son of Harim and Has-

shub son of Pahath-moab, repair,—also the tower of the ovens; ¹²and, at his hand, repaired, Shallum son of Hallohesh, ruler of a half-circuit of Jerusalem,—he and his daughters. ¹³The valley-gate, did Hanun and the inhabitants of Zanoah, repair,—they, built it, and set up the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof,—also a thousand cubits in the wall, as far as the dung-gate. ¹⁴And, the dung-gate, did Malchijah son of Rechab, ruler of the circuit of Beth-haccherem, repair,—he, built it, and set up the doors thereof, he locks thereof, and the bars thereof. ¹⁵And, the fountain-gate, did Shallum son of Colhozeh ruler of the circuit of Mizpah, repair, he, built it, and covered it, and set up the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof,—also the wall of the pool of Shelah, by the garden of the king, even as far as the stairs that go down from the city of David; ¹⁶after him, repaired, Nehemiah son of Azbuk, ruler of the half-circuit of Bethzur,—as far as over against the sepulchres of David, even unto the pool which had been made, and unto the house of heroes; ¹⁷after him, repaired, the Levites, Rehum son of Bani,—at his hand, repaired, Hashabiah, ruler of the half-circuit of Keilah, for his circuit; ¹⁸after him, repaired, their brethren, Bavvai son of Henadad,—ruler of the other half-circuit of Keilah; ¹⁹and there repaired at his hand, Ezer son of Jeshua, ruler of Mizpah, a second length,—over against the ascent of the armoury, at the corner; ²⁰after him, zealously repaired Baruch son of Zabbai, a second length,—from the corner, unto the opening of the house of Eliashib, the high priest; ²¹after him, repaired, Meremoth son of Uriah son of Hakkoz, a second length,—from the opening of the house of Eliashib, even unto the end of the house of Eliashib; ²²and, after him, repaired, the priests, the men of the Circuit; ²³after him, repaired, Benjamin and Hasshub, over against their own house,—after him, repaired, Azariah son of Maaseiah son of Ananiah, beside his own house; ²⁴after him, repaired, Binnui son of Henadad, a second length,—from the house of Azariah, unto the corner, even unto the pinnacle: ²⁵Palal, son of Uzai, from over against the corner, and the tower that projecteth from the upper house of the king, which belongeth to the court of custody,—after him, Pedaiah son of Parosh. ²⁶Now, the Nethinim, were dwelling in Ophel,—as far as over against the water-gate, on the east, and the tower that projecteth; ²⁷after him, repaired, the Tekoites, a second length,—from over against the great tower that projecteth, even unto the wall of Ophel: ²⁸from beside the horse-gate, repaired the priests, every one over against his own house; ²⁹after him, repaired, Zadok son of Immer, over against his own house,—and, after him, repaired, Shemiah son of Shecaniah, keeper of the east-gate; ³⁰after him, repaired, Hananiah son of Shelemiah, and Hanun sixth son of Zalaph, a second length,—after him, repaired, Meshullam son of Berechiah, over against his chamber; ³¹after him, repaired, Malchijah son of Zorphi, as far as the house of the Nethinim, and the traders,—over against the muster-gate, even unto the ascent of the pinnacle; ³²and, between the ascent of the pinnacle and the sheep-gate, repaired, the goldsmiths, and the traders.

⁴But it came to pass, when Sanballat heard that we were building the wall, it angered him, and he was greatly displeased,—and mocked the Jews; ²and spake before his brethren, and the army of Samaria, and said, What are, these feeble Jews, doing? will they fortify themselves? will they sacrifice? will they make an end in a day? will they bring to life the stones out of the heaps of dust, when, they, have been burned up? ³Now, Tobiah the Ammonite, was beside him,—so he said, Even that which they are building, if a fox should go up, he would break down their stone wall! ⁴Hear, O our God, for we have become a contempt, and turn thou back their reproach upon their own head,—and give them up as a prey, in the land of captivity; ⁵and do not cover their iniquity, and, their sin before thee, let it not be blotted out,—for they have caused vexation before them who are building. ⁶So we built the wall, and all the wall was finished unto the half thereof,—and the people had a mind to work. ⁷But it came to pass, when Sanballat and Tobiah and the Arabians and the Ammonites and the Ashdodites heard that the repair of the walls of Jerusalem had gone up, that the breaches began to be stopped, that it angered them exceedingly; ⁸and they conspired, all of them together, to come, to fight against Jerusalem,—and to cause it harm; ⁹howbeit we prayed unto our God,—and set a watch against them, day and night, because of them. ¹⁰Then said Judah, The strength of the burden-bearer faileth, and, the rubbish, aboundeth,—and, we, are not able to build at the wall; ¹¹and our adversaries have said, They shall not know, neither shall they see, until we come into their midst, and slay them,—so shall we cause the work to cease. ¹²But it came to pass, when the Jews dwelling near them came in, then said they unto us, ten times, From all places whither ye shall turn, they will be upon us! ¹³So I set—on the lower slopes of the place behind the wall in the waste grounds,—yea I set the people, by their families, with their swords, their spears and their bows. ¹⁴Then I looked and rose up, and said—unto the nobles and unto the deputies and unto the rest of the people, Do not ye fear because of them,—the great and fearful Lord, remember ye, so shall ye fight for your brethren, your sons and your daughters, your wives, and your houses. ¹⁵And it came to pass, when our enemies heard that it was known to us, and that God had overturned their counsel, then returned we, all of us, unto the wall, every man unto his work. ¹⁶And it came to pass, from that day, the half of my young men, were working in the work, and, the half of them, were grasping the spears, the bucklers, and the bows, and the coats of mail,—but, the rulers, were behind all the house of Judah. ¹⁷They who were building at the wall and they who were carrying burdens, they who were lifting, each man, with his one hand, was working at the work, and, with the other, was grasping the weapon. ¹⁸Even they who were building, every man, had his sword girded upon his loins, and so was building,—and, he that sounded the horn, was by my side. ¹⁹So I said unto the nobles and unto the deputies, and unto the rest of the people, The work, is great and large,—and, we, are separated upon the wall, far away, each man from his brother: ²⁰In what place soever ye shall hear the sound of the horn, thither, gather yourselves unto us,—our God, will fight for us. ²¹So, we, were working at the work,—one half of them, grasping the spears, from the uprisings of the dawn, until the coming out of the stars. ²²Moreover, at that time, I said to the people, Let, every one with his young man, lodge for the night in the midst of Jerusalem,—so shall they serve us, in the night, as a watch, and, the day, for work. ²³So neither I, nor my brethren, nor my young men, nor the men of the watch that followed me, none of us, put off our clothes,—every one went with his weapon to the water.

⁵Then came there to be a great outcry of the people and their wives,—against their brethren the Jews. ²And there were some who were saying, Our sons and our daughters, are we pledging,—that we may obtain corn, and eat, and keep ourselves alive. ³And there were some who were saying, Our fields and our vineyards and our houses, are we pledging,—that we may obtain corn in the dearth. ⁴And there were others who were saying, We have borrowed silver, for the king's tribute,—upon our lands and our vineyards. ⁵Now, therefore, as is the flesh of our brethren, so is our flesh, as are their children, so are our children. Yet lo! we are putting in subjection our sons and our daughters, for bondservants, yea there are some of our daughters already trodden down, and we are powerless, and, our fields and our vineyards, belong to others. ⁶And it angered me greatly,—when I heard their outcry, and these words. ⁷So my heart took counsel unto me and I contended with the nobles and with the deputies, and said to them, A loan on interest—every man to his brother, are ye making,—So I appointed over them a great assembly; ⁸and I said unto them, We, have bought our brethren the Jews, who had sold themselves unto the nations, according to our ability, and will, ye, even sell your brethren, or shall they sell themselves unto us? And they were silent, and found no answer. ⁹Then said I, Not good, is the thing which ye are doing,—ought ye not, in the fear of God, to walk, because of the reproach of the nations, our enemies? ¹⁰I too, then, my brethren and my young men, might be lending unto them on interest silver and corn! I pray you, let us leave off this lending on interest! ¹¹Restore, I pray you, unto them this very day, their fields, their vineyards, their oliveyards, and their houses,—also the hundredth of silver and corn, new wine and oil, for which ye have been lending to them.

¹²And they said, We will restore them, and, from them, will we require nothing, so, will we do, as thou, art saying. Then called I the priests, and put them on oath, to do according to this promise. ¹³Also, my lap, shook I out, and said—Thus and thus, may God shake out every man who shall not confirm this promise, out of his house and out of his labour, yea, thus and thus, let him be shaken out and empty,—And all the convocation said, Amen! and praised Yahweh, and the people did according to this promise. ¹⁴Moreover, from the day I was commanded to become their pasha in the land of Judah, from the twentieth year, even unto the thirty-second year of Artaxerxes the king, twelve years, I and my brethren, pasha's bread, have not eaten; ¹⁵whereas, the former pashas, who were before me, suffered themselves to be a burden upon the people, and took from them in bread and wine, besides forty shekels of silver, even, their young men, bare rule over the people,—but, I, did not so, because of the fear of God. ¹⁶Moreover also, in this work of the wall, I repaired, and, no field, did we buy,—though, all my young men, were gathered thither unto the work. ¹⁷And, Jews and deputies, a hundred and fifty men, and they who were coming in unto us from among the nations which were round about us, depended upon my table. ¹⁸Now, that which was prepared for a single day, was—one ox, six choice sheep, also, fowls, were prepared for me, and, apportioned unto ten days, of every sort of wine, in abundance,—yet, in spite of this, the bread of the pasha, demanded I not, because heavy was the bondage upon this people. ¹⁹Remember unto me, O my God, for good,—all that I have done for this people.

6And it came to pass, when it was reported to Sanballat and Tobiah and to Geshem the Arabian and to the rest of our enemies, that I had built the wall, and there was left therein no breach,—though, up to that time, the doors, had I not set up in the gates, ²that Sanballat and Geshem sent unto me, saying, Come! and let us meet together in the villages, in the valley of Ono,—But, they, were plotting to do me harm. ³So I sent unto them messengers, saying, A great work, am, I, doing, and cannot come down,—wherefore should the work cease whilst I leave it, and come down unto you? ⁴Yet they sent unto me, according to this message, four times,—and I replied to them according to this answer. ⁵Then Sanballat sent unto me, according to this message, a fifth time, by his young man,—with an open letter, in his hand: ⁶wherein was written—Among the nations, it is reported, and, Gashmu, saith it, that, thou and the Jews, are plotting to rebel, for which cause, thou art building the wall,—and, thou, art to become their king, according to these words. ⁷Moreover also, prophets, hast thou set up to make proclamation concerning thee in Jerusalem, saying, He hath become king in Judah! Now, therefore, will it be reported to the king, according to these words. Now, therefore, come, and let us take counsel together. ⁸Then sent I unto him, saying, Nothing hath been done, according to these words, which thou art saying,—but, out of thine own heart, art thou feigning them. ⁹For, they all, were seeking to put us in fear, saying, Their hands will slacken from the work, and it will not be accomplished. Now, therefore, strengthen thou my hands! ¹⁰When, I, came into the house of Shemaiah, son of Delaiah, son of Mehetabel, he, being shut in, he said, Let us meet together in the house of God, in the midst of the temple, and let us close the doors of the temple, for they are coming to slay thee, yea, by night, are they coming to slay thee. ¹¹Then said I, Should, such a man as I, flee? Who then, being such as I, would enter the temple to save his life? I will not enter. ¹²Then perceived I, that lo! it was, not God, who had sent him,—though, a prophecy, he had spoken concerning me, but, Tobiah and Sanballat, had hired him: ¹³to this end, hired, he was, to the end that I might be afraid and do so, and might sin,—and it might serve them for an evil report, to the end they might bring reproach upon me. ¹⁴Have remembrance, O my God, of Tobiah and of Sanballat, according to these their doings,—moreover also, of Noadiah the prophetess, and of the rest of the prophets, who would have put me in fear. ¹⁵So the wall was finished, on the twenty-fifth of Elul,—in fifty-two days. ¹⁶And it came to pass, when all our enemies heard, and all the nations that were round about us saw, that they fell greatly in their own eyes, and took knowledge that, from God, had this work been wrought. ¹⁷Moreover, in those days, were the nobles of Judah busy with their letters which were going unto Tobiah,—and those of Tobiah were coming unto them; ¹⁸for, many in Judah, had taken an oath to him, because he was in marriage affinity with Shecaniah son of Arah,—and, Jehohanan his son, had taken the daughter of Meshullam, son of Berechiah. ¹⁹Moreover, his good deeds, were they telling before me, and, my affairs, were they carrying out to him,—letters, did Tobiah send to put me in fear.

7And it came to pass, when the wall was built, and I had set up the doors,—and the doorkeepers and the singers and the Levites had been appointed, ²that I gave Hanani my brother, and Hananiah captain of the castle, charge over Jerusalem, for, he, was a truly faithful man, and revered God above many. ³And I said unto them, Let not the gates of Jerusalem be opened until, hot, be the sun, and, while they are standing by, let them close the doors, and make them fast,—setting watches, of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, every one in his watch, and every one over against his own house. ⁴Now, the city, was broad on both hands, and large, but, the people, were few in the midst thereof,—and the houses had not been built. ⁵So then my God put it into my heart, and I gathered together the nobles and the deputies and the people, to register their genealogy,—then found I a register roll, of them who came up at the first, and found written therein:—⁶These, are the sons of the province, who came up from among the Captives of the Exile, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon did exile,—but they came back to Jerusalem and to Judah, every one to his own city; ⁷who came in with Zerubabel, Jeshua, Nehemiah, Azariah, Raamiah, Nahamani, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispereth, Bigvai, Nehum, Baanah,—the number of the men of the people of Israel. ⁸The sons of Parosh, two thousand, one hundred, and seventy-two; ⁹The sons of Shephatiah, three hundred, and seventy-two; ¹⁰The sons of Arah, six hundred, and fifty-two; ¹¹The sons of Pahath-moab, belonging to the sons of Jeshua and Joab, two thousand, eight hundred, and eighteen; ¹²The sons of Elam, a thousand, two hundred and fifty-four; ¹³The sons of Zattu, eight hundred, and forty-five; ¹⁴The sons of Zaccai, seven hundred, and sixty; ¹⁵The sons of Binnui, six hundred, and forty-eight; ¹⁶The sons of Bebai, six hundred, and twenty-eight; ¹⁷The sons of Azgad, two thousand, three hundred, and twenty-two; ¹⁸The sons of Adonikam, six hundred, and sixty-seven; ¹⁹The sons of Bigvai, two thousand, and sixty-seven; ²⁰The sons of Adin, six hundred, and fifty-five; ²¹The sons of Ater, pertaining to Hezekiah, ninety-eight; ²²The sons of Hashum, three hundred, and twenty-eight; ²³The sons of Bezai, three hundred, and twenty-four; ²⁴The sons of Hariph, a hundred, and twelve; ²⁵The sons of Gibeon, ninety-five; ²⁶The men of Bethlehem, and Netophah, a hundred, and eighty-eight; ²⁷The men of Anathoth, a hundred, and twenty-eight; ²⁸The men of Beth-azmaveth, forty-two; ²⁹The men of Kiriath-jearim, Chephirah and Beeroth, seven hundred, and forty-three; ³⁰The men of Ramah and Geba, six hundred, and twenty-one; ³¹The men of Mickmas, a hundred, and twenty-two; ³²The men of Bethel and Ai, a hundred and twenty-three; ³³The men of the other Nebo, fifty-two; ³⁴The sons of the other Elam, a thousand, two hundred, and fifty-four; ³⁵The sons of Harim, three hundred, and twenty; ³⁶The sons of Jericho, three hundred, and forty-five; ³⁷The sons of Lod, Hadid and One, seven hundred, and twenty-one; ³⁸The sons of Senaah, three thousand, nine hundred, and thirty; ³⁹The priests, The sons of Jediah, of the house of Joshua, nine hundred, and seventy-three; ⁴⁰The sons of Immer, a thousand, and fifty-two; ⁴¹The sons of Pashhur, a thousand, two hundred, and forty-seven; ⁴²The sons of Harim, a thousand, and seventeen; ⁴³The Levites, The sons of Joshua, of Kadmiel, of the sons of Hodevah, seventy-four; ⁴⁴The singers, The sons of Asaph, a hundred, and forty-eight; ⁴⁵The doorkeepers, The sons of Shallum, the sons of Ater, the sons of Talmon, the sons of Akkub, the sons of Hatita, the sons of Shobai, a hundred, and thirty-eight; ⁴⁶The Nethinim, The sons of Ziha, the sons of Hasupha, the sons of Tabbaoth; ⁴⁷the sons of Keros, the sons of Sia, the sons of Padon; ⁴⁸the sons of Lebana, the sons of Hagaba, the sons of Salmai; ⁴⁹the sons of Hanan, the sons of Giddel, the sons of Gahar; ⁵⁰the

sons of Reaiah, the sons of Rezin, the sons of Nekoda; ⁵¹the sons of Gazzam, the sons of Uzza, the sons of Paseah; ⁵²the sons of Besai, the sons of Meunim, the sons of Nephushesim; ⁵³the sons of Bakbuk, the sons of Hakupha, the sons of Harhur; ⁵⁴the sons of Bazlith, the sons of Mehida, the sons of Harsha; ⁵⁵the sons of Barkos, the sons of Sisera, the sons of Temah; ⁵⁶the sons of Nezhiah, the sons of Hatipha. ⁵⁷The Sons of the Servants of Solomon, The sons of Sotai, the sons of Sophereth, the sons of Perida; ⁵⁸the sons of Jaala, the sons of Darkon, the sons of Giddel; ⁵⁹the sons of Shephatiah, the sons of Hattil, the sons of Pochereth-hazzebaim, the sons of Amen. ⁶⁰All the Nethinim, and the Sons of the Servants of Solomon, were three hundred, and ninety-two. ⁶¹And, these, are they who came up from Tel-melah, Tel-harsha, Cherub, Addon, and Immer,—but they could not tell their ancestral house, nor their seed, whether, of Israel, they were: ⁶²the sons of Delaiah, the sons of Tobiah, the sons of Nekoda,—six hundred and forty-two, ⁶³And, of the priests, the sons of Hobaiah, the sons of Hakkoz,—the sons of Barzillai, who had taken of the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite to wife, and was called after their name. ⁶⁴These, sought their writing wherein they were registered, but it was not found,—so they were desecrated out of the priesthood; ⁶⁵and the governor told them, they must not eat of the most holy things,—until there should stand up a priest, with Lights and Perfections. ⁶⁶All the gathered host together, was forty-two thousand, three hundred, and sixty; ⁶⁷besides, their men-servants and maid-servants, were these, seven thousand, three hundred, and thirty-seven,—and, to them, pertained, singing-men and singing-women, two hundred, and forty-five: ⁶⁸their horses, were seven hundred, and thirty-six,—their mules, two hundred, and forty-five; ⁶⁹camels, four hundred, and thirty-five,—asses, six thousand, seven hundred, and twenty. ⁷⁰And, a portion of the ancestral chiefs, gave unto the work,—the governor, gave unto the treasury, of gold, a thousand darics, tossing bowls, fifty, tunics for priests, five hundred, and thirty; ⁷¹and, some of the ancestral chiefs, gave unto the treasury of the work, of gold, twenty thousand darics,—and, of silver, two thousand and two hundred manehs; ⁷²and, that which the rest of the people gave, was, of gold, twenty thousand darics, and, of silver, two thousand manehs,—and, tunics for priests, sixty-seven. ⁷³So the priests and the Levites and the doorkeepers and the singers and some of the people, and the Nethinim and all Israel, took up their abode in their cities. And, when the seventh month arrived, the sons of Israel were in their cities.

⁸Then all the people gathered themselves together as one man, into the broad way that was before the water-gate,—and they spake unto Ezra the scribe, to bring the book of the law of Moses, which Yahweh had commanded Israel. ²So then Ezra the priest brought the law, before the convocation of both men and women, and all that had understanding to hearken,—on the first day of the seventh month; ³and read therein, before the broad place which was before the water-gate, from the time it was light, until the noon of the day, in presence of the men and the women, and such as had understanding,—and, the ears of all the people, were unto the book of the law. ⁴And Ezra the scribe stood upon a lofty platform of wood, which they had made for the purpose, and there stood, beside him, Matithiah and Shema and Anaiah and Uriah and Hilkiah and Maaseiah, on his right hand,—and, on his left, Pedaiah and Mishael and Malchijah and Hashum and Hashbaddanah, Zechariah, Meshullam. ⁵And Ezra the scribe opened the book before the eyes of all the people, for, above all the people, was he,—and, when he opened it, all the people, stood up. ⁶And Ezra blessed Yahweh the great God,—and all the people responded, Amen! Amen! with the lifting up of their hands,—and they bent their heads and bowed themselves down unto Yahweh, with their faces to the ground. ⁷And, Jeshua and Bani and Sherebiah, Jamin, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodiah, Maaseiah, Kelita, Azariah, Jozabad, Hanan, Pelaiah, and the Levites, did cause the people to understand the law, the people, remaining in their places. ⁸So they read in the book of the law of God, distinctly,—and, giving the sense, caused them to understand the reading. ⁹Then Nehemiah—he, was the governor—and Ezra the priest the scribe, and the Levites who were causing the people to understand, said unto all the people, To-day, is, holy, unto Yahweh your God, do not mourn, nor weep,—for, weeping, were all the people, when they heard the words of the law. ¹⁰So he said unto them—Go your way, eat the fat and drink the sweet, and send portions unto them for whom nothing is prepared, for holy is the day, unto our Lord,—and be not grieved, for, the joy of Yahweh, is your strength. ¹¹And, the Levites, were quieting all the people, saying—Hush! for, the day, is holy,—and be not grieved. ¹²And all the people went their way, to eat and to drink, and to send portions, and to make great rejoicing,—because they had understood the words which were made known unto them. ¹³And, on the second day, were gathered together—the ancestral heads of all the people, the priests and the Levites, unto Ezra the scribe,—even to give attention unto the words of the law. ¹⁴And they found written in the law,—that Yahweh gave command through Moses, that the sons of Israel should dwell in booths, during the festival of the seventh month; ¹⁵and that they should publish and send along a proclamation throughout all their cities and throughout Jerusalem, saying, Forth to the mountain, and bring in branches of olive, and branches of oleaster, and branches of myrtle, and branches of palms, and branches of thick trees,—to make booths, as it is written. ¹⁶So the people went forth, and brought in, and made themselves booths, every one upon his roof, and in their courts, and in the courts of the house of God, and in the broad place of the water-gate, and in the broad place of the gate of Ephraim. ¹⁷And all the convocation of them who had returned out of the captivity made booths, and dwelt in booths, for, since the days of Jeshua son of Nun, had not the sons of Israel done so, unto that day,—and there was very great rejoicing. ¹⁸So he read in the book of the law of God, day by day, from the first day unto the last day, and they kept the festival seven days, and, on the eighth day, a closing feast, according to the regulation.

⁹Now, on the twenty-fourth day of this month, were the sons of Israel gathered together, with fasting and with sackcloth, having earth upon them. ²And the seed of Israel separated themselves from all the sons of the foreigner,—and stood and made confession over their own sins, and the iniquities of their fathers. ³So they stood up in their place, and read in the book of the law of Yahweh their God, a fourth part of the day,—and, a fourth part, they were making confession and bowing themselves down, unto Yahweh their God. ⁴Then stood up on the platform of the Levites, Jeshua and Bani, Kadmiel, Shebaniah, Bunni, Sherebiah, Bani, Chenani,—and made outcry, with a loud voice, unto Yahweh their God. ⁵Then said the Levites—Jeshua and Kadmiel, Bani, Hashabneiah, Sherebiah, Hodiah, Shebaniah, Pethahiah, Stand up, bless Yahweh your God, from age to age,—Yea let them bless thy glorious Name, which is exalted above all blessing and praise. ⁶Thou, art Yahweh, thou alone, Thou, didst make the heavens, the heavens of heavens, and all their host, the earth and all that is thereon, the seas and all that is therein, and, thou, holdest them all in life,—and, the host of the heavens, unto thee, are bowing down. ⁷Thou, art Yahweh, God, who didst choose Abram, and broughtest him forth out of Ur of the Chaldees,—and madest his name Abraham; ⁸and didst find his heart faithful before thee, and didst solemnize with him a covenant, to give the land of the Canaanite, the Hittite, the Amorite, and the Perizzite, and the Jebusite, and the Girgashite,—to give it unto his seed,—and didst confirm thy words, for, righteous, thou art. ⁹Yea thou sawest the affliction of our fathers, in Egypt, and, their outcry, thou heardest, by the Red Sea; ¹⁰and didst grant signs and wonders against Pharaoh, and against all his servants, and against all the people of his land, for thou hadst taken note, that they ruled proudly over them,—and so thou didst make thee a name, as at this day. ¹¹And, the sea, didst thou cleave asunder before them, and they passed through the midst of the sea, on dry ground,—whereas, their pursuers, thou didst cast into the depths like a stone, into the mighty waters, ¹²And, in a pillar of cloud, didst thou lead them, by day,—and in a pillar of fire, by night, to light up for them the way wherein they should go. ¹³And, upon Mount Sinai, camest thou down, and spakest with them out of the heavens,—and gavest them just regulations, and faithful laws, good statutes and commandments. ¹⁴And, thy holy sabbath, didst thou make known to them,—and, commandments and statutes and a law, didst thou command them, through Moses thy servant. ¹⁵And, bread out of the heavens, didst thou give them, for their hunger, and, waters out of the cliff, didst thou bring them, for their thirst,—and badest them go in to take possession of the land, which thou hadst lifted thy hand to give them. ¹⁶But, they and our fathers, dealt proudly,—and hardened their neck, and hearkened not unto thy commandments; ¹⁷but refused to hearken, neither kept in mind thy wonders which thou hadst done with them, but they hardened their neck, and appointed a head that they might return to their servitude, in their perverseness. But, thou, art a God of forgivenesses, gracious and full of compassion, slow to anger and abounding in lovingkindness, and didst not forsake them. ¹⁸Yea, although they made them a molten calf, and said, This, is thy God, that brought thee up out of Egypt,—and wrought great insults, ¹⁹yet, thou, in thine abounding compassions, didst not forsake them in the desert,—the pillar of cloud, departed not from over them by day, to lead them in the way, nor the pillar of fire by night, to light up for them the way wherein they should go. ²⁰And, thy Good Spirit, thou gavest, to instruct them,—and, thy manna, thou withheldst not from their mouth, and, water, thou gavest them, for their thirst. ²¹Yea, forty years, didst thou sustain them in the desert, they lacked nothing,—their mantles, waxed not old and, their feet, swelled not. ²²And thou gavest them kingdoms, and peoples, and allotted to each of them a corner,—and they took possession of the land of Sihon, and the land of the king of Heshbon, and the land of Og king of Bashan. ²³Their children also, didst thou multiply, like the stars of the heavens,—and didst bring them into the land which thou hadst promised their fathers they should enter to possess; ²⁴so the children entered and possessed the land, and thou subduedst before them the inhabitants of the land, the Canaanites, and deliveredst them into their hand,—with their kings, and the peoples of the land, to do with them according to their pleasure; ²⁵and they captured fortified cities and a fat soil, and took possession of houses full of every good thing, wells digged, vineyards and oliveyards and fruit-trees, in abundance,—so they did eat and were filled and became fat, and luxuriated in thy great goodness. ²⁶But they murmured and rebelled against thee, and cast thy law behind their back, and, thy prophets, they slew, who testified against them that they might turn them back unto thee,—and they wrought great insults. ²⁷Therefore didst thou deliver them into the hand of their adversaries, who distressed them,—and, in the time of their distress, they made outcry unto thee, and, thou, out of the heavens, didst hear, and, according to thine abounding compassions, gavest them saviors, that they might save them out of the hand of their adversaries. ²⁸But, as soon as they had rest, they again wrought wickedness before thee,—and thou didst leave them in the hand of their enemies, who bare rule over them, yet, when they again made outcry unto thee, thou, from the heavens, didst hear and didst deliver them according to thy compassions, many times; ²⁹and didst testify against them, to bring them back unto thy law, yet, they, dealt proudly, and hearkened not unto thy commandments, and, against thy regulations, they sinned, the which—if any son of earth shall do—then shall he live by them,—and yielded a rebellious shoulder, and, their neck, they stiffened, and hearkened not. ³⁰And thou didst suffer many years to pass over them, and didst testify against them by thy Spirit through thy prophets, yet did they not give ear,—therefore didst thou deliver them into the hand of the peoples of the lands. ³¹Yet, in thine abounding compassions, thou didst not make of them an end, neither didst thou forsake them,—for, a GOD gracious and full of compassion, thou art. ³²Now, therefore, O our God—the GOD great, mighty, and fearful—keeping the covenant and the lovingkindness, let not all the trouble seem little before thee, which hath come upon us—on our kings, on our rulers, and on our priests, and on our prophets, and on our fathers, and on all thy people,—from the days of the kings of Assyria, until this day. ³³But, thou, art righteous, as to all that hath fallen upon us,—for, faithfulness, hast thou wrought, whereas, we, have been lawless; ³⁴and, our kings, our rulers, our priests, and our fathers, have not kept thy law,—nor given heed unto thy commandments, or unto thy testimonies, wherewith thou hast testified against them. ³⁵But, they, in their kingdom, and in thine abundant goodness which thou gavest them, and in the broad and fat land which thou didst set before them, did not serve thee, neither turned they from their wicked doings. ³⁶Lo! we, to-day, are bondmen—even upon the land which thou gavest our fathers to eat the fruit thereof and the good thereof, lo! we, are bondmen; ³⁷and, the increase thereof, aboundeth unto the kings whom thou hast set over us, for our sins,—and, over our bodies, are they bearing rule, and over our cattle, at their pleasure, and, in great distress, we are. ³⁸Seeing, therefore, all this, we, are plighting our faith, and putting it in writing,—and, upon the sealed scroll, are our rulers, our Levites, our priests.

¹⁰Now, upon the sealed writings, were,—Nehemiah the governor, son of Hacaliah, and Zedekiah; ²Seraiah, Azariah, Jeremiah; ³Pashhur, Amariah, Malchijah; ⁴Hattush, Shebaniah, Malluch; ⁵Harim, Meremoth, Obadiah; ⁶Daniel, Ginnethon, Baruch; ⁷Meshullam, Abijah, Mijamin; ⁸Maaziah, Bilgai, Shemaiah,—these, were, the priests. ⁹And, the Levites,—Jeshua, son of Azaniah, Binnui, of the sons of Henadad, Kadmiel; ¹⁰and, their brethren,—Shebaniah, Hodiah, Kelita, Pelaiah, Hanan; ¹¹Mica, Rehob, Hashabiah; ¹²Zaccur, Sherebiah, Shebaniah; ¹³Hodiah, Bani, Beninu. ¹⁴The heads of the people,—Parosh, Pahath-moab, Elam,

Zattu, Bani; ¹⁵Bunni, Azgad, Bebai; ¹⁶Adonijah, Bigvai, Adin; ¹⁷Ater, Hezekiah, Azzur; ¹⁸Hodiah, Hashum, Bezai; ¹⁹Hariph, Anathoth, Nobai; ²⁰Magpiash, Meshullam, Hezir; ²¹Meshezabel, Zadok, Jaddua; ²²Pelatiah, Hanan, Anaiah; ²³Hoshea, Hananiah, Hasshub; ²⁴Hallohesh, Pilha, Shobek; ²⁵Rehum, Hashabnah, Maaseiah; ²⁶and Ahiah, Hanan, Anan; ²⁷Malluch, Harim, Baanah. ²⁸And, the rest of the people—the priests, the Levites, the doorkeepers, the singers, the Nethinim, and all who had separated themselves from the peoples of the lands unto the law of God, their wives, their sons and their daughters,—every one having knowledge and understanding, ²⁹were holding fast unto their distinguished brethren, and were entering into a curse and into an oath, to walk in the law of God, which was given through Moses the servant of God,—and to observe and do, all the commandments of Yahweh our Lord, and his regulations, and his statutes; ³⁰and that we would not give our daughters unto the peoples of the land,—and, their daughters, would we not take for our sons; ³¹and, if the peoples of the land should be bringing in wares, or any corn on the sabbath day, to sell, we would not buy of them on the sabbath, or on a holy day,—and that we would remit the seventh year, and the loan of every hand. ³²And we laid on ourselves charges, appointing for ourselves the third of a shekel, yearly,—for the service of the house of our God: ³³for the bread to set in array, and the continual meal-offering, and for the continual ascending-sacrifice, of the sabbaths, of the new moons, for the appointed feasts, and for things hallowed, and for victims bearing sin, to put a propitiatory-covering over Israel,—and for all the work of the house of our God. ³⁴Also, lots, did we cast, concerning the offering of wood among the priests, the Levites, and the people, to bring it unto the house of our God, by our ancestral houses, at times arranged, year by year,—to burn upon the altar of Yahweh our God, as it is written in the law. ³⁵And that we would bring in the firstfruits of our ground, and the firstfruit of all fruit of all trees, year by year,—unto the house of Yahweh; ³⁶also that, the firstborn of our sons, and of our cattle, as it is written in the law,—and the firstlings of our herds and of our flocks, we would bring in unto the house of our God, unto the priests who should be in attendance in the house of our God; ³⁷and, the first part of our meal and our heave-offerings and the fruit of all trees, new wine and oil, would we bring in unto the priests, into the chambers of the house of our God, and the tithe of our ground unto the Levites,—the Levites themselves, taking the tithes in all our cities of agriculture. ³⁸And the priest the son of Aaron should be with the Levites, when the Levites should take the tithes,—and the Levites, should bring up the tithe of the tithe, unto the house of our God, into the chambers pertaining unto the treasure-house. ³⁹For, into the chambers, should the sons of Israel and the sons of Levi bring in the heave-offering of the corn, the new wine and the oil, since, there, are the utensils of the sanctuary, and the priests who are in attendance, and the doorkeepers, and the singers,—so would we not neglect the house of our God.

11And the rulers of the people dwelt in Jerusalem,—and, the rest of the people, cast lots, to bring in one out of ten to dwell in Jerusalem, the holy city, and nine parts in other cities. ²And the people bestowed a blessing on all the men, who willingly offered themselves to dwell in Jerusalem. ³Now, these, are the chiefs of the province, who dwelt in Jerusalem, but, in the cities of Judah, dwelt every man in his possession throughout their cities, Israel, the priests, and the Levites and the Nethinim, and the Sons of the Servants of Solomon. ⁴And, in Jerusalem, dwelt certain of the sons of Judah and of the sons of Benjamin,—Of the sons of Judah, Athaiah son of Uziah, son of Zechariah, son of Amariah, son of Shephatiah, son of Mahalalel, of the sons of Perez; ⁵and Maaseiah son of Baruch, son of Colhozeh, son of Hazaiah, son of Adaiah, son of Joiarib, son of Zechariah, son of the Shilonite. ⁶All the sons of Perez who were dwelling in Jerusalem, four hundred and sixty-eight, men of ability. ⁷And, these, are the sons of Benjamin,—Sallu son of Meshullam, son of Joed, son of Pedaiiah, son of Kolaiah, son of Maaseiah, son of Ithiel, son of Jeshai; ⁸and, after him, Gabbai, Sallai,—nine hundred and twenty-eight. ⁹And, Joel son of Zichri, was in charge over them,—and, Judah son of Hassenuah, was over the city, as second. ¹⁰Of the priests, Jedaiah son of Joiarib, Jachin; ¹¹Seraiah son of Hilkiah, son of Meshullam, son of Zadok, son of Meraioth, son of Ahitub, chief ruler of the house of God; ¹²and their brethren who were doing the work of the house, eight hundred and twenty-two,—and Adaiah son of Jeroham, son of Pelaliah, son of Amzi, son of Zechariah, son of Pashhur, son of Malchijah; ¹³and his brethren, ancestral chiefs, two hundred and forty-two,—and Amashsai son of Azarel, son of Ahzai, son of Meshillemoth, son of Immer; ¹⁴and their brethren, strong men of ability, a hundred and twenty-eight,—and, he who was in charge of them, was Zabdiel, son of Haggadolim. ¹⁵And, of the Levites, Shemaiah son of Hasshub, son of Azrikam, son of Hashabiah, son of Bunni; ¹⁶and Shabbethai and Jozabad, over the outside business of the house of God, of the chiefs of the Levites; ¹⁷and Mattaniah son of Mica, son of Zabdi, son of Asaph, leader of the praise who giveth thanks, in prayer, and Bakbukiah the second among his brethren,—and Obadiah son of Shemaiah, son of Galal, son of Jeduthun. ¹⁸All the Levites in the holy city, were two hundred and eighty-four. ¹⁹And, the door-keepers—Akkub, Talmon, and their brethren who were keeping watch in the gates, were a hundred and seventy-two. ²⁰But, the residue of Israel, the priests, the Levites, were in all the cities of Judah, every one in his inheritance. ²¹Howbeit, the Nethinim, were dwelling in Ophel,—and, Ziha and Gishpa, were over the Nethinim. ²²And, the overseer of the Levites in Jerusalem, was Uzzi son of Bani, son of Hashabiah, son of Mattaniah, son of Mica,—of the sons of Asaph the singers, to take lead in the business of the house of God. ²³For, the commandment of the king, was upon them,—as to a fixed provision for the singers, the need of a day upon its day. ²⁴And, Pethahiah son of Meshezabel, of the sons of Zerach, son of Judah, was at the hand of the king, in every matter pertaining to the people. ²⁵And, as for the villages in their fields, some of the sons of Judah, dwelt in Kiriath-arba, and the hamlets thereof, and in Dibon, and the hamlets thereof, and in Jekabzeel, and the villages thereof; ²⁶and in Jeshua, and in Moladah, and in Beth-pelet; ²⁷and in Hazarshual, and in Beer-sheba, and the hamlets thereof; ²⁸and in Ziklag, and in Meconah, and in the hamlets thereof, ²⁹and in En-rimmon, and in Zorah, and in Jarmuth; ³⁰Zanoah, Adullam and their villages, Lachish, and the fields thereof, Azekah, and the hamlets thereof,—so they encamped from Beer-sheba, unto the valley of Hinnom. ³¹And, the sons of Benjamin, dwelt from Geba, to Michmas and Aija, and Bethel, and the hamlets thereof: ³²Anathoth, Nob, Ananiah; ³³Hazor, Ramah, Gittaim; ³⁴Hadid, Zeboim, Nebal-lat; ³⁵Lod and Ono, the valley of craftsmen. ³⁶Howbeit, of the Levites, certain courses of Judah, pertained unto Benjamin.

12Now, these, are the priests and the Levites, who came up with Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, and Jeshua,—Seraiah, Jeremiah, Ezra; ²Amariah, Malluch, Hattush; ³Shecaniah, Rehum, Meremoth; ⁴Iddo, Ginnethoi, Abijah; ⁵Mijamin, Maadiah, Bilgah; ⁶Shemaiah, and Joiarib, Jedaiah; ⁷Sallu, Amok, Hilkiyah, Jedaiah,—these, were the chiefs of the priests and their brethren, in the days of Jeshua. ⁸And, the Levites, Jeshua, Binnui, Kadmiel, Sherebiah, Judah, Mattaniah,—over the choirs, he and his brethren; ⁹and Bakbukiah and Unno their brethren, were over against them, in wards. ¹⁰And Jeshua, begat Joiakim,—and Joiakim, begat Eliashib, and, Eliashib, begat Joiada; ¹¹and, Joiada, begat Jonathan,—and, Jonathan, begat Jaddua. ¹²And, in the days of Joiakim, were priests, ancestral chiefs,—of Seraiah, Meraiah, of Jeremiah, Hananiah; ¹³of Ezra, Meshullam,—of Amariah, Jehohanan; ¹⁴of Malluchi, Jonathan,—of Shebaniah, Joseph; ¹⁵of Harim, Adna,—of Meraioth, Helkai; ¹⁶of Iddo, Zechariah,—of Ginnethon, Meshullam; ¹⁷of Abijah, Zichri,—of Miniamin, of Moadiah, Piltai; ¹⁸of Bilgah, Shammua,—of Shemaiah, Jehonathan; ¹⁹and, of Joiarib, Mattenai,—of Jedaiah, Uzzi; ²⁰of Sallai, Kallai,—of Amok, Eber; ²¹of Hilkiyah, Hashabiah,—of Jedaiah, Nethanel. ²²The Levites—in the days of Eliashib, Joiada, and Johanan, and Jaddua, were recorded as ancestral chiefs,—also the priests, unto the reign of Darius the Persian. ²³the sons of Levi, ancestral heads, were written in the book of Chronicles,—even until the days of Johanan, son of Eliashib. ²⁴And, the chiefs of the Levites, Hashabiah, Sherebiah, and Jeshua son of Kadmiel, with their brethren over against them, to praise—to give thanks, by the commandment of David the man of God,—ward joined to ward. ²⁵Mattaniah and Bakbukiah, Obadiah, Meshullam, Talmon, Akkub, were watchers, doorkeepers of the ward, in the storehouses of the gates. ²⁶These, were in the days of Joiakim, son of Jeshua, son of Jozadak,—and in the days of Nehemiah the pasha, and Ezra the priest the scribe. ²⁷And, at the dedication of the wall of Jerusalem, they sought the Levites, out of all their places, to bring them to Jerusalem,—to keep the dedication and the rejoicing, both with thanksgiving and with music, cymbals, harps, and with lyres. ²⁸So the sons of the singers gathered themselves together,—both out of the circuit round about Jerusalem, and out of the villages of the Netophathites; ²⁹also out of Beth-gilgal, and out of the fields of Geba, and Azmaveth,—for, villages, had the singers builded for themselves, round about Jerusalem. ³⁰And the priests and the Levites purified themselves,—and purified the people, and the gates, and the wall. ³¹Then brought I up the rulers of Judah upon the wall,—and I appointed two large choirs, even to go in procession to the right, upon the wall, towards the dung-gate; ³²and after them went Hoshai, and half the rulers of Judah; ³³then Azariah, Ezra, and Meshullam; ³⁴Judah, and Benjamin, and Shemaiah, and Jeremiah; ³⁵and, of the sons of the priests, with trumpets, Zechariah—son of Jonathan—son of Shemaiah—son of Mattaniah, son of Micaiah, son of Zaccur, son of Asaph; ³⁶and his brethren—Shemaiah and Azarel, Milalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nethanel, and Judah, Hanani, with the instruments of music of David, the man of God,—with Ezra the scribe before them; ³⁷and, over they fountain gate and straight before them, they went up by the stairs of the city of David, at the going up of the wall,—above the house of David, even as far as the water-gate, eastward. ³⁸And, the second choir, was going over against them, I, following it,—with the half of the people upon the wall, above the tower of the ovens, even as far as the broad wall; ³⁹and above the gate of Ephraim, and upon the old gate, and upon the fish-gate, and the tower of Hananel, and the tower of Hammeah, even as far as the sheep-gate,—and they came to a stand, at the gate of the guard. ⁴⁰So the two choirs, came to a stand, at the house of God,—and I, and half the deputies with me; ⁴¹and, the priests—Eliakim, Maaseiah, Miniamin, Micaiah, Elioenai, Zechariah, and Hananiah, with trumpets; ⁴²and Maaseiah and Shemaiah and Eleazar and Uzzi and Jehohanan and Malchijah and Elam and Ezer,—and the musicians sounded, aloud with Jezrahiah who was over them. ⁴³And they sacrificed, on that day, great sacrifices, and rejoiced, for, God, had caused them to rejoice with great joy, moreover also, the women and children, rejoiced,—so that the rejoicing of Jerusalem was heard afar off. ⁴⁴And there were set in charge, on that day, certain men, over the chambers for the treasures, for the heave-offerings, for the firstfruits, and for the tithes, to gather into them, out of the fields of the cities, the portions appointed by the law, for the priests, and for the Levites,—for, the joy of Judah, was over the priests and over the Levites, who were remaining. ⁴⁵So they kept the charge of their God, and the charge of the purification, and so did the singers and the doorkeepers,—according to the commandment of David and of Solomon his son. ⁴⁶For, in the days of David and Asaph, of old, there were chiefs of the singers, and songs of praise and thanksgiving, unto God. ⁴⁷Now, all Israel—in the days of Zerubbabel, and in the days of Nehemiah, used to give the portions of the singers and the doorkeepers, the need of a day upon its day,—and they hallowed them unto the Levites, and, the Levites, hallowed them unto the sons of Aaron.

13On that day, a portion, was read in the book of Moses, in the ears of the people,—and it was found written therein, that the Ammonite and the Moabite should not enter into the convocation of God, unto times age-abiding; ²because they met not the sons of Israel, with bread and with water,—but hired against them Balaam, to curse them, although our God turned the curse into a blessing. ³So it came to pass, when they had heard the law,—that they separated all the mixed multitude from Israel. ⁴Now, before this, Eliashib the priest, who was set over a chamber of the house of God, was allied unto Tobiah; ⁵so he prepared him a large chamber, where aforetime they used to lay the meal-offering, the frankincense, and the utensils, and the tithe of the corn, the new wine and the oil, in charge of the Levites, and the singers, and the doorkeepers,—and the heave-offerings for the priests. ⁶But, throughout all this time, was I not in Jerusalem,—for, in the thirty-second year of Artaxerxes king of Babylon, I came unto the king, and, at the end of certain days, obtained I leave of the king; ⁷and came to Jerusalem,—and had intelligence of the wickedness which Eliashib had committed for Tobiah, in preparing for him a chamber, in the courts of the house of God; ⁸and it grieved me exceedingly,—and I cast forth all the household utensils of Tobiah, outside of the chamber. ⁹Then commanded I, and they purified the chambers,—and I put back there, the utensils of the house of God, the meal-offering and the frankincense. ¹⁰Then came I to know, that, the portions of the Levites, had not been given them,—so that the Levites and the singers, who had been doing the work, had fled every one to his field. ¹¹Therefore contended I with the deputies, and said, Wherefore is the house of God, forsaken? So I gathered them together, and set them in their place. ¹²Then, all Judah, brought in the tithe of corn, and new wine, and oil, unto the treasuries; ¹³and I made treasurers over the treasuries—Shelemiah the priest, and Zadok the scribe, and Pedaiah from among the Levites, and, next unto them, Hanan son of Zaccur, son of Mattaniah,—for faithful were they accounted, and it was laid upon them to distribute unto their brethren. ¹⁴Remember me, O my God, concerning this,—and do not wipe out my lovingkindnesses, which I have done for the house of my God, and for those keeping charge thereof. ¹⁵In those days, saw I in Judah—some treading winepresses on the sabbath, and bringing in sheaves and lading asses, moreover also wine, grapes, and figs, and every kind of burden, which they were bringing into Jerusalem on the sabbath day,—so I protested against it, as a day for them to sell provisions. ¹⁶And, men of Tyre, dwelt therein, who were bringing in fish—and every kind of ware for sale,—and were selling, on the sabbath, to the sons of Judah, and in Jerusalem; ¹⁷so I contended with the nobles of Judah,—and said unto them, What is this wicked thing which, ye, are doing, and profaning the sabbath day? ¹⁸Was it not, thus, your fathers did, and our God brought upon us all this calamity, and upon this city?—and, ye, would add indignation against Israel, by profaning the sabbath! ¹⁹And it came to pass, when the gates of Jerusalem made a shadow before the sabbath, then gave I word, and they shut the doors, and I gave word, that they should not open them, until after the sabbath,—and, some of my young men, set I near the gates, so that no burden should be brought in, on the sabbath day. ²⁰But the traders and sellers of all kinds of wares lodged outside Jerusalem once or twice. ²¹Therefore I testified against them, and said unto them, Wherefore are ye lodging against the wall? if ye do it again, a hand, will I thrust upon you,—From that time, they came not on the sabbath. ²²And I gave word to the Levites, that they should be purifying themselves and coming in, as keepers of the gates, to hallow the sabbath day. This also, remember to me, O my God, and have pity upon me, according to the abundance of thy lovingkindness. ²³Moreover, in these days, saw I the Jews who had married women of Ashdod, of Ammon, of Moab; ²⁴and, their children, were one-half speaking the language of Ashdod, and understood not how to speak the language of the Jews,—but after the tongue of both people. ²⁵So I contended with them, and laid a curse upon them, and I smote, from among them, certain men, and pulled out their hair,—and I put them on oath by God, Ye shall not give your daughters unto their sons, nor take of their daughters, for your sons nor for yourselves. ²⁶Was it not, over these things, that Solomon king of Israel sinned—though, among many nations, there was no king such as he, and he was, beloved by his God, and so God gave him to be king over all Israel,—even him, did foreign women, cause to sin. ²⁷Unto you, then, shall we hearken, to do all this great wickedness, to act unfaithfully with our God,—by marrying foreign wives? ²⁸And, one of the sons of Joiada, son of Eliashib the high priest, was son-in-law to Sanballat the Horonite,—therefore I chased him from me. ²⁹Remember them, O my God,—on account of the Defilings of the Priesthood, and the Covenant of the Priesthood, and of the Levites. ³⁰So

I purified them from everything foreign,—and appointed charges unto the priests and unto the Levites, every one in his work; ³¹also for the offering of wood, at times appointed, and for the firstfruits. Remember me, O my God, for good!

Esther

¹And it came to pass, in the days of Ahasuerus,—the same, Ahasuerus that reigned from India even unto Ethiopia, a hundred and twenty-seven provinces: ²in those days,—when King Ahasuerus was sitting on the throne of his kingdom, which was in Shusan the palace; ³in the third year of his reign, he made a banquet unto all his rulers, and his servants,—the power of Persia and Media, the nobles and the rulers being before him; ⁴when he showed the riches of the glory of his kingdom, and the splendour of his excellent majesty, many days, a hundred and eighty days; ⁵that, when these days were fulfilled, the king made—for all the people that were present in Shusan the palace, both for great and small—a banquet, seven days,—in the court of the garden of the palace of the king: ⁶white stuff, cotton and blue, being held fast with cords of fine linen and purple, upon rods of silver, and pillars of white marble,—the couches being of gold and silver, upon a pavement of alabaster and white marble, and pearl and black marble. ⁷And they gave them drink in vessels of gold, vessels, from vessels, being diverse,—even the wine of the kingdom in abundance, by the bounty of the king. ⁸And, the drinking, was according to the law, no one compelling,—for, so, had the king appointed unto every chief of his household, that every man, should do according to his pleasure. ⁹Also Vashti the queen, made a banquet for the women,—in the royal house which belonged to King Ahasuerus. ¹⁰On the seventh day, when merry was the heart of the king with wine, he commanded Mehuman, Biztha, Harbona, Bigtha, and Abagtha, Zethar and Carcas, the seven eunuchs who were waiting before King Ahasuerus,—¹¹to bring in Vashti the queen, with the royal crown,—to show the peoples and the rulers her beauty, for, of pleasing appearance, was she. ¹²But Queen Vashti refused to come in at the command of the king, which was given through the eunuchs,—and the king was exceeding wroth, and, his anger, burned within him. ¹³Then said the king unto the wise men having knowledge of the times,—for, so, was the manner of the king before all having knowledge of law and judgment; ¹⁴and, near unto him, were Carshena, Shethar, Admatha, Tarshish, Meres, Marsena, Memucan,—the seven rulers of Persia and Media, who used to behold the face of the king, who sat first, in the kingdom—¹⁵According to law, what ought to be done, with Queen Vashti,—for that she hath not performed the command of King Ahasuerus, through the eunuchs? ¹⁶Then said Memucan before the king and the rulers, Not against the king alone, hath Vashti the queen acted perversely,—but against all the rulers, and against all the peoples, who are in all the provinces of King Ahasuerus. ¹⁷For the report of the queen, will go forth, unto all women, so putting contempt upon their lords, in their eyes,—when it is reported to them, King Ahasuerus, commanded Vashti the queen to be brought in before him, but she came not. ¹⁸And, this day, shall the ladies of Persia and Media, who have heard the report of the queen, tell it, unto all the lords of the king,—with enough of contempt and wrath. ¹⁹If, unto the king, it seem good, let there go forth a royal declaration from before him, and let it be written among the laws of Persia and Media, so that it shall not pass away,—That Vashti, is not to come in, before King Ahasuerus, and, her royal estate, let the king give unto her neighbour, who is better than she. ²⁰When the edict of the king which he shall make, is published throughout all his kingdom, for, great, it is, then, all wives, will give honour unto their lords, both great and small. ²¹And the thing seemed good in the eyes of the king, and the rulers,—and the king did according to the word of Memucan. ²²So he sent letters, into all the provinces of the king, into every province according to the writing thereof, and unto every people according to their tongue,—That every man should he ruler in his own house, and issue his commands, according to the tongue of his people.

²After these things, when the wrath of King Ahasuerus was appeased, he remembered Vashti, and what she had done, and what was decreed against her. ²Then said the young men of the king, who waited upon him,—Let them seek out for the king young virgins, of pleasing appearance; ³and let the king appoint officers throughout all the provinces of his kingdom, and let them gather together every young virgin of pleasing appearance unto Shusan the palace, unto the house of the women, into the custody of Hegai eunuch of the king, keeper of the women, and let there be given the things needed for their purification; ⁴and, the maiden that is pleasing in the eyes of the king,

let her be queen instead of Vashti. And the thing seemed good in the eyes of the king, and he did so. ⁵A certain Jew, there was, in Shusan the palace,—whose, name, was Mordecai, son of Jair, son of Shimei, son of Kish, a man of Benjamin; ⁶who had been exiled from Jerusalem, with the exiles who were carried away with Jeconiah king of Judah,—whom, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, exiled. ⁷And it came to pass, that he was bringing up Hadassah, the same, was Esther, his uncle's daughter, for she had neither father nor mother,—and, the maiden, was of beautiful form and pleasing appearance, and when her father and mother died, Mordecai took her for his own daughter. ⁸So it came to pass, when the king's command and decree was heard, and there had been gathered together many maidens unto Shusan the palace, unto the custody of Hegai, that Esther was taken into the house of the king, unto the custody of Hegai, keeper of the women; ⁹and the maiden was pleasing in his eyes, and she received lovingkindness before him, and he hastened to give her, the things needed for her purification, and things apportioned her, and to give her, seven select maidens, out of the house of the king,—and he removed her and her maidens to the best place in the house of the women. ¹⁰Esther had not told of her people, nor of her kindred,—for, Mordecai, had laid charge upon her, that she should not tell. ¹¹And, throughout every day, Mordecai, used to walk to and fro, before the court of the house of the women,—to get to know the welfare of Esther, and what would be done with her. ¹²Now, when the turn of each maiden came, to go in unto King Ahasuerus, after it had been done to her according to the law of the women for twelve months, for, so, were filled the days of their purification,—six months with oil of myrrh, and six months with perfumes, and with things for the purification of the women, ¹³then, indeed, the maiden came in unto the king,—whatsoever she might mention, was given her, to go with her, out of the house of the women up to the house of the king: ¹⁴in the evening, she went in, and, in the morning, she returned—unto the second house of the women, unto the custody of Shaashgaz the king's eunuch, who kept the concubines,—she went not in again unto the king, except the king delighted in her, and she were called by name. ¹⁵But, when the turn came for Esther daughter of Abihail the uncle of Mordecai—who had taken her as his own daughter—to go in unto the king, she requested nothing, save what Hegai the king's eunuch who kept the women might direct,—but so it was, that Esther obtained favour in the eyes of all who beheld her. ¹⁶So then Esther was taken unto King Ahasuerus, into his royal house, in the tenth month, the same, was the month Tebeth,—in the seventh year of his reign. ¹⁷And the king loved Esther above all the women, and she obtained favour and lovingkindness before him, above all the virgins,—so that he set the royal crown upon her head, and made her queen, instead of Vashti. ¹⁸Then the king made a great banquet, for all his rulers and his servants, the banquet of Esther,—and, a remission, for all the provinces, made he, and gave a present, according to the bounty of a king. ¹⁹Now, when virgins were gathered together second time, then, Mordecai, was sitting in the gate of the king. ²⁰Esther had not told of her kindred, nor her people, as, Mordecai, had laid charge upon her,—and, the command of Mordecai, Esther performed, like as when she was being brought up with him. ²¹In those days, when, Mordecai, was sitting in the gate of the king, Bigthan and Teresh, two of the eunuchs of the king who guarded the threshold, were wroth, and sought to thrust a hand upon King Ahasuerus; ²²but the thing became known to Mordecai, who told it unto Esther the queen,—and Esther told it unto the king, in the name of Mordecai. ²³And, when the thing was searched into and found true, then were they two hanged upon the gallows, and it was written, in the book of the chronicles, before the king.

3After these things, did King Ahasuerus promote to power Haman son of Hammedatha the Agagite, and exalted him,—and placed his seat above all the rulers who were with him. ²And, all the kings servants who were in the kings gate, used to bend and bow themselves down unto Haman, for, so, had the king given command concerning him,—but, Mordecai, bent not nor bowed himself down. ³Then said the king's servants who were in the king's gate unto Mordecai,—⁴Wherefore art, thou, transgressing the command of the king? And it came to pass, when they had spoken unto him day by day, and he had not hearkened unto them, that they told Haman, to see whether the account of Mordecai would stand, for he had told them, that, he, was a Jew. ⁵And, when Haman saw that Mordecai did not bend nor bow down unto him, then was Haman filled with wrath; ⁶but, it was contemptible in his eyes, to thrust forth a hand on Mordecai alone, for they had told him of the people of Mordecai,—and Haman sought to destroy all the Jews who were throughout all the kingdom of Ahasuerus, the people of Mordecai. ⁷In the first month—the same, was the month Nisan, in the twelfth year of king Ahasuerus, was Pur cast—the same, is the Lot, before Haman, from day to day, and from month to month,—and the lot fell on the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, the same, is the month Adar. ⁸Then said Haman unto King Ahasuerus, There is a certain people, scattered abroad and dispersed among the peoples, throughout all the provinces of thy kingdom,—whose laws, are diverse from every people, and, the laws of the king, they observe not, for the king, therefore, it is not fit, to suffer them. ⁹If, unto the king, it seem good, let it be written, to destroy them,—and, ten thousand talents of silver, will I weigh out upon the hands of them who are doing the business, to bring it into the treasuries of the king. ¹⁰So then the king took his signet-ring from off his hand, and gave it unto Haman son of Hammedatha the Agagite, the adversary of the Jews; ¹¹and the king said unto Haman, The silver, is granted thee,—and the people, to do with them, as may seem good in thine eyes. ¹²Then were called the scribes of the king, in the first month, on the thirteenth day therein, and it was written according to all that Haman commanded unto the satraps of the king, and unto the pashas, who were over every province, and unto the rulers of every people, every province according to the writing thereof, and every people according to the tongue thereof,—in the name of King Ahasuerus, was it written, and sealed with the signet- ring of the king. ¹³Then were sent letters, by the hand of the runners, into all the provinces of the king, To destroy, to slay and to cause to perish all Jews, both young and old, little ones and women, in one day, on the thirteenth of the twelfth month, the same, is the month Adar,—and the spoil of them to be a prey. ¹⁴A copy of the writing, to be delivered as an edict throughout every province, was published to all the peoples,—that they should be ready against this day. ¹⁵The runners, went forth, urged on by the word of the king, and, the edict, was given in Shusan the palace,—and, the king and Haman, sat down to drink, but, the city of Shusan, was perplexed.

⁴When, Mordecai, came to know all that had been done, Mordecai rent his garments, and put on sackcloth, and ashes,—and went forth into the midst of the city, and cried out with an outcry loud and bitter; ²and went in as far as before the gate of the king,—for, none, might enter into the gate of the king, clothed with sackcloth. ³And, throughout every province, whithersoever the word of the king and his edict came, was great mourning to the Jews, and fasting and weeping, and lamentation,—sackcloth and ashes, were spread out for many. ⁴So the maidens of Esther and her eunuchs went in and told her, and the queen writhed in great anguish,—and sent garments to clothe Mordecai, and to remove his sackcloth from off him, but he accepted them not. ⁵Then called Esther for Hathach, one of the eunuchs of the king whom he had stationed before her, and charged him, concerning Mordecai,—to get to know what this was, and why this was. ⁶So Hathach went forth unto Mordecai,—in the Broadway of the city, which was before the gate of the king. ⁷And Mordecai told him all that had befallen him,—and an exact statement of the silver, that Haman had promised to weigh out unto the treasuries of the king, for the Jews, to destroy them. ⁸Also, a copy of the writing of the edict which had been given in Shusan to destroy them, gave he unto him, to shew unto Esther, and to tell her,—and to lay charge upon her, to go in unto the king—to make supplication unto him, and to make request before him, for her people. ⁹And Hathach came in and told Esther, the words of Mordecai. ¹⁰Then spake Esther unto Hathach,—and gave him charge, unto Mordecai:— ¹¹All

the servants of the king, and the people of the provinces of the king, do know, that, whatsoever man or woman shall go in unto the king—into the inter court—who hath not been called, one, is his law, to put him to death, saving any to whom the king may hold out the golden sceptre, who then shall live,—but, I, have not been called to go in unto the king, these thirty days. ¹²And they told Mordecai, the words of Esther. ¹³Then Mordecai commanded to answer Esther,—Do not think in thine own soul, to escape in the house of the king from among all the Jews. ¹⁴But, if thou, do indeed hold thy peace, at this time, respite and deliverance, will be appointed for the Jews, from another place, but, thou, and thy father's house, will perish,—and who knoweth whether, for a time such as this, thou hast attained unto the royal estate? ¹⁵Then Esther commanded, to answer Mordecai:— ¹⁶Go! gather ye together all the Jews who are to be found in Shusan, and fast ye for me—and neither eat nor drink—three days, night nor day, and, I and my maidens, will fast so,—and, in this manner, will I go in unto the king, though it is not according to the law, and, when I have perished, I have perished! ¹⁷So Mordecai departed,—and did according to all that Esther had charged upon him.

⁵And it came to pass, on the third day, that Esther put on her royal apparel, and stood in the inner court of the house of the king, over against the house of the king,—and, the king, was sitting upon his royal seat, in the royal house, over against the opening of the house. ²And it came to pass, when the king saw Esther the queen standing in the court, that she obtained favour in his eyes,—and the king held out to Esther, the golden sceptre which was in his hand, so Esther drew near, and touched the top of the sceptre. ³Then said the king unto her, What aileth thee, Queen Esther? and what is thy request? Unto the half of the kingdom, shall it be given thee. ⁴Then said Esther, If, unto the king, it seem good, let the king with Haman come in this day, unto the banquet which I have prepared for him. ⁵And the king said, Hasten ye Haman, to perform the word of Esther. So the king with Haman came in, unto the banquet which Esther had prepared, ⁶Then said the king unto Esther, during the banquet of wine, What is thy petition, that it may be granted thee?—and what is thy request—unto the half of the kingdom—that it may be performed? ⁷Then answered Esther, and said,—As touching my petition and my request, ⁸If I have found favour in the eyes of the king, and if, unto the king, it seem good, to grant my petition, and to perform my request, let the king with Haman come in unto the banquet which I will prepare for them, and, to-morrow, I will do according to the word of the king. ⁹Then went Haman forth on that day, joyful and of a merry heart,—but, when Haman saw Mordecai in the gate of the king, that he rose not up nor moved because of him, then was Haman filled with wrath against Morde-

cai. ¹⁰Nevertheless Haman restrained himself, and came into his own house,—and sent and brought in his friends, and Zeresh his wife; ¹¹and Haman recounted unto them the glory of his riches, and the multitude of his children,—and all the things wherein the king had promoted him to power, and how he had advanced him, above the rulers and the servants of the king. ¹²And Haman said, Moreover Esther the queen did bring in no one with the king into the banquet which she had prepared, saving myself,—yea moreover, even for to-morrow, I, am invited unto her, with the king. ¹³Yet, all this, sufficeth me not,—so long as, I, see Mordecai the Jew, sitting in the gate of the king. ¹⁴Then said Zeresh his wife and all his friends unto him, Let them make ready a gallows, of the height of fifty cubits, and, in the morning, speak thou unto the king, that they hang Mordecai thereon, then go with the king into the banquet joyfully. And the thing seemed good before Haman, and he made ready the gallows.

6During that night, the sleep of the king fled,—and he commanded to bring in the book of remembrance, the chronicles, and they were read before the king. ²And it was found written, how that Mordecai had told concerning Bigthana and Teresh, the two eunuchs of the king guarding the threshold,—who had sought to thrust forth a hand upon King Ahasuerus. ³Then said the king, What honour and dignity hath been done unto Mordecai, for this? Then said the king's young men, who were ministering unto him, Nothing hath been done for him. ⁴Then said the king, Who is in the court? Now, Haman, had come into the outer court of the king's house, to speak unto the king, to hang Mordecai, upon the gallows which he had prepared for him. ⁵So the king's young men said unto him, Lo! Haman, standing in the court. And the king said, Let him come in. ⁶So Haman came in, and the king said unto him, What shall be done unto the man in whose honour, the king delighteth? Then said Haman, in his own heart, Unto whom will the king delight to do honour, more than unto me? ⁷So Haman said unto the king,—As touching the man in whose honour, the king, delighteth, ⁸let them bring in royal apparel wherewith the king hath clothed himself,—and the horse whereon the king hath ridden, and the royal crown which hath been set upon his own head; ⁹and let the apparel and the horse be delivered unto the hand of one of the king's rulers, one of the nobles, and so let them array the man, in whose honour, the king, delighteth,—and cause him to ride upon the horse through the Broadway of the city, and let them proclaim before him, Thus and thus, shall it be done unto the man in whose honour, the king, delighteth! ¹⁰Then said the king unto Haman, Haste, take the apparel and the horse, just as thou hast said, and do even so unto Mordecai the Jew, who is sitting in the king's gate,—do not let fail a thing, of all which thou hast spoken! ¹¹So Haman took the apparel and the horse, and arrayed Mordecai,—and caused him to ride through the Broadway of the city, and proclaimed before him, Thus and thus, shall it be done unto the man in whose honour, the king, delighteth! ¹²Then Mordecai returned unto the gate of the king,—but, Haman, hurried unto his own house, mourning, and with covered head. ¹³And Haman recounted unto Zeresh his wife, and unto all his friends, everything that had befallen him. Then said his wise men, and Zeresh his wife, unto him, If, of the seed of the Jews, is Mordecai before whom thou hast begun to fall, thou shalt not prevail against him, but shalt, utterly fall, before him. ¹⁴While yet they were speaking with him, the eunuchs of the king, had come,—and they hastened to bring Haman, unto the banquet which Esther had prepared.

7So the king and Haman came in, to banquet with Esther the queen. ²Then said the king unto Esther, on the second day also, during the banquet of wine, What is thy petition, Queen Esther, that it may be granted thee? and what is thy request—unto the half of the kingdom—that it may be performed? ³Then answered Esther the queen, and said, If I have found favour in thine eyes, O king, and if, unto the king, it seem good, let my life be granted me, as my petition, and my people, as my request; ⁴For we are sold, I and my people, to be destroyed, to be slain and to be caused to perish. If indeed, for bondmen and for bondwomen, we had been sold, I had held my peace, although the adversary could not have made good the damage to the king. ⁵Then spake King Ahasuerus, and said unto Esther the queen,—Who is he now, and where is he, whose heart is set to act thus? ⁶And Esther said, A man who is an adversary and enemy, this wicked Haman. And, Haman, was terrified, before the king and the queen. ⁷Now, the king, arising in his wrath from the banquet of wine, and going into the palace garden, Haman, stood to make request for his life from Esther the queen, for he saw that ruin, was determined against him, by the king. ⁸When, the king, returned out of the palace garden into the place of the banquet of wine, Haman, was lying prostrate upon the couch whereon Esther was. Then said the king, Will he, even dare to force the queen, while I am in the house? No sooner had the word gone forth out of the mouth of the king, than, the face of Haman, they had covered. ⁹Then said Harbonah—one of the eunuchs before the king—Yea lo! the gallows that Haman made ready for Mordecai, who had spoken well for the king, is standing in Haman's house, of a height of fifty cubits. Then said the king, Hang him thereon. ¹⁰So they hanged Haman on the gallows which he had prepared for Mordecai,—and, the wrath of the king, was appeased.

8On that day, did King Ahasuerus give unto Esther the queen, the house of Haman, the adversary of the Jews,—and, Mordecai, came in before the king, for Esther had told, what he was to her. ²And the king took off his signet-ring, which he had taken from Haman, and gave it unto Mordecai,—and Esther set Mordecai over the house of Haman. ³Yet again, spake Esther before the king, and fell down at his feet,—and wept and made supplication unto him, to cause the mischief of Haman the Agagite to pass away, even the plot which he had plotted against the Jews. ⁴And the king held out unto Esther, the golden sceptre,—so Esther arose, and stood before the king; ⁵and said—If, unto the king, it seem good, and if I have found favour before him, and the thing be approved before the king, and, I myself, be pleasing in his eyes, let it be written, to reverse the letters plotted by Haman, son of Hammedatha, the Agagite, which he wrote to destroy thee Jews, who are in all the provinces of the king. ⁶For how can I endure to see the ruin that shall overtake my people? or how can I endure to see the destruction of my kindred? ⁷Then said King Ahasuerus unto Esther the queen, and unto Mordecai the Jew,—Lo! the house of Haman, have I given unto Esther, and, him, have they hanged upon the gallows, because he thrust forth his hand against the Jews. ⁸Ye, therefore, write concerning the Jews as may seem good in your own eyes, in the name of the king, and seal it with the king's signet-ring,—for a writing which hath been written in the king's name, and sealed with the king's signet-ring, none can reverse. ⁹Then were called the king's scribes at that time—in the third month, the same, is the month Siwan, on the twenty-third thereof, and it was written according to all that Mordecai commanded unto the Jews, and unto the satraps and pashas and rulers of the provinces, which are from India even unto Ethiopia, a hundred and twenty-seven provinces, every province according to the writing thereof, and every people according to their tongue,—and unto the Jews, according to their writing, and according to their tongue; ¹⁰and he wrote in the name of King Ahasuerus, and sealed it with the king's signet-ring,—and sent letters by the hand of runners on horses, riding the swift steeds used in the king's service, bred of the stud: ¹¹That the king had granted unto the Jews who were in every city, to gather themselves together, and to stand for their life, to destroy, to slay and to cause to perish—all the force of the people and province who should distress them, their little ones and women,—and to take the spoil of them as a prey: ¹²upon one day, throughout all the provinces of King Ahasuerus,—upon the thirteenth of the twelfth month, the same, is the month Adar: ¹³A copy of the writing to be given, as an edict, throughout every province, was published to all the peoples,—and that the Jews be ready against that day, to avenge themselves on their enemies. ¹⁴The runners that rode on the swift steeds used in the king's service, went forth, being urged forward and pressed on, by the word of the king,—and, the edict, was given in Shusan the palace. ¹⁵And, Mordecai, went forth from the presence of the king, in royal apparel, of blue and white, with a large diadem of gold, and a mantle of fine linen and purple,—and, the city Shusan, was bright and joyful. ¹⁶To the Jews, had come light, and joy,—and gladness and honour. ¹⁷And, in every province, and in every city, whithersoever the word of the king and his edict did reach, joy and gladness, had the Jews,—a banquet and a happy day,—and, many from among the peoples of the land, were becoming Jews, for the dread of the Jews had fallen upon them.

⁹And, in the twelfth month, the same, is the month Adar, on the thirteenth day thereof, when the word of the king and his edict arrived to be put in execution,—on the day when the enemies of the Jews hoped to have power over them, though it, was changed, so that the Jews themselves should have power over them who hated them, ²the Jews assembled themselves together in their cities, throughout all the provinces of King Ahasuerus, to thrust forth a hand against them who were seeking their hurt, and, no man, stood before them, for the dread of them had fallen upon all the peoples. ³And, all the rulers of the provinces, and the satraps and the pashas, and the doers of business that pertained to the king, were extolling the Jews,—for the dread of Mordecai, had fallen upon them; ⁴since great was Mordecai, in the house of the king, and, his fame, was going forth throughout all the provinces,—for, the man Mordecai, went on waxing great. ⁵So then the Jews smote all their enemies, with the smiting of the sword and slaughter, and destruction,—and they dealt with them who hated them according to their pleasure. ⁶Yea, in Shusan the palace, did the Jews slay and destroy five hundred men. ⁷And Parshandatha and Dalphon, and Aspatha; ⁸and Poratha, and Adalia, and Aridatha; ⁹and Parmashta, and Arisai, and Aridai, and Vaizatha;—¹⁰the ten sons of Haman son of Hammedatha, the adversary of the Jews, slew they,—but, on the spoil, thrust they not forth their hand. ¹¹On that day, came in the number of the slain into Shusan the palace, before the king. ¹²Then said the king unto Esther the queen, In Shusan the palace, have the Jews slain and caused to perish five hundred men, and the ten sons of Haman,—in the rest of the provinces of the king, what have they done? What, then, is thy petition, that it may be granted thee? and what is thy request further, that it may be performed? ¹³Then said Esther, If, unto the king, it seem good, let it be granted, to-morrow also, unto the Jews who are in Shusan, to do according to the edict of to-day,—and that, the ten sons of Haman, be hanged upon the gallows. ¹⁴And the king commanded it to be done so, and there was given an edict, in Shusan,—and, the ten sons of Haman, they hanged. ¹⁵So the Jews who were in Shusan assembled themselves together, on the fourteenth day also, of the month Adar, and slew in Shusan three hundred men,—but, on the spoil, thrust they not forth their hand. ¹⁶And, the remainder of the Jews who were in the provinces of the king, assembled themselves together and stood for their life, and then had rest from their enemies, having slain of them that hated them seventy-five thousand,—but, on the spoil, thrust they not forth their hand: ¹⁷on the thirteenth day of the month Adar,—and then had rest on the fourteenth day thereof, and made it a day of banqueting and rejoicing. ¹⁸But, the Jews who were in Shusan, assembled themselves together on the thirteenth day thereof, and on the fourteenth day thereof,—and then had rest on the fifteenth day thereof, and made it a day of banqueting and rejoicing. ¹⁹For this cause, the country Jews, who dwelt in the country towns, were making the fourteenth day of the month Adar one of rejoicing and banqueting, and a day of happiness,—and of sending portions every one to his neighbour. ²⁰And Mordecai wrote these things,—and sent letters unto all the Jews who were in all the provinces of King Ahasuerus, near, and far off; ²¹to establish for them, that they should continue to observe the fourteenth day of the month Adar, and the fifteenth day thereof,—always year by year; ²²according to the days wherein the Jews found rest from their enemies, and the month which was turned for them, from sorrow to joy, and from mourning to a happy day,—that they should make them days of banqueting and rejoicing, and of sending portions, every one to his neighbour, and gifts, unto the needy. ²³And the Jews took upon them that which they had begun to do,—and that which Mordecai had written unto them; ²⁴because, Haman, son of Hammedatha, the Agagite, the adversary of all the Jews, had plotted against the Jews, to cause them to perish,—and had cast Pur, the same, is the Lot, to terrify them, and to destroy them; ²⁵but, by Esther's going in before the king, he commanded by letter, that his wicked plot which he had plotted against the Jews, should return, upon his own head,—and that he and his sons should be hanged upon the gallows. ²⁶For this cause, called they these days Purim, after the name Pur, for this cause,—for all the words of this epistle,—and what they had seen concerning such a matter, and what had reached unto them. ²⁷The Jews established and took upon themselves—and upon their seed, and upon all who should join themselves unto them, that it might not pass away, that they would continue to keep these two days, according to the writing concerning them and at their set time,—always year by year. ²⁸And, these days, were to be remembered and to be kept, always from generation to generation, by every family, every province, and every city,—that, these days of Purim, should not pass away, out of the midst of the Jews, and, the memorial of them, not cease from their seed. ²⁹Then wrote Esther the queen daughter of Abihail and Mordecai the Jew, with all authority,—to confirm this second epistle concerning the Purim; ³⁰and he sent letters unto all the Jews, throughout the hundred and twenty-seven provinces of the kingdom of Ahasuerus,—words of peace and stability: ³¹to establish

these days of the Purim, in their set times, according as Mordecai the Jew and Esther the queen had enjoined upon them, and according as they had enjoined upon their own soul, and upon their seed,—the story of the fastings and of their outcry. ³²And, the command of Esther, confirmed the story of these Purim,—and it was written in a book.

10And King Ahasuerus laid tribute upon the land, and upon the shores of the sea. ²But, all the acts of his authority, and his might, and the clear story of the promotion of Mordecai, wherewith the king promoted him, are, they, not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Media and Persia? ³For, Mordecai the Jew, was next unto King Ahasuerus, and became great among the Jews, and accepted by the multitude of his brethren,—seeking happiness for his people, and speaking peace to all his seed.

Job

¹A man, there was—in the land of Uz, Job, his name,—and that man was blameless and upright, and one who revered God, and avoided evil. ²And there were born unto him seven sons and three daughters. ³And his substance was—seven thousand sheep, and three thousand camels, and five hundred yoke of oxen, and five hundred she-asses, and a body of servants exceeding large,—thus was that man the greatest of all the sons of the East. ⁴Now his sons were wont to go, and make a banquet, at the house of each one upon his day,—and to send and call their three sisters, to eat and to drink with them. ⁵And so it was, when the days of the banquet came round, that Job sent and hallowed them, and rising early in the morning offered ascending-sacrifices according to the number of them all; for Job said, Peradventure my sons have sinned, and have cursed God in their hearts. Thus and thus, was Job wont to do all the days. ⁶Now there came a certain day, when the sons of God entered in to present themselves unto Yahweh,—so the accuser also entered, in their midst. ⁷And Yahweh said unto the accuser, Whence comest thou? And the accuser answered Yahweh, and said, From going to and fro in the earth, and wandering about therein. ⁸And Yahweh said unto the accuser, Hast thou applied thy heart unto my servant Job, that there is none like him in the earth, a man blameless and upright, one revering God and avoiding evil? ⁹And the accuser answered Yahweh, and said, Is it, for nought, that Job revereth God? ¹⁰Hast not, thou thyself, made a hedge about him, and about his house, and about all that he hath, on every side? The work of his hands, thou hast blessed, and, his substance, hath broken forth in the land. ¹¹But, in very deed, put forth, I pray thee, thy hand, and smite all that he hath,—verily, unto thy face, will he curse thee. ¹²And Yahweh said unto the accuser, Lo! all that he hath, is in thy hand, only, against himself, do not put forth thy hand. So the accuser went forth from the presence of Yahweh. ¹³And there came a certain day,—when his sons and his daughters were eating, and drinking wine, in the house of their eldest brother. ¹⁴And, a messenger, came in unto Job, and said,—The oxen, were plowing, and, the asses, feeding beside them; ¹⁵when the Sabeans swooped down, and took them, and, the young men, smote they with the edge of the sword,—and escaped am, only I alone, too tell thee. ¹⁶Yet was this one speaking, when, another, came in and said,—A fire of God, fell out of the heavens, and burned up the sheep and the young men, and consumed them; and escaped am, only I alone, to tell thee. ¹⁷Yet was this one speaking, when, another, came in and said, The Chaldeans, appointed three chiefs, and spread out against the camels, and took them, and, the young men, smote they with the edge of the sword; and escaped am, only I alone, to tell thee. ¹⁸Yet was this one speaking, when, another, came in and said,—Thy sons and thy daughters, were eating, and drinking wine, in the house of their eldest brother; ¹⁹when lo! a great wind, came from over the desert, and smote the four corners of the house, and it fell upon the young men, and they died,—and escaped am, only I alone, to tell thee. ²⁰Then Job arose, and rent his robe, and shaved his head, and fell to the earth and worshipped; ²¹and said—Naked came I forth from the womb of my mother, and naked must I return thither, Yahweh, gave, and, Yahweh, hath taken away,—The name of Yahweh be blessed! ²²In all this, Job sinned not, nor imputed folly unto God.

²And there came a certain day when the sons of God entered in, to present themselves unto Yahweh—so the accuser also entered in their midst, to present himself unto Yahweh. ²And Yahweh said unto the accuser, Whence comest thou? And the accuser answered Yahweh, and said, From going to and fro in the earth, and from wandering about therein. ³And Yahweh said unto the accuser, Hast thou applied thy heart unto my servant Job, that there is none like him in the earth, a man blameless and upright, one who revereth God, and avoideth evil; and still he is holding fast his integrity, although thou movedst me against him, to swallow him up without cause. ⁴Then the accuser answered Yahweh, and said, Skin for skin, and so, all that a man hath, will he give for his life. ⁵In very deed, put forth, I pray thee thy hand, and smite unto his bone, and unto his flesh,—verily, unto thy face, will he curse thee. ⁶And Yahweh said unto the accuser, Behold him! in thy hand,—only, his life, preserve thou! ⁷So the accuser went forth from the presence of Yahweh,—and smote Job with a sore boil, from the sole of his foot, unto his crown. ⁸And he took him a potsherd, to scrape himself therewith; he being seated in the midst of ashes. ⁹Then said his wife unto him, Art thou still holding fast thine integrity? Curse God, and die! ¹⁰And he said unto her, As one of the base women speaketh, speakest thou? Blessing, shall we accept from God, and, misfortune, shall we not accept? In all this, Job sinned not with his lips. ¹¹Now when the three friends of Job heard of all this misfortune which had befallen him,—they came, every man from his own place, Eliphaz the Temanite, and Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite,—for they had by appointment met together to come to shew sympathy with him, and to comfort him. ¹²And, when they lifted up their eyes afar off, and knew him not, they lifted up their voice, and wept—and rent, every one his robe, and sprinkled dust upon their heads, toward the heavens. ¹³And they sat with him upon the ground, seven days and seven nights,—and none was speaking unto him a word, for they saw that, exceeding great, was the stinging pain.

³After this, opened Job his mouth, and cursed his day. ²So then Job began, and said: ³Perish, the day wherein I was born, and the night it was said, Lo! a manchild! ⁴That day, be it darkness,—Let not God enquire after it from above, May there shine upon it no clear beam: ⁵Let darkness and death-shade buy it back, May there settle down upon it a cloud, Let a day's dark eclipse cause it terror: ⁶That night, darkness take it,—May it not rejoice among the days of the year, Into the number of months, let it not enter. ⁷Lo! that night, be it barren, Let no joyous shouting enter therein: ⁸Let day-cursers denounce it, Those skilled in rousing the dragon of the sky: ⁹Darkened be the stars of its twilight,—Let it wait for light, and there be none, neither let it see the eyelashes of the dawn: ¹⁰Because it closed not the doors of the womb wherein I was, and so hid trouble from mine eyes. ¹¹Wherefore, in the womb, did I not die? From the womb, come forth and cease to breathe? ¹²For what reason, were there prepared for me—knees? and why—breasts, that I might suck? ¹³Surely, at once, had I lain down, and been quiet, I had fallen asleep, then, had I been at rest: ¹⁴With kings, and counselors of the earth, who had built them pyramids: ¹⁵Or with rulers possessing, gold,—Who had filled their houses with silver: ¹⁶Or that, like an untimely birth hidden away, I had not come into being, like infants that never saw light: ¹⁷There, the lawless, cease from raging, and there the toil-worn are at rest: ¹⁸At once are prisoners at peace, they hear not the voice of a driver: ¹⁹Small and great, there, they are, and, the slave, is free from his master. ²⁰Wherefore give, to the wretched, light? Or, life, to the embittered in soul?—²¹Who long for death, and it is not, And have digged for it, beyond hid treasures: ²²Who rejoice unto exultation, Are glad, when they can find the grave: ²³To a man, whose way is concealed, And GOD hath straitly enclosed him? ²⁴For, in the face of my food, my sighing, cometh in, and, poured out like the water, are my groans: ²⁵For, a dread, I dreaded, and it hath come upon me, and, that from which I shrank, hath overtaken me. ²⁶I was not careless, nor was I secure, nor had I settled down,—when there came—consternation!

⁴Then responded Eliphaz the Temanite, and said:—²If one attempt a word unto thee, wilt thou be impatient? But, to restrain speech, who, can endure? ³Lo! thou hast admonished many, and, slack hands, hast thou been wont to uphold: ⁴Him that was stumbling, have thy words raised up, and, sinking knees, hast thou strengthened. ⁵But, now, it cometh upon thee, and thou despairest, It smiteth even thee, and thou art dismayed. ⁶Is not, thy reverence, thy confidence? And is not, thy hope, the very integrity of thy ways? ⁷Remember, I pray thee, who, being innocent, hath perished, or when, the upright, have been cut off. ⁸So far as I have seen, They who plow for iniquity and sow misery, reap the same: ⁹By the blast of GOD, they perish, And, by the breath of his nostrils, are they consumed: ¹⁰Notwithstanding the roaring of the lion, and the noise of the howling lion, yet, the teeth of the fierce lions, are broken: ¹¹The strong lion perishing for lack of prey, Even the whelps of the lioness, are scattered. ¹²But, unto me, something was brought by stealth,—and mine ear caught a whispering of the same: ¹³When there were thoughts, from visions of the night,—When deep sleep falleth upon men, ¹⁴Dread, came upon me, and trembling, The multitude of my bones, it put in dread: ¹⁵Then, a spirit, over my face, floated along, The hair of my flesh bristled-up: ¹⁶It stood still, but I could not distinguish its appearance, I looked, but there was no form before mine eyes,—A whispering voice, I heard:—¹⁷Shall, mortal man, be more just than GOD? Or a man be more pure than, his Maker? ¹⁸Lo! in his own servants, he trusteth not, and, his own messengers, he chargeth with error: ¹⁹How much more the dwellers in houses of clay, which, in the dust, have their foundation, which are crushed sooner than a moth: ²⁰Betwixt morning and evening, are they broken in pieces, With none to save, they utterly perish: ²¹Is not their tent-rope within them, torn away? They die, disrobed of wisdom!

would seek unto El, and, unto Elohim, would I set forth any cause:—⁹Who doeth great things, beyond all search,—Wondrous things, till they cannot be recounted; ¹⁰Who giveth rain, upon the face of the earth, and sendeth forth waters, over the face of the open fields; ¹¹Setting the lowly on high, and, mourners, are uplifted to safety; ¹²Who doth frustrate the schemes of the crafty, that their hands cannot achieve abiding success; ¹³Who captureth the wise in their own craftiness, yea the headlong counsel of the crooked: ¹⁴By day, they encounter darkness, and, as though it were night, they grope at high noon. ¹⁵But he saveth from the sword, out of their mouth, and, out of the hand of the strong, the needy. ¹⁶Thus to the poor hath come hope, and, perversity, hath shut her mouth. ¹⁷Lo! how happy is the man whom God correcteth! Therefore, the chastening of the Almighty, do not thou refuse; ¹⁸For, he, woundeth that he may bind up, He smiteth through, that, his own hands, may heal. ¹⁹In six troubles, he will rescue thee, and, in seven, there shall smite thee no misfortune: ²⁰In famine, he will ransom thee from death, and in battle from the power of the sword; ²¹During the scourge of the tongue, shalt thou be hid, neither shalt thou be afraid of destruction when it cometh; ²²At destruction and at hunger, shalt thou laugh, and, of the wild beast of the earth, be not thou afraid; ²³For, with the stones of the field, shall be thy covenant, and, the wild beast of the field, hath been made thy friend; ²⁴And thou shalt know that, at peace, is thy tent, and shalt visit thy fold, and miss nothing; ²⁵And thou shalt know, that numerous is thy seed, and, thine offspring, like the young shoots of the field. ²⁶Thou shalt come, yet robust, to the grave, as a stack of sheaves mounteth up in its season. ²⁷Lo! as for this, we have searched it out—so, it is, Hear it, and know, thou, for thyself.

⁶Then responded Job, and said:—²Oh that, weighed, were my vexation, and, my engulfing ruin—into the balances, they would lift up all at once! ³For, now, beyond the sand of the seas, would it be heavy, On this account, my words, have wandered. ⁴For, the arrows of the Almighty, are in me, The heat whereof, my spirit is drinking up, The terrors of GOD, array themselves against me. ⁵Doth the wild ass bray over grass? Or loweth the ox over his fodder? ⁶Can that which hath no savour be eaten without salt? Or is there any taste in the white of an egg? ⁷My soul hath refused to touch, Those things, are like disease in my food. ⁸Oh that my request would come! and, my hope, oh that GOD would grant! ⁹That it would please GOD to crush me, That he would set free his hand, and cut me off! ¹⁰So might it still be my comfort, And I might exult in the anguish he would not spare,—That I had not concealed the sayings of the Holy One. ¹¹What is my strength, that I should hope? Or what mine end, that I should prolong my desire? ¹²Is my strength, the strength of stones? Or is, my flesh, of bronze? ¹³Is there any help at all in me? Is not, abiding success, driven from me? ¹⁴The despairing, from his friend, should have lovingkindness, or, the reverence of the Almighty, he may forsake. ¹⁵Mine own brethren, have proved treacherous like a torrent, like a channel of torrents which disappear: ¹⁶Which darken by reason of the cold, over them, is a covering made by the snow: ¹⁷By the time they begin to thaw, they are dried up, as soon as it is warm, they have vanished out of their place. ¹⁸Caravans turn aside by their course, they go up into a waste, and are lost: ¹⁹The caravans of Tema looked about, the travelling companies of Sheba, hoped for them: ²⁰They are ashamed that they had trusted, They have come up to one of them, and are confounded. ²¹For, now, ye have come to him, ye see something fearful, and fear. ²²Is it that I said, Make me a gift, or, out of your abundance, offer a bribe on my behalf; ²³And deliver me from the hand of the adversary? And, out of the hand of tyrants, ransom me? ²⁴Show me, and, I, will hold my peace, And, wherein I have erred, cause me to understand. ²⁵How pleasant are the sayings that are right! But what can a decision from you, decide? ²⁶To decide words, do ye intend, When, to the wind, are spoken the sayings of one in despair? ²⁷Surely, the fatherless, ye would assail, and make merchandise of your friend! ²⁸But, now, be pleased to turn to me, that it may be, to your faces, if I speak falsehood, ²⁹Reply, I pray you, let there be no perversity, Yea reply even yet, my vindication is in it! ³⁰Is there, in my tongue, perversity? Or can, my sense, not discern, engulfing ruin?
